Dog Vaccination July 1 in Bronte and Robert Lee

The Coke County 4-H Clubs and Dr. Percy R. Turner, D. V. M., Water Valley, will jointly sponsor a rabies vaccination day in Robert Lee and Bronte on Tuesday, July 1.

All persons desiring to have their pets vaccinated to prevent rabies can get the immunizing done between the hours of 9:00 a. m. and 12 noon in Robert Lee or between 1 and 4 p. m. in Bronte on that date. Key's Feed Store will be headquarters for the group in Robert Lee during the morning and Lee's Feed Store during the afternoon.

The program is being planned by the 4-H clubs primarily to accommodate the owners of dogs in the County, but cats and even large animals will be welcome. Dr. Turner will vaccinate the animals brought to the two locations and will be assisted by the County Extension Agents. He will charge $2.50 per small animal and will donate 50c of the fee to the County 4-H clubs. The cost includes the vaccination, the vaccine, a dog tag and a certificate if one is desired.

Dogs should be vaccinated annually. All persons with dogs or cats that have not been immunized against rabies this year will have an opportunity to get them vaccinated at either of the two locations next Tuesday. All animals vaccinated in the area that were vaccinated when a similar program was held last year should be revaccinated as their immunity is due to terminate in July.

DRY NORTHER

A norther blew in Wednesday afternoon lowering temperatures 20 degrees within a few hours. It was down around 65 Thursday morning with a high of not more than 80 expected for the day. Some sections of Coke County received showers from a thunderstorm which swept in Monday afternoon. About one-third of an inch of moisture was gauged in Robert Lee.

Gladys Waldrop is taking a two weeks vacation from her position at Robert Lee State Bank. Accompanied by her sisters, Mrs. Pat Rives and Mrs. O. A. Warrington of San Angelo, she recently spent a few days with kin-folks at San Antonio.

June 29 Date For Methodist Open House In Silver

Open house will be observed next Sunday, June 29, at the Silver Methodist Church and parsonage. The public is invited.

Refreshments will be served at the church fellowship hall from 2 to 4 p. m. and visitors will have an opportunity to inspect the new parsonage which is now occupied by the minister, Rev. Charles H. Simpson, and his family.

Sixty families have memberships in the Silver Methodist Church. The attractive church was built new a few years ago and the congregation found it advisable to construct a parsonage when they were promised a resident pastor. The parsonage is located just west of the church.

Rev. Warren Ellis helped organize the Methodist congregation at Silver when he was preaching in Robert Lee. Later Chas. Camp was the pastor and after he was transferred this spring Rev. Travis McNair of Robert Lee held early Sunday morning services at Silver.

Rev. Simpson was assigned to Silver following the Methodist conference in San Antonio a few weeks ago. He started as a Methodist preacher at Christoval two years ago and is continuing with his education. This summer he is studying at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, and will enroll at McMurry in Abilene in September.

Both Rev. Simpson and his wife are former residents of Palacios in South Texas. She was Eva Mae Looker before their marriage 14 years ago. Mr. Simpson was a mechanic in the Alcoa plant at Point Comfort before he entered the ministry.

The Simpsons have two sons, Michael John, 13, and Charles Allen, 4.

Gov. Daniel Speech Set For Monday

Gov. Price Daniel will officially open his campaign for re-election in a state-wide radio and TV speech next Monday night at 8 o'clock.

The Governor is seeking his second term, and indications are that he will get the necessary majority of votes in the July 26 primary and that the four man contest will not have to be run off in August.

The Belden poll early this month showed Gov. Daniel with 60% of the votes. W. Lee (Pappy) O'Daniel had 16% and Henry B. Gonzalez 6%.

Gov. Daniel's first term record saw enactment of more help for public schools and teachers pay increases, a new law enforcement commission, water conservation program, lobby control act, old age pension increases, official code of ethics, highway safety program, stiffer narcotic laws and reorganization of the insurance department.

Elected in his first term in 1956, Gov. Daniel recommended a 52-point program to the legislature and the entire program was enacted.

Sterling Men Will Operate Harris Ranch

Collins & Drennan (Claude Collins, Sr. and Charlie Drennan of Sterling City) have taken over the Harris Ranch above Robert Lee. They sub-leased the place from Lea Aldwell of San Angelo and L. E. Johnson of Sonora, who had it the past six years.

Charlie Drennan and his family are moving in this week. The new operators bought a herd of 240 Angus cows and 70 yearlings owned by Aldwell & Johnson, who recently sold 1,600 pairs of ewes and lambs.

A. D. (Buster) Fields, foreman for Aldwell & Johnson, moved his family to Robert Lee this week and will occupy the residence of Mrs. V. H. Simpson on North Austin Avenue.

