DRY FARMING CONGRESS THE SWEET POTATO CROP A CAR OF PROSPECTORS GENERAL BROOKS IS DEAD BIG POWER PLANT CLOSED CANTALOUPE SUCCESSFUL

International Dry-Farming Congress at Tulsa, Okla. Is a Great Success

PORTALES COPS FIRST PREMIUM

R. G. Bryant Returns from Tulsa and Brings With Him Many Ribbons

Mr. R. G. Bryant, who was appointed by Governor McDonald to represent this section at the International Dry Farming Congress and Soil Exposition at Tulsa, Oklahoma, has returned, covered all over with glory and, more than ever, saturated with the boosting spirit and bubbling over with enthusiasm.

Why not? Who could blame him? To be shown the honors that Bryant was shown, and to see and hear what he saw and heard, would make even a wooden man enshrine a little bit.

Mr. Bryant was wined and dined, was made a member of the executive committee of the International Dry Farming Congress. On this committee are representatives from all over the world. The committees pictures were taken and will be shown in the movies of the country. These are some of the honors that were heaped upon the Portales representative.

There was an average of six thousand people on the fair grounds every day, and multitudes of these were constantly around the booth where was displayed, most artistically, the products from this section. Hundreds of questions were asked and much information, orally and written, was given out. The value of this information to every section of this country, especially, can hardly be over estimated.

The first premium was awarded Roosevelt county for the best general display of dry farm products. This in competition with every section of the country. This was strictly a dry farming congress, hence we were not permitted to enter any irrigated products. Had we been allowed to do this, no doubt we would have carried away a large number of first premiums as we have everywhere else.

Mr. Bryant said: "If those who are dissatisfied with this section will get out and see other sections they will be perfectly satisfied here. One man near Windfield, Kansas, who was feeding a bunch of cattle, had to pay the rail road $75 per day for water. And the kind of water he got. People would stand around the booth and say; 'we have not had anything like this for four and eight years.' We have got that country skinned in a thousand ways."

There were representatives present at this congress from Turkey, Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, China, Roumania, Argentine, Germany, Canada, Mexico and other foreign countries. The next congress will be held in Wichita, Kansas, next October.

Miss Ida Reagan left Monday morning for Saline, Missouri, where she expects to visit with relatives for several months.

County superintendent S. F. Culbertson was in the Elida section looking after school interest.

Portales Valley Is the Greatest Sweet Potato Country in the World

THE STORAGE CAPACITY DOUBLED

The Big Storage House Has Been Enlarged to Take Care of Large Crop

The sweet potato crop has proven par excellence in the valley and Roosevelt county this season. Mr. Brown had to enlarge the potato house to the capacity of 12,000 bushels in order to take care of the crop. Of course not nearly all of the potatoes were stored in the house. Many sold most of their crop as soon as they dug. Others are trying to keep, more or less, of the crop themselves.

When placed in the house they are kept as sound as when first taken from the ground. A great number did not seem to understand that the potatoes should be put in the house as soon as they come from the ground, hence quite a few failed to get their potato crop stored because they waited for some time after digging and then Mr. Brown could not receive the potatoes.

Lyceum First Number

The first number of the lyceum course under the auspices of the Womens club was given Wednesday evening at the Cozy to a full and appreciative house.

Each member of the Woods Sisters Orchestra is a star. If this first entertainment is any evidence, and we are sure it is, of the character of the following numbers, those who miss these entertainments, or any one of them, will be a distinct loser. The Womens club is to be commended for the high class entertainers they have secured for this course.

Buy Our Maize

G. C. Miller, of Artesia, was here this week and bought five carloads of maize heads from some of our farmers. Mr. Miller said to the Herald man, "You certainly have a great country here. I have advised people to put their money in this land. It is the biggest money making proposition I know of. I have a lot of land in my section that I am running sheep on. I also own twenty-one acres of alfalfa. In two years time I expect to be making $20,000 per year from hogs off this tract. You can do equally as well here." "I have been buying a little maize. This time I get five cars. I expect to be back and I want all the maize your farmers have to sell."

Land Selling Campaign

The land selling campaign continues how widely the Portales country is becoming known. The Herald is receiving almost daily letters of inquiry and subscriptions from all sections of the United States. And during the past week the Portales Utilities Company have received letters of inquiry from parties in Oregon, Washington, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, California, Utah and New York.

Mrs. J. B. Nolan, of St. Louis, came in this week to look after her large financial interests here

Another Carload of People Intent upon buying Portales Valley Land

THE PORTALES VALLEY IN LIMELIGHT

Much Attention From East Is Being Given Our Valley At Present Time

The Portales Utilities company brought in another carload of prospectors Wednesday. These or at least most of them, came from Kansas. Mighty fine people in that state and we are powerful glad to welcome all who want to come here. Kansas is a great state and we would not for a moment think of casting any reflections upon it. But we feel sure that the Portales Valley of New Mexico is, at least, a little bit ahead of anything in Kansas. We have a proposition here that will bear the closest investigation, and we are pleased indeed to have these good citizens from the Sunflower State make the investigation. Welcome, thrice welcome, gentlemen.

Court Adjourned

District Court adjourned Saturday night until the 8th, day of December, at which time the many equity cases that were crowded out during the term that has just closed, will be heard. Aside from the court items given last week and from the many non-jury cases passed upon by Judge McClure, there were only two other cases tried, each of which were tried to a jury but which were decided by the presiding judge, upon peremptory instructions for the defendant, and these were Neils Curtis vs Dillon, and Neils Curtis vs J. P. Fulfer.

Judge McClure left Sunday for his home at Roswell, and on Monday morning opened the Chaves county regular term.

Creamery Meeting Successful

The first meeting held for the purpose of ascertained number of milk cows and number of farmers who would produce crops for a cannery was held successfully Saturday afternoon. A great deal of enthusiasm was shown by those present. Rev. Kuhl, of Gridley Illinois, was asked what, in his opinion, land in the Portales Valley is worth. He replied, "There is not an acre of it that is not worth $200. Fifteen years ago I paid $200 an acre for land up in the northwest that would not produce the general crops and the tonnage that this land will."

Do our local people realize what they have?

Asking About Portales

We wonder if our people realize how widely the Portales country is becoming known. The Herald is receiving almost daily letters of inquiry and subscriptions from all sections of the United States. And during the past week the Portales Utilities Company have received letters of inquiry from parties in Oregon, Washington, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, California, Utah and New York.

Adjutant General Brooks of New Mex. Natl. Guards Passed Away Wed.

