A BOOSTERS PLEDGE.

On my word and honor. I hereby now declare that as long as I am a resident of this community, it will be my constant aim to boost all the time and every time.

I will do what I can for any public work that has the good of the community as its object.

I will submit to and abide by majority rule and will not knock and howl my head off if things are not done my way.

I will take no radical or extreme position on any question before the people, and will have due respect for the opinions of my friends and neighpors when their opinions are opposed

I will try to always say some thing good about my town and my people, or I'll keep my bazoo shut, and 'cut it out' like a man.

I realize that if this community is good enough to live in and make my money in, it is the proper place to spend my money in, especially when am patronizing legitimate home industries.

I will do all within my power to foster, promote, build up and support every legitimate industry or en terprise in my home town.

Contrary to the opinion of some Sudan grass seed will be scarce this season. The acreage is yet small and his year the demand for seed, due to its increasing popularity, will be nuch greater than the supply.

The reports from the Eastern states tend to establish the fact that Sudan grass will make equally as arge tonnage of hay as in the West orn section, but the Eastern section nust depend on the West for seed. HOGS AND SKIMMED MILK

-Jua Sonstegard King

A combination hard to best from a noneyed standpoint, is hoge and alfalfa, for the arrigated section of Rooserelt county. This is a tried and proven auccess.

There is another combination that appears to be equally as sure of success for the unirrigable portions of the county. That is, hogs and skimmed milk. A large number of the farmers of this county have mest sufficient for nome consumption and some to sell, because they milked cows, sold cream and had akimmed milk which made it possible for them to keep a few hogs until feed was harvested this fall. Several of these lucky fellows have been selling fresh pork in Portales reently. A. G. Blakey, of the Causey community, is one of these men. He cept several fine swine principally off kimmed milk until he gathered his sed in the fall. Last Saturday be wan sere enquiring for a buyer for one or two 300 pound porkers. J. Frank Joyce, of the Joyce-Prais Co was here looking after business matters last week and was very optimistle regarding conditions here. "Our business is the most satisfactory it has ever been since we established here almost five years ago," sald Mr. Joyce.

"I an glad to see the great increase in the number of catale and hogs in this country." "I hope the time will soon are much greater when it is fed and the cattle and hogs shipped 'in the stead,' raisers, and egg producers, which is true. Growth in Exports Bound to Have Much Practical Advantage to the Country.

American exports of foodstuffs in September were nearly $69,000,000 and practically doubled the value of such exports in the same month last year. American exports for the three months ending with September were the largest ever made in the same months.

No one should rest in the delusion that this is all gain. A world-wide war is a world-wide loss. FANCY CAPS POPULAR AS CHRISTMAS GIFTS of red also.

CANCY caps, of many kinds, are I among the gifts that may be relied upon to please those who receive them. This year they are shown made for the dancing party, for theater wear, for skating, and, in greater numbers still, for breakfast and bedroom wear, They employ a great variety of materials, the choice depending upon the purpose that the cap is to serve. A pretty evening cap, shown in the picture, is made of silk and bound with silver braid. A fan of silver gauze at the side is an unusual ornament, poised like a butterfly near the face of the wearer, where two tassels of silver tineel are suspended. Such a headdress need not be removed at the theater or dance and adds a charming touch of brilliance to the dress.

Bed slippers of eiderdown finished and tied with ribbons are very comfortable for little ones who are apt to kick off bedclothes in cold weather. They are among the most easily made of gifts. Shoes and bootees, for little infants' daily wear, are also made of this material which is so well suited for a baby's garments. Other articles are short sacks, hoods and blankets for the baby's carriage. The last are decorated with big bows of wide, handsome ratin ribbon.

TOYS MADE IN THE HOME WORKSHOP

THERE are some toys that can be made at home for the smaller children and they are among those that are most durable and most cherished. Among them are Teddy bears, dogs, elephants, rabbits and kittens made of canton fiannel or plush. Rag dolls, printed on strong muslin, can be bought ready to be cut out and made at home. The animals are cut by patterns to be had at pattern companies and are stuffed with sawdust. Small buttons or beads make their eyes and heavy yarns are employed in outlining the mouth or nose or other details.

