As if there weren't already enough troubles plaguing mankind the word keeps coming from various sources that we are running out of water.

This is not a seasonal shut-off-summer-watering alarm but a serious economy-crippling situation arising from increased demand on our water supplies from all sources.

Naturally, any kind of water problem is particularly distressing to people living on the High Plains because we have no dependable water supply and our underground water level keeps dropping right on down at the rate of one to four feet per year depending on the locality. From all indications farmers must submit to metered wells within the next decade or so and if this simple mathematical progression keeps up it is possible that irrigation as we know it here will be either sharply curtailed or ended within the next forty or fifty years. All this is speculation naturally, but if a man has $5,000 in the bank, makes $30 a week and spends $150 a week, it is simple logic that he will be out of money within a year. Such is the case with the underground irrigation water.

Despite the emphasis given on salt-water conversion and the efforts towards water conservation being made by state and federal agencies water is not being destroyed. Water shortages exist in areas not because the world is running out of water but because it is poorly used or is not in the right places. A farmer who lets his tail water gush off down a bar-ditch is not destroying water—he is simply removing that much water from the possibility of use by himself or his neighbors. It will evaporate or seep into the ground but it won't return to the underground reservoir in measurable quantities in the farmer's lifetime.

The hydraulic cycle—which means evaporation of water from the seas, its forming clouds, falling on land as rain and returning to the seas as runoff or through other ways—causes tremendous amounts of water to fall on the land but pitifully little is retained by man for his use, especially in his country. Rainfall here is usually collected in lakes where it evaporates back into the atmosphere where it is returned to the seas or moves further inland with other water vapors to cause other rains. The only hope for reclaiming this water is to drill reclamation wells in the lakes that dot the High Plains by the thousands.

Let's point out some things that happen to our water supply here on the plains—a supply, incidentally, that is much leaner than most of us suspect. A normal irrigation well pumps 1,440,000 gallons of water a day. Someone has estimated that American irrigation uses about 80 billion gallons a day. It has also been estimated that West Texans use 140 times as much water daily as is returned to their supplies.

Individuals on the farms and in towns of the Panhandle use a lot of water, too. An average person uses more than 50 gallons of water a day in his normal routine. For instance a ten-minute shower uses 50 gallons of water and the person who is fastidious about his bodily hygiene and takes a bath once a day will use a lot more than the man who bathes just enough to stay socially acceptable. Each flush of a commode requires four gallons. A dripping faucet can waste ten to twelve gallons a day and washing our hands can require as much as two gallons.

Several hundred gallons of water per day go into furnishing each of us with electricity, foodstuffs and living necessities.

All of this is slowly but surely bringing up another government headache. A long-range solution to the water problem demands that a huge water transportation system be developed that would make the Canadian River water system to many area towns look like child's play. These must be virtually rivers made by man that will gain their water from either trapped rainfall or from de-salted sea water. It's coming to that some day. It won't be a new idea. The Romans built eleven aqueducts during the five centuries before and after Christ. One of these is still in use to supply water from Rome. One of these high overhead masonry structures is more than sixty miles long. The Thompson tunnel in northern Colorado actually goes under a continental divide to supply water to eastern Colorado. The Los Angeles Aqueduct is about 233 miles long and supplies both drinking water and irrigation water to the area. All of these projects from ancient Roman time to the present are expensive but possible. Such a system will probably be the eventual salvation of the High Plains farm economy. How long we have before having to resort to such measures depends on what we do now towards conserving our present supply.

Record Numbers Enter Junior Stock & Project Show

More than one hundred boys and girls have entered animals in the Seventh Annual Junior, Fat Stock and Project Show to be held in Dimmitt this weekend.

This represents an increase of twenty to twenty-five percent over last year and will undoubtedly be the biggest ever. Richard Liggins, a representative of Swift and Company of Oklahoma City, will do the judging. Liggins is a well known livestock judge and his appearance here is sponsored by the Dimmitt Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Although the weather promises to be fair and warm the show has been moved indoors to pens set up in the county quonset barns at the fair grounds. In years past the show has been held outside in the weather near the old fair building.

Judging of swine and sheep will begin at 1 p.m. Friday and beef judging will begin at 8:30 a.m. Saturday.

