To The Voters of Precinct No. 3.

I desire to announce my candidacy for re-election to the office of County Commissioner of precinct No. 3.

I have done my best in the past to make a good commissioner, not only for Precinct No. 3, but for the whole of Coke County. If re-elected I will continue to fully cooperate with the Commissioners court, and to render the best possible service to my precinct.

Thanking you all for your vote and influence, and pledging myself to render you the best service possible I am,

Sincerely yours,
T. R. Harmon.

Forty-Second Tournament To Be Held

The Band Parents Club is sponsoring the forty-second tournament at the Robert Lee High School Gym at 7 o'clock Friday, Jan. 23. Admission 25c for two, or 15c for one. Free refreshments will be served.

A prize of Defense Stamps will be given to high score winner. Everybody Invited.

Mrs. Ike Millican was carried to the hospital last Friday for treatment.

Baptist W. M. S.

The society met on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Paul Good in their program on "Stewardship" with Mrs. Good in charge.

Mrs. Bob Read gave the devotional, Mrs. J. C. Snead sang. Bring all the Tithes into his store house; Mrs. H. C. Allen talked on "Stewardship of Time and Personality"; and Mrs. Young on Stewardship of Money, Mrs. B. M. Gramling conducted the Bible quiz.

After the business session the hostess served refreshments to 12 members present and one visitor Mrs. Emery Davis.

Wanted Employees

Thousands of additional employees will be needed to meet the demand for increased airplane production. North American Aviation, Inc. at Dallas Tex.

The employment policy applies to women as well as men. More than 95 percent of the employees in North American Aviation's Dallas plant are Texans. Any competent man or woman who can qualify to meet the demands is eligible for employment.

Nutrition In Wartime

Here are the five foods you need to eat everyday to maintain robust health:

1. Milk
2. Eggs, with meat substituted occasionally
3. Leafy vegetables
4. Fresh fruit
5. Whole wheat or soybean bread.

E. F. Smith

E. F. Smith, candidate for Chief Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals for the Third Supreme Judicial District at Austin, was here this week in the interests of his candidacy.

Judge Smith is a member of the Texas State Bar, the bar of several United States District Court the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans, and the Supreme Court of the United States.

When he was a young man, E. F. Smith served as an assistant to Attorney General C. M. Cureton and as first assistant to Attorney General W. A. Keeling. Prior to that he had been twice elected president of the Snyder School Board. He has engaged in the private practice of law in Austin for the past eighteen years. He is co author of a treatise on Appellate Court Procedure, author of Steck's Corporation Forms and a Saga of Texas Law. He is an honorary member of the National Association of Authors and Journalists.

E. F. Smith's candidacy is something new in Texas judicial circles. Instead of the great corporations who have important litigations to be decided by the court, indirectly paying the expenses of his campaign, he is personally paying his own expenses. His election will assure the people of a judge whose sole obligation will be to all the people.

Judge Smith and his wife are West Texans.

How Coke County Farmers Can Help Lick The Japs

Collection and sale of scrap iron and steel is only one of the many ways Coke County farmers can help lick the Japs, the Nazis and the fascists, according to R. B. Allen, chairman of the Coke County USDA defense board.

Growing needs of a nation at war serve to intensify demand for steel and strap iron to feed the hungry mouths of arms factories, the defense board chairman said.

Urgent appeal is also made to the public to gather up steel and scrap and carry it to nearest dealers for use in charging the nations steel furnaces. A list of dealers for the county are on file in the local AAA office and may be consulted any time, he said.

"We are not asking that you give your scrap to your country. We're asking that you sell it at prevailing prices for immediate defense use," Mr. Allen said in explaining that financial returns cannot be expected to be large but results will be of untold value to farmers in their whole victory effort.

Mr. Allen explained that prices for scrap vary in different sections since dealers deduct costs of transporting scrap from shipping point to mill, as well as preparation charges.

"It's just another way of saying that we're at our posts on the farm front," the chairman said. "We're in this war to win, and each of us will have to do his part to get the job done."

Silver News

Mrs. R. B. Allen and daughter Esther returned home last week from a three weeks stay at Winslow Ariz, and Los Angeles Calif. visiting with Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Clas. Allen and Verdon Allen. The last three accompanied Mrs. Allen home for a few days visit.

Speed Up of U. S. War Production And Reports of Russian Victories Cheer Allied Nations, Although Axis Gains in Malaya and Philippines

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Two government officials "on edge"?

JESSE JONES—RFC administrator and secretary of commerce, pictured sitting on desk as he listens to Representative Dingell of Michigan charging that the army was building new production plants while many others were idle.

LEON HENDERSON—Price administrator, as he appeared before the senate committee on small business. He and representatives of the retail automobile trade are in search for means to cushion the economic shock which car dealers face.

THE WAR: Up and Down

The war had become an up and down affair, with the Russians winning all along their huge front, the British gaining victories in North Africa with the Germans on the run, and the Japanese generally in the ascendancy on the Philippine and Singapore fronts, but taking a continued whipping at the hands of the Chinese.

Such was the situation as there was no longer any question but that the large and well-equipped army of the United States was on the move to join battle actively in the war, though the detailed whereabouts of that participation was still a closely guarded secret.

Estimates of when the tide of the battle of the ABCD forces against the Japanese in the southwest Pacific would change varied considerably.

Some observers felt it would be weeks, others months, some who were more pessimistic felt it would be a year before enough American pressure could be brought to bear to produce a definite change in the battle.

But that victory would be won in the end, nobody seemed to doubt. They watched the United States moving troops and ships, producing faster and faster more powerful armaments, moving to put new soldiers and sailors into uniform, and could see but one result, eventual victory, perhaps in 1943.

