

NEW MEXICO NEWS SUMMARY

Heavy Flood Losses.
An Albuquerque dispatch of October 9th says: The second week of the great flood in New Mexico ends with the situation brighter than for many days. Clear weather and falling streams are reported from all sections, and the rains of the past twenty-four hours have done no material damage. Sixteen people are known to have lost their lives in the floods during the past two weeks, and there are still many unaccounted for in the districts between Mora and Watrous.

Flood Situation at Santa Fe.
A Santa Fe dispatch of October 6th says: The loss of life, according to late reports, was greater than at first thought, and the death list in the territory may reach twenty-six. The Santa Fe railroad is transferring to the Rio Grande its passengers and mail for this point and Trinidad. The Santa Fe Central is running regularly into this city again and passengers for California and the East are taking it and making connection with the Rock Island and the Southern Pacific.

Deming has been cut off from all communication save by wire for four days. In Santa Rita, a mining camp near Silver City, many houses were swept away and one Mexican woman was drowned. From all reports received here tonight from all parts of New Mexico the damage to property, aside from the railroads, by the high water of the past two weeks will exceed $1,000,000.

The Santa Fe Railroad alone has suffered to the extent of $600,000 and the Rock Island, Denver & Rio Grande, Santa Fe Central, El Paso & Southwestern have also suffered heavily. The Santa Fe announces tonight that its line will be open through to Kansas City Wednesday, while the El Paso line will be opened Tuesday. This afternoon passengers on delayed trains from the west, are held here tonight and will probably be kept here until Wednesday, when the main line east is opened.

Flood Losses at Roswell.
A Roswell dispatch of October 9th says: A flood struck this city yesterday at 1:52 p. m. The entire city was flooded four inches higher than during the first flood of Thursday, September 29th. At 8:40 p. m. the water broke over the banks of the Honda river, and the water was in the street. Business men and merchants sealed the doors with adobe mud and the loss now will not be one-third what it was on September 29th. The dam which was on the canon flooded, but the water is receding. Several houses were washed away and one residence was carried 140 feet, but not greatly damaged. The water ran through the department store, and the roof was blown away. High in the building. The opera house, which was damaged in the first flood, fell last night and is totally wrecked. The water was kept out of the Grand Central hotel by banking adobe mud high in the rear. The sleeping rooms near the hotel were wrecked. At a mass meeting of citizens Friday night ways were devised to keep the flood waters of the Honda out of the city. This recurrence of the water is the worst that has happened in history and the present was the first flood since 1891. The flood yesterday is the worst that ever visited the city. Roswell has been cut off from the world since September 29th and has not been reached since. It is estimated the damage to the city will be over $250,000.

First Day of Territorial Fair.
An Albuquerque dispatch of October 10th says: The twenty-fourth annual fair of the New Mexico Territorial Fair association opened today under circumstances not altogether favorable. The Navajo fire dancers were in the city and the Commercial club in honor of delayed passengers and soldiers, this concluding the first day's events.

Santa Fe Flood Reports.
A Santa Fe dispatch of October 9th says: Heavy rains last night again caused another rise in the already high water of the Santa Fe Central. The Denver & Rio Grande has a washout at Buckman's and has prevented Saturday evening's run, with a large amount of mail for the East for Albuquerque and the Vegas from coming in. But it is expected that by tonight the track will be repaired. The Santa Fe sent only one train to-day, and that this afternoon to Lamé.

Accident to T. B. Catron.
A Santa Fe dispatch of October 10th says: Ex-Delegate to Congress T. B. Catron, a Republican leader, his son, Arthur Catron, and J. H. Crist, chairman of the Democratic central committee of New Mexico, started to go from here overland this morning to Albuquerque, the railroads being closed up to consult with Delegate B. Rodey as to the latter running for Congress. The amount run to near Clena the horses ran away, and young Catron jumped, but elder Catron was thrown out of carriage and injured, how serious not known, as there is no telegraphic connection with Clena. Dr. S. Harroun of this city, accompanied by Robert C. Gortner, Catron's partner, left for Clena at noon.

