Editor of Kilgore Paper Joins U. S. Army

Five years ago Winston Gardner was chosen from the most promising of the June crop of Journalism graduates at the University of Texas, to be editor of the Kilgore Herald. When The Herald absorbed The Daily News by purchase in 1940, Gardner took over as editor of the News Herald.

He is a fine young fellow and will make his Uncle Sam a mighty fine soldier, and his real boss, June Gardner, will carry on at home as office manager and society editor of the paper.

—The Kilgore News Herald.

Winston is a native of Robert Lee, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Gardner, long time resident of our town, and will be remembered by his friends as a graduate of Robert Lee High School, after which he attended the Junior College at San Angelo for one year, majoring in journalism, then attended the University at Austin for three years. Winston was recently inducted into the U. S. Army to render his all, if necessary, that we may remain a free people.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner have three sons and all in the Army.

Out Of Town Visitors

Visitors in our fair city to attend the Conner Reunion were: Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Conner and children of Hawthorn, Calif; Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Connor and sons Lance Creek, Wyo.; Mrs. Joe Garrett and children, Carlsbad N. M. Mrs. C. C. Davis and children, Amarillo, Texas; and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Gray and children of Carrizo Springs, Texas.

Local Items

Mr. and Mrs. Buster Bradley of San Antonio, were in Robert Lee visiting this week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Wojtek and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wington spent the first of the week at Temple, Texas, to be at the bedside of Mr. Wojtek brother's John.

Miss Evelyn Duvall has accepted work in the hospital at Ballinger as a nurse. She had been employed in Littlefield.

Ray Ross has been employed by the Red & White and will appreciate his friends calling on him there.

Congressman South Visited In Robert Lee Thursday

Congressman Chas. L. South was in Robert Lee Thursday. He made a very frank and courageous speech over a loud speaker in front of the bank, saying he had been accused of casting three bad votes in six years time and he went over each of them explaining in detail why he voted as he did and would leave it up to the people to say whether he was to be penalized for voting as he thought best for all concerned.

Correction

Henry Escue and family and Joe Schooler and family, moved to San Angelo instead of San Antonio as stated last week.

Emery Davis and family are back in Robert Lee after a few weeks stay in Winters.

Household Fats Salvage Program

The Bureau of Industrial Conservation has set up the Fats Salvage Program giving each family a goal of between one and two pounds of waste cooking fats per month, which would yield well over half a billion pounds per year.

Housewives are being asked to save their fats in metal containers such as coffee cans or other tin cans, and when one or two pounds has been accumulated, to sell them to their local butchers at a price that will probably average about 5c a pound.

Coke County's Goal under this set up will be approximately 1377 pounds of fats per month. Let's exceed these goals.

Coke County Rubber Salvage Program.

H. E. Smith, Chairman of Coke County Salvage Committee

The citizens of Coke County did not break any record or set any new records in the recent National Rubber Salvage Program. However they did respond to the call and in their usual diligent way gathered in an average of nineteen and one eighth pounds of scrap rubber for each person in the county. A total of eighty seven thousand seven hundred eighty pounds. Mr. W. H. Maxwell agent for the Continental Oil Company, made the largest purchase, forty four thousand seven hundred twenty pounds. Freeman Clark buying at the Coke Motor in Robert Lee, made the largest station purchase, thirty one thousand four hundred twenty three pounds. A. E. Lahan Trucking Contractor at Robert Lee had the largest individual contribution, two thousand six hundred sixty seven pounds.

Methodist Notes

Vacation Church School

Beginning at the Methodist Church Monday, July 20, at 9:00 o'clock and extending through Saturday July 25.

All children between the ages of 3 and 14 are invited to attend. Come for play, study and worship. There will be fun for all.

Community Singing

Beginning Thursday evening July 23, 9:00 o'clock Mrs. Cortez Russell will conduct a community "Sing Song" at the Methodist Church. The group will meet on the steps of the church building where it will be pleasant and cool. Every one interested in singing and good fellowship is invited. There will be no collections or speaking, only singing and good fellowship.

Judge For 18 Years

Judge James W. McClendon, veteran Chief Justice of the Third Court of Civil Appeals, this week urged the voters of his district to follow the advice of the members of the legal profession in casting their ballots. Read his ad on back page.