VERY PROMINENT MILITARY FIGURE

N. L. King of Santa Fe Is Appointed by Governor to succeed deceased

Adjutant General A. S. Brooks, of the New Mexico National Guards, died of pneumonia at Santa Fe, on Wednesday morning at 7:30. General Brooks had also just been operated on for gall stones. The New Mexico National Guard has lost a splendid man, and a most excellent general; a man whose life was strictly military, and whose upmost thoughts were for military welfare of his men and companies. He was a graduate of West Point, having served a number of years in the regular army of the United States, and of course in his management of the New Mexico National Guards demanded that strictness of discipline that he was accustomed to, which but added to the military dignity of the guard, the perhaps added to the inconvenience of the enlisted men.

Governor McDonald has appointed Norman L. King, of Santa Fe, as acting adjutant general.

High Cost of Living

Much has been said about the high cost of living during the past few years. Many causes have been advanced and many schemes have been suggested for the alleviation of the situation. But, according to our way of thinking, one of the most practical schemes was suggested by one of our practical farmers this week. He said; "The high cost of living is really a boon to the farmer. He gets better prices to day for his products than ever before, and if he is a practical farmer, he very largely raises everything that he needs at home. I think this is the best solution of the problem of the high cost of living. I know it is for the farmer."

Country Improving

John W. Spear, one of the owners of the Spear ranch near Floyd, was a pleasant caller at the Herald office first of the week. Mr. Spear has resided in the Floyd community for the past twelve years and he states the country is in better shape than it has been in during the twelve years.

Said Mr. Spear, "Most of the farmers are doing well in our neighborhood. Most of them are selling cream and have made enough feed to do them. Floyd sells from $100 to $125 worth of cream every week. I am milking eight cows and I realize twice as much for all my feed by feeding to dairy cows, as I would to sell outright. I think next year a number of silos will be built in the Floyd country."

F. O. Gustofson, a prospector from Kansas, called at our office and subscribed for this paper. Mr. Gustofson said he found this Valley better than represented.

The Central Station Has Closed for Season. Run On Excursion Days

WINTER IRRIGATION IS ADVISED

Successful Year Just Closed Winter Irrigation This Year Means Much

The central irrigation plant closed its operating season November 1 with a successful run, there being an average of 3500 acres under irrigation during the season, and crop returns are the best in the history of the Valley. The sweet potato house will hold 12,000 bushels and is about full. This is mute evidence of the sweet potato crop.

There are still many tons of alfalfa being held in the county for higher prices. Farmers are getting from $16 to $18 per ton at Portales. Many are holding for $20 and they expect to get it. Over 1500 acres of alfalfa has been irrigated under the central power plant alone this year. Many more acres will be coming in during the winter.

Over 600 acres additional land has been purchased to be served by this power next year. It is expected there will be over 7,000 acres of irrigated land under water in the Portales Valley during the season of 1914. Power plant service during the 1913 season just ended shows a total loss of time for the season of thirty minutes. This total time lost was caused by interruption due to lightning and causes without the control of the power company. Service will be rendered all winter for winter irrigation. The plant is expected to run every two weeks for three to four days or such time as is required.

Nothing Better Than This

Judge W. E. Lindsey returned from Moberly, Missouri, Tuesday where he was called on legal business. The Judge also visited a brother at Columbia while away. We asked Mr. Lindsey if he found anything as good as the Portales Valley and he readily replied, "No I did not expect to find any country better than this."

It is just as well not to expect to find any country better than this, for "it can't be did."

Remodeling Texas Hotel

Joe Howard & Sons have carpenters at work overhauling the Texas Hotel this week. They expect to work it over from top to bottom according to Mr. Joe Howard and make it practically a new building. Well, it is a wise thing to keep up with the upward progress of things in and around here.

Got to Make Big Town

Miss Gilliam, proprietress of the Gilliam Millinery Emporium said to a Herald representative this week: "I certainly believe in the future of Portales and this section. Because of this I am here and expect to remain. Portales is just bound to make a real big place."

J. W. McCullough, of Allie, was here Wednesday and cashed up for the Herald. Thanks awfully.

The Returns Show that the Farmers This Year Netted Sum of $10,000

OVER THIRTY THOUSAND CRATES

Were Shipped From Portales the Past Season Larger Acreage in 1914

The Herald is glad to be able to give "facts and figures" on the production of cantaloupes this season. The total returns from cantaloupes to the growers this year was in the sum of $10,000. This is a splendid showing, especially when it is remembered that neither Association had sufficient acreage to economically administer its affairs. We invite comparison with other New Mexico districts as to the results obtained this year on cantaloupes. This was a bad cantaloupe year, the market having become glutted during the principal period of shipping; this glutting due to weather conditions which ripened all districts at one time.

The number of crates shipped were 17,950 flats: 7,245 standard. The average returns on all standard crates and jumbo crates, covering the earliest and latest shipments, were better than 55 cents a crate net to the grower F. O. B. Portales. Some growers made over $1.00 a crate, but that, of course, was not the average returns. This average includes the man who was careless, the man whose crop came in late and the man who was unfortunate in getting into cars that reached poor markets.

Squandering Time

Time is the most precious gift from God to man. It is a sin to squander it. Some one has said: "As a rule, indolent boy, goes to the bad. He may have all the elements necessary to make a first-class business or professional man; but if he is not instructed or encouraged to form habits of industry he will be a failure, almost inevitably. There is wisdom in the Jewish proverb, 'He who brings his son up without a trade, brings him up to be a thief.' Prison statistics show that a large proportion of convicts never learned a trade till they learned one in prison."

Prominent Stock Man Here

Justice of the peace L. E. Forbes, of the L. E. F. Stock Farm near Nobe, was in the city several days this week on business. Mr. Forbes is one of the most successful stock farmers of Roosevelt county, and perhaps ships more cream than any man in the state. He is milking at present about forty cows and expects to increase the number to sixty soon. He has recently built two silos and will build three more this winter. The five will have a capacity for five hundred tons of silage. Mr. Forbes expects to have stock sufficient to use all of the silage. He bought six mares while here. L. E. Forbes is certainly making good and is demonstrating what any man can do in this section who will really try.

HOW TO MAKE BUTTONS STAY ON IN THE WASH
 In the "Exchange" department of the Woman's Home Companion—a department devoted to household news—an Iowa woman tells, as follows, how to make buttons stay on in the wash:
 "At last I have found a way to prevent the laundress from tearing buttons from underwear. I button all garments up securely and turn them wrong side out and tell her not to turn them. They come clean as easily as before, and I haven't lost a button from the wringer since I tried it. This is an amicable adjustment of a long-standing source of friction."

