Off To Washington Coke County Stock

Preparing to assume duties the first of the year as 21st district congressman, succeeding Rep. Charles L. South of Coleman, Rep. Elect O. C. Fisher announced appointment of Grady Hill, managing editor of the San Angelo Standard, as his secretary.

Fisher and Hill and their families plan to go to Washington late in December.

Hill reared at Christoval, attended the University of Texas. He joined the Standard Times in 1929 and specialized in interpretive writing on agricultural, industrial, oil, governmental and public service news of Southwest Texas.

"In Mr. Hill I will have a man who truly knows West Texas and its problems, wool and mohair, for example and who can supplement the service of the congressional office to the 21st district," Rep. Elect Fisher said.

Notice

Bro. L. Whayhurst will preach at Church of Christ Sunday 18th. Services at 9:45 A. M. 3 P. M. and 8 P. M.

Every one invited to attend all these services.

Alma Jean Escue underwent an appendectomy Sunday in a San Angelo hospital.

Association Holds Annual Meeting

The directors of the Coke County Livestock Association met with the fathers of the F. F. A. and 4-H club members in the school house at Robert Lee on Friday night.

Mr. C. E. Arrott chairman of the directors explained that the meeting was to outline the show and the feeding program for this fall and next spring, and to elect new directors. Mr. Arrott made a very important and impressive talk about the importance of the boys and girls feeding pigs, lambs and calves to help produce the meat that is needed by our nation in its war effort. He appealed to the Dads to support these young people and encourage them in every way possible.

H. E. Smith County Agent outlined the feeding program to be followed in the county this year and the show which will be held in the spring. He gave the figures that concern the amount of food in forms of meat that would be necessary to feed the Coke County boys in the armed forces. The amount would be so great that the boys and girls could not produce the total, but they can produce the exact amount of beef, pork and mutton that would be needed. To meet this goal they will have to fatten 51 calves to 800 pounds, 380 lambs to 100 pounds and 124 hogs to 250 pounds. The show will be on a commercial bases and only fat animals will be shown. The agent stresses the importance of the boys and girls feeding their animals on a commercial bases, select good type feeders (not fancy show stuff) and feed as much home grown feed as possible, and put as economical a gain as possible on the animals.

Mr. D. B. Collinsworth Vocational Agriculture teacher of Robert Lee gave a good review of last years show as compared to this years goals. Mr. Faith Vo. Ag. teacher from Bronte made a good talk on the importance of cooperation of every one in putting over such a program.

Mr. C. E. Arrott was re-elected as Chairman, Raymond Schooner vice chairman, and D. B. Collinsworth was elected secretary treasurer.

MY HOME TOWN

DORA RICHARDSON

When I was just a child, thirteen years of age,
From dear old Robert Lee High School I moved,
Three hundred miles away.

After several months in my new home and school,
My mind began to stray.

To my bear old friends of Robert Lee,
A Town so far away.

I remember the fun we used to have,
Sliding, seesawing, and many other things,
Remember the games we used to play,
The songs we used to sing.

Someday I'll not have to just remember,
Someday I can live there again,
Back in the Golden West, in Robert Lee,
The Land of my Golden Dreams.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Stalin to Allies: 'Fulfill Obligations'; Records Prove U. S. War Planes Superior; Wages, Food, Rent, Profits Stabilized As Anti-Inflation Program Takes Effect

Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.
(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Released by Western Newspaper Union.

America, too, is developing its force of Commando units as the above photograph from the Panama Canal Zone would indicate. Here, during training maneuvers, these "Bushmasters" are about to push their way through barbed wire entanglements as part of a simulated attack on an "enemy force." Highly trained and tough, troops like these are the spearheads of attacking forces.

INFLATION CURB:

Roosevelt to Byrnes

Within 18 hours after he had been granted broad powers to halt the spiral of inflation, President Roosevelt named Associate Justice James F. Byrnes as the director of economic stabilization and moved to stabilize wages, salaries, profits and farm prices.

Byrnes resigned from the Supreme court shortly after he was named head of the new Office of Economic Stabilization.

Under the new legislation farm price ceilings cannot be set below parity or below the highest market level between January 1 and September 15, 1942, whichever is higher. If such ceilings are too low to reflect increases in farm labor and other costs since January 1, 1941, the President is directed to raise them. The legislation calls for a 90 per cent parity "floor" under cotton, corn, wheat, rice, tobacco and peanuts, the floor to be established by means of loans. The President may hold the loans down to 85 per cent, however, on corn and wheat used for feeding livestock and poultry.

Acting immediately, Leon Henderson, head of the Office of Price Administration, ordered that all rents be frozen at the level of March 1, 1942. Henderson issued his first stabilization order within 24 hours after the OPA was created. He said the OPA soon would establish machinery to enforce national rent regulation and urged that, in the meantime, landlords who may have raised rents since March 1 reduce them to the previous level.

He asserted that evictions resulting from sale of rental property will be prevented.

In setting forth a wage and salary stabilization policy, President Roosevelt provided that there be no decreases for any particular work below the highest wages paid between January 1 and September 15 unless to correct inequalities.

BUSH SOLDIERS:

In Surprise Advance

Rugged Australian bush soldiers turned the tables on the Japs in New Guinea and, through infiltration methods, recaptured Nauro in the Owen Stanley mountain range, high point of the Japanese advance, and then continued their forward march to the north.

Strong enemy opposition was expected, but failed to materialize. The march took the Aussies to Nauro, then to Menari, "without establishing contact with the enemy." Official communiques said nothing about what had happened to Japanese forces which at one time drove to within 32 miles of Port Moresby. However, Allied air strafing and bombing of pack trails is thought to have accounted largely for the Jap retreat.

Meanwhile, heavy bombers raided Japanese shipping at Rabaul, New Britain and Buin on Bougainville, in the northern Solomons, setting fire to two enemy transports and scoring possible hits on two cruisers and an unidentified ship.

The marines continued to consolidate their positions in the Solomons and to strengthen the defense of the important Guadalcanal air base.

RUSSIA:

And Second Front

Even as Josef Stalin reiterated his demand for a second front to bring relief to sorely tried Russia, an official communique acknowledged relentless Nazi pressure everywhere on the Volga front. The communique neither claimed Soviet advances nor acknowledged withdrawals, but spoke of "incessant attacks" by the enemy.