High Digging the foundation for the new high school building in Santa Fe is under way. A complete S. Harroun of this city, accompanied by Robert C. Gortner, Catron's partner, left for Clena at noon.

PARTY FEARS TRUTH

GOOD REASON FOR REPUBLICANS "STANDING PAT."
Discussion of Tariff and Trust Issues Would Reveal the Fact That American Consumers Are Being Plundered by the Trusts.

It is obvious why the Republican party managers favor "standing pat" upon the tariff and trust issues in the present campaign. Any discussion of the issues would surely bring to light the truth concerning the high prices paid for all kinds of American goods at home and the exceedingly low ones demanded for the same in foreign markets. Consequently the Republicans do not desire to have the subject discussed. The domestic and foreign prices have been investigated by congressional committees and by trade organizations for a long time, and the information obtained in this country and abroad fully proves that Americans are sharply discriminated against in favor of foreign buyers.

The Republicans have relied chiefly upon Secretary Shaw of the treasury department to place this matter in a favorably light before the country, and this skillful politician has been quoted repeatedly as saying: "The United States census reports our aggregate manufactures for 1900 at $13,000,000,000 * * * $4,000,000, the amount estimated to be sold abroad cheaper than at home is therefore only one-thirtieth of 1 per cent of the aggregate."

This statement has even found a place in the Republican campaign text book. Secretary Shaw states that he secured his $4,000,000 statement from "a non-partisan commission appointed by Congress," whereas the commission in question says explicitly: "In about 30 per cent of the cases covered by the commission returns, the export prices have ruled lower than those charged to home consumers. The practice is quite common in all countries, and on the part of the separate establishments as well as of combinations."

Here, then, it is seen there are 20 per cent of our exports sold cheaper abroad than at home, instead of "one-thirtieth of 1 per cent."

This same commission recommended that another commission be appointed to investigate this discrimination against American producers and consumers, and suggest measures to correct the evil, but no attention was paid to the suggestion by the Republican Congress.

One of the commissioners who did not sign the report alluded to stated that several witnesses who appeared on behalf of the trusts, admitted that "it is the tariff which encourages the sale of domestic surplus by resisting, down to earth consumption through high prices."

The fact is being impressed upon those business men who are not connected with the trusts and who are not enjoying special tariff privileges, that there is a protected class of monopolists who are compelling American merchants, producers and consumers to pay an exorbitant price for goods and then selling vast consignments of the same in foreign markets at prices one-half and sometimes one-third cheaper.

Every merchant, every producer, every consumer and every returning tourist has become acquainted with the fact that cheap prices for American goods prevail abroad. Secretary Shaw's figures have simply misled them as to the aggregate amount of money involved, but the Democratic statistics, taken from official Republican reports, most simply astound them. The result will be that future attempts of Republican speakers upon this topic will be received with distrust.

A New Political Organization.
The American Federation of Labor, which has an organization in every city and many villages, does not permit political action, it is non-partisan. The leaders have found, however, that Congress will not heed their request for legislation unless the individual member of Congress is brought to fear defeat if he does not vote for such laws as labor demands. The labor leaders at Washington, after two months of executive meetings and consultations, have organized the "Labor Lyceum and Bureau of Information," whose objects are set forth to be: The discussion of economic questions as they relate to the educational, social and industrial conditions of the wage-workers of the United States; to collect and disseminate legislative data relative to labor measures submitted to the Congress of the United States; to ascertain, as far as possible, the attitude of senators and representatives toward such measures, and forward such information to their respective constituencies and to advise the use of the initiative and referendum in the election of federal and state legislators.

One clause of the constitution provides that anyone who is a member of a trades union in the United States may become a member of the Labor Lyceum. The work of the Lyceum develops largely upon the executive committee of which the president is ex-officio chairman. All complaints and statements calling for action are referred to this committee, which is charged with the duty of investigation. Before any action is taken the Lyceum must vote on the report of the committee.