RUSSIA:

Brightest Spot

The Russian front continued to furnish the brightest picture from the Allied standpoint.

Moscow had begun to report mass surrenders of German troops without fighting. The Reds also reported large masses of Nazi soldiers in rapid retreat to the southwest from the upper central front, abandoning much war material.

The sieges of Sevastopol and Leningrad have definitely been broken, and their garrisons had swept out beyond the city borders to engage retreating Germans and to attempt to form junctions with other Russian troops.

The radio broadcasts picked up from Germany tacitly admitted the situation was serious. One described it as a "crisis, but one with which Adolf Hitler will know how to deal."

Hitler was believed to be planning some sort of major coup, but the nature of it could not be guessed at. He also was variously reported as facing tremendous internal pressure as a result of his break with Von Brauchitsch.

There also had been reports that crack German reinforcements were being flown by gliders to the Russian front to attempt to bolster the cracking Nazi defenses.

MAC ARTHUR:

Tough

Only fragmentary reports at wide intervals, testimony to the increasing difficulties of communications, were coming from the Philippines.

Some military commentators saw hope for General MacArthur and his defending forces if they could hold out for three weeks more.

MALAYA:

'At All Costs'

While the British were seriously being forced backward and ever backward in Malaya, losing the capital of the Federated Malay States, Kuala Lumpur, Sir Henry Pownall, the commander in the Singapore defense, made the statement that the British plan was divided into two general parts, first the slowing or stopping of the Japanese attack; second, the turning of the British to the offensive and driving the invaders out. He said:

"We are now engaged in the first of these activities."

Returning British wounded, however, paid tribute to the fighting qualities of the Japs, and members of Commando groups said that when confronted with the cold steel the Japs would scramble up into tall trees, from which they would hurl grenades on the British "like monkeys with explosive coconuts."

They were said to be adept at hiding in small places, and that at times furious fire would come from directions in which it did not seem possible that soldiers could find cover.

R.A.F. activity over the peninsula was constantly on the increase, however, and American-made bombers, some of them flown by Eagle fliers with the volunteer Chinese air force, were bombing Japanese bases in Thailand and Indo-China from Burmese flying fields.

The picture was not generally optimistic in Malaya, but it was regarded as far from hopeless, at least at present.

PRODUCTION:

On Home Front

All over the United States groups of workers were getting together and adopting resolutions to speed up their effort, and some factories producing war materials were reporting as much as 70 per cent added output since the declaration of war.

Ships of war were being launched and put into commission as rapidly as possible. The Liberty ships were going into the water at scores of shipyard ways.

Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, received several large new gliders for test, gliders said to have a wingspread of 80 feet, probably capable of transporting soldiers in large numbers.

Swiftly they had been put under test, their pilots from the new schools which are training men to manage these motorless ships, which possibly may be towed in "trains" to be released over territory in which it is desired to land troops.

In the invasion of Crete, Germany used hundreds of them, reportedly landing 15,000 troops that way, also large numbers of light field guns and ammunition.

The newest glider training school is at Twenty-Nine Palms, Calif., turning out classes every four weeks, the students being already graduate pilots.

The gliders were so large that in transporting them from factory to Wright field by trailer truck they had to be broken into two assemblies.

Expanded War Program Will Touch Every Home

All Phases of National Life to Feel Effects of Changes Brought About 'Colossal' Economy; Tire, Car Curbs Are Mere Beginning.

By BAUKHAGE

National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N-W, Washington, D. C.

In less time than it takes to read this column a new airplane should be completed—that is, if the program outlined by the President in his message on the state of the Union is carried out.

That seems like a large order. It is. But this is what the President has planned for 1942: 60,000 new planes, 45,000 new tanks, 20,000 new anti-aircraft guns, 8,000,000 tons of merchant shipping. Since there are only 8,760 hours in the year, if the OPM is to meet the President's goals, planes will have to roll out of the factories at the rate of one every eight minutes, tanks at the rate of one every 11 minutes, anti-aircraft guns at the rate of one every 25 minutes, and shipping at the rate of 15 tons a minute.

America's resources may be unlimited, but human comprehension is not. Ever since that message was delivered in congress, Washington has been straining in an attempt to comprehend those colossal figures.

Already some of the effects are being translated in terms of human experience—you know if you have tried to buy a tire or an automobile. Other even more painful experiences are ahead. One of them is the unemployment which is coming while the civilian industry is being converted to defense production.

Small Plants Hit

It means that some 133,000 small plants will close their doors for good. They are too small to be converted. Their workers and supervisors, if they are competent, will be able to find employment elsewhere.

It means that thousands of salesmen who sell, not merely refrigerators, ice boxes and juke boxes, vacuum cleaners and electric toys, but other things which we once thought were necessities will stop selling. They may have to take off their white collars.

A survey of some thousand middle sized manufacturing concerns now turning out defense products has been made by the labor department. It revealed that three-fourths of the plants were working on three shifts already. Remember that was before the President tossed off his new production figures and the OPM "raised its sights" to meet them. But in these plants it was found that the second and third shifts used only half the man-power employed in the first shift. Right there is a 50 per cent increase in employment. These were plants selected as typical.

Someone will have to fill those extra shifts and a great many others. It will mean that a lot of "brainworkers" will have to work their hands. When a nation suddenly turns over 50 per cent of its income to defense production, it means that the man in search of a job has less than half a chance at getting any other kind of work.

In our homes, the effect of war measures has already made itself felt. Wool is rationed already. That is because even with all our sheep we depend on Australia and the Argentine for wool. We haven't the ships to bring it here. And we are getting ready to clothe an army of 5,000,000 men. Other restrictions will come.

In his budget message, the President hinted that we might have to carry ration cards the way the Europeans do before the war is over. That is more of a threat perhaps, than a prediction but it is worth remembering before we get too complacent.