A small white dog shown in the pic-ture illustrates how well these toys look. He is furnished with eyes made of little black buttons and ears cut from black cloth. A ribbon carrying a tiny bell is sewed about his neck and he is bedecked with a narrow band of red ribbon about his body, tied in a bow at the side.

A clown doll is shown with the head made of ribbed goods like a st top. The body is made of blue cambrie Domin be for a number of years a demand for food products that has not been experienced in the memory of the present generation. Everyone regrets the horrible war that has brought this about. Its effects are felt not only in Europe, but in every part of the American continent. Many lines of business have been hurt, but only temporarily it is hoped. Financial stringency is being talked of. There is a way of overcoming these things; and Western Canada offers the solution in its immense agricultural area, when the possibility of retrieving losses, making assured gains, and at the same time becoming a factor in providing the world with the one great requisite-wheat-is so pronounced that it cannot be overlooked. There are several ways in which excellent farming lands can be secured in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, and also British Columbia.

In the first place the offer of the Dominion Government of 160 acres of land free to the settler is something not given by any other country. Conditions of settlement are easy. Live upon the land six months in each year, for a period of three years, cultivate about thirty acres, and erect a habitable house. Instead of cultivation, the keeping of a certain number of head of cattle will carry with it the same value. Many of these homesteads may be had in the open prairie area, where every acre can be put under cultivation, but to the man with limited means, in the park area, lying north of the central portion of three of the provinces named, there is afforded the best chance. In this park country are beautiful groves of poplar and sufficient open area to enable one to go into immediate cultivation for crops of wheat, oats, barley and flax, any one of which does wonderfully well, giving prolific yields. In due time when more land is required for cultivation, these groves may be cut Two colored soldiers at a frontier down at small cost. In shape they resemble a horseshoe with the two extremities flattened out like a camel's foot. Being made of solid copper, three-eighths of an inch thick, they weigh over eight ounces each. In "face value" seven of these queer coins are equivalent to one quarter, so that a dollar's worth would be an uncomfortable, heavy load. Not only are these "manillas" used among the natives, but white traders accept them as legal tender for goods sold at the various stores. At one time the strangely shaped money had quite a circulation in certain parts of the coast, but its use is now restricted to a few bush towns and one or two of the smaller seaboard places, including Bonny, Brass and Akassa. "Manillas" are now very difficult to obtain, and curio collectors value them not solely by reason of their scarcity, but because of the novel serviette rings they make when silver plated.

Zip Bledsoe says that just about the time he begins to think well of the human rare, he hears a popular song.

White we are talking and writing a great deal and expending a great deal of thought on the subject of school sardening, and the promotion of kindred sotivities which lead children to take an interest in the soil and the possibilities of its cultivation, it would be just as well for us not to overlook the importance of this same subject of the soil and its products to that class of city grownups who have the ground or can get the ground for the cultivation of a kitchen garden.

A Chicago boy carried away a model accopiance prize with a machine which had curved wings like a letter U. They gave his model a stability which carried it beyond all rivals, and a professional aviator who witnessed the exhibition declared that the lad had discovered a principle which would undoubtedly be adopted by the builders of aeroplanes. After the boys have been experimenting a few more years it is possible that we shall have a really safe flying machine.

One little German town alone does an annual business in toys aggregating $4,000,000 in value. Amusing the little ones is more of a serious business enterprise than many think. In fact, it ranks among the trades of vast proportions. And it is safe to say that Its products give more solid satisfaction in the world than those of most any other manufacture.

The dogs on the various polar expeditions are highly praised for their work, zeal and fidelity. And as a reward for this devotion their masters. killed and ate them. No wonder the animal creation has such a poor opinon of humanity.

A woman will brag on her hand-painted china, and resent any inti-mation that her complexion is due to the same artful process.

Remember the neutrality proclama-tion, and don't put too much English on a billiard ball.

The hardest thing for a country boy to believe is that town men may have no chores to do.

