What the Editors are Saying

There was no occasion for the vileness printed in the Denver papers concerning a certain candidate for office. The traducers seem to have suffered the most by their mud-slinging. The sec- of that state may be rotten, but it seemed that he has dragged his enemies deeper into the mire than himself. The women in the case must realize that when they undertake to handle pitch they are likely to get spattered. The exposures to both principal and accusers reveals a condition revolting to decency. Turn on the hose. Denver needs a cleaning. Further, those ministers would have been in better business than to lend themselves to the schemes of politicians. The whole affair reveals a condition little dreamed by the contiding. Truly politics make strange bed fellows.—Rock Island Tribune.

Colonel William Jennings Bryan will discover within a few months that there is a new democracy, whether he will submit and sink his own radical views or fight, remains to be seen. Mr. Bryan's disposition is to fight. But he may have learned caution. He fought the selection of Underwood as floor leader of the house, and lost. He fought the selection of Underwood as floor leader of the house, and lost. He fought the selection of Martin as minority leader in the senate, and lost. He was right about Martin and he was wrong about Underwood, who, more nearly than Bryan, represents the only kind of democracy that can successfully administer the affairs of the government.—Albuquerque, Journal.

One of the most gratifying signs of the times is that the New England states have become so ashamed of their former political depravity that they actually fell over themselves Tuesday in an effort to vote the Democratic ticket unanimously.—El Paso Times (Dem).

The country is well satisfied with its work on Tuesday, and hopes that Woodrow Wilson will prove big enough to be a true servant of his fellowmen, and no mere accident of circumstance.—El Paso Herald; (Rep).

A black negro in Artesia was a curiosity to many on last Tuesday, and other fact which created some interest was that he was a democrat. It was old "George" from the Turkey Track ranch at Gasoline over east of the Pecos river.—Artesia Advocate.

ONE CAMPAIGN BET will either require a young high school teacher to wear low white hosiery throughout the winter or else her beau will have to wear a straw hat all winter.—Albuquerque Herald; (Rep).

Recognizing the fact that we are beat and in order that the enthusiasm of the victors may be unhampered we have decided to "hike to the tall timber." Now, go to it boys, you won honestly and fairly and to the victor belongs the spoils.—Portales Times.

Now that a Democratic administration in all its branches is assured, Africa beckons to the mighty hunter and his ponderous ex-friend.—El Paso Herald.

It is a good thing for the country that renegade democrats joined the republicans in the late campaign. They needed experienced men to man the boat for the trip up Salt River.—Hagerman Messenger.

An Illinois woman declares that forty years ago she predicted Wilson's election to the presidency. It takes an extraordinary event to make a woman acknowledge forty years.—Roswell Morning News.

Querry: Since Utah went for Taft, can this be construed as an endorsement of the president's Mexican policy by the Mormon refugees and their friends. Secretary Knocked says yes.—El Paso Herald.

SOME of the voters have found fault with our cartoon last week, having the elephant in the lead. He proved in the lead all right, the only trouble with our cartoon was, we had him leading on the wrong end.—Socorro Chieftian.

The Roswell News keeps the democratic ticket at its mast head. Probably it is trying to make up since the election for its lukewarmness toward Ferguson while the campaign was on.—Albu., Morning Journal.

US NEWS PAPERS will have to admit that the progressives put one over us when they went ahead and carried Bernanillo county for the colonel.—Albu. Herald; (Rep).

Latest returns from Las Lunas show that it came nearer going democratic than it ever did in its life. Hades appears to be as usual, hopelessly republican.—Roswell Morning News.

"This is the day I long have sought and mourned because I found it not."—Mr. Bryan, on hearing of Wilson's victory.—Bryan Commoner.

It did not seem half as funny to us to win as it seemed to be to the other fellows the past sixteen years.—Hagerman Messenger.

Those gentlemen who also ran yesterday will find solace in the that real labor is just as ennobling as a political job.—Fort Worth Record (Dem).

On the roll call after the battle, do all the seven governors appear as among the survivors?—Estancia News.—Herald.

Something new under the sun —1,250,000 women votes for president yesterday.—Hale county Herald.

Emperor Theodore was mistaken about it being Armageddon—it was Waterloo.—Hagerman Messenger.

The calamity howl has gone to join the bloody shirt at last. It doesn't count any more.—Carizo News.

ANYHOW, Mr. Taft can point with pardonable pride to Idaho and Vermont.—Albu. Herald.

Wilson is elected, consequently the whole south rejoices.—Dilley Atmosphere.

It was a massacre not a battle.—Albu., Morning Journal (Dem).

Alfalfa Planting

There will be considerable land seeded to alfalfa in the next few months. A few hints along the line of preparing the seed-bed help the farmer to obtain a good stand. The necessity of preparing the land properly before the seed is sown cannot be emphasized too strongly, for one should not expect to secure a good stand of alfalfa if the land is poorly leveled and the clods left unbroken. The farmer who spends time and capital in the preparation of his seed-bed is the one who will reap the greatest profit on his land.

In the first place see that the land is level; that is to say, have the field such a shape that the water when irrigating at a uniform depth over the entire plot or border. The danger of killing the alfalfa by too much water in the low places is thereby eliminated.