Fertilizer 'Rationing'

Already the farmer is being rationed though he may not realize it. Take fertilizer, for instance:

First, the nitrates. All synthetic nitrates have to go into munitions. The one word nitro-glycerine reminds you of that. Natural nitrates have other things in them, so the army is after those, too. But since they come from Chile, they have to come in ships. And there are few ships for this purpose.

Second, phosphates. They come from Florida, Wyoming and Idaho. But they come in rocks. You can see a whole pile of these rocks right over in Baltimore. But it takes sulphuric acid to "digest" them. Sulphuric acid is needed for munitions.

Third, sprays. Formaldehyde is a vital part of many sprays. Also, it is needed to disinfect stored grain and to remove smut and fungus from grain before seeding. But formaldehyde is necessary in the production of plastics to dissolve the woody material. And plastics! They are needed as substitutes for many essential metals.

Fourth, copper sulphate. There is no need to comment when you consider the part copper plays in war.

When it comes to rubber, the farmer, like everybody else is affected. The difference is that some farmers are going to be making rubber the next few years.

Out in California the climate produces the best Gayule plants. And there will be acres and acres of these plants cultivated. It takes some time—but some are already growing. A two-year-old crop will produce 900 pounds of very good rubber per acre. The trouble is that you have to dig up the plant to get the latex—it comes from the roots.

Then, of course, there is synthetic rubber, but I am not allowed to reveal the figures, which are going to play a lot more important part than many of our enemies think in our victory production. There are also the big cultivated rubber plantations in Brazil and Central America run by Ford and Goodyear, there is the wild rubber from the Amazon. And most important of all, there is the contribution that the most auto-minded people in the world are going to have to make—the privilege of not buying tires for America's 27,000,000 pleasure cars.

The privilege of "not buying" is going to be extended. There will be no more gadgets and there will be a lot less money to buy even the necessities when we pay our share of the bill for building the greatest war machine in history. A machine so big and so destructive that perhaps it will destroy war itself.

Weather Information And Broadcasting

The highly interesting yearbook just issued by the department of agriculture is devoted to climate and weather. It appears just when for the first time in American history it is worse than a crime to discuss the weather—that is if you talk loud enough to be overheard by enemy ears. A few weeks ago the navy department released an official communique severely blaming a commentator who mentioned the weather in Dakota. He gave out information that the navy said may have been the cause of increased submarine activity in the eastern Atlantic.

In Washington we are not permitted to mention even yesterday's weather on the air. This ruling seemed a bit far-fetched to me. In commenting on the fact to an official I told the story of what happened to me when I was broadcasting from Berlin just after the war broke out. On a beautiful moonlight evening I blandly announced over the short wave that "it was a fine night for an air raid." Nobody objected to that. There had been no air raids and the question had never been raised. But the next night it was different. No more description of the current weather. I was told by the military censor—"You can talk about last night's weather but not tonight's," he said.

I asked my Washington friend why, if Berlin let me talk about last night's weather I couldn't do the same thing here. "Weather," he answered, "moves from west to east. Berlin's weather moved off where it didn't matter in 24 hours. Washington's weather moves right into the eastern Atlantic where knowledge of it might benefit raiders."

"Without disparaging in the least the huge metropolitan dailies, with circulations running into the hundreds of thousands and occasionally into the millions—and I say they are the best daily newspapers in the world—it is to the weekly newspapers and the small-town daily newspapers that I, myself, turn for information, guidance and inspiration, especially in the case of problems and questions affecting the public welfare."—Sen. Arthur Capper in the U. S. senate.

Household Hints

Paintbrushes, when not in use, should be soaked in turpentine and washed in warm soapsuds before they are stored away.

If potatoes are placed on the broiler rack instead of the floor of the oven they will bake quicker.

Don't keep green bananas in the refrigerator. They ripen at room temperature.

Keep spices tightly covered and away from the heat. Otherwise, much of the flavor may be lost.

Vitamins Required for Youthful Health, Looks

WHEN winter comes, can sniffles be far behind? They can if you've the live, singing, joyous health that vitamins give you. We need all the vitamins to keep our youth and looks. But we specially need foods containing vitamin A—yellow fruits and carrots, sweet potatoes and parsley—if we'd resist infections such as the common cold.

Such a diet need cost no more than the meals you have now! Our 32-page booklet suggests menus bursting with vitamins, gives "Keep Fit Diet" and a chart showing vitamin content of everyday foods. Explains role of vitamins in retaining health, energy, looks. Tells 10 ways to preserve vitamins in cooking. Send your order to:

Advertising creates new wealth by showing people new and better ways of living, and as it creates new wealth it contributes to the prosperity of everyone touched by the flow of money which is set up. In this way, don't you see, advertising is a social force which is working in the interest of every one of us every day of the year, bringing us new wealth to use and enjoy.

Old Lead Roof

In 1274, a roof of sheet lead, one-quarter of an inch thick, was installed on the Cathedral of St. Maurice in Angers, France., says Collier's. Today, this lead, owing to inadequate hardening and centuries of exposure, is only one-thirty-second of an inch thick at the ridge and in 10-inch folds at the eaves.

INSTALLMENT NINE

THE STORY SO FAR: Larry Cutter startled pretty Jacqueline (Jack) Anthony, public stenographer at the Hotel Rayne, by telling her that she could realize her globe-trotting ambitions by marrying him. She accepted his proposal, and they were married after signing a contract providing that he is to care for her, and that she may continue to live as she is living for six months, after which she could tear up the contract. He gave her $10,000 in U. S.

bonds as surety. She cashed a $1,000 bond when her father, Vince Anthony, needed an operation. Detective Staples told Jacqueline that he was watching Larry. Now continue with the story.

