NUMBER 48

Open House

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Allen held open house last Sunday afternoon on their ranch northeast of city where they have just completed a nice rock home of many rooms and modern in every respect with city conveniences. Convenient closets and built in features a setting fit for a king, typical West Texas ranch scene surrounding by series of valleys and hills, studied with mesquite grass. The song "Give me a Home on the Range" is descriptive. Invitations were mailed out and a great host of friends attended the opening, and wished the couple many happy years yet to enjoy this lovely home.

The 40th Wedding Anniversary was also observed, and eight people were there who were at the wedding. Mrs. G. A. Beeman, nee Lula Newton, played the wedding march. Mrs. D. I. Durham nee Lena Smith was brides maid, Mrs. Brooks was matron of honor.

Local Items

Mr. and Mrs. Ray V. Stark and Ray Nell left Tuesday for Schunute Field, Ill. where he has work in the Civil Service.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Adams left Thursday of last week for points in New Mexico and North Texas returning Tuesday.

Mrs. W. H. Booher left Sunday to visit her parents in Colorado City, Texas for a few days.

Never have we seen mesquites bloom so profusely in July, the bees are storing away for future reference and looks as though we might expect a record breaker bean crop.

Glenn Thomason of Dallas and Olan Thomason of San Angelo, through the kindness of their mother will read the Observer in the future.

Sanco Camp Meeting

Sanco Camp Meeting will hold its nineteenth annual session July 16-26. This historic camp meeting, started nineteen years ago by a group of local ranchers under the direction of Rev. W. E. Hawkins, now director of Radio Revival, KRLD in Dallas, has grown through the years until it has become a permanent institution of the religious life of Coke County.

Among different speakers during the ten days session will be featured Carlton E. Null of Oakland, California, known as the original "Highway Evangelist". He will be heard every morning at 10:00 as well as at other times during the session.

Radio Evangelist Joe Temple of Abilene will be heard every night at 8:00 during the ten days. A service at 11:00 a. m. every day will feature different visiting speakers.

Old time Gospel singing will be a feature of the Camp Meeting. An invitation has been extended to Coy Sims of Hardin Simmons University to direct singing at each service.

July 21 and 24 have been set aside as County-wide free barbecue days, which have been made possible by donations of friendly ranchmen in Coke County. Invitations to all, everything free.

Those who wish to remain the ten days, free dormitory space and meals, three times daily, at fifteen cents each have been provided by the directors.

Train services reaches Bronte, and Bus services Robert Lee.

Notice

The Farm Security office at Robert Lee will be closed July 13, 14 and 15 on account of the entire personnel attending a District meeting at San Angelo.

New Management

E. E. Varnadore has leased the Home Laundry and is now in charge. He will appreciate his friends patronizing his washeteria service.

Bridal Shower

June 30, 1942 was the setting for a bridal shower for Mrs. Lee R. Latham who was before her marriage Miss Virginia Ray of Odessa. Given by Mrs. Frank Keading and Mrs. Elzie Wright, in the Wright home.

Military decorations and games were carried out. 56 registered and sent in gifts with two out of town guests, Mrs. B. C. McDonald of Big Lake, and Mrs. W. F. Pharis of San Angelo.

New Dresses in Sheers, at Cumbie & Roach

J. S. Craddock Jr. has returned to San Diego, Calif. Bill has returned to Harlingen.

Reunion 4th

Mrs. and Mrs. W. R. Thomson held a family reunion on the 4th. All children present except two boys and all grand children which is a good record. Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Martin and family and Mrs. Henry Berryman of Coeman and a few other friends attended. A barbecue dinner was served.

Revival Meeting

Evangelist Wm. H. Taylor of San Angelo will be in a meeting with the Church of Christ here from July 17 through July 26. All Robert Lee and surrounding country is extended a special invitation to hear him through this series of meetings. No collections will be taken and all Bible questions will be cheerfully answered.

July 4th Visitors

Visitors in the John F. Robinson home to celebrate the 4th were: Mr. and Mrs. Loye Ruckman of Killeen, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fagan and Grace Robertson, also Miss Hazel Hammond all from Dallas, and Christine Markham and Raymond Robertson from San Angelo.

Meeting Progressing

Revival meeting at the First Baptist Church is progressing nicely with interest and crowds growing. Come out and hear the gospel messages Dr. Moore is bringing each morning at 10:30 and 9:00 in the evening.

Mrs. Karl Moore will add much to the fine music led by James Vermillion, with her different instruments on through the meeting.

Mrs. J. N. Adams left Saturday for Harlingen Texas, to visit her daughter Mrs. Claude Carter and family.

The 4th was very quiet in Robert Lee, most of the inhabitants spent the day visiting, fishing and other sports.

Locals

Misses Inez Hatley and Pauline Porter of Durham Oklahoma are visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and family for two or three weeks.

Joe Dodson and Fred McDonald are getting ready for the cotton crop by having their gin saws sharpened for good service.

Lloyd Andrews of Clovis, New Mexico, was here this week.

Miss Ella May Barnes of San Antonio spent a week visiting her brother, Marvin Barnes and Mrs. Barnes.

Our bank shows cash increasing, loans decreasing a healthy sign, know your bank, see statement in this issue.

Paul Good is the happy owner a cross between a velocipede and flying ship, air conditioned. Wheels are arranged so a rabbit can go through and want have to go around.

Hale the gardner, has demonstrated to the Observer that corn can be raised during a dry hot spell of weather. The ears are well filled and developed.

Sgt and Mrs. Muri Day of Wichita Falls spent the 4th with his mother and other relatives.

Miss Louie Campbell of Gatesville visited her aunt Mrs. Day Monday.

Our bus service is to be appreciated coming at a time when most needed and we are really getting service. Ride the bus and save tires and gas the government needs them the coast lines may be our boundaries if we fail to do our all.

U. S. Treasury Department

Henry Morgenthau Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, today made public the official War Bond Quotas by States for the month of July, which places the nation on a Billion-dollar-a-month basis to aid in meeting the War cost. The above table also gives May War Bond sales in the various states in comparison to the May Quotas. (June sales by states will be available for publication shortly.) The percentage of Quotas range from 71.3 percent above quota in Utah, to 22.6 percent below the quota in Montana, but puts the nation as a whole above the $600,000,000 total May quota. Vulnerable Alaska and Hawaii led all states in sale of War Bonds on quota basis.

