Wemple To Hear Plea For Paved Road To Sterling

Members of the Coke county commissioners court and Judge Bob L. Davis will go to Midland next Tuesday to confer with State Highway Commissioner Fred Wemple in regard to improving the Robert Lee-Sterling City road. For some time it had been understood here that this road was already on the program and would be improved following completion of No. 18 to the Mitchell county line. However, when local authorities appeared before the Highway Commission at Austin last spring, they were given the "brush off" to the effect that paving would be considered "when funds were available."

There has been considerable agitation locally which has resulted in the conference next week with Mr. Wemple, the newly appointed commissioner from this section of the state. Wemple advised Judge Davis that he would receive the Coke county delegation Tuesday afternoon and an effort will be made to work out a new plan to lay before the commission at its next meeting in Austin. Wemple has previously signified his deep interest in seeing a paved highway constructed from Robert Lee to Sterling City.

It is understood that the highway commission has made plans to build the road east from Sterling City to within a mile of the county line later this year. Coke county is in hopes it can tie in with that program.

The new road running west through the Edith locality and on to Sterling county has been talked for many years and was surveyed by the highway commission ten years ago. Its completion would close the last gap in the county's program of highway paving which started 12 years ago and has already resulted in 87 miles of paved roads.

However, the war put a temporary stop to new road construction, but Coke county was in line when operations were resumed last year. Why the program died down this year is difficult to understand, and local authorities are determined to get a show down. A paved highway to the west is of greater importance now because of the possible oil development. Sun Oil company is preparing to drill south of the river across from the Jameson field, and there are prospects of other tests to be made in the Edith locality. It is almost impossible to get to Sun's new location on the John B. Walker land because of the poor old bridges which will not carry heavy loads of pipe and drilling equipment.

Another important argument for the new road is that it would complete a new highway to the west and north for traffic from Brownwood and points south and east in the state, thus relieving the crowded travel conditions on No. 80

Perhaps the proposed Colorado River dam has been a factor in keeping the Highway Commission from going ahead with the road from Robert Lee. The state probably is not inclined to spend a quarter of a million dollars on new bridges and pavement and then have them submerged by a man made lake. Of course, sponsors of the dam have pointed out that if and when the dam is built property owners will be reimbursed for any damages that arise and this should apply to highways and bridges.

And there is another solution which might suffice for the present. That is for the highway commission to designate the new road east from the Sterling line down to Edith, and pave it next year. Maybe the state would then agree to maintain the road running on into Robert Lee or decide upon a new route east from Edith if the dam proposition is still to be settled.

The Observer is sure that Fred Wemple will help the local delegation in every way he can, and try to right the injustice whereby Coke county has been ignored in its efforts to secure improvement of this important highway project.

Singing Convention

A Goke county singing convention will be held at Tennyson on Sunday, Aug. 31. It will be an all day affair with dinner on the grounds. Singers are expected from a number of surrounding counties. The public is invited.

Volunteer Firemen

All men who intend to serve as members of the Volunteer Fire Department are requested to meet at the court house Friday night at 8 o'clock. Fire Chief Sam Jay says he has a list of fifteen names and all persons interested are invited to join up. The membership roll must be complete Friday night when applications will be made for the disability insurance and retirement pensions which are available under state law. A 100 per cent turnout is necessary.

Injured in Combine

B. B. (Buster) Pierce received serious injuries when he caught his hand under a V-type belt on a combine Monday afternoon. He was rushed to the hospital where the little finger of his left hand was amputated, while the surgeon hoped to save the next finger which was also nearly severed. Pierce was helping with harvest at the A. V. Hughes farm when the accident occurred.

Nora Foster of Merkel was a recent guest of Mrs. O. B. Jacobs and family.

Clifford Robertson is here for a week's vacation in the parental J. B. Robertson home. He leaves Saturday for a two weeks' training period with the naval reserve. Clifford is a student at North Texas State at Denton and is majoring in physical education. He will get his degree the coming year.

Pictured above are Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Prine and the former's sister, Mrs. Charity Morris. Mrs. Morris is standing next to her brother, whom she had not seen for 47 years.

