PREACHING SERVICES AT METHODIST CHURCH

We are having preaching services at the Methodist church at night, 7:45, during all of next week. During the first part of the week I will have charge of the services—later on in the week Brother Hardy of Bronte will preach and on Easter Sunday I am expecting Dr. Barton to be with us for the day. You are invited to all of these services and I am urging you to make every effort possible to come. Now that the winter is over and the siege of sickness passing, we should be willing—just before Easter—to seek the Lord. We need to worship and bow down before the Lord our maker. Try to come to every service; we will expect you. You may say this in a busy time. Remember this on Good Friday of Passion week Jesus died for us and we can afford to do a great deal for Him.

TEXAS IN LIMELIGHT

WASHINGTON, March 15—Texas has contributed many great statesmen since its heroic struggle for independence a century ago, but not since the days of Sam Houston has a Texan acquired the national following which John Nance Garner enjoys today.

Astute political observers in the nation's capitol agree that Vice President Garner is the Democratic Party's best bet for 1940.

Garner's phenomenal strength in all sections of the country is being attributed to four factors:

1. He is more experienced in governmental affairs than any other man. He is the only living man to have presided over both houses of Congress. He has been a conscientious public servant in Washington for more than 35 years.

2. He is a lifelong liberal of the practical variety. Most of the liberal measures enacted during the past few years were urged by Garner long before the New Deal came into power. He has opposed the New Deal only on questions of extravagant spending and its conciliatory attitude toward sit-down strikes.

3. His sturdy log-cabin Americanism is the people's best safeguard against involvement in war. He is a genuine patriot, a believer in George Washington's advice against meddling in foreign disputes.

4. He is a vigorous and rugged personality that inspires confidence. Despite his 70 years, his outdoor life and clean living have kept him virile and alert. Moreover, he is a plain American—a hombody, who has been happily married to a charming and gracious wife for more than 40 years.

These attributes to John Garner's appeal to the best elements in American life, leading political observers to believe that he is the strongest nominee the Party could select.

METHODIST NOTES

M. M. S. of the Methodist church met with Mrs. J. S. Craddock Monday evening. Mrs. Gardner taught the Bible lesson from John.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mmes. W. H. Bell, W. K. Simpson, Ruby Wright, Ruby Brown, Willie Clark, Hattie Day, Mozelle Taylor, Fred O. Green, J. S. Gardner, Elsie Latham, Lizzie Hester, J. S. Craddock.

The Methodist people enjoyed a treat Tuesday when they met at the church with Rev. and Mrs. Horace King of San Antonio and Miss Benza Lee Bell, Sunday School workers of West Texas Conference. Some helpful talks were made and enjoyed by all. Lunch was served at the noon hour. Several visitors from Bronte were present.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of expressing our sincere appreciation of the kindness shown us during the sickness of our baby and the many other kind deeds of our neighbors in helping to plow our field.

JOHN GARNER LEADS PRESIDENTIAL RACE

Texas' distinguished favorite son—John N. Garner, the only Democrat to have announced unqualifiedly that he is a presidential candidate—is today the leading choice of his Party to succeed to the Presidency.

JOHN N. GARNER

Patriotic Texans will attend their own precinct conventions May 4 to record their support of their noted fellow Texan.

Uniformly popular in all sections of the country and among all classes of people, Vice President Garner is esteemed for his sound common sense, practical liberalism, and long experience in governmental affairs. Political observers in Washington agree that these attributes, together with the fact that his sturdy log-cabin Americanism is the nation's best safeguard against involvement in war, are responsible for his popularity among the rank and file of the people.

His name has been submitted directly to voters in a number of state primaries, in accordance with his democratic philosophy that "the people should decide." In announcing his candidacy last December, Mr. Garner said: "I will accept the nomination for President. I will make no effort to control any delegates. The people should decide. The candidate should be selected at primaries and conventions as provided by law and I sincerely trust that all Democrats will participate in them."

THE MAGIC VALLEY

Mrs. Hauley Allen attended the Baptist Sunday School State Convention at Harlington on 5 and 6 of March.

She made very interesting talk at Baptist Church Sunday morning, stating that she went with a party from San Angelo, traveling 1015 miles the round trip. Arriving at their destination, they registered Tuesday morning.

The Convention Theme was "Feeding the Multitudes", 14 states represented and 3600 delegates registered. That the Magic Valley with its beautiful citrus orchards and highways lined with Palms, was worth the trip, as a large percentage had never seen the valley before.

'As Red as Snow'

We often say "as white as snow," to designate pure white, but snow has been known to fall in quite a variety of colors—yellow, black, red, or green. The color is due to the presence of very tiny plants known as algae. These cause the green snow that falls occasionally in the Antarctic, the black snow of the high mountains of Tatra, in Hungary, and the bright yellow snow of the South Orkneys, in New Brunswick.

But the commonest form of colored snow is red of all shades from a delicate rose to a deep blood-red. Snow of this color has been seen on the slopes of Mount St. Bernard, as well as in the Arctic, the Carpathians, and the Andes of South America.

For Misery from HEAD COLDS use MENTHOLATUM

Link them together in your mind!

ARE you at the mercy of a sniffly, sneezy, smothery head cold? Why endure so much misery? A little Mentholum applied in each nostril will soothe the irritated nasal membranes, check the sneezing, relieve the stuffiness, and help you to breathe more easily.

