The Law Coming to Town

Saturday, October 23

Gangway--the law is here! Funds to pep squad. Stop! Look! Listen! "The law is here."

If you have any loose brakes on your car, or if you desire to loaf, you had better stay at home. Saturday, from the civics class of the high school, through the consent of the city council, will have charge of all city affairs and all rules and regulations will be strictly enforced. You may be their friend, but you will be no exceptions when it comes to enforcement of law. There will be city court from 12 o'clock noon until late Saturday night, and all visitors are welcome but you had better be careful, for when Judge Edward Hickman, Jr. calls court to order, he means "order" and not laughter. The cases will be tried before a jury consisting of nine women and three men, and when prosecuting attorney, Bobby Lee Davis, says you did something, just figure the jury will take it to heart, and in case you can't secure a lawyer, Gene Roberts has opened an office in the south corner of the court room and will be glad to plead your case for a small sum. Better watch your driving for when you hear city marshal, Dick Gramling, or either of assistants, James Smith or Leslie Lofton's whistle blow, you'd better stop! There will positively be:

1. No center parking.
2. No loafing.
3. No disturbing of peace.
4. No double parking.
5. Not over 1 hour parking.
6. No drunken driving.
7. No cutting of corners.
8. No driving in an ill-equipped car.
9. No talking in court room, and all other laws and rules not mentioned will be strictly enforced. Helen Newton will act as clerk of the court, and Joyce Green city secretary. BEWARE!

Fire Boys to Sponsor Show

The local volunteer Fire Department will bring "Texas Kidd's Frontier Days Shows" here for a six-day run, beginning next Monday, Oct. 25.

This show carries 60 people and a number of trained horses, steers, and a mule. Broncho busting, riding exhibitions and other attractions will be offered. $100 is offered to anyone who rides the bucking horse; $25 will be given the one riding the steer, while $1 will be given for each minute any rider stays on the mule's back.

There will be lots of fun and thrills, as well as opportunity for local riders to demonstrate their skill.

The show also carries six rides and other meritorious attractions.

Roosevelt and UCRA

Upper Colorado River Authority, working towards building a dam in Coke County for flood control and irrigation as well as soil conservation, may take hope from President Roosevelt's message to the National Reclamation Association convention. He said among other things "a well planned and expertly engineered federal irrigation project is a good government investment."

The projects are a source of new wealth for the communities and states affected by them as well as the nation at large, the message related.

Because the government is now engaged in the west in the greatest program of conservation works, because it is interested in transferring some farmers from worn out acreage and retiring it because it is skittish of drouths, because it is interested in the conservation and making useful of waters that may be lost to the lands, because it would protect from additional onslaughts of nature, the UCRA has a manifold opportunity of getting federal approval one way or other for this project. Next year is important in the life of URCA in that the launching of a project is essential to maintaining its existence.

The proposed Coke County project has a chance to bolster the economic structure of West Texas in providing here a feeding center that will take care of much of the livestock that is now sent elsewhere for fattening. The President is committed to this type of program and his friendliness seems to open the door to a real accomplishment for West Texas.--San Angelo Standard Times

Wild Cat P-T. A.

The Wild Cat P-T. A. met at the school Friday night for their first program. Mrs. Tom Schooler discussed the P-T. A. from a business angle, and Miss Lightfoot talked on the Purpose of P-T. A. Miss Seba Wolfe gave a musical number.

Refreshments of pie, cocoa, cake and coffee was served.

On next Tuesday morning examination of first grade pupils and those of pre-school age will be made and also typhoid and diphtheria serum given. A Schick test will also be made. Mothers are urged to accompany their children when examination is made, at the school building. Dr. J. K. Griffith, County Health Officer.

Bro. James Reynolds of A. C. C. will preach for Church of Christ Sunday morning and afternoon. Hear him!

Rev. and Mrs. Hoggard left Wednesday for San Antonio where they will attend the West Texas Methodist Conference.

Mrs. A. W. Puett accompanied her sister of Calif. for a visit with relatives in New Mexico.

Coke County Pioneer Dies In San Angelo

Death has again entered our midst to claim a pioneer, a man with a far vision and the courage and patience to gain that for which he sought. John McCabe, among the earliest cattlemen of this part of the West, passed away in a San Angelo hospital early Wednesday morning. The body was brought back to the ranch home Wednesday afternoon where it lay in state until time for burial Thursday afternoon.

Born in Texas in 1859, Mr. McCabe first came to what is now Coke county when he was a boy of nineteen. Herding a bunch of steers, he camped one night at the pecan mott on the old Jim Byrd ranch and later moved west with his herd to Dripping Springs where he made camp headquarters for about three years. In 1887 he and Mrs. McCabe, formerly Miss Sarah Kerigen, were married in Bosque county and soon after came with a bunch of cattle to the land that has been home to them for more than fifty-five years. From the little log house built near the springs in the canyon they moved about five years later to the site of the present ranch headquarters.

Mr. McCabe loved this country, he loved the hills and canyons and loved his land so much that he never sold an acre of it although he has given each of his children a home. He was known far and wide among cattlemen as a man whose door was always open and who never forgot the voice of an acquaintance. In his prime his ability to associate a voice with a name was remarkable but this ability was even exceeded by his big-hearted hospitality.

Mr. McCabe was preceded in death by his brother, Frank McCabe, whose death occurred in January 1936. He is survived by Mrs. McCabe, two sons, Frank and Fred; four daughters, Mrs. A. N. Counts, Mrs. W. M. Simpson, Mrs. A. B. Sheppard, and Mrs. Mark Chumley. There are also nineteen grandchildren and three greatchildren and a number of nephews and nieces. Two children of Mr. and Mrs. McCabe passed away in early childhood and also one grandchild, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Chumley.

Mr. McCabe was a member of the Baptist church at Divide and had membership with the W. O. W.

Funeral services, conducted by Rev. Fred De Lashaw, local Baptist pastor, were held at the home and burial was made in the family burial plot of the Divide cemetery at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. As the last token of respect for their grandfather, the following grandsons were active pallbearers: Victor McCabe, Wayne McCabe, W. K. Simpson, John Rodger Simpson, Carl Counts and J. Q. Counts.

Halloween Carnival

The Robert Lee P.T. A. will sponsor a Halloween Carnival on Oct. 30, most of the events to be held in the old Snead Drug Store building. The principal event will be the crowning of the Carnival Queen which will take place at 9:30 p. m. in the court room. A crown and coronation robe will be provided by the P.T. A. to be used by this and succeeding queens. The five upper grades in school will select candidates and the queen will be elected by penny votes. Boxes for the votes will be placed by the grades in public buildings.

Teachers have chosen the booths they will have in charge as follows: Supt. Taylor bingo; Hyman Teague, cake walk; Mrs. Wylie, fortune telling; Miss Barger, house of horrors; Miss Vowell, lemonade, peanuts and popcorn; Miss McLure, pinning on the donkey's tail; Mr. Brey, grab bag; Miss Griffith, fishing; Mr. Landers, penny pitching; Mr. Bowman, athletic show; Miss Downey, midget show; Mrs. Russell, baby show.

Other attractions will include horseshoe pitching, domino tournament, shooting gallery, country store and others yet to be decided.

The proceeds will be used to buy a curtain for the new auditorium-gymnasium.

To Serve Luncheon

The ladies of the Baptist church will serve a luncheon in the vacant W. K. Simpson building at noon Monday, Oct. 25, when Congressman Chas. E. South and other prominent men will be in Robert Lee for a meeting of farmers and business men. Men of the county will want to make this a big affair by helping get a good attendance. It isn't every day one has the opportunity to lunch with a congressman.