Brother, Sister United After Lapse of 47 Yrs.

A happy reunion took place earlier this month at the J. M. Prine ranch home, northeast of Sanco, when Mr. Prine's sister whom he had not seen in 47 years, Mrs. Charity Morris, arrived from California.

They were born at Christoval, Mr. Prine being next to the youngest and his sister the baby in a family of 12 children. Their mother died while they were small and in the spring of 1900 their father moved to Arizona and on to California. Charity went with her father, who later remarried in the west, but J. M. remained in West Texas as did older children in the family.

The two youngest children were in touch with each other for some time, and then 30 years elapsed before they resumed a direct correspondence with each other last year. Mrs. Morris is enjoying the visit back to her native Texas and says she never outgrew her love for the wide open spaces. She will remain here for several weeks.

She and Mr. Prine are the only survivors of the family of 12 children. Her husband died several years ago and she has a son and a daughter living in California. Her home is at Poway, near Los Angeles.

Mr. Prine has been a resident of Coke county since 1914. He and Mrs. Prine have been married 47 years and have eight children, all of whom reside in Texas.

Democratic Radio Party

Dr. J. K. Griffith, county chairman of the Democratic party, has been advised by Gael Sullivan, national chairman, that there will be a Democratic Radio Party next Tuesday night, Sept. 2. On that date the American Broadcasting company's coast-to-coast network will carry a program in which party leaders from different parts of the country will be heard. The program will be a real demonstration of Democratic strength and will again highlight the people's disgust with the miserable failure of the Republicans in the 80th Congress. Dr. Griffith hopes that everyone will listen to the program next Tuesday night.

School Opening Set For Monday, Sept. 1

Robert Lee public school will open next Monday with first classes due to start the following morning. Supt. M. G. Hannaford says that teachers will meet with their classes during the forenoon Monday to receive books and assignments but there will be no afternoon session.

Football boys will report to Coach Jiggs Hudson Monday afternoon when equipment will be issued and intensive drill sessions will get under way at once, since only two weeks remain before the opening game at Sonora Sept. 12.

Willie Wallace, new custodian, has been busy the past two weeks getting the school building in readiness. Some plastering has been done as repair work and buildings have been thoroughly cleaned and floors oiled.

A teachers meeting has been called for 4 p. m. Saturday. Some difficulty in class assignments is anticipated since the teaching staff has been reduced to 11 this year.

The Green Mountain and Silver schools will also open next Monday, while Bronte and Tennyson do not start until Sept. 8. W. O. Carr will be in charge of the Green Mountain school this year as the only teacher and seven grades will be taught. Mrs. Evelyn McKinley of Sanco and Mrs. Opal Odom of Silver will again teach the Silver school which has eight elementary grades.

Three other common school districts in the county will not open. Walnut will send its pupils to Water Valley, while Wildcat and Sanco pupils will attend school in Robert Lee.

BULLETIN

School Opening Postponed

The Observer was advised at noon Thursday that opening of the Robert Lee Schools had been postponed until Sept. 8. This action was necessary when it was learned that one of the two new school buses purchased last spring could not be delivered on time. Both old buses were disposed of and transportation facilities will have to be arranged during the coming week. All candidates for football are advised to report at the school house Monday, Sept. 1, at 9 a. m.

Going to 4-H Roundup

Travis Hicks, county agent, and Mary Pearl Bearden, home demonstrator, leave the last of the week for their annual convention at A & M College. They will be joined there the middle of next week by the following Coke county 4-H representatives who will attend the state roundup: Don Joel Schooler, Weldon Schooler, Nelda Ann Sheppard, Marlene Arrott and Eula Faye Smith.

Here's Latest Coke County Oil News

Sun Oil company's No. 2 W. I. Tubbs was preparing to rathole ahead Thursday. Over the weekend 5 1/2 inch pipe was set at 6,146 feet, with open hole extending to 6,208 feet.

Drillstem tests taken last week showed a good recovery of oil and gas and it is expected to become the eighth producer in the Jameson field near Silver. No. 2 Tubbs is a west offset to No. 1 Homer Jameson and is a half mile west of the discovery producer.