Also rub Mentholum vigorously on the chest and back to improve the local blood circulation, and thus gain extra help in relieving cold discomforts. Rub it on the forehead and temples to allay headache and neuralgia due to colds.

On Guard

As a man always should be upon his guard against the vice to which he is most exposed, so should we take a more than ordinary care not to lie at the mercy of the weather in our moral conduct.—Addison.

Why Let Yourself Get Constipated?

Why endure those dull headachy days due to constipation, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can avoid both by getting at the cause of the trouble?

If your constipation, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the "better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran.

This crunchy toasted breakfast cereal is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. It helps you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day and month after month, by the pleasant means you ever knew.

Eat Kellogg's All-Bran regularly, drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Advocates of Public Ownership Make Real Bid for Their Plan

Group of Government Officials and Other Interested Individuals Mix 'Movement' Into National Affairs and Politics.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—Behind the thick veil of official secrecy, a thoroughly active group of individuals is developing a broad plan of public ownership. It is using the established machinery of government and it is mixing into national politics to an amazing extent.

We, here in Washington, have heard recurring and increasing rumors of late that a new public ownership drive was contemplated by the extreme radicals nesting in the New Deal henhouse. It was a situation, however, where few details were obtainable. The leaders were making use of the veil of official secrecy that always is available for use by those supposed to be servants of the public. Suddenly, however, the magnitude of the movement became discernible. Its scope is astounding. It strikes me that it is a situation that contains elements of greater danger than did the infamous plan to pack the Supreme court of the United States.

Exposure of the group's intense effort came largely through stupidity of some of its members. Proof of the underlying motives came in the form of a sudden and slimy attack on John W. Hanes, former undersecretary of the treasury. Mr. Hanes was slated to become trustee of the gigantic, but bankrupt octopus, the Associated Gas and Electric company. Mr. Hanes has not been named as trustee, although his official record has not a blemish on it so far as has been found. Instead, Dr. Willard Thorp, economic adviser to Secretary Hopkins, of the department of commerce; Denis J. Driscoll, chairman of the Pennsylvania Public Utilities commission; and Walter H. Pollak, New York lawyer, were named.

Billion-Dollar Utility Property Was to Be 'Proving Ground'

The public ownership group wanted to swing the trusteeship for this billion-dollar utility into the hands of the Securities and Exchange commission, as might be done under the SEC law. They proposed to use this great property, so badly muddled up, as proving ground for their public ownership ideals. It was contemplated that the Associated properties eventually would be welded into TVA, and a great north-and-south system under government ownership would have become a fact.

To accomplish this program, however, it was necessary to dispose of Mr. Hanes, who favors private ownership in industry and who wants to see America retain its fundamental traditions. In due course, we were treated to publication of the views of Senator Norris of Nebraska, who was the father of TVA. I doubt very much that the aged Nebraskan knew that he was being used in the fashion that was the case. But the scheme worked and the Norris criticism that Mr. Hanes had been a stock broker smeared the former treasury official who had done more to prevent New Deal financial mistakes than most of the others.

The attack on Mr. Hanes, however, failed to get the trusteeship into the hands of the Securities and Exchange commission. The schemers failed to cover up their tracks. But, while they failed on one track, they did succeed in getting the gravy of trustee fees for men of their own choosing—Thorp, Driscoll and Pollak. Dr. Thorp's beliefs were so contrary to sound views that only a few years ago the senate refused to confirm his nomination as assistant secretary of commerce. Mr. Driscoll's affiliations in Pennsylvania show how he has been linked consistently with nearly every wild-eyed proposal that had New Deal ownership. He was licked for re-election to congress a term or two ago and became a lame duck appointee to the Pennsylvania commission by the then Governor George H. Earle. So, while it is accepted that the gravy is important, it was much more important that the trustees should think right, according to radical lights.

Third Term for President Was in Political Strategy

Such is the picture of how the public ownership crowd operates. That picture fails, however, to disclose what is going on beneath the surface. Here is that story:

The strategy to be used, politically, contemplates that support of the payrollers, who seek to nominate President Roosevelt for a third term, shall be had for the public ownership theories in return for support of the third term program. A good political horse-trade. It is good because the public ownership segment figures that an apparent national political party endorsement will be available, or folks will be induced to believe there is such an endorsement. My information is that the public ownership crowd is counting on a repetition of conditions in 1932, when, it will be recalled, Mr. Roosevelt's political wings covered 57 varieties of political thought and theory.

Important members of the Washington group that heads up the public ownership group are placed in nearly every department of the government. They are in key positions. Whether they are influencing national policies is a question I cannot answer, but I can say they are in a position to use such influence very effectively. A decision here and a ruling there could be of vast help to such a program without there being any visible connections.

Then, as to rumors, again. We hear a great deal of gossip about some members of the Supreme court serving as advisers to less experienced agitators in the executive branch of the government. I repeat that I do not know whether these stories are true. There have been many signs indicating that frequent conferences take place, and no one denies that close ties of friendship exist between several of newer Supreme court justices and their proteges in Washington's downtown section. The rumors, therefore, are very disturbing to those of us with the old fashioned idea that the Supreme court should be an agency to serve the people in a judicial capacity and that its members should confine their activities to that field.

