Grand Jury Returns No Bills Of Indictment

District court was in session Monday, with Judge Sutton presiding.

For the third consecutive term, the grand jury, after due investigation, did not return a single bill of indictment. This speaks highly of the law-abiding character of Coke county citizens. The grand jury panel included W. F. Fikes, foreman, Willie I. Tubb, C. E. Arrott, Mack Powell, Jake Morrow, J. W. Labenske, Fred McCabe, P. H. Havins, Jack Lassiter, S. R. Young, J. L. Stephenson, J. L. Brunson. Bailiffs were Monroe Parker and Paul Good.

Court recessed until next Monday when the civil docket will be disposed of. Cases on the docket are: No. 1612. Fay Scott et al vs. F. S. Higginbotham, trespass to try title.

No. 1613. B. E. Davis Biggs vs. J. D. Biggs, divorce.

No. 1614. Harve Mayfield independent executor vs. M. D. Porter et ux.

No. 1616. Gertrude Susie Gray vs. Julius A. Gray, divorce.

No. 1617. W. J. R. Smith vs. Nora Fay Smith, divorce.

No. 1618. J. C. Hale vs. Holly Halbert Hale, divorce.

No. 1619. Charlie M. White vs. Ella White, divorce.

Pettit Jurors for the week are: Chester Harwell, Marlin Mackey, C. S. Brown, Alfred Lofon Alton Roberts, Walter Moore, O. T. Hayes, Collin Savner, J. W. Mitchell, Glenn Waldrop, T. M. Wylie, Jess Percifull, Otto Wojtek, Lowell Roane, Cortez Russell, J. I. Williams, A. L. McQueen, J. N. Coalson, W. W. Ivey, Homer Ivey, James Arrott, Lake Smith, B. A. Austin, Marvin Simpson, Chester Jackson, J. C. Sneed, Lee Hallmark, J. T. Thetford, Edward Rawlings, Buster Eields, Cullen Clark, J. V. Rogers, Tom Peays, T. E. Rives, Bill Martin, Fred McDonald Jr.

Local Lad Promoted

Stephenville, April 16.—Leonard C. Ivey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cumbie Ivey of Robert Lee, Texas, has been promoted to the rank of Cadet Sergeant in the Reserve Officers Training Corps at John Tarleton College.

Leonard is a Junior majoring in Pre-Dental work.

Mrs. Frank Tubb and her mother, Mrs. Henry Jacobs of Festus, Mo., after a visit here with the former's parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tubb, left yesterday for their home.

OUR NEW PRESIDENT

Harry S. Truman, who in a speech to a joint session of the Congress pledged a continuation of former President Roosevelt's policies and aims, closing his address with an excerpt of Solomon's prayer for understanding, adding, "I ask only to be a good and faithful servant of my Lord and my people."

Garden Club Meets

El Valle Garden Club met with Mrs. Fred Blake April 11.

Mrs. Pike Martin had charge of program. Roll call was given by each member present naming some destructive insect to garden and flowers and giving remedy for same. Mrs. Martin also read very interesting paper on Texas shrubs, their looks and legends.

Mrs. Bruce Cliff gave a very interesting questionnaire on OPA ruling on clothing and sugar. She also gave some very interesting notes and comments on conservation.

The hostess served delicious refreshments of sandwiches, cookies and punch to 12 members and one visitor. Mrs. Jack Looney became a new member.

A little want ad will sell it.

They Like The Observer

The Observer's good friend, Frank Keeney of Bronte, sending in a subscription to this paper writes: "You will find enclosed remittance for Will Whiteside, Blackwell. He wants to read the Robert Lee Observer. He is an old timer, been here 50 years or longer and read the Coke County Rustler. Those items are really interesting to the old timers—I read that first when I get The Observer." Each week our readers express pleasure about our feature "Fifty Years Ago In Coke County," which appears each week in The Observer. We still have many residents who were here during those halcyon days of long ago and this column in The Observer provokes no little comment among our citizens. Those were happy days when they had barbecues, brush arbor revivals, wedding dinners, singings, quiltings, and occasionally a populist rally. There was always something doing, the rabbit crop was always good, everybody kept in a good humor even if the roads got rough or muddy, and life was one grand, sweet song.

W. H. D. Clubs

Sanco—At Monday's meeting 10 members were present for discussion of food freezing and canning. Mrs. Aubrey McKinley was hostess. Next meeting will be May 7, with Mrs. Carl Hurley as Hostess.

Robert Lee—Canning of pineapple and the drying and freezing of foods will be demonstrated when the club meets in the basement of the Methodist church, April 26. Special and standing committees were appointed at the last meeting. Six members and one new member, Mrs. Jack Looney, were present.

Robert Lee Dam Project Is Recommended

The Robert Lee dam and irrigation project was given favorable recognition Thursday of last week when the Bureau of Reclamation recommended to the Congress the Robert Lee dam and irrigation project and the extension of the North Concho river flood control program to incorporate irrigation features.

The Robert Lee dam, which is a Bureau project, will cost an estimated $12,700,000 and would irrigate 58,000 acres in the valley area triangulated by San Angelo, Ballinger and Bronte.

Initial efforts on this project were made ten years ago, and now that the Bureau of Reclamation has given the dam a favorable nod along with its recommendation, it is a foregone conclusion that this will be one of the first post war projects in West Texas.

The dam, which would inundate the city of Robert Lee, will make possible the irrigation of thousands of fertile acres along the Colorado. What will become of Robert Lee, sayest thou? Why, we will just move the town to higher ground, and bask in an era of unprecedented prosperity. The erection of the dam will be one of the greatest happenings portending to continuous good times that has ever transpired in the history of this section.

He Gets Fancy Offers

Bud Jones is a lucky guy. He's got some of the finest blooded quarter horses that ever grazed on Coke county ranges, and every once in awhile somebody comes along and tantalizes Bud with a fancy offer. Sometimes there's a trade made, and sometimes there's a different story. Not long since Bud took some of his animals to the colt show down at Angelo, and waltzed off with some nice prizes. About the time Bud got a six months old filly ready to meander homeward, came along Blackie Wilford and offered him $750 in the coin of the realm for the filly. Bud had to turn the offer down as he figures that bye and bye the animal will command a higher figure.