Confessions of a Mail Order Man

By Mr. M. O. X.

plations by One Whose Experience is Business Covers a Eange From Office Boy to General Tanager

(This is the first of a series of articles exposing the methods for obtaining the people's money resorted to by the writer while in the employ of various mail order houses. They are the "confessions" of a man who was in the mail order business for many years and the revelations he makes are startling. For reasons of a business nature the writer withholds his name, but he is known to most of the big concerns as a capable and clever manager, and he knows whereof he speaks. To those who read these "confessions" he will be known merely as Mr. M. O. X.]

The man who can make good in mail order game practically can name

Who pays the salary? Why, you to, of course.

Probably ninety out of every one hundred readers of this newspaper have sent money to a big mail order house after reading one of my bright and optimistic catalogue descriptions or after receiving one of my carefully written form letters beginning with "Dear Friend."

Dear Friend-of course you have been a dear friend. You have paid my salary without a whimper, you have built up for various big conce which have become wealthy through your orders (containing cash) magnifloent buildings. You have bought automobiles, bonds, stock, real estate, slegant homes, trips all over the world, oceans of champagne, and everything else that the most exacting person could mention. You have done all this by sending your orders (with the money) to the big mail order houses.

I know this, and you will believe that I do know it after you have read what I am writing-my "Confessions of a Mail Order Man."

My work has covered the whole United States. For many years I have written catalogue descriptions, handled the making of the not-alwayshonest filustrations, as you know to your cost and chagrin; written attractively worded letters urging you to send your orders (with the cash); gone into the market to buy merchandise with your money, which you kindly sent in advance, and, in fact I have gone through the entire mill, from office boy to general executive, and have a modest block of stock upon which you are paying me dividends right now, and which you will continue to make very profitable for me for the rest of my life, unless you wake up and quit sending orders (with the cash) to the mail order concern which issued the stock.

No, you won't stop sending your money to the big mail order houses for several years to come. Some of you will stop, when you begin to realize how you are opposing your own local prosperity and interfering with your own prospects, but enough of you will keep on sending your money to the big cities, so that I will never know the difference.

Besides this, if I see that you do begin to realize just what you are doing against your own town and your own friends and associates in business, and if I think the country is waking up to a realization of the utter foolishness of cutting your own throats by patronizing out-of-town concerns, then I shall sell my stock. I can get a big premium for it. Thereis enough of it to insure me from ever being troubled about money affairs again. You have seen to that. So in the classic words of the modern Aristotle, "I should worry."

In an attempt to analyze my own sions" and exposing the whole mail order game, and showing how foolish it is for the people in the small tewns to continue to stultify their own prosperity by sending their cash away, I am puzzled. Frankly and epenly I must admit that I cannot answer this question even to myself.

I have no kick coming. I have been well treated. I have been well maid. I am prosperous Perhaps after all these years I have discovered a conscience.

HOW LOCAL BUSINESS IS HURT.

To confess a fault, or a wrong, frankly and without reservation, is at least an indication of a wish to

The confessions that I am about to make here, unreservedly and without evasion, are prompted only by my desire to show to the people in the smaller cities and towns of America the absolute folly and unwisdom of the policy of supporting big mail order establishments, at the expense and absolute loss of the hard-working iocal business men who are don't their best to build up their own conmunities; all of which work benefits and adds to the prosperity of every resident of the home town; at the same time adding most materially to the value of every foot of real estate in the community.

Of the ninety-odd millions of souls and bodies that inhabit these United States of America a very large proportion live in the country and in small towns and villages.

These people are the producers. They raise the grains and foodstuffs and the wool and the meat, hides, etc. Those who live in the big cities are practically all dependent upon the afforts of those who live in the counfry, and in the small towns. They do not produce anything in comparison with the work of those who wrest from the soil the bountiful offerings of Nature. It is the work of those who lives in the cities to figure out how they can obtain that which is produced by the country people—how they can juggle the values of this product—how much money they can make out of it, etc. They do not produce anything. They are the parasites. Without the country people there would be no cities. There would be no occasion for cities because there would be nothing to support them. So it is the plan of the universe, as laid down by our rules and laws, that a certain big proportion of the people shall toll and spin while the smaller shall toll and spin while the smaller proportion shall exact the greater part of that which is produced by the tollers and make a profit sufficient to enable them to live in luxury while the tollers toll on continuously.