Advocates of Public Ownership Are on Government Payroll

The general situation becomes all the more threatening, in my opinion, when it is known that there have been numerous advocates of wholesale government management of private industry operating on the government payroll. Some of them have taken the position that the way to obtain government ownership of private industry is to get industry so far into debt that the federal government would have to assume control. That is to say, only the federal government would have sufficient credit and borrowing power to pay off the debt.

As I said earlier, many details of the snakelike operations of this gang remain in deepest secrecy. Some facts have leaked out, however, that cause shivers to run up and down my spine.

The thing that none of us here know about, definitely, is whether Mr. Roosevelt has been persuaded to adopt the program. Some of my informants assure me that it does not matter whether Mr. Roosevelt even knows about the plan, because its tentacles extend like those of a jellyfish into many hidden places. In other words, a few of the cocky leaders believe the movement has grown so large that it is beyond the President's control.

CALVARY: TRIUMPH THROUGH SACRIFICE

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 27:33-50. GOLDEN TEXT—He is despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief.—Isaiah 53:3.

At Calvary, reverent and thoughtful readers of God's Word stand speechless, and confess themselves to be powerless to explain or to expound the awe-inspiring story, and yet just because it is such a story, because on that cross the divine Son of God gave Himself in sacrificial atonement for sin, we must do our utmost to understand it, to explain it, and certainly to declare it to all mankind. For when He who knew no sin became sin for us, it was for our sin that He died. Here alone do we find redemption.

I. "They Crucified Him."

All of the gospel stories are remarkably reticent when they speak of the cross. Details of surrounding events are given, but when they speak of the cross itself, they can only say that He was crucified. Let us look at the One who hung on that sacred tree, for He is the Saviour of the world. Refusing the stupefying potion (v. 34) and facing death fully conscious, we hear Him crying out of the darkness which covered all the land, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" That cry indicates the depth to which our Saviour went for us.

Does it not seem that the Father in that darkest moment of history turned His back upon the One who knowing no sin Himself had become sin for us? And yet we know that it was God who hung upon the tree, God the Son. Here is divine mystery, the meaning of which we cannot fathom, but we know that it was for us.

Then came the cry with the loud voice, "It is finished!" This was not the death of the languishing martyr. The Son of God, having wrought out redemption on the cross, cried out in powerful tones of victory, "It is finished!" and yielded up His spirit.

II. "They Watched Him."

The soldiers had made sport of Him and mocked Him in the palace. They took a passing curious interest in the crucifixion. They gambled over His garments, and finally settled down to perform their duty as guards with stolid indifference. How much of humanity is just like that!

The priests who professed to know about God and His Word stand out in appalling wickedness and ignorance. Being members of the highest and noblest of callings, they fell when they sinned to the lowest depths.

Of the two thieves, one believed and the other railed at our Lord (Luke 23:39, 40). The cross has ever since been the dividing line, part of humanity turning there to life eternal, the rest going on its railing way to destruction.

III. "He Trusted in God."

This was the sarcastic taunt of the priests. "When the King was hanging upon the cross and the interpreters of religion, the priests, misinterpreted God, there was a great silence. God's noninterference is the first thing that impresses one as the story is read, but that is not all the story. It was not wholly noninterference. 'From the sixth hour there was darkness over all the land until the ninth hour.' That seems to have been the act of God. It would seem that in infinite tenderness God wrapped the land in darkness in the hour of His Son's supreme suffering" (G. Campbell Morgan). We also read in verse 51 that the veil of the temple was torn from top to bottom, opening the way for all men in Christ to enter the Holy of Holies.

"He trusted God." Yes, even to the sacrifice of Himself in death. Because He could not save Himself (v. 42) in thus doing the will of God the Father, He did save others. The scoffing priests told the truth in spite of their wicked purpose to falsify. "They crucified Him," "they watched Him," but "He trusted God" and became the Saviour of the world.

It Must Be Admitted That Was a 'Fare Do'

Four men were seated facing each other in a railway coach. One of them seemed to be monopolizing the conversation. All of his talk was about himself as he told how clever he was.

This went on and on, mile after mile, till at last one fellow could stand it no longer, and without due apology he burst in upon the conversation of the boasting one. "Say," he said, "tell us something you can't do, and I'll do it for you!"

There was a moment's silence, then up spoke the chap who had been interrupted, a smile on his face: "Well, I must admit that I can't pay my fare."

Just why left-overs should be considered the problem children of the kitchen, is a mystery to me! They're a challenge to one's housewifely imagination, of course, but cleverly combined and judiciously seasoned, they may become a distinguished dish, around which to build an attractive and satisfying meal.

If they're served as left-overs there's nothing particularly inspiring about the little dabs of vegetables that accumulate in the refrigerator. But when they're seasoned with care, combined in a smooth, creamy cheese sauce, and served in an unusual bread ring, they become a totally new, delicious and nourishing main dish for a meal. Left-over vegetables combine, too, to create "vegetables a la king," or a hearty "vegetables a la king," or a hearty "vegetables a la king," or a hearty "vegetables a la king."

Odds and ends of vegetables and meat unite to make a meat loaf of distinction, and scraps of Sunday's roast can be used to advantage in tasty appetizers or "buffet supper rolls."