Rev. Taylor Henley Goes To New Field

Rev. Taylor Henley preached his farwell sermon here last Sunday night after one years work here to the day, he was called to the church at Hebronville.

A Baptismal service was held at close of the revival with six applicants. This was the third baptismal service for Rev. Henley since entering the work, six each time making a total of 18 baptized in one years work. Rev. Henley felt that he was called to Hebronville and reluctantly gave up the work here. He and his wife and son John William had endeared themselves to the people here and it was a hard blow. We wish them much success in their new field of labor.

W. C. (Bill) McDonald.

W. C. (Bill) McDonald, candidate for District Attorney will speak over Radio Station KGKL at San Angelo every day next week July 20, 21, 22, 23, and 24, at 12:45 P. M. in behalf of his candidacy.

Be sure and hear him, also tell your friends to tune in.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Nazi Struggle for Russia and Egypt Takes Spotlight From Pacific Battle; Growing Force of U. S. Air Power Is Displayed on World's Many Fronts

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

U. S. AIR POWER: Around the Globe

From widely scattered sections of the world's fighting front came reports of the increasing strength of America's hard-striking air power.

Most dramatic was the announcement from London that for the first time the United States army air force had made an attack on Nazi occupied Europe. Six bombers, American made and American manned, took off and during a daylight raid smashed Nazi planes and troops on the ground at three Holland airdromes. Later enemy ships were attacked off the Dutch coast.

One interesting sidelight of the raid was that its principal hero, Capt. Charles C. Kegelman of El Reno, Okla., was awarded the Distinguished Service cross by Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander in chief of U. S. forces in the European theater, and Kegelman thus became the first member of the 1942 AEF to be decorated for gallantry in action against the enemy in Europe.

His feat was described as a demonstration of "superior airmanship and extraordinary coolness in the saving of the lives of his crew" after the plane he was piloting was struck hard by anti-aircraft fire over the bombing target.

Chinese Front

Meanwhile, the newly installed U. S. army air force in China started things off in good fashion by shooting down five Japanese planes in a battle which came as the result of a direct challenge by the U. S. forces to the enemy.

Background to the battle was a Jap radio report that their forces in the Hengyang area would "blast the new U. S. air forces out of China" and a reply by Brig. Gen. Claire L.

BRIG. GEN. CLAIRE CHENNAULT
Off to a good start.

Chennault, commander of the Americans, that any such attempt would get a "cheery welcome." Then came the Jap raid and the skies over Hengyang were subjected to what was described as perhaps the fiercest air battle over central China.

Australia Sector

General MacArthur's Australian headquarters reported that on the same day as the battle over central China, American and Australian planes shot down six Jap planes and damaged six others in heavy attacks on invasion bases Salamaua and Lae, New Guinea. Three United Nations planes were reported missing. In addition to the Jap planes destroyed, the report added that direct hits were scored on enemy airdromes, striking runways and buildings.

MORE SPIES: In Caribbean

Shortly after the FBI announced its arrest of the eight Nazi saboteurs who reached the U. S. via a submarine route, U. S. army headquarters in the Panama Canal Zone came through with the seizure of 20 alleged Nazi spies. It was claimed that these persons were engaged in a plot which included fueling of Nazi submarines and spotting of Allied shipping targets in the Caribbean.

Arrests were made from Panama to British Honduras, and business men, night club hostesses, trusted Canal Zone workers and shipping employees were involved.

RUSSIA: Pincers

When the Nazis finally drove the Russian defenders out of gallant Sevastopol, they succeeded in opening the second claw of a giant pincers movement which had for its other base the Kharkov foothold.

But success in Sevastopol was difficult to obtain. Even the Nazis admitted that. For 27 days everything the Nazis had was blasted against the besieged naval base. The Red navy had to retire from it to less secure bases in the Black sea. Still the Nazi bombers came.

MARSHAL SEMEON TIMOSHENKO
No rest for Nazis.

Finally the last Russian foothold in the Crimea fell and Hitler had gained an important wedge in his drive toward the oil fields of the Caucasus.

Not only did they open up to this rich prize, but the fall of Sevastopol meant that more men could now be diverted to the fighting around Kharkov.

