To The People of the 92nd Representative District

Dear friends:

It is now my intention to make the race for State Representative in the coming election this summer.

With the war going on, and most of us chiefly concerned about its duration and ultimate outcome, I dare say, politics will be cast into the background for a while at least. But let us not lose sight of the fact that the people we elect to Public Office should be carefully selected. Therefore let me urge you to examine my record as your Representative during the regular Session, also the First called Session of the Fourty-Seventh Legislature, and if you feel that I merit your support for a second term, I want to assure you that I will show my appreciation by a continuation of the same type service.

I plan to get around to see you between now and the election, and discuss with you the various problems confronting our State and District. So until then, I remain

Yours very truly,
W. H. Rampy

Representative 92nd. District.

Submarine Activity Highlights Action Of United States and Enemy Navies; Russian Troops Use Nazi Technique In Important Victory Over Germans

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

U. S. NAVY: A Hint or Two

Nothing in the form of detailed communiques about naval activities was coming out of the Pacific, but occasionally there was a hint or two which showed that Uncle Sam's Union Jack was not waving aimlessly about in those waters.

One of these was a dispatch from a correspondent aboard one of the battlewagons, who wrote to the press that the navy was active, was sinking Jap submarines, was on the lookout for unwary Jap ships and dropping them to the bottom of the sea, but was not allowing itself to be trapped.

He also stated categorically that among the objectives of the navy was to prevent a repetition of Jap attacks on Midway and Johnson's islands, or on Pearl Harbor.

A further hint that showed the Japanese might have cause for the jitters concerning the ocean situation came from an official communique that three Japanese vessels had been sent to the bottom of the Bay of Tokyo, uncomfortably close to vulnerable Japanese cities as the two American vessels torpedoed off Long Island, not by the Japanese, but presumably by U-boats.

RUSSIANS: Cut Off Nazis

Using the favorite Nazi technique of parachutists behind the lines, the Russians had struck a vital blow in the Mozhaisk sector and believed they had trapped a force of about 100,000 Germans who had no recourse but to surrender or face annihilation.

Cloids of parachutists were dropped behind a fairly stable German position, one which the Russians had been hammering with artillery fire for more than a week.

These forces consolidated, allegedly destroyed seven Nazi battalions of infantry and burned a railroad train containing 23 cars of war material. The Germans, their supply lines cut, were trapped.

It was believed by Red headquarters that the surrender would follow as a matter of course, without serious further resistance.

Field Marshal Von Reichenau, famous leader of the Germans' Ukrainian army, responsible for the successful southern drive against the Russians last summer, dropped dead of apoplexy, and a state funeral was decreed for him.

Thus Hitler had lost by death another famed commander, after relieving Von Brauchitsch of command not long before.

MAC ARTHUR: Spirited

Although MacArthur's men on the island of Luzon had continued to put up a spirited resistance to overwhelming numbers of Japanese invaders, there were certain aspects of late communiques which had pointed to the fact that the battle must be entering its decisive stages.

And Washington was holding out to the American public no hope that there could be any outcome but final defeat, though temporary, in that theater of the war.

MALAYA: Resistance

For some time it had been evident that a supreme battle for air mastery over Malaya had been in progress, perhaps spreading to the whole southwest Pacific area; now it had become plain that British resistance was steadily growing, and that the final and desperate battle to save Singapore was in the offing.

It seemed likely that this would take place at a point about 50 miles from Singapore, perhaps closer, somewhere on a line south of the Maur river.

It was with considerable surprise and no little concern that the British announced the Japs had crossed the Maur and had established a bridgehead on the southeast bank.

Previous gains which had shoved the Japanese 350 miles down the Malayan peninsula had caused no such battle as did the attempt to wipe out the Maur river bridgehead.

Final picture of the Malaya front would be a line about 100 miles wide running generally from east to west, with some inevitable salients caused by irregularities of the terrain.

Against this wall, said Major General Bennett, the Japs were expected to hurl their full force of artillery, tanks and planes.

The counter picture, however, was more encouraging to the Allies. Australian transports loaded with men and machines were arriving at Singapore at long last, and plane reinforcement, particularly fast Buffalo (American made) fighter planes were appearing on the front and were doing terrific execution.

This had been the sort of thing the Australian government had been crying out for during several weeks. The "singing Aussies" were going into combat, were reported to have hurled at least one section of attacking Japs back into confusion.

There was no disposition on the part of the Malaya defenders to become cocky, indeed Major General Bennett was rather on the pessimistic side, and said it was likely that the Japs before long would be knocking at the doors of Singapore.