Even the bits of yesterday's cake and pie contribute to the success of today's dinner. Not-so-fresh cake, served with a hot sauce, becomes cottage pudding; from dry cake slices, dried or candied fruit, and a custard, a cabinet pudding is evolved; and that quarter of berry pie left over from last night's dinner is the basis of a truly delicious "Cinderella Dessert."

Left-overs are time and budget savers—much too important to be merely heated and served as "scraps." Use them wisely, to save time, and to cut food costs.

Surprise Frankfurters. (Serves 5-6)

- 2 1/4 cups mashed potato
 - 1 egg (beaten)
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt

 - 1 tablespoon parsley (minced)
 - 6 to 7 cold, cooked frankfurters
 - 1/2 cup bread crumbs
- Combine the mashed potatoes with the beaten egg and the seasoning. Cover each frankfurter with the potato mixture, forming a "blanket" about 1/4-inch thick. Roll in crumbs. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) for 20-25 minutes, or fry in deep fat (350 degrees) until golden brown.

Sauce for Croquettes.

- 1/2 teaspoon brown sugar
- 2 slices onion (finely cut)
- 1/4 cup butter

- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup bouillon stock
- 1 tablespoon raisins

 - 1/8 teaspoon pepper
 - 1 cup mushrooms (canned or fresh)

Of Course You Want a Copy of "Household Hints"!

In spring a home maker's fancy turns to thoughts of crisp curtains, and clean, sparkling windows, rugs that are fresh and bright, and walls that aren't ashamed to face the light of a sunny day! That means housecleaning, of course, and all the odd jobs that go with it—what to do to make the dining room curtains last one more season, how to renovate the kitchen linoleum; or how to wash chintz window shades. Change Winter-killed oil— and here's why to change to OIL-PLATING

Slush in the gutter is scarcely thinner and dirtier than Winter oil over-staying in your engine. Drain now, warns your judgment—and Car Manual! But get more than a re-filled crankcase. Get cylinders, rings, bearings, and other precious parts OIL-PLATED by making sure that you change to Conoco Germ Processed oil—patented.
Your Mileage Merchant puts it in at an ordinary price, in the ordinary way. But how extraordinary is the man-made extra substance in the Conoco formula, that sets Germ Processed oil apart. For here is oil whose strong "power of attraction" makes engine parts draw glossy OIL-PLATING all over themselves and keep holding it close—as drain-proof as plating on hub caps.

Not for one instant can OIL-PLATING go draining "down home" to the crankcase. Though you're speeding the limit or parking long hours, OIL-PLATING is always faithfully maintained. All in addition to the strong oil-film of Germ Processed oil, this drain-proof OIL-PLATING helps to keep down wear. And that's how to keep your engine nearest to the oil economy of its youth. Your correct Germ Processed oil for Spring, at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station today, will give you the change to an OIL-PLATED engine. Continental Oil Company

Oil

LOCATED in all sections of Texas, 141 refineries manufacture into finished petroleum products 80 per cent of the State's crude oil production.

In contrast, Texas processes only 3 per cent of its cotton production and none of its wool or mohair.

Petroleum refining now constitutes 41 per cent of the value of all Texas manufactures.

Of the 226,000 Texans regularly employed by the oil business of the State, 25,000 skilled workmen and 5,000 office employees (a $50,000,000 annual payroll) are employed in this one division of our oil industry.

All of the Texas oil refined in our State, whether used in Texas or shipped to other states, paid last year in taxes an average of 9.8 cents per barrel.

Bottles containing cream or milk should never be left uncovered in the refrigerator. Odors from other foods are quickly absorbed by them.

Hotbeds and cold frames should be located in a sheltered place, either on a south slope, or on the south side of a building, or where protected by a clump of low-growing pines.

LILACS, daisies, daffodils and pansies—a foursome of charming motifs for pillow slips in smartly simple embroidery. Scalloped or crocheted edges, or a wide colored border will effectively set

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Welles Expedition Bears Fruit In Shower of Peace Rumors; Russo-Finnish Truce Forecast

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union

The Wars in Brief

Finnish Front. Soviet troops reached the suburbs of Viipuri, western stronghold of the Mannerheim line. Northeast of Lake Ladoga, the Finns claimed they had destroyed the thirty-fourth Red tank brigade, sent to relieve the badly shredded eighteenth division.

Western Front. Local patrol activity. Nazis reported building pontoon bridges to reach Luxembourg frontier. Aerial reconnaissance increased by both sides.

At Sea. War gain invaded the western hemisphere. A British freighter was attacked 130 miles east of Puerto Rico, and a Nazi freighter burned in the West Indies.

Oriental Front. Chinese claimed one of their Yangtze river mines had downed a Jap destroyer.

Slovakia, Poland, Hungary and Austria; (2) return of former German colonies; and (3) destruction of Britain's control over world sea lanes.

But the Welles expedition was not without profit. Europe had suddenly become filled with peace plans, and all the powers were talking tough about the minimum terms they would accept. This indicated they were at least ready to talk peace.