The inspiration of the organization is said to have been the treatment of labor interests by Congress on the junction and eight-hour bills. The record of congressmen is being scrutinized closely at present, and without partisan feeling the man is expected to fall heavily on at least a half dozen congressmen who are having all they desire to combat with in the shape of partisan opposition. In its account of this organization the Washington Post quotes Mr. McGuire, the president of the Lyceum, as saying: "We expect to enter the close districts and do something that will count. The laboring man could not enter political life heretofore in an organized body, because such a thing would not be permitted of a union. His interests have suffered. There again there are a number of congressmen who came here and have done everything in their power to defeat the ends of the laboring man, and then return home to tell the laborer how much he has been doing for him. We intend to put a stop to that kind of work."

That action will certainly make it uncomfortable for most of the Republican leaders who while pretending to be favorable to labor have managed to defeat all the legislation that labor asks.

JUDGE PARKER THE MAN.
Democratic Candidate Nominated by the Country as Chief Magistrate.
The estimate of Judge Parker's character and abilities in both Democratic and Republican journals and in political and business circles can be summed up by the general statement that "he is a strong, safe and conservative candidate." Nothing but words of commendation are heard of the Democratic nominee, even from his political opponents.

Newspaper correspondents are excellent judges of the real character of public men. This summer there has been a group of newspaper men, representing journals of both political parties, on duty at Esopus. They have investigated Judge Parker's past life, occupations and present mode of living. They have witnessed his methods in conducting a business, heard what he said on current political problems, and no matter what paper they represented they all agree, as one of them expresses it, that "he is not a tricky politician, but a man of high ideals, almost Quixotic in some respects, and of the most sensitive honor or even in little details."

BATTLE IS BEGUN

ADVANCE OF RUSSIANS CHECKED
But Engagement May Not Prove General—Japanese are Strongly Entrenched in Yental Triangle.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 12.—2:10 a. m.—Severe fighting north of Yental, resulting in a temporary check of Gen. Kuropatkin's advance guard, is not regarded at the war office as indicating a general engagement.

The latest official dispatches indicating the disposition of the various corps show that the whole army is not yet in line of battle. The present situation may therefore be regarded as the result of a counter attack which an enterprising foe like the Japanese might be expected to make, but without any calculation to prevent the Russian advance.

Gen. Kuropatkin's superiority in numbers, it is held here, is bound sooner or later to compel the Japanese to fall back upon their strong positions within the triangle formed by Yental, Liao Yang and Sykwantun. Everything points to that district as being the prospective scene of the decisive struggle of this year's campaign. Strategic results of the most weighty character render it imperative for the Russians as well as the Japanese to bestow their chief attention upon the country east of the railway.

The Russians are compelled to this course because the railroad runs northward and hence lines of communication are more vulnerable from the east. The Japanese are influenced by similar considerations, but the railroad no longer plays a foremost part in their plans.

In view of the approaching close of navigation at Yankow and of the fact that the line at Pilsue is long and cumbersome and liable to interruption, they must consider Peng Wang Cheng and Takushan as the source of supplies during the winter, and with this in view the eastern communication of Liao Yang and the utmost importance. The Yental triangle is admirably situated to protect them.

The Japanese are more than ready to hold this triangle at all costs. The problem confronting General Kuropatkin is the immediate future of the capture of the fortified heights composing this triangle, where the Japanese have the advantage of fighting behind breastworks and utilizing their superiority in mountain guns.

The Russian commander undoubtedly is aware of the difficulties of the task before him, and has measured them well and is confident of his ability to overcome them. If General Kuropatkin possessed an army of half a million men he could leave a sufficient force to attack the triangle while he moved with the remainder around the eastern and southern flanks. This is considered in the best informed circles at the war office to be impracticable with the numbers now composing General Kuropatkin's army, and a frontal advance is the only alternative.

Operations, however, are likely to be marked by feints on the right and left. The Japanese probably will make similar movements until both armies become involved in a death struggle.

C. & S. to Use Electricity.
Denver, Oct. 12.—The Republican says: The Colorado & Southern will begin this week ballasting with slag its track between Denver and Boulder. This is work preparatory to adding electricity to the line.