This filly placed 5th at the show, and is a half sister to the famous Nettie Hill mare which Bud sold to J. O. Hankins of Rocksprings. Nettie Hill is a fast animal and while Bud got a fancy figure for her, Hankins has refused several tempting offers for the mare.

Miss Winifred Gartman of Abilene is home for a few days visit.

Celebrated 83rd Birthday Anniversary Sunday

Sunday, April 15, the children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren and friends of Grandmother Gartman met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Gartman to celebrate her 83rd birthday. All brought lunches which were spread on tables. Fifty-four persons were present, including Douglas Gartman, S2c. of San Diego, who arrived just in time to enjoy the feast.

Those present for the anniversary were: Grannie Gartman, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Gartman and family, H. J. Gartman, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker and Tommy, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Reid and family, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Denman, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Gartman and family, Lundy and Alma DeVoll, all of Sanco; Miss Lerline Reid, San Angelo; Mrs. J. L. Desmond, Hamlin; Mr. and Mrs. Green Pressler, Sweetwater; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Preslar and family and Mrs. Cheatham, Millersview; Dewey Gartman, Inez and Betty, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Gartman, Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Martin, Peggy and Ann Williamson, Sterling City, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Thomason and family, and Erma Lee Wink, Robert Lee.

Receives Fine Lamp

Otis K. Rabb, with his Uncle's Seabees somewhere in the Pacific, remembered his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rabb, last week with a pretty electric table lamp, made exclusively from implements of war—principally bomb and missile shells. It is all Otis' handiwork, and his dad is as proud of that beautiful lamp as he was when he was a kid back in Georgia and got his first pair of red top boots, some years ago. The Rabb family is a patriotic bunch. They had representatives in the American Revolution, then the South Carolina Rabbs wore the gray in the 60's. They were among those present in the Spanish-American melee, and in World War I, and they are well represented in this present rucus to help knock off'n a pair of bozos, Hitler and Hirohito by name.

More Rain Hereabouts

Coke county got another rain early Sunday morning, amounting to .65 of an inch. Farm and range conditions are superb here in the Promised Land and the goose hangs high.

CUMBIE & ROACH

HOME GIRL IS GIVEN HIGH PRAISE FOR HER WAR WORK

Mrs. M. W. Johnson last week had a letter from her daughter, Pfc. Helen L. Johnson, with the Wacs, in which was enclosed a letter of high commendation for the splendid work the home girl is doing in behalf of the war effort.

Pfc. Johnson holds a responsible position with the AAF Overseas Replacement Depot, Processing Department, Greensboro, N. C., and in recognition of her splendid accomplishments, Col. Paul R. Younts, Air Corps Supervisor of Processing, Commanding Officer, writes in his letter of commendation to Pfc. Johnson: "In recent duties with the shipping and receiving department of the Processing Line, your ability, loyalty and diligent attention to duty, have not gone unnoticed by me. Your efforts and disregard for long hours of work contributed to the efficiency of processing more than you can realize. I want to commend you and express my appreciation to this achievement."

This fine Coke county girl has been in the Wac service two years, lacking a few weeks, and her host of friends in this area are watching her progress with great pleasure.

Russ Break With Japs Changes Entire War Picture in Pacific; Ike Predicts Guerrilla Warfare

TREATY:
Russ Break With Japs

Russ Break With Japs

When Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov curtly handed the Jap ambassador a note denouncing Russia's neutrality pact with Japan, the question of the Soviet government's future course with Nippon became a matter of high importance in United Nations' chancelleries.

Speculation about Marshal Stalin's intentions was heightened in view of the close imminence of the world security conference in San Francisco. Two facts, however, were clear for the record. The treaty ordinarily would have run until April, 1946, yet Russia decided to void it summarily. Marshal Stalin publicly described Japan as an "aggressor nation."

The Russian government, moreover, accused Tokyo of helping the Nazis.

"Germany," the note recalled, "attacked the U.S.S.R. Japan—Germany's ally—has helped the latter in her war against the U.S.S.R."

Observers were agreed that Russia's action meant a closer working cooperation between Russia and her allies. How soon that meant an open declaration of war by the Reds on Japan, time would tell.

Even as the bad news came from Russia the Japs got another rude reminder that the payoff of aggression was approaching when it was announced from Washington that General of the Army Douglas MacArthur had been chosen to lead all American army forces in the Pacific and Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz had been selected to lead the naval forces in the final drive on the Japanese homeland.

General of the Army Henry H. Arnold will command the 20th (Superforts) Air force and will be in charge of all other aerial action in the sector. The chiefs of staff will continue to direct the overall strategy and will give specific responsibility to MacArthur or Nimitz for particular operations in the Pacific.

This extension of operational territory for the two leaders who have been carrying the war to Japan's doorstep indicated that the "island hopping" phase of the campaign was over and a new strategy involving a direct assault on the Jap homeland was imminent.

JAP CABINET:
More Woe Ahead

A steadily heavier burden of trouble was to be the fate of the new Suzuki cabinet in Japan. That was unmistakably forecast in the fall of its predecessor—the Koiso cabinet.

Two major events had contributed to the Japanese government crisis. One was the successful progress of the American military advance on Okinawa island, only 330 miles from the Jap mainland. The other was Soviet Russia's action in denouncing the neutrality treaty with Japan that still had a year to run.

Ushered in as a rallying force against the Allied march toward Tokyo, after the infamous Tojo government had failed, the cabinet of Premier Gen. Kuniaki Koiso had encountered disaster after disaster in its eight and a half months of existence.

How long the new cabinet of 77-year-old Adm. Baron Kantaro Suzuki would last was open to speculation. But Japs as well as Americans knew one thing for certain. The final doom of Nippon was approaching.

OKINAWA:
Timetable's Ahead

As military observers had expected, Japanese resistance on Okinawa had stiffened after U. S. army troops had cut the island in two.