RED LIGHT DISTRICT OF HAVANA WILL BE CLOSED UP

After an Existence of More Than a Century, Tenderloin Section of Cuban Capital Must Go.
 Havana, Oct. 25.—After an existence of more than a century, the "red light" district of Havana is to be broken up. The wave of public opinion that did away with the Barbary coast of San Francisco, the Haymarket of New York, and caused wholesale reforms in other cities, has stamped its disapproval upon the royal decree of Spain that legalized vice in the "Paris of the western hemisphere."
 This wave of moral reform goes hand in hand with political and commercial reforms the new administration is attempting. Whether it will prove successful is a matter of conjecture. But it is to be tried. Every phase of the "social evil" has been studied, every remedy discussed, and the administration has decided that the "district" that for decades has been one of the "sights" of Latin America must go out of existence.
 For several months a commission appointed by President Menocal has been studying the situation with a view of determining how to rid Havana of the "district" and at the same time minimize conditions that must necessarily follow its abolition. The commission reported in substance that the president send a message to congress asking for a reform of the penal law, grant a period of four months for the inmates of the "district" to disappear and to recognize the obligations which are in all municipalities under the organic law to safeguard the public from vice and to adopt all measures of social defense, but without establishing any tax on the traffic, create registries or establish "zones" in any manner or form.
 Acting upon the report, the president will turn the morality of the city over to the police department, which will take steps to clear the "districts" of their inmates and make other necessary arrangements pending some action by congress. It may follow that the "social evil" will become a leading factor in Cuban politics. It is conceded that President Menocal is acting conscientiously and working for better social conditions in the island.

FRISCO ISSUES NOTES TO PAY ITS DEBTS
 St. Louis, Oct. 27.—Walter H. Sanborn, United States circuit court judge, today filed in the federal district court here an order permitting the receivers of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad Co. to issue receivers' certificates to the extent of $10,000,000 for the payment of preferential claims. The certificates are to be secured by a first deed of trust on the properties of the railroad.

Portales vs. Roswell

What gave evidence last Saturday of being one of the fastest and most evenly matched games of the season was destined to be short-lived when with the score tied, early in the second half, a wrangle ensued and the Roswell team quit the field, forfeiting the game to Portales, 1 to 0.

It seems that the Roswell bunch were short on substitutes and after the second man was forced out of the game on account of injuries, there was no other man available with which to refill the position other than an uneligible man, contrary to agreement. Portales held out against the man and Roswell refused to continue the game. The argument began in the third quarter after four minutes of play. Until this time each team had scored a touchdown and goal, and were playing each other to a standstill. In fact, snappy ball. The game was void of the many enforced penalties and fumbles, which characterize all high school games, and with every man doing his best afforded many anxious moments for the loyal spectators.

The Portales team deserves much credit for their improvement since the last game, and the people should be awakened by the excellent showing they made against such a strong bunch, as the record of the Roswell team proves them to be. This game entitles the local boys to play Albuquerque for the state championship. McGary was easily the star of the game. Time and again he carried the ball for the needed distance when all others had failed. Captain Adylyott also put up a great game for the visitors.
 For Portales the honor is evenly divided between Terry and Doyle. The former proved to be the best grown gainer for the locals, hitting the first quarter after five minutes tumbled in breaking up and running interference. He and Captain Langston take honors in tackling.
 Portales scored their touchdown in the first quarter after five minutes of play. In the center of the field Roswell attempted a double pass for an end run when the quarterback fumbled the ball. Then Ball snatched up the piskin and with the whole opposing team at his heels reached fifty yards for a touchdown placing the ball between the goal posts. Ball kicked goal. Score Portales 7 Roswell 0.

Roswell scored in the second half after seven minutes of play. They were held for four downs on Portales' 15 yard line, when the ball was fumbled. I. Davis recovering McGary made 4 yards. Lowe called and McGary went over four yards for touchdown. Rowland kicked goal. Score Portales 7 Roswell 7.

SCARS

(By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS)

There is one thing certain about the man who has Scars, and that is that he has gone through some sort of a conflict. He was Doing something. Scars never come to people who sit still. Most Scars result from effort. Scars cost! The price is paid in Courage, Sacrifice, Unselfishness, Suffering.
 But Scars silently testify to the value of Character as no number of material medals or written words possibly could.
 Some bear Scars that no human being can see. Some carry around Scars that anyone could discern if they would. Who is it that can see the Scar left inside one's very Soul after a winning fight against some devastating Habit? Who is it that can measure the depth of the Scars interwoven about the lines and plans of a man's Face?
 Boast not at all, but take Pride in every honorable Scar that your Body and Character carry.
 A great Lawyer, whose name is known by the masses of America, went to a Photographer for some pictures. He sat in his office with a friend as the finished pictures were delivered to him. "Oh," he remarked on glancing at them, "see what they have done. They have taken all the Lines and Scars from my Face that it has taken me thirty years to put there!"
 Face the Fight today. Scars may come before the Nightfall, but each will mark a milestone in your career of worth.

THE NEW MEXICO EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION 28th ANNUAL MEETING.

U. S. Commissioner of Education, P. P. Claxton, the Principal Speaker.

The twenty-eighth annual convention of the New Mexico Educational Association will meet at Albuquerque, November 24-26. Last year nearly one thousand persons attended this convention and it is expected that this attendance will be exceeded by a good margin. The principal speaker, Hon. P. P. Claxton, who will visit New Mexico on official capacity for the first time, Mrs. Mary C. Bradford, State Superintendent of Public Instruction of Colorado, will give one of the main addresses. It is hoped, also that Professor Holden of Kansas State Agricultural College may be present. From the state, we will have, in addition to the leading educators, Governor W. C. McDonald, Secretary of State Antonio Lucero, Hon. Ralph E. Twitchell, president of the Board of Managers of the San Diego Exposition, Hon. Ralph Ely, President of the State Fair Association, Hon. Charles G. Ward, District Attorney of the Fourth Judicial District, and former Governor L. B. Prince, who will speak at the various general sectional meetings of the Association.
 As a special compliment to those attending the meetings the people of Albuquerque are furnishing a special entertainment at an expense of $500 or more. In every way possible, Albuquerque will give a welcome to the visitors. The Opera House will be used for general meetings, the Armory for the School Exhibit and the High School Building for section sessions.
 Sunday, November 23rd, will be known as "Education Sunday" or which occasions the Ministers of the different churches in Albuquerque and, it is hoped, throughout the state, will speak on topics along educational lines.
 General sessions of the Association will be held on Monday afternoon, Monday Evening, Tuesday Morning, Tuesday Evening, and Wednesday Morning, Monday Morning, Tuesday Afternoon, and Wednesday Afternoon will be devoted to meetings of the following sections: High School and College, Peace League, Elementary Schools, Indian Schools, Commercial Teachers, Science and Mathematics Teachers, Industrial Teachers, Music and Drawing teachers, School Patrons, School Boards, Librarians, and Institute Workers.
 In connection with the meeting there will, also, be held a State Oratorical Contest and State Spelling Match is also being arranged. The Exhibit will, it is believed, be the most notable ever held in New Mexico.
 The general topic of the session will be "Our Rural and Elementary Schools," and the discussions will be devoted largely to the problems arising in connection with the first eight grades of the school course. All who are interested in education—teachers in public, private and denominational schools, principals, superintendents, members of school boards, and parents are invited to attend this meeting. Railroad rates will be remarkably low, and it is expected that this meeting will prove to be the largest educational gathering ever held in the Southwest.