"Everybody, every pay day ten percent" is the Treasury slogan which is expected to place one of the attractive new window stickers in every American home. "We're Buying at Least 10%" leads the sticker, printed in the national colors. The new window stickers and the new "10%" lapel button, which indicates the wearer is investing at least ten percent of his income in War Bonds every pay day, are yardsticks of patriotism in the War Bond drive.

A most welcome gift to any pipe-smoker or roll-your-own fan now in our armed forces is a pound of his favorite tobacco. Numerous surveys have shown that tobacco is the No. 1 gift on the service man's list. A favorite with many of our soldiers, sailors, marines, and Coast Guardsmen is Prince Albert, the largest-selling smoking tobacco in the world. If you have a friend or relative in the Army, Navy, Marines, or Coast Guard who smokes a pipe or rolls-his-own, send a pound can of Prince Albert. Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—the risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strains on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Civilian Front
Prepared for War EconomyAmericans to Face
Changes Necessary
For Final Victory

By CLIFF LANGE

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Uncle Sam says, "There are going to be some changes made!"

Those changes, on a nationwide scale, are going to affect 132 million Americans. They will reach into every home in the United States and influence the lives and habits of all.

According to the Office for Emergency Management's division of civilian supply, the next few months will see the effects of war economy in the fields of clothing, transportation, housing and food. Some of the slow, but soon to accelerate, changes are already noticeable.

For many months specialists in the Division of Civilian Supply, working in conjunction with other federal departments, have been gauging and charting the needs of this nation's civilian population. Once these needs have been plotted, they will then be fitted in with the nation's war economy.

Civilians Must Sacrifice, Too.
In other words, it all means this: If it is found necessary to use certain food products for armed forces, or certain pieces of equipment for defense plants, or certain material for defense plant workers, then the ordinary civilians of this nation are going to do without to fill that need.

Lack of cargo space for imports also means that many former products purchased abroad for home consumption are not going to be available for Americans.

Officials in Washington commented on the fact that there have been many rumors about rationing of clothing.

Joseph L. Weiner, deputy director of the division of Civilian supply, had this to say about it: "It appears now that the rationing of clothing can be avoided this year."

That doesn't mean though there will be no changes made. Beside the present style modifications (cuffless trousers, for instance) other garments will not be as "glamorous" as they have been. Frills on clothing are out.

The American people are going to dress for war, even though they are on the home front fighting.

The military demand for wool is going to bring about additional minor style changes. To conserve on wool, cloth manufacturers are going to have to blend their allotted supply of that material with other materials. Americans are going to wear more cotton.

Another problem in the clothing field that is pending is leather. As federal rationing officials put it concerning any possible leather shortage, "There is nothing in the leather picture to get excited about now."

But the problem is still there. There are still plenty of shoes in the stores for civilians, but the demands of the armed forces for shoes increase very rapidly.

All in all, Americans working hard on the home front needn't think that they won't be warmly and adequately clothed this coming winter. They will be even though there isn't going to be the former "dressiness" on their attire.

This picture indicates one of the reasons why the American people are going to have less wool in their clothing. Above you see great bolts of woolen cloth being checked before being made into uniforms for Uncle Sam's fighting men.

Transportation difficulties, too, are going to bring about decided changes in the American way of living during the war.

Everyone knows there is a shortage of gasoline. But they should also know there is a growing shortage of fuel oil.

This means a change in the usual "visiting" habits of not only Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jones, but of Little Johnny, Sister Helen, Grandma and Grandpa, and the rest of the family and their relatives.

More Staying at Home.

For instance: With a shortage of gasoline, in fact, a rationing of that fuel, there is going to be more of the "stay at home" attitude. Sister Helen's fellow isn't going to be able to take her out riding. Little Johnny isn't going to be allowed to have the car to drive to the next town to bowl or go sightseeing.

Mom and Pop aren't going to get in the car and drive 40 or 50 miles to the next town to purchase supplies, or go to a show, or visit friends. They are going to do all their purchasing at home, go to shows in their home-town, and visit their friends in town more often than before.

Grandma and Grandpa are going to have to forego their usual Sunday ride or customary visit to old friends over in another section of the county.

All in all, the American family is going to be thrown back on their own more than ever.

It won't take long, though, before they fully realize that the idea of "stay at home" is as enjoyable and beneficial as the "buy at home" plan.

Main Street 'Dim Out.'

It is highly probable, that when more and more electric power is needed, the lights on Main streets—thousands of Main streets throughout the United States—will be dimmed. Many towns will be having "dimouts" instead of the blackouts which cities and towns along the East and West coast are experiencing.

You might think that your tomorrows promise to be dull, what with rationing of many articles, unavailability of others, staying at home, and curtailed railroad and bus travel. You might think so for a short time. But then, when you fully realize what you can do, and what you are doing for the coming victory, it won't be thought of as drab and dull.

You will realize it is in freedom's name that you are doing without many formerly ordinary things of everyday living. You will become conscious of the fact that you aren't standing in breadlines for food, or listening to round after round of propaganda radio programs, or staying indoors after the curfew sounds. Those things are true in a Hitler-dominated nation.

A change in the housing habits of the American people will be noticeable only in those areas where critical victory projects are under way.

Unlike enforced labor in dictator-dominated Europe, American workers are moving voluntarily to those cities where projects are being worked day and night, employing thousands upon thousands of people. Consequently, many towns have

The 'Army' of Cooks

America's women have been drafted, too.

Administrator of the Office of Defense, Health and welfare Services, Paul V. McNutt, and staff, are calling upon the women of America to see to it that the workers and children of this nation get the most wholesome food, prepared appetizingly.

Now watch the Nation's Army of Cooks lead their army to vitality, health, and happiness.

Here are some of their army rules of cooking warfare:

Well balanced meals.
Tasty meals.
Meals with plenty of energy-giving foodstuffs.
Plenty of food without wasting it.