Welles Sideline

Aside from his announced mission, Sumner Welles was instrumental in two other developments. First, his visit apparently paved the way for a return to Washington of Dr. Hans Dieckhoff, German ambassador recalled in 1938. Second and most important, he had evidently smoothed U. S.-Italian friendship by trying to settle Italy's coal problem. The trouble:

Britain, enforcing her blockade of German exports, had first tried to persuade Italy to buy coal from her instead of the Reich. Failing, she stopped German coal bound for Italy, drawing an angry protest from Rome. Whether by accident or not, Mr. Welles' arrival coincided with reports that Italy would seek a $100,000,000 credit to buy coal from the U. S. Obviously this pleased the allies, for Italy would not only be freed from blockade pressure but would find her cooperation with Germany restricted.

Finnish Loan

Passed by the senate in jig time were house amendments to a bill boosting by $100,000 the Export-Import bank's capital. Purpose: To make loans for non-military purchases to nations whose war debts are not in default. Principal beneficiary was Finland, whose $20,000,000 Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones allocated even before President Roosevelt signed the bill.

Unexpectedly, Mr. Jones also announced loans of $15,000,000 to Sweden and $10,000,000 to Norway, both funds to be used for financing U. S. exports. Happest of all was Finland's Minister Hjalmar J. Procope, who immediately began buying gasoline, oil, grain and vital supplies. Said he: "When the war started, most people thought we would be beaten within two or three days. We've been fighting three months now and we'll fight on, confident that help will come."

U. S. Mediation?

Even more persistent than rumors of an Allied-German peace were reports that Finland and Russia may soon reach a settlement, probably under U. S. sponsorship. European observers who watched Sumner Welles confer with Adolf Hitler also noticed that U. S. Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt broke bread in Moscow with Russian Premier Viacheslav Molotov.

Whether the initiative came from the U. S. or elsewhere, the Finns were indeed ready to talk peace. Sorely tired, they had a choice of accepting Russia's terms or calling for British-French aid (something, contrary to popular opinion, they have not yet done). Some observers thought the mysterious mediator was Sweden, a possibility which might have unhappy consequences. Should Finland be made a sort of Russian Slovakia, Norway and Sweden would be even more firmly held under the Russian-German boot.

CONGRESS:

Politics, Front & Center

Tanned from his Caribbean trip, Franklin Roosevelt stepped back into the White House and began his eighth year as President. A Gallup poll showed 64 per cent of the nation supported his policies, yet only 46 per cent would vote for a third term. Another Gallup poll showed 55 per cent expect a Democrat, F. D. R. or somebody else, to be next President.

Politics, thus evident at the White House, also held sway in congress. As the senate looked favorably on Secretary of State Cordell Hull's reciprocal trade program, Candidate Hull's 1940 presidential stock took a precipitous boost. It jumped still higher when Republican Thomas W. Lamont, a Morgan partner, wrote in support of the trade program in Collier's weekly. Already passed by the house, a resolution to extend the Hull plan three more years seemed a cinch to get through the senate.

U. S. AND THE WARS

America's growing concern with Europe's war made news in early March from Washington to Berlin and Rome. Chief motivating factors were (1) U. S. loans to Finland, approved by congress, and (2) U. S. peace feelers in European chancelleries.

Mr. Welles in Berlin

"Usually reliable sources" vied with "informed quarters" and "unimpeachable sources" to inform America about the success and failure surrounding Sumner Welles' conversations with European leaders. On a peace mission reminiscent of Col. Edward House's junket during the World war, the U. S. undersecretary of state met in Rome with Benito Mussolini, then rushed to Berlin for conferences with Adolf Hitler.

No official announcement followed, but the diplomatic grapevine revealed Der Fuehrer would have no truck with peace projects which gave him anything short of a strangle hold on middle Europe. The most generally reported terms were (1) domination over Czechobum's rush to W. L. Miller, ousted highway chairman. It's been going on for 3 months, ever since Gov. E. D. Rivers fired Chairman Miller on the charge that he was using his office to boost his gubernatorial candidacy. Not to be licked, Oustee Miller appealed to a federal district court. Sustained was his contention that he had been wrongfully deprived of his property. Governor Rivers was ordered to appear in court and answer contempt charges for failing to attend the injunction hearing.

Louisiana

Defeated for the governorship nomination by Sam Houston Jones, Louisiana's Gov. Earl K. Long made frantic efforts to save the remnants of his machine. A rump Democratic central committee nominated Long for secretary of state, but Jones refused to accept him. Next Long called a special session of his once-obedient legislature. Probable aims: (1) to clip the attorney general's extraordinary powers, because an anti-Longster will be the next attorney general; (2) to oust the interim secretary of state and get the post for Long. To a man, the legislature ignored his call.

Idea-of-the-Week

AT NEW KENSINGTON, PA., high school students watched demonstrations of a testing machine powerful enough to flatten a locomotive boiler, yet gentle enough to crack a watch crystal without harming the works. Installed in research laboratories of the Aluminum Company of America, the machine showed how it could squeeze 3,000,000 pounds or pull 1,000,000 pounds. After exerting a million pounds pressure to crack a solid oak tree trunk, the machine staged its neatest trick (above): It cracked the shell of an egg about to hatch. Out stepped an Easter chick.

MEDICINE:

Indeed a Trade

Almost two years ago the U. S. justice department brought suit against the American Medical association, two of its affiliates and 20 individual physicians. Charge: That defendants had violated the Sherman anti-trust act by opposing activities of a group of health association in Washington.

