

J. M. Denman Rites Held Last Saturday

Last rites for J. M. Denman were held in the Methodist church here at 3 o'clock last Saturday afternoon with the pastor, Rev. Earl Hoggard, and Rev. Fred DeLashaw, pastor of the Baptist church, officiating. Burial was in the Robert Lee cemetery.

Jimmie was born Sept. 23, 1913, and had been in poor health much of his life. When he was taken with pneumonia two weeks ago, he felt that he would not recover. His death occurred in San Angelo Friday morning and the body was brought in a W. K. Simpson casket each to the home of his brother, Rial, where it lay in state until time for the funeral.

Pallbearers included Allie Bilbo, Douglas Snead, Ray Ledbetter, Henson Fikes, Lowell Roane, Curtis Rambin, Miss Estaine Denman, Miss Vivian Roane, Miss Daisy McCutchen, Mrs. Lowell Roane, Mrs. Aubrey Denman and Mrs. Curtis Rambin carried flowers.

Jimmie is survived by his widow who was formerly Miss Lorene Day, the little daughter, Jimmie Merle; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Denman; four sisters, Mrs. W. F. Bennett of Hobbs, N. M., Mrs. Albert Baze, Jr., San Angelo, Mrs. Tyson Wayne, Cleburne; Miss Lauda Denman, Robert Lee, and two brothers, Rial and Roy Gene of Robert Lee.

I'LL LEARN HOW!

TO JIMMIE, FROM LORENE

How can I laugh, when my soul wants to cry?
How can I live, when I'd much rather die?
How can I dance, when my heart knows an ache?
That constantly hurts, asleep or awake?
How can I sing a gay song that's not true?
How can I smile, when I know I've lost you?
How can I love, when the love that we've known
Is gone without warning -- I'm left alone?
My faith I still have, and my hope I'll keep,
My courage, too, and I'll LEARN not to weep!
And I'll learn to do ALL the things I must do,
To live just as bravely without, as with you!

B. T. U. Picnic

The flat south of the city lake was the scene for a picnic of B. T. U. members Friday night. Games were played by the light of a bon fire, weiners, and marshmallows were roasted over a bed of coals and later the group sang popular songs to the accompaniment of a guitar and accordion. About twenty-five young people of the Baptist and Methodist churches attended.

County Court

Two cases were disposed of in county court last week.

In the three-sided case of Peerless Wire and Fencing Company versus W. K. Chapman et al, a suit involving a bill of $180.00 for wire-fencing, judgement was given in favor of Peerless Wire and Fencing Company. Attorneys for the plaintiff were Dalton and Mays, San Angelo; for Chapman, Anderson and Jones, San Angelo, and for Fred Roe, D. I. Durham and W. C. McDonald.

The defense has filed a motion for appeal.

In the suit of Mrs. Lizzie Davis against S. P. Yantis for possession of a farm, decision was given in favor of the defense. Attorneys in the case were W. C. McDonald, G. S. Arnold and E. C. Favors for the plaintiff and D. I. Durham for the defense.

State Health Department

If unexpectedly faced with the necessity of legally establishing the date of their birth, their age, their American citizenship, thousands of Texans would not know whether or not their births were registered with the proper authorities. Great embarrassment, inconvenience, or even serious loss of property could conceivably result from either an absence of registration or an error made in filing it the State.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, cited an unnamed but prominent Texas citizen who upon investigation found that his son had been registered for more than 20 years as illegitimate. Another instance the health official related concerned a Veteran of the World War who, after rearing a family of three children, found that he had been registered at birth as a girl child. The experiences of workers with vital statistics are rich with stories of persons vainly seeking to establish their rights to property because of neglect of their parents or attending physicians to register them properly at time of birth.

The law requires the births of all Texas babies to be registered with the local registrar, who is the Justice of the Peace in rural areas, and City Secretary in incorporated towns, within five days after the blessed event takes place, and forms are furnished physicians and midwives for this purpose. A copy of the registration is returned for permanent filing. These records are "vital" not only to the individual from a legal standpoint, Doctor Cox said, but to the State as well.

"We must know how many babies are born, how many die and from what causes mortality occurs if we are to accomplish the best results from a public health standpoint. Such a program obviously needs the support of every Texan. Our Bureau of Vital Statistics is only too glad to cooperate in 'getting the record straight.'"