With the strategic airfields of the capital city of Naha as the prize, the 24th army corps and the 7th division fought fiercely against well-organized Jap units defending the southern areas of Okinawa. Marine 3rd amphibious forces continued extension of their northern lines.

Observers were of the belief that bitter battles would have to be fought and won before the southern portions of the island could be won. In this area it was estimated that between 60,000 and 80,000 enemy troops were concentrated. Nevertheless, Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, marine commander, said the timetable was well ahead of schedule.

WORLD TRADE:
A War Preventive

A significant prelude to the world security conference in San Francisco was Secretary of State Stettinius' address in Chicago outlining plans for wider world markets in which the industrial output of the United States would match other nations' needs.

Addressing the council on foreign relations, gray-haired Stettinius declared the United States would exert its full power to call a world conference of leading trading countries to stimulate international economic well-being. The secretary of state said:

"Our objective in all our relations with other nations is to prevent aggression abroad from again disturbing the peace of the United States and to develop those conditions of international life that will make it possible to maintain high levels of productive employment and farm income and steadily rising standards of living for all the American people."

SECRETARY STETTINIUS
A Formula for Peace.

GUERRILLA WAR:
Forecast in Europe

The statement to President Roosevelt from General Eisenhower forecasting extensive guerrilla warfare in Europe was being borne out as Allied armies ground their way through Germany and her vanquished satellites.

Unable to form a strong unified line to combat the Allied smashes toward Berlin, the Nazis command depended on a series of "last man" stands to delay extinction. Under General Eisenhower's Allied armies on the west were cutting Germany to pieces. Yet spots of resistance remained and each posed a cleanup problem to the Allies. The trap in the Ruhr was an example of this trend.

Over battlefields once reddened by the blood of soldiers who fell in the Napoleonic wars, American and British divisions smashed in their drive east to meet the Russians and to bisect Germany. Far forward in the vanguard of the race to Berlin were armored units of General Patton's 3rd army. Pressing toward the strategic North sea ports of Bremen and Hamburg were the British forces of Montgomery.

Meanwhile, Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle was sowing destruction via warplanes on the airfields, rail yards and supply dumps in the Munich area of southern Germany where it was reported Hitler was planning his last stand.

In the east, Russian forces had continued their pressure on Berlin and to the south they cleared Hungary of enemy forces, capturing Bratislava in Slovakia and pouring across the Danube to Vienna.

American Engineer Plans Great Dams for Asia

Dr. Savage of U. S. Dept. of Interior Proposes Extensive Flood Control and Irrigation Systems for China, India, Palestine.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

Recently I sat with a group of my colleagues at a table and listened to a shy, elderly man, who might have been a professor of Greek, talk about dams. Just a moment before I had been in the newsroom reading of the terrible destruction which had levelled the cities of Europe. I couldn't help thinking of the paradox of civilization as this quiet man, who is the designing engineer for the greatest dams in the world, Grande Coulee, Boulder, Shasta, the Norris dam in the Tennessee valley and scores of others all over the world, outlined construction projects for Asia. His program is the exact antithesis of what is going on in Europe.

John Lucian Savage is chief designing engineer of the bureau of reclamation of the department of the interior. He has just returned from 14 months in the Far East where he has conferred with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China and with officials in India and Palestine on construction projects which dwarf the world's greatest efforts in this direction.

Dr. Savage discussed these undertakings as if they were some beautiful little works of art which had, perhaps, a utilitarian value, but which after all were creations of the imagination, important in themselves. In the course of a half hour or so he outlined projects which would affect the life of literally millions of people for untold generations and might well change the course, not only of their history, but the world's.

He went to the Far East representing the U. S. government, loaned by the department of the interior to the state department as a specialist under its cultural program. Much has been said (with eyebrows slightly raised) about Uncle Sam's effort to spread American culture and help import some of that product from other nations. Most people do not realize that cultural matters include 10,500,000-kilowatt-water-power plants.

"We went down the (Yangtze) river from Chungking," said Dr. Savage as if he were describing a moonlight ride on the Potomac, "by steamboat and launch to within 15 kilometers (about nine miles) of Ichang." (Later it was explained that he had to stop because it happened that a war was going on in that vicinity.) "I had with me all the topographical data I could find and I had spotted three possible dam sites from these maps. I stayed with General — (name omitted for security reasons). I asked him if he had any topographic maps that might be helpful to me. He replied that he had captured an aerial map from the Japanese."

Studies Map, Selects Five Sites for Dams

The map proved to be excellent and one could almost see the engineer's mouth water as he examined it, picking out sights simply crying to be dammed. Then, still as if it were all a great lark, he said that he went on down the river to within three miles of the battle lines (perhaps the genial general-host had called off the war for the afternoon). Anyhow, Dr. Savage said, smiling, that he had selected five possible dam sites.

The dam in the Yangtze gorge, he told us, will probably be about 750 feet high and there will be 20 tunnels of about 50 feet diameter to divert the river flow. Boulder dam on the Colorado, he told us for comparison, was 730 feet high and had only four such tunnels.

There will be 24 generating plants, each generating 110,000 kilowatts of electricity. They will equal five times the ultimate capacity of the Grande Coulee dam and ten times its present development of 10,560,000 kilowatts. The average total output of electrical energy for one year on the Yangtze will be 71,300,000,000 kilowatt-hours.

Within the present range of distribution live more Chinese than the entire population of the United States—140 millions.

Dr. Savage went into similar detail regarding more dams on tributaries to the Yangtze. The fatal result, beside regulating the river-flow so that navigation can be improved and ocean-going ships brought right up to Chungking, would mean water storage that will irrigate a hundred million acres and make it possible to double the present production of rice.

I will not deluge you with further figures for I cannot produce them with such a flavor of enthusiasm and admixture of personal delight as Dr. Savage does, but I may add that he spent four months in India discovering and planning similar projects in the Punjab, along the Ganges, and in Afghanistan, on this and other trips. Dr. Savage, I might observe, is typical of a kind of government servant of which the world knows very little. He is one of the highly trained experts who prefer public service to financial rewards. These men turn down highly remunerative offers from business organizations.