A different feature of the show and sale this year will be an appreciation barbecue dinner for the buyers. Time and place of the dinner will be announced at the sale, but each boy or girl who sells an animal at the sale will pay $1.00 per animal to help pay for the buyers dinner. This assessment will be deducted from the sale price. The sale begins at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

United States from 59 countries and there have been 8,570 students arrive since 1948 when the can Field Service was first organized.

Dimmitt presently has one exchange student. Miss Pia Nasman from Finland. She is the first student here and has been in demand throughout this year. She is making a speech at the January 1st. Students must be the first part of their stay being acquainted and adjust before making public appearances. Miss Nasman is staying with Mrs. Ira Clingensmith, their daughter Ruby.

To qualify for a foreign student the minimum age of the student is 18 and they should have had their age children at Childless families are not eligible. All foreign exchange students and they qualify in which they stay for a ten dependency deduction on their come tax. The students must have an individual bed at which they may share the same with another member of the family.

Any family interested in a foreign student during their school year should call chairman Mrs. Sid Sheffy, Wohlgenuth will before February 15 deadline.

Local interested families have until February 15 to apply for a foreign exchange student to live in their home during the next school year, according to a representative of the local chapter of American Field Service.

Dr. James E. Wohlgenuth, spokesman for the group, said that one family had requested a girl exchange student but that no one had asked to be considered for a boy. "I'm sure someone will come forward," he said "once we get the word around about the need."

"Any family who requests a student can be fairly sure of getting someone who will fit right in to their family life," Wohlgenuth said. "Families and students are fitted on the basis of an IBM machine selection that has proven 85 to 90 percent accurate."

Dimmitt, Tulia In Basketball District Tie

The Dimmitt Bobcats stubbed their toes Friday night and fell before a last-minute onslaught by the Tulia Hornets, 62-61, to lose their league-leading position.

This shattering defeat tied the leadership of the conference up between Dimmitt and Tulia with both now holding 5-1 records.

The Bobcats had an easy time Tuesday night dropping Friona 62-43, behind the accurate shooting of Mike Calvert who wound up with 18 points and Junior Coffey with 17.

The Bobbies lost their first conference game of the season against Friona Tuesday night, although Doris McDermitt sunk 44 points in the game which ended Friona 58, Dimmitt, 48. This left Dimmitt's girls with a 5-1 record, followed by Friona with a 4-1.

In the Tulia game, the shape of the ending season began to take form as Dimmitt and Tulia emerged as the leaders. If neither team loses another game they will meet in a post-season playoff game.

The Bobbies defeated the Tulia girls 40-37, behind the 29-point shooting of Doris McDermitt.

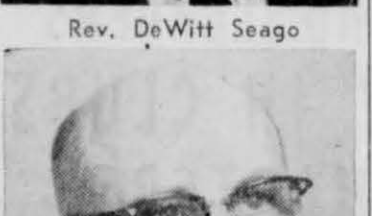

In the boy's game against Tulia, Junior Coffey sank 33 points. Dimmitt's next game will be here against Canyon Friday night.

WHEEEEEEEEE—Some people fish, some people water ski, and some people play dominoes for a past time—while other people jump out of airplanes. Such tricks as this one as an enthusiast starts out on a free-fall sky-dive will be a featured attraction at the airport Sunday afternoon—weather permitting, of course.

'Farmers Air-Day' At Airport Sunday

A gala Sunday afternoon has been planned by the Dimmitt Jay-Cees at the local airport which they operate.

To be known as "Farmers Air Day" a special feature of the afternoon will be airplane rides for farmers over their own farms at a good observation altitude. No flat charge will be made for the rides, although it will be possible for passengers to donate to the airport operating fund upon returning. Any money made above expenses will be used to retire indebtedness against the airport hangers and other facilities.

Another big attraction for the afternoon will be parachute jumping and aerobatic displays. The parachute jumping is currently set for 2:30 Sunday afternoon but this depends on wind conditions. A wind velocity of 15 miles per hour or less is necessary before the men will jump and there is a good chance that the wind will not die down this much until late in the afternoon.

It was confirmed this week that an expert parachutist from Kileen will be on hand for a high-altitude free-fall exhibition jump if weather conditions permit. About five men—two of them from Dimmitt—plan to participate in the jumping activities.

While fair weather is presently forecast for the weekend, the Air Day will be postponed one week if inclement conditions exist Sunday afternoon.

Beginning about 1 p.m. Sunday the general public may purchase rides at the airport for $2.50 per person which will include a trip or two over town depending on what passengers want to do.