Membership of 14

With an initial membership of 14, the younger married people of the Baptist Sunday School organized a Junior Adult Class Sunday morning.

Mrs. Fred DeLashaw was chosen as teacher; Mrs. L. A. Scott, president; Mrs. Wylie Hillyer and Mrs. H. E. Smith, vice presidents and Mrs. Delbert Harmon, secretary treasurer.

Members of the class, divided into two groups with the vice-presidents as captains, will contest for new members.

include: John Gardner, G. S. Arnold, J. I. Murtishaw, J. S. Craddock, R. Campbell and W. H. Bell, all of Robert Lee; Roy Spires, Maryneal; Murph March, San Angelo; Ira G. Yates, Wetmore, and Joe McCutchen, Bronte.

Congressman South to Pay Robert Lee a Visit

Preparations are under way for the reception of Cong. Charles L. South, Cliff Day, of Plainview, vice-president of Texas Agricultural Association and W. W. Porter of Colorado City, director of District of Texas Agricultural Association, who will be the principal speakers in a meeting here Monday, Oct. 25, of farmers and business men throughout the county. The meeting will be in the Alamo Theatre.

Mr. South will be with a group of farmers and business men in a directors meeting in the First National Bank, Bronte, about 9:30 Monday morning and will be in Robert Lee a little later in the morning. He will speak in the morning in interest of the proposed agricultural bill to be presented at a call session of congress Nov. 15 and in the afternoon he will discuss the farm tenant problem.

A business men's luncheon and conference will be held in town at the noon hour with Mr. South, Mr. Day and Mr. Porter as honor guests.

High school classes from Robert Lee, Bronte and possibly other schools in the county will hear these men speak.

Baptist Pastor and Wife Express Appreciation

To all our good friends who are so kind in welcoming us to our new home and field of service, we are truly grateful. Your gifts and hospitality are appreciated beyond expression.

We pray that our service among you will be worthy of your loving favors, and of the blessings of our Lord.

We are yours in His service. Rev. and Mrs. Fred DeLashaw.

Tax Valuation of County

This year's tax valuation of Coke county property shows an increase over last year's record according to the tax rolls approved last week. The total tax valuation for this year is $3,508,340.00 and for 1936 the valuation was $2,441,150.00. The poll tax rolls took a surprising tumble this year but it is expected that a supplementary roll will be made when election interest begins to warm up.

The tax to be paid by property owners is apportioned as follows: State tax, $14,424.78; county tax, $30,170.55; district school tax, $15,479.90; road bond, $10,531.94 and poll tax $2,055.00.

The Oppressor

IF WE should look under the skirt of the prosperous and prevailing tyrant, we should find, even in the days of his joys, such alloys and abatements of his pleasure, as may serve to represent him miserable, even in the hour of his prosperity, and independent of his final infelicities; and although all tyrants may not have such accusing and fantastic consciences, yet all tyrants shall die and come to judgment; and though such a man may be feared, he is not at all to be envied.

"Envy thou not the oppressor, and choose none of his ways."—C. Buck.

Do something about Periodic Pains

Take Cardui for functional pains of menstruation. Thousands of women testify it has helped them. If Cardui doesn't relieve your monthly discomfort, consult a physician. Don't just go on suffering and put off treatment to prevent the trouble.

Besides easing certain pains, Cardui aids in building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from their food.

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine which you can buy at the drug store and take at home. Pronounced "Card-u-i."

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Through a Tropic Holocaust"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Well, sir, fellow adventurers, people have all kinds of troubles in this bothersome old world of ours. You have your troubles and I have mine. Maybe the old spinning ball would be just TOO nice a place to live on if we didn't have our share of adversity to make the sweet seem sweeter and the bright seem brighter still. Anyhow, I have a letter here from Alberta L. Hitchins of New York City, who has had her troubles—plenty of 'em—but who doesn't let them bother her very much. No, sir. Because every time she begins to think her troubles are too much for her, she looks back on that horrible day in Kingston, Jamaica, in January, 1907, and realizes that what looks like troubles to her now don't really deserve the name of trouble at all.

On that fateful day Mrs. Hitchins was sitting in the office of J. Eustace Burke & Brothers, the firm for which she worked. She wasn't Mrs. Hitchins then—just Alberta, the assistant cashier. With her in the office was her boss, her sister—one or two other women who worked there, too. Outside, it was a clear, tropical, sunshiny day. From overhead came the rumble of machinery in a bottling plant on the floor above.

When the Earthquake Struck.

At 3:30 in the afternoon, a distant, ominous, rumbling sound startled all Kingston. In the office where Alberta worked, however, nobody paid any attention to these sounds. The bottling plant on the floor above was always noisy. Rumbles were nothing new to the employees of Burke & Brothers. The first intimation that Alberta had that anything was wrong was when she happened to look up from her work and saw that the wall in front of her desk SEEMED TO BE BENDING OVER!

At the same time, she felt herself suddenly—inexplicably—slipping from her chair. She jumped to her feet. From overhead a shower of plaster fell, littering her desk. All at once, things seemed to be flying in all directions. Then, in a moment, all was quiet again.

In the office, there was a moment of tense silence. Then Alberta heard the voice of her boss saying: "My God! An earthquake! San Francisco all over again!" Alberta took a quick look around the office. There were five people in it. Miraculously, not one of them was injured. Alberta heaved a sigh of relief—too soon. At that moment the trembling started all over again.

From outside came the sound of a piercing shriek. A woman in the next building! Alberta started toward the door—felt someone grab her by the arm. It was her sister. "Don't go out there," her sister cried. A tottering wall fell with a crash. The woman's voice was stilled.

Terrible Scenes in the Streets.

The boss started to gather up the company's books and put them in the safe. The girls turned to and helped. When that was finished, Alberta and her sister made their way out to the street and started to head for home, down by the waterfront.

The town was a shambles. Buildings were down everywhere. Walls were down—streets a mass of wreckage—debris strewn everywhere. Men, women, children—even animals—were stretched out on the pavement, dead or frightfully injured. Everywhere, cries for help. People pinned under falling buildings—half buried in the wreckage—shouted pathetic appeals for aid that almost drove Alberta and her sister mad with pity.

And to add to the horror, fire broke out—everywhere—and many who could otherwise have been saved had to be abandoned by the rescuers to a living death in the flames.

It was the most harrowing sight two girls had ever seen. They struggled home to find their mother and younger sister alive, but frightfully injured. They had just been dug out from under the wreckage of what had been their home.

Earthquake shocks were still coming at intervals. Alberta and her sister cast about for medical aid for their mother and the little girl. The hospital was miles away—and in ruins. The only safe place left was the sea. They took them aboard a vessel anchored in the harbor and put them in care of the ship's doctor.

There were hundreds of other people on that boat—hundreds of refugees from the stricken city. All afternoon they straggled aboard. Doctors—volunteer nurses came from the town. They turned that boat into a hospital ship for the care of the injured.

Tragedies in a Night of Horrors.

Night came—a night that transformed the city into a red inferno rimmed by the cosmic blackness. Fire flamed up anew in a hundred different quarters. Buildings tottered. Walls crumbled. The shrieks of the victims continued all through the night. Dogs howled in the streets. Fanatics sang wildly. People went insane for no other reason than that which they had seen—and heard.

Terrible scenes were enacted in those grim hours. A father and son were trapped between two walls of a fallen building. Rescuers were striving to get to them. They were almost free, when flame shot through the building, driving the rescuers back. The trapped man's business partner had just time to pass his hand through a hole in the wall—give his friend a last handshake before the flames were upon him and he had to dash back, the cries of his associate and the boy still ringing in his ears.