Before the afternoon was over, Jacqueline had made her decision. That first feeling of hurt, because Larry had not let her know he was back, vanished. He must be warned. He must be!

But how? There was a problem. It would be simple enough to call his room, but dangerous. Even if she went into the nearby drug shop and called from a booth, the conversation might be overheard. The lieutenant might be checking on Larry's calls. But she could write him a note.

There was the solution! Type it. Use no signature and place it in a plain envelope. Jacqueline felt a little thrill run up her spine. She was trying to outwit the police.

In her excitement, she was able to appreciate the humor of that letter. The first one she ever had written to her husband. And to tell him—of all things—that the police were on his trail.

Actually, she guarded her information a little more closely than that. But she hoped Larry would understand.

She left the office promptly at closing time and went three blocks out of her way to put the note in the postoffice, looking guiltily over her shoulder as she thrust the envelope through the slot.

The first working hour of the next morning was taken up by a customer who was maddeningly slow with his dictation. About the time he seemed near the hoped-for finish of his work, Jacqueline glanced into the lobby just in time to see Larry passing.

He gave her a bright smile which she returned mechanically, then began typing once more. From the corner of her eye, however, she watched her husband drop into a chair and unfold his newspaper. That meant he was coming in as soon as her customer left.

Before the client was finished, Jacqueline had assured herself that Lieutenant Staples was not in sight.

Then, Larry looming in the doorway. His familiar drawing voice asking: "Is Miss Sherlock Home?"

Then Larry had received his note and understood the message!

Jacqueline's sense of relief was so great that she repressed a thankful exclamation with difficulty.

Larry dropped into the official chair and produced some papers from his pocket. His face was perfectly sober, but there was a glint of amusement in his dark eyes, as he said, "Just one letter, please."

He paused as Jacqueline inserted a sheet in the machine with fingers that trembled slightly.

"This is just a personal letter . . ." Larry raised his head and stared up at the ceiling, as though giving his entire concentration to the composition. "Dear Jack," he began.

A few staccato taps of the keys. Silence.

"Yours of the nineteenth instant received . . . contents carefully noted. Please accept my thanks for information contained. I am somewhat at a loss to know how this particular data came to your attention, but I am accepting it gratefully. I was not particularly surprised to read what you had to say and will be pleased to discuss the matter more in detail when the opportunity presents itself. I hope it may be soon. Paragraph.

"With renewed assurances of my appreciation, I beg to remain yours very . . . sincerely. That's all."

Without changing his tone, Larry continued, "Tell me in an off-hand fashion where I can see you tonight. It's important. Please."

Jacqueline took the sheet from her machine and looked over the few lines as if to assure herself there were no errors. She held it out gravely, saying in a low tone: "Tonight. Baxter street entrance of the South Side Hospital. Nine o'clock. Twenty-five cents."

Larry rose to his feet, chuckling silently as he reached in his pocket for the change.

"You're superb." Then he added rapidly, "Don't forget that my Montreal friends are Todman, Kell, Limited. Thanks."

"Todman, Kell . . ." Jacqueline found herself repeating as Larry walked away without another word. Why did he say that? Oh . . . Now, she knew. If anyone were to ask her to whom he had written, she was at liberty to mention that firm. She wouldn't, though.

This was a dreadful game she was playing . . . and fascinating. She always had been longing for adventure and now she was in the midst of one that might end . . . She shivered a little and tried to forget that.

Jacqueline was Dr. Kennedy's first visitor that night, making the stop at his office before going to see her father. Vince's operation was scheduled for tomorrow at eleven.

"I don't believe there is the slightest cause for apprehension," was the doctor's comforting report. "Your father has responded very nicely to treatment. I'm not looking for any complications. If I were you, I should go to work tomorrow as usual. You can call up the hospital in the afternoon. If anything should happen, I'll see that you hear at once. That's a promise."

"Surely?"

"Absolutely. By evening, you should be able to see him. Trot along now and don't worry."

But it was not so easy to be cheerful when she found herself with Vince. She couldn't bear the thought of anything happening to him.

At nine o'clock, Jacqueline gave her father a lingering kiss. She left the room, smiling at him through her tears and waving a cheerful little farewell. Then out through one of the side entrances to Baxter street.

Parked in the shadows was a long roadster from which Larry leaped when he heard Jacqueline's step.

"You're very prompt," was his greeting. "Hop in. We'll take a little spin somewhere and talk as we go."

Jacqueline said nothing until they were some distance from the hospital. Larry might have guessed the reason for her preoccupation, for he asked quietly, "Visiting the sick tonight?"

"My father."

"What! You mean he's a patient? Why, I thought . . . I mean, I didn't know he was in the city."

"He has been in the hospital for a little time."

"Come home sick, then. That's tough. Nothing serious, I hope."

"He's going to be operated on tomorrow. The doctor thinks there is no danger."

"I wish I had known. Is there anything at all I can do for him? Doctors or nurses . . .?"

"Oh, no." Larry had gotten all these things for Vince, but he didn't know it.

"Care to tell me?"

"Larry . . ." she burst out miserably. "Vince has been in town all the time! He kept out of my way until . . . until he finished one of his inventions and . . ." Her voice was breaking treacherously.

"I see," Larry offered easily. "He wanted to surprise you. And he was taken sick instead."

"Larry . . ." she began, "I couldn't manage about Vince . . . I had to use some of your money . . ."

"My money!"

"Those bonds."

"Whatever are you talking about? Those are yours . . . yours to use in any way you like."

"I know . . . but I couldn't. You don't understand. I won't spend any more than I have to, and then I will put it back. If I didn't . . ."