Walter McDorman for Cotton Weigher, Prec. 1

Walter McDorman, present cotton weigher, announces this week for reelection.

Mr. McDorman has served in this capacity for some time, and so far as we know has given the best of service. He asks the people to elect him for another term, assuring the public the same good service.

Baptist Revival

ROY CAMP

Roy Camp, educational director of the Lamar Ave. Baptist church, Wichita Falls, will assist the pastor, Rev. DeLashaw in a revival meeting to be held in the Robert Lee Baptist church, beginning on Friday, April 1. Rev. DeLashaw will deliver the evening sermons while Mr. Camp will lead the singing and bring a message at 10 o'clock each morning.

Mr. Camp has been directing choirs in evangelistic singing for twenty years and has also had considerable work in assistant pastorates.

Ariel Club

The Ariel Club will have on exhibit Saturday afternoon a hat worn by a fair lady before the glory of the Old South was wiped out by the Civil War and some dresses of a very different style from what is now worn. There will be quilts of rare, beautiful patterns, one pieced by woman passed $0, and needlework to make you want to get a needle and work.

If you have something old or beautiful or interesting send it down town Saturday morning.

Card of Thanks

We wish to take this method of thanking our friends for the thoughtfulness and kindness shown us during the illness of my boy, and the illness and death of J. M. Denman.

Mrs. Hattie Day and family.

Mrs. Delbert Harmon and son, James, visited in Odessa with Mr. Harmon Sunday.

City Election

Another city election will be held in Robert Lee April 5th to elect a mayor and two commissioners.

The city seems to be in good hands under the present officials and we believe it good business to reinstate them. City finances have been handled economically, and the money expended where it would do the most good.

The last note against the city water works has been paid off and is now free of debt. Other old scores have been paid and, as a whole, the old town seems to be doing fairly well.

Cotton Acreage Allotment

The cotton allotment for Coke County for 1938 has been set at 21,449 acres. This is 30% of the tilled acres of the farms, that have a cotton allotment, in this county; therefore this percentage is the most that a farmer may plant his farm in cotton and comply with the government program. As soon as possible each farmer will be notified by mail just how many acres he may plant to cotton and to other crops.

As yet we do not know what percentage of the cultivated land will be planted to feed and conserving crops; but at present it appears that the allotment will be 30% for feed and 40% for conserving crops.

Dealer Announces New Safety Tire

Says Tire Will Stop Quicker Than Any Ever Built

A new automobile tire, incorporating a revolutionary development in tread design engineered to give the most positive non-skid and braking effectiveness so far developed, is announced by W. K. Simpson & Co. The tire was produced after three years of research and test by The B. F. Goodrich Company, Akron, Ohio, America's oldest tire manufacturer.

"This new tire, we believe, is one of the most outstanding contributions ever made to greater safety on the streets and highways," Mr. Simpson said. "The special tread design adopted after more than 100 types had been tested and rejected, will do much to prevent those accidents caused by skidding or inability to stop quickly enough when an emergency arises.

"There were several hundred thousand accidents last year resulting from skidding and in many of these mishaps one or more people paid with their lives. This toll is constantly increasing according to insurance figures.

"The new tire is now in Robert Lee and may be inspected at any time," Mr. Simpson said.

Garden Club

Fifteen home-makers in this vicinity are charter members of a garden club organized when the group met Wednesday afternoon at the J. K. Griffith home. The purpose of the organization is to encourage the culture of flowers and the beautifying of home yards.

Mrs. Henry Briscoe, Mrs. Congor and Miss Mary Brooks were visitors.

W. M. U.

Mrs. Fred DeLashaw and Mrs. Paul Good discussed Baptist mission conditions in Europe half a century ago when the Baptist W. M. S. met at the pastor's home Monday afternoon for the regular monthly mission study. Mrs. G. C. Allen conducted a devotional.

The hostess served ice cream and cookies to the members present.

Valedictory

From The Dallas News

Mr. Allred is not going to stand for a third term. That is wise. Texas is sternly set against a third term and is improbable that the Governor could overcome the prejudice against it. Mr. Allred will not openly espouse the cause of any candidate. This is wise also, for as he stated in his radio valedictory Saturday night, his participation can only increase the bitter partisanship of a campaign that in its early stages is already beginning to give evidence of a battle between billingsgate and tart rather than between men.