In the heartrending scenes that went on through that terrible night, Alberta almost lost her mind. Long before it was over, she was a woman moving in a daze. Somehow she lived through it—somehow kept her sanity. And now—

Now Alberta is married. As the mother of three children she has responsibilities—sometimes troubles. But when she has troubles, she looks back at that awful January day in Kingston and wonders what the people who died and died in that holocaust would think of her feeble little woes.

STAR DUST

Movie • Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE

SOMETIMES a bad break in Hollywood leads to a good one, which is just another way of saying that motion-picture producers are slow to make up their minds. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is going to star Willie Howard, the veteran comic of the stage, in a big musical extravaganza, because he was so funny in a skit in "Broadway Melody of 1938."

You never saw the skit, no matter how carefully you watched the picture, because it was cut out. When they first saw it, the officials of the studio didn't think it was so funny, and having to take something out to shorten the picture, they sacrificed what Howard was sure was the most hilarious skit of his career. Taking another look at the discarded film, officials have decided that it was very funny.

With the season of big motion pictures only a few weeks old, four of the thirty or so pictures released have made outstanding hits. These are "Prisoner of Zenda" with Ronald Colman and Madeline Carroll, "100 Men and a Girl" with Deanna Durbin, "Thin Ice" with Sonja Henie, and Grand National's "Something to Sing About" with James Cagney. This last is a grand bit of nonsense in which the pugnacious Jimmy sings, dances, and fights his way through a delightful story, aided and abetted by Mona Barrie.

Deanna Durbin

Paramount goes right on announcing one picture after another for Frances Farmer, but Miss Farmer says that she is coming to New York to do a stage play called "The Manly Art" written by Luise Rainer's husband.

Out at the Universal studios where Henry McRae turns out thrilling serials faster than you can say "To be continued next week," they don't have much time to humor temperamental actors, but recently they had to give in and waste an hour or so while an actor had a tantrum. The actor was a lion. McRae thought he would save the lion from the exhausting period of posing while hot lights were adjusted, and brought in a stuffed lion as double. Jealous of this interloper, the lion broke loose from his cage, rushed on the set and tore the stuffed animal to bits.

Theater owners all over the country are begging Republic and Grand National officials to speed up production on Westerns starring Gene Autry and Tex Ritter, so that the warbling cowboys will have time to make personal appearance tours. The ever-growing popularity of these two lads is the sensation of the bookkeeping departments.

Ever since Claudette Colbert broke out in "She Met Him in Paris," as an accomplished figure-skater, all the other girls have wanted to show off their proficiency at winter sports. Ruby Keeler, recuperating from her recent illness, is planning for her first starring picture at R. K. O. The story is called "Love-Below Freezing" and the big surprise is that skating is the main feature of the picture.

Claudette Colbert

ODDS AND ENDS—Marlene Dietrich's eyebrows that used to extend way out like streamers return to normal in her new picture "Angel" and will probably start a new fashion . . . Jean Parker made herself a hat, copied from one Gary Cooper wore in "The Plainsman" and now she is very busy helping friends make copies of it . . . Ronald Sinclair has proven entirely satisfactory in roles intended for Freddie Bartholomew, so it is doubtful that Freddie will get anywhere with his strike for more money . . . Simone Simon is going to sing a difficult coloratura aria in her next picture. The studio just found out that she used to make records in France . . . Bing Crosby wants his friend, Babe Ruth, to appear in his new picture, now that the team of Laurel and Hardy have split.

READY TO BRING YOU RELIEF IN MINUTES

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water. By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating. This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

YOU can pay as high as you want for remedies claimed to relieve the pain of Headache, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, etc. But the medicine so many doctors generally approve—the one used by thousands of families daily—is Bayer Aspirin—15¢ a dozen tablets—about 1¢ apiece.

Simply take 2 Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions.

Usually this will ease such pain in a remarkably short time.

For quick relief from such pain which exhausts you and keeps you awake at night—ask for genuine Bayer Aspirin.

Be Chic This Fall in Handsome Lace

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

LACE, lace, lace! Write it down on your shopping memoranda as many times as you wish and then add a postscript in favor of lace, for lace reaches a new high this season in the matter of importance. Yes, indeed, if you are seeking style distinction, the sooner you turn laceward the better.

What the style creators of our day and generation are doing with lace in the way of daring and ingenious handling leaves nothing to the imagination. For instance, there are the stunning lace trimmed black sheer wool dresses that bear the Paris stamp and carry that "something different" look which we all covet. Perhaps it is the sleeves banded with insertions of fine black Chantilly that bespeak a new lace story, or it may be that befrilled edgings of Val edging (black or white) impart a charming and youthful air to a simple black wool frock for practical daytime wear. The way Val lace is used for neckline finishings and for outlining decorative little pockets likewise for trimming the new blouses is most enchanting.

Another adaptation of lace is in insets and appliques of individual motifs. These are positioned anywhere on the dress much after the manner that gay print motifs were used on monotone fabric during the past summer. While these insets, which are apt to be bowknot or bouquet cutouts, adorn evening gowns for the most part yet some designers are working discreetly and most attractively into daytime wools and other fabrics. This furor over lace has also resulted in the revival of the dress with a deep lace yoke and sleeves. Leading couturiers are showing some lovely models of this type.

The biggest thrill, however, comes in the acceptance of lace used in a fabric way. The idea, to be sure, is not new for its practicality has been demonstrated without question during the last several seasons. Nor has the advent of fall and prospect of winter retarded the movement to use lace as one would any material for the making of practical day dresses and the blouse to wear with your smart autumn wool suit. On the contrary we have come to realize and appreciate that a handsome lace dress tailored to utmost simplicity is not only good looking and practical but being lace it flatters and "does something" for you as none other but lace can do.

You'll love a dress like the one shown to the right in the illustration to wear this fall and winter under your furred cloth or all-fur coat. Just try out the idea and see how practically and logically this theory of lace for the daytime frock works out. This tailored frock of black lace over a black slip fits ideally into the mood for simple elegance that dominates the new fashions. It is an almost classic style accenting the slenderizing lines that are a fashion "must" this season. The zipper fastening from neckline to hemline is the piece de resistance, giving the gold touch that glorifies black this season throughout the mode. Speaking of this fastening, most everything, dress, coat, blouse, bag and girdle, is decoratively, at the same time practically and conveniently zippered this season.

If in doubt as to the new blouse to wear with your autumn suit, let lace, either handsome wool lace or the now-so-modish macrame or some equally as sturdy type, solve your problem. In a noted Paris collection showing new clothes for fall, Martial et Armand presented the black crepe suit with silver fox which we are showing to the left in the picture. The most outstanding thing about the ensemble is the combination of lace with crepe. Lace is also being combined with many other fabrics in the fall showings of eminent French designers. In this case the blouse is of china-blue lace with interesting neck treatment. A black belt accents the color contrast.

HER STARLET BAG
By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The movies have a great deal to do with the modern trend in child thought, and when a child sees her favorite star carrying a smart little handbag, as little girls in filmland are wont to do, she wants one too. To satisfy this longing a well-known designer is creating miniature replicas of "grown-up" handbags for aspiring starlets. You can see by the picture that the little bag carries with it just such movie glamor as delights the heart of any and every little girl.

