SCHOOL BONDS ARE SOLD ABOUT ENOUGH SUBSCRIBED

Architects Selected To Prepare Plans, Specifications, In Few Days

UNIT STYLE OF ARCHITECTURE

Will Make Improvement That Present Building Can Be Razed

At a meeting of the school board held Tuesday afternoon that body accepted the bid of Sweet, Causey, Foster and Co., of Denver, Colorado, who were represented by Ben Smith, for the purchase of the school bonds. The bid was $80,835 with all expenses of issuance to be paid by the purchasers.

The board also employed Berry and Kauffman of Amarillo, Texas, to draw plans, write specifications and make estimates. No definite plan of construction has been adopted but the unit or cottage plan is being considered and an administration building with an auditorium as the central structure. The architects are now engaged in preparing plans along these lines and it is expected will have their plans and specifications prepared in about a week.

It is the intention of the board to get to work as soon as possible and rush the work so that enough of the buildings will be completed for use this fall so that the present structure may be razed and all available material used in the construction of the new buildings.

The board is also considering the matter of purchasing the other half of the block east of the present building, half of which they now own, and have the street vacated. This will make ample room and allow the buildings to be constructed in a more attractive manner.

Everything looks good now for the speedy construction of a group of school buildings which will be modern in every detail, strictly sanitary and up-to-date, and the finest in the state.

Marketing Peaches.

Rev. O. W. Carter who lives west of town was in the first of the week marketing peaches from his place. He had an excellent variety of peaches which found ready sale. The Herald-Times office received a treat—many thanks.

This excellent old gentleman is one of the oldest men in the county and right at the present time is more active and alert than many men who are little more than half his age.

Some Fruit.

The Portales Utilities Company have on exhibition at their office some fine specimens of fruit which were grown on the J. L. Fernandes farm west of town. They consist of branches loaded with peaches and plums grouped in clusters so thick that it seems impossible that trees could stand such an enormous weight.

We understand Mr. Fernandes has quite an orchard of this fruit which is yielding abundantly.

Mrs. T. A. Copeland, mother of Mrs. D. A. Fergusson, left Monday for Eagle Pass, Texas, where she will visit her son.

Few More Shares of Stock To Start Roosevelt County Creamery

Only a few more shares are necessary to make the building of the Roosevelt county creamery a certainty. The cream producers of this county have come to the decision that they are going to have a creamery of their own, right at home, and get the highest possible price for their product.

BETTER PRICE AND MORE COWS

Don't Depend On Your Neighbor; Don't Delay the Project

The purchasers of stock are all progressive farmers of this county. One farmer was heard to say, "I have no cows at the present time but subscribed for a share of stock and if the creamery is built, I will get a herd of cows." Apparently he thought that at the present price it is bringing there was not profit enough to buy a herd and engage in the business.

Much credit is due A. A. Rogers and S. E. Ward for the part they have taken in getting this matter before the farmers. Not only have they taken their time from their business but they have spent several days explaining the proposition and assisting with the meetings. They have no direct interest except that which we should all have and that is, the building of this creamery will be a help to the county and enable the producers to get a better price.

The dairymen of this county cannot afford to let a project go down now, when it is so nearly completed. Do not depend on your neighbors to help make up the few remaining shares which are needed. If you are contemplating signing up, get busy now because the sooner the required number are obtained, the sooner work will be started.

More Showers.