Have the land leveled so that the use of many cross borders will not be necessary. These are not only an annoyance in mowing but cause the mower to depreciate in value rapidly, and numerous cross borders afford a place for weeds and grasses to get a start.

There are no fixed rules to follow in leveling a piece of land for alfalfa but it has been found that by using the fresno scraper very good results can be obtained. These scrapers can be bought in various sizes and can be handled very successfully by the ordinary farm laborer.

If the land has never been in cultivation it is well to seed the land to an annual crop such as corn or wheat for the first year, and in this way determine whether or not the land is level. It will always be found that the land will need re-leveling, dragging off the high spots, and filling the low ones. However, if it is essential that the alfalfa be seeded the first year, the land should be bordered before seeding and irrigated, and the levelness of the land determined. The scraper may be applied again where necessary.

After land is properly leveled before the seed is sown, consider the texture of the soil. If the soil breaks up cloddy some instrument such as the disc harrow or the clod crusher should be used to pulverize the soil thoroughly. Have the soil in such a condition that every seed that is sown will have a fine loose soil in which to send its roots. A more uniform stand of alfalfa may be secured on a well pulverized soil. Less seed per acre will be required on such a piece of land for all the seeds are in a position to take root readily and grow. On a soil that is cloddy some of the seeds will fall in cracks and others on clods. In the cracks the seeds will be piled up much thicker than necessary, while the seeds that fall on clods may not receive sufficient moisture to insure germination. Rupert L. Stewart, Assistant in Agronomy.

Second Lyceum Entertainment

The second number of the Woman's Lyceum Course will be given at the Cossy Theatre next Tuesday November 19th. This will be the Allee Trio, a genuine musical treat. Tickets may be had at Neer's Drug Store or by calling on members of the Woman's Club. Get your tickets and have seats reserved early as there will be a large attendance for this entertainment.

TO THE DISCIPLES OF CHRIST, EVERYWHERE.
Greetings:-- This is to certify that on September 21 Evangelist Ernest House and his assistants, Brother and Sister J.V. Baird closed the four weeks evangelistic campaign they conducted for us. The meeting left us 59 members more than we had when the meeting began and about double our previous financial strength. We believe that the spiritual life of each of our former members was vitalized and greatly increased by the spiritual food the meeting afforded and the Church as a whole has been more than doubled in its spiritual power and warm fellowship.
Brother House's sermons appeal to the best and most solid class of people and drew many into attendance at the meeting who have always, heretofore, been absolutely indifferent toward or antagonistic to all religious services. The lists of our new converts contains several men and women who are prominent in business and social life of the community and several of the new converts have pledged themselves and are able to pay towards the pastor's salary at the rate of $50.00 per year. In fact, about half of our $1200.00 pastor's salary is coming from those added to the Church in this meeting.
The methods employed by Brother House and his plain, simple, earnest Bible sermons have acquainted the general public with our plea and raised the general esteem of the Christian Church in Haileyville and vicinity much higher than we had ever hoped for.
Brother House does not lower himself nor the cause of Christ by making ungentlemanly or unchristian personal attacks; on the other hand he never compromises the teaching of the Scriptures in the least detail. He is a dynamo of enthusiasm and his faith in the power of the Gospel is marvelous and wonderfully successful. He is not only really a great preacher of the Bible, but he is also a Master of people. His character and personal conduct are such that every day he labored in our midst drew more people to himself in warm friendship and confidence and elevated the Church all the higher in public opinion, and the last week of the tour was by far the greatest in point of soul-saving.
We could not praise the merit or services of either Brother or Sister Baird too highly. We believe Brother Baird has no superior in our whole Brethrenhood as a song leader. His solos are also splendid. Sister Baird is a very cultured and accomplished pianist. Both are splendid Christians and possess sweet and noble characters.
Yours in the name of the Master
The Christian Church at Haileyville, Okla.

Recruiting Station

An army recruiting station has just been opened in the Barnett Building, in Albuquerque. It is a branch of the El Paso station, but will forward accepted applicants for enlistment direct to the training station at Ft. Logan, near Denver.

Advertising matter concerning the terms of the new army bill which goes into effect on November 1st will be sent out to postmasters in Northern Arizona, Northern New Mexico and Southwest Colorado, which comprise the new Albuquerque recruiting district as soon as circulars can be printed. Any young man who is interested in learning of the opportunities offered by an enlistment in the army can get one of the new circulars by writing to the Army Recruiting Officer, at either Albuquerque or El Paso.—C. N. Barney, U. S. Army, Retd., Recruiting Officer.

Worlds Fair

"In the name of the Republic of China, I plant this flag to except this land upon which shall rise the Government Building which, China will dedicate to the celebration of the successful construction of the Panama Canal by the United States," declared Dr. Chin-tao Chen, Commissioner General of China, when he dedicated China's site at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition.

As he uttered these words the heavy guns at the Presido thundered a salute, the first fired in this country to the still unrecognized Republic. Fully 20,000 people were present, among them being a large percentage of the Chinese population of this city and vicinity.