Economical and thoughtful substitution for those foodstuffs not obtainable.

found a continually growing housing shortage.

Even trailer-camp towns, laid out on the edge of the towns themselves, are being filled to capacity. Rather than resort to the plan enforced in England, where compulsory billeting of war workers has been resorted to, U. S. officials are appealing to those who own homes in industrial zones to let out their spare rooms to workers. Many former "private" homes are now being rented to "outsiders."

Then, too, most war workers—many of whom have left their wives and children at home—are not in a position to buy a home, either because their incomes are not sufficient, or because they may have to be moved at any time.

As a result federal officials are discouraging privately financed home construction and are seeking priority assistance on those projects that will be made available for rental to workers.

Forego Home Building.

Many prospective home owners will have to forego building their own homes this year, or buying one already constructed. Uncle Sam wants his defense area workers housed properly so that they can continue producing the necessary arms and armament.

More noticeable than in the above mentioned instances are the changes in the eating habits of America's consumers.

More rationing in various foodstuffs other than sugar seem highly probable. Increased rationing doesn't mean, however, that this country will lack a sufficient supply of staples, or that the American diet will lack its necessary and vital elements.

The eating habits of the nation will have to change. Look for many of our imported foodstuffs to become more and more scarce, and probably rationed. Many of the food staples produced or grown within the country will become scarce too. Much of the food is going to the U. S. armed forces here in the United States, and wherever they might be stationed in the world.

Cool, Ice-Tinkling Drinks Ward Off Summer Fatigue
(See Recipes Below.)

Sugar-Saving Drinks

When the thermometer's perched on the highest rung of the temperature ladder, do you feel your spirits sagging, your energy running low? Yes, the warm weather begins to take its toll just about the time you feel you need push and drive most. But, make a comeback, quickly and easily with a healthful, fruit-juicy drink served in a tall, colorful frosty glass.

An attractively served drink will perk up your spirits more quickly than you can say "Jack Spratt!" Plan to freeze some of those fragrant mint leaves and those few odd berries left over from the shortcake, with water in the ice cube trays for they make a pretty drink. Or, if you like colored ice cubes that prevent your summer beverage from taking on a watery taste, freeze fruit juices diluted with water into ice cubes. You'll like this.

Milk and ice cream are perfect ingredients with fruit juices for cooling drinks. Not only do they contain most of the requisites for a well-balanced diet, but they are easy to take and lend themselves in pleasant combination with other foods. Your biggest problem with summer drinks will come in trying to save sugar. But don't let this stump you, for you can use fruit juices that have natural sugars, honey as a sweetener, and milk and ice cream, which need very little or no other sweetening at all.

Try fruit powders, too, using 1 level tablespoon of the fruit powder with 3 teaspoons of honey to 1 glass of water or milk. Fill the glass with shimmering ice chips and you have an excellent thirst quencher in a wink. Fruit juices used with ice cream and honey are kind to the sugar ration:

*Orange Cooler. (Makes 1 1/2 quarts)

- 2 cups orange juice
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1/4 cup maraschino cherry juice
- 1 cup ginger ale
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream
- 2 tablespoons sliced maraschino cherries

Mix fruit juices and ginger ale; add honey; mix well. Chill thoroughly. Add ice cream and stir until blended. Serve in chilled glasses topped with cherry slices.

Orange Quench. (Serves 1)

- 3/4 cup milk
- 1/4 cup orange juice
- 1 teaspoon sugar

Combine ingredients and beat until thoroughly blended. Serve chilled.

*Root Beer Flip. (Serves 1)

- 1/2 cup root beer
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 serving vanilla ice cream

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: Definite news has reached me on the spice situation, so now you homemakers can see exactly what is available in this line.

There's enough to go around freely of: cayenne, red pepper, mustard, chili powder, dill seeds, oregano, paprika, curry, cake spice, mixed pickling spice, celery seed, onion and garlic salt and powder, bay leaves, marjoram, cardamon, anise and black pepper.

Careful use is indicated for these spices: cinnamon, mace, allspice, white pepper, cloves, nutmeg and ginger.

Canning rubbers, lids, jars, etc. are available in sufficient quantity for this season's produce. An extra ration of sugar for canners will be allowed, amounting to five pounds per person for the year.

There's a possibility that coffee, tea, and cocoa may come in for rationing. Homemakers are also advised to save and conserve all fats, grease and oil. If you cannot use the fat at home, keep it well preserved in a cool place to prevent its becoming rancid, then bring to your butcher.

Pour root beer and milk into a tall glass. Add ice cream and serve immediately.

Maple Cooler. (Serves 1)

- 2 tablespoons maple syrup
- 1/4 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup milk
- Few grains salt

Combine ingredients and beat one minute. Top with whipped cream, if desired.

You will be driving around less these summer evenings for your breath of fresh air, but you will probably spend more time on your back porch, having the neighbors drop in and serving them simple drinks and a few sugar-saving cookies for the in-between-meal snack. You'll enjoy both of these recipes:

*Honey Chocolate Nut Cookies.

- 1/2 cup butter
- 2 squares unsweetened chocolate
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 cup sifted flour
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts

Melt butter and chocolate over hot water and stir until blended. Combine eggs, sugar, honey and salt in bowl. Add flour which has been sifted once before measuring. Mix thoroughly, add chocolate mixture and beat until smooth. Add nuts. Drop from spoonfuls on greased baking sheet, and bake in a slow (300-degree) oven 15 minutes. Remove from sheet immediately. The cookies taste better when mellowed, so pack in a tight container between layers of waxed paper.

*Chocolate Crunch.

1/2 pound semi-sweet or sweet milk chocolate
1 cup oven-popped rice cereal
Melt chocolate over hot water. Add cereal and stir until blended. Pack into a pan lined with waxed paper. Allow to set until chocolate hardens, then cut into squares.

It Took a Woman to Solve This Intricate Code

A piece of paper covered with mystic figures and signs had been discovered on the floor of the aircraft factory.

It had been seen to fall from the handbag of a girl worker who had received it from a strange woman at the works entrance. Experts had been called in to decipher the apparent code, but all failed.

