Teachers State Convention

The teachers who attended the state convention at Albuquerque last week returned last Thursday. They report a splendid meeting and the largest attendance in the history of the association, practically fifty per cent of the teachers of the state were in attendance. A good delegation attending from Roosevelt county. Among those filling important places on the program were; County Superintendent Sam J. Stinnett, Supt. W. M. Wilson of Portales, and Mrs. Katie Kenady, primary teacher of Portales.

The convention went on record as favoring better salaries and higher standards for the teachers. It was pointed out that many teachers of ability are quitting the profession each year to accept other positions of more remunerative salary. Albuquerque was chosen as the next meeting which time will be Thanksgiving week 1920.

EXPECT TO COLLECT SUM OF $53,000,000

SOUTHERN METHODISTS OUTLINE PLANS FOR HANDLING GREAT CENTENARY FUND.

Organization Will Collect Largest Amount Ever Handled By Any Religious Denomination Anywhere.

The Centenary Commission of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has announced its plan for collecting the $53,000,000.00 which was pledged for the missionary work of the church in the recent eight-day drive. The plan was prepared and will be directed by Colonel John E. Edgerton, of Tennessee, the general centenary treasurer and the director of the department of finance for the Centenary Commission.

Colonel Edgerton is a well known business man. He is president and manager of the Lebanon Woolen Mills, president of the Tennessee State Manufacturers Association, and during the war he was a member of the executive committee of the war industry board appointed by President Wilson.

"Our slogan is no shrinkage, but an increase," said Colonel Edgerton recently. "Just as the Southern Methodist church has surpassed all records in securing pledges for benevolent purposes and has raised the largest sum ever given to any church at one time in the history of the world, so do we expect to set a new record in the collection of these pledges."

An Extensive Organization.

The organization through which these pledges will be collected has four centers of responsibility. The first is a general finance commission with headquarters at Nashville, headed by Colonel Edgerton. This commission has prepared the standard plan and will direct the entire movement, handing down to the various bodies throughout the church detailed plans for their guidance.

There will also be a conference cabinet in each annual conference of the church, about forty in number. These conference cabinets will be composed of the Conference Missionary Secretary, Conference Campaign Director, the Lay leader, and the Conference Centenary Treasurer. Each of these officials have certain specific duties, and will direct the work of collecting all the pledges in each annual conference.

In each of the four hundred districts of the church there is a similar cabinet composed of the Presiding Elders, the Lay leaders, Campaign Directors and the Chairman of the Methodist Minute Men. The Conference Missionary Secretary is an ex-officio member of all district cabinets. The work of collecting in the districts will be supervised by this district cabinet.

Twenty Thousand Churches.

In each of the 20,000 local churches there will be local cabinets composed of the pastor, the centenary treasurer, the campaign director, the lay leader, the chairman of the minute men, the Sunday school superintendent and the president of the Woman's Missionary Society. This cabinet will do all the actual work of collecting the individual pledges.

The persons who made subscriptions will be divided into lists of twenty-five and the lists will be placed in charge of a certain member of the church cabinet who will collect all pledges as they come due.

You will have to hurry, many of those nice presents at Portales Drug Store have been selected and put away.

WOMAN'S NERVES MADE STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Winona, Minn.—"I suffered for more than a year from nervousness, and was so bad I could not rest at night—would lie awake and get so nervous I would have to get up and walk around and in the morning would be all tired out. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and thought I would try it. My nervousness soon left me. I sleep well and feel fine in the morning and able to do my work. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make weak nerves strong."—Mrs. ALBERT SULTZ, 603 Olmstead St., Winona, Minn.

How often do we hear the expression among women, "I am so nervous, I cannot sleep," or "it seems as though I should fly." Such women should profit by Mrs. Sultze's experience and give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial.

For forty years it has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, dizziness, and nervous prostration of women, and is now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.

Why Complain?

There was a fish dinner and Henrietta, aged five, was doing considerable grumbling about a couple of bones that, despite her mother's caution, were in her portion.

Edith, aged six, listened to Henrietta for some time without comment. Then, suddenly, she burst out, patience having apparently reached its limit.

"For goodness' sake, Henrietta, don't fuss so! God put 'em there."—Rochester Times.

SORGHUM SILAGE FOR DAIRY COWS

Crop Promises to Become Champion Yielder of Succulence for Winter Supply.