The Jay-Cees emphasized this week that they do not have any idea about how many people will be at the airport and that there may or may not be any problems arise due to large crowds. If necessary there will be men on hand to control any crowds to keep them clear of moving planes, propwash and general traffic. The jumping and aerobatics can be seen from the Dimmitt airport.

In charge of the Air Day are Jay-Cees Bob Dulaney and Fred Bruegel.

There will also be soft drinks, coffee and donuts on hand for refreshments.

This is the first open house to the general public of the local airport, which was opened three years ago by the Jay-Cees two miles north of town. Only one other public occasion was held at the airport, a fly-in breakfast for area pilots when it was completed.

Chesley Johnston Victim of Freak Snowball Accident

Chesley Johnston of Hereford, son of Mrs. C.W. Johnston received a severe injury to his eye in a snowball accident last Friday when a hard-packed snowball, not intended for him, glanced off the cab of a pickup and hit him in the eye.

Chesley was hospitalized in St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo a week. Mrs. Johnston said the snowball ruptured a blood vessel in his eye but that he has been released at this time and is apparently alright.

Farmer Proves Pork Can Be Profitable

"Hog-raising can be profitable if you use good breeding stock and take advantage of all the good feeding practices available," S.R. Hutto, local pork-producer says.

In an area where the numbers of meat-producing farms has steadily diminished through the slippery economics of feeds and markets, Hutto's dedication to hog-raising may seem surprising.

However, it is probably this same dedication that has made hog production pay off on the Hutto farm six miles southeast of Dimmitt. For instance he went as far as Elmo, Indiana for a premium Duroc boar one time and to DeKalb, Missouri on another occasion. "These men are considered the best breeders in the business," Mr. Hutto says, "So that's where we went for our foundation stock. These are certified breeding hogs in that their offspring will be heavily meated and will have a minimum of lard. By raising certified market hogs a farmer can get a premium and at the same time can expect a better growth."

Hutto is sold on Duroc hogs. "They have many of the best features to be found in any hogs and we've had very good luck with ours. Duroc growers have the largest recording association in the United States and I think the breed is excellent."