Finally the manager took it home to study it further. There his wife chanced to see it, and she quickly supplied the solution. "Why, John," she exclaimed in animation, "wherever did you get this from? It's a knitting system for a perfectly lovely sweater!"

Leather-Backed Turtle

The leatherback turtle, Dermochelys coriacea, found in warm seas, is unique in two ways, says Collier's. Of the three hundred species of existing turtles, it is the only one that is not encased in a shell, having only a leathery skin.

Secondly, it is the largest animal of its kind, often measuring nine feet from nose to tail and weighing over 1,000 pounds.

Paving the Way

Going up to his schoolmaster with a trusting look in his innocent blue eyes, the lad asked: "You wouldn't punish me for something I haven't done, sir, would you?"
"Certainly not, my boy," was the reply. "Now, tell me all about it."
"Well, sir, I haven't done my homework."

Waiting His Time

"You love your girl, don't you?"
"Of course I do."
"Yet you mean to say you caught this fellow making love to her and you stand for it?"
"Well—er—yes. You see—"
"Why didn't you give him the hiding of his life?"
"I'm just waiting. Waiting, that's all."
"Waiting? What for?"
"Till I catch her with a smaller fellow."

"My wife has a queer way of getting even with the telephone company." Brown confided to a friend. "She used my car to knock down their poles."

TOM: It could have been a new hat if that blamed car of mine hadn't had to have a new set of piston rings.

ANN: I know wives shouldn't interfere in their husband's business, Tom, but Mrs. Reardon was telling me how much money Jack saved on the maintenance of his car. He drives even more than you do.

TOM: What all did she tell you, Ann?

ANN: Well, Jack Reardon uses Conoco Nth motor oil. That's the oil that OIL-PLATES the engine and saves a lot of wear and tear. And it contains a new synthetic that helps keep the oil from fouling up, too. Mrs. Reardon says Jack has to make his car last two or three years longer now and Conoco Nth motor oil will help him do it!

TOM: That settles it, Ann! I'm going to change right now to Conoco Nth!

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Federal Agents Foil Sabotage Plot With Capture of Nazi Spies in East; Rommel Forces Drive Toward Suez; Germany Opens New Russian Front

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

The long, solid black line shows the course of Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's African army in its drive toward Alexandria and the Suez canal. The dotted line, beginning at a point beyond Tobruk, shows the coastal route toward the canal, which connects the Mediterranean with the Red sea. The short, dotted line from Crete shows the short distance that need be flown to launch a Nazi air attack. The dotted line, starting from the swastika at the left, shows a possible German encircling move from Greece through Palestine then back to meet the Rommel arm of the drive.

SABOTEURS: Major Failure

A dramatic story of attempted Nazi sabotage in the United States was unfolded by FBI agents who rounded up eight master saboteurs trained by Nazi experts and landed by rubber boats from two submarines at Amagansett beach, Long Island, and Ponte Vedra beach, Fla.

The four Germans who landed at Amagansett beach rowed ashore in the early hours of the morning after the submarine had crept within 500 yards of the beach. From caches in the beach sands, FBI men recovered huge stores of powerful explosives buried by the men when they landed. Approximately $170,000 in American currency was carried by the Nazi agents to pay accomplices.

Objectives assigned to the men included the bombing of Hell Gate railroad bridge, the bombing of all bridge approaches to New York city, bombing of the New York water supply lines and the blasting of other vital objectives.

Each of the agents was provided with many types of forged credentials, including social security cards and selective service cards. Their traveling bags were equipped with secret compartments for money and documents.

A sequel to the story came with the arrest of several accomplices of the eight men, some of whom are regarded as associates of the Nazi agents who may have intended to take part in the sabotage effort. Two of the accomplices were arrested in Chicago.

NEW OFFENSIVE: In Russia

German troops opened a third summer front with a new offensive near Kursk, 120 miles north of Kharkov and 280 miles south of Moscow. The drive was opened even as more and more Nazi troops were poured against Russian defenses in the Kharkov and Sevastopol battles.

A Soviet communique said that "... in the Kursk direction, fighting commenced against the German troops who had gone over to the offensive." The Nazi drive was launched from entrenchments which they had held through the great Russian counteroffensive of last winter and spring.

Kursk is located on the Moscow-Crimean railroad in an agricultural area just north of the Ukraine. On an almost-straight line with Kharkov and Moscow, it was important for its anti-tank gun works, artificial rubber factory and cartridge plant.

Marshal Semyon Timoshenko announced the stemming of a German advance east of Kopyansk, then launched a counterattack on one key sector and pushed westward. German dispatches announced that operations on the Kharkov front were successfully concluded, but Russian communiques said the Red army was counterattacking successfully in several areas.

A German break-through east of Kursk would threaten vital Russian communications and might bring Soviet forces in the Kharkov sector within reach of an encirclement movement from the north.

ROMMEL IN EGYPT: Fluid Fighting

In the battle for Egypt, Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, director of the Axis drive toward Suez, struck at the British eighth army with the full weight of three armored divisions backed by artillery and infantry.

The first major British stand in Egypt, 15 miles west of Matruh, was by-passed early by mechanized units. The Nazi high command announced in a special communique the "storming" of Matruh. The Axis striking force was aimed at Alexandria, 165 miles away and the Suez canal beyond. Seriousness of the situation was evidenced by the fact that Nazi and Italian forces were within 150 miles of the fertile Nile valley, where 98 per cent of Egyptians live.

The British communique stated that "Enemy forces which have by-passed our position west of Matruh were met by our battle troops. Some of our armored forces attacked enemy forces west of Matruh."

An Italian communique said the Axis army had reached a position on the coast road about 19 miles beyond Matruh and that several hundred prisoners were captured.

OFFICIAL SCORE: In Battle of Midway

Official score of the Midway battle has been announced by the navy department—and the results were more heartening than had been previously supposed.

At least 10 Japanese ships were sunk, including four aircraft carriers, and at least eight others were damaged. Sunk in addition to the carriers were two 8,500 ton cruisers, three destroyers, and one or more transport or cargo vessels. Probably sunk was a fourth destroyer.