Australia Asks for Dr. Savage's Help

Back in 1940 a cable came from London asking the United States government for Savage's assistance in conjunction with the Burrinjuck dam in Australia. Before the department of the interior replied, Dr. Savage was reminded of what he already knew; namely, that United States officials may not receive emoluments of any kind from foreign governments. Our founding fathers were quite sensitive on that point.

"... no person," says the Constitution, "holding any office of profit or trust under (the United States) shall, without the consent of Congress, accept any present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince or foreign state."

And so Savage, rather than delay the project while congress decided whether such emolument be permitted, wired the then commissioner of the bureau of reclamation: "Any assistance given to New South Wales will be gratis and I shall not accept any fee or other form of compensation or any reimbursement."

As a government servant, Dr. Savage, although he cannot accept titles and awards from princes, kings or foreign commoners, has garnered plenty of honors from American institutions. They include his doctorate in science from the University of Wisconsin and the American Society of Civil Engineers' medal. Also he has that most coveted award, the Gold medal for outstanding engineering service, a joint award of the leading organizations of his profession.

If culture can be served by damming rivers, and capital can be found to pay the bill, they'll be dammed—by Savage.

The war will wipe out a lot of ignorant sneers which so-called "practical" men often direct at "long-haired professors." Perhaps the science of psychology gets the most wallops from the uninitiated. Says General Arnold in his second report on the army air force: "The RAF paid the AAF a compliment in 1944 by adopting our system of air crew selection and classification. Our psychological testing procedures were also adopted by the Free French."

There are 20 psychological tests administered which have proved valid in predicting a cadet's chance to win his wings and his chance for combat success.

"The aviation psychology program has paid off in time, lives and... money saved," says General Arnold, "at a total cost of less than $5 per candidate."

The Soviet Information bulletin published in Russia calls attention to the fact that the Russian guards created by Peter I, in 1700, were the first to enter Berlin in the Seven Years war.

It further states that the traditions of the Soviet guards, created when the German armies were nearest Moscow, in the autumn of 1941, were inspired by the ancient Russian guards and "are preserved to this day."

This is one of the many indications of how the Soviet government is continually looking back on Russian history and increasing national consciousness among the people, by-passing the ideology of communism and the landmarks set up by the revolution.

Nazi Stupidity Sank Sub When U. S. Airmen Failed

A classic example of Nazi stupidity was witnessed by the two pilots of a U. S. navy plane flying 50 miles off Iceland in the summer of 1942, says Collier's. Sighting a surfaced Nazi U-boat, they dropped all their depth bombs but none had any effect on the submarine, or frightened it into submerging.

As the pilots circled back, a lone seaman climbed up on the deck and, finding one of the bombs held by a grating, rolled it over the side instead of setting it afloat on a life raft. Within a few seconds, consequently, the bomb reached the depth for which it had been set and exploded, fatally damaging the German pigboat.

Early Days In Coke

(From the files of The Coke County Rustler, June 16, 1894.)

Squire B. P. Byrne of Sanco was in town Manday.

Ed Good passed through town yesterday with a bunch of ponies.

J. M. and Eli Field came in from Milam county last week for a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Field.

Will Good passed through Edith today with a nice herd of yearlings he had sold to George Arnett.

Citizens of Robert Lee met at the court house Monday night and decided to have a barbecue here July 4th. The following committees were appointed: Finance, Geo. Williamson, Sam Sayner, J. F. Conner, H. A. Chapman, H. R. Perry, R. I. Kirkland, W. R. Boykin, J. B. McCutchen. Grounds, J. H. Burroughs, H. H. Hayley, J. W. Tunnell, S. C. Wilkins, Henry Field. Program, D. T. Averitt, S. C. Wilkins, Geo. Williamson, J. A. Stuart, Henry Bennick, G. W. Perryman, J. W. Barnett, A. J. Pritchard. Provisions, J. H. Burroughs, J. O. Tolliver, W. L. Lowe, B. F. Montgomery, H. H. Hayley.

The people of Robert Lee are wanting a mill and gin, and from the steps being taken, it seems that they are going to have it.

Pursuant to the call of Chairman J. O. Tolliver, the People's Party of Coke county met in convention June 9th. Delegates elected to the representative convention were J. D. O'Daniel, Sam Sayner, W. S. Tripp and J. B. McCutchen.

Capt. J. P. Hutchinson of Bronte was in town Thursday.

Bill Dalton, the noted outlaw is dead. From Ardmore, I. T., comes the news that he died as he always swore he would—with his boots on and a six shooter in his hand. The encounter occurred three miles southwest of Elk, I. T., June 8, between 7 and 8 a. m. About four weeks ago word was brought to the marshals that a band of desperados had come into the country near Elk and were making headquarters with a man named Wallace. Thursday morning Wallace came into town with two women. He had an unusual amount of money, bought a wagon load of provisions, besides a big supply of ammunition. Deputy Marshal Lindsey became suspicious as Wallace was a man of small means. After loading his wagon, Wallace had a large box put on at the express office. Lindsey searched the outfit and found three gallons of whiskey. The man and two women were arrested; Lindsey thinking Dalton and his bank robbers might be at Wallace's house, set forth with a posse to raid the place. They left Ardmore Thursday night.

Arriving about daylight the house was quickly surrounded, but a woman saw the deputies and gave the alarm. Dalton rushed to a rear window and leaped out, but was ordered to halt by Deputy Hart three times. Dalton pulled his pistol when Hart fired, striking Dalton in the left side. He expired in a few minutes. Another one of the band escaped into a thicket where pursuit was useless. Mrs. Dalton seems very much affected over the death of her husband, but says she always expected him to meet his death as he did. The officers reached town with Dalton's body yesterday afternoon and the streets leading to the undertaker's had an eager crowd trying to get a glimpse of the most noted outlaw since the days of the James boys. The body will be embalmed to await the arrival of Longview bank officials. The dead man is a fine type of physical manhood, being about 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighing 185 pounds. He wore a dark mustache and light goatee of beard, with dark, wavy hair and had unusually small hands and feet.

So the city folks have done it! Well, WATCH OUR SPEED!