In one sector within Stalingrad Soviet forces were reported to have demolished several blockhouses held by the Germans, killing about three companies of Nazi infantry. In a special bulletin the Moscow radio said that Soviet troops had driven the Nazis from an important point on the front west of Moscow, later beating off five counterattacks. In one of these attacks the Germans were reported to have lost 700 men—killed.

Dispatches from the front said that in northwest Stalingrad the Red army attacked in force in an industrial district, hammering through several streets and improving the Soviets' general position.

Despite local Russian successes, Premier Stalin pointed out the increased necessity for a second front and increased aid. He asked that the Allies "fulfill their obligations fully and on time."

Broadcasts from Vichy, France, and from Turkey said that Stalin had turned over to Marshal Shaposhnikov the post of defense commissar, which Stalin himself had held.

YANK AIRMEN:

In Biggest Raid

In the biggest daylight operation the U. S. army air forces have yet undertaken from England, American Flying Fortresses blasted a Nazi aircraft factory at Meaulte and an airfield at St. Omer in northern France and shot down 13 of Germany's crack fighter planes.

At the same time U. S. Boston bombers attacked docks at Le Havre, and escorting American and Allied fighters totalling 400 destroyed another five Nazi Focke-Wulf 190 planes.

Although officials did not reveal the number of Flying Fortresses participating in the raid, all the fortress planes returned safely. Six Allied fighter planes were lost.

Even as the speedy fighters and the mammoth fortresses and American medium bombers were roaring over France, engaging enemy fighters and bombing targets, Britain's secret Mosquito planes, fresh from their assault on Nazi-occupied Oslo, were pounding objectives in Belgium.

'BOX SCORE':

Of U. S. War Planes

The "box score" of American fighter planes and bombers in combat over world battlefronts proves their superiority over Axis aircraft, according to a special house subcommittee report.

The ratio of enemy planes destroyed to U. S. losses in combat during the period from August 14 through September 14 was 7.5 to 1. During this period, P-39s destroyed 20 enemy planes in combat with a loss of five, and P-40s destroyed 14 enemy planes with a loss of only one.

FULL DINNER PAIL:

'Definite Assurance'

There was a coffee shortage looming and plans were under way for meat rationing but a "considered statement" by Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Production board, carried definite assurance that "there will be enough food to eat" for the duration.

This statement was made to the house agriculture committee. The committee has been studying the farm labor shortage and has warned that this situation might cause an acute food shortage. While Mr. Nelson appeared to recognize the labor problem as an important one, he felt that "we are going to be smart enough . . . to meet the problem."

Meanwhile a vast loan program to farmers was being considered to aid them in producing full capacity crops. This prospective step calls for such loans to small-income farmers, with the funds to be used for obtaining tools, machinery, livestock and other items to aid increased production despite less available labor.

HOARDING GAS?:

It's Plenty Dangerous

Hoarding of gasoline to beat rationing plans is not only unpatriotic, says the National Safety council, but extremely dangerous.

"The motorist who tries to beat rationing by laying in a supply of gas literally is storing up danger and trouble for himself," says this safety bureau, and further warns that:

"No matter how careful the average person may be in storing gasoline, there is a definite danger that vapor will escape. This vapor is highly explosive, and a chance spark or flame may set off an explosion that can wreck a house and cause death or injury."

Concludes this warning:

"You may get an extra ride hoarding gas, but the chances are it will be to the hospital. There is only one safe rule for hoarding gasoline—Don't do it!"

YOUR USED TIRES:

Can't Be Sold

As a further rubber conservation step, Price Administrator Leon Henderson acted to "freeze" all used tires and tubes in the hands of present owners until a normal rationing program can be worked out.

The OPA order prohibited the transfer of any used tires and tubes by dealers and consumers. It did not, however, prevent the sale to a consumer of an automobile equipped with used tires. Automobile dealers also are allowed to shift their used tires that are mounted on cars in stock to other cars also in stock.

The order permits car owners to have their used casings and tubes repaired and to have tires recapped if they qualify for the latter service.

MORE TROUBLE:

For Vichy France

Edouard Herriot, former president of the now defunct French chamber of deputies, has been arrested for challenging the Vichy government's policy of increased collaboration with the Axis.

The 70-year-old elder statesman of the Third Republic was reported held in his chateau outside Lyons, according to German and Italian radio announcements.

Recently Herriot and Jules Jeanne, former leader of the French senate, warned the Vichy government against trying to draw France back into the war against "our" Allies. Herriot also announced his resignation from the French Legion of Honor because the award had been given to Frenchmen fighting for the Germans on the Russian front. He has steadfastly refused to have anything to do with the collaborationist regime.

It was presumed that Pierre Laval ordered his arrest because he feared that he would go abroad and lend his invaluable prestige to the Fighting French.

Civilians Aid War Effort Conserving Meat, Heat

Being Frugal With Coal and Oil for Home Heating, and Also Not Buying More Than Your Weekly Meat Allotment Helps.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N. W.,
Washington, D. C.

You have heard before that the one question, repeated most often in letters which come into the Office of Civilian Defense in Washington is: "What can I do to help win the war?"

I receive a great proportion of such letters. Many of you have asked this question yourselves. Some of you haven't been able to get a satisfactory answer.

Beginning this month there are two things you can do if you really want to help win the war. They are these: conserve heat and meat.

We have plenty of meat in the country, we have plenty of coal and oil. But some of the meat—about a fourth of it—has to go to our own fighting men and those of our Allies. And much of the coal and a great deal of the oil can't get to us because of a shortage of transportation.

Look at the heat situation first: The war has depleted our coastal tankers which furnished 95 per cent of our means of transportation to the eastern states. Many of these tankers were needed by our fighting forces and our Allies, many went to the bottom as a result of the U-boats. Many that once plied the eastern seaboard go to Melbourne or Murmansk—some have already gone to Davy Jones' locker.

Last November the railroads were hauling 68,000 barrels of oil a day. Now they are carrying 800,000 barrels a day.

But remember it takes four or five trains, of some 70 cars each, to haul as much as one tanker. And there is of course a tremendous increase in the amount of oil and gas consumed by war activities, civilian and military.

Fuel oil is already rationed. Gasoline will be rationed nation-wide soon. That process is automatic but there are other things you can do to help.

