The Journeyist in his travels over the country has observed that one of three things obtain. In every case where the dairy cow and her by-products have been handled in a wise and care ful manner they have returned good profits to their owners. The one great argument in favor of the dairy industry in New Mexico is that it will bring the people together and cooperation will follow from such organiza tions as dairy cow societies and milk testing clabs; and it is only by cooperation that the farmers, situated so far from the large markets, can ever hope to suc-

If possible, some one breed should be decided upon for each section. There are a great many reasons why it will pay in the end to have one breed, but the main ones are, that the same bulls can be passed from one herd to another after they have proven their worth; again, in case diseases break out, they can be fought more successfully than would be possible if several diferent breeds were to be consid ered; lastly, annual sales could be arranged to dispose of surplus stock, and they would at tract a better class of buyers.

The last reason is especially important, for, were the En ropean war to stop today—as we all wish it would—there would be a great demand made on this country for dairy cows to replace those already killed in Europe.

The dairy cow and the dairy business offer an answer to the question. "What are we going to do with our alfalfa when we cannot sell it at a profit? P. B. BARBER.

Detail.

Across the plain purple shadows were sweeping, close-ranked, like some vast dark army invading the land, pouring on over the rampart of mountains in the east.

Within the rim of hills that ringed the plain like the chipped and broken flange of a titanic saucer, silence brooded and solitude held swaydwarfing the town of Detail that occupied the approximate middle of the sagebrush waste, to proportions even less significant than might be inferred from the candor of its christening.

A platform, a siding, a water tank, Wells-Fargo office and a telegraph and ticket office, backed by three rough frame buildings; that is Detail itemized completely.

Shortly after nightfall the steel ribbons of the Santa Fe began to hum. A headlight peered suspiciously round a shoulder of the eastern range, took heart of courage to find the plain still wrapped in peace, and trudged stolidly toward Detail, the engine whose eye it was pulling after it a string of freight cars, both flat and box.

At Detail the train paused. Its crew alighted and engaged in animated argument. Detail gathered that the excitement was due to the unaccountable disappearance of the caboose; none seemed to have any notion as to how it could have broken loose; yet missing it conspicuously

In the pause that followed, while s report was telegraphed to headquarters and instructions returned to proceed without delay, one of the trainmen spied a boyish figure lurking in the open door of an empty box car. Cunningly boarding this car from the opposite side, the trainman caught the akulker unawares and booted him vaingloriously into the night.

As the figure alighted and took to its beels, losing itself in the darkness, it uttered a cry of pained surprise and protest which drew a wrinkle of astonishment between the brows of the

"Sounded like a woman's voice," he mused; then dismissed the suggestion as obviously absurd.

It was not. Shortly after the freight train had gone on its way-before, indeed, the glimmer of its rear lights had been lost among the western hills—a second headlight appeared in the east, swept swiftly across the plain and in turn stopped at Detail.

The second bird-of-passage proved to be a locomotive drawing a single car-a Pullman.

As the Pullman joited across the frogs the brakeman, interposing himself between it and the tender, released the coupling.

By the time that the Pullman had come to a full stop on the siding, the Incomotive was swinging westward like a scared jackrabbit—though no such milk-and-watery characterization of the traitor passed the lips of any one of the three men who presently appeared on the Pullman's platform and shook impotent fists in the direction taken by the fugitive engine.

When the last of these had run temporarily out of breath and blasphemy, a lirief silence fell, punctuated by out. grouns from each, and concluded by ly monorous of tone as it was curiously

Now when he had drained the mrddy froth of profanity from his temper it left a clear and effervescent wall of virulent humor: the wrath of the valetudinarian began to vent itself mtood before him.

"From that freight," Judith explained carelessly, neglecting to elucidate the exact fashion of her drop. "I judged you'd be along presently, and thought I'd like to learn the news. Well-what luck?"

Her father shrugged with his one movable shoulder. Mr. Marrophat grunted indignantly. The others shuffied uneasily and looked all ways but one at the girl in man's clothing.

"None?" Judith interpreted. "You don't mean to tell me that after I had taken all that trouble—cast the caboose loose in the middle of that trestle at the risk of my life-you didn't have the nerve to go through with the business!"