Sun's No. 2 Homer Jameson was drilling ahead Thursday at 5,397 feet in shale and lime. Location is a quarter mile south and a quarter west of Fred Jameson No. 3.

Sun No. 4 Fred Jameson cemented intermediate pipe Thursday at 1,680 feet. Drillers experienced considerable trouble the past week when they lost the bottom joint of surface pipe which had been cemented to 1,450 feet. It is a south offset to Homer Jameson No. 1.

Being reworked in an effort to improve production, Sun No. 1 Homer Jameson perforated casing from 6,122 to 6,225 feet. Thursday operators had drilled out the Baker retainer at 6,077 feet and was reaming cement out of casing. In a test completed Monday the well flowed 120 barrels of oil in 21 hours.

Sun has filed application for a permit to deepen No. 1 Allen Jameson, the pool opener, from 6,245 to 6,360 feet, in an effort to increase its production. The well was completed Dec. 13, 1946, only 20 feet in the pay, for a 24-hour flow of 168 barrels of high gravity oil. It recently has not been making its daily allowable of 108 barrels.

Amendment Given Scant Support Here

Only a light vote was cast in Coke county at the special election last Saturday, but voters were decidedly against the proposed amendment and the result was: For 45, Against 173.

By means of the amendment which the legislature had submitted to the people, 16 state colleges and universities would be able to begin a 30-year building program involving 60 million dollars.

It takes the unused 5-cent portion of the authorized 7-cent state property tax for Confederate pensions and assigns the revenue to a special building fund for 14 colleges other than the University of Texas and A & M college.

Latest reports indicate the amendment may carry in the state by a close margin.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Seek Conspiracy in High Prices; U.N. Warned on Greek Situation; Tax-Exempt Co-ops Are Studied

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Plane builder Howard Hughes sat aloof and alone amid a forest of chairs in a senate caucus room after the investigation of his aviation contracts had been abruptly and mysteriously called off. Hearings were scheduled to resume November 17.

CONSPIRACY:

Probe Prices

Many Americans who have had to empty their pocketbooks to fill their larders probably have entertained, from time to time, the theory that current astronomical costs of living were a conspiracy of some sort.

Now Attorney General Tom Clark has been struck with the same idea, and he is dead serious about it—threatening jail sentences for anyone who can be proved to have conspired to keep prices of food, clothing and shelter in the stratosphere.

Assuming a "get tough" attitude, the justice department ordered a full scale investigation to determine whether there is any subterfuge behind high prices in the nation, as industry spokesmen hurried to point out that their records were unblemished and that they would welcome the uprooting of any existing evils.

In the meantime, the CIO full employment commission urged that congress be summoned into special session to restore price controls and roll back prices to where they were when OPA expired. Congressional committees were already looking into price increases in the East and Midwest.

The justice department's anxiety and its proposed drive to combat monopolists was one of the strongest indications yet that the government is gravely concerned with the possibilities of uncontrollable inflation in the nation.

MORE TROUBLE:

UN Warned

The United States has put one more iron in the international fire as a result of the red-hot Balkan situation.

In a bluntly worded ultimatum, the U. S. told the United Nations security council that it would take

MAY SEND TROOPS

U. S. state and war departments have been reviewing the possibility that American troops ultimately may have to be sent to Greece, although officials do not believe such a move is necessary at the present.

direct action to defend Greece from Communist domination if the council and general assembly are unable to do the job.

That development followed a deadlock brought about two weeks previously when Russia vetoed an American plan to have a U. N. commission keep order along the northern frontier of Greece.

And it came on the heels of a report that a seven-nation subcommittee had been unsuccessful in finding a way to resolve the stalemated Russian and U. S. stands.

Delivered to the security council by Herschel V. Johnson, deputy U. S. delegate, the warning said:

"The continued failure of the security council to take effective action in this case because of the Soviet veto cannot, in the opinion of the U. S. government, preclude individual or collective action by states willing to act, so long as they act in accordance with the general purposes and principles of the United Nations."

What other nations might be willing to join the United States in "collective action" against Communist inroads in Greece was not immediately evident, however.

RED SAUCERS:

Soviets Curious

Those flying disks were fun while they lasted, but by this time everybody has practically forgotten them.