You can make your house heat-tight with weather stripping; you can convert from oil to coal (if you can get coal in your locality); you can be frugal. According to estimates given out by the War Information office you can save the nation, by reasonable conservation, 25½ MILLION tons of coal this winter. You can save over 18 million barrels of oil between October 1, 1942, and May 1, 1943.

Conserve your heat—now what about your meat?

Beginning this month there is one thing that you can do. It is easy to check up on yourself as to whether you really want to help in this respect. All you need to be able to do is to count up to three. Not even that far, just two and one-half.

That is the number of pounds of meat you ought to eat each week from now on. More than that will rob somebody else—less than that isn't enough to keep you going.

By February you will have no choice. You'll have a ration book and you'll get the amount the government says you can have. Meanwhile it is your patriotic duty to ration yourself.

This is the reason: One-fourth of the meat supply of the country has to be turned over to the fighting forces of the United Nations. If they could, the American people would buy 21 billion pounds of meat in the next 12 months. There are about 17½ billions available.

Second Step: Rationing

The government has taken one step, is preparing for another. The first is to limit the deliveries by the packers to civilian outlets. The second is rationing. The machinery for that takes time—by February it is hoped the rationing system can be in effect.

Now in this intermediate period, although there is a limit to the amount of meat the market gets, there is no limit on what the individual can buy as long as the butcher has it. That is up to you. So it becomes a question of sharing. The Food committee in Washington, using the best information available, has set 2½ pounds per person per week as the limit.

You may be able to get to the meat market early. Many housewives can't. A lot of them are working in defense industries or have other duties. If you overbuy there won't be enough to go around.

Two and a half pounds isn't nearly as much as many people would like. But it is a lot more than most people need or, in fact, are used to. In the 1930s we consumed an average of 130 pounds per capita per year. But many people are sharing this new big 115 billion dollar national income and one way they are spending it is on meat. Without gasoline for the car they can't get out to so many shows and other entertainment. There is more money left for the dining-table.

We like meat for its flavor as much as for its nourishment. The wealthy and the middle classes have always bought more meat than they needed for their health. The poorer people frequently had less than they needed. Now, with a shortage and plenty of money, the competition is higher. It will be easy for the greedy to rob the less fortunate.

Why, you may ask, don't we establish meatless days for everybody? That would not be fair to poorer classes who get so little meat anyhow. But some regular limit has to be adopted by eating houses and agreed upon among them. Otherwise there will be unfair competition. The place that co-operates and cuts down on one day or one dish, will simply lose out to the restaurant which serves meat that day.

At home, considerable responsibility rests on the housewife. She has to adjust her menus to provide a balanced diet.

Meat contains four important nutritive elements: Protein, iron, thiamin (vitamin B1) and niacin.

As far as the protein goes it can easily be provided by serving more milk, eggs, cheese and legumes. A nice steaming pile of pancakes, for instance, if they are made from milk and eggs, will give some protein as well as that comfortable feeling of well-being within.

But such foods do not give you the other things that you need which meat offers. You will have to have whole grain products and that means, when you take them in the form of bread, it must be enriched bread and even then you won't get the iron and niacin contained in whole wheat. The dark leafy green vegetables, potatoes and legumes (peas and beans) will help.

But where you'll really find the pinch is in the flavor. That, I think, is what the Germans complained about most in their rations. You can get the meat flavor we all crave with meat dishes that are diluted, like soups, and hash and meat loaf.

But do it. See that you keep within your 2½ pound limit and you'll be helping win the war.

To Market

Some weeks ago Secretary of Agriculture Wickard received a postal card addressed to him at his Indiana farm home, urging him to get his pig crop to market early. He raises quite a lot of pigs and runs his farm as best he can while he tries to take care of the needs of several million farmers at the same time. He said he felt kind of foolish when the card came but he did what it asked him to do.

"I felt foolish," he said, "because I wrote that post card myself. (It was a card sent out pretty widely to pig-raisers all over the country.) And when I'd sent the pigs off I wondered whether I was really patriotic or not; because those hogs were a lot lighter than they would have been if I hadn't marketed them so early."

And right there you have one of the problems that faces a nation trying to feed itself and its lend-lease Allies under the difficult conditions which the war causes. The pig problem is tied closest to the farmer's number two headache, distribution. We could get more pounds (fatter hogs)—and fats are needed—if we slaughtered later, but the packers and the railroads aren't going to be able to handle the mammoth hog crop if it all comes at once.

SADDLE and RIDE

By ERNEST HAYCOX W.N.U. Release

THE STORY SO FAR: Clay Morgan has decided to play a lone hand against Ben Herendeen, a rancher bent on running the cattle country his own way. The two men have been enemies for years, having first fought over Clay's wife, Lila, who died hating him and believing she should have married Herendeen. Morgan is a solitary figure, devoted to his nine-year-old daughter, Janet. Although two women, Catherine Grant and Ann McGarrah, are in love with him, they know he cannot forget Lila. Of his former friends, only Hack Breathitt has not gone over to Herendeen's side. Gurd Grant, Catherine's brother, hesitated about joining Herendeen, but became Morgan's sworn enemy when he discovered that Catherine had been to his ranch. Hack Breathitt, seen camping with Pete Borders, a rustler, is being watched by Herendeen's men. Learning that Government Valley, a piece of land he and Herendeen both want, is to be auctioned at Sage City, 100 miles away, Clay rides all night and arrives in time to outbid Charley Hillhouse, Herendeen's foreman. Then he proves his generosity by letting the Willings, a family of "nesters" threatened by Herendeen, stay in the Valley. Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER IX

Morgan was standing alone in his kitchen, thinking of Hack Breathitt. He refilled his coffee-cup, standing with his feet apart in the middle of the kitchen; light struck the surface of his eyes, setting up a quick frost-glow. Restlessness turned him out of his tracks and made him gently circle the room. Breathitt, he thought, would be sitting somewhere in the hills, laughing at the posses on his trail and ironically amused at a world which could turn him into a fugitive overnight. Morgan speculated on Breathitt's possible hideout. The three of them, Breathitt and Hillhouse and himself, had ridden this country for years together and knew every hollow and ravine and windfall pit.

He pulled the coffee-cup from his lips and held it suspended, suddenly struck by a warning. If he were familiar with Hack's ways, so was Hillhouse.