It is not the toilers and spinners who take the trips to Europe. It is not the tollers and spinners who get up in the morning at nine o'clock and Everybody who reads imagazines buys nove-papers, but everybody who spend their evenings at the theaters, cafes and cabarets, drinking wine and playing cards.

The tollers and spinners get out of bed when the family alarm clock out in the hen-house tells them day is breaking. They have no time for the theater or the cafe or the cabaret. It's a case of "hustle" all the time. It is vital that every working hour in the day shall be utilized in order to "produce" that which the scheme of our life in the present day provides must be produced to keep the whole machinery of civilization in motion What would happen to the people in the cities if this whole scheme should become disarranged-if there did not arrive in the cities, on schedule time every day, the train loans of castle, grain, milk and all sorts of country produce. And the mail bags, filled with orders for the mail order houses.

What would happen? There would not long remain any citizens because they would starye, these parasites, if the source of supplies should be cut

And all of these supplies come from the country, from the people in this community. You do your full share toward supplying the cities. Especially do you send your share of the orders for the mail order houses, with the cash.

There is a strange partnership between the people of the country and the people of the city, a partnership which, carefully analyzed, shows the following working agreement: The country people shall delve and dig and toll and then hasten to ship their product to the city partner, who takes possession and disposes of the same to the best post ble advantage (to himself). He then hands out to the country partner, begrudgingly and frequently only in case of a suit at law, a small part of the proceeds Then you, the country partner, send this pittance back to the city, to the mail order house with an order.

Such is the result of a bald and unvarnished analysis of the partnership between farm and city, after applying the acid test.

Individual exceptions do not change or alter the general rule. You have citizens whose prosperity and affinence eloquently refute the foregoing statements but ordinarily you will discover that these prosperous men who are the exception to the rule are likened in character and motive to the old "tories" of Revolutionary days. They will be found to be affiliated in some manner, not to the general interests of the community, with the financial wolves of the big cities.

And it is such "tories" that help to insure a continuance of the conditions in the country towns and vil-

King Cotton has suffered more from the European war than any other agricultural product on the American continent. The shells of the belliger eats have bursted over his throne, frightening his subjects and shattering his markets, and, panic-stricken, the nation ories out "God save the

People from every walk of life have contributed their mite toward rescue work. Society has danced before the king; milady has decreed that the family wardrobe shall contain only cotton goods; the press has plead with the public to "buy a bale"; bankers have been formulating holding plans; congress and legislative bodies have deliberated over relief measures: statesmen and writers have grown eloquent expounding the inalienable rights of "His Majesty" and presenting schemes for preserving the financial integrity of the stricken staple, but the sword of Eu rope has proved mightier than the pen of America in fixing value upon this product of the sunny south. Prices have been bayoneted, values riddled and markets decimated by the battling hosts of the eastern hemisphere until the American farmer has suffered a war loss of $400,000,000, and a bale of cotton brave enough to enter a European port must pay a ransom of half its value or go to prison until the war is over.

Hope of the Future Lies in Co-opera

The Farmers' Union, through the columns of the press, wants to thank the American people for the friendship, sympathy and assistance given the cotton farmers in the hour of dis trees and to direct attention to cooperative methods necessary to permanently assist the marketing of all farm products. The present emergency presents as grave a situation as ever confronted the American farmer and from the viewpoint of the producer, would seem to justify extraordinary relief measures, even to the point of bending the constitution and straining business rules in order to lift a portion of the burden off the backs of the farmer, for unless something is done to check the cotton fields, the pathway of the European pestilence on this continent will be strewn with mortgaged homes and famine and poverty will stalk over the southland, filling the highways of industry with refugees and the bank

All calamities teach us lessons and the present crisis serves to iRuminate the fralities of our marketing methods and the weakness of our credit system, and out of the financial anguleh and travail of the cotton farmer will come a volume of discussion and a mass of suggestions and finally a solution of this, the biggest problem in the economic life of America, if, indeed, we have not already laid the

"Till an hour gone it had not oc-curred to me. Shall Ramabai, then, come your master, to set forth the propaganda of the infidel?