Worth noting is the fact that the present two-term tradition is also built on the two-year term of office and would possibly give away automatically to any sensible change which would prolong elective State office to four-year terms. Mr. Allred came to the office without real experience, and has spent much of his time learning the ropes and campaigning for re-election, the fate of most executives under the present system.

Texas can assure more experienced leadership, not necessarily better leadership, if it turns to the four-year term plan.

Even rabbits refuse to walk now days, especially Coke county rabbits. A Robert Lee motorist was driving leisurely on the highway the other day when a hitchhiking rabbit came tearing across a field and tried to thumb a ride. The motorist refused to stop, not being in a cheerful mood, so the rabbit deliberately jumped on the car fenders and made itself comfortable, rode away and then jumped off.

Mall Structures At New York Fair To Break Records

NEW YORK (Special)—Not only will the New York World's Fair 1939 be the largest exposition in history, but it will have the most luxurious Central Mall ever designed, a mile-long walk to cost $60,000,000, Grover A. Whalen, president of the Fair corporation, announces.

And, not only will the Mall be the most magnificent ever laid out, but it will contain a number of other "largests"—structures and works of art that have never been surpassed for size or elegance, he added.

In addition to the Trylon, tallest triangular spire ever raised, and the Perisphere, largest ball ever made by mankind, the Mall will form a setting for the largest portrait statue fashioned since the Egyptians hewed the likeness of Rameses II from rock in the land of the Nile. It will portray George Washington as he arrived for his inauguration exactly 150 years previous to the opening day of the Fair. It will be 65 feet tall and its mass will be more than 500 times that of an average six-foot man.

The tallest sundial ever erected, supported by a life-size tree sculptured by the celebrated Paulanship, will actually tell time for Fair visitors, for the numerals denoting the hours of the day will be set in a huge, circular plot where the sundial's shadow will fall from 50 feet above.

More than a million plants and a thousand trees will be used in landscaping the Mall.

Homesteader (to store keeper): "Gimme a slab of bacon."

Storekeeper: "Big or little slab?"

"Biggest slab you've got. I've eaten so durn many cottontails and jackrabbits, that everytime I hear a dog bark, I run under the porch."

Tributes Paid To Swedenborg

1688—1772

TRIBUTES to the achievements of Emanuel Swedenborg, the 250th anniversary of whose birth will be commemorated January 29, 1938, will be paid by scholars, scientists and theologians throughout the world. Culled briefly from past comments on his life work are these quotations:

"The truths passing out of his system into general circulation are now met with every day, qualifying the views and creeds of all churches, and men out of the church."—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

"Men no less distinguished by their wisdom than their worldly rank have publicly adopted Swedenborg's beliefs, which are indeed more consolatory than those of any other Christian communion."—Honore De Balzac.

"Swedenborg's message has meant so much to me. It has given color and reality and unity to my thought of the life to come; it has exalted my ideas of love, truth and usefulness; it has been my strongest incentive to overcome limitations. Swedenborg's 'Divine Love and Wisdom' is a fountain of life I am always happy to be near."—Helen Keller.

"As a natural psychologist and theologian he has strong and varied claims on the gratitude and admiration of the professional and philosophical world."—Samuel Taylor Coleridge.

"I have always admired Swedenborg's genius, and I did homage in 1911 at his tomb in the Cathedral at Upsala."—William Lyon Phelps.

"I have the profoundest honor for the character and work of Emanuel Swedenborg. I have from time to time gained much from his writings. It is impossible to say a little on so great a theme."—Phillips Brooks.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Why Kidnap Me?"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:
Here's a mystery. Why was Sam Wolff kidnaped? That question puzzled Sam himself. It puzzled me, too. Maybe it will make you wonder a bit. We all know why most kidnapers commit their dirty crimes. They do it for money—for ransom. Once in a while a man is kidnaped for revenge, or to keep him from telling what he knows. But Sam didn't fit into any of these pictures. He wasn't rich. There wasn't anybody he knew of who was looking for revenge. And he didn't know anything that anyone would be interested in keeping quiet.

But just the same Sam was kidnaped. Sam lives in Brooklyn, N. Y. One August day in 1934, something went wrong with his lucky star.