WORD comes from Washington that the fat-salvage problem has got to be licked in the small cities, the towns and on the farms.

We women have to save enough used fats in our kitchens to help make munitions, medicines, fabrics, soap for military and civilian use, and many other essentials.

The job, to date, has been done largely by city people, because arrangements for collecting the fats were made in the cities first. And these city folks are turning in more than twelve million pounds a month!

Now we're called on. And will the women on the farms and in the towns and small cities break that record?

Don't worry—just watch our speed!

HOW TO DO IT: Save all used fats in a tin can. Keep it handy to the stove. Scrape your broilers and roasting pans, skim soups and gravies, for every drop counts. Keep solid pieces of fat, as meat trimmings and table scraps, in a bowl.

Melt down once a week when your oven's going, add the liquid fat to the salvage can.

Take the can to your butcher as soon as it's full. He will give you two red points and up to four cents for every pound. If you have any difficulty, call your County Agent or Home Demonstration Agent. This message is approved by WFA and OPA, and paid for by Industry.

Many Cross-Country Radio Programs Sent Via Wire

Millions of Americans do not realize that many radio programs they hear travel greater distances over telephone lines than through the air.

For example, a network program that originates in New York and is heard in San Francisco through a local station is transmitted some 3,000 miles by wire but less than 30 miles by radio waves.

Jiffy Dinners Help Woman Who Holds An Outside Job

Potato souffles, made in individual cups, are fluffy and golden brown. They're nice to serve with point-easy cold meats for ladies' luncheons or evening dinners.

Women have certainly shown themselves adaptable during war time. There aren't many who are sitting at home and idling their time away. You can be sure that those who are have children to take care of; otherwise they're out working and carrying on at the home front, too, by keeping up their homes, cooking dinners and seeing that everything is spic and span "as usual."

To those who do double duty, ordinary, long drawn-out recipes are of no help. They simply don't have the time to fuss with food. Yet, meals must be nutritious, point-easy and good to look at. Today's menus are easily prepared in less than an hour. They fill the above qualifications fully, and can help those of you who work still live up to your reputation as a good cook.

Quickie Dinner I.

- Limaburgers with Cheese or Egg Sauce
- Buttered Noodles
- Raisin Bread Sandwiches
- Wilted Lettuce Salad
- Whipped Gelatin with Cream Beverage
- Oatmeal Cookies

Limaburgers. (Serves 6)

- 1 cup dried lima beans
- 1/4 cup meat drippings
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 cup finely chopped celery
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1 cup milk
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 1/2 cups fine bread crumbs
- 1 1/2 cups grated raw carrot
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- Dash of black pepper
- 1/2 cup chopped salted peanuts

Prepare evening before: Soak beans for several hours in cold water, then drain, cover with boiling water and cook in a covered saucepan for 30 minutes. Drain and rub through sieve.

To make "burgers," mix lima beans with meat drippings in a saucepan, add onion and celery and saute until soft or yellow. Blend in remaining ingredients and stir over direct heat until mixture boils and thickens. Chill thoroughly.

Lynn Says:

Protective Cooking: Milk, cheese, butter and eggs are perishable. Refrigerate them carefully and cook slowly to get the most out of your food.

Cut carrots and other long vegetables lengthwise. Their cells are long and less of their nourishment will disappear if prepared this way.

Add dressing to fruits and vegetables as soon as they are cut or cubed. The dressing coats the cut surfaces and helps prevent vitamin destruction.

Shell peas or beans just before cooking to prevent air from destroying the vitamin C.

Use as little water as possible when cooking leafy vegetables. After washing vegetables such as spinach and cabbage, let water cling to the leaves and do not add any more when cooking.

Hands off—when caring for vegetables. Bruising causes rapid vitamin loss.

- Lynn Chambers' Point-Saving Menus
- Braised Lamb Livers with Fried Onions
 - Creamed Potatoes
 - Jellied Grapefruit Salad
 - Caramel Rolls
 - Custard Pie
 - Spinach
 - Beverage

Shape into patties, when ready to make, and dip lightly in bread crumbs. Fry in bacon drippings until browned on both sides. To make sauce stir two hard-cooked eggs, chopped, into hot white sauce. Or, use 1/2 cup grated American cheese in white sauce.

Quickie Dinner II.

- Potato Souffle with Sliced Cold Cuts
- Green Beans
- Tossed Spring Salad
- Rye Bread
- Cup Cakes with Chocolate Sauce
- Butter Beverage

In making the potato souffle, leftover potatoes may be used. Or, make enough potatoes from previous evening to use in the souffle:

Potato Souffle.

- 2 tablespoons butter or substitute
- 3/4 cup hot milk
- 3 cups hot mashed potatoes
- 1/4 cup minced onion
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 3 egg yolks
- 3 egg whites

Melt butter, combine with milk, mashed potato, onion and seasonings. Whip together until smooth and fluffy. Beat egg yolks and add to first mixture. Beat egg whites stiff and fold carefully into potato mixture. Bake in a buttered casserole or individual casserole in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 35 to 40 minutes until puffy and golden brown.

Quickie Dinner III.

- Broiled Lamb Patties
- Hashed Brown Potatoes
- Fresh Peas and Carrots
- Apple, Celery, Nut Salad
- Oatmeal Bread with Apple Butter
- Fresh Fruit Cup or Strawberries

Lamb patties are usually prepared by the butcher and they may be broiled as they come or wrapped with bacon if points permit. As you start broiling the patties, chop cooked potatoes with a bit of finely minced onion and start frying in hot fat until well browned. Peas and carrots will cook and be ready at the same time as meat and potatoes cook. Cut or prepare fruit for dessert while main part of dinner finishes cooking.

Mashed lima beans combined with good seasonings and white sauce, are formed into patties to give a meat-like but meatless main dish.

Quickie Dinner IV.