No!" The word was not spoken loudly, but sibilantly, with something resembling a hiss. "No!"

"And shall a king who has no mind, no will, no strength, resume his authority? Perhaps to bring more white people into Allaha, perhaps to give Al-laha eventually to the British raj?" Again the negative.

"Ah!" And Umballs smiled again "But you, Durga Ram?" "There is Ramabai, a senile king, and I. Which for your purposes will you choose?"

There was a conference. The priests drifted away from Umballa. He did not stir. His mien was proud and haughty, but for all that his knees shook and his heart thundered. He understood that it was to be all or nothing, no middle course, no half methods. He waited, wetting his cracked lips and swollen lips. When the priests returned to him, their heads bent before him a little. It represented a salaam as much as they had ever given to the king him-

And Umballa smiled in secret. Ra-

The chief priest stared soberly at the lamp above his head. The king would be, then, Umballa's affair.

The curtains were thrust aside, and the painted dancing girl who had saved Umballa from death or capture in the fire of his own contriving rushed in. Her black hair was studded with turquoise, a necklace of amber gleamed like gold around her neck and on her arms and ankles a plenttude of silver bracelets and anklets. With her back to the curtains, the young priest staring curiously over her shoulders, she presented a piccuresque tableau.

"Well?" said Umballa, who understood that she was here from no idle

"Or die," coolly

Umballa sprang forward and seized her roughly.

What has happened?"

"I was in the zenana, highness, visiting my sister, whom you had transferred from the palace. All at once we heard shouting and trampling of feet, an a moment later your house was overrun with men. They had found the king in the hut and had taken him to the palace. That they did not find you is because you came here."

"Tell me all."

> "Go on!" he said, his voice subdued as was his soul.

"The white goddess by mistake took Ramabai's goblet and was about to drink when the majordomo seized the goblet and drained the poison himself. He confessed everything, where the king was, where you were. They are again hunting through the city for you. For the present you must hide with "The white woman must die," said Umballa, in a voice like one being strangled.

To this the priests agreed without hesitation. This white woman whom the people were calling a goddess was a deadly menace to that scepter of theirs, superstition.

"What has gone is a pact?"

"A pact, Durga Ram," said the chief priest. With Ramabal spreading Christianity, the abhorred creed which gave people liberty of person and thought, the future of his own religion stood in imminent danger. "A pact," he reflected. "To you, Durga Ram, the throne; to us half the treasury and all the ancient rites of our creed restored.

Umballa followed the dancing girl into the square before the temple. He and some young chap would soon come turned and smiled ironically. The and claim Winnie, and he would have bald fools! "Lead on, thou flower of the jas-

But the priests smiled, too, for Durga Ram should always be more in their power than they in his. There was tremendous excitement in the city the next morning. It to mourn Lal Singh. seemed that the city would never be permitted to resume itr old careless indolence. Swift as the wind the news flew that the old king was alive, that he had been held prisoner all these months by Durga Ram and the now deposed Council of Three. No more the old rut of dullness. Never had they known such fetes. Since the arhad passed without some thrilling exing but shouts.

So they desert markets that morning to witness the most surprising spectacle of all: the king who was dead was not dead, but alive!

So, in the throne room, later, he gave the power to Ramabai to act in his stead till he had fully recovered from his terrible hardships. More than this, he declared that Pundita. the wife of Ramabai, should ultimate ly rule! for of a truth the principality was lawfully hers. He would make his will at once, but in order that this

They had to wait two days till his mind cleared again. His first upon his return to his balance was directed to Kathlyn. Where was the document he had given to his friend Hare? Kathlyn explained that Umballa had taken it from her.

