Simple Recital of a Tragedy of the Baseball Field.

Over in the vacant lot back of Jim mie Jones' home the Mudlarks and the Terrors were engaged in a baseball duel to the death. It was the last half of the eighth inning. The score stood five to four in favor of the Mudlarks Jimmie Jones, the best pitcher of them all, was in the box for the Mudlarks. and the way he sped them through was working havoc with the hopes of the Terrors.

The Terrors were at bat. A man passed to first, an error, and they had a runner at third. Jimmie Jones set tled down to pitch, and struck the next two batters out. A run would tie the score. Grimly the Mudiarks settled to the task of shutting out the Terrors. Tense excitement reigned. Jimmie Jones stood, serene and strong as an adamant wall, and the best batter of the Terrors approached the batter's box.

A Mudlark rooter's thin and strained voice arose: "T'ree twisters and a fanout, Jimmie! De boys are all wid you!"

Deliberately Jimmie Jones twirled the ball in his fingers preparatory to speeding through a deceptive shoot. The base-runner at third danced forward and back again, ready to take desperate chances to tie the score. Seldom had so critical a stage been reached on the field. Still Jimmie stood, twirling the ball. The hopes of the Mudlarks rested with him.

At length Jimmie Jones gave a final twirl to the ball, swung his arm about like a windmill, and prepared to send the whizzing sphere across the plate. But a sound broke the stillness. Across the back fence that skirted the field a woman's voice came clear.

shrill, not to be denied: "Jimmie Jones, you come home and rock your little brother to sleep this minute!" Slowly the tense muscles of Jimmie Jones relaxed. The ball stopped in midair. The great arm of the Mudlarks' star pitcher dropped as if paralyzed. A look of great pain came upon his face and his fingers grew nerveless and limp.

"Never mind her, Jimmie," shouted the Mudlark rooter. "Finish out de game."

But Jimmie Jones was undone. He put his suspenders back on his shoulders, passed the ball to the umpire, and with his proud head bowed made his way to where his coat lay in a pile.

"Youse fellers don't know me mudder," was all he said. "Git anudder pitcher."

He walked off the field, leaped the back fence and was lost to view, while the Terror batsman drove a threebagger and the cheers of the Terrors apprised Jimmie of the full force of the tragedy.

Eagle Kite Fooled Kingfishers.

Sewen boys entered their miniature airchips for the annual kite-flying contest, open to children of the public and parochial schools, which took place the other afternoon in Genessee Valley park.

Interest was lent to the contest by an odd incident, showing that the birds of the air may be fooled by the cleverness of man. Aling Brown had a kite made in imitation of an American eagle, and when it spread its wings to the breeze and rode away into the air it looked like a real "king of the air."

Indeed, so perfect was the imitation that as the beautiful kite soared over one of the trees in the park in rising, two targe kingfishers saw the strange fowl, and, uttering their shrill cry of battle, left the tree and followed the kite high into the air. They wheeled and circled around their new enemy, but such was their awe of the majestic bird they did not venture to push hostilities to the actual point of contact. This eagle kite took the first prize.-Rochester Herald

Saved Wounded Pigeon.

The archdeacon of London, in an address on the growth of what he called the "instinct of rescue," told of something he had done recently that had given him great pleasure. Coming out of the house of commons one day, he noticed a pigeon that had been run over lying in the road. He called the attention of a police constable to the little heap of crippled feathers, and asked what were best to be done.

"Best to kill it," said the constable. "But I couldn't do that," said the archdeacon. Picking up the bird, he put it inside his coat and took it home. He managed to set the broken bone of the leg, and after tending the patient tenderly for two months, had the pleasure of seeing it restored to its former condition and fly joyously away to rejoin its comrades on the roof of the house of commons.

Stage Money.

Representatives of the theater trust, searching abroad for talent, chanced upon a London dance hall singer.

"We will give you $50,000 a week, a ten years' contract, you need appear only 20 minutes each night and you have an individual press agent," they told her.

"But will you 'ire me a lawyer by the year to hattend to me divorce haffairs?" she asked,

They agreed to this readily, and the uplift of the stage was assured.

Very Appropriate. " 'Pullman Porter,' " commented the stranger. "That's a queer name for cigarettes. Why do they bear that "Because they are silver-tipped, sir," replied the tobacconist.

ARE PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS NOSTRUMS?