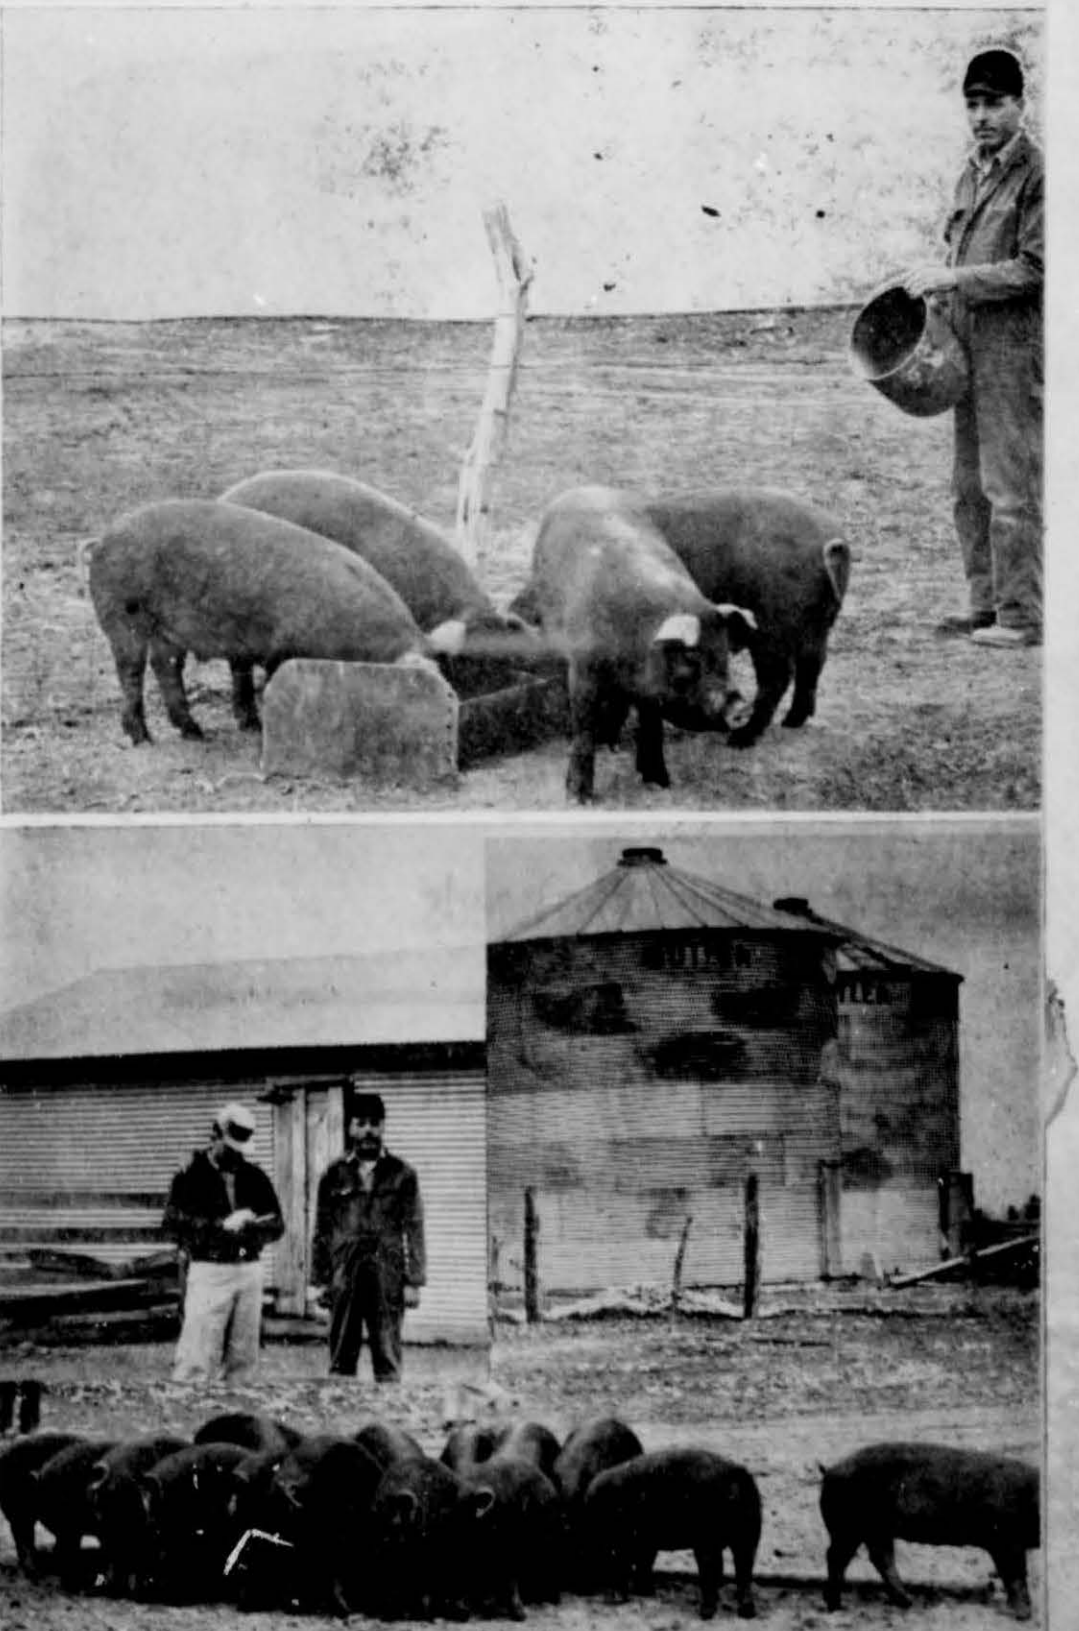

Mr. Hutto backs up his faith in hog raising by extensive outlays in hog producing equipment. For instance he has twelve Purina farrowing units and a fifty-five head pig parlor.

His is by no means the only pork-producing farm in the county, although it is probably foremost in breeding of foundation stock according to County Agent Charles Hottle. Most other farmers in this area who raise hogs—and they are few—do so strictly for market. Hutto has kept himself informed on all the new methods and practices in hog-raising through the years and has gone through the Purina laboratories.

"I've also been helped out a lot by J. O. Seale, Dimmitt vocational agricultural teacher," he says.

Mr. Hutto has been raising hogs since he was 12 years old in elementary school at Ralls. His boys are all set to follow in his footsteps. Aaron has already made a good many marks in the 4-H world with his hogs and projects and Rodney is just beginning to take a young man's part in the farm operation.