Sam is a truckman, and on that August day he was working as usual. It was about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and his truck was parked at the curb in mid-town Manhattan. As he sat there in the driver's seat a young man came over to him.

The young fellow was in his early twenties and neatly dressed. He said he had a job that he wanted Sam to do. That job was to pick up three trunks at a house on West Eighteenth street and deliver them to the Pennsylvania station.

Just a Job of Trucking.

The young fellow looked all right to Sam, and there was no reason why he should suspect anything. Sam didn't have any large amount of money on him, and there was no other reason he could think of why anyone should want to harm him. In fact, Sam didn't think about the matter at all. It was just another job and he went about it as he'd go about any other.

The young lad asked Sam his price and Sam told him it would be three bucks. The young fellow said, "All right," and they started off. They got to the Eighteenth street address, which proved to be a furnished house, and both of them went inside. As they entered Sam went first and the young fellow followed. They climbed a flight of stairs and turned into one of the rooms on the second floor. As Sam went in—the door closed behind him. Then, out from behind that door stepped a masked man, a slouch had pulled down over the upper part of his face, pointing an automatic pistol.

Tied Him Up but Wouldn't Explain.

The man pressed the gun against Sam's side. He told Sam to keep quiet. The pair of them—the masked man and the young fellow who had hired him to move trunks—began tying him up. They bound his hands and feet with wire—put a towel over his mouth. Then the masked man went out, leaving the young fellow to stand guard over their prisoner.

It was all too much for Sam. What did these birds want? Did they expect to get any money out of him? Then they were going to be disappointed. Sam didn't have any great amount of money—not enough, anyway, to pay a gang of kidnapers for the terrible risk they were taking. Did they have the wrong man? Well, that might be a possibility.

He tried to talk to his captor. The young fellow wasn't very communicative. When Sam suggested they had the wrong man he smiled in a way that suggested that he knew what he was doing. Sam discarded that "wrong man" theory. An hour dragged by, and Sam began to wonder again.

All sorts of questions filled his mind. It wasn't alone the problem of why they wanted him. There was also the question of what they might do with him. He began to wonder if his family would next hear of him when he was dragged out of the river, or his body found, stuffed in a trunk, on a dump somewhere on the outskirts of the city. Such things have happened. Sam had never thought of them happening to him. But now he was beginning to.

Wanted His Truck for a Robbery.

Another hour passed. The young lad who was guarding him was decent enough. He kept his gun out and pointed at Sam, but he didn't harm him. Once he even lit a cigarette and held it to Sam's lips so he could have a smoke. Sam felt a little better after that.

A third hour passed. Then the other man came back. The two of them began to untie Sam. When they had taken the wire from his hands and feet they told him to lie down on the bed for ten minutes. After that they went out, locking the door behind them.

As soon as their footsteps had died away Sam was on his feet, banging on the door. After a few minutes the landlady came and let him out. He left that house and walked down the street, still puzzled about the strange adventure that had befallen him. He went to the police station to report the loss of his truck—and there he got the answer to his mystery.

It was the simplest thing in the world. That pair of crooks just wanted to rob a dress goods house down on Bleeker street. And they had held Sam a prisoner so he wouldn't report its loss until after they had finished the job. The cops found his truck the next morning, abandoned down on Delancey street.

Basilisk Lizards Are Jumpers

Four species of basilisk lizards abound in and near Central America, but are nowhere else. They range in length from a few inches to three feet. Most of their lives are spent in trees along rivers. Great climbers and jumpers, they do not hesitate to dive from a lofty tree into the water. So swiftly do they run on their hind legs that they can "run" across streams. And they can stop so abruptly human eyes cannot follow them.

From Forest to Fireside

Since the ancient Egyptians, centuries before Christ, wove, pounded and polished reeds to make sheets of papyrus, paper has been made of vegetable substances. From about 1880, the most prolific source of paper for printing has been the American forests of conifers, the spruce being the most important tree for this purpose. Virtually all newspapers are printed on paper made from a mixture of ground and chemically digested wood.

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses CARBOHYDRATES and FATS

Foods That Provide Motive Power For the Body Machinery ★ ★

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 29th St., New York.

THE human body might be compared to a framework filled with machinery. It takes food to build the framework, food to run the machinery and food to keep it working efficiently and this food must be of the proper type.