But in general things were a little more on the upturn side, and many believed the tide of the Singapore battle might be turning.

Certain it was that it had been a heterogeneous army which had faced the Japs up to this point. From now on it looked as though the Aussies were taking over, planes and men, and that the Japs might have found, as they did in the Chinese battlefields, foemen more than worthy of their steel.

TRAGEDIES: Sabotage?

Either saboteurs were responsible or the nation was beset by another of those unexplained series of airplane tragedies, one of them killing a darling of the movies, Carole

Carole Lombard is shown accepting defense bond applications and stuffing them into the case of the first shell fired in World War I. This photo was made in Indianapolis, where she assisted in launching a bond sale drive. It was while returning to Hollywood from this mission that she lost her life.

Lombard, her mother, 15 air pilots, presumably those engaged in ferrying planes from factories to airfields, and five others.

There had been no immediate data on sabotage, but the average observer was wondering when there were more than 50 lives lost in 48 hours in six crashes, five of them army planes (three bombers and two fighters) and one of a huge transport plane with 15 pilots among the passengers.

A Strange 'Open Secret' Blocks U. S. and Britain

Large Forbidden and Mysterious Area in Pacific Is Believed to Shelter Most Of Japan's Naval Strength.

By BAUKHAGE

National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N-W, Washington, D. C.

There is a strange open secret about the war against Japan which concerns a mysterious area in the Pacific ocean and about which very little is known even to our high command. Its existence explains why a little island nation is holding at bay the two greatest powers in the world—Britain and the United States.

This forbidden territory includes a group of scattered islands covering a sea space about 2,000 miles from east to west and a thousand miles from north to south. It is the hiding ground of the Japanese fleet. Military people believe that most of Japan's naval strength, not in actual use in protecting troop ships on the way to Malaysia, is sheltered there. And this sea stronghold is a tower of strength against the American navy, against aid to the Philippines, Singapore and the Netherlands Indies.

This area lies about 2,000 miles from Hawaii and extends westward from the Japanese mandated islands of the Marshall group which lie south of Wake island to the eastern extremity of the Caroline group (also Japanese mandates) a few hundred miles west of the Philippines. Guam, once ours, now Japan's, is within the area.

Accurate Reports Difficult to Obtain

"For ten years," a British diplomat said to me recently, "only one of our people who got into that area ever came out to report what he saw."

Americans have similar tales to tell. In 1939 a fishing boat from the island of Saipan, one of this group, was wrecked near Guam but, when an American ship started to return the survivors, a Japanese ship stopped them at sea and took off the survivors.

It is known, however, that for a decade great quantities of cement and other building materials, endless stores of food and war supplies have been pouring into that zone where it is believed that among the nearly 2,000 islands lie at least 50 bases. There are no known large harbors but there are plenty of submarine and air bases and big ships can be fed and watered and supplied with munitions for an indefinite period. From these spawning grounds Japan can strike in all directions, threatening the sea routes from our western shores to the southwestern Pacific.

Here is the hornet's nest from which the swarms of enemy air and sea craft are making their sorties against the reinforcements from America which are the only hope for Singapore and the Netherlands Indies.

Already the Philippines are virtually a part of this nest. As soon as the Japanese had secured beachheads in the archipelago, they made temporary air bases and the narrow waters which might give entrance to American supply ships were made impassable. Even if American supply ships could have reached the islands in time to save Manila and relieve General MacArthur, they could not have penetrated the narrow waters protected by land-based planes. American bombers—our pitifully few bombers—did some damage to the Japanese here, but bombers cannot fight long against protecting interceptors and fighters. The little fighting planes can fly only a few hundred miles. We have few airplane carriers and it would be risky business to send them past the hornet's nest. Carriers are about the most vulnerable things afloat.

Japs Were There 'Fustest with Mostest'

The Japs applied the ancient principle of being there "fustest with the mostest" of everything, and the carefully built "hornet's nest" was created to the utter indifference of the American public in spite of the futile warnings of military men.

In February of 1941 the navy asked for $5,000,000 to improve the harbor facilities of Guam. Congress turned down the appropriation. "It is not a wise thing for the American navy to go 8,000 miles from home when we do not have a single thing to defend in that territory . . ." was one of the arguments against this appropriation. In the same debate the statement was made that "for Japan to attack the United States, it would have to have twice as big a navy as it has now."

There is no use to cry over spilt milk, but it is well to recall when people are asking "where is the United States navy?" to know where the Japanese navy is and what an impenetrable wall of defense Japan built for her navy right under our noses, the presence of which now postpones united nations' victory in the Far East.