Well, almost everybody.

Latest report having to do with the aerial chinaware is that Soviet agents in the United States have been ordered to solve the mystery of the disks. Presupposing the report to be true, it means, at least, that the saucers were not of Russian origin as many at first believed.

Soviet espionage agents here are said to have been advised that the Kremlin believes the flying saucers might have some connection with army experiments on methods of knocking out enemy radar during bombing raids.

CO-OP INQUIRY:

Two Questions

Although the public is not too well informed about it, one of the most important and fiercely waged domestic post war battles is that being fought between private business and cooperative enterprises.

Crux of the feud is the fact that cooperatives are tax-exempt, while private business is not. From this evolve two basic questions:

1. What effect does tax-exemption have upon growth of the cooperatives?
2. Is tax-exemption a factor of discrimination against private business?

A house small business subcommittee has begun an attempt to find the answers with an investigation of the cooperative community enterprise at Greenbelt, Md. In the Greenbelt case, business groups have charged that the government has aided the cooperative in keeping private business out of the development area.

This hearing, as well as others on the west coast, is being conducted by Rep. B. Walter Riehlman (Rep., N. Y.) as acting chairman of the subcommittee.

In view of the theory that taxes will remain high, compared with the past, for at least 50 years, according to economists, the tax-exemption feature of co-ops' existence will grow increasingly important.

DOUBLE TALK:

Inter-American

Indications at the outset were that the 21-nation inter-American conference at Rio de Janeiro, officially called for the purpose of working out a permanent mutual defense treaty among American republics, might find itself more concerned with economic aid discussions.

U. S. policy, as guided by Secretary of State Marshall, will attempt to hold down to a minimum any Latin American hopes for United States loans. The North American delegation was expected, instead, to stress the fact that U. S. capital investments in South America are more available and healthier than outright loans.

Although some South American governments are slowly trending toward that same idea, public opinion is lagging, particularly because of Communist and nationalist-inspired anti-U. S. propaganda.

In the meantime, other of the republics were thinking in terms of a "little Marshall plan" for American aid to Latin America.

All in all, it looked like another exciting diplomatic period.

WITH THE COLUMNISTS

PAUL MALLON

Republican Strategy Pays Dividends

THE Republicans brought themselves out of their first new leadership session of congress in greater unity than any political party has achieved since long before the New Deal. Defections generally drew only three of their senators.

This was accomplished by a peculiar inner system of organization. Normally steering committees are bossed by one or two men, but the Republicans made theirs truly representative of the party. For instance, in the house Speaker Martin was boss, but he worked closely with Floor Leader Halleck (which is not unusual). They both cooperated genuinely with a steering committee, which made many decisions to which both Martin and Halleck were opposed.

Out of this system of operating from the grass roots up, instead of from a top leadership down (as Mr. Roosevelt did), came the dominant party characteristic of their first session.

Now this guiding committee leadership had an operating system which was kept completely under cover. They had a two-pronged base policy from the start. They strove (A) to keep down the amount of legislation, selecting only the bare essentials for beginning a new policy era for the country, and (B) to get away from emergency and "must" legislation. Their delay on the union reform bill was deliberate. Nothing was said about this yardstick. "They kept the Democrats from knowing their formula. But they feel rather good now about the way it worked out."

"My Dear Mr. Harriman—The papers say that the Committee of Nineteen which is to look into this country's capacity to do all our foreign lending and underwriting has started on the job in a big way and that it will 'make a study unmatched in history.' Fine and dandy! Some such study to find out where the bottom of the barrel is, what's between it and the top, how big the bung-hole should be and whether multiple spigots are advisable is certainly overdue, bub. And it will comfort most Americans to feel for the first time in many years that 'Stop, look and listen' is replacing the slogan 'Shoot the works, let the poorhouse come when it may.'"

DREW PEARSON

Congressional Junket for Peace

SEN. GLEN TAYLOR of Idaho, a former cowboy vaudeville crooner who has come to win the respect of his senatorial colleagues, will take an unusual trip this summer.

While some senators will be junketing to Alaska or touring Europe, Taylor will ride horseback from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast.