The work that the Colorado & Southern will do between Denver and Boulder will be more extensive than any that it has done on any part of the system for years. The line was the first built of the system and it has followed winding creeks, as was the custom in early railroad construction. Many of these big curves are to be removed by building cut-offs, grades are to be reduced in many places and the line is to be made electric.

There is enormous traffic between the towns, both in passenger and freight, as all the Boulder mines ship to Denver.

As soon as the improvements in the road are completed it will be transformed into an electric line. This will be for passenger service mostly, but it is possible that freight trains will also be operated by electricity.

Preserving the Forests.
Denver, Oct. 12.—The Colorado State Forestry Association, of which W. G. M. Stone is president, is making special efforts to increase its membership. People in all parts of the state are coming more and more to realize the danger from waste of timber and increasing floods, principally by reason of forest fires that denude the mountains.

Both of the leading political parties at the state at the conventions in this fall adopted resolutions in favor of a state department of forestry. The plank in the Republican platform on the subject reads: "We earnestly recommend necessary legislation to provide for a department of forestry, whose province shall be to prevent profligate waste of timber, and by so doing, conserve the water supply of the state."

The Democratic platform says: "We earnestly recommend such legislation under the state constitution as shall provide for a department of forestry and the enactment of such laws as may be necessary to enable it to make our forests more permanent and useful."

WALKER KILLED

TRAGEDY IN GUNNISON COUNTY.
Postmaster at Crookton Shot by George Neal—Murder the Result of an Old Quarrel.

Denver, Oct. 12.—A Gunnison special to the Republican last night says: The remains of C. W. Walker, postmaster at Crookton, who was shot and killed at his ranch east of here, last evening by George Neal, were brought to Gunnison to-night. Neal is still at large and the officers of Squaguch county, in which the shooting occurred, are after him. The bullet entered Walker's head beneath the left eye and caused instant death. The nature of the trouble between the two men has not been learned. The dead man was a member of the Red Men's lodge at this place. It is thought Neal will go to Squaguch and give himself up to the sheriff.

Neal called at the Walker ranch about 7 o'clock last night and invited Walker to come out. Walker did so and Neal renewed the old quarrel.

After quarreling for a few minutes Walker, it is alleged, raised his fist as if to strike Neal when the latter suddenly drew a revolver and fired point blank at his head. Neal did not stop to reload his gun, but retreated and ran toward the foothills and escaped.

Mrs. Walker, wife of the dead man, was at Crookton attending postoffice duties at the time her husband was shot. The postoffice is located about a quarter of a mile from the Walker ranch.

Walker formerly lived in Gunnison, where he conducted a meat market. The body will be brought to Gunnison for interment. Neal was a widow. Neal has been working on ranches around Crookton and Doyle for the past four years. He is a single man.

SHOOTING NEAR RIDGWAY.
Herman Choney Killed in Fight with His Father-in-Law.
Denver, Oct. 12.—A dispatch from Cury last night says: S. C. Wilson, fifty-seven years of age, shot and killed his son-in-law, Herman Choney, aged forty, at the latter's ranch on Alkali creek, about six miles east of Ridgway at 11:15 last night. They had lived on adjoining ranches for a long time and quarreled often, first over Choney's wife, who was divorced from him and who is in the East at this time. Lately their quarrels were over the house. Malby began a search for Neal and was working on ranches around Crookton and Doyle for the past four years. He is a single man.

There were three witnesses to the shooting. Wilson's fired man, the latter's wife, and a young girl, a grand-daughter. Wilson's wife is dead and the hired man and his wife were looking after the house. It was dark when the killing occurred and the participants were some distance from the witnesses. The dead man was shot in the chest and the other in the stomach. It seems that Wilson shot first at a distance of twenty-eight yards. Both men shot twice. Wilson used a rifle and Choney a revolver which was at half cock when picked up by the officers.

Only one shot took effect out of the four fired. It struck Choney above the heart and death was almost instantaneous. After the killing Wilson went to his house. Malby began a search for Neal and was working on ranches around Crookton and Doyle for the past four years. He is a single man.