Washington— A World Center

These days Washington is a citadel within a citadel, a world center which, paradoxically, is nearer its circumference than all else within the circle. On the perimeter of America's existence is the war. It is very far away. It is a dim and distant domain where men and boys from American cities stand on ice-fringed decks in the North Atlantic; where others stand—and fall—in the swamps and jungles of the Far East; where still others hurtle through the bullet-and-shell-torn heavens.

Between that frightful edge of things and the separate beings bound to it by fragile threads of anxiety, lies the vast expanse of peaceful America, still sleeping to the murmur of distant guns, shuddering only fitfully now and then when bitter news stabs a waiting heart.

Anxiously but impersonally calm, nearer to that vague, far-flung undulating line which is the front, is Washington, the dynamic center of wartime America. Here is known all the hope, fear, triumph and defeat that the rest of the nation does not know; yet knowing that only a fraction of what it knows is truth. For certainty today is speculation tomorrow. Here, in the citadel within the citadel, the imponderability of war rests with all its weight upon the slender minds of men.

A Revealing Book On Nation's Capital

I wanted to review "Washington Dateline," a new book by Delbert Clark, but when I found he had so little to say about radio I decided that I had better turn it over to a more objective mind. There is so much interest in Washington as a news center now that the book is important. So I asked Douglas Silver, a veteran newspaper man, now a writer of radio serials, to review it. This is what he says:

A good fat juicy account of how the 500 Washington newspaper men and women "mingle with the great, the small, the nobles and the knaves who make up a government and its camp followers" is sandwiched between the covers of "Washington Dateline," by Delbert Clark (Stokes).

Although having no illusions about the city which, as he says, "crouches miserably in a reclaimed marsh, and lifts up its eyes to the hills of Virginia and Maryland which cut off the breeze," Mr. Clark, a veteran member of the New York Times Washington staff, manages to invest his book with a great deal of the glamour and excitement of capital newsmaking.

From first to last Clark is concerned with the progress, ethics and usefulness of his craft in a democratic society; tracing the history of Washington newsgathering from the vitriolic and venial dispatches of 100 years ago to the present era of comparative respectability. But respectability definitely does not mean dullness. The accounts of our latter day saints and sinners are replete with inside stories, quoting chapter and verse.

This high assay value in anecdote runs all through the book. It includes some choice bits about Mr. Coolidge's pathetic attempt at humoring the press, a delightful yarn about the slightly insane congressman who sought to influence newspaper men with annual oyster roasts and it features timely and factual accounts of reporters and their runs with the present administration. This book can be read with profit by anybody who wants to know what is going on in Washington and how it gets in the papers and on the air.

POWER
in a hurry!

UNCLE SAM'S fast-moving ski troops out military power in the right place at the right time.

America's electric companies have done the same job with industrial power. They were ready when the crisis came!

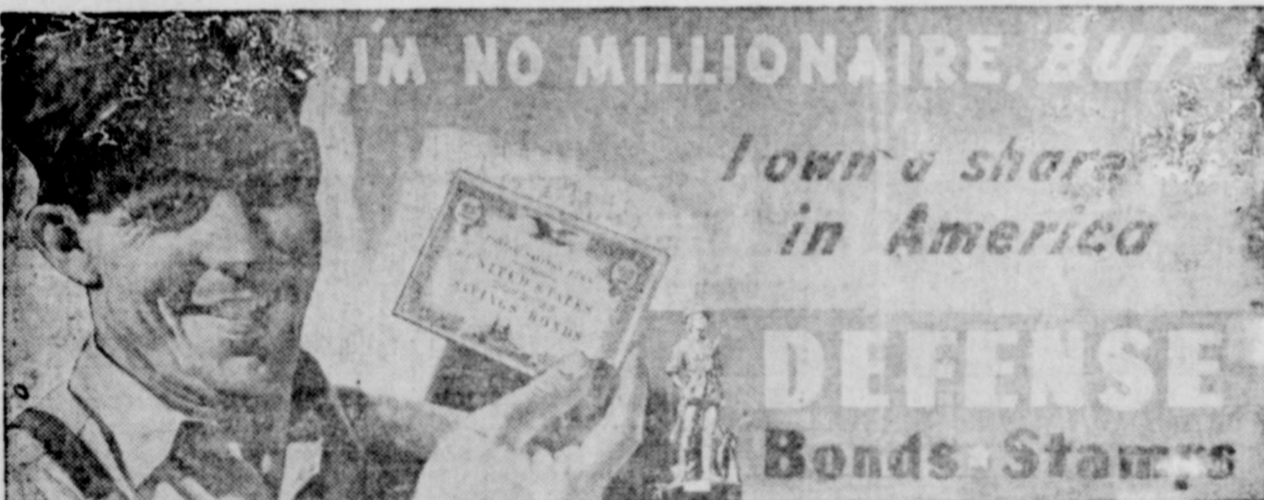

They powered new plane plants, tank factories and shipyards almost overnight—and rushed reserve electric power to key points over carefully interconnected systems.