The senator from Idaho candidly admits that it is a publicity stunt, but not for Taylor, for peace. Along the way, Taylor plans to speak for the United Nations and world cooperation.

At the last session of congress, he helped introduce a bill to strengthen the United Nations and help eliminate the veto power by which one nation can hold up the peace efforts of the rest of the world. Taylor feels that the Middle West is becoming isolationist, is worried over the threat of war and wants to dramatize the problem of peace.

The Idaho senator planned to buy two horses in California and begin his trek from the Golden Gate bridge, San Francisco. One horse will follow behind on a trailer, while he rides the other, alternating each day. Taylor says he plans to ride horseback every inch of the way, even including western deserts and the Rocky mountains. He figures the trip will take him three months.

WALTER SHEAD

Cost of Living Spirals

IN PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S state of the union message to congress last January he warned of the spiral of inflated prices. In the succeeding seven months the President filed with congress two economic reports on conditions in the country, and in both of these he urged congress to do something about the high cost of living. In addition, more than a month before adjournment of congress he sent a special message urging positive action against the continued spiral of living costs. He also made a plea to private industry to reduce costs voluntarily.

All through the long months until congress adjourned, no action was taken. In the meantime, living costs reached their peak immediately before adjournment. As prices soared, profits soared and 1947 earnings will be approximately 50 per cent above last year's record of $12,539,600,000.

On the last day of the session the senate named a joint committee and appropriated $100,000 for it to hold hearings to probe the question of whether or not there is a high cost of living problem. That is all congress did. These hearings probably will get under way in mid-September.

We can't imagine him as even close to the type, and the actor we think would be a scream in it would be Barry Fitzgerald. He is the only performer on stage or screen who could touch Frank Fay. Why not, by the way, Fay for the picture version. Too much as the author intended, eh?

It is our guess that Hollywood will put the rabbit into the play, visually. And that, were John Bunny alive, he would get the part.

"So far as this airplane business is concerned I have been in it 13 years and lost $14,000,000."—Howard Hughes.

"Is that good?"

It seems to us, reading about those gay parties as an amusing interlude in the war contracts routine, that there should have been a "Miss $200 of 1944."

Crops have been holding up well in spite of the long summer drouth. Early feed is making light yields and early cotton is damaged. Range grass has held up well, having had plenty of moisture in the spring.

HELD ORDERS

Just about two years ago the war ended—remember? Then everyone thought there would be all kinds of equipment and materials available. However, that hasn't been the case for your telephone company. Even though manufacturers have been working at top speed, they are handicapped by the continued lack of raw materials. Copper and steel are still in short supply, wood for telephone poles is hard to get, and lead is still very scarce. Record progress has been made in spite of these shortages. As more needed equipment is delivered, your telephone company will work with all possible speed to meet the evermounting demands for new telephone service.

COLORFUL FIESTA GARB . . . Descendants of Spanish Conquistadores and Pueblo Indians will stage a re-enactment of their final peace treaty as a highlight of the Santa Fe Fiesta. Colorful costumes, like those worn by the Pueblo Indians (above), will add a reminder of the past to fiesta time.

Historic Fiesta Commemorates Reconquest of Old Santa Fe

WNU Features.

SANTA FE, N. M. — "Hasta la Fiesta!" That old Spanish greeting resounds through the streets of Old Santa Fe as preparations near completion for the 235th annual edition of the historic Santa Fe Fiesta. Descendants of Spanish Conquistadores and Pueblo Indians once again will join together at the four-day Labor Day fiesta, opening August 29 and continuing through September 1, by staging a re-enactment of their final peace treaty drawn up in 1692.

America's oldest community festival, the Santa Fe Fiesta, commemorates the reconquest of the southwest territory and especially of Santa Fe, the former Spanish capital, by Gen. Don Diego de Vargas in the year 1692. The reconquest came 12 years after the Indian uprising in which all Spanish persons north of the border fled back into Mexico or were killed.

Twenty years later, in 1712, Marquis de la Penuela, governor and captain general of the New Mexico territory, decreed that a fiesta should be held annually "for all time to come" in honor of the retaking of the City of Santa Fe. This was in keeping with a vow, made prior to the reconquest by General De Vargas, to hold a fiesta in honor of the Virgin of Guadalupe.