"If you didn't, you'd think you had sold yourself. That's what you're trying to say, isn't it?"

"Yes."

"Wish you could forget it. I'm only too glad to do anything I can for your dad . . . But we'll fix it any way you like. When is the operation?"

"At eleven."

"Going to the hospital?"

"The doctor thought I'd better wait until afterwards . . . until evening. He promised to call me, in case . . ."

"I get you. I'll tell you what I'll do. If you don't mind my passing myself off as a friend of the family, I'll drop around and make sure that everything's all right. Okay?"

"That would be awfully good of you."

"It's all in the family . . . so to speak. And now that that's out of our systems, I want to talk about something else. I'm curious about that note of yours."

"Would you rather I hadn't sent it?"

"It was mighty square of you, Jack. But there's one thing I can't figure. How did you get wise to the cops?"

"That was really an accident. Lieutenant Staples . . . he's a detective who is around the hotel quite often. He happened in the office, just visiting . . . Then, right out of a clear sky he asked me if I ever had written any letters for you . . . "Just like that, eh? Your friend Lieutenant Staples apparently is a discerning gentleman. Do you mind telling me how he got my footprints under his magnifying glass?"

"Don't you see? He figured, if you had been staying at the Rayne, you might have dictated letters to me and . . ."

"And you weren't able to tell him what they were about. That's where our hero ran into a stone wall."

"When he described you," she admitted quietly, "I did remember that you had given me several business letters. And that was all I did tell him."

Her pride would not let her demand an explanation.

Vince's welfare seemed the only real important thing in the world just now. If anything should go wrong tomorrow . . . Larry's quick sympathy and desire to be of help had touched her strangely. His very nearness brought comfort . . . He was so big and dependable.

Larry broke the silence. "Look here, Jack. I don't know whether that gum-shoe gave you a bum steer on purpose or not. I was rather looking for something like that to happen, but I didn't think you'd be worried with it. I told you that fate was in all this, and you've helped me a lot tonight. That's all I'm going to say because you've got troubles enough of your own without packing any on my account. Could you eat anything, provided we can find any place that looks inviting?"

"Oh, no. I think, perhaps, we should turn back now. It's getting late."

"Whatever Her Highness commands."

Nothing was said after that until Larry slowed at a busy intersection a mile from Courtland street. Jacqueline laid her hand suddenly on his arm.

"I think you'd better let me out here. I can take a car."

"Why?"

"I just happened to remember . . ."

"Nonsense! There's no danger of that. I'll see you home, of course."

A few squares from the apartment house, Larry said quietly, "Don't worry about tomorrow, Jack. I'm going over to the hospital and stick around until it's over. Just as soon as I get definite word, I'll give you a ring. You can depend on me."

"Thank you . . . so."

"Righto." He brought the car to a quick halt in front of number 907. "Coast's clear. Run."

CHAPTER VIII

Jacqueline never forgot the long hours of that next morning. Fortunately, she was quite busy. But it did not keep her thoughts from straying constantly to the hospital and wondering how her father had come out of the operation.

When Larry finally called at one-thirty, her hands were shaking so that she scarcely could hold the receiver to her ear. Larry's voice was quiet and reassuring.

"Everything's fine."

"Oh . . . Are you sure?"

"Perfectly. I've just talked to Dr. Kennedy himself. No complications, he tells me. Nothing to worry about, so far. I guess you thought I had forgotten you. But, you see, an operation is like a procession. They never start on time."

Larry did not see fit to tell her that Kennedy had added he had found Anthony's condition somewhat more involved than he had thought and that the operation was long and tedious. But successful.

"I'm so glad! And so . . . much obliged," said a choked little voice at the other end of the wire.

"Glad to be of some use. By the way, the doctor thinks your dad will be able to see you after dinner."

"I'll go to him as soon as I can."

"Fine. Good-by."

It was not until she had her first glimpse of Vince that the girl realized what an ordeal her father had been through. His face was pinched and very white.

Jacqueline leaned over him and placed her hand on his forehead. "Vince" . . . she whispered softly.

His eyes opened slowly and looked up into her anxious face. "Hello, Skipper."

For more than an hour, Jacqueline sat motionless in a chair close beside the bed holding her father's thin hand. Watching him as he slept.

Good Coffee Often Dispels Early Morning Ill-humor

Do screen stars like coffee? Lovely Maureen O'Sullivan seems to give proof of a positive answer. When this pert Hollywood personality drinks her brew, it's from a cup three times the regular size.

IRITATIONS, discouragements, those early-morning squabbles, very often can be easily dissolved with a cup of hot steaming coffee, whose delicious flavor is bound to cure any ill-humor. So, if you want to add buoyancy to your own disposition, as well as to others, here are some coffee-making methods that will turn you into a veritable good-will ambassador. Be sure that your coffee pot is scrupulously clean. Wash it thoroughly after each using with plenty of soap and hot water and then rinse thoroughly with hot water. Be sure to clean such parts as the spout and any tubes or baskets in the pot. Use fresh coffee. The flavor of roasted coffee deteriorates rapidly when in contact with the air. To insure freshness you can use vacuum-packed coffee or one that bears a roasting date not more than 2 or 3 days previous to the date of purchase. Use as fine a grind as is possible with your coffee pot. Too fine a grind will give a muddy brew. Too coarse a grind will make it difficult to extract the flavor. The proportions of coffee and water suggested below suit the average taste and are intended as recommendations only. You can use any ence. In any case, always measure the coffee and water carefully. Use standard measuring cups and spoons.

Steeping Method: Measure 2 level tablespoonfuls of coffee for each standard measuring cupful of water into the pot. Pour the measured amount of boiling water over the coffee and stir well. Cover and let stand on an asbestos mat over low heat or in a warm place 6 to 10 minutes. Strain.