To one not qualified, and few lay-men are, to discriminate intelligently between physicians' prescriptions, proprietary medicines and nostrums, it may seem little short of a crime to hint even that physicians' prese tions are in any manner related to nostrums; nevertheless, an impartial examination of all the facts in the case leads irresistibly to the conclusion that every medicinal preparation compounded and dispensed by a physician is, in the strict sense of the word, a nostrum, and that the average ready-prepared proprietary remedy is superior to the average specially-pre-pared physicians prescription.

What is a nostrum? According to the Standard Dictionary a nostrum is "a medicine the composition of which is kept a secret." Now, when a physician compounds and dispenses with his own hands a remedy for the treatment of a disease—and it is authoritatively stated that probably 60 per cens, of all physicians' prescriptions in this country are so dispensed—the paines and quantities of the fagredients which constitute the remedy are not made known to the patient. Hence, since its composition is kept a secret by the physician, the remedy or prescription is unquestionably, in the true meaning of the word, a Simonpure nostrum. Furthermore, the prescription compounded by the average physician is more than likely to be a perfect jumble-replete with therapeutic, physiologic and chemical incompatibilities and bearing all the earmarks of pharmaceutical incompetency; for it is now generally admitted that unless a physician has made a special study of pharmacy and passed some time in a drug store for the purpose of gaining a practical knowledge of modern pharmaceutical methods, he is not fitted to compound remedies for his patients. Moreover, a physician who compounds his own prescriptions not only deprives the pharmacist of his just emoluments, but he endangers the lives of patients; for it is only by the detection and elimination of errors in prescriptions by clever, competent prescriptionists that the safety of the public can be effectually of ignorant physicians. Nor can it be said that the average physician is any more competent to formulate a prescription than he is to compound it. When memorized or directly copied from a book of "favorite prescriptions by famous physicians," or from some text-book or medical journal, the prescription may be all that it should be. It is only when the physician is required to originate a formula on the spur of the moment that his incompetency is distinctly evident. Seemingly, however, the physicians of the United States are little worse than the average British physician; for we find Dr. James Burnett, lecturer on Practical Materia Medica and Pharmacy, Edinburgh, lamenting n the Medical Magazine the passing of the prescription and bemoaning the fact that seldom does he find a "final man" able to devise a prescription even in "good contracted Latin."

shielded from the criminal blunders

And what, it may be asked, is the status of the written prescription-the prescription that is compounded and dispensed by the pharmacist-is it, too, a nostrum? It may be contended that the patient, with the written formula in his possession, may learn the character of the remedy prescribed. So, possibly, he might if he understood Latin and were a physician or a pharmacist, but as he usually possesses no professional training and cannot read Latin, the prescription is practically a dead secret to him. Furthermore, the average prescription is so badly written and so greatly abbreviated that even the pharmacist, skilled as he usually is in deciphering medical hieroglyphs, is constantly obliged to interview prescribers to find out what actually has been prescribed. It may also be contended, that inasmuch as the formula is known to both physician and pharmacist the prescription cannot therefore be a secret. But with equal truth it might be contended that the formula of any socalled nostrum is not a secret since it is known to both preprietor and manufacturer; for it must net be forgotten that, according to reliable authority, 95 per cent, of the proprietors of socalled patent medicines prepared h. this country have their remedies made for them by large, reputable manufasturing pharmacists. But even should a patient be able to recognize the names of the ingredients mentioned in a formula he would only know half the story. It is seldem, for instance, that alcohol is specifically mentioned in a prescription, for it is usually masked in the form of tinctures and fluid extracts, as are a great many other substances. It is evident, therefore, that the ordinary formulated prescription is, to the average patient, little less than a secret remedy or nostrum. On the other hand, the formulae of nearly all the proprietary medicines that are exploited exclusively to the medical profession as well as those of a large percentage of the proprietary remedies that are advertised to the public (the so-called patent medicines) are published in full. Under the Food and Drugs Act, every medicinal preparation entering interstate commerce is now required to have the proportion or quantity of alcohol, oplum, cocain and other habit-forming or harmful ingredients which it may contain plainly printed on the label. As physicians' prescriptions seldom or never enter interstate commerce they are practically exempt under the law, And if it be necessary for the public to know the composi tion of proprietary remedies, as is contended by those who through ignorance or for mercenary reaso opposing the sale of all hou ties, why is it not equally necessary for patients to know the compo-sition of the remedy prescribed by a physician? Does any sane person lieve that the opium in a physician's prescription is less potent or less likely to create a drug habit than the opium in a proprietary medicine? As a matter of fact, more opium-addicts and cocain-flends have been made through the criminal carelessness of ignorant physicians than by any other means. Unquestionably, there are a number of proprietary remedies on the market the sales of which should be prohibited, and no doubt they will be when the requirements of the Food and Drugs Act are rigidly enforced; many are frauds, pure and simple, and some are decidedly harmful. Of the average proprietary remedy, however, it may truthfully be said that it is distinctly better than the average physicians' prescription; for not only is its composition less secret, but it is prepared for the proprietor by reputable manufacturing pharmacists in magnificently equipped laboratories and under the supervision and advice of able chemists, competent physicians and skillful pharmacists. It should not be considered strange, therefore, that so many physicians prefer to prescribe these ready-prepared proprietary remedies rather than trust those of their own devising.