But before the Nazis had a chance to rest and to realign themselves, cagey Russian Marshal Semeon Timoshenko struck savagely at them and regained several villages. The Nazis in turn had their eye on the Don river and would not be stopped until this objective was won. Although another front was opening to the northwest of Moscow, the battle of Kursk-Kharkov was viewed generally as the scene of Hitler's all-out 1942 offensive. For this was what he needed most of all—oil. And the winning of the Kharkov engagement meant that his goal would be much closer.

ALEUTIAN FOG: Lifts a Bit

Navy censorship and the dense fog that hangs over the far tip of the Jap-invaded Aleutian island chain, lifted alike to disclose that the U. S. naval air forces had been busy.

A navy communique reported that "our aircraft returned safely" after five new raids on Kiska and Agattu. A Jap force of three transports and their escorting vessels were inflicted with undetermined damage off Agattu and four attacks were made on the Japs at Kiska.

But the best news from that area was the announcement that on Independence day U. S. submarines sent three Jap destroyers to the bottom and left a fourth severely damaged. The communique reporting these sinkings said that three destroyers were fired upon near the Jap-occupied island of Kiska and the other one near Agattu island.

EGYPT: Rommel's Romp

While the German high command withheld any actual forecast as to the number of days it would take them to reach and capture Suez, British forces were letting nothing stand in their way of giving the Nazis the very fiercest resistance possible in the battle of Egypt.

Reports from Britain's Eighth army in this sector told of a weakening of German power under the leadership of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel. These reports said that many German soldiers had advanced to the British lines in surrender because they described themselves as "too tired" to fight.

His mechanized forces had advanced to a line 65 miles west of Alexandria before the British could present even a show of strength to deter him.

BRIEFS:

FREEDOM—In a message to the people of Puerto Rico, Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes said that: "as far as it is in my power to achieve

'Freedom' after victory.

it, Puerto Rico will share equally and fully in the freedom, security and opportunities offered by eventual victory."

APPLICATION—In Mount Clemens, Mich., a man wrote to his rationing board asking permission to buy a new car because he was engaged in war work. His name? Edsel Ford, president of Ford Motor company.

UNUSUAL—As authorities of French Guiana began preparations for military registration, a report from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, said that "unusual military preparations" were taking place in the colony.

WEDDING—President Roosevelt's close friend and adviser, Harry Hopkins, and Louise Macy are to be married in the White House on July 30, it was announced at a press conference held by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in Washington.

SHUN—Squabbles that interfere with war materials production should be shunned by labor, said Lieut. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, army chief of supply, as he addressed a luncheon of AFL and CIO labor leaders in Detroit. "We all belong to the same union," he said. "The Union of the United States of America . . ."

MOTORING: And It's 'Joys'

It didn't make much difference to motorists, but gasoline went up 2½ cents a gallon along the East coast. Main trouble was that you couldn't get much gas in that area anyway. Reports reaching the 31 states where gas is still rationed said that thousands of motorists were being turned away from empty gas stations in the East.

It was also generally believed that gas rationing might be the formula for the rest of the nation if the rubber salvage drive didn't bring enough of this vital scrap. After 219,000 tons of it had been collected in the originally scheduled period the drive was extended ten days.

Secretary Ickes, on leaving the White House one day, rolled up a heavy rubber mat from the floor of this important building and carried it to a scrap depot.

WARNING: From an Expert

Recognized as an expert in aviation, Maj. Alexander P. de Sevsky, airplane designer and military analyst, has given the United Nations a stern warning on the importance of gaining air superiority before attempting the opening of a second land front to relieve Nazi pressure on the Russians.

On a nation-wide radio hookup, which had as its forum topic the possibility of a land and sea invasion of Europe, the former Russian army official declared that it was opinion that a costly mass invasion would not get the desired results unless the German's mastery of the air was first disposed of.

"We have no alternative but to concentrate upon an all-out aerial offensive against Germany proper . . . In that way we offer true relief to Russia because we help to disarm Germany by smashing its industry, transport and fuel supplies, disorganizing and demoralizing the enemy," said the major.

Aligned with Sevsky was William B. Ziff, military expert, who pointed out that failure of the British to invade Norway and the recent blasting the Japs took at Midway were examples of what Britain and America would face if they tried an invasion without first getting control of the air.

On the other side of the debate were Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly and Wythe Williams, author and radio commentator. Their point of view was that while planes were vitally important in any invasion attempt, the invasion of Germany by land would most surely have to be made if the Nazi war machine was to be broken up.