Percolator Method: Measure cold water into the percolator and 2 level tablespoonfuls of coffee for each measuring cupful of water into the basket. Cover and place over heat. Allow water to percolate slowly over the coffee for 7 to 10 minutes (timing should begin when a slight color appears in water seen in glass top). Remove basket with grounds as soon as coffee has percolated a sufficient length of time.

Drip Method: Preheat the pot with boiling water. Measure 2 level tablespoonfuls of coffee for each measuring cupful of water into the upper compartment. Pour the measured boiling water over the coffee. Cover and let stand on an asbestos mat over low heat or in a warm place where coffee will keep hot, but not boil. The water should drip through in 6 or 10 minutes. When dripping is completed, remove upper compartment with grounds.

Vacuum Method: Measure water into lower bowl and apply heat. Do not place upper bowl in position until the water boils. Adjust the filter in the upper part and measure in 2 level tablespoonfuls of coffee for each standard measuring cupful of water. Place on lower bowl. Water will almost immediately be forced through center tube into upper level. When all but the small amount of water below the bottom of the tube has risen, stir the mixture in the upper bowl. Turn off the electric current or turn the gas flame very low. (The water should remain in the upper bowl 2 to 3 minutes — 2 minutes for a very fine grind and 3 minutes for a very coarse grind.) The coffee should then return to the lower bowl. (The cooling of the lower bowl creates a vacuum which draws the coffee down into the lower compartment.) Remove the upper bowl. Coffee is at its best when freshly made, therefore serve it once with sugar and cream to suit the individual taste. Do not attempt to use left-over brew or once-used grounds when

Fear Main Cause of Middle Age Jitters

ANY one in the forties or fifties is apt to contract that needless disease, middle-age jitters. Just when you should be enjoying this period of life, you keep wishing you were young and never had to be old.

A variety of fears, writes Raymond Fuller in the December Cosmopolitan magazine, beset the middle aged, such as fear of ill health, fear of old age, fear of losing one's job, fear of ceasing to be loved. Fears, he says, are not necessarily fanciful. But the brave are not the fearless. They are those who face and conquer their fearfulness.

To allay this fear, Mr. Fuller suggests a periodical examination by your physician. If something is wrong the treatment will make the world look a lot brighter; if nothing is wrong, then you needn't worry. Have more recreation and fun, he urges middle-aged people. Keep on learning new things. Serve your community and country. Then, to keep abreast of the current "accent on youth" trend, associate with young people. Take an interest in them, learn their ideas.

Fear, Fuller concludes, is a middle-aged person's worst enemy, confidence his strongest ally. Once he has recovered from middle-age jitters he may achieve a new kind of happiness, even a greater degree of usefulness than he ever knew in earlier life.

Lucky Breaks By Dorothy Thomas

(Reprinted from December Cosmopolitan)

OSA Johnson's Lucky Break came on a train from Rochester to New York. It was a hunch. George Eastman had just refused to finance the Johnsons' long-dreamed-of expedition to British East Africa on the ground that it was private enterprise. The younger explorers were pretty gloomy. "Martin, I think we should turn right around and go back to see Mr. Eastman. He'd be interested in an expedition of some value to others. We can make a photographic record of Africa's wild life for the world to see." The new slant caught Mr. Eastman's imagination. He gave them $10,000 and permission to use his name to raise further money. Osa's hunch on that train paved the way for many things.

STRIKES FOR FREEDOM

Science Develops Substitutes To Battle Serious Shortages

MANY average Americans are jumpy about the shortages of raw materials used in the manufacture of civilian products. The famed American standard of living, they feel, is about to be wrecked by the all-out defense effort.

Just how bad are shortages? Unless you are close to Washington, you will never dream how many things are threatened, answers Greeta Palmer in the January Cosmopolitan magazine. But the crisis has given rise to an immense development of substitutes, Miss Palmer says. The watchdogs of your personal welfare—the chemists, engineers and manufacturers of private industry—refuse to be licked by priorities denying them the usual materials out of which they make their products. Defense has proved the mother of invention. Men, under pressure, think fast, and they have telescoped the originality and inventiveness of fifty years into ten months.

Miss Palmer cites as a typical example, the case of cooking utensils. When aluminum was withdrawn from the makers of pots and pans, they turned to the consideration of enamelware. Today, she says, there is a strong incentive to turn out the very excellent enamelware that could have been sold for several years past, for its wearing qualities have been greatly improved.

The aluminum shortage also stimulated glass manufacturers to see what they could do in developing a glass that would bear up under the considerable heat required for a frying pan or a broiler. Just such a superior glass has now been brought out. These are only two of a vast number of substitutes growing each day through intensive research. Scientists, Miss Palmer says, have used the presence of scarcities as their greatest inspiration since the Industrial Revolution.

Protein Vital In U. S. Health Defense Effort

An army of nutrition workers, scientists, physicians and others in the public health field are engaged in an all-out health defense effort to conquer malnutrition, now recognized as America's No. 1 health problem.

In this program to make America strong by making Americans stronger, feeding the family is the homemaker's most important task. It is a task made easier by a knowledge of good nutrition and of the factors necessary in an adequate diet.

Value of Protein

Among the diet factors, protein ranks first as a body-builder. About 18 per cent of the human body consists of protein. No life exists without it. Protein is necessary for building and repairing body tissues. It furnishes energy and it also enters into the structure of certain hormones which have a specific action on vigor and general efficiency.

The word, "protein" was coined in 1838 by Mulder, a Dutch chemist, from the Greek word, "proteios," meaning "in first place." Proteins differ greatly because they are made up of various amino acids known as "building stones." When protein is digested these amino acids are set free and are reconstructed to fit the needs of each body cell.