Damaged were two and probably three battleships, three or more heavy cruisers, one light cruiser and three transport or cargo ships. All the aircraft about the four Japanese cruisers, totaling about 275 planes, and all the aerial forces were lost, the communique said.

American losses were reported earlier. They included an aircraft carrier damaged, a destroyer sunk and some American planes lost.

SUGAR RATIONS: May Be Upped

A moderate increase in sugar rations—possibly half a pound per coupon—has been hinted by officials of the Office of Price Administration.

A survey of sugar stocks in the United States shows that the supply in the hands of consumers is 50 per cent less than a year ago. Stocks held by primary distributors and 20 per cent below 1941 and total sugar stock on hand is one-third less than at this time last year.

Final decision on the ration increase depends largely upon prospects of sugar shipments from Puerto Rico and Cuba during the next six months. In addition, the decision will hinge on information which is becoming available on actual distribution under the rationing system.

"The real question," one official said, "is how much sugar is going to be brought in from the Caribbean area."

PRODUCTION: Silence Broken

America's strict seal of wartime silence on production of materials for fighting the war was broken by President Roosevelt when he disclosed figures which as he put it, would not give "aid and comfort" to the enemy.

In fact, these production figures would likely have the opposite effect according to most Washington observers, for it was revealed that in May, U. S. factories produced nearly 4,000 planes, 1,500 tanks, 2,000 artillery and anti-tank guns, 50,000 machine guns and about 50,000 sub-machine guns.

The White House announcement of these figures came at the close of the Churchill-Roosevelt conferences and indicated that the strategy of the war had progressed to a point where a definite plan was developing. This meant the problem now resolved itself into providing a method for getting these huge supplies being turned out in the U. S. to the second front; how to continue the flow of supplies to Russia and how to even still more speed up the output of American machines.

CCC: Lease on Life

In a dramatic move, Vice President Henry A. Wallace came to the aid of the Civilian Conservation Corps and with his vote broke a senate tie to give at least a temporary lease on life to the seemingly doomed CCC.

By a vote of 32 to 32, the senate approved an appropriation of $76,529,800 for CCC financing during the 1943 fiscal year. Previously the house had voted to liquidate the agency, one of the earliest New Deal ventures.

House-senate differences will have to be ironed out in conference on the bill appropriating $1,157,498,426 for the labor department, Federal Security Administration and related agencies. This bill contains CCC funds.

The senate was tense as the roll call vote was taken on the CCC issue. The first call showed that 28 members favored continuation of the CCC; 24 members were opposed. The vote emerged 32 to 32 in a recapitulation. Then, from the chair, Vice President Wallace announced that the vote was a tie, and added:

"The chair votes in the affirmative."

JAP SETBACK: In China

Linhkien, a major Japanese base in the Honan-Shansi border area west of the Peiping-Hankow railway, has been recaptured by Chinese troops, dispatches revealed. A total of 5,500 Japs were killed in 13 days of combat, the dispatches added.

The recapture of Linhsien came as good news to Russia. Chinese observers were convinced that the Japanese operations in this north China area were a prelude to a surprise attack on Siberia. The day following the recapture of Linhsien was marked by a counteroffensive against the city. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's troops beat off the attack, chasing the Japanese into mountainous regions where the Japs "face imminent annihilation." A Chinese communique said that Chinese troops had recaptured Linping in the southern region of the Kianksi-Hunan border front.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK

Farmers, Workers United In Less-Than-Parity Issue

Seven Groups Back President on Continuation of Farm Security Administration; Veteran Observers See New Trend.

By BAUKHIAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

There is an interesting story yet to be told, behind the letter sent to the President urging him to take to the public the issues of continuation of the Farm Security Administration and the sale of grains for feed below parity.

The story lies in the signatures to that letter. There were seven of them and they represented two farm organizations, three labor organizations and two religious groups.

The combination of names, united in a single plea, marks one of the few occasions when farmer and worker found common ground on which to take a stand on policy. And some persons in Washington who are working for a closer farm-labor alliance see in the move the beginnings of a realignment of the farm organizations, with the formation of a new group that has at least a loose agreement with the AFL and the CIO behind it.

Veteran observers who have watched agriculture and labor pull in opposite directions for many years still feel these two groups have more to disagree than to agree upon. But they admit that this time the situation was ideal for mutual logrolling. Backers of a new day in farm organizations say it is more than that.

They point to significance in the signatories of the letter to the President. The seven signatories of this letter were:

First, James G. Patton, president of the National Farmers union, the most radical of the farm groups. This group contains more tenant farmers and fewer farm owners, than the other farm groups. It is a virile, growing outfit.

Second, Murray Lincoln, executive secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation of Ohio. The Farm Bureau federation is not a left-wing organization. Its President O'Neal is opposed to selling grain below parity. But Mr. Lincoln, head of the Ohio Farm bureau units, has a mind of his own. He runs buying co-operatives in the country. He is very consumer-minded.

The next signature is that of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and the next Phillip Murray, head of the CIO. The fifth of this group is J. G. Luhrsens, executive secretary of the American Railway Labor Executives association.

The religious groups are headed by L. G. Ligutti, executive secretary of the National Catholic Rural Life association, and Benson Landis of the Federal Council of Churches.

Those who don't know the whole story behind efforts to realign the farm organizations see only the surface reasons why all the organizations represented by the above names were willing to support the issues mentioned in the petition.

The tenant farmer who is ambitious wants to own his own farm. He sees in the Farm Security Administration an aid to that end. He considers this help a substitute for the vanished frontiers—the days when a man with a strong will, a willing wife and a sharp axe could cut a new home out of the wilderness to which the government was glad to hand him the deed.

Cheaper Food

This concept concerns labor less directly but the question of cheaper food concerns him considerably. The argument for sale of grain below parity is that it is necessary to keep dairy and meat products prices down and the Farmers union claims that opposition to Farm Security comes from "interests solely committed to the high-price-through-scarcity concept" which of course is the opposite of labor's platform.

Those are the obvious and immediate reasons why the signature of two of the country's leading labor leaders rest among the seven. The religious organizations have the family and general welfare in mind of course.