"We went through with it all right," replied Marrophat defensively; "but as usual, they were too quick for us. They jumped out and dropped off the trestle before our engine hit the caboose. We smashed that to kindling wood-but they got away just in time to miss the crash. Fireplay.

Contented with the promise of a thousand dollars advance on his contract, providing he returned with porses within a stipulated time, Mr. Hopi James Slade drifted quietly away into the desert night.

Well content, persuaded that the morrow's sun would never set upon a world tenanted by one Alan Law, that monomaniac, Seneca Trine, forgot his recent ill temper and set himself diplomatically to adjust the differences between his daughter, Judith, and his first lieutenant, Marrophat.

It was no facile task: Marrophat could not be trusted to work with a single mind because of his infatuation for Judith: Judith could no more be trusted faithfully to serve out her vow to bring Alan Law to her father's feet, alive or dead, because-O cruel frony of Fate!-she herself had fallen in love with that same man whose death Marrophat lifted his shoulders. she had pledged herself to compass. "Nothing-much," he allowed. Poor, deluded fool! Such was the private comment of Marrophat's master.

For all that, it was the man and no his daughter, whom Trine designated to lead the expedition, cunningly counting on Judith's chagrin to work in particular—only your cash. Shell upon her passions and excite her to one last, mad, blind attempt that

Mr. Slade unhesitatingly vouched. Sullenly submissive, at least in outcision, marched out of the car, and suffered Marrophat to help her mount

Now, deliberately, as the little cavalcade rode through the moonlit desert night, the girl maneuvered her horse to the side of Hopi Jim, and then dropped back, permitting Marrophat

As deliberately she set herself to work upon the bandit's susceptibility to her charms.

Within an hour she had him ready

In that first rush of golden day a thwart the land, the party came quietly into the town of Mesa, riding slowly in ficulty. He turned toward Judith a order that the noise of their approach tions offered by the town's one hotel.

It was to be termed a town only in courtesy, this Mesa: a straggling You ought to be able to pay something street of shacks, ramshackle relics of what had once been a promising community, the half-way station between me the service I wish—and name ed hills—camps now abandoned, their memory of mankind.

Midway in this string of edifices the hotel stood—a rough, unpainted, wooden edifice, mainly veranda and barroom as to its lower floor.

Jealously Judith watched the windows of the second floor: and she showed for one brief instant well back in the shadows beyond one of the bedroom windows a face that glimmered ghost's against the background of that obscurity, and then was gone. Her eyes alone, indeed, could have recognized the features of Alan Law in that fugitive glimpse. Two sentences exchanged between Hopi Jim and a blear-eyed fellow whom he roused from sodden slumbers behind the bar sealed their confidence with conviction; the three fugitives were in fact guests of the house, oc-composed its upper story. In the rush that followed up the narrow stairway, Judith led with such spirit that not even Marrophat suspected her revolver was poised solely with intent to shoot from his hand his own revolver the instant he leveled it at a human target.

Closed and locked doors confronted them; and their summons educed no response; while the first door, when broken in by a whole-souled kick, discovered nothing more satisfactory than an empty room, its bed bearing the imprint of a woman's body, but that woman gone.

From the one window, looking down the side of the house, Texas announced that the woman had not escaped by fumping out.

So it seemed that the three must have had warning of their arrival, after all; and presumably were now herded together in the adjoining room, which looked out over the verands roof, waiting in fear and trembling for the assault that must soon comeand in fact immediately did.

But it met with more stubborn re sistance than had been anticipated. The door had been barricaded from within - re-enforced by furniture placed against it. Four minutes and the united efforts of four men (including the bleary loafer of the barroom) were required to overcome its inert resistance. But even when it was down, the room was found to be as empty as

Only the fingers of two hands gripping the edge of the veranda roof showed the way the fugitives had flown; and these vanished instantly as the room was invaded.

Followed a swift rush of hoofs down the dusty street, and a chorus of blasphemy in the hotel hallway: for Judith had headed the concerted rush for the staircase and contrived to block it for a full half minute by pretending to stumble and twist her

In spite of that alleged injury, she never limped, and wasn't a yard behind the first who broke from the behind him in vaulting to saddle.

Well up the road a cloud of smoky dust half obscured the shapes of three who rode for their very lives.