The Carlsbad Current publishes over a column of Republicanism that is low and mean and that the most disgraceful methods known to man were employed to secure his nomination. Now the facts are these. The nominee of that convention is a man worthy in every respect of the honor conferred upon him. He is the peer morally and intellectually, of the ablest resident of Carlsbad or vicinity, and, without question, possesses more manhood, honesty, strength of character and virtue than the wild-eyed idiot who penned the scurrilous screed referred to. The Current "idiot" added no lustre to his tarnished escutcheon by the reproduction of the Argus libel. If the Current is desirous of supporting the Republican ticket he is at perfect liberty to do so and no one will be the losers, except the Republican nominees. The Eddy county delegation was not composed of angels by a considerable majority, and as a matter of fact, had an angel been in demand, he would, of necessity, have been compelled to hail from some other locality. The nomination of Mr. Ellis was regular, it was accomplished fairly and honestly, no unfair or dishonorable means were resorted to in securing his nomination and the Current would be much better employed in using its limited space in making war on the common enemy than trying to instill disaffection and discord in the democratic ranks. If Eddy county expects to ever be recognized by the Democracy of this district she would do well to muzzle some of her irresponsible "gabsquirts" and get in line with the Democratic party, nationally, territorially and locally.

The Herald desires to call the attention of the Democratic voters of Roosevelt county to the fact that Democratic success in this county is not a certainty by any means. The Republicans have put out a strong ticket and are doing their utmost to elect it. It can safely be said that every Republican in the county will register and it is equally certain that every one of them will vote their ticket straight and unless the Democrats get to work they will undoubtedly lose a part of the ticket. The Herald is not scared, nor is it a calamity howler, but it does want to impress upon the mind of every Democrat in the county the necessity of doing his full duty to his party. If he does this every man on the ticket will receive a flattering majority, if not the result is doubtful.

Hon. Geo. F. Ellis, of Roosevelt county, was nominated for the Legislature by the Democratic convention at Roswell last Saturday night and Haman was hanged upon the gallows prepared for Modesto. Not a precinct in Eddy county was represented in the convention except Carlsbad. Artesia's delegates were unseated by the credentials committee, J. L. Emerson representing this county. Artesia Advocate.

The betting in New York is 10 to 7 in favor of the Democratic state ticket. Betting proves nothing, and is very foolish for the better, but if people will risk their money we like to see it put up on the right side.—Ft. Worth Record.

Those who participated in the Democratic primaries are morally bound to support the nominees made thereat. Every honest voter in the county will condemn those who willfully fail in performing their part of this obligation.

Prof. Ellis' Dates. Prof. G. F. Ellis Democratic nominee for Representative of the 15th Legislative district will address the citizens of Roosevelt county New Mexico at the following places and times: Elida, October 15th at 7:30 p. m. Floyd, 17th at 7:30 p. m. Texico, 18th at 7:30 p. m. Arch, 19th at 7:30 p. m. The Democratic nominees for the various county offices will be present and also address the people on the above dates.

SOME REASONS FOR SUPPORTING MONEY.

Because the next national administration will be Democratic and be in perfect harmony with the administration.

Because, by reason of his personal influence in both branches of congress he can accomplish needed legislation for our territory.

Because he is a man of more than one idea and can comprehend that statehood is not the only good thing to be desired by his constituency.

Because our present delegate in congress has accomplished absolutely nothing in the way of needed legislation for New Mexico.

Because the Republican party pledges itself to absolutely nothing for our territory, either good, bad or indifferent.

Because he is going to be elected, anyway, and you will not have to compromise with your conscience after election.

The Best Doctor. Re. J. C. Horton, Sulphur Spring, Texas, writes, July 19th, 1896: I have used in my family Ballard's Snow Liniment and Horehound Syrup, and they have proved certainly satisfactory. The liniment is the best I have ever used for headache and pains. The cough syrup has been our doctor for the last eight years." 2c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by Pearce & Dobbs.

Improving the Potato. A new method of improving the potato is credited to M. Michalek, as a result of experiments made in the Department Yaucoise, France. He advises that the potato plant should be stripped of its blossoms and the crop and be richer in starch. The sower is not at all necessary to the well-being of the plant, which in the process of blossoming consumes starch and other vegetable substances.