Last week, I discussed the body building proteins and explained how to distinguish between those which build and repair body tissue, and those that are adequate for maintenance, but not for growth. It is equally important that you should learn something of the fuel foods which are necessary to fire the body engine and furnish motive power to propel the body machinery.

Fuel Foods Keep Us Alive

The body could not function in the absence of fuel foods any more than a machine could run without power, or a car without gas. Every breath requires an expenditure of energy, and so does every movement—from the beating of the heart to the winking of an eye. Even in repose, the body machinery is kept functioning only by an ever-present supply of fuel. For, as long as life continues—even when you are lying perfectly still—you need fuel to carry on the internal work of the body.

Activity Demands Energy Foods

Every type of daily activity, including work and exercise, requires additional fuel. If you walk slowly, you expend twice as much energy as when you sit still. And when you walk fast, you may use up four, five or six times as much energy.

The chief fuel, or energy producing foods, are the carbohydrates—that is, the starches and sugars; and fats. Protein also has some fuel value, but its primary function is to build and repair tissue.

Carbohydrates are quick burning. They might be compared to the flare of a match in a dark room, which gives bright light for an instant, but is soon extinguished. Fat, on the other hand, burns slowly, like a lamp whose wick is turned low.

Danger of Inadequate Fuel Supply

Recently there has been a tendency to minimize the importance of the fats and carbohydrates, due to the craze for dieting. Some of the results of disregarding the absolute necessity for these foods are extreme irritability, and a greater susceptibility to fatigue, nervous diseases, tuberculosis and other infections.

Too Much Fuel Causes Overweight

It is true, however, that an excess of fuel foods will tend to produce overweight. For if we assimilate them, and do not utilize their potential energy in muscular effort, they will be stored—as fat—usually in most inconvenient locations! On the other hand, an excess of any food is a detriment. Therefore the goal should be enough, but not too much, of all necessary foods.

Since both carbohydrates and fats are energy foods, one might expect them to play an interchangeable role in the diet. To a certain extent, they do, although fat, being more concentrated, provides two and one-fourth times as much fuel value as an equal weight of carbohydrate.

But because of the variation in the way these materials are handled by the body, it is generally considered that health is best served when 40 to 50 per cent of the total energy value of foods is provided in the form of carbohydrate and 30 to 35 per cent in the form of fats.

Carbohydrates Are Quickest Fuel

Carbohydrates, which originate chiefly in plant life, are readily converted into heat and muscle energy. Foods rich in carbohydrates include bread, potatoes, macaroni, rice, cooked and ready-to-eat cereals, peanuts, dried and preserved fruits, sugars and syrup.

Sugar furnishes heat more quickly and more abundantly than any other food. But it has a tendency to dull the appetite and is also apt to cause fermentation. Therefore, a large measure of our heat and energy is best secured from starchy foods such as bread, cereals, macaroni and potatoes.

Quick energy can also be obtained from the easily digested sugars of fresh and dried fruits, such as prunes, apricots, raisins and fully ripened bananas.

Here is an interesting and important point which is frequently overlooked in unscientific reducing diets. Fat requires carbohydrates for its proper utilization by the body. That is why women who try to reduce without following a scientifically planned diet frequently become seriously ill as a result of cutting down on carbohydrates while overlooking the fats contained in milk, butter, and other foods.

Relation of Fat To Health

Fats are so necessary to the body economy that it is no exaggeration to say that without fat, life, in its higher forms, is impossible. The noted Arctic explorer, Stefansson, found that he could exist satisfactorily on an all-meat diet, provided he ate liberally of fat. On a diet of all lean meat, he became violently ill within a week.

Besides furnishing concentrated energy values, fats help to create the fatty tissue which cushions the nerves and abdominal organs, and forms the pleasing contours of face and figure.

Because it leaves the stomach more slowly than proteins and carbohydrates, fat retards the digestion of these food groups somewhat, and thus gives staying power to a meal. At the same time it promotes the flow of pancreatic juice and bile, thus helping in the assimilation of other foods. Foods rich in fat include butter, cheese, egg yolk, cooking fats and oils, margarine, olives, pastry, peanut butter, most nuts except chestnuts and lichi nuts, various kinds of sausage and fried foods.