Wool Is Going Places

LADY, lady, lady have you anything in wool? Smart women everywhere are clamoring for wool. They're wearing it to work in, to play in, to date in, to go to church in. Yes, wool is going places! Sew-Your-Own is here with three ultra-smooth new models for you to choose from.

Needs Slim Lines.

That "something in wool" might well and easily be the handsome model at the left above. Especially does a weightier fabric need slim lines and here you have them pared down to hairline precision. The zipper from throat to hemline gives this frock additional chic, and the far-reaching collar takes care of that all-important need for contrast. French wine, black, duck green, and gendarme blue are the popular colors.

Compliment to Youth.

Youth and the blouse 'n' skirt have always gone sporting together. That's a compliment to youth and real flattery for the twopiece above, center. This engaging combination has a waist-coatish topper and a simply cut, flaring skirt. A singular asset is its size range: 14 to 42. And because it is figure flattering every size is benefited. Acetate crepe is lovely for the blouse; velvet or thin wool is smart for the skirt.

For a Busy Body.

If you're a busy body or a lady of legion labors, you'll thank Sew-Your-Own for the charming new frock at the right. Now is the time to cut two versions: one in gingham for housework, another as your "something in wool" in the long sleeve style for all occasions.

The Patterns.

Pattern 1375 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 40 bust). Size 14 requires 2 1/2 yards of 54-inch material. With short sleeves, 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material. Collar and cuffs in contrast take five-eighths of a yard.

Pattern 1302 is designed for sizes 14 to 20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 requires 4 3/4 yards of 39-inch material.

Pattern 1382 is designed for sizes

Hail, differing from sleet, is not an exclusive by-product of winter. It results when an upward gust of wind carries raindrops high enough to freeze. They fall, pick up more water, are again lifted, frozen. A little more of that and the stones are heavy enough to fall straight to earth.

BAPTIST TO BE TRIED FOR NON-SUPPORT

The Observer carried the following in the issue of September 24:
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
 The trying of church members long out of date, will be revived in wholesale manner Sunday. "Judge" S. E. Adams will hear the evidence in the courtroom Sunday morning when the Robert Lee Baptist Church is tried for alleged non-support of the 1938 budget. A. F. Landers is prosecuting attorney and Roy Brey is attorney for the defense. Paul Good has summoned a jury and witnesses have been notified to appear. A roll call of the church membership will precede the trial (program). You are hereby notified to be in the courtroom Sunday morning to answer when your name is called. --Robert Lee Observer.

Following is from the Sterling City News-Record of October 8.
 Well, what do you know about that? A church being tried for non-support! Being brought up under the drippings of the eaves at the Baptist Church, I know from observations and experience what some poor Baptist preachers have to go through. He spends a lot of time and money to fit himself for preaching, then when he gets a "call" he naturally expects the church to support him while in its service, and it fails, it puts him in a hole. A bad hole.

But there are too many who believe in religion—provided it does not cost them anything. They get the idea that salvation is free. They love their church as long as the other fellow kicks in the cash to support it. When they are called on to help support their church, the amount they give according to their ability is a fair measure of the religion they possess. They forget that even the widow gave her "mite" to the cause of the Master. That was all the money she had and she gave it.

Those Robert Lee Baptist are good folks, but from the citation to trial for non-support of their 1938 budget, I conclude they need a talking to. Maybe I am mistaken in the true facts. Maybe the Robert Lee Baptist are paying their preacher just like the Methodist and Presbyterians do. If they are not, I have in mind some Baptist who need to get themselves told a few things.

If one's religion never gets below his waist line and reaches his purse and loosens its strings, I conclude that he is just a plain Baptist minus the quality that makes one a Christian. He ought not to join the church unless he can live up to its tenets. Helping to support his church is one of its tenets. If I were a member of a church and couldn't contribute to its support according to my ability, I would quit. One can not go wrong when he helps to support his church. -- Uncle Bill.

And I am sure the Robert Lee Baptist wont mind if Uncle Bill wants to come over and give them a "talking to". He is just as worthy as any "church member", and I conclude that there are too many "church members" and too few CHRISTIANS. Anyone can be a "church member" but it takes sacrifice and clean living to be a Christian.

Now, Uncle Bill! You are right that you may be wrong. The older generation needs correcting the same as the younger does.

You don't get the idea at all. You shouldn't scold the Baptist alone, it may make the other denominations think hard of them, when they also need some "talking to". You see, Uncle Bill, most Churches are full of prejudice.

This idea of trying the members for non-support did not mean the Baptist were NOT supporting the church or paying the preacher. They pay their pastors well. I happen to know they are not in debt to anyone or their pastor. I invite you to write to the Robert Lee Baptist pastor for this information. He hasn't been here long but he can tell you plenty.

You see Uncle Bill, the Baptist church building has been torn down for building a new church and the members assemble in the courtroom while the new building is being erected. Last year it might have taken, say $900, to balance their budget, paying the preacher, donating to home and foreign missions, and donating to the home of aged ministers, orphans home, literature, lights, etc. And since they a building and new building anyone can see that the budget must be raised higher, say to $1300, in order to balance same.

Maybe you're not a Baptist, Uncle Bill, or are you a follower of Christ, who gave you the things you call yours? Your money is His and you are suppose to give "the widows mite". And even it you can't give some or any at all, a Christian wouldn't quit.

Instead of having someone make a talk this was a program, and a very interesting program, given after the Sunday service was over, so put this matter before the members. Maybe the churches of Sterling City doesn't need a "talking to".

Roger Babson gives this report of how $1.00 is spent by the American people:

- 48 per cent is spent for pleasure,
- 25 per cent is spent for living expenses,
- 11 per cent for investments,
- 9 per cent on crime (16 billion dollars last year alone)
- only 5 per cent to the government (and we yell taxes)
- a little more than 1 per cent for education, and
- a little less than 1 percent for religion and carrying on God's work.

Uncle Bill, its a shame. Education and religion comes last in this land of the free, and you lay it on the Robert Lee Baptists. We'd all better do some thinking and talking, but for the better, not criticism. Some say Baptist don't believe in so and so, I even heard Baptist and maybe Methodist, did not believe it was essential to "Remember the Sabbath Day and keep it Holy", but last week I read in "What Baptist Believe" that it IS essential, because Christ commanded that we should assemble ourselves together on the first day of the week. They meant no harm of course, the same as you did, Uncle Bill, they just didn't know. It would do a lot of folks good to read the 3rd Chapter of James, (note the 8th verse), and Ephesians 4:29.

Did you know Uncle Bill, one can be a Baptist or Methodist as well as any other denomination, and not be made to contribute or have to promise when he joins, to contribute so much to its support? Its natural for a Christian to want to give. Give is mentioned 1,479 times in our Bible.

The Wrong Spirit

There probably isn't a town in America wholly free of that type of citizen, who when asked to cooperate in some sort of public movement first asks himself what some other fellow down the street is going to get out of it. He may not ask the question openly, but always there is a suspicion in his mind that promoting any movement for the good of the community is first going to work to the financial gain of someone else. And if he refuses to put his shoulder to the wheel, nine times out of ten it is because he has the idea that someone is going to profit more from such movement than he will.

That sort of spirit has done more than any other one thing to handicap a town in its efforts to advance. Call it pure selfishness, or envy of someone else in the community, or what you will, the fact remains that one or more citizens of this type are to be found in every town. And we are not positive that Robert Lee is an exception to the rule. It is easy to look back and point out campaigns for improvements that were badly needed that failed because of this type of citizen.