DEMONSTRATION TRAIN COMING

That the lectures, demonstrations and general work of the Santa Fe's "Educational Special," which is to be in Portales from 8 to 9:45 o'clock in the forenoon Thursday, November 13, will be of special worth to the people of this city and section, there cannot be a question of doubt.
 The equipment of the train consisting primarily of nine cars, will be loaded with special regard to their worth of their contents. Nothing has been placed in the train for the sake of simply making up the cargo, but each and every piece of the furniture and demonstrational apparatus has a meaning all its own.
 Standing in a class distinctive and alone, this "Educational Special" comes to Portales with a showing of of seasonable lectures never equaled in this section of the state. It is probable that nothing of exactly the same character has been offered by a railroad in the southwest. The chief charm of this train is that everything brought the people of Portales and surrounding country has the elements of freshness and at the same time of absolute dependability.
 To miss this train at its stop in Portales is to deny ourselves something of exceptional value. Both men and women will find an especial appeal in work to be shown. The home is to be given the same expert consideration as the farm operations, and this will prove quite attractive to the ladies of this country and community.
 It is to be hoped that the people of the community as a whole will turn out and show appreciation of the efforts that the Santa Fe is putting forth to bring to us without money and with out price. One of the strongest possible ways in which this interest may be evidenced, is by attendance at the meeting.

MRS. JONES BROTHER DEAD

Mrs. Mose Jones received a telegram Sunday conveying the sad intelligence of the death of her brother M. E. Powell at Florence, Colorado, at 7 o'clock that morning. The telegram did not state the cause of death. The news came as a sad shock to Mrs. Jones, who left Monday to be at the funeral.

SOCIETY

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Mrs. W. H. McDonald proved a very charming hostess when she entertained the Philathea and Baraca classes of the Methodist Sunday School. The decorations were in keeping with the season and were very artistically arranged. Black cat Jack-o-lanterns made the rooms extremely pretty. The usual high spirit and jollity which character all functions of this season will long be remembered. The guests were met by a witch who extended an icy hand. Fortunes were told after which the time was spent in games typical of the Hallowe'en season. The hostess was assisted by Mr. McDonald. Those who enjoyed the party were Misses: Marguerite Callaway, Gertrude Horney, Polly Monroe, Ruby Jackson, Hazelwood Moore, Georgia Ferguson, Enla Mae Terry, Hollies Mitchell, Mattie Bell Hawkins, Pearl Leach and Hollie Birdwell of Clovis, Messrs Guy Mitchell, Bealey Stewart, Cash Austin, Ed Patterson, Arthur Terry and Clyde Boucher.

P. H. S. ENTERTAINS

The high school girls and the Basketball Teams entertained Saturday evening at the Hightower home in honor of the Roswell football team which played against the Portales team Saturday afternoon. The Portales high school colors red and black and the Roswell colors, yellow and black, were used in the decorations. The black cat, yellow jack-o-lanterns, witches, etc., further carried out the color scheme. On entering the guests were received by a witch who offered them stew. They were then conducted to south room where a second witch told fortunes. After this, Rook and Hallowe'en pranks were enjoyed until a late hour when refreshments were served.

MRS BEEMAN HONO. ER.

Mrs. T. E. Mars delightfully entertained on Monday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. A. A. Beeman of Fort. There were three tables of forty. A very delicious two-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Nettie Chester. The guest list includes Mesdames Beeman, Puckett, Wyley, Molinari, Grof, Nixon, Williamson, Hall, Hightower, Wolforth, Jones, Harris.

On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Seay entertained at a Hallowe'en party in honor of their daughter Mourine. The children all came in spook attire and were taken ghost walking by Mr. Seay. On their return an old witch, who was Mrs. Harlan, told fortunes which were very clever and amusing. The usual Hallowe'en games were enjoyed and later refreshments consisting of sandwiches, individual pumpkin pie and fruit were served. About thirty girls and boys were present.

Lney Evelyn Tyson was a jolly little hostess to a number of her school mates on Friday afternoon celebrating Ghost Eve.

THE WITCHERY OF HALLOWE'EN

The witchery of Hallowe'en. We freely own its power. May each return still find us keen For folly's fleeting hour; And let the years steal what they may So that they spare each festive day From joys to which we're clung. 'Tis keeps this old world young. —C. T. Duvall

THE STORY OF HALLOWE'EN

Hallowe'en is a myth, that is it is founded on pure superstition. It is, so far as may be determined, the outcome of the narration of many myths of the druids and the superstitious people of the long, long ago. The anniversary night itself is taken in part from the festival of pomona which was celebrated by the druids and Romans at their season of apples and nuts. From this "nutcrack and snapple night" of the old Britons. Also, it was the time at which the ancient Druids held their autumn feast to the sun in thanksgiving for his harvest. On the eve of the festival, the Druids believed the Lord of Death called together out of their bondage the wicked souls that had for a year been condemned to dwell in the bodies of the animals; from this perhaps, spring the supernatural side of Hallowe'en.

Again these same old Druids—who you remember once inhabited England—at this celebration, built huge bonfires in honor of Baal and indulged in much feasting and many games around them.

According to Scottish superstitions Hallowe'en is the time when all wild evil spirits, fairies and imp-elves hold their annual carnival. The meet on that night to concoct mischief and having mapped out all the evil they will do in the coming year. Then fly away on broomsticks to torture and harry certain of their victims. But just before cock-crow they assemble again and make merry, dancing round and round with their backs to each other.

Our modern Hallowe'en and Hallowe'en beliefs are far ahead of the old ideas. Today it is all fun and frolic.

"Governor Sulzer might have done worse," said a Clovis standpatter of the G. O. P. variety, upon learning that he had joined the progressives. "He might have committed suicide or taken a job on a police beat."

WHAT EVERY ONE OUGHT TO KNOW ABOUT MUSIC

One Does not Have to be a Skilled Musician to Appreciate the Great Masterpieces Mrs. A. A. Rogers.

When Josh Billings said, "It's better not to know so many things than to know so many things that ain't so," he crystallized one of the greatest truths of all philosophy. I wish that he could be called back to squeeze into another sharp pointed little burr for the memory the fact that it is less important to know things than to know how to learn things, knowledge ought not to be that of us building a prison about the mind, but as tearing down old jails and letting the sunlight into dark places. Wisdom is not walls but wings.