A plentiful protein supply is imperative for good health. Persons subsisting on low-protein diets show slowness in mental reaction, lowered resistance to disease and other ill effects. Authorities recommend about 1/2 gram or preferably 2/3 gram per pound of body weight as the daily protein requirement. Thus a man weighing 155 pounds requires about 100 grams of protein daily—about 3.5 ounces. Children require two to three times as much protein per unit of body weight as adults.

Protein in Reducing Diet

Contrary to former beliefs that high protein diets cause kidney disease, physicians now use such diets in treating kidney ailments. Dr. Leo K. Campbell, Rush Medical College, Chicago, has shown that on diets high in protein, overweight persons lost 8 to 12 pounds monthly. He also proved the value of a high-protein diet for weight gaining.

Protein Content of Common Foods

Because they contain all necessary amino acids, proteins of animal origin—meat, milk, cheese and eggs—rank highest nutritionally and are called "complete" proteins. Half of the daily protein intake should be of animal origin. Glandular meats, such as liver and kidney, contain protein of exceptionally high value.

Sources of Protein

The protein content of food, varying the relative importance of the animal and and Nutrition of the American Medical Association, shows the relative amounts of protein furnished by different foods, based on average servings. Three stars opposite a food indicate that its protein is of high quality.

A sufficient daily protein supply of animal origin is furnished by 2 servings of meat, or by 1 serving of meat, 2 glasses of milk and 2 eggs. The additional protein needed in the diet may be obtained from more of these foods and from cereals, legumes, etc.

Supplying Tungsten

Tungsten is a strategic metal vital to the defense of America. Although this country produces a considerable percentage of the world's supply, China leads the world in the production of tungsten, thus the United States has accepted tungsten as backing for loans to China. In the past year over 60 per cent of our total imports of tungsten have come from China. This metal is needed to harden steel and make it less susceptible to high temperatures. The United States is increasing its own production of tungsten, particularly in the leading tungsten-producing states, Nevada, California, Washington, and Colorado.

Snack on a Frosty Night—Broiled Wienies (See Recipes Below)

Wintry Snacks

The cold, frosty evenings with their full program of basketball games, sleigh ride parties, skating and other winter-time amusements call for piping hot, hearty snacks to take care of brisk appetites. While in warmer weather, the family could raid the ice box, now the problem is slightly different, as hot food, satisfying but still simple, is in demand.

Broiled Wienies.

Select two to three skinless frankfurters for each person to be served, two will do nicely for the girls and women but better count three for the men and boys. Split the frankfurter and insert a strip of American cheese. When almost ready to serve, pop into the broiler and cook until cheese melts and browns.

Hot Potato Salad.

6 potatoes, boiled with skins on
¼ cup finely chopped onion
2 hard-cooked eggs, diced
Salt and pepper
6 slices bacon, broiled until crisp
Peel potatoes and cube. Add remaining ingredients. Just before ready to serve, mix with this hot dressing:

Cooked Salad Dressing.

3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon yellow mustard
1½ tablespoons flour
1 egg yolk
¾ cup water
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon butter
Blend dry ingredients, then add egg yolk and blend until smooth. Add water, then vinegar, stirring constantly. Cook over boiling water, stirring all the while, until thick. Remove from fire, add butter.

Spaghetti is and has been for some time now one of the reigning favorites among hot dishes to serve in the evening. Here's one dish you'll like because it's both tart and satisfying, with plenty of cheese and sauce baked right into the long strips of spaghetti:

Baked Spaghetti.

(Serves 8)
1 pound package of spaghetti
3 small onions, chopped fine
2 tablespoons oil
1 pound ground beef
½ pound sausage (in the bulk)
½ pound mushrooms
½ teaspoon pickling spice
1 teaspoon salt
4 small cans tomato sauce
¾ pound grated American cheese
Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water 12 to 15 minutes. Drain and run cold water through it. Saute onion, ground meat and sausage in oil until brown. Add mushrooms, spice, salt and tomato sauce. Simmer slowly for 40 minutes. Put thin layer of spaghetti on bottom of buttered casserole. Then add a layer of sauce, then cheese, another layer

Lynn Says:

Here are a few quick snack ideas you'll like to paste in your notebook: Baked beans garnished with brown bread, cream cheese sandwiches, placed around the bean pot. Toasted English muffins with an egg fried or poached with ham are high in favor.

This Week's Menu

of spaghetti and so on until all sauce, cheese and spaghetti is used. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate (350-degree) oven.

Tamale Pie.

(Serves 8)
1 medium-sized onion, chopped
3 tablespoons oil
1½ pounds beef, cut in cubes
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon chili powder
1 large can tomatoes (2½ cups)
1 cup yellow bantam corn
1½ cups corn meal
5 cups boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup grated cheese
Brown onion in oil, then add beef and cook until brown. Add salt, chili powder, tomatoes and corn and cook slowly 1 hour. Add corn meal to salted water and cook 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Cool mush, then line buttered casserole dish with a 1-inch layer of the mush. Pour in meat-vegetable mixture, then top with remaining mush. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 1¼ hours. During last quarter hour, sprinkle top with cheese. Serve with a sauce made by heating one can of tomato soup to which has been added 1 can of ripe, pitted olives.

Are you one of those homemakers who is always looking for one dish that can be modified and yet seem to be different every time it's served. I think baked beans is one of those dishes, and because of its hearty appeal you can serve it often.

Bean and Sausage Bake.

(Serves 4)
1 small onion, sliced
½ pound link sausage
1 can baked beans
1 tablespoon pickle relish
1 tablespoon chili sauce
Place onion on bottom of casserole and lay sausage on top of onion. Bake in a moderate oven 15 minutes, then drain off excess fat. Combine beans with onion, sausage, pickle relish and chili sauce. Return to oven for 20 minutes to re-heat.