Commercial Air Services Will Benefit Rural Areas

Mail Pick-Up System Proves Successful in 150 Towns; Airplane May Decentralize Population.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Never in the world's history has a war accomplished what this war—still far from over—has already done toward shrinking the globe. Last year four and a half million passengers were carried through the air, reducing travel days to travel-hours between our cities. Average speeds of passenger planes were well over three miles a minute.

Then came the war with planes rolling off the assembly lines at a rate that made mass-production of automobiles pale by comparison. Not all are weapons of war. All the inter-continental airlines in the world at their peak put together, before the war in Europe threw up the barriers, did not represent as many miles as the Airforce Ferrying Command's regular flights which today extend over every continent except Antarctica.

Those are a few comparisons to illustrate how the terrific impetus which commercial flying already had, has been increased by war needs. It is easy to visualize what this will mean when peace comes, a world with the most widely separated capitals crowded together—a completely new geography.

This is what aviation of tomorrow means to the great cities. What will it mean to the rural community?

That, too, is not hard to visualize if we look at what has already been accomplished under our noses without most of us realizing it. One hundred and fifty American towns and cities know what I mean. This group of communities is chiefly composed of the little town, down to those with a population as low as 588. This is the group which is benefiting by just one of the applications of the use of the airplane to small town life—an undertaking that has just celebrated its third anniversary. I refer to the Air-Pick-up Service which brings airmail to the four-corners post office and has already begun to pay for itself doing it.

Many of these points have no airports. Hilltops, public parks and meadows serve. For the mail airplane does not have to stop. It drops a sack of mail and with an automatic electric-driven arm picks up a mail-sack suspended on a rope between two poles. The various routes radiate from Pittsburgh through six states.

Father of the System

Representative Jennings Randolph of West Virginia, one of the most air-minded of congressmen, is the father of the pick-up system. He introduced the bill appropriating the money to the post office department which made this rural air-mail system possible. He tells me the Civil Aeronautics board has application for lines covering 2,000 communities in 26 states.

And Representative Randolph has a lot more bills up his sleeve which foreshadow activities to come and which will help bring aviation right down into everybody's backyard, figuratively speaking. One is for the creation of a national civilian air reserve corps.

Another is to provide training for glider pilots and a third is for aviation training for high schools. As chairman of the district committee of the house (which is equivalent to head of the board of aldermen) he has introduced this high school course—just the ground preliminaries, of course—in the Washington high schools. There were 300 students in the courses last semester.

Other plans are being prepared for commercial air service. The war is holding them back but, at the same time it is stimulating both the demand on the part of the public and desire on the part of promoters who recognize aviation's great future. The young folks growing up in the days of a war where aviation is the chief weapon will be ready to take over the controls when America flies for peace.

The Civil Air patrol which is doing yeoman service as an auxiliary to the army and navy air force in patrol duty is also the foundation for an air trucking service which will link the rural communities to the great airlines of the future. Trans-continental air "trains" consisting of an airplane and a string of trailer freight-planes will interlace the skies and great dirigible airships will float from Los Angeles to Tokyo in 79 hours, from Chicago to Friedrichshaven in Germany in less than 60 hours. And from the small communities to main airports the little "sky-trucks," the smaller planes such as the Civil Air patrol now uses will carry the produce of farm and small shop to the metropol-

As a matter of fact the Civil Air patrol is already doing courier and small package transportation in connection with the war effort. As one Air Patrol official said:

"This probably is the only untapped transportation in the country. It is organized and ready. The light plane uses a minimum of aluminum and rubber on its small landing wheels and burns no more gasoline than the family auto and can be put to many uses."

Just as the pick-up airmail service has begun to pay its way with steadily increased use, so this courier service by light planes is proving its value in the war effort. When peace comes it will be a part of the "farm-to-market" transportation.

Shipments Analyzed

Here is the testimony on this subject from Garnet Hughes, executive officer of the New York wing of the Civil Air patrol. (A wing command is established in each state):

"A careful study was made of the needs of one company engaged in wartime production," says Mr. Hughes, "and frequently sending for small emergency shipments of parts, tools, and materials by truck, motorcycle, or private car. In the month of April, 286 such trips were made. The total road mileage was 14,780 while the air mileage would have been 11,040. The road time was estimated at 422 hours and the air time at only 110 hours. The road cost was estimated at $1,700 and the air cost at less than half this figure. Even if the air cost were substantially more, the saving in time is the main consideration in wartime shipments of this character."