STOCK RELISH CANNED FEED

Experiments Have Demonstrated That It is One of the Most Admirable Crops for Ensilage Purposes in Dry Sections.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Sorghum silage, according to United States department of agriculture specialists, promises to become a champion yielder of winter succulence, not only for dairy cows but for other live stock which relish canned crops. Unfortunately, when sorghum was first used for silage purposes, many growers cut the sorghum too early, so that when the material was removed from the silo for feeding it was sour and acid, and live stock rejected it. As a result, sorghum gained an evil reputation, although experiments have demonstrated that it is one of the most admirable crops for ensilage purposes that can be grown in the Great Plains region.

In five years' experiments at Hays, Kan., the average acre yield of sweet sorghums was 10.34 tons, as compared with 8.06 tons of kafir and 3.3 tons of corn. In eastern Kansas, where the rainfall is 30 inches or more, on fertile soils sweet sorghums have yielded 18.2 tons an acre, as compared with 11.88 tons of kafir and 11.81 tons of corn silage. Detailed feeding experiments have shown that sweet sorghum silage is proportionately equal to corn and kafir silage for either beef production or the maintenance of stock animals, although for dairy cows this variety of ensilage is less productive because of its low content of protein.

Field of Sorghum Suitable for Silage.

Acidity is Low.

Sorghum silage should be cut when it is mature, its ripeness being denoted by the presence of hard seed. The test for ripeness is when the seed will crack when crunched between the teeth. When cut at this time it produces a fine-quality silage which keeps well and is more keenly relished by cattle than corn silage. Experiments show that the average acidity of corn silage is 2.03 per cent, that of sweet sorghum silage is 1.46 per cent, and that of kafir silage is 1.43 per cent.

The United States department of agriculture does not advocate the grow-

Corn Makes Best Silage.

Corn makes the most and best silage when the kernels are glazed. Experiments in the feeding of silage to beef cattle show that the greatest gains are made when the kernels are glazed or dented.

Large Value of Bermuda Grass. Bermuda grass has a large value as a hay crop, or as a soil binder, or as a pasture crop, or as a soil builder in washed-out places, such as gullies.

Filth Diseases. Roup, chickenpox, white comb, scaly legs and other diseases are all aggravated by filth and might be called filth diseases.

Most Altruistic Cow. Even the most altruistic cow cannot do her neighbor's bit. Each must stand or fall by herself—and some should fall by the butcher's ax!

ing of sorghum for silage in specialized corn-producing localities, such as Illinois and Iowa. However, the utilization of sorghum as silage is recommended in the Great Plains section, and also in the Southeastern states, where this cane crop will produce greater yields and better ensilage than will corn.

Velvet Beans in Combination.

In case a dairy farmer wishes to raise an ensilage of practically balanced composition—assuming that his location is in a territory where both these crops may be profitably produced—a mixture of velvet beans and sorghum is very satisfactory. This combination is high yielding and produces a succulent canned feed which is very productive of both milk and meat. An objection to velvet bean growing in combination with sorghum is that the crop has to be cut by hand, as it usually is densely matted and twined together so as to render impossible the use of a corn binder.

VALUE OF HARDWOOD ASHES

In General the Smaller and Younger the Wood Burned the Better—Faggots Most Valuable.

Ashes from hardwood (deciduous trees) are richer in both phosphorus and potash than those from pines and other soft woods (conifers). The ashes of twigs (faggots for example) are worth more for agricultural purposes than the middle of an old tree. In general the smaller and younger the wood burned the better the ashes. The ashes of coal do not contain enough potash to make them valuable in this connection.

HOGGING OFF CORN IS BEST

Practice Once Termed by Farmers as Wasteful is Now Approved by Experiment Stations.

The opinion once held by a majority of farmers, that the practice of "hogging down corn" was a wasteful method of harvesting a crop, has been reversed in the light of experience. The plan has been followed at experiment stations and on many farms for a long time, and has proved to be highly successful and economical.

COMPOST PILES NEED WATER

Should Be Added Often Enough to Prevent Fire-Fanging—Fork Over at Least Twice.

The compost piles of manure need attention. Water should be added often enough to prevent fire-fanging, and they should be turned or forked over at least twice before applying to secure fine texture. The composting of stable manures is practiced mainly by market gardeners who follow intensive methods.

FARM PRODUCTS FOR MARKET

Grading Assists Possibilities of Sale and Its Value—Culls May Be Kept at Home.

Grading farm produce for market increases the possibilities for its sale and increases its value. The culls may be kept on the farm and not only save the cost of hauling but they may be put to some useful purpose.