As the demand grew greater, they speeded new construction. Last year, alone, they installed over 2 1/2 million more horsepower—enough to light one-quarter of all the homes in America!

Good business management made this possible. The same companies, the same management, will go on increasing the production of power for protection—until skiing is a sport again, instead of a war maneuver!

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels, with Ease for Stomach, too

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, stomach upset, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. For years, many Doctors have given pepsin preparations in their prescriptions to make medicine more agreeable to a touchy stomach. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Current Fashions Stress New Use of Daring Color Contrast

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

AT FIRST this matter of using two or three colors together in daring contrast was regarded as an adventure that would give a new slant to fashion. It was a deliberate departure from traditional color technique that might reasonably be expected to prove a mere passing fad. However, this courage on the part of designers to start something new has not only added zest to fashion, but has developed a movement that is being carried over from one season to another with increasing enthusiasm.

This spring the fashion program fairly vibrates with breathtaking color contrasts that defy staid and sedate ideas as to which color goes with which.

In every phase of fashion, from bathing suits to sweaters and from simple daytime dresses to dress-up afternoon frocks and pretentious "formals," designers are courageously handling color in new ways with an artistry that is winning tremendous applause.

Flour Sack Dress

Imagine! A dress as attractive as this actually made out of ordinary cotton flour sacks! You'll need three large cotton bags for this charming frock. It is no trick at all to dye them a deep red and for trimming use beige colored yarn (dyed with coffee liquid). Add real pine cones for buttons and you have a dress for the farmerette that any city cousin would look upon with understandable envy.

To demonstrate the brilliant and audacious spirit style creators express in their use of color, note the daytime dress shown to the left in the group illustrated above. The dress in this instance is of narrow wale corduroy with sleeves and collar of bright red wool jersey. A patch pocket has a striking heraldic design embroidered in multi-colored yarns.

By the way, this idea of contrasting sleeves might serve as an inspiration in stretching a limited budget to meet the exigencies arising in present war times when economy is a virtue every woman is urged to practice. For example, there's that dress hanging in your closet, "perfectly good," yet seeming to have outlived its usefulness. The sleeves show wear at the elbows. Why not rejuvenate this poor outcast with a new pair of sleeves in a bright, contrasting color? To complete the costume, add a belt, and, perhaps, pockets in the same bright color. You might even go so far as to do the contrast sleeves in a tri-color scheme, cerise for the top, gold for the center and purple for the lower arm portion, repeating the colors in pockets and neckline details.

Smartly typical of the new vogue for contrast is the dress shown to the right in the picture above. It has a definitely "peasant" feeling in its use of vivid colors and its trimming in a flower of self fabric.

There's something about the mid-dy-blouse fashion done in red, white and blue that makes an irresistible combination. The pattern for the two-piece outfit, centered in the group above, with its easy-to-follow instructions, is especially interesting if you sew the modern way. If you aspire to be your own seamstress, your local sewing center will instruct you, at little or no expense, in the making of such expert dress-maker details as buttonholes. Crisp white rayon fabric is used for the mid-dy blouse and cadet blue for the skirt. Bands of vermilion red accent the collar, cuffs and pockets and can be made in "jig time" with an edge stitcher sewing machine attachment.

And don't forget about the newest bathing suits. They have sprightly little skirts of ruffles, each in a different color. A bandanna for the head repeats the color scheme. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Whims of Fashion

Diagonal pleats make a smart version of the "self trim" idea.

Why not fasten your collar edges to your dress with tiny, jeweled clips or pins.

Pastels in soft woollens can be worn right away, under your winter coat, and 'way into the spring and summer. Nothing better for those few unseasonably cool summer days.

When you were younger you wanted sophisticated gowns. Now that you're older—perhaps college age—you will be mad about the bouffant, "little girl" things so popular this season.

Although black and navy still head the list of favorites for spring street wear, other popular colors, judging from the advance showings, will probably be peach, aqua, a sort of champagne shade and all high, vivid shades.

Luscious to Look At and Eat, Too . . . Orange Sponge Cake (See Recipes Below)

Snacks, II

"What shall I serve to guests who drop in for an evening of bridge or for a chat?"