Yet the eternal sin of scholarship is that it makes bigots, and the things that renders mysterious contemptible is that it becomes pedantry. It violates the artistic principle that nonimitation is the sincerest flattery and that what was done well yesterday is to be avoided today, not because any new master can improve on the old masters, but because they have said their say beautifully enough if we go to the old masters, not to the imitator of the despoiler, of a copyist, of a plagiarist.

Yet the world and the press are full of the writings of learned men who want the new to resemble the old in letter and not in spirit. They praise Beethoven because he shocked the professors of his time, and yet upbraided Richard Strauss because he shocked the professors of our time. They quote with loud ridicule the amazing attack made on Wagner as a writer of melodious discords and then use aim—exactly the same words in an attack on Debussy or Max Reger.

Keep your ears open for new harmonies and your heart open for new personalities. The harmonies may sound harsh at first, as our sweetest harmonies sounded harsh to older day and sound harsh to the Chinese today. The new personalities may seem erratic and crazy at first as Beethoven, Wagner, Montev and Glilick seemed in their day.

But keep your mind hospitable. If you read that so and so is stingy, or that he is rude to his friends, or that he is dissipated, or dresses to extravagantly or not extravagantly enough, do not be misled into confounding the artist with his work. It is pitiful that these things must be true but the Measlin, is no less great because Handel was an outrageous glutton. "Dan Glavauni" is no less wonderful because of Mozart's vagaries: "The creation" is no less majestic because Papa Hayden was an old pecker externally at war with his wife and the ninth Symphony is no less beautiful because Beethoven was an impossible curmudgeon who treated his friends like dogs.

On the other hand, the cheap, the empty, the teadady compositions whose names are now forgotten were no less great because their composers may have been far more scholarly far more gentlemanly, sometimes far more popular and prosperous than the great masters. A man's personal virtues and vices are for him to carry with him to another judgement than the artistic tributes of posterity. Let history and biography deal with workmanlike dealers with the work.

So remember that great music is being written today and will be tomorrow, so be ready for it with a welcoming mind. Despire nothing because it is new, nor yet because it is old judge every thing by itself, ask simply "Has it meaning?" What is it trying to say? How effectively how sincerely, with what novelty is it said?

Remember the greatest works ever written were once mere novelties whose obscure fathers trembled in anxiety. Remember that at the next concert you attend, your elbow neighbor may sneer or slumber at some work which will be glorious when he and you, and the sons of your sons are dust.

I am about to name some of the works which have been noted the laurel wreath year after year. No one of them is perfect. No one of them has escaped criticism yet no one of them is without mighty attractions. And once more let me insist that music is a great forest in which at every turn there is some flowers, vine, shrub or tree, some leaf, petal, branch, bole, tendril or bud that is perfect with beauty if only we have life and soul enough to pause over each.

The simplest way to divide the monumental works of music is to divide them according to their form, as operas, oratorios, symphonies and the like under the large classification of vocal and instrumental.

There is another classification possible but it has caused much ill feeling and more misunderstanding. Music may be divided into "absolute music" for its own sake. The choice of a theme or an idea and its treatment according to established musical forms or according to musical feelings. "Program music" may be said to be music with a set plot or program—music that tells or represents a scene. Thus most of the so-called overtures are program music such as Shurman's "Manfred" based on Byron's Poem; Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" Isechikowsky (Ishikowsky) "Romeo & Juliet," his tempestuous "1812," representing Napoleon's downfall at Moscow or Edgar Stillman Kelly's humorous symphony, "Gulliver" Scenes from nature are often suggested musically as in Beethoven's "Pastoral Symphony" Mendelssohn's "Tingal's Cave," Raff's "Forest Symphony" Paines, "Spring" etc. But it must be remembered as Beethoven wrote on his music it is less a painting than an expression of mood. And empty imitations of falling water grumbling thunder and twittering birds do not constitute program music. They may be program but they are not music.

In taking up instrumental music we might first take the piano, which though believed to be less expressive than the violin and other instruments, because less like the voice, is more universal and, above all is the only home instrument that is self supporting. The violin, cello, flute and even the voice sounds thin when they are alone. The piano is sufficient unto itself. The number of perfect works for the piano would rival the stars for any of the most exquisite being written by minor composers. We however have not the time to deal with the Milky Way. The pianets are more than enough.

John Sebastian Back wrote vastly for the piano and had immense influence on all subsequent music. It is not necessary however to be a hypocrite and pretend to prefer a Back fugue to a Chopin nocturne, for in the first place the Back fugue was not written for our piano but for an absolute little affair that was more like a mandoline in its sound.

Back's monumental piece mark is "The Well Tempered Clavier" made up of four compositions, preludes and fugues for each of the twelve keys, both in major and minor. It has immense historical and lectural value to the professional musician and includes many single compositions and number less passages which will appeal to the laity by their tenderness solemnly grace and wit, or by that peculiar and indescribable fecility of expression that keeps Back hale and hearty to this day.

A fugue it may be well to say is a composition in which a melody is chosen that may be accompanied by a perfect imitation of itself. It is hard to explain it with out using terms that have to be explained. Every body has sung "Three Blind Mice" or some other "round" in which different voices strike in with the same tune at different points. On such a principal of imitation is built up what is called a "canon" a fugue is a freer and more elaborate canonic structure. It is hard to define and harder to write and generally not worth the trouble it takes. There are jugglers who make you laugh and here might be jugglers who could make you weep, but they are jugglers still. So great men have written fugues, but to my thinking they have succeeded in spite of the form not because of it. For the orchestra, however as in Mozart's Jupiter Symphony and for the organ with its different instrumental colors as in many of Back's great organ fugues, there are cumulative and variegated effects which render the fugue, a noble form.

The popularity of the fugue gave way to the vague of the sonata, which is itself going. We often ask what a sonata is. It is a group of three or four some what related pieces. The first and last are built on a certain formula the other two are contrived to fit and may be a sad little elegy or a funeral march or same thing sombre and a lighter piece, as a minute, a rondo or a waltz. The formula which is strictly called the sonata form is easily explained. It is simply a close welding of two melodies, with an effort at variety of key and treatment. A melody is selected and played thru, then the key is changed and a second melody is played thru, then follows a so called development of these two melodies in many keys and as many moods and with a many embellishments or dissections as one pleases, then the first melody is played over again in its original key, the second melody is repeated, there are a few bars of conclusion and that is all. It is as logical and natural as anything could be. This is the first movement.

There usually follow as I have said, two different compositions one sad, one gay. Then there is the finale, much in the same form as the first movement and usually more brilliant. This group of four (sometimes three) movements is called a sonata. This is a form of great elasticity and great scope.