Morgan turned to the living room, pausing there only long enough to get his hat, his gun and belt, and to lift a Winchester from the rack near the door. He crossed the yard, lugged his saddle gear from the horse barn and roped a pony out of the corral. Cap Vermilye and Harry Jump strolled forward. In these moonshot shadows they watched him thrust the Winchester into its boot beneath the saddle fender and swing aboard. Harry Jump said, gently, "Nice night for ducks."

"I'll be riding around, here and there," explained Morgan. "Don't know when I'll be back."

When he turned the prow of the Moguls the lights of Long Seven were cut off. The moon was at three-quarter stage and so he traveled through shadows that had the luminous, pearly shine of fog. Mogul's summits were clear-black against the sky; as he rode over the meadows he saw the blurred shadow of himself go forward in lengthening distortion against the yellow grass. At the jump-off of the meadow lands, where Mogul slid a thousand feet through pine groves into the narrow valley occupied by Herendeen, he paused to take his survey. Dell Lake was a silver circle, half-down the incline. The valley itself, filled with this night's fog-like mist, was a winding silver ribbon. He followed its course with his glance, catching the distant glitter of Herendeen's lights, and then his attention came back to the red-yellow glow of a campfire in the pines. Probably a posse.

The floor of the forest was thick with needle droppings; it absorbed the footfalls of his horse completely and so, gently walking the pony, he drifted forward until he reached the margin of light. Here he halted, amused that none of the five men crouched and lying by the fire yet knew of his approach. Charley Hillhouse squatted by the fire, idly feeding in pine branches. Two of the other men were Herendeen riders, one was Hamp Brigham, a smaller rancher from the Cache Mountains; and the fifth, lying full length on the ground, was Gurd Grant.

"Where you think you'll find him?" Gurd asked.

"Not on this side of the valley. I know Hack pretty well. He likes the Caches better."

Morgan spoke from the protecting shadows. "That's the way I figure it, Charley."

He had a swift sample of what these men would do under strain or surprise. Gurd Grant lunged to his feet and Hamp Brigham and the two men in the background were instantly up, Brigham reaching for his gun. But Charley Hillhouse, cross-legged by the fire, only tilted his head and stared over the point of the flames.

Morgan said: "About Government Valley, Charley. Your beef is still in there. Send somebody over to drift it back."

Hillhouse remained humped over the flame. He didn't look up. "I'll get around to it in time, I guess."

"The time," decided Morgan, at once matching Hillhouse's unfavorable manner, "will be exactly forty-eight hours."

He thought of this all up the trail, having his small moments of comprehension and sadness.

The slope of the mountain leveled into a small meadow, across which Vance Ketchell's cabin lights winked. Woodsmoke lay in curled wisps on the still air. Going forward Morgan called: "Vance—hey, Vance!"

He heard Vance's boots drag over the shanty's floor and pause. There was this cautious interval and the dimming of the light before Vance opened the door. He showed himself vaguely in the doorway and quickly stepped into the yard, his bulk merging with the shadows of the cabin wall. "Who's that?"

"Morgan. Did Hack ride this way?"

Vance delayed his answer. Then he said in a lower voice: "Come closer, Clay."

Morgan went forward until Vance stood at the shoulders of the horse.

Vance murmured: "Herendeen's got somebody watchin' me." His talk rubbed the shadows with a softness that didn't carry beyond Morgan. "Hack passed here Friday night. Think he's up in the hills above Freeport."

Morgan went forward until Vance stood at the shoulders of the horse.

"Thanks."

Vance said: "You'll bump into Ben's riders along the trail."

Morgan recrossed the clearing. A quarter-mile southward he struck the wide trail leading from War Pass to Freeport and settled into a run. Darkness packed the round-about trees but at intervals, as he crossed an occasional small mountain meadow or the charred area of an old burn, moonlight showed all things pale and soft. In his mind at the moment was a picture of the section toward which Hack Breathitt had apparently gone, and a fairly definite idea of Hack's possible hideout had occurred to him when the smell of dust brought him out of his thinking; he had pulled the horse to a walk, deep in these quilt-thick shadows of the forest, when a man's voice came from the immediate foreground.

The man said: "Who is it?"

Morgan said, "You go to hell, Bones."

"Oh, Morgan," grumbled Bones McGeen.

"Get out of the trail."

McGeen thought about that, and didn't like it. For he said: "You can go around me, I guess."

Morgan matched insolence with insolence. "I guess not, Bones. Hack saw the color of your tail, and I think I'll see it." He hit his pony with the spurs, driving it forward at a long jump. It carried him against McGeen, his knee jamming McGeen's knee. McGeen's shoulders turned and one arm lifted suddenly—all this was a dull, shapeless scene in the black—and Morgan, bending in the saddle, knocked that swinging arm down with his hand and caught McGeen around the waist. Both horses were milling across the trail. McGeen shouted, "By God—!" His gun's explosion was like a dynamite racket in the settled stillness of the hills. The shot struck somewhere in the high trees. Morgan used his spurs, still holding McGeen. He dragged McGeen out of the saddle as he plunged forward; he carried McGeen like this, McGeen slipping lower and lower in his arms until the man's feet were hitting the ground. Morgan's pony broke into a run, excited by the bumping of McGeen's legs, and at last rushed down the trail at a dead bolt. McGeen struggled up a yell and made a huge effort to get free, which was the moment Morgan let go, dropping McGeen flat. He was a hundred yards away before McGeen tried a shot. The bullet slashed into a pine. Bones's cursing rose to a fever pitch.

Morgan called back, "The ride was free, Bones."

There was no foot of this section he didn't know. Now, making a quick guess, he began to climb through the hills by one narrow trace and another. He came to the head of a gulch, fell into it and rode sightlessly along for a half-mile. A steady current of wind came against his left side, cold as ice-water. At this point he swung the pony and scrambled half up the ridge to a kind of stony shelf. The draught of air poured out of a deep recess here; facing it, Morgan spoke against the night.

"Hack—it's me. Morgan."

He had no answer but he sat the a long while, once repeating the call. There was no smell of smoke and no sound at all except for the cow-like waunk of a bull-frog near by. Presently Morgan dismounted and walked deeper into a natural rock fault, against a steady play of wind. He dropped to his knees and felt the flooring with his hands. There had been a fire here but when he lighted a match he saw that the ashes were old. He had made a bad guess.