The small plane service will bear the same relations to the main line freight service of the future that the trucks bear to the railroad. They will mean the nearest thing to door-to-door air delivery. They can be used where the big planes cannot land and will be more economical for short-hauls and small deliveries as well as feeders to the main lines.

These are a few of the plans, already in the making which will bring the benefits of aviation to the rural community. Others will be developed the nature of which nobody today can guess. And the effect will be to decentralize the population. The middle-sized town and the small town will come back into their own, for each community will be so near in point of time to its farthest neighbor that none need crowd the other trying to seek the more favorable point in space for its well-being.

The navy's plan for toughening up its flying cadets will be carried out by actual pick-and-shovel labor, 40-mile marches between dawn and dusk, hiking and instruction in hand-to-hand combat. Some 2,500 young fellows will get this sort of training each month, along with the routine academic, tactical and military phases of the courses.

Co-operation

The whole world is undergoing many changes, some will be radical just how to cope with the changing conditions will be a task for each individual to consider as no concerted action will be of any value until times become more settled. The best of brains find themselves out of line from day to day and new conditions call for a change in well laid program and theories, war on land, sea & in the air have made many changes, so will many changes be in civil life the uppermost thing is to win this war.

OFFICIAL U. S. TREASURY WAR BOND QUOTAS FOR JULY

The above map of Texas shows the War Bond quotas, by counties, for the month of July, 1942. Total War Bond quota for the state is $33,677,000. With the National quota total placed at a billion dollars, the nation goes into high gear in its support of the War financing and to give our fighting forces adequate implements of war which will bring ultimate Victory.

American Soldiers, Sailors, Marines and Airmen are on every front. They are giving 100 percent for their country. What are we doing here on the home front? Are we lending at least ten percent of income to help them? It's very little. But to fight this war successfully our country needs a billion dollars in War Bonds every month from us—the People. Let's Go, America.

Streamlined Distribution Increases Farm Income

Consumers Heeded, Marketing Plans Are Developed, Standards Raised.

For years Jefferson county, Kentucky, growers sent their Irish potatoes into northern markets to compete with plentiful supplies from other sections of the country.

When the 1941 harvest season opened last July with the northern market heavily glutted, grower-members of the St. Matthews Produce Exchange, Jefferson County Co-operative, prepared to give up potatoes as a cash crop.

In a last desperate effort to salvage their cash crop, R. W. Hite, president of the exchange, called his membership together for a meeting with a group of distributors and restaurant operators. Instead of trying to move the potatoes into overloaded outside markets, the growers agreed with several distributors to seek to develop a market within the state through a "Kentucky Potato Campaign."

The resulting drive enabled the stores to move a large percentage of the crop locally and to boost prices paid the association 40 per cent. Now, instead of reducing their production, the 150 members of the exchange plan a 10 per cent increase this year in line with the federal government's request for greater production of fresh fruits and vegetables to aid the "Food for Victory" program.

The Kentuckians' experience is one of many examples of how growers throughout the country are attacking the major problem created by the increased production called for in the "Food for Victory" drive—finding profitable markets for the great crops of fresh fruits and vegetables now ripening in the fields and orchards of America.

Production no longer is the problem—farmers throughout the nation are responding wholeheartedly to the government's appeal for more fresh fruits and vegetables for America's dining tables. This year's crop yields, intention reports of the department of agriculture indicate, will be the largest since 1933.

Production increases in certain crops and in certain sections of the country are tremendous. Through June 13, the department of agriculture reported, rail shipments of commercial truck crops were 13 per cent greater than a year ago. Movement was heavier for beans, beets, carrots, cauliflower, green corn, cucumbers, mixed vegetables, onions, spinach, cantaloupes, strawberries and Irish potatoes. During one two-week period alone, shipment of commercial early potatoes rose nearly 2,000 cars above the corresponding period of 1941.

Growers Improve Production. Along the fruit front increases as large as those for fresh vegetables are not likely—it takes years to develop new fruit trees. However, growers are expected to improve production through more applications of fertilizers, better orchard management practices and elimination of as much waste as possible in production, harvesting and processing.