Sonatas have been written not only for the piano but for almost every other instrument in combination with it. An overture is only an orchestral work based on the same form as the first movement of a sonata. A concerto is a brilliant sonata for some instrument, as piano or violin, with orchestral accompaniment. A Symphony is simply a sonata for the full orchestra with the enlargements natural to the enlarged resources.

The father of the sonata" was Philip Emmanuel Bach, son of "the father of modern music." His compositions are more lyrical, therefore more modern than those of his father. Haydn developed the sonata from more completely and made such further use of it that he is called "the father of the string quartet and the symphony." If Haydn was through lyrical Mozart was more so. He had a singular gracious spirit it is shown in his fascinating melodies, he added nothing to the form.

It was Beethoven who reached the highest point in his field, and his piano is a far more dramatic, passionate and resourceful than any before him. He substituted the scherzo ("Joke") for the minuet, and some of the wittiest things ever said were said by him in the scherzos he put into his sonatas and symphonies. He took great liberties with the sonata and symphonic forms and in both stands supreme. His so-called "Moonlight" and "Appassionata"—sonatas for the piano are perhaps best known.

Since his time many composers have written sonatas. Even Chopin wrote that one in which he included his famous funeral march, as Beethoven had included in one of his own a "Funeral March on the Death of a Hero." Schumann, Brahms and others wrote sonatas, and among the few real contributions made by America to really important music are "Tragic" "Heroic" and "Celtic" sonatas of Edward MacDowell.

Sonatas have been written not only for the piano but for almost every other instrument in combination with it. About 1810 however, were born several composers who developed more romantic tendencies and let the mood shape the form rather than compress the mood into a rigid mold. Among these was Chopin, a gorgeous revolutionist, a gentle earthquake, who transformed all future piano music by his harmonic and melodic richness. It would be ridiculous to try to say which of his works are best, where almost all are best, nocturnes, ballads, valses, preludes, polonaises. He gave his dances passionate meaning and even his finger exercises or preludes are more important than the iceberg symphonies of some composers.

Robert Schumann also wrote with absolute novelty and individuality a multitude of piano works, hardly two of them alike in shape or spirit. Mendelssohn conceived his "song without words." Liszt developed unheard of skill and wrote his tremendous "Hungarian Rhapsodies" as well as great program symphonies and symphonic poem. The Norwegian Grieg gave local colors full play in many a gem of art and our own Mae Dowell and Loomis have written many artistic poems and musical back grounds for the piano.

The violin has a litature of its own ever since the time of Corelli, Italy 1653 the farther of the violin music thru such works as Tartini's "Devils Trill" Sonata which was inspired by a dream in which the Devil played for him with black magic and on thru such of Beethoven's theKreuzler Sonata to the uncanny words of Paganini and the inspired fabrics of Mendelssohn, Spohr, Sarasate and Brahms.

One of the most delightful fields is that of so-called chamber music written for a small string orchestra, usually a quartet. Human ingenuity has never been more gracious than in this form, which Hydan developed, Mozart improved, and Beethoven, Schubert and Brahms have revealed in. But as these pieces are known by ugly names like "C Sharp Minor," B Flat Major etc., they can hardly be catalogued here.

The full orchestra is used in the before mentioned overtures and symphonic poems (which are usually based on some story drama, or scene.) But the Symphony is the highest form of instrumental music. Here again Haydn is after his best known work being perhaps his surprise symphony with its sudden explosions of noise meant to keep the king awake and make the ladies jump. Mozart wrote 49 Symphonies of which 3 are still played, the Jupiter being most famous.

Like Shakespeare, Beethoven sound the depths of tragedy, reached the heights of joy and travelled the sunny levels of contentment. His 3rd Symphony "the Eroica" was written "to celebrate the memory of a great man" meaning Napoleon whom Beethoven thought of as already dead in 1804 because he betrayed the great cause of freedom.

GETS $3.33 CLAIM AFTER 113 YEARS

(El Paso Herald.) An echo of the "French spoliation claims," was heard in El Paso. Mrs. M. M. Riggs, of 1415 East Boulevard, has received a check for $3.33 from the government as her share for the capture, in 1798, of the sloop "Friendship," owned by Robert Patten. This ship was captured by the French in 1798, from its American commander.

About the same time the schooner "Orange" also fell into French hands. It, too, belonged to Patten, who is an ancestor of Mrs. Riggs.

In 1890 the French government reimbursed the United States for the capture of these ships and Patten's descendants have been fighting for their share of the reimbursement ever since. There were 26 claimants for the money, three of whom belong to Mrs. Riggs' family. Besides herself, they were her brother, William E. Frost, and her sister, Miss Sarah E. Frost, both of Topsham, Maine. Each received $133, which was one 78th of the entire amount claimed. Attorneys and other claimants received the balance.

We were just wondering whether the El Paso lady who recently received a check from the government in settlement of an old French claim of 1798, wouldn't return the principal and ask that they square it by simply paying the interest.

OFFICIAL NOTES

D. K. B. Sellers, Mayor of Albuquerque, was elected last week at Los Angeles, president of the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway Association.

Chaves county is opposing bitterly the raise made in the assessment of that county by the state board of equalization, and may take legal steps to enjoin.

England, Germany and other European countries have let the United States know they will refrain from taking any steps in defining a Mexican policy until the United States has itself acted in the matter.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 25.—At the same time that Joe E. Morrison forwarded to Washington his resignation as U. S. district attorney for Arizona, Charles Overlock, of Tucson, sent along his resignation as U. S. Marshal. Both were requested to resign in order that good Democrats could be appointed to the positions.

W. H. Andrews returned last week from Pittsburgh, where he has been for the last ten weeks making arrangements for financing the Carlsbad Oil & Gas Co., which will begin operations at once southeast of Carlsbad and in connection with the reorganization of the New Mexico Central and Albuquerque Eastern projects.

Santa Fe, N. M., Oct. 27.—Warden J. B. McManus and Mounted Police-fan J. A. Street, left yesterday for Concord, N. H., where as James A. Scott steps from the New Hampshire penitentiary a free man, having paid his debt to that state, he will be arrested by McManus and brought back to Santa Fe to finish out a term here about five years of which had not been served when Scott took French leave several years ago.

DO YOU WANT ONE. Dr. C. E. Lukens, superintendent of the Children's Home society, of Albuquerque, N. M., announces that he desires homes for ten bright boys and girls, ranging in age from five to 12 years.

Dr. Lukens says that the children are as good looking as are the average, that they are bright and healthy and will make ideal companions in any home. He wishes to place them immediately and anyone who wishes to give a home to one or more of the children should communicate with Dr. Lukens.

ARIZONA GETS OFFICE.