Buster started ranching as a young hand with the Saul family and was made foreman when the place was sold to Harris in 1936. He and his son, Don, have some leased land and livestock which will require their attention.

The ranch of 16,420 acres is a part of the former John Saul spread which extends on both sides of the Colorado River for several miles between Robert Lee and Silver.

Court Upholds Washburn Conviction

AUSTIN—The Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday upheld the conviction and 99-year sentence dealt Harry L. Washburn in the car bomb slaying of his former mother-in-law in San Angelo Jan. 19, 1955.

Presiding Judge W. A. Morrison dissented from the majority opinion written by Judge Lloyd Davidson with a concurring opinion by Judge K. K. Woodley.

Washburn's attorneys can now ask for a rehearing before the Court of Criminal Appeals (Cliff Tupper, defense attorney, said at San Angelo such a motion would be filed.)

A former resident of Houston, Washburn was first convicted and given a life term following a week-long trial in Waco's 54th District Court in December, 1955. The case had been transferred to Waco after attorneys failed to seat a jury in San Angelo's 51st District Court.

The Waco conviction, however, was upset by the Court of Criminal Appeals in February, 1957, because of improper questioning of a witness, Andrew H. Nelson, who is charged with complicity in the case.

Washburn was then retried in Dallas, where he was convicted in June, 1957.

He is charged with the murder of Mrs. Harry Weaver of San Angelo, who was fatally injured when she pressed the starter of her car.

Pete Davis enjoyed a trout fishing expedition last week in New Mexico. He accompanied his sons-in-law, DeWitt Myers of Colorado City and T. L. Black of Odessa.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayman (Copey) Davis and Don Fields motored to Dallas Sunday when they attended a matinee performance of "Auntie Mame," big musical production at Fair Park Auditorium.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Watson and little daughter, Katherine, of Graham were guests last week in the parental home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vaughan. Mrs. Watson is the former Eileen Vaughan. Her husband is employed by Texas Electric Service Co. at Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Williams and daughter, Ann, of Valentine visited among Robert Lee relatives and friends the first of the week.

STATE JUDGING MEET

The Coke County Soils Judging team placed 8th in the State Soils Judging Contest. There were twenty teams in the contest. Making excuses is frowned upon, but the change in the looks of the soils found here and those found near College Station placed the West Texas boys at a disadvantage. They did well under the circumstances.

The boys in the team and attending the State Contest were Kenneth Wink, Sanco; Eddie Glenn, Bronte; Tommy Lee, Bronte; and Donald Spiller, Bronte.

WHEAT GROWERS TO VOTE

Those of you who are wheat producers are reminded that the 1959 wheat referendum is to be held Friday, June 20. J. E. Quisenberry, County ASC Office Manager, has announced that the polls will be open from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. in the County Courthouse. If you are eligible, come out and vote.

SCREW WORM CONTROL

Some of you have probably heard about the new sprays to control screw worms. They are not cure all by any means, but for some operators, they should be a big assist in fighting screw worms. From what I have been able to gather, they give 60 or more days protection or immunity. Operators that are unable to see their stock regularly may find such a spray very helpful in controlling screw worms. I hope they will be given a trial. If you should use one of the screw worm preventive sprays, I would appreciate knowing the results obtained.

LAWN AND GARDEN INSECTS

We have had several calls to check on insects bothering lawns, trees, gardens and field crops lately. If you are troubled with insects and most lawns, fields and gardens have them now, drop by the office or call for one of the insect control bulletins. They show all the insecticides recommended to control the various insects common to our area. The insect control guide can be a useful tool in the hands of the gardener or farmer. It shows the various insects and the recommended sprays or dusts that will control them.

WEED CONTROL

Another new bulletin we have that may interest many of you is a bulletin on Weed Control entitled "Weed Control in Texas Pastures". The bulletin contains valuable information on how to improve pastures through the various methods of controlling weeds. Much of the information included will apply to field weed control, also, even though the pamphlet is written about pasture weeds. Let us know if you would like a copy.

CARE OF EGGS

The hot weather we are having is affecting or will affect the egg production the poultry men are getting from their hens. If you are a poultryman you can help keep your hens cool and their egg production up by keeping the hens shaded and ventilated. If your poultry house is well ventilated, a foggee system or sprinkler system will cool them. Also keeping weeds and grass mowed around the house will help. And to give more shade, make as much overhang on your poultry house as you think possible.

A must in keeping egg production up in hot weather is having a good water supply. Hens drink four or more pounds of water for each pound of feed they eat when the temperature passes 95 degrees. If the water is not available they will not drink it and of course will not lay as they should.