With production under control, the nation's growers now must make sure that their "vitamin bullets" reach the 130,000,000 Americans for whom they are intended.

As Secretary of Agriculture Wickard recently pointed out,

FARM TO RETAIL STORE COOP METHOD

Members of the Pennsylvania Co-operative Potato Growers association market 60 per cent of their output by moving it direct from farms in 45 counties to nearby retail stores. As a result, the 848 growers marketing through the association last year got 80 cents of the retail dollar, far above the national average share. An association truck is shown unloading potatoes at the back door of a large retail store.

production is "only the first step. Food, as one of the munitions of total war, is effective only when it is in the right form, at the right place, and at the right time."

Realizing more than ever that their job does not end with the harvest but instead extends to the consumer's market basket, farmers are paying increasing attention to the necessity of streamlining the distribution system to eliminate waste and to increase their own cash returns. With fruit and vegetable growers throughout the country getting only 35 cents of the retail dollar for their sales through all trade channels, growers are seeking to perform their own operations at the lowest possible cost while at the most economical marketing channels.

Working with distributors, extension directors, county agents and heads of state colleges of agriculture, growers are developing marketing programs and are making organized efforts to raise grade and pack standards to meet consumer demand. Movements of early season poor varieties and immature produce, shipments of which in the past built "consumer resistance" to better grades during peak movements, are being reduced.

Growers are building their home markets, with the active aid of distributors, extension services and agricultural leaders. Retail distributors, chain and independent, at the request of growers, are staging timely advertising and promotion campaigns.

In brief, growers are striving to place marketing on a non-speculative basis and to develop full co-operation among growers, shippers, distributors and state and federal marketing agencies in the job of moving food from farm to dinner table.

Farmers are increasing their marketing efficiency in a variety of ways. In Alabama, for example, thousands of bushels of tomatoes grown in Blount county in recent years were bought by itinerant truckers at unusually low prices. The truckers then hauled the tomatoes 100 miles across country to Atlanta and sold them to wholesalers. Often the wholesalers trucked them back more than 100 miles to Birmingham, only a short distance from Blount county.

Farmers Got Almost Nothing.

Consumers frequently paid sky-high prices for the tomatoes because of the expenses of the trip, various handling costs and profits—yet the farmers themselves got almost nothing. Thus when the A & P last summer guaranteed the Blount Countians a market for their tomatoes if they would set up a marketing co-operative to assure quality and quantity, the growers responded immediately.

With the active backing of the Agricultural Extension service and the marketing support of the stores, 75 growers formed the Blount County Tomato Growers association, bought a second-hand grader and 1,600 tomato crates with an investment of less than $700, and began operations the first of September. Association members averaged $2.50 a bushel the first two months, double the top average in past years.

In New England, New Hampshire potato growers worked out with chain stores a direct farm-to-store marketing operation which returned to the farmers 78 cents of the retail dollar, compared with the national average share of only 52 cents for all grades marketed through trade channels.

In Pennsylvania, 848 grower-members of the Pennsylvania Co-operative Potato Growers association have developed a direct farm-to-retail-store system unique in the annals of farm marketing. The co-operative sells 60 per cent of its output on a "streamlined" basis whereby growers deliver individually to nearby stores.

With no middleman save the grocery counter, both farmer and consumer benefit. Potatoes for which the grower is paid from 17 to 19 cents per peck are sold to the consumer for only 20 to 21 cents. During the 1941-42 marketing season, the association sold 4,918,499 pecks for $1,324,065.

DIRECT MARKETING IN S. CAROLINA

Farmers, seeking to solve transportation problems created by the war and also find more profitable markets for their produce, are moving much of their produce as directly as possible from farm to retail stores. Here L. C. White (right), field buyer for the Atlantic Commission company, watches peaches being loaded onto a truck at a packing shed operated by members of the Ridge Peach and Vegetable association at Ridge Spring, S. C. The truck takes the fresh peaches directly to retail stores.

"No, no," said Pat, "I don't mean when he died. I mean what was the trouble? What was the complaint?"

Vegetable Preparation and Processing Guide

Stock Those Shelves

Well-justified pride is yours if you can gaze at the summer's crop of vegetables, nicely put up on your canning shelf for, comes the winter, you have but to open one of those brightly colored jars with tomatoes, peas, beans, beets or carrots or any of the other vegetable favorites and part of that well balanced meal is planned and on its way to the table.