"To have a profitable hog-raising operation a man has to have good stock," Hutto says "It's just as important to have top-bred hogs as it is to have hybrid seed in the grain sorghum field."

Nitrogen Not Determined In Area Soil Tests

The new Soil Testing Laboratory being operated by the Extension Service in Lubbock is now determining the plant nutrients that the soil can supply the crops to be grown in 1951 and 1952. Each sample is analyzed for reaction (pH), organic matter, available phosphate, available potash, available calcium, and soluble salts. "It should be kept in mind that nitrogen as such cannot be practically determined by a soil test," says County Agent Charles Hotel.

"Nitrogen fertilizer recommendations are based primarily on the amount of organic matter the soil contains, the crop to be grown along with anticipated yields, and the amount and kind of nitrogen carrying fertilizers previously used. As stated on the information sheet that must be sent in with soil samples it is extremely important to avoid sampling in the fertilized bands where phosphate and potash were previously applied. However there is no particular hazard involved in sampling areas where nitrogen fertilizer alone has been applied. The soil test does not detect these nitrogen materials. The nitrogen recommendation given on the lab report is the total amount needed for the particular crop. This makes it very important for the farmer to show on the information sheet the amount of nitrogen already applied to the area concerned."

"Soil testing affords the quickest and most reliable method available to Plains farmers for estimating the kind and amount of fertilizer needed for a particular crop. The fee of $2 per sample could well be one of the most profitable investments in a farm operation," Hotel said.

For further information on soil testing, farmers may contact the county agent.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

Can you remember the days when there were real political speakings? They were held in the daytime, in the inadequate shade of a grove on a blistering day in July. Can't you see, in your mind's eye, the speaker seated on the platform as he waits to be introduced? He was a portly man and wore an alpaca coat. He puffed a pipe and he spoke with a twinkle in his eye and a twinkle in his voice. He kept his standing collar from wilting, he tucked around it a handkerchief which was removed when he began to talk.

When I was the editor of the Ranger Times, a primary held for State and County No. one filed for public office and so one of the line operators launched a verbal tirade (unknown to me) on behalf, with the result that he was elected.

This was a tie with the drunk — let's call him Brown (which isn't even the actual name). Before the election, however, the type operator found out I was his candidate for governor so he threw his support to the other candidate.

As the office had no telephone and therefore no competitor, I bore up philosophically.

Naomi Circle Meets Monday at Church

Members of the Naomi Circle of the Methodist WSCS met in the church parlor Monday afternoon, January 30. The study on "Home Missions" was concluded by the study leader, Mrs. Mary La Smithson. The discussion was taken from the book "Safe in Bondage."

Eight members were present for the meeting which was closed with prayer.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" BY C. WILSON HARDEE

There is growing an uneasy feeling along the Potomac that the farm problem is going to break out into the cause celebre of a big fracas.

With government farm programs taking more and more of the taxpayer's dollar, and the farmer's dollar, it is inevitable that a showdown will come on this matter.

Recently the Agriculture Department came out with its annual report showing that net farm income last year dropped 18 per cent. This is at a time when the consumers cost for foods reached an all time high.

Many silly things are happening in the tier of states along the Canadian border, American bakers are losing their shirts trying to compete with baked bread sent across the border from Canada.

Now the question becomes quite complex. If the taxpayer is paying more and more to support farm prices, and still the farmer is getting less, yet at the same time, housewives pay more and more for food, things seem quite out of kilter.

Yet at the same time, in the food processing and distribution field, more and more mergers go on. Sapporidy, according to the theory that has been tested for many years by the public relations men of Madison Avenue, the bigger something gets the lower prices it can bring the consumer.

Yet despite this huge growth of bigness in the past few years, the farmer gets less net income, the taxpayer pays out more to help him get less income, and the consumer pays more and more for food.

This set of circumstances is the major reason why men like Senator Humphrey, Senator Sparkman, Senator Schepel, Rep. James Roosevelt and others are hammering at the Federal Trade Commission to do the job that agency was instructed to do by Congress.

That job is a thorough and complete probe of situation existing in the food industry.

It has long gone past the stage of being an open secret that powerful distributive forces in food field are demanding, and getting, amazing concessions in prices, discounts, cashaw such as free trips abroad, free autos, et al.

This "numbers" is not being given to the independent merchant. In addition, the cost of it is being taken out of the farmer's hide, and out of the shopper's pocket.