But there may be another reason why Mr. Murray and Mr. Green signed up, and why their one-time colleague, John Lewis, didn't. The story of the part Mr. Lewis didn't play is closely connected with the effort to create a new farm organization which will have the blessing of labor.

This is what happened. John Lewis, head of the powerful United Mine Workers of America, as you all know, has been trying to organize farm labor. He has made some progress under the so-called District 50 of his union in signing up hands in the dairy industry.

But he has encountered obstacles of all kinds among farmers who are all potential employers and capitalists at heart. If he could only get some really respectable farm organization, or a man connected with some such organization to take up his banner it would help.

He settled on the Farmers union not because of the name for it is not a union at all in the sense labor employs the word. But because it was left-of-center and had an aggressive president. Through negotiators he made an offer to Mr. Patton something like this:

"Fall down and worship me, get your organization to stand behind my District 50 drive and here is a million dollars to play with."

Mr. Patton's answer was "no."

But that move made Messrs. Murray and Green very Patton-conscious. It also called the attention of other up-and-comers with a left-of-center inclination to the possibilities of developing an organization which without in any way getting under the direct influence of a union labor movement such as Lewis', might work out a practical working agreement for pooling common interests.

Whether this is a practical idea will be revealed by the amount of activity the labor whips show when farm issues are up in the next months—whether this is just another temporary log-rolling alliance which has made stranger bedfellows before, or whether it has the basis of a more permanent working agreement.

Times are changing. It's worth watching.

'Victory Pig Clubs' Prove Successful

A prominent former Washingtonian, who moved to Kansas City with his cohorts in order to make room for war workers, was in the capital on business recently. He is A. D. Black, head of the Farm Credit administration.

He was full of the story of the "Victory Pig."

He said the Victory Pig movement, which is getting a good start in the South, promises to spread into the northern states. The first Victory Pig auction was held at Jonesboro, Ark., recently and the farmers and farmer boys who signed up to deliver pigs were paid in war bonds and stamps. The cry of the auctioneer worked prices up to $15.30 per hundred pounds, and that was more than top hogs were bringing on either the Memphis or St. Louis market.

The idea was hatched by the secretary of the local Production Credit association. He held a contest, offering $5 for the best name for the plan and so the Victory Pig club was born. The local chamber of commerce joined with the association and the whole countryside soon was feeding pigs to trade for war bonds. This, in spite of the fact that this agricultural county, Craighead, had signed up for $600,000 in bonds in the last 12 months.

Although Jonesboro claims to have held the first auction, Quitman, Ga., boasts of the organization of the first Victory Pig club.

Many of these auctions will be held this fall prior to the date when Secretary Wickard says there is likely to be a bottleneck in hogs. By this he means that there has been so many million more hogs raised this year than normally it is going to tax both transportation facilities and the capacity of packing houses. The secretary is urging farmers not to try to market too many hogs during Thanksgiving day and Washington's birthday, which is the time of the year when the pack is ordinarily particularly heavy.

More accidents happen to farm people than to any other class of workers, and in wartime accident rates usually rise sharply. Careless use of the tractor and other farm machinery causes 29 out of every 100 farm accidents.

CHAPTER XIV

A yell of horror cracked in Bruce's throat. He seized his rifle, climbed down from the cockpit, stumbling, slipping, raced toward the man wielding a gun like a club as a great polar bear charged at him. Another, smaller, bleeding, roaring horribly, was struggling up from the ice.

Harcourt stopped. Raised his rifle. Fired. His gun cracked again. Again. Both animals crumpled into mounds of white fur. The man who had been defending himself jumped back, turned.

"Bruce! Bruce!"

The universe steadied. Panting, bleeding, ashen, dripping with moisture, Chester stumbled forward. His eyes were the eyes of a man who has stared death in the face.

"Just in time! I shot—the—cub—didn't know there was another and—and—" he swayed. Harcourt caught him.

"Take it easy, Jimmy, till I can get you into the cockpit."

With moans, Chester pulled himself up.

As he climbed into the cockpit, Chester mumbled deliriously:

"Take me—back—Chief. Crazy stunt to—run—away. Milly heard me — threaten — Joe. I'll — come across with—"

His face contracted in pain. His eyes closed.

Grant's usually clear voice was toneless. "Did you get those notes typed?"

"Yes."

He picked up the sheets Janice indicated. "You're good, you are certainly good. When you leave you'd better take a turn at the reduction of the Public Debt."

"Leave! What do you mean?"

"Don't like the way this guy Paxton has been hanging round since Our Hero left. He and his 170-foot yacht, with its twin 550-horsepower engines, make headquarters look as bare and unlovely as a plucked chicken. I'll bet Bruce would be fit to tie if he knew that bozo was here."

"Ned arrived before he started." "He did! And he went off and left you?"

"Of what importance am I in comparison to his job?"

"Says you." Grant's always ruddy skin took on a deeper tint. He clearly gave her the impression that in his opinion Harcourt was deeply in love with her. But he quickly changed the subject.

"I've just found out that Kadyama didn't appear at all at the squaw dance the night Hale was shot."

"He told the marshal that he was there after nine."

"He sure did. But he wasn't."

"Where was he?"

"That's what I mean to find out. You're the only person I've told. Don't breathe a word to anyone. The Commissioner and Harcourt are sure that Mrs. Hale knows more about the late unpleasantness than she is telling. They radioed that they would be back at headquarters tomorrow. Didn't say whether they were bringing Chester. Get her up to the H house for a cup of tea this afternoon, can't you? I'll drop in. Philo Vance stuff. If your former fiancé comes, all to the good. I suspect that the sunny presence of a multi-millionaire might help dispel her gloom."

As she walked the short distance to the Samp cabin, Janice marshaled her memories. Where had Pasca been the evening of what he called the marriage-party? He had welcomed Bruce and herself when they landed on the flying field. She couldn't remember having seen him even for a moment during the festivities.

She paused abruptly on the threshold of the Samp living-room. Ned Paxton was beside Miss Mary at the table from which books and lamps had been removed to make space for a profusion of unmounted photographs. Martha, in the wing chair, white-stockinged feet on a stool, shoes on the floor beside it, peered from behind a newspaper.