"But, your majesty," exclaimed the colonel rather impatiently, "what difference does it make? Your return has nullified that document."

"Not in case of my death. And Allaha the elder document is always gle. The king lay dead upon the floor, the legal document, unless it is legally destroyed. It is not well to antagonize the priests, who hold us firmly to this law. I might make a will in favor of Pundita, but it would not legally hold in justice if all previous wills were not legally destroyed. You must find this document."

"Did you ever hear of a law to equal that?" asked Bruce of the colonel.

"No, my boy, I never did. It would mean a good deal of red tape for a man who changed his mind frequently. He could not fool his relations; they would know. The laws of the dark peoples have always amazed me, because if you dig deep enough into them you are likely to find common sense at the bottom. We must search Umballa's house " oroughly. "I wish to see Ramabai and Pundita in the shadow of their rights. Can't destroy a document off-hand and make a new one without legally destroying the first. Well, let us be getting back to the bungalow. We'll talk it over

At the bungalow everything was systematically being prepared for the homeward journey. The laughter and chatter of the two girls was music to their father's ears. And sometimes he intercepted secret glances between Bruce and Kathlyn. Youth, youth; youth and love! Well, so it was. He himself had been a youth, had leved and been loved. But he grew very lonely at the thought of Kathlyn eventually going into another home no one but Ahmed. If only he had had a boy, to bring his bride to his father's

Bruce's camp was, of course, in utter ruin. They found the much-sought decument in the secret chamber in Umballa's house (just as he intended they should); and the king had it legally destroyed and wrote a new will, wherewhich the king's ancestors had taken

After that there was nothing for Colonel Hare to do but proceed to ship to Colonel Hare, warning him to fly at his animals to the railroad, thence to the ports where he could dispose of them. Never should he enter this part Superstition thus won what honor, of India again. Life was too short.

High and low they hunted Umballa. but without seccess. He was hidden well. They were, however, assured that he lingered in the city and was sinisterly alive.

Day after day the king grew stronger mentally and physically. Many of the reforms, suggested by Ramabai were put into force. Quiet at length really settled down upon the city. They be gan to believe that Umballa had fled the city, and vigilance correspondingly relaxed.

The king had a private chamber, the window of which overlooked the garden of brides. There, with his sherbets and water pipe he resumed his Persian, for he was a scholar. On the morning after the tragic death of the old king, those who went early to worship, to propitiate the gods to deal kindly with them during the and gates of all the temples closed! Nor was any priest visible in his usual there could be but one interpretation him to limp a little. So Bruce was to this act on the part of the gurus: the gods had denied the people. Why? Wherefore? Twenty-four hours passed without their learning the cause; the Winnie rode Rajah. He was such a priests desired to fill them with terror before they struck.

But the messenger tore up the note and flew to his favorite temple. truth and generosity could not hold.

Allaha surrendered; and Umballa came forth.

All this happened so quickly that not even a rumor of it reached the colonel's bungalow till it was too late. They were to have left on the morrow. The king dead, only a few minor technicalities stood in the way of Ramabai and Pundita.

Bruce and Kathlyn were fencing one with the other, after the manner of lovers, when Winnie, her eyes wide with fright, burst in upon them with the news that Umballa, at the head of many soldiers, was approaching. The priest explained what had happened. The Colonel Sahib, his friend Bruce Sahib and his youngest daughter would be permitted to depart in peace; but Kathlyn Memsahib must wed Durga Ram. When the dazed colonel produced the document which had been legally canceled, Umballa laughed and declared that he himself had forged that particular document, that the true, which he held, was not legally destroyed.

Burning with the thought of revenge, of reprisal, how could Durga Ram know that he thus dug his own pit? Had he let them go he would have eventually been crowned, as sure ly as now his path led straight to the treadmill.