ALL RELIGIONS IN LONDON.

Faithist Community Latest Addition to Its Queer Sects.

The Faithist community which has established a modest footing in Balham, and whose comprehensive gospel ranges from the creation of man to the "glory and labors of the gods and goddesses of the Etherian heavens," is the latest addition to the long list of London's religious sects, which are now almost as many as the days of the year. In London the Chinaman burns his incense stick in more than one loss-house in the east end, the Mahometan has his mosque, the Malayan his temple, near St. George's street east; the Parsees worship the sun in Bloomsbury, the Mormons have a mission in Islington, and in many parts of the metropolis the Buddhists and Ancestor Worshipers perform their strange rites. Of Christian sects in London there are at least 300, including the Cokelers, the disciples of William Sirgood, the Walworth shoemaker; the Peculiar People, who prefer prayer to physicians; the Sandemanians, the followers of Joanna Southcott, the prophetic serving maid; the Shakers and the Seventh Day Baptists.

WOMEN IN MEDIEVAL TIMES.

In Many Ways They Had Easier Lives Than Their Descendants.

The women of the sixteenth century and earlier times had easier lives than those of our generation. To be sure, there are a hundred labor saving devices to-day which were unknown to them. But in at least two important respects they had the advantage over their descendants. They waged no conflict against dirt such as we carry on from morning till night. The Elizabethan had no prejudice against garbage in his front yard, vermin in his bedroom, decaying rushes on the floor of his banquet hall, or soiled lace in his sleeves. The strength of arm and spirit which now goes to keeping clean was left to the medieval lady for other tasks. Moreover, although her clothing was gorgeous-rich with emeroidery and lace, and heavy with jewelsit was not subject to rapid changes of fashion. The cut of a sleeve or the hang of a skirt was settled for five years rather than five months. Life was then free from the modern terror of "looking like a last year's rag bag." -Youth's Companion.

THE LOAD OF THE LAZY.

This Man Worked Hard in His Own

Particular Way. One of the neighborhood loafers saf comfortably smoking his foul pipe; according to his daily custom, in the prescription room of a drug store. He was soliloquizing aloud to the clerk. liere is a sample of his sound, con tented philosophy: "I'll tell you what! A man is mighty miserable if he ain't got nothin' to do, when he ain't workin' at somethin'. I know it-I've tried both ways an' I find that there ain't nothin' that makes a man more miserable than doin' nothin'. But, you know, there's two kinds of work; one of them is where a feller goes to work at six in the mornin' an' works with his hands till six at night. The other is where a feller sits around an' thinks. I ain't never happy unless I'm workin', but I don't believe in that first kind of work. I believe in thinkin' ali day long, an' that's harder than the other kind, I can tell you-you just try it if you don't believe me; a man is mighty miserable when he ain't workin'."

In Praise of the Pie.

Laura Simmons tells in an article why good New Englanders should stick to ple, and calls attention to the fact the Emerson ate it three times a day, and says that ple is the ladder by which New England has climbed to its place of proud eminence. She questions whether any sensible per son was ever known to forage at the midnight hour for predigested cereals or the innocuous prune. She does not believe that many New England ances tors died of apoplexy, due to pie, but counsels all to go on pie-eating despite the fact that the flat has gone forth that it is vulgar to eat pie.