Examining Horses for Soundness.
Farmers as much as any class of men should know what to look for when looking over a horse before purchasing him and should go about it in a proper way. As it is, they are too apt to think that because they have always had more or less to do with horses that they cannot be fooled or cheated, and are so often too careless with the result that they fall into traps and are financial losers. We see this at the Chicago Stock Yards, where many buyers come to buy work horses and give them less careful examination than many city buyers, who show great care in their purchases and employ veterinarians to help them if not personally qualified to judge as to soundness. There are a few simple points which anyone may remember and follow when examining a horse to find if he is sound or practically sound. See the horse in his stall and before he has been exercised for the day if possible. By so doing it is often possible to discover that the animal is a “cribber” and “wind-sucker.” In the same way one may catch a case of spavin lameness which would not be seen were the horse allowed to come out of the barn on the run and keep going while under inspection. Many spavined horses show the lameness most when made to “get over” in the stall and when backing out of the stall. This is also true of horses afflicted with chorea (St. Vitus' dance), which is not apparent when the animal is exercised, yet constitutes unsoundness. Horses so affected are termed “crampy” by the horse buyers and some of them are so slightly affected that one is sure to be “stuck” if the examination is not made in the barn. By watching the horse in his stall it is also possible to notice if he is a “weaver,” which means a horse that is constantly weaving his head back and forward like a captive lion in his den. This is to many people a very irritating habit and is certainly unsightly, but does not, properly speaking, constitute unsoundness, nor do we think it injures a horse for work. After viewing the horse in his stall have him led out and examine his eyes. Stand in front of him and with the hand pretend to strike the horse over the eye, trying each side alternately. The animal will flinch the moment the motion is made if he can see. This is necessary even with horses having large, prominent eyes, for there is a disease called “amaurosis,” which causes blindness from paralysis of the optic nerves, yet the animal has a fine appearing eye. Walk slowly around the horse and note his every point from a small distance. Look at the contour of his head and neck, the lines of his back, the way his shoulders are set, the manner in which he stands upon his legs, the shape of his legs, the way in which he carries his tail, the many other points which go to make a horse attractive or the reverse. Watch him again when walked and trotted, and if he is satisfactory in these respects examine him more carefully point by point when standing still. Commence at the teeth and determine his age, or if he is usually sufficient to ascertain whether he is under or over eight years of age. Press the finger into the mouth and examine by pressure where the bit would press to see if the bars of the mouth (lower jaw) are sound. Often the bone is broken at this place, and this is usually indicated by an open sore and bad odor from retained decomposing saliva or bone. See that the tongue is whole, not partially severed; that the front teeth (incisors) do not lap over each other like the bill of a parrot, for a horse so deformed cannot graze properly. Next examine the corners of the mouth to see that he is not a hard puller, a habit indicated by a sore or callous corner which indicates lugging on the bit. If the teeth are much worn down in an uneven manner in front it may be concluded that the horse is a cribber, if that has not been discovered by watching him in his stall. Examine the nostrils for a tumor or polypus may be present in the false nostril which overlies the true nostril. It may also show evidence of a chronic discharge which if present should lead the intending buyer to examine more carefully for glanders, nasal glut or a diseased molar tooth...
The world of horticulture is a mysterious one, and in it are many secrets yet to be found out. We have considered that the question of maternity belongs to living and breathing animals. But we are now awaking to the fact that we must consider maternity in the vegetable world. As scientists investigate, the wonder grows. Not only are there self-sterile varieties among grapes, plums and pears, but among the apples self-sterility exists to a great extent. More than that, varieties have been discovered that have no affinity toward each other and if planted together will produce no fruit. This presents a new field for investigation and research...
The articles that are appearing in the Farmers' Review on the Kieffer pear illustrate how skilled men may differ. Some of the horticulturists that are looked upon as authorities and as well-nigh infallible, have taken positions diametrically opposed to each other. We hope there will be more unanimity of opinion after all the evidence is in. Nearly every subject has in it more than appears on superficial investigation...