"Sakes alive, aren't you through work early, Janice?"

"Mr. Grant closed the office early. I had finished the work he left. I suspect that he didn't want to be bothered with me. Immediately I thought of a tea-party. Where is Mrs. Hale?"

Martha Samp's voice was grim. "She isn't what you'd call cheerful. I kinder think Millicent's goin' to enjoy widowhood like some folks enjoy poor health. She's talkin' an awful lot about missin' Joe. Now, makin' allowance for the shock an' terrible unhappy with him."

"You don't understand folks who aren't hacked out of Plymouth Rock, as you are, Martha."

If one of the scarlet-coated Hessians on the hearth had clashed with his gold saber, Janice wouldn't have been more surprised than she was at the younger Samp sister's outburst. Martha stared at her with faded agate eyes.

"Mary Samp! What foolish talk! Have you gone plumb crazy?"

"Crazy! I've just come sane. I've spent over two years of the precious few I got left cookin' waffles up in this wilderness, where you don't ever see anybody, when I might have been seeing places, real places, an' having clothes, real clothes. Great things are goin' on in the world, an' all I know is waffles an' then more waffles."

Martha Samp opened her lips. "Mary Samp! Your head's been turned readin' those fashion magazines. Foolish things."

"They ain't foolish. They're like fairy tales to me. When I read 'bout slim, slithery women in trailin' silver dresses an' ermine capes an' emerald bracelets glitter-gleamin' on their arms, I'm them. You an' I are not poor. You like to pile up money. I don't. I'm going to spend my half. I'll stay here till the last boat goes out, then I'm through with pots and pans and waffles."

She sank back, visibly shaking. Her sister's voice was as sharp as a razor, though Janice saw the glint of tears in her eyes.

"I will take you down the coast in my yacht."

"Sakes alive, Mary Samp! I didn't know you had so much spunk. An' here I've been layin' awake nights wonderin' what would happen to you if I died. I guess I'm not so important as I thought I was. You'd probably get on a heap sight better without me. If that's the way you feel, you needn't wait for the last boat. Go as soon as you like. I don't need you."

Paxton, who had been standing by the mantel smoking, flung his cigarette into the fire. He laid his hand on Mary Samp's heaving shoulder. "Call her bluff. I will take you down the coast in my yacht. I'll give you the time of your life. I will take Mrs. Hale too, if she'll come."

Mary Samp wiped misty eyes with a shaking hand. "I'd like it, Mr. Paxton."

Millicent Hale was seated at a desk littered with papers when Janice entered her cabin. In her black frock she seemed passionless, remote, intangible as a shadow. The fire cast rosy shadows on her skin without warming it, flashed reflected flames into the strained eyes without lighting them. Janice felt her color rise in the face of her well-bred surprise.

"Mrs. Hale touched her black frock. "You are inviting me to a party?"

Her pained surprise made Janice feel like a worm. "I didn't mean a real party. Merely a cup of tea. I thought coming to the H house for a while might shorten the day for you. It must seem horribly long."

Millicent Hale's shudder was slight, quickly under control. "This day is neither longer nor harder than many other days have been in this horrible country. Has Bruce been heard from?"

"They radioed that they would leave the northern camp early tomorrow. Would reach headquarters in the afternoon."

"Have they found Jimmy?"

"Nothing was said about Mr. Chester. At least Mr. Grant told me nothing."

With a sob, relief perhaps, Millicent Hale laid her face on arms outflung on the desk. Janice tried to comfort her.

"I wish that I might help you."

"Help!" The woman rose with a haste which catapulted the somnolent Pekinese to the rug. Her voice shook with anger. "Help! You! You've snatched all the good in life there was left for me. You knew Bruce years ago, I hear. Met him again, ran away from the man you were to marry, disguised yourself as a boy, brought a trunkload of seductive clothes and came hotfoot after him, didn't you?"

"And got him!"

Janice banged the door behind her. Humiliation succeeded fury. If moments of crisis revealed one's true self, she and Millicent Hale had not shown up well under the late passage-at-arms. Two tenement-house women fighting over a man would have stripped down to the same basic frenzy.

"And got him!" What would Bruce think if he heard what she had claimed? The question which haunted Janice's waking hours, intruded on her dreams, bobbed up again! "Was Bruce in love with Millicent before I came?"

As she opened the H house door she heard a thud. Pasca, his plaid shirt of a blinding brilliance, was laying a log on the fire.

"Set up the card table," she said. "Lay the cloth and arrange the Chinese pewter tray the way I showed you. Be sure that the water for the tea has been freshly boiled. Grate cheese on crackers and brown them, put others together sandwich fashion with guava jelly and chopped nuts."

The man's stolid face brightened in a childish smile. "How many tea? One? Two? Tree?"

"Four cups. Put on your white coat." As she removed a faded flower from the bowl on the table desk which had been full of red roses the first time she entered the cabin, she asked casually, "You like the white coat, don't you? What do you wear when you go to dances? Feathers and blankets or just ordinary clothes? Perhaps you don't dance? Perhaps you weren't at the squaw dance the night the Samp sisters had the party for me?"

He stiffened into immobility long before she had finished speaking. Before he answered he shuffled across the room, removed the embroidered tea-cloth from the dresser drawer.

"I not go to dance, no sirree. Work all time at Waffle Shop. Tell Kadyama, 'You help. Then I get through much quick, then we two go squaw-dance.' He say no. He pretty lazy all time." He spread the cloth carefully and pattered into the kitchen.

Later, seated on the spavin-legged stool before the crooked dressing-table, Janice thoughtfully buffed her already polished nails.

Had the party come? Janice flung open the door in response to a knock. Her smiling lips stiffened. Ned Paxton. Alone. She feigned enthusiasm.

"Come in. Where are the others?"

"Coming. I'm the vanguard. As the relations between the Samp sisters seemed a little strained, I left them to fight it out." Back to the fire, he lighted a cigarette. Janice was conscious of his critical scrutiny of the room as he inhaled and exhaled a long breath of smoke. His cynical eyes came back to her in the fan-back chair.