Washington, Oct. 25.—It is learned from an authoritative source that J. J. Keegan, a banker and capitalist of Phoenix, Ariz., has been recommended for collector of internal revenue for the district comprising New Mexico and Arizona, and that his appointment by the president will follow. It is understood that Mr. Keegan, if appointed, will remove the office from Santa Fe to Phoenix.

Manuel B. Otero, a Taft appointee, is at present serving as internal revenue collector of the two states named. The office has been maintained at Santa Fe for a number of years.

NEW DINING ROOM OPEN.

The first meal was served in the new dining room at the penitentiary recently. It is a great improvement over the old arrangement, when the meals were served in the corridors of the old cell house. The new dining hall is 50x150 feet, but two rooms at the east end are occupied by the kitchen and the bakery. The dining room proper is occupied by two rows of 16 foot tables, seating nine at a table. All seats face in the same direction. In other words, the men are not grouped around the tables but seated along only one side of each table. It is possible to add tables seating about 100 more, should occasion require. The present capacity seats about 300. The total number of prisoners is 370 but counting out the ones at the road camps, the warden and the cooks, all remaining eat at one time. The menu was made a special feature on account of the fact that it was the first meal in the new room, and pie was added to the delight of the diners. A phonograph concert and a short talk by Governor McDonald followed.

Misuse of Words

Every once in a while is an absurd meaningless expression. "Rendered them every assistance," is wrong. Every is separated, and can only be applied to a whole composed of many individuals. It is always singular in number.

Execute does not mean to put to death. The law is executed when the criminal is hanged or imprisoned. Expect (for purpose). Expect refers only to that which is to come, and which, therefore, is looked for. We cannot expect backward.

Female (for Woman). A vulgar misuse of English. From out (for from). "From out" the castle. Farther (further). Farther properly signifies distance, further degree or quality. "As he walked farther he saw they were further along with the work."

Future (for subsequent). "Her future life was virtuous and fortunate." First two. Often written and spoken, two first. Gent and Panta. "Let those words go together, like things they signify. The one always wear the other."

Gentleman, lady (for man, woman). The most important rule to observe is that where adjectives used the nouns must be man, woman—not a polite gentleman, or a lovely lady, but a polite man and a lovely woman.

The owners of the property as well as the inmates of the houses of prostitution in the City of Washington will be held responsible. So molite it be every where.

A girl in New York tried to commit suicide because she said "I was tired and lonesome." The Santa Fe New Mexican well says: "Every city is lonesome to the stranger within its gates. But in the desert of the city you are surrounded by human hyenas and you don't know what voice to trust."

The Way of the Transgressor

One needs but open his eyes and look about him to see the truth of the scriptural statement, "the way of the transgressor is hard," illustrated over and over. This fact has been reiterated times without number under your own observation in the lives of those about you. Yea, it has been burned, never to be effaced, into your own memory by your own short comings and aberrations.

The way way of the transgressor is stony. He meets with difficulties innumerable, and disappointments without number. He is beset with dangers on every hand, and the most dreadful penalties are meted out to him. The hardest life any man ever tried to live is a life of sin. The results of wickedness come upon a man in a thousand different ways. They are not summed up in one punishment, which may be endured once for all. The consciousness of wickedness follows a man all the days of the week and all the hours of the day, and comes up at the most unexpected times; it afflicts him with constant nightmare; every tap at the door may be the coming in of an officer of the law; every mail may bring the letter of his doom; everything that occurs is charged with a possibility of mischief.

The way of the transgressor is hard to himself, to others, to his family, to his friends, to society.

Had you been at the depot in Portales Tuesday morning you would have witnessed a sad, yet eloquent commentary on the Bible statement that "the way of the transgressor is hard."

A woman was there whose very appearance bespoke the deepest grief. With her were three little girls. They were on their way to see a father and husband who is "serving out a sentence in the state prison of New Mexico for transgression of the law. Two men middle age were there, careworn and haggard; a young man in the prime of life was there, shamed faced and dejected; a youth was there, with tear-stained eyes, fallen countenance and broken spirits. The three men were being conducted to the state penitentiary, while the boy was being taken to the state reformatory. All for the transgression of law.

'Tis true that the way to hell appears magnificent. The sharp edged rocks are cushioned with mosses. The over hanging prickly branches are studded with blossoms. Sin is captivating it is sweet at first; yea it pays, but its price is delusive for "the wages of sin is death." "At the last it biteth like an adder and stingeth like a serpent." "The way of the transgressor is hard," but the end is harder still. Could this youth, this young man, and, perhaps, these middle aged men, have seen the end from the beginning, could have but realized how hard was the life they were entering upon they in all probability, would have been arrested before the deed was committed.

Sin may appear sweet on the surface, but be assured there are bitter dregs in abundance at the bottom. This youth is said to come from one of our most respected families. But, like many another youth, it is said he wanted to have a good time, and took the reins in his own hands. He is reaping as he has sown. Our hearts go out in sympathy for him and for his family. The world seems to delight to wallow a fellow in the mud, but it will shout applause to the fellow who has the grit to arise and return the wallowing it in the mud. This youth can cause the world to sing his praises yet. May he do it.

SOCIETY

Ghost Party

One of the merriest of all the Hollowe'en parties was that which occurred on Friday evening when the "T.T." class of the Methodist church entertained at the home of Mrs. Sam Nixon. The house was very appropriately decorated for the occasion with moon stars and gruesome jack-o-lanterns. During the evening all the interesting Hollowe'en games were played, interspersed with delightful music. Refreshments were served carrying out the Hollowe'en suggestions in detail. Very pretty were the "old witch" hand painted place cards. At a late hour the guests departed conscious of an evening enjoyably spent.

BECK FOREST FARM

W. H. Beck, owner and proprietor of the Beck forest farm, was a pleasant caller at the Herald office Saturday. Mr. Beck said: "One week ago we gathered our last grapes and I tell you they were simply great; they were fine. About three weeks ago we gathered our last plums."

At was the writers pleasure to visit this splendid farm some time since, and after partaking heartily, as we usually do when the opportunity is afforded, of a good square meal, we were shown the farm. We can not recall having ever eaten juicier peaches, more luscious plums, or sweeter grapes. The "taste lingers."

This farm is six miles from Portales in the Blackwater draw where the water rises within ten feet of the surface. Hence it is not necessary to irrigate the fruit. Mr. Beck states he has never failed to grow peaches, plums, grapes and black currants. His apple orchard is just coming in bearing and he feels this crop will be as sure as the other fruit.

At the time the writer saw this farm the owner said, I will get $75 worth of grapes from my one fourth acre. I will realize at the rate of $400 to $500 per acre from my apples and plums. This is absolutely sure every year.

THE WAY WE RAISE 'EM

Just the plain, unadorned truth about this section and what can be done here, is enough. This will make those who do not know squint one eye and look kinder wise, and probably say, "that sounds fishy." But we want it distinctly understood that when you see it in the Herald you can bet your last dollar that is so. We can back every statement with unquestionable evidence.