Safest method for canning vegetables is by the pressure cooker. Your concern here is to be sure to process the exact length of time the vegetable requires, as indicated by the table at the top. If not properly processed, the food will spoil.

Selecting Vegetables.

Young, tender vegetables, freshly gathered, give you the best finished product. Canning cannot remedy tough, over-mature produce, so do not expect it to. Nor, should you expect to can what you cannot dispose of at the table while fresh. Commercial canners use vegetables grown to order, not leftovers, so it behooves you, homemakers, to take a tip from them.

Cleanliness is important. You'll enjoy letting cool water trickle, trickle, trickle over the vegetables to free them entirely of every trace of soil. Any soil left on the vegetable can carry bacteria, and thus be a major factor in spoiling an otherwise good product.

Process the jars of vegetables as soon as they are packed, never allowing them to stand around until you get to the serious business of canning.

Spoilage Factors.

Mold, yeast and bacteria cause food spoilage. They lurk in air, soil and water and must be destroyed by proper processing if the food is to keep in perfect condition. Then to assure food keeping well be sure the jar cover is fastened as tightly as possible. This you can do by any number of available devices.

It is also important when packing the jars, after vegetables have been precooked and you are spooning them into the jars, to wipe off any excess before fastening on the cover. Any small particles which lodge between cover and jar will cause spoilage.

Lynn Says:

How many jars will it take? That's the question many home canners are asking when it comes to figuring the number of jars she should have.

Here are hints on some of the common canned goods:

Tomatoes: 3 pounds yield a quart jar.

String Beans: 1 bushel yields 17 to 20 quart jars.

Greens: 1 bushel spinach yields 13 pints; 1 bushel dandelions yields 15 pints.

Corn: 100 ears of golden Bantam makes about 14 pints.

Beets: 12 pounds yields 6 pints in the stalk, 2 pint jars, if cut in pieces.

Peas: 1 bushel pods yields 14 pints.

Cooling the Jars.

Proper cooling is important to the good keeping of canned food. Do not set them in a draft, but rather away from one, with jars far enough apart to allow a free circulation of air around them.

Stacking the jars or covering them with a cloth does not allow for free circulation of the air. Jars should not be packed in boxes or in the canning cupboard until they are properly cool.

When the jars are cool, test to see if they are sealed properly, by taking a spoon and tapping the lid gently. If they give off a clear, ringing sound, they are properly sealed. If the sound is low and dull, there's a leak somewhere, and you would do best to re-can the food and prevent spoilage.

Sterilizing Jars, Caps, Lids.

To dip the jars, lids and caps in hot or warm water is not proper sterilization. Before placing in sterilizer, wash all caps and jars and lids in soapy suds, then rinse thoroughly. Place in a pan on a rack or on a cloth laid on the bottom of the pan and pour warm water over them. Bring to a boil and boil for 15 minutes. The equipment may stay in the hot water longer, until you are ready to use it.

Speed Is Necessary.

The time from which the vegetables or fruit are picked and canned should be pared down to exceed not more than two hours. Changes take place in the composition of the food which makes it less desirable for canning, each hour it is allowed to stand without being canned.

Packing the Food.

Sandwiching the food down in the jars too tightly prevents the heat from getting around it and will result in improper processing. Especially important is a fairly loose packing with vegetables like corn, peas, greens and lima beans.

If liquid boils away or evaporates during processing, do not replace this other liquid before sealing the jar. Even though all the vegetables or fruits are not covered with juice, they will keep perfectly well, provided the contents are cooked properly and sealed well.

Since tomatoes are technically a fruit and are acid, they are canned differently from vegetables.

Tomatoes.

Scald tomatoes in boiling water 1 minute. Soak in cold water 1 minute. Peel, core and pack into sterilized jars. Add 1 teaspoonful of salt to each jar and cover with boiling water or tomato juice to within 1/2 inch of the top. Put on cap, screw tightly and place in pressure cooker for 10 minutes at 5 pounds, in a hot water bath for 35 minutes or in the oven for 75 minutes.

If the directions for the vegetables you wish to can are not given in today's column, or if you have any vegetable canning problems, write to Miss Lynn Chambers, explaining your problem to her. Address your letters to her at Western Newspaper Union, 210 South Desplaines Street, Chicago, Illinois. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply.