He climbed over the ridge and took another trail downgrade until the lights of Freeport showed again. There was a rutted wood road at this point which dropped circuitously off the hills into the end of a narrow street.

Morgan reached the general store, left his horse and walked into the half-gloom, into the stagnant compound of old store smells. A stove in the middle of the room showed its fire through square isinglass eyes; a man stood bowed over a counter, his lips silently framing words as he read a paper. Morgan's presence pulled him from this chore. He said idly: "Hello, Morgan."

Morgan said: "Shank of a busy evenin', Kern."

They knew each other pretty well, yet there was always a reserve to keep, a roundabout way of talking.

"Pretty dark to be chasing through the hills."

"Maybe," said Kern Case, "you went down the wrong canyon."

"I could ride this country asleep. But maybe I guessed wrong."

"Sometimes," said Kern Case, "a man gets tired of sleepin' on the ground."

"Maybe," agreed Morgan. He turned the remark over in his head; it meant something but he didn't get it. He backed to the stove and warmed himself, gently rubbing the seat of his pants. Kern Case didn't show any change on his face, though his eyes were laughing at Morgan. "You're a long way from the ranch. Ridin' back tonight?"

"Never gave it a thought."

Case started to speak and changed his mind. Somebody came quickly into Freeport, a horse beating out a rhythm on the dust of the street's far end. Case folded his hands on the table, serenely incommunicative, listening to the horse haul up. Morgan said, "Hell of a lot of traffic for a dead burg," and moved idly toward the door.

"Twenty years ago," said Kern Case, "you'd of got shot for a remark like that."

Paused by the door, Morgan watched the newcomer swing off his horse in front of the hotel. He looked around at Case. "Times change. So do visitors." He stepped into the store, turning to the stove. He wheeled when he reached it, keeping his eyes on the door. The newcomer's steps faded from the street and the silence thickened across the town. Morgan's face was oiled and still; his lips were flat, their edges pushing together. A flare of light showed in his eyes and he stood straighter than before, he stood balanced and attentive. The newcomer's steps broke the stillness again, heavy and loud and coming rapidly forward. Case stared at Morgan, reading what was to be seen. In a way it was information, for when the storekeeper put his attention to the door and saw Ben Herendeen there he wasn't greatly surprised.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

GROWTH IN CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:40-52; II Peter 1:1-8.

GOLDEN TEXT—But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.—II Peter 3:18.

Growth is a normal thing. We expect it of the child, and when it fails we know that something is wrong. Just so there is something very decidedly wrong in the life of the Christian who fails to grow in grace. If a child fails to grow we are alarmed, but if a Christian does not grow we hardly notice it, or at most only express our regret. We need a revival.

I. Normal Children Will Grow (Luke 2:40-52).

While Christ was God manifest in the flesh, He was at the same time true man, and as a boy He developed and grew in a normal way.

Unless we meet the tragedy of arrested development we need have no concern about the fact that a child will grow physically, mentally and spiritually. The Lord has placed in the babe in a mother's arms the potential qualities of the man or woman to come. Our chief responsibility is to provide the opportunity for the development of those abilities and qualities which the child has, and of guiding that growth in the right direction.

While it is true that we can do more for the guidance of physical and mental growth than spiritual (because that is a matter of the grace of God), we can lead the steps of the little child to the house of God; we can teach him to pray and to trust God, and we can set an example of godly living before him.

II. Normal Christians Will Grow (II Pet. 1:1-8).

In Christ there are "all things that pertain unto life and godliness." There is no need of some added experience, or some new and striking endowment, for all the unbelievably great possibilities of Christian grace and growth are in Him. We need only to recognize that fact and yield to Him, and there will be the full development of Christian life and experience.

We have, in practice, so far departed from the normal in Christian life that we can hardly believe that the above is true. In place of the normal Christian life according to God's standard, we have established a standard based on the average Christian life. If we equal it we are satisfied, and if perchance we surpass it we count ourselves among the "more spiritual" ones. And all the time the average standard is far below the normal Christian life which God not only expects, but is ready to enable and empower us to live.

Peter tells us in this passage that the great and precious promises of God in Christ are not only to enable us to escape the corruption of this sinful world, but to go on to a place where we will neither "be barren nor unfruitful" Christians. How will this come about? Verses 5-7 tell us.

Faith supplies in itself (rather than "add to," v. 5), if there is "diligence" (that is, true Christian devotion), a number of other splendid qualities. First comes "virtue"—really moral courage, or nobility of character. What a fine step forward! Then comes "knowledge," that is, a discernment which will give practical skill in effective daily living for Christ. Such spiritual discernment will naturally lead to "self-control"—something much needed by most Christians.

The self-controlled one will always have "patience," that is, the endurance to stand every hardship and trial. We need to be more patient not only with others, but also with ourselves, even in this matter of Christian growth of which we are speaking.

A life like that is a life of "godliness," which will blossom out into real "brotherly kindness." There isn't too much of that in the world today, even among Christians. Let's revive it! Then what? The one who loves his brother will love the whole world (charity, in v. 8, should read "love"). Why not? Are we not all brethren, who know Christ, regardless of race, position or creed?

Let such virtues "abound" (v. 8), and no Christian life will lack in rich fruitfulness for God in Christ. If Christian people would let the new life within them grow, it would surprise us and them what God would do through them for His own glory.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, with Ease for Stomach, too

When constipation brings on discomfort after meals, stomach upset, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. For years, many Doctors have given pepsin preparations in their prescriptions to make medicine more agreeable to a touchy stomach. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative-Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully the Laxative-Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines to bring welcome relief from constipation. And the good old Syrup Pepsin makes this laxative so comfortable and easy on your stomach. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative-Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin, as directed on label or as your doctor advises, and feel world's better. Get genuine Dr. Caldwell's.

There is lot that could be said but we fancy the closer we stay at home the better distance lends enchantment, but few realities.

If you live in the distant future you may never get any thing out of life. Live where you are, see the beauties of nature and folks around you. Rubber and gas rationing are going to make better neighbors. We should begin now to beautify the Court House lawn where we can get together and spend a few hours after sunset and get acquainted, save gas and rubber.

An Apple a Day Does Keep Doctor Away

THERE'S more to the adage, "An Apple a Day Keeps the Doctor Away," than is generally believed. Any normal child should keep healthy the year round if he receives his daily quota of fruits and vegetables, the "protective foods," writes Dr. Walter H. Eddy, director of Good Housekeeping Bureau, in the October issue.