GOOD PLAN OF CURING SEED

Indians Laid Corn on Willow-Branch Platform to Get Free Circulation of Air.

The old Indian plan of curing seed corn has a lesson for the farmer of today. The Indians laid it on an open willow-branch platform where the air could circulate freely until it was dry. Then it was safely stored for winter.

Good water is hard to get from an open well—too much chance of impurities getting in.

Winter Cover Crops Benefit.

Winter cover crops are of much benefit to worn lands because roots of plants hold the soil particles, utilize the readily available plant foods that might be lost and return vegetable matter when turned under.

No Excuse for Crowding.

There is no excuse for crowding the garden on the farm where there is plenty of room because it will pay good returns on the ground occupied.

Produces Hay.

Field experiments in Ireland have shown that liquid manure produces better hay crops than any other fertilizer.

Greatest Need of Soils.

More organic matter, by which is generally meant more vegetable matter, is the greatest need where fields are old and the soil thin.

Weed Seeds Retain Vitality.

Some weed seeds keep their vitality for 25 years. To down weeds keep them from producing seed.

STRONG LINE-UP FOR SALE OF XMAS SEALS

$60,000 IS GOAL OF CAMPAIGN
FROM DECEMBER 1 TO 10

Ninety-one Per Cent of Money to Stay
In State for Public Health Work
—Pankey is State Chairman.

With the coming of December 1, one of the most complete sets of machinery ever erected in the state of New Mexico will be set into motion to raise $60,000 for public health work within this state. Headed by Lieut.-Gov. B. F. Pankey, state chairman of the drive, there is a force of twenty-nine county chairmen, 1,500 precinct chairmen and several thousand workers ready to make a thorough canvass to secure the money necessary to carry out a broad program of health protection during the year of 1920.

The chief medium for raising the money will be the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals. These tiny emblems of holiday cheer have been sold in New Mexico for the past eight years. This year, the New Mexico Public Health Association, state agent for the seals, hopes to achieve a sale which is greater than all the other years combined. Seven million seals are being prepared at state headquarters in Albuquerque for distribution over New Mexico. These are to be sold at a cent apiece, "a penny's worth of prevention and cure."

Money Stays in State.

In addition to being the greatest sale in the history of the state, the 1919 campaign is notable in that 91 per cent of the money raised will remain within the state, the remainder going to defray administrative purposes and to assist the National Tuberculosis Association in its vigorous warfare against tuberculosis in all parts of the country.

The health program which the association has outlined consists first of the employment of six public health nurses who would be available for demonstrations of home care of the sick and would be able to direct all nursing work during an epidemic, such as the influenza outbreak of last winter. They would also direct surveys to find the health assets of the state. They could be mobilized at any point to meet a localized epidemic. One would be a specialist in school work and would be in charge of the Modern Health Crusade which is financed entirely by the association. Another would be detailed to follow up New Mexico soldiers, sailors and marines who were discharged or rejected from the service for physical defects.

Lecturers On Broad Program.

The employment of two full-time lecturers is included in the broad program. One would work principally in Spanish-speaking communities and would give lectures in Spanish with illustrations to show methods of safeguarding health. The other would lecture only in English. Provision is made for educational work, for the distribution of suitable literature in all necessary languages and for financing the Modern Health Crusade. The portion of money which will be spent for administrative salaries is eight per cent of the total, much below the usual figure in work of this kind.

The drive is to open December 1 and continue ten days. Special services in a number of churches on Sunday, November 30, will signalize the launching of the campaign. Slides in motion picture theaters throughout the state will show the progress of the Christmas seal sale over New Mexico.

THE STAND FOR HEALTH

The desultory fighting against tuberculosis and other preventable diseases must give way to concentrated effort. The story of the ants who carried away a mountain is too familiar to need repetition. We know the wisdom of a united stand.

War records show that out of every 1,000 men of draft age examined, 24 were rejected because of tuberculosis. New Mexico had its share of rejections from this cause. Nearly three hundred boys from this state were sent home from camp because of a tubercular condition. Not a county in the state escaped. Those rejected were not mainly descendants of men or women who came to the state already infected. Many were born and raised here. Their names were Jones and Armijo and Smith and Lucero. Tuberculosis is no respecter of ancestry.

There is little sentiment in the call of the New Mexico Public Health Association for $60,000 with which to fight preventable disease, teach health in the schools, and lay a basis for a stronger, more vigorous citizenship. Good business sense demands better health.