Last July Justice James Proctor of federal district court upheld an A. M. A. demurrer. His argument: The A. M. A. could not be prosecuted under the Sherman act because it was not a "trade." The legal concept of the word "trade" had long been settled, he said, in a Supreme court decision "expressly excepting the learned professions."

Last October the Supreme court refused to pass on the case, but Trust Buster Thurman Arnold was adamant. Up he went to the U. S. court of appeals, which ruled at long last that the indictment was indeed valid, that A. M. A. and other defendants could indeed be prosecuted under the Sherman act. Back went the case to district court for trial.

Sinking City

For years the earth under mid-city Shenandoah, Pa., has been honeycombed with anthracite mine workings, long since abandoned. Early one morning after a 24-hour rain Shenandoahans were awakened by a rumbling. It felt like an earthquake, but everyone knew what had happened. While police scurried about, residents fled from a 16-block area and watched their city sink. After seven hours, some buildings had settled 18 inches. Homes split in two, widening cracks streaked across sturdy brick buildings. Gas and water lines broke and pavements caved in.

UTILITIES:

Death Sentence

Several weeks ago the Securities and Exchange commission threatened to take the initiative unless U. S. utilities voluntarily proposed integration plans as provided under the "death sentence clause" of the 1935 holding company act. By early March, SEC was well at work. The far-flung Middle West corporation, operating 25 companies in some 15 states; Electric Bond & Share company, and Engineers Public Service company were ordered to integrate.

Next day similar orders were issued to the $637,616,000 United Gas Improvement company and the $422,595,000 Cities Service Power & Light company. Both were ordered to show by April 12 how their properties should be reshuffled. (The act requires holding company systems to be integrated into geographic units and simplified in their corporate structure.)

BY TALBOT MUNDY

TALBOT MUNDY—WNU SERVICE

THE STORY THUS FAR

Captain Carl Norwood has been sent from his native England to the Kadur River district in India, along with his indispensable manservant, Moses O'Leary, a valuable secret diamond mine belongs to the temple priests or to the ruler, the Maharajah of Kadur. Norwood calls on the British Residency to pay his initial respects. On his way he catches a glimpse of two women in a palace carriage, one of whom is young and beautiful. The other woman he knows to be the Maharanees of Kadur. O'Leary later tells him that the young woman is an American girl named Lynn Harding, who with her aunt, Mrs. Deborah Harding, is a guest at the palace. On a sightseeing tour Mrs. Harding sprains an ankle, and sends to the palace for aid. Prince Rundhia, handsome, spoiled nephew of the rulers, comes to her rescue, and takes her back to the palace where he meets Lynn. At a banquet that night in the palace, attended by Captain Norwood, Mrs. Harding takes one of the native doctor's pills, and becomes violently ill. She is placed in bed and arrangements are made for Lynn to move out of the quarters with her aunt and stay with the Maharanees. That evening Prince Rundhia attempts to make love to Lynn. She is unwilling to listen to him, and at the crucial moment Norwood appears on the scene much to Rundhia's disgust. O'Leary has located the secret entrance to the diamond mine which is being worked by the temple priests. He takes Norwood to the mine where death is narrowly averted when a live cobra is thrown in Norwood's face. Later Norwood visits the Brahmin priests, one of whom slyly slips a packet of diamonds in his pocket, unknown to Norwood. They are interested as a bribe. While Norwood is talking to Lynn the diamonds fall from his pocket. She notices them, and sees that he is surprised.

When Lynn glanced at Rundhia again, he had his back to the iron chest and he was staring at her, dark-eyed, not smiling—noticeably not. Lynn accepted the unspoken challenge:

"I am sorry I let you kiss me this morning. I shouldn't have. It wasn't fair. It may have given you a wrong impression."

"The correct one being—"

"Oh, I was just being mischievous. It meant nothing."

"No?"

Rundhia eyed her for several seconds without speaking. She didn't feel afraid of him, but every fiber in her being was aware of crisis. Simulating calmness that she did not feel, she almost unconsciously moved the tennis racket from one hand to the other.

"Careful with that," he advised. "Put it down. You might break something. Come over here and see the emeralds."

She did not put down the tennis racket. That would have been obedience. She was obeying no one. It was not obedience that made her walk toward him around the over-loaded table. She was walking straight into danger. She didn't deceive herself about that for a moment. Neither did Rundhia try to deceive her. Passion, confident and self-avowed, glowered in his splendid eyes. They were more arresting than the diamonds in the glass case. He looked bold, experienced, and much more masculinely beautiful than any human being she had ever met. She could feel her heart pounding. And she felt as sure of herself as if she were about to plunge into a warm inviting sea. She didn't hesitate.

"Lynn, I love you!"

"Weren't you going to show me the emeralds?"

Strange, how such tactics checked him. He behaved as he did in the garden the previous night when she mentioned the British Resident and Norwood. It seemed to make him nervous—to remind him of some insufficiency within himself. He glanced past her, at the eyehole in the door, then turned and opened the iron chest. He took out two handfuls of huge emeralds.

"Thousands," she said, "I suppose, are like me. What is it about precious stones that—"

"Thrills you? Sensuous things, aren't they? Feel their magic! Press them against your face! Enjoy them! One of these days they'll be mine. These emeralds are not State property. Lynn! Love me and I'll give them to you!"

"Thank you. I don't want them."