It is an established fact that both fruits and vegetables contain the important vitamin C, which gives the greatest resistance to scurvy. But returning to the apple, it may not be well known that it thwarts the development of hostile bacteria in the intestinal tract and combats diarrheal diseases and constipation, says Dr. Eddy. In addition, the apple supplies part of the basic minerals which the body requires daily.

Dr. Eddy has drawn up the following chart which shows the amount of fruits and vegetables required weekly to protect a child's health.

	Tomatoes and Citrus Fruits	Green Leafy and Yellow Vegetables	Dried Fruits	Other Vegetables and Fruits
Child under 4 yr.	1.5 lbs	1.5 lb.	3 lb.	1 lb.
Boy 4-6; girl 4-7	1.5	1.5	4	1
Boy 7-8; girl 8-10	1.5	2.0	6	2
Boy 9-10; girl 11-14	1.75	2.0	8	2
Boy 11-12; girl over 12	1.75	2.0	8	2
Active boy 13-15	2.0	2.0	12	2

Going Off to School? Then Take a Hint—

NEW vistas and new settings face thousands of girls in their teens who are off to boarding school or college for the first time this month. A stranger to everyone, certain to feel homesick, the new girl must get on and make friends as quickly as possible.

How can you get people who don't know you interested in you? Henrietta Ripperger asks in the October Good Housekeeping. Move one is to get yourself done up in a way so as to attract attention. Eyes will turn your way and people will want to know you the cute trick is. Be ultra-fussy about grooming, Miss Ripperger advises. Take time to dress. Look out for slip trouble.

Before leaving for school, it's wise to find out what's being worn on the campus. Be subtle about color. You're grown-up now, so forget navy blue and white sweaters and try maize, French blue, pearl gray—to go with skirts of prune, brown, or dark red. Something important to bring along is a bright, short, enormous necklace. It's the little touches that make you stand out.

Move two is getting off on the right foot. Don't, Miss Ripperger warns, bring mother along. You may as well start in from the beginning on your own. Mother means well, of course, but . . .

Don't force your opinions on a crowd you don't know very well. This doesn't mean be a clam, but a chatter-box is infinitely worse. And above everything, don't talk about your family. Dad may be the smartest man in the world to you, but that's what every girl thinks. Other don'ts on your "must" list are: Don't talk about the family wealth; all the men whose hearts you've broken; your old school where you were a big-shot, and don't look down your nose when sororities or fraternities are mentioned.

It's the most wonderful feeling in the world to have your friends say later on: "We were all crazy about you the minute we set eyes on you!"

A War Message on WAR BONDS

from the President of the United States

" . . . The American people know that if we would raise the billions which we now need to pay for the war and at the same time prevent a disastrous rise in the cost of living, we shall have to double and more than double the scale of our savings.

"Every dime and dollar not vitally needed for absolute necessities should go into WAR BONDS and STAMPS to add to the striking power of our armed forces.

"If these purchases are to have a material effect in restraining price increases they must be made out of current income.

"In almost every individual case they should be big enough to mean rigid self-denial, a substantial reduction for most of us in the scale of expenditure that is comfortable and easy for us.

"We cannot fight this war, we cannot exert our maximum effort, on a spend-as-usual basis.

"We cannot have all we want if our soldiers and sailors are to have all they need."

Why your own car's Zero Hour comes at 00 miles an hour

ON THE OFFENSIVE you've got to be on the instant. Eager fighters, frisky jeeps, and all that's going along, must get going together—exactly at Zero Hour. But on the home front these brisk mornings, will your own precious car and its engine lubrication get going together—without deadly oiling delay? You can be sure as shootin', with your engine OIL-PLATED for Winter by Conoco Nth motor oil . . . oil that OIL-PLATES!

Even while the speedometer snoozes at 00 miles an hour—and you're still snug in your "kivers"—the chilly insides of your OIL-PLATED engine will already be coated by lubricant. Protective OIL-PLATING is really sort of "magnetized" to piston rings, bearings, and straight up the cylinders, by Conoco Nth oil's strong "power of attraction"—created by an added modern synthetic. This keeps the OIL-PLATING from all draining down to the crankcase overnight—over week-ends—and longer.

No complete lack of lubrication then, at 00 miles an hour—starting up cold. No long needless risk till cold oil comes inching along through passages as slim as spaghetti.

You're off safely, because OIL-PLATING safely stays on—ready to lubricate before any oil can circulate.

This season don't merely change oil. It's fully as simple and inexpensive to change to an OIL-PLATED engine. Just change to patented Conoco Nth oil at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Co.

JOIN FREE Elect yourself to the ONCE-A-WEEK CLUB at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Choose your own regular day to drive in and have him check your tires, oil, radiator and battery. His systematic expert attention means trouble-prevention. He'll report to you in advance on lubrication and anything that he finds you need for the duration of your car!

CARE FOR YOUR CAR...FOR YOUR COUNTRY

Employment Service

All migratory farm laborers will be able to buy sufficient quantities of gasoline to take them and their crews from one job to another, according to L. L. Ruttle, Manager of the San Angelo office of the United States Employment Service.

The only requirement, he said was that the worker have in his possession a United States Employment Service referral card, which simply directs him to his next place of employment. This card must be presented to the gasoline station manager in order for the worker to obtain any quantity above the regular rationing quota, whatever it may be.

There are thousands of cotton pickers, and other types of migratory farm workers traveling throughout the country by automobiles and some of them are under the impression that if they arrive at a destination to assist in saving the crops, they will not be able to return to their homes. This is an erroneous idea. Ample provision will be made for the return of all migratory workers from their destination to their respective communities Mr. Ruttle said.

It was emphasized by Mr. L. L. Ruttle that in view of the foregoing, it is highly important that all workers who travel by automobile from one farm job to another secure a referral card immediately. Furthermore, it is essential, when they finish one job, to have another referral card which will take them on to their next place of employment.

UNIVERSALLY POPULAR

The "Sunday School Lesson" published each week in this newspaper has been adopted by thousands of church instructors throughout the United States as a regular part of their weekly work.

It is a review and exposition of the international lesson for each week, prepared by Dean Harold L. Lundquist of the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago, a recognized leader in the nation's church work. Dean Lundquist has been active in teaching youthful groups for years, thereby acquiring an insight into the needs of these people for understandable explanations of Bible passages.