The pursuit was off in a twinkling and well bunched-Marrophat's mount leading by a nose, Judith second, Hopi Jim and Texas but little in the rear. And in the first rush they seemed to gain; moment by moment they drew up on the flying cloud of dust.

Judith heard an oath muttered beside her and saw Marrophat jerking a revolver from its holster. The weapon swept up and to a level; but as the hammer fell, Judith's horse caromed heavily against the other, swinging it half a dozen feet aside, and deflecting the bullet hopelessly.

The shock of collision was so great that Marrophat kept his seat with difface livid with rage. Simultaneously, as if taking the shot as the signal for a fusillade, Judith saw Alan lean back over his horse's rump and open fire. An instant later his companion, Barcus, imitated his example. In immediate consequence, Texas dropped reins, slumped forward over the pommel, wabbled weakly in his saddle for a moment, then losing the stirrups, pitched headlong to the ground; while Hopi Jim's horse stopped short, precipitating his rider overhead, and dropped dead.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

The Upper Trail.

In the ten minutes' delay necessitated by this reverse, a number of alone of the four detected the face that more or less innocent bystanders picked up the man Texas and carried him off to breathe his last beneath a reef; Hopi Jim picked himself up, perated countenance of Marrophat. Incidentally the fugitives disappeared round a bend in the road that led directly into the wild and barren heart of the Painted hills.

In the brief interval that elapsed before his return with Hopi Jim, Marrophat contrived to persuade the bandit that Judith had been, at least indirectly, responsible for the catastrophe with the upshot that, temporarily blinded to her fascinations by the glitter of nineteen thousand dollars in the near distance, Mr. Slade maintained his distance and a deaf ear to her blandishments. The only information as to their purpose that she was able to extract from either man, when the pursuing party turned aside from the main trail, some distance from Mesa, was that Hopi Jim knew a short cut through the range, via what he termed the upper trail, by which they hoped to be able to head the fugitives off before they could gain the desert on the far side of the hills.

Only at long intervals did they draw rein to permit Hopi Jim to make reconnoissance of the lower trail that threaded the valley on the far side of the ridge.

Toward noon he returned in haste from the last of these surveysscrambling recklessly down the mountain-side and throwing himself upon his horse with the advice:

"We've headed 'em-can make it now if we ride like all get-out!" For half an hour more they pushed on at the best speed to be obtained from their weary animals, at length drawing rein at a point where the trail crossed the ridge and widened out upon a long, broad ledge that overhung the valley of the lower trail, with demanded, reining her horse in beside Marrophat as the latter dismounted. A gesture drew her attention to huge boulder poised insecurely on the very lip of the chasm.

"We're going to tip that over on your friends, Miss Judith!" Marrophat replied, with a smack of relish in his voice. "Simple—neat—efficient—eh? What more can you ask?" She answered only with an irrepressible gesture of horror. Marrophat's laugh followed her as she turned away. For some moments she strained her vision vainly, endeavoring to penetrate the turbulent currents of supershe made out indistinctly the faintly marked line of the lower trail; and immediately she caught a glimpse of three small figures, mounted, toiling painfully toward the point where death awaited them like a bolt from the blue.

Hastily she glanced over-shoulder: Hopi Jim and Marrophat, ignoring her, were straining themselves against the boulder without budging it an inch, for all its apparent nicety of poise. For an instant a wild hope flashed through her mind, but it was immediately exorcised when Hopi Jim stepped back and uttered a few words of which only two-"dynamite" and "fuse"-reached

But while he was so engaged and Marrophat aided him, all eager interest, Judith was taking advantage of their disregard of her.

Hurriedly unbuttoning her jacket, she whipped a playing card from her pocket, a trey o' hearts, and with the stub of a pencil scribbled three words on its face—"Danger! Go back!"

Then finding a small, flattish bit of rock, she bound the card to it with and unhobbled her horse, and a bit of string; and with one more backward glance to make sure she was not watched, approached the brink.

Protectionist Arguments Intended to Deceive.

Facts as to Tariff Policies, With Which the Voters Are Thoroughly Familiar, Presented in Garbled Form

Once more the Republic takes occasion to call attention to the fact that, speaking generally, all talking protectionists are liars. They have but one ambition: to make an immediate impression on the reader or listener. As to the methods by which this impression is made they have no prejudices. It seems never to occur to them that their audience reads the newspapers or has any memory whatever for past events.