Farrow's Melancholy Words...
One of King Edward's pets which has long been kept in the hall at Sandringham is a small green parrot, which his majesty purchased personally from a boy in Trafalgar square while passing through there privately with his quarry one day. The bird is a splendid talker. What has always been his favorite expression is a melancholy one now: “Now, then, hip, hip, hurrah for the queen!”

The Inland Valley.
The Inland Valley lies wholly within Roosevelt county, New Mexico. It is more than fifty miles in length and varies in width from five to twenty miles. At occasional distances along this valley natural springs break forth, flowing constant streams of clear, pure water, and throughout the valley, water in inexhaustible supply is obtained from wells at depths ranging from four to fifty feet...
Soil.
For a large part, the soil is a deep sandy loam, and as an evidence of its fertility, is covered in its natural state, with a luxuriant growth of grama and mesquite grasses...
Population.
The census of 1900 gives the area within the lines of Roosevelt county a population of 533. Now the population is 4,500. These are, principally, all from the states, and occupy a high moral and educational plane...
Products.
From the natural rainfall, and often without adequate irrigation, crops of Indian corn, Kaffir corn, milo maize, sorghum, millet, sweet potatoes, pumpkins, cotton, beans, peas and all varieties of melons have been produced. Exhibits of all these products that would be a credit to any country are now being made, both at the Territorial Fair at Albuquerque and at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at Saint Louis...
Artesian Water.
In an experimental well upon the public square in the town of Portales, a considerable flow of artesian water was obtained at a depth of 300 feet. Arrangements are now complete for drilling to a depth of 1,000 feet, if a sufficiently strong flow is not obtained at a shallower depth. Should a sufficient flow be obtained, its utilization, with the natural soil and sunshine, would make the “Inland Valley” a veritable garden; and even should it not be obtained, the shallow water of the valley may yet be utilized through pumping, for gardening and orcharding...
“Free Homes.”
There are within the boundaries of Roosevelt county some hundred thousand acres of government lands subject to entry under the provisions of the Homestead Law. This may be your last chance to obtain a “Free Home.”...
Railroads.
The Pecos Valley & Northeastern Railway traverses the country from the northeast to the southwest. It is a part of the “Santa Fe System” and the route is direct to Kansas City, Chicago and the East...
Towns.
Portales is the county seat of Roosevelt county. It is located on the Pecos Valley & Northeastern Railway, and is in the midst of the “Inland Valley.” It has a population of 1,200, good schools, churches, newspapers, banks and business houses. Texico and Elida are other new and growing towns in the county. Come and see for yourselves. All letters of inquiry freely answered by any citizen or business house. Write W. E. Lindsey, “The Herald,” the Postmaster, W. H. Garrett, the First National Bank, etc., etc., Portales, Roosevelt county, New Mexico...
Our Exhibit.
The Herald office has on display samples of the produce raised this year in Roosevelt county without irrigation. We would like to give an individual write up of the samples brought by each, but our limited space won't permit it. We have Kaffir corn, in several varieties, that will compare creditably with that raised in any country; we have milo maize and other varieties that can't be beaten in the best agricultural states in the Union; also sorghum; and cane that it will pay you to look at. Our broom corn samples are as fine as any one ever looked at and squashes and pumpkins measuring five feet in circumference. We have watermelons that weigh from sixty to seventy-five pounds; Then we can show you alfalfa, third cutting, that is as good as irrigated stuff, radishes that weigh two and one-half pounds; sweet potatoes that weigh from four to eight pounds; beets and turnips that weigh from four to five pounds; collards that beat the world. Our display of Indian corn is sufficient to convince the most skeptical that this is a corn country. Onions, and in fact, everything that can be grown anywhere on earth, we have here in profusion. If the renting farmers of other states could get a glimpse of the display in this office they would immediately quit writing and move to New Mexico, where they can raise better crops and not be compelled to divide with the landlord. That the future of Inland Valley is assured there can be no further doubt, our farmers are now convinced that the same amount of labor required to produce in other states, if expended on our soil will amply repay them and in most cases will yield more abundantly than the older states. If you are looking for a home come to New Mexico...