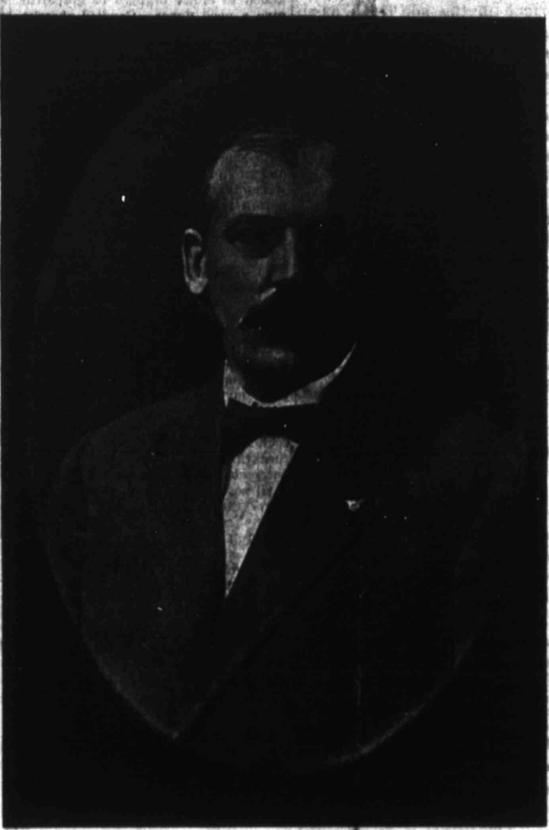

Several showers have fallen over the various portions of the county during the past week, some of which were heavy. From what can be learned the southern and southeastern portions have been the most favored. There was a good shower in Portales Tuesday afternoon, the gauge at the Portales Power and Irrigation company showed a fall of one and one half inches.

Now a Road Booster.

Thos. M. Crump, the cattleman who lives on the Portales Clovis road just this side of the Curry county line was in town the first of the week in his new Ford. Crump is now a good road booster and we believe he is really glad that the road goes so close to his house. He is anxious for it to be completed.

Working Close To Town.

Foreman C. J. Marius is now working with his force of men on the Portales Clovis road just beyond the town limits. He will have the road completed from here to the north side of Blackwater draw in a few days.

The above is an excellent likeness of Alvan N. White, state superintendent of public instruction, who came to Portales Tuesday from Santa Fe to address the Roosevelt County Normal Institute.

During his address he took occasion to compliment our county superintendent, Mrs. S. F. Culbertson, on the progress which is being made along educational lines in this county and also on the splendid normal institute.

Mr. White spoke in defense of the new county unit law and said that while it might not suit every locality it was intended for, it is a benefit to the state as a whole. He said that this law had been passed by some eighteen other progressive states and was highly satisfactory. This law is in line with the progressive school legislation proposed by the national department of education.

The superintendent urged the teachers to take all possible advantage of the normal institute as the requirements of teachers are continually getting higher. Several of the counties in the state this year have gotten appropriations from the county commissioners sufficient to hire nothing but first grade teachers. He predicted that the time is not far hence when nothing but a teacher holding a first grade certificate will be able to get a position in New Mexico.

Mr. White was very optimistic over the advance our young state has made along educational lines.

Howard Makes Deals.

Joe Howard, the land man, last week sold to W. F. Brown what is known as the Mobley place, located near the Morgan orchard. This place was improved several years ago and contains a nice orchard and vineyard. Mr. Brown's son will come from Texas and take charge.

Mr. Howard recently bought a fine quarter section of grass land some twenty-five miles west of town, known as the Daves place.

advancing from a three months to a seven months term for rural schools. He advised the teachers that each school is a part of the school system of the state and each teacher should co-operate and try to run his school along the established lines even though they be different from their customary way back east.

Mr. White is an orator of ability and he received much applause from the students during his enthusiastic address.

Prof. R. A. Deen announces that he has been in correspondence with Gov. W. C. McDonald who has been invited to address the students of the normal on July 22, and the chief executive has promised to come. The teachers and the superintendent of the Roosevelt county schools were very much disappointed when the governor was unable to address the Teachers association at Elda last spring.

Several other prominent speakers have promised to address the students before the close of the normal, among whom is Rev. C. C. Hill, superintendent of the Chaves county schools.

The attendance at the normal has broken all previous records there being 133 bonafide students enrolled who are hard at work, making the best of their opportunities. Heretofore it has been the custom of some of those assisting in instruction to enroll but the above number includes none but actual students.

Open an Office

The A. L. Gurley Broom Corn company has opened an office in the Molinari building on Main street. This company has done a big business here in the past few years and it has grown to such an extent that they deemed it necessary to open an office to handle it properly. The office is in charge of Frank Shaw, their local representative. They expect another big crop of corn this year.

Miss Lila Fuller has succeeded Miss Lucy Seay as stenographer for the Joyce-Fruit Co.

A BIG DAY AT REDLAND

Large Crowd Attends Sunday School Rally Last Sunday

MANY ATTEND FROM PORTALES

Interesting Talks, Plenty To Eat, a Very Enjoyable Occasion

Last Sunday was a big day at Redland, a most prosperous and thriving community in the southeastern part of Roosevelt county. For the past three or four weeks it had been generally advertised that on Sunday there would be a big Sunday school rally, and dinner on the ground. Everyone from far and near seemed to be there. The school house was filled to overflowing, and still they came. Some four or five autos filled with Portales people were there and all report an immensely enjoyable day.