- Green Peppers Stuffed with Corned Beef Hash
- Whole Kernel Corn
- Sliced Tomato—Lettuce Hearts
- Bran Muffins
- Stewed or Canned Fruit
- Beverage
- Cookies

Stuffed Green Peppers. (Serves 6)

- 3 green peppers
- 1 can corned beef hash
- 2 tablespoons butter or fat

Cut peppers lengthwise in halves; remove fiber and seeds. Drop into boiling water and let stand 10 minutes. Drain and fill with corned beef hash. Dot tops with butter. Place in shallow baking pan in a moderately hot (425 degrees) oven for about 20 minutes.

A little cream added to the corn will give it flavor. This vegetable can heat while the green peppers bake. Salad and fruit may be dished out while the cooking is being done.

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Remove the broiler pan at the same time you remove the food. If you let it stand, the heat which is retained will burn the grease on.

Never crowd the rinse tub. Clothes must have room to move about freely to get soap out.

Wipe up any food spilled on the stove at once with a dry cloth or paper toweling. Never use a damp cloth—it may ruin the porcelain finish. But if you let these spots dry on, they will be difficult to remove.

If venetian blinds are waxed when first installed or within a reasonable time thereafter, they can be kept clean more easily. The painted surfaces will be given an added protection and the life of the blind prolonged. Any furniture wax is suitable for this purpose.

In laying a new floor over an old one, place a layer of heavy paper between the two, for resiliency and sound-deadening purposes. A cedar flavored paper will repel vermin.

Dainty Frock for the Little Girl

LITTLE girls of two, three and four years will adore this dainty frock with the gay four-inch duck applique. Pretty and very practical—it opens out flat for ironing. Pattern includes sizes 2, 3 and 4 years. Pieces from your scrap bag can fashion the applique.

Ant Apartments

Ants must have been unusually industrious to have built a 15-foot-high ant hill near Darwin, Australia. White ants build such "apartment buildings" of wood, fiber and earth, held together by a glutinous cement which they secrete. The hills are full of tunnels through which the ants travel.

A Bell for Adano

By John Hersey

W.N.U. FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: The American troops arrived at Adano, a seaport in Italy, with Major Victor Joppolo, the Amgot officer in charge. Sergeant Borth, an M.P., was in charge of security. The Major set out immediately to win the friendship and confidence of the citizens and vowed to replace the town bell, which the Germans had taken. He met the priest, attended mass and appointed Mercurio Salvatore as town crier. Gargano, chief of the Carabinieri, shoved his way to the head of the bakery line. When Carmelina, wife of the lazy Fatta, objected, the Chief marched her off to the Major, who turned her free. He informed the citizens that all were equal and must take their turn.

CHAPTER VI

The cart groaned. The right wheel crumbled around the axle. The whole weight of the thing rolled slowly over into the ditch, and the shafts twisted and upset the mule, and the mule, which had always feared ditches on the right, screamed to find itself falling into what it had feared.

Errante hit the earth hard. He woke up, but what with his dazedness, his drunkenness, his surprise and his natural stupidity, he was unable to do anything except roar wordlessly.

General Marvin was still roaring too. "Serve him right," he shouted. "Holding up traffic. Trying to stop the invasion."

A new fury rushed up the General's cheeks. "Middleton," he shouted, "shoot that mule."

Colonel Middleton's blood froze. He shouted back: "Do you think it's wise, sir?"

The General shouted: "What's that? What's that?"

Colonel Middleton knew it was hopeless but he shouted again: "I said, do you think it is wise, sir?" Trying to reason with any man, and especially with this man at two hundred feet and the top of one's lungs was not rewarding work.

The General shouted: "Middleton, you trying to stop the invasion too? Do what I say."

So Colonel Middleton pulled out his Colt and fired three shots into the head of the screaming mule.

All this was accomplished before Errante Gaetano was able to shape his roaring into words. He stood there in absolute amazement at the shooting.

General Marvin shouted: "Let's go, can't spend all day here."

The men got back into the armored car and the seep. As they started up, General Marvin said: "Got to teach these people a lesson. Take me to the mayor of this town, what is this town anyhow?"

And they drove off, leaving Errante sobbing on the flank of his mule, lying with his arms around the neck of the mule which had had a sense of the middle but no sense of urgency.

The General's armored car pulled up in front of the Palazzo di Citta. Lieutenant Byrd ran across the wide sidewalk and up the marble stairs and burst into Major Joppolo's office. He interrupted the Major in the middle of a conversation with Gargano, the Chief of the Carabinieri.

"General Marvin's downstairs and wants to see you," the Lieutenant said. "He's mad as hell, so you better hurry."

"General Marvin," said Major Joppolo, and the tone of his voice was not of delight. Though he had never met the General, he had heard much about him. "I'll be right down."

Lieutenant Byrd turned and ran downstairs. Major Joppolo absently arranged the papers on his desk in neat piles. Then he stood up and walked out of his office. Half way down the marble stairs he realized that he was out of uniform. He had heard stories of General Marvin's insistence on correct uniform. Here he was in pink pants and khaki shirt, when he was supposed to be in woollens. He was suddenly very frightened, and he turned and began walking up the stairs again, trying to figure out what to do, how to get into proper uniform.

Colonel Middleton ran to the foot of the marble stairs and shouted up: "Hey, you, what do you mean by keeping the General waiting?"

"Yes, sir," Major Joppolo said. "Be right down."

There was nothing to do. He ran down the stairs.

When Major Joppolo reached the armored car, the General was sitting with his left arm raised in front of him, glaring at his wrist watch.

Major Joppolo saluted. General Marvin roared: "One minute and twenty seconds. You've been keeping me waiting one minute and twenty seconds. Do you think I have all day to wait for you? Who are you, anyway?"

"Major Joppolo, sir, senior civil affairs officer, town of Adano, sir."

General Marvin remembered the cart and was apparently too angry even to notice Major Joppolo's uniform. "Major, these Italian carts are holding up our whole invasion. Keep them out of this town. Don't you let another cart come across that bridge back there into this town. What the hell is this town, anyway?"

"Adano, sir, town of Adano."

"Adano. Keep the carts out of this town, you hear me?"

"Yes, sir, I'll take care of that right away."

The General shouted: "Right away? That's not soon enough for me."

"Sir, I'll go right up and call the M.P.'s and tell them about it."