Anger Destroys Fat Reserves

Experiments have demonstrated why nervous, irritable individuals are usually thin, while those with a serene temperament often accumulate weight. It has been proven that anger and fright increase the amount of fat in the blood and remove a corresponding amount of fat from its usual storage place beneath the skin. A fit of anger may take off more fat than an hour's exercise, or two or three days of enforced diet. Thus the person who allows himself to become upset continually withdraws the fat reserve from his body. Such persons could profit, perhaps, by taking more of the fat-forming foods.

But whether the members of your family are good natured, or irritable, young or old, they need a constant supply of fuel foods—at every meal, every day. Fuel foods produce energy—and energy is the motive power of life and work and thought.

"Home-Wrecking" Qualities of Poor Furniture Polish

How often a houseful of fine furniture and handsome woodwork is spoiled by the use of a poor furniture polish! There are many polishes on the market today—some fair, some good, others excellent for luster and long life of the finish! The best is non-greasy, because made with a fine, light-oil base! In time, furniture and woodwork can be ruined by the persistent application of a cheap, poor polish! Such polish will contain kerosene, harsh abrasives and harmful acids—destructive elements, that are unseen and unsuspected! The housewife may use one of these polishes, feeling that she is economically keeping her furniture polished—but this is poorest economy, if she values her furniture (and what housewife does not?). The furniture in a home constitutes the largest part of the furnishings—and will show up like "sore thumbs" when dried out, cracked or checked. This is just what occurs, when other than a reputable oil polish is used! Too, a quality oil polish is less expensive! Less is used at one time—for it's undiluted. The resultant glow is deeper, richer, more lasting! Best of all, the finish of the furniture and woodwork is properly "fed" and kept in prime condition! So beware of harsh, "bargain" polishes—through them, the furniture suffers!

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.

You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

CORRECTING WRONG IDEAS OF RELIGION

LESSON TEXT—Mark 7:1-13. GOLDEN TEXT—This people honoreth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me. Mark 7:6. PRIMARY TOPIC—At Dinner-Time. JUNIOR TOPIC—What Is Real Religion? INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Counts with God? YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Sidestepping Responsibilities.

The never-ending struggle of Christianity is to keep the simple gospel of the grace of God in Christ Jesus free to operate in all its glory and power, unencumbered by the traditions and formulas of men. It has been my privilege to read a recent book by a brilliant young man who, while serving as a professor of philosophy in a large university, is also versed in the related fields of theology, psychology, psychiatry, and psychotherapy. He has had first-hand experience in dealing with the problems of men and women. With this background of both study and experience he gives it as his absolute conviction that we must get "back to the original simplicity of the Christian gospel." He suggests that we need to "dust off the additions and superstructures" that have been added since Christ came to seek and to save the lost.

Our lesson for today finds Jesus meeting that very issue with the traditionalists of His day.

I. Washed Hands and Unwashed Hearts (vv. 1-6).

In the process of interpreting the law of Moses and applying it to the affairs of daily life the religious authorities of Israel had developed a mass of intricate and onerous rules which had literally buried the law itself and had substituted ritualistic formalism for spiritual life. So fond had the scribes and the Pharisees become of these traditions that they became bold enough to declare that they were far superior to the law itself.

Their attack on Jesus because His disciples ate with unwashed hands did not refer to the proper cleansing of one's hands before eating, but to the ceremonial washings which were said to be necessary if one had accidentally touched a Gentile, or something that a Gentile had touched in the market place. Jesus skillfully and finally disposes of that question by reminding the objectors that they were serving God with their lips only, but their hearts were far from Him. Washed hands are not a thing to be condemned, and Jesus says nothing about that point. When the washing of hands becomes of more importance than the cleansing of the heart, however, the soul is in real danger.

II. Traditions of Man Versus the Commandment of God (vv. 7-13).

Here is the heart of the entire matter, for while we may not always be aware of it the fact is that our anxiety to maintain human tradition which is contrary to the law and Spirit of God is fundamentally for the purpose of evading our full and true responsibility.

The Jew who was so avaricious that he did not wish to support his aged and needy parents could entirely evade that God-given responsibility by declaring that his property was "Corban," dedicated to God. Thereafter no matter how great was the need of his parents they could receive nothing. The execution of this oath was carried out to such a fine point that a son who had declared his property to be "Corban" could visit a sick father or mother for only a brief period lest he might stay long enough to perform some duties of a nurse and so contribute to his parents by saving them some expense.