The Sunday school at Redland is presided over by Carl Turner, as superintendent, and he is ably supported by energetic and wide awake teachers. Every one takes great interest in the work. There was on exhibition a black board showing the attendance during May and June, and the average attendance was from sixty to sixty-five every Sunday morning.

After the Sunday school had completed its regular work there was speaking and singing until the noon hour. The singing was simply great. Adjournment was then had until 2 o'clock, and the crowd repaired to a nearby arbor where the ladies of the Redland community spread a veritable feast. It seemed that the food was exceptionally good and well prepared, that everyone was quite hungry, but when all had partaken of the refreshments many baskets full remained.

After the dinner everyone enjoyed the social hour immensely, and a more hospitable people never had an invited guest. At the appointed hour all again assembled at the school house where all were entertained with singing and speaking. The choir was under the supervision of S. G. Birdges of Portales, while Mr. Turner was master of ceremonies. Mrs. Clyde Knapp favored the audience with a beautiful and well rendered solo. The principal speaker of the occasion was Henry Shapcott of Portales, a veteran in Sunday school work. Mr. Hart of Redland, a gentleman of more than eighty years of age and who has spent something like forty years of his life as superintendent of a real live Sunday school, gave a splendid talk but was too feeble to favor the audience with a speech such as he desired to make.

However, Mr. Hart promised to make his speech at a later date, when he felt physically able to do so. Those who were present were much disappointed because Mr. Hart was unable to deliver his address, but will turn out en masse when he does deliver it, for everyone knows that it will be well worth while. There were several other speakers on the occasion among whom were A. W. Freeman, C. W. Terry, C. V. Harris, Jas. A. Hall and Burl Johnson.

Mr. Turner and the citizens of Redland are to be congratulated

CATTLE RECEIPTS DECREASE

Figures Indicate Increase In Shortage of Cattle and Sheep

EASTERN NEW MEXICO BENEFITS

Farms Producing Big Crops of Forage and Grain This Year

The receipts of live stock at the ten principal markets in the United States for the first six months of 1915 as compared with the same period of 1914, show a decrease in cattle and sheep and an increase in hogs. This year 4,274,886 cattle were received against 4,304,704 head last year, a decrease of 29,828 head. Sheep received this year 5,312,719 against 6,936,750 last year, a decrease of 1,554,031 head; and hogs 12,658,818, against 10,763,212, an increase of 1,872,606 head.

The feeder cattle and sheep movement for June at seven markets shows a marked decrease in cattle, being 15.41 per cent; and an increase of 15.7 in sheep received over last June. Chicago is not included, as no stockers and feeders have gone out of this market in 1915 on account of quarantine.

During the eleven months ending June 1, 1915, 505,000,000 pounds of bacon were exported, an increase of 122,000,000 pounds over the same period last year. The fresh beef exports were 121,499,000 pounds, an increase of nearly 116,000,000 pounds; canned beef exports were 85,369,000 pounds, an increase of 61,000,000 pounds; pickled beef 28,822,000 pounds, an increase of 7,000,000 pounds; hams and shoulders 162,288,000 pounds worth $23,485,000, an increase of $1,734,000.

These figures indicate that the shortage in cattle and sheep continues with an export demand increasingly greater. Eastern New Mexico and northwest Texas, so well adapted by nature for growing and feeding stock, will benefit by this condition. The farms are producing great crops of forage and grain this year which will make full feeding on the farms a lucrative industry. A. M. Hove.

Portales Boy Making Good

Erastus Dunlap, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Dunlap, has again been appointed teacher in the school at Ramah, McKinley county, with a substantial advance in salary. He now gets the limit allowed by law in schools of that size. A letter received by him from the secretary of the school board stated that they had plenty of other applicants, who came well recommended and who would teach for less money; but they preferred to have one who had already given satisfaction, even though they had to pay more. This is not only a distinct compliment to Mr. Dunlap, but to the Portales schools, where he received practically all of his education.

upon the manner in which they entertained their visitors and for the real live Sunday school spirit they have in their midst.

Of importance to thousands of homesteaders in New Mexico, is a decision just handed down by the land office that in failing to make the necessary proof, where the settler is not at fault, the right to desert entry will not be denied him.

Twenty $10 gold pieces of the date of 1851, were found in an Indian ball at Fort Fillmore by Donald Young and Theodore Roualt, Jr., who were excavating around the ruins of the Old Fort. This is no doubt part of the traditional treasure buried at the Fort during the Civil war days.