"That's not soon enough. I want action. No more carts. Adano's the name of this town, remember that, Middleton, Adano. No more carts at all, Major, do you understand? What are you standing there gawking about? Action. Let's get going, let's get out of here, do you think I have all day?"

And before Major Joppolo could even salute, the armored car had roared away.

By the time he reached his desk again, Major Joppolo realized what the consequences of keeping the carts out of town would be. He knew very well how essential they were to the life of the place.

With a heavy heart he cranked his field telephone, asked for Rowboat Blue Forward, got the ear of Captain Purvis, head of the M.P.'s in Adano, and ordered him in the name of General Marvin, to keep all carts out of Adano, to stop them at the bridge on the east and at the sulphur refinery on the west.

Then he called for Zito, his usher, and asked him to assemble all the officials of the town in his office.

When they were all in, Major Joppolo stood at his desk and said: "I have promised to tell you every important thing which the American authorities decide to do in this town. I do not want this to be a town of mysteries. In a democracy one of the most important things is for everyone to know as much as possible about what is going on."

"The American authorities have decided that because of military necessities it will no longer be possible for mule carts to come into the streets of town."

Major Joppolo could see his audience suck in its collective breath. He said: "I am not happy to have to announce this decision. It is because of military necessities. I am sorry. That is all."

Early in the morning, Zito, the little usher, came up to his desk and said: "Mister Major, there are three men to see you about the carts."

Because it worried him, the Major snapped back angrily at Zito: "What do they want about the carts?"

"That is something they wish to tell you, Mister Major," Zito said. "It is something they did not tell me."

"Well, show them in."

The three Italians were evidently poor but respected men. There was a kind of democracy in their coming to see the Major: they were the chosen delegates of all the cartmen, to argue this thing out.

They all had old, clean coats on, and they all clutched cloth caps in their hands. Zito brought three chairs forward, and they sat in a half circle opposite the Major.

The Major pointed with a fountain pen at one of the men and said in Italian: "You. What is your name?"

The man was about sixty. His hair was pure white but the skin of his forehead, though furrowed, was the skin of a tough young man. He jumped to his feet, twisting his cap in his strong hands, and he shouted: "Afronti Pietro, Mister Major." Then he gave the Major a Fascist salute.

"Speak softly here," the Major said. "I am not deaf." He leaned and spoke to the other two men. "Are you deaf?"

"No, Mister Major," they both said.

"Then speak softly," he said to the strong-voiced man. "What do you desire?"

"I desire," the old man said, trying to keep his voice quiet, "to raise the question of the carts coming into the town of Adano. I desire to tell you, Mister Major, that these carts are most dear to us. I wish to tell you about my cart. It has two wooden wheels, Mister Major—"

"I have seen these carts. It is not necessary to describe the carts."

Afronti gave another Fascist salute. "One day last summer," he said in a louder voice, "I drove my cart all the way to Gioia di Monti, and all the way the wheels sang a song which was also a prophecy. At the time none of my friends would believe this song, would you, my friends?" And he turned to the other two.

The two nodded their heads, but the expression of their faces was blank because they were thinking of the speeches they were about to make.

Afronti's voice grew louder and louder, as if he were outdoors. "Do you wish to hear this song, Mister Major?"

Major Joppolo said: "No, please come to the point."

Afronti stepped back. He unbuttoned his coat. He held his cap out at arm's length and he sang. It was not exactly a tune he sang, but his voice went up and down, very loud. This is what he sang:

"The Americans are coming here, Signor Afronti,

The Americans are very just men, Especially with regard to carts."

Major Joppolo said: "Do not joke with me, old man. We have no time for humor this morning. I want to help you if you have something reasonable to ask of me. Come to the point."

Afronti shouted: "The music has stopped. There is no more music."

The Major said: "Please do not shout here. You seem to think that Americans are deaf men. We are not deaf. Do not shout."

Afronti said very softly: "The music has stopped, there is no more music, Mister Major. Thank you, Mister Major." And he sat down abruptly.

The Major lifted his pen and pointed it at the next man. "And you," he said, "your name."

This was a man who seemed a little backward. He was timid in the way he stood up and he did not twist his cap with any enthusiasm, as the others did. His voice was slow and he had to think a long time before he could say his own name. Finally it came out: "Erba Carlo, Mister Major."

"And you desire?"

After an embarrassing pause, the other two left off thinking about their own speeches and came to the assistance of Erba.

"Tell him," one of them said, "about the water carts."

After this sustained effort, Erba's face was covered with perspiration. At first he looked proud and triumphant, but then he could see another hurdle coming.

Major Joppolo was frantic with impatience, but he said: "Yes, my friend, tell me some more about the water cart." This was a quality in the Major that came out time and again: he was always gentle with those who evoked impatience, and he was always impatient with those who begged for gentleness.

"The thirst," said one of Erba's friends, "the great thirst."

Erba turned to the Major with an expression of delight which belied the seriousness of what he was to say. He was delighted because it was all coming back to him now. He said: "You will not let my cart across the bridge. There is no water in Adano without my cart and the other water carts. There is a thirst in Adano. Since yesterday morning at eleven o'clock there is a great thirst. Carmelina who is the wife of the lazy Fatta says that her daughter will die of the thirst. It is all because of the bridge and the carts . . . and the—"

An Old-Time Spice Chest for Today's Kitchen Easily Made of Scrap Lumber

By Ruth Wyeth Spears

AT PICKLING time and all through the year we are using herbs and spices in all the old ways and in many new combinations. Grandmother's herb and spice chest with drawers neatly marked seems to be exactly the right place for these treasures. The one shown here is about 15 inches high and the drawers are planned to hold the shaker cans that spices come in today.

This chest is easy to make from scraps of lumber with plywood back shaped in simple curves that may be cut with a coping saw. The drawer fronts are made with block back construction which requires no special tools. Plastic or brass knobs are used and labels are pasted on and then shellacked.