CARE OF SILK HANDKERCHIEFS

Precautions Necessary During Process of Washing.

In washing silk handkerchiefs care should be taken to prevent their turning yellow. A silk handkerchief should never be boiled, nor have any soap rubbed upon it.

Make a lather of finely shredded white soap and water, wash and squeeze the handkerchief in it, press out all the moisture, and dry quickly in the sun; ironing them while they are still damp, but not wet.

White silk handkerchiefs used as neckties are sometimes cleaned very well with dried and powered starch in which a little powdered blue has been mixed.

The handkerchief is spread over a clean linen cloth, and with a pad of clean white linen the powder is rubbed over the silk, then dusted out, after which, with a moderately hot fron and two folds of slightly damped linen aid over the silk on the right side the handkerchief is ironed, which brightens it considerably.

cupful of broth and add it to the meat and flour, flavoring with pepper, salt and nutmeg, boil for five minutes. Pour the mixture on a plate and set it aside to cool, then divide it into small portions, making each in croquettes. Egg and crumb them twice over, and fry in hot lard which should entirely cover the croquettes.

Drain well and serve hot, gar nished with sprigs of parsley. If the mince should be too stiff, add little more broth or boiling water.

Housework and Physical Culture. There are plenty of women who scorn housework, but are devoted to gymnasiums. Now, the best of all around, indoor exercise is to be found in the manifold duties of housekeeping. Dusting, even cooking, bring more than one set of muscles into play, and none of them is more destructive to the beauty of the hands than gymnasium, work and outdoor games. We are not advocating the performing of all of the household duties, without assistance of any kind, but of parts of them. Of course, if you have a liking for the work, and the strength, do it all if you want to, but this is not advisable unless lack of money is the inducement. There are so many ways in which time can be profitably spent.-What-to-Eat.

When you have a small piece of cooked steak on hand, hardly enough to serve alone, try this plan: Moisten with hot water and reheat in a hot oven. Cut in long, thin pieces, finger lengths first. Make as many pieces of toast as you have pieces of steak, cut-Make a gravy as follows: Cream together in the frying pan a small piece of butter and a spoonful of flour. Add gradually soup stock or any gravy until the mixture is smooth. Add one small onion, finely chopped, a few capers, and shreds of celery if wished. Put the bits of steak on the toast and pour the gravy over all.

Jellied Chicken.

Cut up a four-pound fowl, put in a stew pan with two slices of onlon cover with boiling water and cook slowly until the meat falls from the bones When half cooked add a tablespoonful of salt. When chicken is tender remove and reduce the stock by cooking to three-fourths of a cupful, strain and remove fat. Decorate a mold with parsley and hard-cooked eggs, sliced. Pack in the meat freed from skin and bone and well seasoned. Pour over the hot stock and place until firm. In warm weather a teaspoonful of gelatin may be added to make the jelly firm.

Chicken Curry.

Cut a three-pound chicken in pieces for serving. Put butter in a hot fry ing pan and cook the chicken ten min utes, then add the liver and gizzard and cook ten minutes longer. Use onethird of a cup of butter. Cut two onions in thin slices and add to the chicken with one tablespoonful of curry powder and two teaspoonfuls of salt. Add enough boiling water to cover and simmer until chicken is tender. Remove the chicken, strain and thicken the liquor with flour, pour gravy over the chicken and serve with a border of rice.

Imitation Buckwheat Cakes.

These are delicious to serve with maple sirup, and, best of all, perfectly hygienic. In the evening mix four cups whole wheat flour, one-half cup cornmeal, one cup wheat flour, and one-half yeast cake dissolved in a little lukewarm water. Add enough milk or water to make a thick batter and a half teaspoonful salt. Cover and let rise over night. In the morning add a half level teaspoonful soda dissolved in enough milk to make batter of the right consistency. Bake on a wellgreased, hot griddle, and serve at

Chop Suey.

For two people use one pound of round steak cut for beef tea, in dice; add one pint of water, half teaspoor salt, and let it come to a boil slowly for about three-quarters of an hour; add one large onion cut in two, six medium potatoes, cut in small squares; boil quickly until potatoes are done.

FULLY UP WITH THE TIMES. Oklahoma City Surprised Narrow

Minded New Yorker.