Definite progress that is very satisfactory has been made in industrial education in the schools of Bernalillo, Guadalupe, Lincoln and Quay counties.

A polecat slipped into the home of a Texas ranchman and bit him on the right cheek while he slept. It is safe to wager dollars to cents that the ranchman did not obey the scriptural injunction about turning the other cheek, and it is hardly probable that what he said would harmonize with Sunday school language.

Points On Pit Silo Construction.

Pit silos may be dug at almost any time in the year, but a great many will be constructed this summer, and a few points of advice are worthy of consideration at this time.

Do not use large diameters, unless a large number of stock are to be fed. Remember that silage must be fed rapidly enough to keep the whole top surface in the silo fresh, as silage spoils soon after it comes in contact with the air. A ten-foot diameter is big enough for twelve dairy cows, twelve-foot diameter for seventeen cows, and a fourteen foot diameter for about twenty-three cows. Three horses or eight sheep may be figured as about equivalent to one cow in the consumption of silage. Stock and fattening cattle will eat about three-fourths as much as dairy cows.

Make a cement collar first, by digging a smooth circular trench six inches wide and a foot or more deep.

Next construct the derrick or windlass which will be used to take out the dirt, and later the silage. The simplest arrangement is a smooth log about six inches in diameter, supported across the pit by low posts and iron rods bent in the form of cranks.

Keep the walls straight, smooth and perpendicular. Set a pipe vertically in the center, and have a guide board pivoted on this, to shave the walls, or merely to serve as a guide.

Plaster the walls in sections from the top down, after each additional five or six feet is dug. Moisten the dirt wall before plastering. Wet the plastered wall at least twice a day for a week. One of the greatest difficulties in concrete construction here in the summer is that the cement dries too rapidly. If cement sets slowly it will be tough but if it dries out rapidly it will crack and crumble easily.

Plaster the wall about three-fourths or an inch thick, in two coats, leaving the first coat rough and applying the second before the first sets.

For the plaster use a mixture of one part cement to two parts of clean, sharp sand.

A silo twelve feet deep will hold about fifty tons. This size silo would require about one load of gravel to be used in the curbing, three loads of sand, and thirty to thirty-five sacks of cement.

DESSERTS FOR EARLY SUMMER.

To begin with, make use of such related grapefruit and oranges as you can get. Fruit salad is always a delicious luncheon dessert, and what the citrus fruits lack in flavor at this time of year you can give to them by the addition of other fruits. Grapefruit, orange and pineapple are delicious together. Prunes shredded and added to either oranges or grapefruit give a good flavor. Candied cherries, the liquid from maraschino cherries or wine can be added to grapefruit and orange with good results. If you mix diced bananas with the other fruits first soak the bananas in a little lemon juice—that is, pour the lemon juice over the diced banana.

A few strawberries can be made to go a long way when they first appear and are expensive if they are mixed with other fruits. For instance, prepare a fruit salad of oranges and bananas, and to each cupful add four big, ripe strawberries.

Half a dozen berries served with vanilla ice cream give a summer-like touch to this usual dessert, yet served in this way a pint of berries will go a long way. It never pays to get cheap berries early in the season. It is far better to get expensive berries and serve them sparingly than to get the cheap, more acidulous sort and serve them lavishly. Half a dozen berries, too, can be added to each portion of homemade charlotte russe to good effect, and, to emphasize its timely nature, this dessert can be called straw berry charlotte russe.

All sorts of water ices are particularly refreshing and tempting when the first warm weather arrives. Various fruit juices from last year's supply of canned fruit can be used to flavor water ices, with a little lemon juice to give piquancy if the fruit flavor is very sweet. The plain water ice, of course, consists of the fruit juice simply frozen. To make a sherbet add the beaten whites of two or three eggs for each quart of juice when it is almost frozen or a tablespoonful of gelatin softened in a little cold water and added before the juice is frozen.

For a change sometimes grate bitter chocolate into vanilla ice cream mixture just before freezing. The flavor of chocolate will be there, but the color of chocolate will not. Instead, the result will be a white ice cream dotted with brown.

Grape juice sherbet is delicious. Add the juice of two lemons to each quart of grape juice and add more sugar if necessary, then add dissolved gelatin and freeze—one tablespoonful of gelatin for a quart of grape juice.