*Peach Crisp Pudding.

2 cups diced, dried peaches
2 cups water
½ cup sugar
¼ cup honey
½ cup butter
½ cup sugar
2 eggs
½ teaspoon each, cloves, nutmeg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups ¼-inch toasted bread cubes
2 cups corn flakes
Soak peaches in boiling water 10 minutes. Drain, add water and sugar; cook covered for 30 minutes. Remove from heat, add honey and stir until well mixed. Cream butter and sugar thoroughly, add eggs and beat well. Stir in spices, flavoring, bread cubes and corn flakes. Place one-half of mixture in buttered baking pan. Spread peaches evenly over top and cover with remaining mixture. Bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven about 25 minutes.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

THE TEMPTATION OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 4:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—For we have an high priest . . . (who) was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin.—Hebrews 4:15.

"We have not a high priest that cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but one that hath been in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin" (Heb. 4:15, R.V.). We recognize that Jesus was tempted as the Messiah (see Matt. 4:3, 6) and as One who had no sin, and yet He was tempted in all points as we are; and we may learn from His temptation how to meet temptation and be victorious over it.

I. Temptation.

It is the common lot of all mankind to be tempted (I Cor. 10:13).

1. What It Is (v. 1). Temptation is of the devil. It is, as Principal Fairbairn expressed it, "seduction to evil, solicitation to wrong. It stands distinguished from trial thus: trial tests, seeks to discover the man's moral qualities or character; but temptation persuades to evil, deludes that it may ruin. God tries. Satan tempts."

Note that temptation is not sin, but yielding to the temptation is sin.

2. How It Works (vv. 2, 3, 5, 6, 8, 9). Satan has only three temptations, although he is a master at giving them different appearances. The temptation of Jesus followed the same threefold line as that of Adam and Eve (Gen. 3:6), which is described in 1 John 2:16 as the general temptation of all men, namely, "the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life." Observe how Satan worked on Jesus: (a) By appealing to the flesh (vv. 2, 3). Jesus had fasted 40 days, and Satan took advantage of that fast to suggest that He use His divine power of creation to satisfy His hunger. To do so would have been to deny His very mission on earth.

Satan observes in man the normal appetites of his body, excites them to a high degree, and then tempts him to satisfy them in an improper way. (b) By appealing to pride (vv. 5, 6). God had promised to keep Jesus "in all his ways" (Ps. 91:11), but casting Himself from the temple was not one of God's "ways" for Him.

The devil wants us to be presumptuous and call it faith, and this is his pitfall for one who really wants to believe—cause him to become a fanatic and substitute foolish presumption for faith. (c) By appealing to the eyes (vv. 8, 9). By showing Christ the kingdoms of the earth in some kind of striking panorama, or moving picture, he offered a short cut to their rule by a brief act of worship of him, rather than by way of the cross. The devil showed his real purpose here. He wants worship—he wants us to bow to him instead of to God.

II. Our Lord Was Victorious Over Satan.

We, too, can triumph in His blessed name. To do so we need to study the way of victory.

1. How to Gain It (vv. 4, 7, 10). Three steps appear: (a) By the right use of Scripture. If our Lord needed and used that weapon, how can we possibly do without it? How can we use it if we do not study it, and hide it in our hearts (Ps. 119:11)? (b) By complete dependence upon God. Every Scripture used by Jesus against Satan honored God the Father. We cannot fight Satan in our own strength. Luther was right—"Did we in our own strength confide, Our striving would be losing."

The real victory for the Christian is to bring Satan to the foot of the cross. Christ defeated him completely there, and we may plead that victory. (c) By denouncing Satan. Jesus sent him on his way. We may do the same, in Jesus' name. It is always a serious error to argue with Satan, or even to discuss matters with him. He is not divine, but he is a supernatural being with knowledge and cunning which are too much for us. Meet him with Scripture, honor God by your faith in Christ, then "resist the devil, and he will flee from you" (Jas. 4:7).

2. What It Brings (v. 11). When the defeated devil left Christ, angels came and ministered to Him. The overcoming of temptation brings victory, peace, and blessed rest. This is ever true in the life of the believer. Temptations victoriously met make one stronger in meeting the next temptation.

Apparently Little Tommy Was a Movie Enthusiast

The teacher was trying to get the pupils to understand the dreadful business of conjugating verbs.

"When I say 'I have, you have, he has,'" she explained, "I am conjugating the verb 'to have.' I want all of you to understand. Do you?"

They did.

"Very good. Now listen carefully. 'I love, you love, he loves.' What is that?"

There was a moment of silence, and then up shot little Tommy's hand.

"Please miss," he said, "it's one of them triangles when someone gets shot!"

Resolution To Mayor

Whereas, we are engaged in a war and are determined to make every effort to insure a complete victory, and

Whereas, the Lions Club under its slogan "Liberty, Intelligence, Our Nation's Safety" has always striven to encourage the patriotism and the spirit and effective cooperation in our community and

Whereas, this war emergency has brought greater responsibilities and burdens to our Mayor as head of our local Defense Council, and

Whereas, it is the desire of the Lions Club of Robert Lee, Texas to expend its full energies to insure final victory and the security of our community, our state and our nation.

Therefore, Be It Resolved, that we hereby commend Mayor F C. Clark for the actions he has already taken in regard to Civilian Defense, and hereby offer to him and his aids our full cooperation in his efforts to organize our community to its peak of effectiveness for victory.

If it develops that no Civilian Defense head has been appointed for your locality it is recommended that the club send a letter immediately to the governor requesting that this be done, and making recommendations for the post. — W. B. Clift, pres.