When a man realizes that any progressive movement for the good of the community as a whole benefits him also as an individual, that is the sort of a citizen to have around. When he waives aside the fact that maybe such a movement will bring a dollar or two more to a neighbor, but goes right on boosting and cooperating, he makes himself worth something to his town and is eventually rewarded in return, although that reward may come to him in an indirect way. No man ever lost anything trying to make his home town a better place in which to live, and no man ever gained anything by refusing to cooperate in a civic movement for fear the other would "get something out of it."

State Health Department

State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox urges all parents of children between the ages of six months and ten years who have not been immunized against diphtheria, to take them to their family physician and have this done at once. The first ten months of 1937 1,632 cases of diphtheria reported to the Texas State Department of Health. This is an increase over 1936's figures, and shows the need of immunization of children in this age group. It was not many years ago that parents dreaded diphtheria because of inability of the medical profession to either prevent or cure the disease. But today when we know both the cause and the cure there is no obstacle but negligence which will prevent the complete elimination of the disease in Texas.

Diphtheria is most dangerous to the very young children, and it is especially important that immunization against it be given early in a child's life. In young children there is practically no reaction to the injection. Immunization has been proven to give absolute protection.

"It is in the power of the parents of Texas, cooperating with their physician and the Health Department, to eliminate the disease," Dr. Cox stated. "In about six months after immunization the child should be given a Schick test to determine whether further treatment is necessary. Early immunization against diphtheria is a routine procedure with up-to-date physicians. Cooperate with your family physician and your community and make early immunization a regular practice in Texas."

The Wrong Spirit

There probably isn't a town in America wholly free of that type of citizen, who when asked to cooperate in some sort of public movement, first asks himself what some other fellow down the street is going to get out of it. He may not ask the question openly, but always there is a suspicion in his mind that promoting any movement for the good of the community is first going to work to the financial gain of someone else. And if he refuses to put his shoulder to the wheel, nine times out of ten it is because he has the idea that someone is going to profit more from such movement than he will.

That sort of spirit has done more than any other one thing to handicap a town in its efforts to advance. Call it pure selfishness, or envy of someone else in the community, or what you will, the fact remains that one or more citizens of this type are to be found in every town. And we are not positive that Robert Lee is an exception to the rule. It is easy to look back and point out campaigns for improvements that were badly needed that failed because of this type of citizen.

When a man realizes that any progressive movement for the good of the community as a whole benefits him also as an individual, that is the sort of a citizen to have around. When he waives aside the fact that maybe such a movement will bring a dollar or two more to a neighbor, but goes right on boosting and cooperating, he makes himself worth something to his town and is eventually rewarded in return, although that reward may come to him in an indirect way. No man ever lost anything trying to make his home town a better place in which to live, and no man ever gained anything by refusing to cooperate in a civic movement for fear the other would "get something out of it."

State Health Department

State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox urges all parents of children between the ages of six months and ten years who have not been immunized against diphtheria, to take them to their family physician and have this done at once.

The first ten months of 1937 1,632 cases of diphtheria reported to the Texas State Department of Health. This is an increase over 1936's figures, and shows the need of immunization of children in this age group.

It was not many years ago that parents dreaded diphtheria because of inability of the medical profession to either prevent or cure the disease. But today when we know both the cause and the cure there is no obstacle but negligence which will prevent the complete elimination of the disease in Texas.

Diphtheria is most dangerous to the very young children, and it is especially important that immunization against it be given early in a child's life. In young children there is practically no reaction to the injection. Immunization has been proven to give absolute protection.

"It is in the power of the parents of Texas, cooperating with their physician and the Health Department, to eliminate the disease," Dr. Cox stated. "In about six months after immunization the child should be given a Schick test to determine whether further treatment is necessary. Early immunization against diphtheria is a routine procedure with up-to-date physicians. Cooperate with your family physician and your community and make early immunization a regular practice in Texas."

History in the MAKING

That is what is covered in our Weekly News Review feature each week. It is an interpretation of the events of each week that are making the history of the nation and the world.

It is prepared by Edward W. Pickard, one of the highly trained newspaper observers of the nation, and syndicated to a limited number of newspapers in the different states.

It is the best feature of this character that goes to American readers from any source. You can make it the foundation of your discussion of world events with friends.

Steers Win for First Time;

Steers 14 - Indians 12

words of the heavy Lakeview Indians were not sharp enough to cut the hide of the light Steers in a conference football game last Friday.

The Steers journeyed down to the Suburban school of San Angelo and won their first game of the season. The Steers roundly out played the Indians in every manner, and had there been a few more minutes to play, the score would have run higher. The final score was Robert Lee 14 and Lakeview 12. Let's go Steers!

Senior News

The seniors have not as yet nominated a candidate for the queen at the Halloween carnival. We want a salesman!

The seniors are very, very anxious to get their rings, but since no salesman will come around, I guess we will wait a while.

Junior News

Gail McCutchen - Temporary Reporter

The Juniors have all lost their fingernails this week. Nerves? No, just six weeks tests. Mr. Brey certainly likes to keep us in a tension for he wouldn't tell us when he was going to give our exam and we came to class expecting, everyday, our sad fate.

We had a class meeting Tuesday and discussed the price we want to pay for our wristlets and elect our reporter.

Pep Squad News

The pep squad strutted their stuff last Friday with their new uniforms. They accompanied the boys to Lakeview, and did they yell? Why people over in Robert Lee heard them yell "yes Steers". So if a few more people will turn out to see these boys play, maybe they will win again.

Sophomore News

Well, well, we did win a game at last. There are several sophomore players on the team, and they do play good, but all of the honors go to the seniors it seems. But the good old sophs more stay right in there.

Freshmen News

The freshmen class of the Robert Lee High School have elected the following officers. President, Christine Newton; Vice Pres. Louise Stewart; Secretary and Treas. Doris Sneed; Reporter Geraldine Davis. Sponsors are not elected.

HOW TO CHECK JAPAN?

United States Doesn't Wish to Take the Lead . . .
No Peace in Labor Ranks

Hull, Davis and Welles Going to Confer With President.

May Meet in Brussels

HOW far President Roosevelt is willing to go in the effort to stop Japan in China is what other powers, especially Great Britain, are eager to know. The people of the United States also would like to be informed in that matter. The British statesmen wish America to take the lead, and also they would like the suggested conference of the nine-power treaty signatories to be held in Washington. This latter suggestion is definitely opposed in our capital, and so it was believed Brussels might be selected as the meeting place. Cities in Switzerland also were considered.

Mr. Roosevelt, who conferred with Secretary of State Hull, Undersecretary Sumner Welles and Norman Davis, his roving ambassador, was represented as being strongly averse to taking a solitary lead in the action to check the Japanese. Apparently he preferred that the "quarantining" of nations guilty of "international lawlessness" which he proposed in his Chicago speech should be limited to a united international moral stand.

The National Council for Prevention of War, representing a part of the extreme peace sentiment in the United States, announced that its annual meeting had declared for immediate invocation of the neutrality law which the President has not seen fit to put in operation. The council was strongly against a boycott on Japanese goods, believing this would only aggravate the situation.

Japan Denies Violations

IN A formal reply to the charges of treaty violation the Tokyo foreign office flatly denied responsibility for the Sino-Japanese conflict and asserted that China, not Japan, had violated the treaties. The anti-Japanese attitude and the mobilizing of Chinese troops, said the statement, forced Japan to take military action, entirely in self-defense. Japan disclaimed any desire to annex parts of Chinese territory, and declared the accusing nations misunderstand the situation.

Italy Supports Japanese

THERE was considerable doubt whether Italy would take part in the Pacific treaty conference, but it was assumed that if it did, it would defend the course pursued by Japan in China and would do what it could to frustrate the designs of the other conferees.