Ahmed alone escaped, because Umballa had in his triumph forgotten

In the zenana of the royal palace there was a woman, tall, lithe, skin of ivory and roses and eyes a brown as the husk of a water chestnu On her bare ankles were gem-in crusted anklets, on her arms bracelets of hammered gold, round her neck a rope of pearls and emeralds and rubles and sapphires. And still she was not happy. From time to time her fingers strained at the roots of her glossy black hair and the whites of her great eyes glistened. She bit her lips to keep back the sobs crowding in her throat. She pressed her hands to gether so tightly that the little knuckles cracked aid or suggest it, why must we be troubled with remorse? More than this, why must we battle against silly impulse to tell the first we meet what we have done? Remorse: what is it? time to come, what Now, this woman of the zenana believed not in the God of your fathers and mine. She was a pagan; her heaven and hell were ruled by a thousand gods, and her temples were filled with their images. Yet this thing remorse, was stabbling her with its hot needles, till no torture devised by man could equal it.

She was the poor, foolish woman who loved Durga Ram; loved him as these wild Asiatic women love, from murder to the poisoned cup. Loved him, and knew that he loved her not, deserted palanquin, and proceeded to but used her for his own selfish ends. There you have it. Had he loved her, remorse never would have lifted its head or raised its voice. And again, was cold-blooded murder, and back of had not Umballa sought the white it stood the infernal ingenuity of one woman, this butterfly of the harem might have died of old age without unburdening her soul. Remorse is the result of a crime committed uselessly. Humanity is unchangeable, for all its variety of skins.

And here was this woman, wanting to tell some one! Umballa had done a peculiar thing: he had not laid hand upon either Raday, were astounded to find the doors maba! or Pundita. When asked the reason for this generosity toward a man who but recently put a price on haunts. The people were stunned. For his head, Umballa smiled and explained that Ramabal was not only it is made 60 to 70 fee broken politically, but was a religious the necessity for a resi outcast. The R white people to leave the country and self have an attr given a silken cord to the chief eunuch to apply as directed. There are no written laws among the dark peoples that forbids the disposal of that chattel known as a woman of the harem, or zenana. There are certain cuetoms that even the all powerful British rai must ignore. The catafalque of the dead king rested upon the royal platform. Two troopers stood below; otherwise the platform was deserted. When Ramabai and Pundita arrived and mounted the platform to pay their last respects to a kindly man, the soldiers saluted gravely, even sorrowfully. Ramabal, for his courage, his honesty and justice, was their man; but they no longer dared serve him, since it would be at the expense of their own lives.

"My lord!" whispered Pundita, pressing Ramabai's band. "Courage!" For Pundita understood the man at her side. Had he been honorless, she would this day be wearing a crown. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

Campaigning in Kentucky means a variety of experiences. Representative Stanley is authority for this statement. When he was stumping the state not long ago Stanley was pointing out the manifold uses of steel and iron in American industries.

"There is steel in your cradle," he said, "and when you go on your last journey you will find steel nails in your coffin."

There came an inquiring voice from the crowd.

"Kin I ask a question?" "Certainly," said Stanley. "Then," said the voice, "I'd like to know how you expect us to worry about steel nails after we get into our coffins."

THE TEN ACRE FARMER. A great many people do not realize what can be done wi'h ten acres of land, to those who are in doubt let me try and show you what a nice easy living you can make under a good irrigation system, as this removes all doubt of failure. As soon as you get your land broken and leveled, plant five acres in standard apple trees; put 21/2 acres into a good stand of alfalfa, this leaves 21/2 to cultivate in all sorts of vegetables and chickens. and 1/2 acre for wheat and millet. The 21/2 scres of alfaifa is for a pasture for cow and horse, also for a range for 100 or more of chickens. Good hens will lay about 100 eggs during ness college. She was accompanied the year. NEW BULLETIN

We have just received at this office bulletin that has been issued recently by the Agricultural Experiment Station, at State College, New Mexico. entitled "The Utilization of Feed by Range Steers of Different Ages.

It is well written and illustrated in manner that the contents can be readily uderstood. This bulletin gives the results of different experiments that have been carried on with alfalfa and other feeds.

Inasmuch as feeding cattle is new uch an important industry with our stock farmers both dry and trrigated parts of this county, this bulletin would be a valuable help to them and ligeon." Service again in the evening is something each should have.