Custards, floating island and other desserts made of milk and eggs should always, especially at this time of year, be daintily made and daintily served. Three tablespoonfuls of smooth boiled custard chilled thoroughly and served in a thin, long stemmed glass, with a big tablespoonful of beaten egg white topped with a single candied cherry, is far more appetizing, remember, than the same dessert served more generously without the cherry in big china saucers.

THAT COLD YOU HAVE

may bring sickness, doctors bills and loss of work; you know that serious sickness usually starts with a cold, and a cold only exists where weakness exists. Remember that.

Overcome the weakness and nature cures the cold—that is the law of reason. Carefully avoid drugged pills, syrups or stimulants; they are only props and braces and whips.

It is the pure medicinal nourishment in Scott's Emulsion that quickly enriches the blood, strengthens the lungs and helps heal the air passages.

PLANTING OF PEACH TREES.

How the Soil Should Be Prepared and the Trees Planted. (Prepared by United States Department of Agriculture.)

When peach trees are delivered from the nursery they should be unpacked immediately. Every possible precaution should be taken to prevent the roots from becoming dry. Unless the number of trees is so limited that immediate planting is possible the trees should be heeled in. A thoroughly well drained place, where the soil is mellow and deep, is required. A trench sufficiently wide and deep to receive the roots is made; then the trees are placed in it.

In covering the soil should be worked among the roots of the trees sufficiently to fill all the spaces between them. This will fully exclude the air; otherwise there is danger of the roots drying unduly. If a large number of trees are to be heeled in at the same place it will usually be found convenient to place them in closely adjacent rows. When this is done the trees in one row, for convenience, may be cut over with the soil which is removed in opening the next adjacent trench. The rows may, of course, be made as long as circumstances dictate.

Trees that are tied in bundles when received must be separated before being heeled in. If this is not done it is practically impossible to work the soil among the roots sufficiently well to prevent them from drying to a serious extent.

Sometimes it is necessary to leave trees heeled in over winter. It is then well to place them in a position which is nearly horizontal, so that the entire portion of the trunks below the branches can be readily covered with soil for the purpose of protection. Such protection is of particular importance in the colder peach growing districts. The soil should be made rather firm about the trunks and roots, so that harbors for mice will be reduced to a minimum.

The ideal preparation of the soil where peach trees are to be planted consists of deep plowing and thorough pulverizing with the barrow or cultivator. The preparation should be hard less thorough than for planting corn or sowing grain.

On the other hand, many degrees of compromise in this particular may be resorted to and still not defeat the end in view. For instance, the removal of stumps from newly cleared land is generally costly, except as it can be done with the regular force employed in the orchard and at times when other routine operations do not require attention. Where such land is to be devoted to peaches it is practicable to remove the stumps from a narrow strip along the line of each row of trees. This course admits of a good preparation of the soil before the trees are planted and thorough tillage throughout the following season. Each season thereafter the strip which is freed from stumps should be widened with a view to extending the cultivation accordingly. By the time the trees come into bearing the stumps should be pretty well cleared from the entire area.

Peach trees are planted at various distances apart, the topography of the land, the fertility of the soil, the various characteristics of the trees and the preferences and conceptions of individual growers all being factors to be considered. Common distances are 18 by 18 feet, 18 by 20 feet or 20 by 20 feet, requiring respectively 134, 121 and 108 trees per acre. Closer planting is sometimes practiced, but it is rarely advisable, while under some conditions 25 by 25 feet probably does not allow the trees more space than they need. The latter distances are probably used in California more often than in other portions of the country. The trees are usually planted in squares, as the above distances suggest, but the triangular system or some of its modifications is occasionally used.

Co-operation Needed In New Mexico

If every city, town and county in New Mexico would unite in a movement to advance the interests of the state at large there would be added an impetus to the growth and prosperity of New Mexico that would be marvelous.

Co-operation in community building, whenever practiced, has had excellent results. There is no reason why the plan should not work well with counties, cities and towns.

The bickerings and strife engaged in between rival communities benefits neither, but, on the other hand, retards both. What one gains by such methods, militates against the other.

New Mexico is a big state. It has more room to grow than has perhaps any other state in the union. Aside from sports now and then, the state has made no consistent and organized effort to get ahead—to build for the future.

The above might be applied very appropriately to local conditions in this county. There is as much room for advancement in Roosevelt county as there is in any other county in this great state.