Our contemporary, the Times, loaded editor and business manager into a caravelsary and hiked for the faraway Manzano mountains in quest of the elusive blacktail and cinnamon bruin as soon as the election results began to arrive, giving as a reason that they wanted the untrifled to have a free hand in celebrating the first touchdown in sixteen years. You still have Vermont, left, gentlemen. That is nearly as much as we had for a hole card after our last Bull Run.

Southern Pacific Bond Employees

Beginning with January 1 of next year, the Harriman Lines will assume all bond premiums of employes in their service, according to an announcement made at the offices of the Southern Pacific company here to-day.

In the past, it has been the custom to require all men handling money to put up a security bond, and the premium on it has been paid by the employe, himself. After the first of the year this expense will be borne by the railroad company.

On the Pacific System of the Southern Pacific, alone, there are about 45,000 employes, and the new arrangement, it is said, will involve a heavy expenditure annually.

County clerk C. P. This is a landslide year and he thinks there is no use to be a piker in a matter like this. Apply at county clerk's office for information concerning the exact location of the potatoes so as to save time.

Valedictory

This issue of The Herald will likely be the last to be published under the present editor, and I take this opportunity to thank all of those who have contributed in any manner towards the success of the paper while under my control. There are to many to mention by name or that would be done. While the patronage accorded the paper is about what I had estimated, it is not enough to justify me to stay longer when I can do better elsewhere. In the meantime I shall not forget the friendships formed while here and will try to repay the town as a whole for the favors shown me by individuals. The Herald will continue to be staunchly Democratic and a country booster and a town builder. Thanking one and all for consideration shown me.—Very respectfully, JAS. W. MULLENS.

Well Begun

New Mexico and Arizona have begun their statehood well.

In Tuesday's election they cast their first presidential vote.

They both went for Wilson and democracy.

It is an interesting fact and not without significance that the people of these young and lusty commonwealths, where public sentiment is nothing, if not progressive, and where old alignments and staid traditions have not had time to take root, should have chosen a leader of Woodrow Wilson type and a national policy of the democratic course.

There action was in keeping with that of the country as a whole. The buoyant west and the self-containing east both hit upon the same man and the same party as a means toward realizing their largest ideals.

In truth, there was no north, no south, no east or west in the election. There was only the American people, bent upon securing a free government through thoughtful and trustworthy methods.—Atlanta Journal.

Appreciation

The Herald wishes to thank the boys of the Times office for many courtesies extended during the incumbency of the present management. This extends from Capt. Molinari and Mr. Ryther down to the office cat, and our latchstring hangs on the outside to anything they need at our sanctum, from Democratic ideas down to a nonpariel shooting stick.

One of the most interesting pictures revealed by current events is that of Senator LaFollette patiently waiting to welcome Col. Roosevelt back into the progressive party.—New Mexican.

J. V. Baird, soloist and musical Director in Christian Church meeting to begin when the Methodist revival closes.

The Bulgars and Seervs and a few other funny column names are doing a plenty to the Terrible Turk. Let the good work continue and maybe (mind you, maybe) some sort of peace may come to Europe. England will, of course want that national highway to India kept open for her by the powers that control the Dardanelles.

We are letting the editors do the talking this week, having had OUR little say before the election. There is much food for reflection in the funny sayings of the quill staff concerning such things. Read them in other columns of this issue.

J. A. Wayland, principal owner of the Appeal to Reason, committed suicide in his rooms at Girard, Kansas, last Saturday night. Temporary insanity is given as the cause, from brooding over the death of his wife.

Mistaw Johnsing is having troubles of his own these days. His appeal to the supreme court for reduction of bond would seem to indicate that he wants a light one so he can jump it.

In the meantime do not go to sleep, but keep alive that big county fair question. Preparations should be inaugurated early in the year, so that there will be nothing overlooked at the critical time.

The papers are so full of Wilson that even the headline writers overlook West Virginia having gone plumb constitutionally dry and prohibition in Tuesday's election.—Atlanta Journal.

The Chicago man who tried to drop an inkwell on Jack Johnsons inch-and-a-half skull must have had a lot of inkwells to waste.

A gossip is a woman who tell all she knows—and then some.—x

The reason that hen fruit is such a popular diet is because the hen advertises her business and makes good on the advertisement. The rooster lays no eggs, not being built that way, but serves as a kind of auctioning booster for the family's business. He cackles just as loud as his better four thirds and lets the world know where Biddy's shop is located. The hen is too busy to knock on any other hen's business and the rooster is too much of a gentleman. Evangelist Ernest House, who is to conduct a Revival Meeting for the Central Christian Church as soon as the Methodist Meeting now in Progress Closes.

A Statement

Rev. House advertised his meeting to begin Nov. 15. This date was on his Posters. I announced on Sunday Nov. 3d. that a meeting would begin at the Methodist church on Nov. 10th. Intending to close before his meeting begun. On Nov. 8th, a telegram from Rev. House came changing his meeting to Nov. 10th. I was not responsible for the conflict between the two meetings.

I trust that there may be only cordial relations and brotherly feelings amongst the different churches in Portales.—Sincerely Seba Kirkpatrick, Pastor Methodist church.