"Maharanees Lynn of Kadur! How would that be? Lynn—"

He moved both arms toward her. She poured back the emeralds into his hands. He had to take them, or they would have crashed to the tiled floor and that might have brought in the guard. Rundhia dumped them back into the chest. Lynn spoke before he could:

"Show me the diamonds, Captain Norwood—"

Rundhia flinched. Lynn noticed it—"wouldn't show me those that he has."

Again she had sent Rundhia's thought off on a tangent. His eyes weren't steady any longer. Lynn followed up:

"They looked like big ones, but he's careless with them. If I hadn't noticed them fall he might have lost them."

"Diamonds?" said Rundhia. "In Norwood's pocket? When?"

"This morning. He let them fall while he was talking to me."

She was already sorry she had said it. Rundhia's eyes darkened with what looked like cunning. Lynn felt safer. Rundhia was running wild along a new line, for the moment. But Lynn felt guilty. She should not have defended herself at Norwood's cost. She hadn't meant to. But she guessed now that she had. It made her self-contemptuous and angry.

"Rundhia, what are you thinking about?"

"You! You only!" His eyes sought hers again. "To hell with Norwood! Lynn, beloved, beautiful, glorious girl—"

Lynn laughed. "Ask Auntie Harding what I am! She saw us!"

"Damn her, what do we care?"

"Captain Norwood also saw us."

"Any of his business?" Rundhia checked again. His eyes darkened.

"Look here, Lynn, I don't like to tell tales about people—"

"Why do it then?"

"You ought to know this. Norwood has been talking."

"About me?"

"Yes. While he was waiting to enter the audience room just now"

The Resident decided to take hatred by the horns.

he asked a palace official where you slept last night."

"I don't believe it."

"The official told me."

"Captain Norwood never would do such a thing."

"Don't you know he's a spy for the British Intelligence? Such fellows haven't a scruple. Do you think I would lie to you?"

"Yes! I know you would! Let's go now, Rundhia. I've seen enough. I want to talk to the Maharanees."

"Merciless! You want to tantalize me? I'm already mad about you! Mad, I tell you! Lynn, do you believe this love that sweeps me like a storm can't conquer you? Do you suppose you can fire my veins, torture my heart—and not burn in the same ecstasy? I said burn! You are as passionate as I am! You are no cold beauty. Come here."

She was against the table. He was pushing her backward. Things were falling off the table. He was kissing her. His face was buried in her hair. She freed her right arm—groped—seized the tennis racket and struck him hard in the face with its edge. Blood. Blood on her frock. Lots of it. Rundhia let go then. He found his handkerchief and held it to his face. Blood.

Lynn gasped, breathless: "What have I done?"

He didn't answer. With the handkerchief to his face he turned away from her.

"Rundhia," she said, "I wouldn't have hurt you for worlds."

"You have broken my heart," he answered.

"Rundhia!"

It was the Maharanees voice. The great teak door had swung open. The Maharanees stood in the doorway, staring, with the guards behind her. She turned and dismissed the guards.

"Rundhia, what have you been doing? There is blood on Lynn's frock! Lynn! Darling, what has he done to you?"

"No harm," Lynn answered. She turned to hide the blood and the rip in her frock.

The Maharanees spoke to Rundhia, in his own language, vehemently, for about a minute. She was at no loss for words. She let him have it with the governed directed anger that cuts like a whip. Then, in English, for Lynn's benefit:

"Don't play for sympathy! That is no more than one of your usual nose-bleeds! Let your doctor attend to it. Go!"

Rundhia strode from the room. The Maharanees came and put her arm around Lynn.

"Lynn, Lynn darling, I am too ashamed to tell you how I feel. Has he hurt you? Are you all right? I have told him I will neither pay his debts nor speak to him again until he has your full forgiveness."

CHAPTER VIII

Norwood could almost physically feel those diamonds in his tunic pocket. He should have asked Lynn not to mention them. He knew that. It was too late to turn back. And besides, she was having a row with her aunt and it wouldn't be cricket to butt in. He wished he hadn't seen Lynn kiss Rundhia. There were two things that Norwood ached to do that minute. One was to punch Rundhia. The other was to go to the temple and throw those diamonds at the high priest.

But that was just the kind of thing that Norwood could be trusted not to do. He knew exactly what he should do. But the Maharajah and his court were waiting to give him official audience. He glanced at his watch. There remained only five minutes in which to reach the palace in time for the appointment, so he mounted his horse at the gate and rode up the long drive to the front door, where he arrived exactly on the minute. The dust wiped the dust from his boots and he strode up the palace steps, expecting to get away within fifteen minutes. But time, in India, is one of lethargy's dimensions.

As a captain, Norwood wasn't entitled to be received from the throne, so the Maharajah sat on a gilded chair at one side of the room, with officials of only second-grade importance on smaller chairs to right and left. The chamberlain stood and read aloud from the instruction for the reception of British captains:

"His Highness now enquires after the visitor's health . . . The visitor responds . . . His Highness is pleased to welcome him . . . His Highness begs him to be seated . . . The visitor sits . . . His Highness . . ."

He was met and impudently detained by the Maharajah's minister of state and four other important members of the Council.

Silently cursing his luck, he did his best to escape. But servile wretches in silken liveries flung open the door of an anteroom.

"Look here, Diwan sahib, I'd be awfully glad to talk things over with you now, but I have urgent business at the Residency."