Oklahoma amazes an easterner. The wide, asphalted streets, the plate glass fronts of department stores, the cle sidewalks, the well-dressed, unhurried shoppers, the finish, the metropolitan air you find in Oklahoma City, for example, seem marvels to find in a territory only 17 years old. But do not

BABY TORTURED BY ITCHING.

Rash Covered Face and Feet-Would Cry Until Tired Out-Speedy Cure by Cuticura.

"My baby was about nine months old when she had rash on her face and feet. Her feet seemed to irritate her most, especially nights. They would cause her to be broken in her rest, and sometimes she would ery until she was tired out. I had heard of so many cures by the Cuticura Remedies that thought I would give them a trial. The improvement was noticeable in a few hours, and before I had used one box of the Cuticura Ointment her feet were well and have never troubled her since. I also used it to remove what is known as 'cradle cap' from her head, and it worked like a charm, as it cleansed and healed the scalp at the same time. Mrs. Hattie Currier, Thomaston, Me., June 9, 1906."

He Was Not to Blame.

Little Bartholomew's mother over heard him swearing like a mule driver, says the Cleveland Leader. He displayed a fluency that overwhelmed her. She took him to task, explaining the wickedness of profanity as well as its vulgarity. She asked him where he had learned all those dreadful words. Bartholomew announced that Cavert, one of his playmates, had taught him. Cavert's mother was straightway informed and Cavert was brought to book. He vigorously denied having instructed Bartholomew, and neither threats nor tears could make his confess. At last he burst out: "I didn't tell Bartholomew any cuss words. Why should I know how to cuss any better than he does? Hasn't his father got an automobile,

The Manchester canal was built at a cost of $75,000,000 to reduce freight rates for a distance of 35 miles, and, while it did not prove a good interest bearing investment on such a large expenditure, its indirect and more permanent benefits are said to have warranted it.

Germany has 3,000 miles of canal, carefully maintained, besides 7,000 miles of other waterway. France, with an area less than we would consider a large state, has 3,000 miles of canal; and in the northern part, where the canals are most numerous, the railways are more prosperous. England, Germany, France, Holland and Belgium are all contemplating further extension and improvement of their canal systems.-Century Magazine.

Punishment by Inches.

A Bergen (Genesee county) justice of the peace has adopted an original scheme for the dispensation of justice. A visitor and his fiances, who staying in the district, went to ch and just before the service began the young man was greatly astonished when the chapel steward, observing that the couple were seated in the same pew, came over to him and, in an audible voice, said: "Come on our of that, me son; we don't 'ave no sweetheartin' 'ere."

The scrap between the married couple had died down to a few listless mutterings, and the canary bird in the cage was beginning to think about singing again, when she remarked, as a sort of afterthought:

"At any rate, everybody in my family thinks I am very intelligent." "Yes, by the side of them you are." he replied with a bitter snort.

An Indiana man tells of the efforts of an author belonging to the Hoosier school of historical novelists to put in his leisure time as a "hen farmer" in that state. The literary person's venture afforded his agricultural neighbors no end of amusement.

During the first year the amateur farmer discovered that all his little chickens, which were confined in coops, were languishing at the point of death. The novelist went over his 'hen literature" to locate the cause of the trouble, but to no avail.

Finally he called upon an old chap named Rawlins, to whom he put the question:

"What do you suppose is the matter with those chickens?" "Well, I dunno," said Rawlins. "What do you feed 'em?"

"Feed them!" exclaimed the novelist-farmer. "Why, I don't feed them anything!"

"Then, how'd you suppose they was a-goin' to live?" "I presumed," replied the literary person, "that the old hens had milk enough for them now."-Lippincott's transportation, and the "hobo" will Magazine.

At the national. conference of charities and correction the committee on vagrants considered the united duty of state, town and individual to exterminate the tramp nuisance. Because the tramp passes on after a full meal we do not feel the responsibility for him which we feel for offenders who abide in our community. Towns have contented themselves with sending the vagrant across the lines to the next town, which is like throwing rubbish over the fence into our neighbor's back yard. It is a mistake to feed a vagrant unless he pays for his food with a fair amount of work, says the Youth's Companion. The great remedy for the disease of vagrancy is cord-wood, which should be administered in allopathic doses. Finally, since life as a tramp depends on easy transit, the railroads need the sanction of severe laws in dealing with those who steal rides. Cut the vagrant off from unearned food and