For some time past there has been an improvement along this line between the town and country people. One of our country friends dropped in a few days ago and commented on it.

Our country friend was very much gratified because of the support given a proposition in his community by the business men of Portales. The town needs the support of the country and the country needs the support of the town.

The Highway Bonds.

It should be a matter for public rejoicing that the half million dollars worth of bonds issued on vote of the people for the building of highways in New Mexico has been finally sold and that in a couple of weeks the money will be available for expenditure in the various counties under the supervision of the state highway commission.

The counties are to be commended most highly for the promptness with which they have co-operated in making the sale of the bonds possible. This half million dollars, while only a start, is a big start and ought to make a tremendous difference in the prosperity and rapidity of development of the state.

Our County Fair.

It is now time to think about what you are going to exhibit at the county fair. The citizens of this county and the officers of the fair association have reason to be proud of the showing we have made the previous years and there is no reason why we should not have even a more successful fair this year.

The products of this county have made fine showings at the state fair at Albuquerque and other places where they have been exhibited after the fair here. At this time the prospects are excellent for a fine crop over most of this county and good exhibits should be plentiful.

Then again we must not overlook our live stock exhibits. A wonderful advance has been made here during the past year along this line. Many thoroughbreds have been imported and ere long Roosevelt county promises to be famous for its thoroughbred horses, cattle and hogs.

Farmers and stockmen, $500 will be appropriated out of the tax money of this county and it is up to you to do your part, get up the best exhibits possible that the greatest benefit may be derived from the money spent, and make our fair the greatest ever.

Construct a Silo.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found "Points On Pit Silo Construction" a very interesting article on the subject sent out by State College. Many of our farmers who are going to construct pit silos will do well to read this article.

The pit silo seems to be the prevailing kind for the dry part of this county inasmuch as it answers the purpose very well and is built so cheaply. The silo is no longer an experiment with us and many of those who built one last year will either dig another or make their present one larger.

That the silo is by far the better way of preserving feed for winter use has been demonstrated right here at home and there is not a man who has one in use who is not a booster for the proposition and who will not advise you to construct one.

Feeding cattle and dairying is growing to be one of the biggest industries with our farmers. You may not have given the subject much thought but the most successful are following one or the other.

Very shortly an opportune time will present itself to construct a silo for this winter's feed, as it will not be long until the crops will be laid by and there will be some spare time. Eventually you will have a silo. Why not now?

We believe the farmers who would succeed, in a large way, in this section must diversify. This is necessary because should one crop fail he has others to fall back upon. Then again, should the market be slow for certain crops, perhaps it will be good for another.

More and more it is being demonstrated that a very large variety of crops can be successfully grown in the Portales Valley and this section. Hence there is no plausible reason for not diversifying here. This, we believe, most of the farmers are doing and they are meeting with gratifying success.

BIG INCREASE IN CATTLE AND HOGS

County Assessor J. E. McCall and his assistants have almost completed the tax rolls, proprietary to sending them to Santa Fe and expect to have them in the hands of the State Tax Commission by Monday next. Byron O. Beall, of Roswell, special representative of the State Tax commission, was here this week and we understand he said that our county assessors books were in good shape.

Mr. Beall visited every business house in Portales and had new affidavits filled out, showing the inventory valuations, January 1st, and various other information.

There is considerable increase in nearly every column on the assessors rolls this year. The total taxable valuation is $7,646,980 or about ten per cent more than last year. The greatest increase is in the number of cattle and hogs which shows that these thriving industries for which Roosevelt county is so well adapted are coming into their own. The increase in the number of cattle is about 35 per cent and the number of hogs about 50 per cent. There is an increase of about seven per cent in the amount of deeded land or a little more than 51,000 acres.

The tax rolls will be sent to the State Tax commission for their approval and will probably be returned about September 1st, when the county commissioners will meet and make the levy.

Elida News.

Jim Anthony and family returned last week from an extended overland trip to points in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Isenburg are the happy parents of baby girl, who came to live with them Sunday morning.

Last Saturday while Jim Burton's young son was attempting to kill a large rattle snake on their ranch 9 miles north of town was bitten on the finger. The thoughtful youth promptly cut out the bitten place with his knife and sucked out the poison. He never felt any serious effects from the bite.