This annual celebration, prior to World War II, was one of the outstanding festivals in the country, with thousands of tourists coming to join with local Spanish-Americans, Mexicans, Indians and Anglos (Caucasians who have settled here from other states).

The colorful pageantry of the reconquest of the city, the covered wagon days parades, Indian markets and dances, native musicians with their folk music and dancing, often including, as it will this year, the importation of a Mariachi band or orchestra from Old Mexico, Conquistadores Baile or Ball, always have intrigued fiesta visitors.

This year for the first time since 1941, all major features have been included in the program and from the burning of Zozobra (a giant 100-foot figure of the god of gloom) on Friday evening, until the last musical concert on Monday evening, hilarity and the spirit of fiesta will reign supreme.

Sunday is given over largely to appropriate religious activities. Highlights include a procession to the church of high Catholic dignitaries, a high pontifical mass and an evening candlelight procession in which thousands of pilgrims bearing lighted candles wend their way through the streets, with luminarios and pinon fires helping to light their way.

Santa Fe, oldest capital city in the nation, will be decked out in gala holiday attire for fiesta time. Gay bunting and colorful banners will adorn city streets, and many residents will be decked in colorful old costumes reminiscent of early Spanish and Indian days.

Perched in mountainous country at an elevation of 7,000 feet, Santa Fe holds forth its cool, invigorating climate as an added lure for fiesta visitors. The city and the nearby area are replete with authentic historic sights which beckon to many tourists who, like the freighters of old, make their last stop at the terminus of the Santa Fe Trail.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Work Is Good

LESSON TEXT FOR AUGUST 31—Proverbs 6:6-11; 18:9; 24:30-32; Ecclesiastes 5:12.

MEMORY SELECTION—Whatever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might.—Ecclesiastes 9:10.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

By WILLIAM CULBERTSON, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

WISE indeed is that legislator who understands that there are two extremes to be avoided in dealing with the problems of the working man. The one extreme is that heartless, cruel exploitation of labor which grinds men to powder, which deals with individuals as chattel. The other extreme is to provide such an amount of free time for the individual that both his personal life and economic prosperity are in danger.

Work is good. It is well to keep in mind that before the fall man was commanded to tend the garden.

Life without purpose, life without activity for good, would be vain and actually intolerable.

I. An Illustration of Prudence and a Warning Against Indolence (Prov. 6:6-11; 18:9).

THE illustration from the creature world is apt. Ants, as this scripture states, have no overseer, and yet they are diligent in providing for the time of need.

It would seem as though they are constantly active in caring for present and future needs. In Palestine, where they may be active throughout the year, there is still the need of stored provisions for the rainy season, and so it is true that the ant gathers food in the harvest for future need.

The sluggard is described as one asleep, as one who is never satisfied, but constantly wants more slumber. Such folding of the hands, such indolence, brings poverty.

The man who fails to work is not guilty of omitting to do what he should do, but he is actually a robber of society. There is an active element involved in indolence; not only has the man failed to contribute, but, in addition, the good that he might have done has remained undone. The sluggard is therefore a brother to the destroyer (Prov. 18:9).

II. An Illustration of Indolence and a Lesson in Prudence (Prov. 24:30-32).

IT IS striking that the Word of God presents the ant as the illustration of prudence, but when it comes to an illustration of indolence it directs our attention to man.

The illustration is that of the man who is lazy, who is void of understanding. The Preacher visits him. Going to his field and vineyard, he finds it grown over with thorns, covered with vetches, and the stone wall broken down.

Instead of citing the particular lessons learned, the Preacher simply observes that he looked on, thought deeply, and received instruction. Perhaps the best antidote to laziness is to see it in its inaction. The squalid conditions, the inability to cope with emergencies that we normally see in the life of the man who wants only ease are sufficient to warn most of us against it.

Entirely apart from the dignity of labor, the homely recompense of being able to meet our own needs is the compensation of self-respect that initiative and resourcefulness bring. May we have a higher goal as we labor than merely providing for our own needs, though this is certainly important. Beyond it, of course, is the ability to help others also (cf. Eph. 4:28).