This was assured by the message conveyed to the Tokyo government by Giacinto Auriti, Italian ambassador to Japan. According to a Japanese news agency, Auriti promised Kenseke Horinouchi, Japanese vice foreign minister, that "Italy will never spare general support to Japan."

Japs Win Big Battle
DISPATCHES from Shanghai said the Japanese forces in north China had won a big victory in Hopei province, breaking through the Chinese lines at Shichichuang on a vital railway after three days of fierce fighting. However, the Chinese claimed to have strengthened their positions in that region and it was reported the communist eighth route army was heavily attacking the rear and flank of the Japanese columns in Shansi province.

Neutral observers thought the Japanese conquest of North China would soon be complete.

In Tokyo Prince Konohe, the premier, formed a supreme war council of national leaders.

No Peace for Labor

WAR between the rival factions in American organized labor is not going to cease in the near future. The C. I. O. leaders gathered in Atlantic City for their first "war council," and John L. Lewis, their chief, revealed plans for setting up a permanent dual organization.

He condemned the suspension of the C. I. O. unions from the American Federation of Labor as "cowardly and contemptible" and said those unions considered themselves now out of the federation and awaited any further action by the federation with complete indifference.

In the federation convention at Denver it was taken for granted that the ten C. I. O. unions would be finally expelled, and President Green announced plans for the attack on the rival organization in several great fields. The first vigorous blow will be struck on the Pacific coast in a drive to organize workers in the cannery and agricultural field.

The second battle ground will be among the white collar workers generally, and an effort to offset the C. I. O. maritime groups on the Pacific coast was considered.

More TVA's Opposed

ONE of the bills which President Roosevelt wants congress to push through in the expected special session is the measure introduced by Senator Norris creating seven more TVA's to preserve and develop natural resources throughout the country. The bill was approved by a senate subcommittee, but publication of hearings held by the house committee on rivers and harbors shows that interested departments of the government oppose the plan.

In these published hearings the Department of Agriculture especially excoriated the authority idea, saying that "it would permit and seems even to propose duplication by the conservation authorities of a large part of the work of the Department of Agriculture."

Court Upholds Black

FOR the present, at any rate, Hugo L. Black's seat on the Supreme court bench is secure. The court refused to permit Albert Levitt, former federal judge in the Virgin Islands, and Patrick Henry Kelly of Boston to contest the legality of Black's appointment. The ruling was announced by Chief Justice Hughes, who said the two men did not have sufficient interest in the litigation.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted By WILLIAM BRUCKART NATIONAL PRESS BLDG WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—I doubt that there is any phase or function of government that is less understood by the people at large than questions or actions relating to foreign policy. It is easy to understand why this is so. American foreign policy, like the foreign policy of every other nation, is closely akin to patchwork. It cannot be otherwise because of the very nature of the matters to be dealt with officially. Foreign policy, indeed, is one thing to which President Roosevelt's oft-quoted statement about his decisions resembling those of a football quarterback can be most properly applied. It is a day-to-day treatment with new decisions as changes come in the international play.

This brings us to the President's Chicago speech and the announcement by the State department of American conclusions that Japan is the aggressor in China. Of course, all persons who have read anything about the Sino-Japanese war knew long ago that the Japs were conducting a raid on China. Officials of the government knew it also, but there is a difference and must be a difference in the methods employed by individuals as distinct from those employed by a nation which represents all of its individual citizens. Time had to elapse, therefore, before our government or any other could say definitely and publicly that Japan was seeking to acquire new territory by theft and seizure.

Many observers and many individuals have indicated their surprise at the President's speech which, by the way, was the most distinct pronouncement of any that he has ever made. There was likewise surprise when the secretary of state, Mr. Hull, gave the press his statement condemning Japanese aggression even though the statement should have been anticipated after Mr. Roosevelt's Chicago speech and after word had come from Geneva that the League of Nations appeared unanimous in the same conclusion.

The reason that I say there should have been no surprise concerning the final position which our government has taken traces back to the administration of President Hoover and Henry L. Stimson, then secretary of state. It was at that time that a fundamental change took place in our foreign policy but it was not a change that appeared to be sensational at the moment. In other words, the position which Mr. Hoover and Mr. Stimson took at that time was overlooked because there was no real crisis to attract attention to American policy.

What that change in policy did is plain now. It was the beginning of the end of the isolationist program which followed the bitter controversy over President Wilson's proposal that the United States affiliate with the League of Nations and adhere to all phases of the program embodied in the league covenant. The reaction against Mr. Wilson's plan was violent and carried us to the other extreme—so much so that for a number of years we were a lone wolf among nations in fact as well as in name.

The one thing that really represents an important change of policy that Mr. Roosevelt enunciated at Chicago is his view of neutrality. Without making any particular reference to the neutrality statute enacted last winter under the sponsorship of Senator Pittman of Nevada, Mr. Roosevelt announced without equivocation that the United States will do everything it can, short of military force, to curb the Japanese course in China. That is to say, and I believe it is accurate, we will not invoke the neutrality laws if such a course will do harm to the Chinese. Rather, the American policy for the time being at least involves working hand in hand with other nations that may be striving to maintain international order and morality in matters in which we are directly concerned.

I have been asked several times recently concerning the possibility that the United States may engage in actual war in the Far East. I think that eventualities is very far removed.

Possibilities always exist for a nation to get tangled up internationally under conditions such as obtain throughout the world today, yet I do not believe that the United States ever will do more in the Far East than exert moral pressure upon the Japs. It must not be overlooked, however, that the bulk of American sympathy is with the Chinese. One cannot tell how far that may lead us as a nation. Nor is it possible to forecast the weight of this sympathy in an economic way. I mean by that, no one can foretell what such a thing as a boycott of Japanese goods may mean eventually.

From all of this it must be plain that our national course in the next few months will have to be determined largely by the other fellow. Or, to state the proposition in another way, the lengths to which the United States will go in punitive action against Japan is likely to be determined, first, by the reaction of our own citizens to Japanese barbarism and, second, the moves by other dominant nations of the world.

Mr. Roosevelt was returning from an 8,000-mile trip when he delivered his Chicago speech. That trip was announced in advance as being for the purpose of an inspection—to see how the country was taking the New Deal. That, however, was not the whole truth. Mr. Roosevelt wanted to feel the public pulse politically on the Supreme court packing proposition and its related questions; he wanted to find out how the country felt concerning those Democrats who had opposed the court packing; he needed information about the demand for an extra session of congress to enact crop control legislation and, in addition, he wanted to see what the general feeling was about the Sino-Japanese war.

The trip was timed admirably. It took Mr. Roosevelt away from Washington and, further, away from the red-hot cauldron resulting from the fact that Associate Justice Hugo L. Black of Alabama was a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

The information that filters back from observers aboard the President's train presents something of a paradox. Almost unanimously, the observers found that Mr. Roosevelt was still immensely popular personally. Concerning his various programs, including crop control legislation, the observers report that they found conditions ranging from violent opposition to plain apathy or complete lack of interest.

It is a most confusing situation from a political standpoint. I have found few individuals able or willing to attempt an analysis of it. Generally speaking, lack of enthusiasm for a program sooner or later will kill off politically the individual who sponsors the program. But the political effect of his Chicago speech must not be minimized. Whether Mr. Roosevelt so intended or not, his speech demanding that Japan respect treaties and observe the rights of other nations and his pointed criticism of policies such as those employed by Mussolini, Hitler and Stalin, have the effect of rallying the people behind him.