Yet it very much appears FTC is trying in every possible way to avoid carrying out the Congressional instructions. It is not difficult to get the facts. In this particular situation, FTC cannot use usual plea of negligence of duty on basis not enough money is appropriated. Food brokers in practically any city could fill the FTC in on the entire story.

When the seniors leave Dimmitt High, we will greatly appreciate their well rounded courses of study that has been required by our administration...

Competition is a demanding taskmaster—but it can also be the greatest rewarding factor in merchandising or servicing. It is a taskmaster when competition defeats, when it sets the rut that engulfs the businessman. Competition is rewarding when the merchant forces it to become his tool, when he knows he has a thriving, growing business that will never want for customers. Business goes where it is invited—and competitive prices, outstanding courteous service with a good selection, and promotional advertising will do the most good.

Do yourself, your customer, and your community a favor by using the pages of the Castro County News to sell your goods and services. It is not only good business but it will help you gear your operation to today's quickly changing trends and increasing competition. Success stories of large businesses almost always hinge around concentrated advertising and other sound business practices. ## LANKART COTTON Planted by More Farmers in Texas and Oklahoma than any other variety!

There is a reason. When planted year after year it gives more satisfaction and profit. This is to be expected when one realizes that during the past fifty years the desirable qualities of vigor, high yield, drought resistance, large stormproof boll and quality standard staple have again and again been bred into this cotton by close line breeding methods.

Lankart cottons can be successfully harvested by either of four methods: hand picking, machine picking, hand snapping or by stripper machine. Many thousands of bales of Lankart cotton are stripper machine harvested in the Southwest, annually, at a saving of up to $25.00 per bale. Cotton harvesting may be an important item to the farmer this fall. Now is the time to determine what harvest methods will be used. A prime factor will be to save cost. Many farmers gin their Lankart cotton carefully to prevent gin mixtures and save the seed for their own planting. It has pure-line breeding back of it and does not "run out" in a year or two. We fully recommend this practice to all good farmers.

We produced a good crop of planting seed the past year but our supply of saw cleaned fuzzy Lankart Selection 57 has all been sold for this season. We have a limited supply of acid delinted seed of this variety. In our early maturing Lankart Selection 611 we have a supply of both saw cleaned fuzzy and acid delinted seed at this time.

We have sold our Breeders quality seed in our Trade Marked bags to many cotton gins and seed dealers throughout the state. May we suggest you see your ginner or seed dealer, if he cannot supply you with our seed contact us. Write for circular.

We are the originators and breeders of Lankart Cottons.

February 5-11 Farm Bureau Week in Texas

Governor Price Daniel has cited agriculture as "the well-spring of our social and economic vitality" and set a state-wide week-long observance in recognition of agriculture's contribution to Texas life.

In a proclamation signed Jan. 12, the Texas governor designated the week of Feb. 5-11 as "Farm Bureau Week" in Texas and urged all citizens "to cooperate in the recognition and observance of this week in an effort to publicize this important phase of our Texas life."

The special week coincides with the annual membership campaign of the Texas Farm Bureau, largest general farm organization in the state. The 1961 drive was kicked off with a big Chairmen's Rally Jan. 24 in Abilene attended by county FB presidents, and county and community membership chairmen. About 125 counties are planning intensive membership drives during the next two months.

The fast growing state farm organization has had a gain in membership for eight consecutive years and has almost doubled its membership in the past ten years. It is now largest state Farm Bureau in the South and fourth largest in the nation.

Governor Daniel, who is a Farm Bureau member in Liberty County where he owns farm property, cited the need for an educated, prosperous, and organized agriculture in Texas. He said farmers and ranchers of Texas, through their various organizations, have worked for improvements in the economy and governments of Texas.

Here is the text of the governor's proclamation:

"Greetings:

"Agriculture has long been recognized as the well-spring of our social and economic vitality. A vast number of Texans derive their principal income from farming and ranching activities.

"The farmers and ranchers of Texas, through their various organizations have crusaded by democratic procedures for a voice in the affairs of the state and for improvements in the economy and government of Texas.

"These groups recognize the necessity and supreme importance of having educated and organized state.

"Therefore, I claim February 'Farm Bureau Week' and urge our citizens in the recognition of this week in the 12th day of January (signed) Price Daniel, Governor of Texas."

"In official recognition I hereby after the 12th day of January (signed) Price Daniel, Governor of Texas."