Lest this indictment should sound partisan, prejudiced or oversevere, we beg to submit the following extract from an editorial which appeared in the January 15 issue of the American Economist, which is the high-sounding name of the official organ of the American Protective Tariff league. The title of the editorial is "A Faulty Theory of Protection."

"We have never before heard that the Republican theory of protection. or any intelligent theory of protection, required continual tariff changes. Quite the contrary; one of the most vital needs of business is a stable tariff. Under the Dingley tariff of 1897 we had unbroken prosperity for 12 years. Under the Payne tariff, we had four more years of unbroken prosperity. Here were 16 years during which no changing conditions required tariff changes."

And the period during which the Dingley tariff was in operation included the 1907 panic and the two years immediately following it! To the retrospective eye of the rhapsodizing protectionist that period, with its bank failures, its "John Smiths," its commercial bankruptcies, its hunger and its want, was "unbroken prosperity." And why? Why, because the Dingley tariff brooded over the landscape and statesman like Littauer and Aldrich were on guard.

If our concern were with the sanity of protectionists instead of their honesty we might pause to inquire why, if "here were 16 years during which no changing conditions required tariff changes," the Republican party, in control both of congress and the executive during the whole time, changed from the Dingley to the Payne-Aldrich tariff when 12 years of the 16 had passed?

But this is by the way. The main question that troubles us is this: How can any movement be so wedded to lies that its leaders try to persuade themselves that the American people have forgotten the panic of 1907?-St. Louis Republic.

"Backward, Christian Soldiers," Some Progressives crawl back ys a few hours' work needed here shamefacedly to the Republican party; there on the average highway, some return furtively in the night; rts to be repaired, mud holes some do this thing quietly and say nothing about it; but some do it with pleasure of driving over good a spring and a bounce. This last is should in itself be a compensa- the disgusting class. It was well exto the farmer for his efforts in emplified at Springfield, Ill., by Medill ng them so, not to speak of the McCormick. Announcing his intention of voting with the Republicans in the legislature, though he was elected as a Progressive, Mr. McCormick declared, with a fine flourish, "I am glad to get back to the party of my fathers." Be it remembered that Mr. McCormick was one of the hurrah boys of the Progressive party. He was foremost in impudent and very youthful attacks upon President Taft. Nobody foreswore himself more deeply than he against ever having anything more to do with the rotten Republican party. Yet now, without pretending that the party has changed, or alleging any motive unless it be his desire to be on the winning side, he deserts Roosevelt with shouts of joy and with banners flying. Backward, Christian Soldiers!-New York Evening Post.

> Figures That Are Eloquent. Woolen manufacturers have been protected by the heaviest and most iniquitous duties ever laid by the Unit ed States. Much reduced, they still range, in the majority of cases, from 30 to 60 per cent. In the period during which we sold abroad $20,000,000 of agricultural implements we sold only a little more than $3,000,000 worth of woolen manufactures, while we imported $33,000,000 worth of woolens and so few agricultural implements that for six months of the sight they have no separate heading in the governmental statements!

A Sorry Hope. If the G. O. P. can keep business shaking in its shoes for about eighteen months longer, its prospects for est roads throughout many states of coming back will be improved. That corn belt have proved this in the is its hope. But it is a sorry hope.—

Outlook is Good. When the panic of 1907 came, Colonel Roosevelt was president, and there was very little solid business The good road with good drainage recovery during Mr. Taft's adminisand good culverts is a joy in every tration. We had a good spurt of prosperity in 1912 when Wilson's election was a foregone conclusion. We were on the road to a period of real prosperity when the European war started and played smash with business for a while. Business is now getting on its feet again and before the end of this year we will probably see record-breaking prosperity.

They Took Robes of Plety. When Rev. F. W. Carstens, pastor of the North Broadway Baptist church at Los Angeles, suggested that his hearers clothe themselves in the garb of righteousness, he spoke figuratively. But someone apparently lacked the power of abstraction, and the pastor now believes his words were mis construed. While he launched the exhortation, in speaking on "High Ideals for 1915 Actualized," some person, presumably the literal one, made away with the minister's overcoat and hat and also an overcoat of one of the deacons.