In view of his accomplishments in church work, it is not surprising that Dean Lundquist's exposition of the weekly Sunday School lesson is being used in almost every community of the nation. As teacher or student you will find it extremely helpful.

 Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Marines Are Still Fighting Hard After 167 Years of Loyal Service

They Have Been 'Always Faithful' and Ever Present in Every War Since Early Colonial Days When They First Served Under George Washington.

Gallantry of the marines at Wake Island was the World War II chapter in continuance of 167 years of marine corps service that is wholly and actively embodied in the deserved motto "Semper Fidelis"—Always Faithful.

On November 10, 1775, the Continental Congress passed a resolution organizing a marine corps of two battalions. Intended mainly to be ships' gunnery and boarding squads, they soon performed illustrious and efficient service on land and sea.

While some marines fought with Washington, others played important roles in the victory of the Bon Homme Richard over the British Serapis. It was a marine aboard John Paul Jones' ship who threw a grenade into the hold of the Serapis and was responsible for its sinking.

Soon Distinguished Themselves.
 Soon after the ending of the Revolution the marine corps, like the army and navy, was disbanded. When, however, in 1799 this country came into conflict with France on the seas, the marine corps was re-established by President John Adams. In immediate service as boarding parties or as defense against enemy boarding, marines first and soon was followed by the Sixth. These groups were cited for conspicuous action in the Chateau-Thierry sector, the Aisne-Marne offensive and the Meuse-Argonne fighting.

In its long, glorious history the corps has "landed and had the situation well in hand" for the protection of lives and the property of American citizens in many countries.

Four Tasks.
 The marine corps is under the command of Lieut. Gen. Thomas Holcomb. It has four distinct tasks:

- (1) To maintain a mobile force in immediate readiness as a part of the U. S. fleet for use in shore operations.
- (2) To maintain marine detachments as a part of the ships' crew on cruisers, aircraft carriers, and battleships.
- (3) To provide garrisons for the safeguarding of navy yards

The Marines Have Landed! That was the shout that again went around the world when the Leathernecks took the Solomon islands away from the Japs. This scene here shows just how thick the sky was with anti-aircraft shells to shoo away any Jap plane that might have wanted to get in on the "party."

soon distinguished themselves and earned the respect of the enemy for the deadly accuracy of their musket fire.

It was during these days that the term "Leatherneck" was applied to marines; in order to protect themselves during battle the marines in early days wore a heavy piece of leather around their necks, and hence the nickname.

In the early 19th century marines began to lay foundation for the outstanding reputation which the present corps has inherited. They fought in the War of 1812. They were in the thick of the successful campaign against the Barbary pirates. They were with Commodore Perry in the Far East.

Lest marines be considered naval attachments solely, and though they were created as a component part of the naval service to "support the fleet," marines may in national emergency be detached for service with the army, as in France during World War I.

Marine Civil War Action.
 In the Civil war the corps served on the blockading ships of the navy and participated in naval attacks on the coastal fortifications of the Confederacy. They also made many landings from ships patrolling the Mississippi river.

In the Spanish American war the marines landed at Guantanamo bay, Cuba, to secure after severe fighting the harbor as a base for the United States fleet in its operations against Santiago. Marine detachments took part in the naval battles off Santiago and in Manila bay.

During the latter half of the last century and the early years of the 20th century the marines saw much service in the West Indies and Central America, notably in Nicaragua and Haiti. Sent to forestall possible European intervention and to provide protection against bandits and other lawless elements, the marines achieved a notable record of governmental administration.

When America entered the last World war there were approximately 13,500 officers and men in the corps. More than half this number, however, were scattered over the face of the earth. Within five weeks marines "got into the battle." The Fifth regiment sailed for France

In Case They Do

As far as can be proved, no belligerent has yet used noxious gas in this war. If it seems expedient to the Axis boys they'll do it any time they think they can get away with it. So these marines shown here are getting ready by training under simulated gas attack to show the Axis boys that they can't get away with it.

were wounded. The chances of rescue or relief seemed remote.

Suddenly out of the skies a plane swooped down and landed in the rough and irregular streets of the town. The plane was piloted by Lieut. Christian F. Schilt and he had risked his life to make the landing. Quickly the more seriously wounded were placed in the plane and flown to a point of safety.

Lands 10 Times

Ten times Lieutenant Schilt made the dangerous trip. Each time he landed safely and got away with his precious cargo. Of course, parts of his plane were destroyed by the landings and bandits shot holes through the wings, but this did not prevent the daring marine from returning. Each time on the return flight the pilot brought much needed supplies.

Lieutenant Schilt's action won the praise of his grateful comrades and some months later he received the Congressional Medal of Honor.

One of the many famous stories involving the U. S. marines of the Fourth brigade is built around Corp. George F. Brautigam. After 10 days of bitter fighting when nearly every marine in the brigade was exhausted, Corporal Brautigam was captured by the Germans.

Slowly they led him back to the "Bull Pen." The Germans thought the battle-worn corporal would return quietly, rather than go back to his lines. But before they knew what had happened Corporal Brautigam had knocked one of his captors down with his fists and grasped the fallen man's bayonet and put an end to both his guards.

A week later he was still fighting in Belleau Wood, when he saw Lieut. George H. Yarborough of the marines badly wounded and surrounded by six Germans. He plunged into their midst with his bayonet. Two of the enemy fell and the others took flight. In the melee Brautigam was shot through the wrist; however, he succeeded in carrying the wounded officer one mile through shell fire to a hospital.

Later Brautigam fought at Soissons, St. Mihiel and Blanc Mont. In the latter engagement he suffered a fractured hip and was gassed. Eventually he came home from France with the Distinguished Service Cross and a Croix de Guerre as tokens of his bravery overseas.

These marines in training are ready to fight any kind of fight that the "Enemy" may decide to make. There isn't a technique of present-day warfare that these rough and ready, up-and-get-em two-fisted fighters haven't been acquainted with.

Household Hints

For extra flavor in dark fruit cakes use cider or spiced fruit juices for the liquid.

For a flavorful top coating for meat loaves, spread with a thin layer of chili sauce the last 20 minutes of the cooking period.

Sift spices with flour so they will be distributed properly throughout the batter or dough.