This is a question I've heard many hostesses ask, especially often during colder weather when visiting time really comes into favor again. The answer is simple, for a delectable cake with steaming coffee or hot drink turns the trick.

Your guests will have finished their supper only a short time before, and since snacks do not come late in the evening, it is best to serve something not too heavy. Light cakes, preferably those with a touch of piquancy and tartness, fill the bill perfectly.

Hot drinks are favorites in the chilling weather. If you like coffee, be sure to have quantities of the steaming beverage on hand. If you're on the lookout for new ideas, there are the hot fruit juice combinations which hit the spot.

Here's the first cake on our list. It's like spun gold in color with just the right tartness. You'll find that the navel oranges which peel and separate easily into sections will be perfect for decorating the cake:

*Orange Sponge Cake.

- 5 egg yolks
- 1 1/4 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 cups sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon grated orange peel
- 5 egg whites

Beat egg yolks, sugar and orange juice until light. Add water and beat 2 minutes. Add flour sifted with baking powder and salt. Beat 1 minute or until thoroughly blended into egg mixture, fold in grated orange peel and egg whites beaten stiff but not dry. Bake in 9-inch ungreased tube pan in a moderate (350-degree) oven 70 minutes. Invert pan until cake is cold. Remove. Cut in three cross-wise layers.

Soften gelatin in water. Cook egg yolks, sugar and orange juice in top of double boiler until thick. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add grated peel and cool mixture. Beat egg whites stiff, adding 1/4 cup sugar and fold into cooked orange mixture. Spread between layers and on

Lynn Says:

Hot mulled fruit juices lend tang to winter evening snacks. You can have hot mulled cider by heating the cider and adding 1 teaspoon whole cloves and 1 stick of cinnamon (tied in a bag) while the cider is heating.

Here's another mulled fruit juice served piping hot: Tie in a bag, 12 whole cloves, 1 3-inch stick of cinnamon, and 1 whole nutmeg. Empty a large can of apple juice and a 12-ounce can of cherry juice in the saucepan and add spices. Heat, remove spices and serve. This recipe takes care of eight people.

Hot spiced lemon tea has lots of pick-up. Make it by pouring 5 cups boiling water over 6 teaspoons of black tea. Steep 5 minutes, then strain. Dissolve 1/4 cup sugar in 1/4 cup boiling water. Combine 6 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel, 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon and 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves, and add to hot tea. Serve at once, garnished with lemon slices. Serves 6.

top of cake. Chill in refrigerator. Gold Topping.

- 1/4 cup cold water
- 1 tablespoon gelatin
- 4 egg yolks
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 cup orange juice
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 4 egg whites
- 1/4 cup sugar
- Orange sections

Decorate with fresh orange sections just before serving.

Gleaned from an excellent chef, this Lemon Cake-Pie is a good combination of a cream pie and cake. Because of the delicate lemon flavor it will prove interesting to serve for those evenings when friends just drop in for a bit. Made just according to directions, it's guaranteed to bring plenty of encores!

*Lemon Cake-Pie.

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1 lemon

Blend the sugar and butter, add beaten egg yolks, milk, flour and the juice and rind of the lemon. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and pour into an unbaked pie-crust. Bake in a slow (325-degree) oven 35 to 40 minutes. The top will be like a sponge cake and underneath there's a soft, firm custard.

Gingerbread is a favorite for after-dinner bridge type of entertaining. Gingerbread made with boiling water gives the cake a special kind of feathery texture which is certain to charm. Most of the time you like to serve gingerbread with whipped cream, but you can vary this if you add crushed peppermints to the cream before serving.

*Old-Fashioned Gingerbread.

- 1/2 cup boiling water
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup molasses
- 1 beaten egg
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon soda
- 3/4 teaspoon ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon allspice
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Pour water over the shortening and add sugar, molasses and egg. Add sifted dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Bake in a waxed-paper lined square pan in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 35 minutes. Cool before turning out from pan. For variation, 1 package of semi-sweet chocolate pieces may be added with the dry ingredients if a chocolate-flecked cake is desired.

Few More Years Would Have Toughened Uncle

The oldest inhabitant had celebrated his hundredth birthday and the reporter of a local paper called on him for an interview. "To what do you attribute your longevity?" the reporter inquired.

The centenarian paused a moment and then, holding up his hand and ticking off the items on his fingers, began: "I never drank alcoholic liquors, or overate, and I always rise at six in the morning."

"But," protested the reporter, "I had an uncle who acted in that way, yet he only lived to be eighty. How do you account for that?"

"He didn't keep it up long enough," was the calm reply.