The police are now searching for one who quite missed the 1915 ideals, but equipped himself with enough of the garb of righteousness for two.

At the End of Day's Run. The war was being discussed from all angles at the regular Saturday night meeting of the Gin and Possum Colored Gentlemen's Social club. "Huh?" asked Brother Jacksen, cocking his head. "Yas, suh!" went on Pomp. "Dey not on'y shoot twenty-ff' miles, but dey kill at twenty-fi' miles." "Great Lawd!" gasped Jackson. "Nigger'd run all an' git killed 'bout suppertime, wouldn't he?"

TAKES OFF DANDRUFF HAIR STOPS FALLING

Girls! Try This! Makes Hair Thick, Glossy, Fluffy, Beautiful-No More Itching Scalp.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first-yes-but really new hair-growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing-your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable luster. softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any store, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any-that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all-you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine. Adv.

ROOSEVELT COUNTY'S LIVESTOCK FARMERS

Hance Arnold

This successful stockfarmer said: "I think this the greatest country I ever lived in. I simpiy like it fine." He and a brother own two sections, 100 acres of which is in cultivation. Last year Mr. Arnold threshed about 2000 bushels of grain, cut and bound over 2000 bundles of kafir and cane. From two acres of sudan grass he threshed 1800 pounds of seed. He is very enthusiastic over the possibilities of sudan and will plant several acres this year. The Arnold brothers are growing a good bunch of stock.

H. T. Mayes

Mr. Mayes has 480 acres and is cultivating 85. His crops are good, but his best money is in his cattle, horses, hogs and poultry. His cream check each week is also an important item, and an item that no farmer should overlook. A large number of shade and fruit trees, with grapes and berries adds to the delight of this home.

J. L. Gardener and Son

Mr. Gardner said: "We own 320 acres of land, 90 of which is in cultivation. We are pleased and do not expect to leave this country. Our crops have been good; we threshed over 2000 bushels of grain in 1914 besides run away." He has a few head our other crops. When I came here I bought a relinquishment on time and was also in debt. Now all my obligations are paid and I have some money ahead."

Sunday night closed the most successful Sunday School convention Roosevelt county has ever had, in point of numbers, in terest and enthusiasm

The hand-work done by pupils from all the churches, and gathered together for exhibition by Mrs. Q.W. Carr, Mrs. W. O. Old ham and Miss Grace Daniels, added much to the success of the convention.

The choir led by S.G. Bridges, gave stirring, inspiring music throughout, and Misses Lindsey and Reagan gave well chosen readings

All phases of Sunday school of Elida. This is part of the work, from the cradle roll, ably handled by Miss Lota Smith, to the adult work given in a practical helpful way by Henry Shapcott, were discussed.

There were six sessions in all. beginning on Friday night and ending Sunday night.

Each succeeding year shows an increase in membership and interest in the county association work. Only a few years ago five or six people only were present at the opening sessions. Friday night there were about forty five and the attendance increased as the work progressed.

Dr. Edward Raley, field worker, for Arizona and New Mexico. was present at all of the meetings and gave many helpful talks and suggestions. All of the four ministers lent their aid and cooporation and did much toward the success of the convention by their presence and union of spirit

UNITED STATES RANKS HIGH

Percentage of Illiteracy Compares Well With Those of Other Countries of the World.

In the United States the percentage of illiteracy is 7.7 for the total population (over ten years of age) and 3 for the native white population. In Denmark, Germany, the Netherlands, Sweden, Switzerland and the United Kingdom the percentage of illiteracy is lower than that for the native white population of the United States. Doubtless the list should also include Norway, although no figures are available for that country; but in the other European countries the percentage of illiteracy is higher than it is in the United States, and usually very much higher. In Bulgaria it is 65 per cent; in Greece 70, in Hungary 33, in Italy $7, in Portugal 69, in Roumania 61, in Russia 69, in Servia 79, and in Spain 58. There is less illiteracy in Australia than in the United States, but in all other non-European countries the

The liver is one of the most important organs in the body and must be kept free to work its process of elimination. When it is clogged and sluggish the whole body is out of order.