"So you chose this in preference to what I could give you?"

His amused incredulity stung her. She struggled to keep her voice as lightly contemptuous as his.

"But, you see, I didn't have to take you with it."

"Touche! Score one for you."

Janice asked with honest curiosity: "Why did you want to marry me, Ned? I am different in all my tastes from the girls with whom you play round."

He frowned as he regarded her with appraising eyes. "You'd be surprised if you knew how many times I have asked myself that question. I went out of my way to meet you. I was curious. I had heard that in spite of the fact that you neither smoked, drank, gambled nor petted, men hung round you in smitten swarms, that you had more friends than any girl in your set. I didn't believe it, but I fell for you like all the rest."

"Smoking for some inexplicable reason makes me dizzy and cutting out the whoopee stuff was no virtue in me. I tried it all. I don't like the ugly and sordid, and more particularly the cheap things of life. They leave tarnished memories. My inhibitions ought to prove to you that I wouldn't fit into your scheme of living."

ADAM AND EVE: TEMPTATION AND SIN

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 3:1-13, 23, 24.
GOLDEN TEXT—The soul that sinneth, it shall die.—Ezekiel 18:4.

The finished creation of God was "very good," but before long it was marred by sin. Dr. Hart-Davies in his book on Genesis speaks of a brick from the walls of ancient Babylon, now in the British museum. It "bears the imprint of one of Babylon's mighty kings. Right over the center of the royal seal is deeply impressed the footprint of a 'pariah' dog which apparently trod upon it when it was soft and plastic. Human nature is like that brick. Man originally was made in the image of God, but over the divine likeness there has been superimposed the dirty disfigurement of the devil's imprint."

We see first in our lesson the appearance of the serpent who is the subtle emissary of—

I. Satan (vv. 1-5).

Man, because he was made in God's image, was not a mere automaton, having no moral choice. He was a free being who had to choose between good and evil. Obedience to God is the underlying moral principle of the universe. Man was given an opportunity to obey the prohibition of one tree in the Garden of Eden. The principle of prohibition in the midst of a world of privilege thus has divine sanction.

Satan provided the occasion for man's fall into sin. He came, not as the cloven-footed monstrosity of modern cartoonists, but as a creature more subtle than all other creation. His approach in our day is just as smooth and cultured (II Cor. 11:14).

II. Sin (v. 6).

Let us be clear that sin is not a necessity, not a natural weakness of man, not a falling upward in the progress of the race, but a deliberate choice to transgress the law of God. At once it showed its true nature by reaching out and leading another into transgression.

The one who listens to a slander against God can easily begin to doubt His Word, and then it is not difficult to look at what God has forbidden. Then the desire of the flesh takes hold and disobedience follows (cf. I John 2:16).

III. Shame (vv. 7-13).

The breaking of a right relationship with God broke the perfection of man's fellowship with man. Innocence was swallowed up in a sense of shame. But the shame is far deeper than a sense of nakedness. It speaks of a heart marked with sin which makes man hide from God.

Satan had promised Adam and Eve that they should know more about good and evil (v. 5), but all the good they learned about was what they had now lost, and the evil they learned was the sin which now blackened their souls and darkened their lives.

And with them fell the whole human race, for Paul tells us in Romans 5:12 that "by one man sin entered the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned."

IV. Sorrow (vv. 23, 24).

Man and his help meet, who had begun with such glorious promise in the garden, now had the great sorrow of being driven out by God. No longer to be trusted, man was kept out by the cherubim, mysterious angelic beings with the awful flaming sword.

Labor, which in the garden had been but a pleasant diversion, became a struggle against a thorn-infested ground. Sorrow was linked with motherhood, and man began to bear the heavy responsibilities of life (see Gen. 3:14-19).

But we must not close our lesson without pointing out that in the midst of judgment God provided mercy. The promise of man's redemption is written first in God's Book in Genesis 3:15, and from there the scarlet thread of redemptive truth runs right through the Bible to its last chapter.

Even in judging the first Adam for his sin, God thus promised the coming of the second Adam who was to redeem the race. We became members of the first Adam's family by natural birth—without the privilege of choice. We become members of the family of the second Adam by a new birth—a spiritual, supernatural rebirth. But the latter is by our own choice! (I Cor. 15:21, 22, 45).

Household Hints

Tiny pearl onions make tempting garnishes for vegetable salads or canapes.

When ironing no matter what the article, the important thing is to iron it until absolutely dry.

Apply several coats of boiled linseed oil to the soles of your shoes and let dry thoroughly to conserve them.

Equal amounts of coffee and heated milk, sweetened to taste, make an appetizing drink.

J. Fuller Pep

By JERRY LINK

Sittin' down in Jed's General Store the other day, it was kinda impressed on me that the weaker a fellow's argument is, the stronger the words he uses! Well, when I get to talkin' about KELLOGG'S PEP and vitamins I don't need any high-powered words. You see, to feel really good you got to eat right, which includes gettin' all your vitamins. And while PEP hasn't got 'em all, this swell-tastin' cereal is extra-long in the two that are oftentimes extra-short in ordinary meals—B, and D. Try PEP, won't you?

Kellogg's Pep
A delicious cereal that supplies per serving (1 oz.) the full minimum daily need of vitamin B; 1/4 the daily need of vitamin B.

DAN MOODY

UNDEFEATED — Dan Moody has set his sights on winning the U. S. Senate seat and his supporters point out that the red-headed, hard-campaigning attorney has yet to lose a race.

As governor, Moody gave outstanding aid to the State's public schools. The textbook law was amended and the expense of free textbooks was materially reduced. Rural schools qualifying for special aid were for the first time given full six-month terms, and money was appropriated for vocational training of underprivileged children.

In 1935 at the personal request of President Roosevelt, Moody went to New Orleans and successfully prosecuted a member of the Louisiana political ring for income tax evasion.

Born in Taylor, Moody was educated in the public schools of that county and the University of Texas. He enlisted in the Army during the first World War and was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry.

"If elected to the U. S. Senate," Moody declares, "I will support all measures which will contribute to our winning the war. I will oppose any influence which will imperil our chances of winning the war or delay victory."