What do you think of this pen nut that weighs a great big ounce grown right here in the Portales Valley? "Can't be did!" There is where you are mistaken bud. D. F. DeGuire was in this office Friday with the goods. We confess it completely took us off the Christmas tree. We have gotten so we expect big things to happen here, but "gubbers" that tip the scale at one ounce each was beyond our wildest expectations. Think of it, sixteen off these pennies make a big pound. Come to Portales.

The Temptation

to try just one more of our Looss-Wiles candies is irresistible, once they have been tasted. The smooth delicious flavor, the sense of complete satisfaction a sample discloses, make all tasters of our candies candy lovers.

Dobb's Confectionery

HAVE YOUR OWN HOUSEWIFE.

A woman who was to economical to subscribe for her home paper sent her little son to borrow the copy, taken by her neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a four dollar stand of bees and in ten minutes looked like a warty summer squash. His cries reached his father, who ran to his assistance, and, failing to notice a barbed wire fence, ran into it, breaking it down, cutting a handfull of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a five dollar pair of pants. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the corn field and killed herself eating corn. Hearing the racket the mother ran, upset a four gallon churn of rich cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the whole litter. In her hurry she dropped and broke past all hopes of mending, a twenty-five dollar set of false teeth. The baby left alone, crawled through the spilled cream and into the parlor, ruining a twenty dollar carpet. During the excitement the eldest daughter ran away with the hired man the dog broke up eleven setting hens, and the calves got out and chewed the tails off four fine shirts.

All to save fifty cents. Ex. WANTED—A friend who will recognize me when compelled to wear patched pants; who will take my hand when I am sliding down hill, instead of giving me a kick to hasten my descent; who will lend me a dollar with out two dollars security; who will come to me when I am sick who will pull off his coat when the odds are two to one; who will talk of me behind my back as he does to my face. Such a being is wanted by ten thousand human beings throughout the world. Ex.

DEMONSTRATION TRAIN AT ELIDA

Elida is to receive and be hostess city to the lecturers aboard the Santa Fe's "Educational Special" train which is to stop here between the hours of 10:45 and 12 o'clock, Thursday, November 12. This announcement means great deal to our people when it is known that the "Educational Special" sets a distinctive standard in demonstration trains. The equipment of this train has been arranged in such way as to facilitate the work to be accomplished thereon with the greatest saving of time. This was made necessary by reason of the restricted period available for this work. Each of the lecturers will press the most possible good into the time allotted to him, and the demonstrations will be of a practical nature. What the farm expert and demonstrator is to be the men, the domestic economy car with its lecturers will be to the women of Elida and this section. These ladies come with a message for our ladies and it is to be hoped that an attendance of unusual size will be shown during the stop of the train in Elida.

Eighth grade, Velma Curd.
Sixth grade, Walter Curd.

OUR NEW POLICY

The demand for extra copies of the Herald is very great these days and is increasing each week. We appreciate this and are printing extra copies to meet this demand, but this cost us quite a bit as we have been making no charges for the extra copies in the past. In the future, however we shall charge five cents per single copy or three copies for ten cents. We believe that our friends will appreciate this and will realize that we should not be expected to furnish goods that cost us money, gratis. This is not expected of any mercantile firm.

THANKS AWFULLY

A. S. Sportsman, of the Pleasant view community, was in town Saturday and drove around to Minister Shepard's residence and left a box of as fine apples as ever grew. This gentleman says now he and family will sit around a warm fire during the cold winter nights and, instead of chewing the rag, will chew apples. He further says "thanks awfully" to Mr. Sportsman.

REV. KUHL TALKS

Rev. Kuhl, of Gridley Illinois, was a pleasant caller at this office Saturday and expressed freely his opinion of the Portales Valley. Rev. Kuhl has traveled over most of Washington, Oregon, California and several of the northern states and he gives it as his opinion that this section is easily the equal of anything he has seen. He places the portales valley lands considerably ahead of the Illinois lands. And land there sells right along at from $100 per acre up to $200 and $300.

The criticisms which Henry Lane Wilson, former Ambassador to Mexico is making of President Wilson's policy are such as perhaps to cause many Americans to regret that our President can not avail himself of certain of the methods open to the Mexican ruler, such as placing non-supporters incommunicado or sending them abroad. Of course, Mr. Wilson, now being a plain citizen, praise be, has as much right as any other citizen to express his opinion, but it is never theless in bad taste for him to do so. Fortunately it is much less harmful for Mr. Wilson to criticize his Government in America than it would be to do so in Mexico. His present course only serves to demonstrate that he deserved recall, and thereby puts another feather in the cap of President Wilson. Nobody cares for the whine of those who have "lost out."

The "Red Light" must go. It is very doubtful if it is a "necessity" more today than twenty years ago, and we seldom here in the argument of the defense for the segregated district, statements that the necessity is more today. Even wicked old Havana, Cuba, is waking up to the fact that commercialized vice might be done away with and the city yet left standing—and even prosperous! It is not a child's problem, we readily admit, but it's a man's. It will be solved, even though slowly, in the interest of decency and morality. It is not going to come however in a year or a few. Remember that.

We don't know what Roswell is going to do to Joseph H. Toulouse, publisher of The Southwest Trade, a monthly journal of the state, published at Albuquerque when they see he has mixed his cut copy, and underneath the frontpiece which is a picture of a nice live Roswell irrigation ditch in the summer time, is the words: "Lovers' Lane, Roswell." If it were not for the evident mistake we should charge Brother Toulouse of supposing they were using gondolas in the Pecos Valley city.

The government prosecutors are making it pretty hard for the immoral flesh vendors under the Mann White Slave act. New Mexico has gotten two convictions.

STRICTLY SANITARY

That just about expresses it we guess. That new barber shop of Fred Crosby's. Neat as a pin, immaculately white. Thoroughly sanitary, strictly first class and up-to-date and down to the minute. Pith in a few more adjectives and you will have a fair idea of the aforesaid tonsorial parlor.

The new fixtures came in Saturday and while we are quite sure Fred did not work on Sunday, yet some how and in some way, early Monday morning he had the three new chairs, the bath tubs, the great big mirror, in fact most every thing in apple pie order, whatever that may mean. Crosby is determined to keep up with Portales city airs.

STILL THEY COME

Monday W. T. and E. B. Brown, of Van Buren Arkansas came in with their families and a car load of household goods and will make this their future home. These gentlemen bought some of our choicest land in July and are moving to it.

Mr. W. T. Brown said: "We are real glad to get here. We believe this is the coming country. There is going to be a lot of people come to this valley from Arkansas and Texas. It will certainly be the wise thing for these people to do."