Dandelions also add bulk to the food, scraping up the digestive tract; thus poisons which cause autointoxication, constipation and rheumatism are removed from the body. The digestive tract needs flushing and often a more heroic treatment, as we treat drain pipes which become clogged.

Cowslips are another early spring vegetable which does not need to be shipped in, and then later we grow our own spinach and pepper grass in the vegetable garden, which should be a part of every small or large garden. How much pleasanter it is to eat a nice crisp plate of lettuce than to take addition of oil to any of the salad greens makes them more valuable, as Bright Spots in Dark Incidents of the Great Conflict Going on in Europe.

Courage is the universal possession of the German, the Englishman, the Frenchman, the Belgian, the Austrian, the Russian and the Japanese. The stories of individual coolness and day ing are so many that they have al most ceased to attract special attention. The other day, when the Brisdown in a storm, crushed like an em shell by torpedoes or mines, its captain-Loxley-was on the bridge as $ sank; and his last words were: "Steady men; it's all right; keep cool; do not get in a panic; be British." Every officer was at his post; many of them had lighted cigarettes. This stirring exhibition of the fact that the man does not die when his body falls in the trenches or sinks in the ocean can be matched in every navy and army. WHEN KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE GLASS OF SALTS

Eat Less Meat If Kidneys Hurt or You Have Backache or Bladder Misery -Meat Forms Uric Acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trot ble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure: makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.-Adv.

One sign that we are growing more humane is that men blanket their motor car engines.—Nashville Banner.

Although Canada's real start in ns tional development as pointed out by the Buffalo Commercial, came slowly and late, as compared with that of the United States, it is now well under way, and very soon there will be thousand times for the wonderful marvelous expansion in agriculture, mining and manufacturing.

The paper above mentioned says that "heretofore the development of Canada, like that of the United States, has been westward, but unlike this country, the Dominion has a great territory to the North, which has been regarded as all but uninhabitable, but in which recent research has proven there are possibilities of development almost inconceivable." After making complimentary reference to the resources of the country tributary to the Hudson Bay, which will be opened up when the railroad now under construction is completed, the Commercial further says "there are those living today who will see our neighbor on the north a great and powerful nation, and a not insignificant industrial and commercial rival of the United States. The war may retard, but it cannot destroy, Canada's future. And in this expansion no one will more heartily rejoice than the people of the United States, because the prosperity of the Dominion is bound to increase our own." Herein is the spirit that dominates the Dominion Government when it extends an invitation to Americans to assist in developing the resources that Canada possesses, whether they be mineral, forest, industrial, commercial or agriculture. Both countries will benefit and the United States will be a gainer by having as a neighbor a country whose resources are as great and varied as are those of Canada.

In comparing the United States along with other nations of the world in producing and importing foodstuffs, the Agricultural Outlook published by the United States department of agriculture says:

The United States in recent years has been as large an importer of foodstuffs as exporter; therefore she cannot be classed as a surplus producer of foodstuffs. This is contrary to popular impression. It is true that she is an exporter of certain articles, but she is an equally large importer of other articles. In this classification tea and coffee are included with foodstuffs. In edible grains the production is 23 per cent more than the amount retained; the production of meats is six per cent more that is, exports of meat equal six per cent of that retained in the United States for consumption; the production of dairy products is 20 per cent more than consumed: the propoultry is just about equal to consumption; of vegetables, one per cent

An investigation into the production, imports and exports of food products of various countries indicates that England produces about 53 per cent of her food requirements, and imports (net) about 47 per cent; Belgium produces 57 per cent, and imports 43 per cent; Germany produces 88 per cent, and imports 12 per cent; France produces 92 per cent, and imports eight per cent; Austria-Hungary produces 98 per cent, and imports two per cent; Russia produces 110 per cent of her requirements, and exports an equivalent of about 10 per cent; Canada produces 23 per cent more than she consumes; Argentina produces 48 per cent more than she consumes; the United States produces practically no more than she consumes (L e. exports and imports of foodstuffs almost balance).

With this information before the reader, it is not a difficult matter to direct attention to the fact that Canada stands in a pre-eminent position in the matter of grain and cattle production, and with a large territory yet unoccupied she will always maintain it.—Advertisement.