NOTE—Pattern 275 gives an actual-size cutting guide for all shaped parts of this chest and large diagrams showing the construction. A complete list of materials is included; also 22 printed labels so that you may have a wide choice either for one or a pair of chests. To get pattern 275 send 15 cents with name and address direct to:

Two of a Kind

Everyone in the village had vainly searched for a lost cow. Finally the local nitwit went out and brought her in. "How did you find her so quickly?" the owner asked in surprise. "Why," the nitwit explained, "I just thought if I were a cow where I'd go, and I went there and there she were."

Patient Knows Best

"There is very little wrong with you really," said the young doctor to his patient. "Take more exercise, eat less, and you'll have nothing to worry about." "Young man," said the patient crossly, "I understand you have been a doctor for only five years. I am an invalid of 25 years' experience — you don't know what you are talking about."

Getting Around It

Donovan was being shown over a new house by the estate agent, who was perhaps a little more inclined to candor than some of his tribe.

"I think I must tell you," said the agent, "that there is one drawback to this house. It is very close to the railway, and you may be disturbed at night by the trains: Still, I'm quite sure that after two or three days you'll get used to it and not notice it."

Donovan thought for a moment, then said: "Sure and ye needn't worry. O'll sleep at me brother's the first three nights."

All husbands are alike, but they have different faces so you can tell them apart.

"Greater Love Hath No Man Than This . . ."

President Franklin D. Roosevelt passed away at Warm Springs, Ga. Thursday at 3:45 p. m., following a massive cerebral hemorrhage. Funeral services were conducted Sunday with interment in the family burial plot, Hyde Park, N. Y.

President Roosevelt's death occasioned universal sadness. He was the friend of the oppressed and it is without gainsay that his end was hastened by his herculean task of winning the war and the peace. He was a great humanitarian, and in history will rank with Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln. He will live in memory throughout the ages. Peace to his ashes!

Might This Thing Be Called Emancipation?

An officer who had been through the North African campaign made the remark that this war had made quite a difference to the position of Arab women there.

"For centuries," he said, "when an Arab family was on the move, the man rode the donkey and the woman walked patiently behind him, carrying the luggage. But when our troops got going there was a big change. True, the man still rode the donkey—but the woman walked in front."

"So our boys taught them that it was 'ladies first'?" he was asked.

"Well, I don't know. She walked in front because there might be land mines."

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Recent government tests demonstrated that synthetic truck tires show slower wear and less tread-cracking when operating at night than during daytime service. Atmospheric temperatures were given as the reason for this difference in service.

Like other rubber commodities, footwear should be treated properly to extend serviceability. Avoid tearing by putting on and removing rubber footwear carefully; wash outer surfaces after each wearing; dry out linings in room temperature; store in cool, dry, dark place and make sure to keep footwear free from folds or wrinkles.

Household Hints

Long straight draperies will add height to a low room. Choose plain material or one with a pattern that carries the eye up and down from top to bottom. Tie-backs will break the line and tend to shorten a room.

Rugs should be swept or vacuumed cleaned, but never beaten, shaken, or snapped, as this may loosen or break the fabric and binding or fringe.

Men's shirt collars will fray less if turned up before being laundered.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

THE FOUNDING OF THE NATION

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 18:19-24; 19:3-8. GOLDEN TEXT—Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people. —Proverbs 14:34.

God has a purpose for the lives of men and of nations. Happy are those who seek His guidance so that their lives may be directed in right and useful channels.

God's threefold purpose for Israel, which we noted in our lesson of last week, could only be worked out in a nation which was separated unto Him, following holiness in its life and service.

Moses, one of the greatest and most able figures of all history, was God's appointed leader. His success is explained by his willingness to follow God's leading. He sought:

I. God's Counsel (18:19).

Jethro, the father-in-law of Moses, having observed how he was burdened constantly by the affairs of the people, came to offer him advice. He started in the right place, by urging Moses to continue to seek God, yes, to spend even more time in the Lord's presence, asking His wisdom and guidance.

No man can lead a people in the right way if he does not have his own life in constant touch with the throne of God. Much of the failure of our day centers right there. We talk much to other men about our national and international problems. There are multiplied meetings and conferences. They do have value, but very little, unless there is a seeking of God's will.

A day of national repentance and prayer would do more for us than many weeks of discussion and debate. We need to seek God's counsel.

To aid Moses in administering the affairs of the nation, Jethro recommended the appointment of men who were to serve as:

II. God's Counselors (18:20-24).

There has been not a little criticism of Moses for accepting this advice. It is pointed out that when God puts heavy burdens on us, the way out is not to shift the load on someone else, but to seek God's special grace to bear it and to do it acceptably.

There is value in such an interpretation; but when one considers the devout and careful approach of Jethro to the matter (vv. 9-12) and his evident desire to glorify God in it all, there is ground for believing that he was giving Moses good advice.

The great unorganized host of possibly two million people were going through a very difficult experience. The result was dissension and strife, often over trivial things, which needed to be settled. For all this to come to Moses seemed undesirable; therefore other men were chosen to be counselors to the people, interpreting for them the law and the will of God.

While each of us should carry every God-given responsibility with gladness, that does not mean that we are to assume that only we are able to do things. There is no more tragic figure than the pastor or church officer who tries to do everything. Why not put others to work?

Now we come to the solemn and crucial moment when God was ready to establish His people and they were ready to accept:

III. God's Covenant (19:3-8).

In the sacred and awe-inspiring meeting place before Mount Sinai, where the Lord was to give them His law (Exod. 20), they made a solemn covenant with God.

In preparation for it He reminded them of what He had done for them in the past. God is the unchanging One. If He was tender and gracious toward them in the past, they could enter the future confident of His blessing. And so may we!

Note verses 5 and 6, for they give us God's great purpose for Israel. All they had to do was to obey His voice by keeping His covenant. This they, in solemn assembly, agreed to do (v. 8). How different their history—and that of the world—would have been had they kept their promise.

We lament their failure, but what about us who are so highly favored that we have Christ in our midst?

Following the making of the covenant (which God will one day fulfill in spite of their failure), we have the giving of the Ten Commandments, and the establishment of Israel's center of worship in the tabernacle. It was the dwelling place of God among His people. How precious!