Grass stains usually come out when saturated with lard or other fat, then washed several hours later in warm soapy water.

Sittin' down in Jed's General Store the other day, it was kinda impressed on me that the weaker a fellow's argument is, the stronger the words he uses!
 Well, when I get to talkin' about KELLOGG'S PEP and vitamins I don't need any high-powered words. You see, to feel really good you got to eat right, which includes gettin' all your vitamins. And while PEP hasn't got 'em all, this swell-tastin' cereal is extra-long in the two that are oftenest extra-short in ordinary meals—B, and D. Try PEP, won't you?

Kellogg's Pep

A delicious cereal that supplies per serving (1 oz.) the full minimum daily need of vitamin D; 1/4 the daily need of vitamin B.

Cause of Earthquakes

Although the surface of the earth is cool, its center is enormously hot, and sometimes this boiling core—which is never at rest—increases its activity. Then the volcanoes, which are something like safety-valves, erupt and in extreme periods of internal disturbance the ordinary land surfaces are affected, too.

Earthquakes of the severer kind are more common in the countries which have many volcanoes, but no part of the world is absolutely safe from the danger of such volcanic disturbance.

Serve a Salad . . . Win Your Vitamins (See Recipes Below.)

Vitamin Ways

Comes winter and fall when vegetables and fruits are more scarce than during summer and fall, and many a homemaker is apt to fall shy on serving her family these vital body regulating and protective foods. Yet, this is the time when the body needs them most. These foods build up the body's resistance to disease—and keep you, to pick a common example, from having a cold as soon as warm weather and sun flee.

Minerals are busy building and repairing, replenishing body tissues that get torn down and used up, daily with every movement you make. Vitamins help you use the foods you eat.

Good-to-eat foods help the family take in all these vital minerals and vitamins. Drab, uninteresting dishes will send them off to eating other foods to take the edge off their hunger—wherever they can put their hands on something. I need not point out that in this way they may really be losing out on foods necessary to the body.

Cooking vegetables well, and doing pretty things to their appearance will help their consumption rating. A bit of sauce or extra seasoning will put an ordinary vegetable over and at the same time insure your family of what it needs most:

- *Scalloped Peas and Onions. (Serves 5 to 6)
- 1 pound small white onions
- 1 No. 2 can peas
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 3 tablespoons finely crushed bread crumbs

Lynn Says:

Vital Statistics: There are about seven inches in the Nutrition Yardstick which bear checking every day in every way so as to keep you and your family in the running:

The first inch includes milk: 1 pint per day for every adult and 1 quart for every child. Of course you don't have to drink all this milk. Use part of it in cooking.

Second honors go to meat, fish or poultry, and this is not hard to use up. For lunch or dinner, whichever fits best for your family, one serving per person should be counted.

At least one egg a day or at least four to five per week marks the third inch. Have it for breakfast or toss it in the hot bread for dinner, or custard for lunch.

Cereal's important, too. Serve it in the breakfast, or a pudding or even cookies. Bread and rolls come under this category, also.

Fifth inch includes the vegetables: two besides potatoes, one should be a leafy vegetable—spinach, lettuce, broccoli, romaine, etc.—and the other raw. Cabbage is perfect.

Now, the fruits. Two a day isn't hard to manage. Of course you start off with breakfast, and then include one for lunch or dinner dessert.

The last and seventh inch includes butter or some fat rich in vitamin A. This is for fuel and energy.

This Week's Menu

- Browned Oysters
- *Scalloped Peas and Onions
- *Cranberry-Pineapple Salad
- Hot Biscuits
- *Apple Juice Mince Pie
- *Recipes Given

Parboil onions 25 minutes. Drain. Drain peas and reserve ½ cup pea liquor. Melt 2 tablespoons butter, blend in flour, salt and pepper. Add pea liquor and milk and cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Pour into casserole. Melt remaining butter, stir in bread crumbs, sprinkle over casserole. Bake in a moderately hot (375-degree) oven for about 25 minutes.

Vegetable Bouillon. (Serves 2)

- ¼ cup water
  - ¾ to 1 cup juice strained from canned string or wax beans
  - 1 bouillon cube
  - 2 small sprigs parsley
- Add water to bean juice and heat to boiling. Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling liquid. Serve hot garnished with parsley.

Ham Hock With Vegetables. (Serves 5)

- 2½ pounds ham hock
  - 5 medium-sized potatoes
  - 1 bunch carrots
  - 5 medium-sized onions
  - 1 medium-sized head of cabbage
- Wipe ham hock. Cover with boiling water, cover and simmer two hours or until tender. Clean vegetables, add to meat, cook, uncovered 20 to 30 minutes or until vegetables are tender.

Fried Squash Cakes.

Slice squash very thin, being certain to slice it across. Place the slices in salt water, wipe them dry, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dip in flour, beaten egg and then in cracker crumbs. Repeat the process twice and then drop into hot fat for frying. When they have cooked through and are brown, drain on brown paper and serve.

A few green leaves of lettuce, romaine, watercress or other salad greens guarantee much of the important, but hard-to-get vitamin D. Perhaps, you like the greens plain, or perhaps with a bit of color such as:

*Cranberry-Pineapple Salad.

Cut slices of canned cranberry sauce and top with slices of pineapple. Arrange in lettuce nests. Soften cream cheese with milk and add a few chopped nuts. Shape into balls and place among lettuce leaves. Serve with mayonnaise.

*Apple Juice Mince Pie. (Makes 1 9-inch pie)

- 1 package orange flavored gelatin
  - 2 cups apple juice
  - ½ teaspoon lemon juice
  - 1 cup mincemeat
  - Cream cheese
- Dissolve the gelatin in apple juice that has been heated to the boiling point. Add lemon juice and mincemeat. Cook until thick and creamy, then pour into a baked pie shell. Chill until firm, then decorate top with cream cheese put through a pastry tube.

Rural families in 17 West Texas counties of Extension Service district 6 canned 325,020 quarts of fruits, vegetables, meats, and jellies and dried 20,802 pounds of vegetables and fruits, during 1940, according to compiled reports of county home demonstration agents serving in those counties. Typical of these co-operating homemakers is Mrs. W. E. Bruton of the Reynolds Home Demonstration Club in Schleicher County, shown above, who had 56 different items in her pantry. Families also use freezer lockers as a means of storing food for home consumption.