III. A God-Given Reward for Labor (Eccles. 5:12).

ONE of the great compensations of faithful labor is sleep. This passage speaks of the sleep of the laboring man as sweet. When as Christians we have fulfilled our duty, when we have given an honest day's work, the recompense of the Lord is surcease from labor.

The great stress of the Word of God is similarly on the man in authority doing that which is right for those who labor under him, and on the laborer, to be worthy of his hire. Thus goes the Bible guarantee a cordial and happy relationship between employer and employee. When either party departs from biblical standards, chaos results.

Shure and Begorrah—She's Welcome to It

SPOKANE, WASH. — For 50 year an 82-year-old Englishwoman resentfully carried the Irish name of O'Connor.

She resented the name so much in fact, she told Judge Carl Quackenbush, that she delayed marrying her late husband for two years because she did not like the name. Moreover, she testified, ever since her marriage she has bewailed the fact that she was mistaken for an Irishwoman.

The court did not hesitate giving her back her maiden name of Elizabeth Jane Cook. The decision may have been prompted by the fact that she already had it engraved on her tombstone.

Minister Renounces Salary To Take Job As Railroad Laborer

LANARK, ILL.—Renouncing his church salary because of a "steady decline in revenue," the Rev. Harmon H. Bro, 27, pastor of the Christian church, has taken a job as a railroad section hand to support his family.

The minister, a Harvard graduate and son of a college president, told his congregation he will continue to serve the church without salary, which was $200 a month, including parsonage rent. He is married and the father of a baby daughter.

His job as a railroad section hand pays 85 cents an hour for a 48-hour week, a total of $177.66 a month.

In announcing his decision to take the job, Mr. Bro told his congregation: "There are too many people in modern churches who think that the kingdom of God is just something you hire a preacher to worry about so the congregation can relax."

He explained that "only about 30" of the church's 100 members attend services regularly. Church income, he added, has been dropping regularly.

Fire Lookouts Watch For Careless Airmen

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.—Airplane pilots are supplanting careless motorists as the bane of U. S. forest service fire-fighters, according to Supervisor F. C. Koziol of Wasatch National forest.

It used to be that motorists carelessly flipping cigarettes from their car windows or knocking out pipe ashes were blamed for the majority of man-set forest fires. Now, Koziol says, fire lookouts have been warned to keep their binoculars trained on pilots of aircraft.

"It has been established in many instances that aircraft have flown over areas immediately before fire has broken out," he reports. "With no other causes discovered, there's a distinct possibility that burning material tossed from the planes caused the fires."

Alaskan Indians Honored
Lincoln on Totem Pole

Probably the only white man to have his figure carved on a totem pole was Abraham Lincoln, says Collier's. In 1867, the Tlingit Indians of Alaska learned that the United States, to which their country had just been sold, had abolished slavery and, therefore, it was illegal among them. To honor the man responsible for their freedom, the ex-slaves and their descendants for more than 50 years placed a huge carved statue of Lincoln atop their totem poles. Of the many made, only three have been preserved, one each in Juneau and Saxman, Alaska, and one in the Illinois State museum in Springfield.

WHD Encampment

The annual WHD Encampment started off Wednesday, Aug. 20, with a group of ladies gathering in the Christoval Park for lunch. Each person brought a covered dish. The evening program consisted of making aluminum trays and coasters. Designs were etched on the articles with acid.

All present Wednesday night were required to dress for a tacky party and there was never a dull moment. Mrs. Lowell Roane won the prize for the best costume. Breakfast had to be prepared in the cabin because of rain. Key ring holders were made during the morning program.

Barbecue was served at lunch to 18 members, Miss Bearden, county agent, and four visitors, including County Judge Bob L. Davis. Rain caused the group to break camp a little early. All the ladies seemed to enjoy the outing and we hope to have more next year.—Gladys Waldrop, Secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Jones spent the latter part of last week at Colorado City with their daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Ray Powell, and husband.

John Robert Prude of Fort Davis was a guest in the Frank Smith home Monday.