Some persons who are opposed to the New Deal have been mean enough to say that Mr. Roosevelt took his trip West in order to get away from Washington until the incident involving Associate Justice Black had blown over. I do not know whether the exposure that Mr. Justice Black had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan alone prompted Mr. Roosevelt to leave. I repeat only what is being said.

Mr. Justice Black has now taken his seat as a member of the court. He told the country in a radio speech before assuming the robes of office that he had resigned from the Klan and that, as far as he was concerned, the incident was closed. He stooped somewhat, I think, when he tried to dodge the issue by charging that those who had exposed his Klan connections were trying to discredit Mr. Roosevelt. But, Mr. Black is now a member of the court and I do not see what anybody can do in the way of unseating him.

The reason for advertising again to the Black Klan affair is to make a prediction. That prediction is: as long as Mr. Black sits as a member of the Supreme court of the United States, he will receive repercussions of the case. I will wager now that regardless of what position Mr. Black takes in deciding any future litigation, there will be those who will point to him and remark that "he was once a member of the Ku Klux Klan."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By REV. HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. © Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for October 24
CHRISTIAN RENEWAL

LESSON TEXT—Titus 3:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men.—Titus 2:11.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Good Shepherd.
JUNIOR TOPIC—In His Likeness.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A New Life in Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Renewed Life Through Christ.

The pastoral epistles, of which Titus is one, were written by Paul to his young brethren in the faith who had been called to the ministry of the gospel to instruct them concerning three important matters—(1) Church order and organization, (2) sound doctrine and (3) holy living.

The third chapter of Titus, our lesson for today, deals with the life of believers in Christ in their relation to unbelievers. The great underlying reason why Christians should conduct themselves in meekness and humility toward others is that except for God's grace we who bear the name of Christ would be, and indeed were before our regeneration, just like the unbeliever.

We shall best study our lesson, therefore, by considering first of all v. 3 which indicates the lost condition of man by nature, then follow him through the miracle of redeeming grace, vv. 4 to 7, and finally see him as a living testimony in vv. 1, 2, and 8 to 11.

I. Lost—by Nature (v. 3).
It is not a pleasant picture that is painted in the graphic words of this verse, but, remember, it is God's picture of the unbeliever. He is said to be "foolish"—that is, irrational and senseless in his course of living. He is "disobedient" to the law of God. He is "deceived," literally "out of the way," misled by Satan. He thinks his pleasures and lusts are serving him, but alas, he is only a slave in bondage to and serving them. Such a life can only result in a man's becoming hateful to his fellowmen. They in turn are hateful to him, and so he hates them. Thus the whole world becomes a hateful place where men are "living in malice and envy."

How we thank God that we need not stop at this point. Man is by nature lost in sin—but he may be

II. Saved—by Grace (v. 4-7).
How sweet are these three words in the sinner's ears! Saved by grace, not works, and made heirs of eternal life.

1. "Not by works" (v. 5).
Some one has said that man is determined by one means or another to claim salvation by his good works. To do so may flatter the flesh, but it surely finds no support whatever in Scripture. We are to work for Christ because we are saved, and after we are saved, but no man can be saved by works.

2. "By his grace" (v. 7).
God shows his unspeakable kindness and love toward man—saving him by grace, through Jesus Christ. Grace has well been defined as "unmerited favor." We deserve but the just condemnation of our sin, and God in his mercy saves us, through faith in his Son.

3. "Made heirs" (v. 7).
Saved now? Yes, thank God! Satisfied? Yes, praise his name! But there is more yet to come. We who deserved only God's judgment are now made heirs of an eternal hope. 'Tis indeed no small thing to be a child of God.

Now—we are ready to approach in the right spirit the admonition to live out our salvation as a daily testimony to others.

III. Witnessing, by Holy Living (vv. 1, 2, 8-11).
The young preacher Titus is told to "put them in mind" to be

1. Subject to rulers (v. 1).
True patriotism (and we did not spell it "pay-triotism") stands very close to godly living. National leaders would do well to recognize that the decay of our national life will follow the decadence of spiritual life. A man who is right with God will be right with his fellowmen, and a noble and useful citizen.

2. Meek and kind to all men (v. 2).
Meekness is not weakness. Gentleness is the attribute of strong men and women.

3. Maintaining good, avoiding evil (vv. 8-11).
It is the tendency of man to divorce morals from religion, to profess a faith which does not touch his daily life. Let us affirm "constantly" and "confidently" (as the R. V. has it) that those who believe in God should "be careful to maintain good works"—yes, and at the same time to "avoid" that which is "foolish," contentious, "unprofitable and vain."

CHAPTER I

Joyce sat on a leather puff beside her small-paned window looking out and down at the turning maple leaves. She was nineteen—tomorrow she would be twenty. Nobody living knew it but herself—nobody. She had lied about her true birthday since she was eight and owing to a single overwhelming catastrophe it had been easy enough to confuse her father. Twelve years—twelve years in Elsinboro, six of them without him, terribly alone with her stepmother. Yes, you could be alone with somebody else—far lonelier than if you were by yourself. She was alive—tremendously alive inside. That was the trouble; it had to stay inside. She palpitated with dreams of what might be—the secret dreams of a young girl who longs to believe in life as something warm, something you can hold in your arms. But when she looked outside herself she stared at a wall.

Elsinboro has its counterpart in Olean or Elmira but not in Wilkes-Barre, Scranton or Pottsville. Forty thousand strong, it has known no overpowering foreign infiltration and presents a cross-section of the American scene, old style, from a miniature Tammany to an elite who read French, talk liberalism and discriminate between one dollar and another. There are plenty of dollars, gathered by adventurous sons from the four corners of the earth, but there were no fabulous fortunes until Bolivar Smith got an idea 15 years ago. Six roughnecks believed in it and became multi-millionaires almost overnight. They took over the section now known as Platinum Hill and built their incongruous chateaux in a huge circle.

But Joyce Sewell was not of them; in fact she had no part or parcel of Elsinboro, new or old. She was pure North Shore, descended from generations of the Sewells who christened more clipper ships than any merchant marine ever equipped the fleets of the world than any other tribe. Her presence in the town was an accident—one of those tragic accidents that leave their mark for the whole of life. The scene—so far away, so long ago—lived in her eyes, shut or open. She would listen too, her ears trembling lest they hear. But memory is silent, part of its terror lies in silence.

No crash of guns reached her now, only the remembered flash. No thud of bullets on stone, wood and flesh, no choking scream—only the indelible, the unforgettable scene. Her mother unspeakably murdered. A pause—the eternal pause that had lasted but a second. Her father snatching her up under one arm, a petaca under the other, to rush along interminable corridors, followed by shots and the derisive jeers of the marauders who believed he could not possibly escape. Stairs—wooden stairs, stone steps, the secret door and the garden, black beneath towering cypress and spreading ash. Hurry! Hurry! The postern, unlocked, then locked. The starlit open night, immersion in the icy lake, a dugout and finally refuge in a humble peon hut. No—not finally. Followed days in a pannier on the back of a mule, hours in a crowded train, a week on a refugee ship bound for New Orleans and on that ship Mrs. Irma Thorne, of Elsinboro, New York.