Many participants of the Soil Bank grass program are concerned about weeds in their field. Mechanical control by cultivating and mowing has proven to be very satisfactory on pastures seeded to grass.

Mowing for weed control should begin when the worst seeds are budding or starting to bloom. The height to mow depends on the type and stage of grasses seeded. For best results, mow as close to the ground as possible without injuring young grass plants.

The two types of mowers commonly used for pasture mowing are the conventional sutter-bar type and the rotary or shredder. Mrs. George Thomas, 2 miles north of Bronte, and Osmo Black, 7 miles northeast of Bronte, have mowed their fields in the soil bank. The Coke Soil Conservation District has two shredders for use in the district.

V. V. Wojtek of Robert Lee and Hurlin Lee of Bronte are custodians of the shredders and anyone wishing to use them should contact one of these two men.

For further information on mowing of a particular field, see your local Soil Conservation Service located in the court house at Robert Lee.

Soil conservation is good farm management and results in additional income.

Montie Wallace is a recent addition to your local Soil Conservation Service staff. He and his family moved from Logan, Utah, where he has been doing graduate work in the field of range management at Utah State University. Montie obtained his bachelors degree in animal husbandry from Texas Tech College in 1952.

Both he and his wife, Deanna, are natives of Texas. Montie comes originally from Fort Stockton and Deanna's parents now live in McKinney. The family is completed by a daughter, Theresa Jo, who is six months old.

Sharon and Marilyn Scott of Abilene spent a few days here the last of the week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Scott. Their parents, Capt. and Mrs. Horace Scott, came after them Sunday.

Only three Coke County voters were cast in the national wheat allotment referendum conducted Friday. One vote was for continued acreage control, and the other two were against. Forty farmers and their wives in Coke County were eligible to have voted. A nationwide result was heavily in favor of continued controls.

Commissioners Court Session

A new car for use of the sheriff was purchased at a special meeting of Coke County Commissioners Court Tuesday. Judge Jeff Dean said two other orders were passed pertaining to county hospital cases and purchasing of tires.

A county-owned car which the sheriff had been driving was badly damaged by fire a few weeks ago. There was some discussion about paying mileage instead of furnishing an official car for the sheriff.

However, when bids were opened from three local dealers it was unanimously voted to accept the bid of Caperton Chevrolet Co. of Bronte. They agreed to furnish a new '58 model, 4-door, Biscayne 210 series, 8-cylinder Chevrolet, for $1,755 and the old damaged auto.

List price of the car was $2,880 and the trade-in allowance was $1,125. Bids submitted by Ivey Motor Co. and Vaughan Chevrolet Co. of Robert Lee were only a few dollars higher.

The Court voted that in the future approval must be given for all charity patients entering any hospital other than the Coke County Hospital in Robert Lee. If approval is given for the patient to enter another hospital, the allowance will not exceed $12 per day for all hospital and medical services. When cases of this nature arise it is necessary to contact the judge's office, which will confer with other members of the Commissioners Court.

The Commissioners also went on record that all future purchases of tires for county-owned cars, trucks and road equipment are to be made through the State Board of Control. This plan has already been adopted by some commissioners in buying tires for road equipment.

PERSONALS

Jim Mauldin returned to Robert Lee Tuesday from a few days visit at Pampa. He reports a 2-inch rain there Sunday. The wheat crop is turning out big, with an average from 30 to 35 bushels per acre. Mr. Mauldin is one of a family of nine children who own a good sized farm at Pampa. They have one producing oil well and prospects of more drilling.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Lofton and son, Larry, of Snyder visited over the weekend in the parental home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lofton. They were enroute home from a visit with the Jiggs Lofton family at Dickinson. Also joining the family group here were Norris Lofton and family of Gainesville. Karen Jo remained in Robert Lee with her grandparents while Norris and his wife went on a camping vacation in Colorado.

Emory Hughes and son, Phil, and the latter's fiancée, Miss Jeanette Martin, all of East Point, Ga., left Tuesday after a few days visit with the former's mother, Mrs. Arthur Hayley. Emory is a brother of A. V. Hughes and Mrs. Ell Hatley.

Mona and Nancy, daughter of Coach and Mrs. C. D. Manire, underwent tonsilectomies Wednesday at Shannon hospital in San Angelo. Their father, who has been working at Decatur, is home this week with his family.

BUILDING NEW HOME

D. D. Walker is in the process of completing a new home which he moved onto a 3-acre tract just east of town. He bought the site from Victor Wojtek. The place is near the Fred Roe ranch home. M. K. Sparks of Colorado City, a brother-in-law of Mr. Walker, is here helping with the finishing work. Mr. Walker plans to enlarge his kennels where he breeds registered German Shepherds. He has sold his home east of the Calvin Wallace market.