Thus do men even in our day make "the word of God of none effect" (v. 13), through their traditions. No right minded person objects to the worthy traditions of worship and service which are such a precious heritage of the Christian church. Rightfully apprehended and properly used they are both desirable and helpful. But we must never permit the grace and power of God in Jesus Christ "to be brought under the trammels of human teachers or the arrangements of human office-bearers. The first movement toward the mastery of the soul by tradition is the movement of that soul away from immediate, direct, first-hand fellowship with God" (Morgan).

The crying need of our day, as it was of the time when Jesus was on earth, is that we should clear away hindering encumbrances.

Tragedy Was Difficult In Ye Olden Tymes

The trials of a strolling player in Eighteenth century England may be judged from a handbill announcing a performance of the "deep and affecting tragedy of 'Theodosius, or the Force of Love,'" at the "Old Theater in East Grinstead," in 1758, quoted in "Portrait of Mrs. Siddons," by Naomi Royde-Smith. It says: "Mrs. Crawford (a contemporary of the great Sarah Siddons) had a shriek and a groan that made rows of spectators start from their seats. Mrs. Siddons went further: when she shrieked the house shrieked with her; at her groan young ladies swooned in their boxes."

Setting Gelatine.—Gelatine salads and desserts will jell faster in metal molds than in enamel, earthenware or glass molds.

When Cooking Cheese.—In cooking anything with cheese use a low temperature, because intense heat makes cheese tough and stringy.

Sugaring Doughnuts.—To dust doughnuts with sugar place the sugar in a paper sack and put in six doughnuts at a time. Hold the top of the sack together and shake it. The doughnuts will then be quickly coated with sugar.

Measuring Flour.—Wheat flour is one of the easiest ingredients in baking to mismeasure. For best results always sift flour and measure by spoonfuls into a cup, being careful not to shake the filled cup.

Brightening the Closet.—If the walls and woodwork of the dark clothes closet are painted white it will make it much lighter and easier to find things.

Riches and Strength

Men seem neither to understand their riches nor their strength; of the former they believe greater things than they should; of the latter much less. Self-reliance and self-denial will teach a man to crawl out of his own cistern, and eat his own sweet bread, and to learn and labor truly to get his living, and carefully to expend the good things committed to his trust.—Bacon.

Your Food Is Your Fate

THE third of the series of articles entitled "What to Eat and Why," written by C. Houston Goudiss, the eminent food authority, author and radio lecturer, appears in this issue.

In these articles Mr. Goudiss tells how you can be strong, beautiful, wise and rear healthy children by combining the right food materials in the diet. He points out the vast influence which food wields over one's life.

The housewife and mother who desires to know what foods will benefit her family the most will do well to read these articles week by week and make a scrapbook of them for ready reference.

TIPS to Gardeners

Vegetable Pests

THERE are two major classifications of insect pests—sucking and chewing.

Chewing insects, such as beetles, leave telltale holes in leaves. They are best controlled, according to Harold N. Coulter, vegetable expert of the Ferry Seed Institute, by dusting or spraying plants with arsenicals (poisons with arsenate of lead as a base.)

These arsenicals are known as stomach poisons, for they must be eaten by the insects. Plants attacked by chewing insects include cucumber, squash, other vine crops, mustard, tomato, pepper. Sucking insects, such as aphids or plant lice, can be detected in small groups on the under surface of the leaves. Control by dusting or spraying nicotine sulphate or pyrethrum directly on the insects. Plants attacked by sucking insects include peas, pepper, cabbage, and crops grown for greens.

Make certain what type pest you are fighting. Buy properly prepared poisons; follow directions.

PRINCE ALBERT

THE NATIONAL JOY SMOKE

THERE'S NO TIME in a busy newspaper press-room to fool around with slow-rolling "makin's" tobacco that spills all over. Pressmen want to twirl their "makin's" smokes fast—but trim and neat, too. And their smokes have got to be full-bodied and tasty, yet mild! Bob Etter, Jimmy Bateman, and Joe Brown check on this as they roll up Prince Albert "makin's" cigarettes. P. A.'s the favorite, all right. (That's what pipe-smokers say too!)