Irma Thorne, then three years a widow, believed it was her mission to do people good whether they liked it or not. She was not a refugee but a returning traveler with a well-filled pocketbook. She had soft tobacco-colored eyes, but there the softness ended; though the truth would have surprised and wounded her, her chin, her stocky body, her will and her conscience were as tough as rawhide. The mere sight of Cutler Sewell's lackluster eyes, gone dead in his head, staring at his little daughter but eternally seeing something else, was a supreme challenge to her peculiar aptitude for service and abnegation. She took charge. She gave Joyce her first bath in ten days and made her a frock out of her own best skirt. She rushed father and daughter to her home in Elsinboro. She was undoubtedly a good woman and by every rule in the copybook Joyce should have loved her. Gently admonished by her father she tried pitifully to do so and failed. It was no use. She was too young to think things out; all she knew was that a barrier of ice stood between her heart and her benefactress.

"Daddy, let's go away."
"We can't, Joyce; not just now. At present I haven't a cent."
"Please, papacito. I don't like her."

"You mustn't say that. She's a good woman—a very good woman."

"I know," quavered Joyce, bewildered by her own detestation but face to face with a fact. "Oh, please, papacito, please!"

He compromised, yielding to the endearing pet diminutive that had never yet failed her. On the excuse she ought to keep up her Spanish as a possible asset for the future he took her into his study for an hour every afternoon. That hour had been sacred, proof against any form of interruption from the day when a knock on the door had thrown Joyce into a paroxysm of screams followed by prolonged sobbing. Yet she was no cry-baby; that one convulsive protest was her last, but it had been enough. She and her father talked Spanish in peace, not always for the full hour. Sometimes, quite content to be at his side, she watched him write letters—long painstaking letters—always to one of two addresses.

"What's the Matter With Joyce?"

When the answers came he filed them away, ever more and more sadly, in the petaca. It was a funny little trunk covered with rawhide stretched on the frame while still wet. The hair was mostly worn off but there were still arabesques of brass-headed tacks to which he had added a card bearing the following signed inscription: "Upon my death this box and contents become the property of Joyce Sewell, my daughter and sole heir." With each addition to the dossier he weakened, became less the man of property and more the chastened sacrificial goat. The day came when Irma Thorne married what was left of him for appearances' sake and for his and for Joyce's—not for her own. Perhaps he knew the surrender would kill him, but at least his orphaned child would have a roof over her head. She was sixteen when he died.

Helm Blackadder was a rock of a man, forty-nine and virile, with bushy brows, steely eyes and crisp gray hair. He was a native son, a product of Elsinboro so interwoven in the town's pattern it had never occurred to him to consider any other place as a base. Yet in his capacity as an excellent engineer and a daring promoter he had burrowed in South Africa, combed Korea and lived in Chile with varying degrees of profit. In the intervals he had known Irma Bostwick, Irma Thorne and finally Irma Sewell. Part of him frankly admired part of her; she had a bulldog quality and so had he. Now she had sent for him and as he entered her very comfortable living room he wondered why.

"Well, Irma, what's on your mind?"

"It's Joyce, Helm; but do sit down. Take that big chair. It looks as if it had been made for you."
"What's the matter with Joyce?"

Mrs. Sewell frowned and then substituted a look of patient resignation. "You know all I've done for her. Don't think I mean I begrudge it since it was my duty and there's no greater satisfaction in life than seeing one's duty and doing it. But can you believe in spite of everything she actually dislikes me? She does, though; I think she always has." She waited, but since Blackadder refrained from comment she continued. "But that's not the worst of it; she's harming herself, deliberately destroying her great chance."

"How?" he asked bluntly.
"Oh, all this extra-curriculum studying she's been doing. She's kept up her Spanish so you'd think she could teach it anywhere but now she wants to take a business course."

"Secretarial?"
"No; she doesn't give it any fancy name—just plain stenography and typing."

"What's wrong with that?" demanded Blackadder. "It's the way several of the highest paid women in the world got their start and I can name half a dozen cases where it's been a royal road to marriage. So I don't see how it could hurt Joyce."

"You don't?" said Mrs. Sewell. She edged forward on her chair. "Listen, Helm; I wouldn't tell this to anybody but you. Howard Sempster, Emil Schaaf and Michael Kirkpatrick have all proposed to her over and over again."

"Half of Platinum Hill!" said Blackadder, scowling. "Well, she's no business woman and never will be."

"Why? Why do you say that?"
"Because if she were she'd marry them all, one after the other, and retire."

"Oh!" gasped Mrs. Sewell, truly shocked.

"Which one of the three do you think she'd find it easiest to fall for and to handle?"

"That's what I wanted to ask you. It's got to be one pretty soon or none."
"Why? What's the hurry?"
"Can't you think it out for yourself? If Platinum Hill goes after a girl with no money it's largely because she isn't a stenographer."

Blackadder's scowl deepened. "I hate to agree with you but I guess you're right. It's a shame one town should be saddled with three of that brand of snob, but if she's so attractive, what about a boy or two of the good old stock? Aren't any of them hanging around?"

"They would if they could afford it, but they know they can't. The nice boys she knows are all in college with years to go before they'll begin looking for a job. They're too young. I have enough income to manage on and wait, but I know Joyce—she won't stay with me much longer and she hasn't a penny."

"What about her father? I remember hearing he owned one of the show places in Mexico. Do you know what that means? A hacienda that doesn't run over 20,000 acres would be at the foot of the class."

"He lost it—everything he had. He wasn't even compensated for the murder of his wife though his lawyer assured him he would be. Cutler used to speak of it as blood money and wouldn't have thought of taking it except for Joyce. And it's she that matters now. She's got to be saved from herself and you must help."

"? Why me?"
"Because you're real, Helm, and the only man I know well enough to turn to. There's something in her frightens me. Sometimes she's a burning bush and the next instant she's quicksilver. Please, Helm. This child was put in my charge by a direct act of God. Whether she loves me or not it's my duty to guide her life along the lines of common sense. Which do you want her to do—go around looking for a job at $15 a week or be the first to bring a little culture to Platinum Hill? Which gives her the best chance for a full life?"

"A missionary, eh?" said Blackadder, his lips quirking oddly. He lifted his heavy shoulders and let them fall. "Well, Mike oughtn't to be so bad. I remember his father as a ditch-gang foreman with a laugh and plenty of punch besides."

Mrs. Sewell sighed resignedly. "I would have chosen Howard Sempster, but trust a man to pick a man is a good rule though we women seldom follow it. So it's to be Mrs. Michael—not Mike—Kirkpatrick. Anyway it sounds a lot better than Mrs. Schaaf." At that moment there was a sound of somebody entering the hall. "Joyce, is that you?"

"Yes, ma'am."
"She's never once called me mother," whispered Mrs. Sewell to Blackadder, a hurt and bewildered look in her liquid brown eyes. Then she raised her voice. "Come here, dear; we want to talk to you."

Blackadder disliked being rushed and felt he was being drafted without his consent, but immediately Joyce entered he was conscious of an odd reaction as though all his gears had gone suddenly into reverse.

She nodded to him and turned to her stepmother. "Well?"

"Oh, do sit down, Joyce. Can't you sit down and talk reasonably for once in your life?"

CARRY YOUR ALKALIZER WITH YOU

IF OVER-EATING CAUSES ACID INDIGESTION—

—HERE'S THE SENSIBLE THING TO DO

The fastest way to "alkalize" is to carry your alkaliizer with you. That's what thousands do now that genuine Phillips' comes in tiny, peppermint flavored tablets—in a flat tin for pocket or purse. Then you are always ready.

Use it this way. Take 2 Phillips' tablets—equal in "alkalizing" effect to 2 teaspoonfuls of liquid Phillips' from the bottle. At once you feel "gas," nausea, "over-crowding" from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid headaches," "acid breath," over-acid stomach are corrected at the source. This is the quick way to ease your own distress—avoid offense to others.