Quite a lot of excitement prevailed late Saturday evening in the City of Elida. Mrs. Therman who lives between here and Kenna, came to town to shop accompanied by her 6 year old daughter, and the child got lost from her mother about 5 o'clock and could not be found. An alarm was spread and a search made. A number of citizens got in cars and went toward the girls home and after long search along the road she was found about 12 o'clock 4 miles from town asleep.

A. G. Eisenburg, who has been agent for the Santa Fe at Elida for the past three years, has resigned his position and was checked out Monday. Mr. Sweetland, from Carlisbad has taken charge. Mr. Eisenburg will look after his ranch west of town.

Geo. Littlefield of Kenna was in town Wednesday on business.

A nice shower sprinkled our streets Tuesday evening.

Bud Wilkerson, a prominent ranchman of near Kenna, was in town Tuesday on business.

Earl Hall, the automobile expert of Roswell, was in town Tuesday on business.

USE OF LAND PLASTER.

It is a Stimulant and Should Be Used Carefully.

(Prepared by Oregon Agricultural College.) Gypsum, or land plaster, as it is commonly called, is used on the farm because of the calcium sulphate it contains. Although the sulphur contained in calcium sulphate may be of value as a direct addition of plant food in certain soils and with certain crops, such as our heavy sulphur consumers, yet this value of land plaster has not been established and must be considered still in the experimental stage. Aside from this possibility, land plaster can in no way be regarded as a fertilizer—that is, it does not add any needed plant food to the soil. Land plaster is a soil stimulant. Its effect is to break down the potash and phosphoric acid compounds in the soil, making them soluble so that they can be utilized by the crop. Such crops as legumes—clover, vetch, alfalfa, etc.—which require large amounts of potash particularly, are thus affected by applications of land plaster to a marked extent. On soils which are rich in potash and phosphoric acid, such as is the case with the heavier silt loams of western Oregon, the use of this stimulant is legitimate, provided it is used only on the leguminous crops, for the reason that the legumes, of course, enrich the soil through their nitrogen gathering ability. The larger the growth of the leguminous crop, then, the greater is the enrichment in nitrogen, and since nitrogen is a much more valuable plant food than potash or phosphoric acid and much more needed in most soils it may be called a legitimate practice to increase the nitrogen supply in this way at the expense of the potash and phosphoric acid where soils are already rich in these two latter plant foods. On crops other than legumes it can hardly be considered a desirable practice to use land plaster as a stimulant, as such use merely causes a more rapid consumption of the soil's fertility without making any return to balance the fertility condition. Further, land plaster does not have, as a rule, a sufficiently marked effect on the cereals and grasses to make its use profitable. Again, on soils which are naturally weak in potash and phosphoric acid the use of the stimulant, land plaster, even on leguminous crops, is not a desirable practice, for while the growth of the leguminous crop may be increased and therefore the nitrogen supply of the soil increased, yet this is done at the expense of the potash and phosphoric acid, which are already deficient, and hence must lead eventually to a lower production, for, no matter how rich the soil may be in nitrogen that plant food alone, without a sufficient supply of potash and phosphoric acid, will not permit maximum production. Therefore, on the sandier types of soils, particularly such as those in the irrigated districts of eastern Oregon, where potash is likely to be deficient, it is decidedly an unwise practice to use land plaster even on leguminous crops. It would be decidedly preferable and, in the long run, more profitable to use a fertilizer such as potassium sulphate, which adds directly to the plant food supply of potash in the soil, thus getting an early or larger increase in the growth of the leguminous crop as could be obtained from land plaster, but at the same time leaving a residue of potash which would steadily build up the soil in this deficient element. Finally, it should be understood that land plaster does not correct soil acidity. It requires ground limestone, shell or some form of lime, such as quicklime, slaked lime, etc., to do this. Aside from the possible value of the sulphur contained, it should be remembered always that land plaster is only a stimulant and therefore, like all stimulants, must be used very carefully and only in a legitimate way or its continued use may easily prove very harmful.

Baptist Notes

Last Sunday was a splendid day at our church. Fine Sunday school and good attendance at both morning and evening preaching services. We were glad to welcome a number of our county teachers. I think the people of this county have reason to be proud of their public school teachers. They have the appearance of fine men and women. Success to them in their noble work. Subject for Sunday a. m. "The New Book," the second sermon on the "Monument of Christianity." Evening, "The Resurrection of Lazarus." This will be one of the most interesting studies in our Sunday in our Sunday evening talks on the life of Christ. We will make you welcome at our church. W. E. Dawn, Pastor.