"Oh, but Captain Norwood, we could phone the Residency."

"That wouldn't help, I'm afraid. I'm not expected there. I need the Resident's advice."

"Ah, but Captain Norwood, is not our need greater? Documents, arguments, some witnesses, are ready now! His Highness has postponed important business to be present. He is waiting in the Council room. This boundary dispute is so urgent and its implications so important, that we feel our impotency is justified. We beg you."

"Oh, well."

Norwood could almost feel those diamonds, burning him through the lining of his tunic pocket. Tension crept into his normally easy manner. The ministers detected it. Tension became mutual.

"I hope you'll bear in mind I'm in a hurry."

Two cars started from Rundhia's palace door within two minutes of each other. Having brought Rundhia's nose-bleed under control, the Bengali doctor drove away first, in the smaller car, for a professional call on Auntie Harding. If he had been going to his own execution, he might have looked equally comfortable. Perhaps he dreaded Auntie Harding's temper, perhaps something else.

Rundhia, a moment or two later, climbed into the new Rolls-Royce and laid his head back on the cushions, to prevent the nose-bleed from recurring. He was still bleeding slightly. He kept dabbing with a handkerchief.

"The British Residency!"

The Russian chauffeur drove like fury, but Rundhia made him slow down near the Residency gate. Though he affected to despise all ceremonial, Rundhia took cynical pleasure in making sure they should turn out the guard. He had phoned to say he was coming, so he was shown into the dim library, where the shades were drawn against the brazen sunlight, and the Resident didn't keep him waiting more than a couple of minutes.

"How are you, Rundhia. How is the new Rolls-Royce behaving?"

Rundhia dabbed at his nose with the handkerchief. "The car is quite well, thank you. How are you?"

They sat in armchairs eyeing each other in comfortless silence for nearly a minute. The Resident, who was feeling drowsy, tried to look firm, but fatherly and cordial. Rundhia was very good indeed at looking insolent without giving actual grounds for offense. He did his best, until the Resident decided to take hatred by the horns:

"Of course, I've no inkling of the reason for this unexpected visit, Rundhia. However, I'm glad you came. There are no witnesses, and, of course, this is off the record. I am taking the opportunity to remind you, once more, privately, that our treaty with this otherwise independent State of Kadur gives to His Majesty's Indian Government the right to veto the succession to the throne of any heir in whom His British Majesty's advisers may lack sufficient confidence."

"I have always been civil to you. But you couldn't like me, even if you tried, could you?" Rundhia retorted.

"I take exception to that," said the Resident. "I have my duty to consider, not my personal likes and dislikes. As a matter of actual fact, I could easily like you, if you would give me the opportunity. When you choose, you can be charming, and you are very intelligent. But on several occasions I have deplored your conduct and have had to speak to you about it. You have recently returned from Delhi. Rumors reached me. Without revealing confidences, I may say they were more than rumors. There are limits beyond which an heir to a throne should not trespass in quest of amusement—or for any other reason. I remind you that your cousin Jodha comes of age this week."

I remind you that your cousin Jodha comes of age this week."

"Jodha is such a crock he couldn't cut up if he tried," said Rundhia. "One leg in the grave. The other's rotten. Why drag him in? He'll be dead soon."

"Failing acceptable heirs, the throne of Kadur can be escheated. I am warning you, Rundhia."

"Thanks! I have heard you. Now it's my turn and I'll warn you. It's what I came for. Who is this Captain Norwood? I notice you didn't present him at the palace. He came alone. Why? Are you keeping your hands off? Why does he carry diamonds in his tunic pocket? Why is he nervous when someone happens to see them? Is he one of your British gentlemen who never—never under any circumstances, never take a bribe? From a priest, for instance—to report, according to his honorable conscience, in the priests' favor!"

IT'S FORD ACROSS THE BOARD

Run in Texas by Texas Labor

Leadership in all 7 BASIC ESSENTIALS OF A GREAT LOW-PRICED CAR

In the major things, the big things, the real things that make you want a car—all 7 of them—Ford takes commanding leadership. Here is where Ford excels:

1 GOING POWER: The kind of power that only the V-8 engine can provide—the instant response, lightning acceleration, marvelous economy and swift, smooth, faithful performance. 6,000,000 Ford V-Eights—more than all other Eights combined—say this is the power plant for you!

2 STOPPING POWER: The big, straight-line stopping hydraulic brakes of the Ford V-8 are far and away the biggest in the low-priced field—a safety factor you've got to have in the new car you buy.

3 POWER TO HOLD THE ROAD: No car in any price field excels Ford in roadability—in keeping "all four feet on the ground" under all driving conditions. This means safety plus comfort.

4 SMOOTHNESS: Not only in amazing power does the Ford V-8 engine excel, but in the smoothness that gives velvet quiet. Everyone knows no car of fewer cylinders can match an Eight in smoothness.

5 STAMINA: In staying power there is no car that can take the rough with the smooth like Ford. There are more Fords on the highway than any other make of car. This sturdy Ford is made to take it!

6 STYLE: Ford set the current modern trend in beauty of lines. And Ford's unequalled paint job makes its beauty permanent.

7 COMPLETE ECONOMY: The combination of low price, low cost of operation, high trade-in value and more extras at no extra cost, makes the Ford the great economy buy for 1940.