Proposed Tax Cut May Add to Woe Of Nation's Import-Ridden Oilman

(Abilene Reporter-News)

Here we go again. Democratic Senator William Proxmire of Wisconsin announced Friday he will try in a couple of weeks to cut the depletion allowance of oil and gas producers from 27½ to 15 per cent. Which means the oil industry may be in for another of its periodic tax battles.

The depletion allowance is provided under tax law on the ground that capital resources are being used up when oil and gas are brought out of the earth. Look at what happens to the best of the oil fields after they've been opened a few years and it's easy to see the logic of the tax provision. Look at the risks of the industry — the number of dry holes as compared with the number of discoveries — look at the costs of oil exploration and you will see why the petroleum industry feels that the tax allowable keeps it alive.

Depletion allowable has long been a favorite target for vote-hungry politicians from non-oil states. They paint lurid pictures of greedy, vulgar "rich oil men from Texas." For example, Proxmire in his newest tirade said depletion allowable is "a gaping loophole" and it has enabled "the big boys in oil to achieve political power that is one of the most corrupting forces in our life."

Unfortunately, we must admit, the oil producing states, in particular Texas, have a few flamboyant characters who seem intent on giving the whole industry a black eye, intent on living up to the worst picture the northern politician can paint of a "rich oilman." In their ignorance politicians such as Proxmire choose to judge all oilmen so. They know nothing of the thousands of others, the small independent operator, the landmen and geologists for the major companies, the lease brokers, the service and supply men who really make up the industry. Nor, do the politicians realize the effect of oil on the whole economy of an area such as ours, on the grocer, the banker, the service station operator.

The politician is seemingly ignorant, too, of the great tax burden the oil industry carries in states such as Texas. All the politician sees is that here's a way he can help himself at home by attacking the federal income tax provision for this particular industry.

Proxmire's attack on the domestic oil industry comes at one of the worst times the local oilman has ever experienced. Imports of foreign oil have been threatening to drown him. Production here in Texas has been slashed to the bone and maybe a little deeper. All the oilman needs now is a federal tax blow and he'll really be a sick goose. No more black gold eggs.

SMALL TALK

By A. J. K.

Hope of curtailing oil imports has dimmed, according to Cong. O. C. Fisher, because of House action voting down an amendment to the reciprocal trade act to limit the amount of oil from foreign countries.

On the other hand Interior Secretary Fred Seaton this week said the voluntary allotment plan of oil imports was working. (Nobody seems to agree with that statement.) Seaton predicts better days are in sight for the U. S. oil industry, and that within a couple of years there will be a demand for all the oil that can be produced.

Texas will be allowed nine producing days in July, a slight increase over the June low of eight days.

Meantime oil play in Coke County is active, with seven rotary rigs drilling northwest of Robert Lee. A ruling on whether the I. A. B. (Menielle Penn) field will have 40 or 80-acre drilling spacing is anxiously awaited from the Railroad Commission.

This is a photo of Leslie Nell Wink taken back in high school days when she was winning 4-H contests and achieving various school honors. She's just as pretty now as she was then. We'll have some new photos for publication very soon. We're proud to have her in the Miss Wool contest.

We've been eating good at our house this spring, with some nice garden vegetables, strawberries and roasting ears. And this week Violet made a batch of home made bread that was wonderful.

The primary election is only four weeks off and some interesting races have developed on the local level. Candidates are earnest in their efforts to land these well paying 4-year jobs, and voters are taking their time in sizing them up. People don't talk much about how they are going to vote because their friends and neighbors are involved.

Kirby Cleans Twisters By Score of 6-0

Robert Lee Rabbit Twisters were victims of a 6-0 shutout from Kirby Vacuum Cleaners Sunday afternoon. Only good thing about the contest was that it was played at Guinn field in San Angelo instead of the poor diamond a couple blocks further north on Randolph street.

Buba Balentine had the Twisters eating out of his hand all the way. He allowed but six singles, two of them very scratchy, struck out six and gave only one base on balls.

It was a tight ball game for five innings. Kirby got a run in the third frame, but it was unearned. The first man up struck out but Catcher Norman Roberts didn't hold the ball. His peg to first was bad and the runner went to second. He scored later on Howard's hit to right.

Richard Dumas was hurling a whale of a game for Robert Lee and had given up only two hits in the first five innings. Then came the fatal sixth when Billy Pope opened up with a double. C. Faught followed with a single to center and Dumas gave way to Paul Tinkler. The three hits and some good base running brought in three runs.

Paul was a trifle wild and Kirby scored once in both the seventh and eighth innings, getting only an infield hit in each frame.

Marlon McCutchen got two hits, Dumas had two, John Conley one and Robbie Godwin one.