Money has been given for bankrupt Europe, for bleeding Belgium, for starving Serbia. Is it not time to realize that charity best begins at home? Ninety-one per cent of the money raised between December 1 and 10 remains within New Mexico for this task: to prevent tuberculosis. It does double duty. It builds for generations to come. It does triple duty: Each Red Cross Christmas seal carries a message of hope, of cheer, of "peace on earth, good will toward men" to any part of any country. Each seal is a penny's worth of prevention and cure. Buy seals liberally; join the fight for better health in New Mexico.

"SIT DOWN!"

Synopsis—Senor Antonio de la Guerra, a fine old Spaniard living on his ancestral estate on the American side of the Mexican border, is informed by his American lawyer, Dempton, that there is a technical error in his will. He thereupon signs a new will, without reading it. While this is going on his adorable granddaughter and heiress, Senorita Teresa, is out on her rose-covered balcony listening to American love-making from Billy Stanway, owner of the Painted Rock ranch. Teresa goes to join her grandfather and finds him gone, with the drawing room in disorder and blood on the floor. The American takes command of the situation. Senor Eduardo Ramon Torre, a hated kinsman, arrives. Stanway and the De la Guerra ranch hands return from the vain pursuit of the bandits. The new will disinherits Teresa and makes Torre sole heir. Captain Juarez, nominally representing the bandits, appears and demands $20,000 ransom for De la Guerra. Torre, as heir, assumes control.

CHAPTER V—Continued.

"Unfortunately, in answering his summons to the rancho, I came too late for him to make me cognizant of the hiding place. Perhaps you, prima mia, are better informed?"

"Perhaps," she answered him quietly, though the color still ran red in her cheeks.

"And perhaps," added Stanway significantly, "Senor Torre would be glad to have knowledge of this banco; would he glad to have the money handed over to his emissary?"

"Emissary?" Again Torre's black brows arched. "The fabrications of the American's suspicions are truly wonderful! He would suspect me of robbing myself?"

He laughed insolently. Stanway looked questioningly at the girl.

"Prima mia," began Torre. The girl whirled upon him, her eyes flashing.

"Senor Torre," she cried passionately, "you make it necessary for me to remind you that our relationship is not of my choosing, and that we are not close enough for you to call me cousin! If you find it necessary to address me at all I should like to be addressed as Senorita de la Guerra. Please remember."

Torre flushed angrily but managed his careless smile.

"As you wish, Senorita de la Guerra," he retorted. "May I suggest something?"

"What is it?" shortly.

"Merely this: This man who calls himself Captain Juarez may be a rank impostor, as well as a scoundrel. Before even considering the matter of a ransom would it not be well to ask him to prove to us that he knows at least where our kinsman is? If you rang for Pedro again and sent him with the message—"

Teresa rang and sat in a musing silence until Pedro came.

"Pedro," she said then, "tell Captain Juarez that we are considering his proposition. Tell him further that we wish to be certain that he really comes from the senor."

Pedro bowed, withdrew, and returned almost immediately, his face strangely white, his hand shaking as he held out something to the girl.

"It is the master's ring," he said, deeply agitated. "The ring he wore always upon his left hand. Senorita, senorita," his voice choking, his eyes glistening, "you will not let them kill him?"

"No, Pedro." She took the ring, her own eyes shining. "If harm comes to him, Pedro," she went on steadily, "we shall know what to do, shall we not?"

Pedro made no spoken answer. But his eyes, suddenly hard and cruel, went straight to Torre, resting full of meaning upon him. Then, turning abruptly, the servant left the room.

"It is papa grande's ring, Senor Stanway." She ignored Torre entirely. "I am afraid that Captain Juarez speaks the truth."

Stanway stood with drawn brows, staring at the floor. The whole affair was so eloquent of rascality on the part of the debonaire, black-mustached Torre it was so inconceivable that his presence here now was not a part of dark design, so ridiculous to suppose that Antonio de la Guerra had ever really purposed disinheriting the girl who was dearer to him than daughters to most men—and yet what to do?

Suddenly Stanway bent forward, whispering swiftly, guardedly, to the girl.

And then, after Stanway had finished and stood erect again, looking down upon her, as Torre watched, his eyes narrowing suspiciously, her hand clenched, her chin squared, determination came into her mien and voice.

"It is a chance, senor," she said. She rose and stood looking at him steadily, still ignoring Torre. "It is a game of dice with our destinies."

"And you will play it, senorita?" eagerly from the American.

She made a little gesture as though she were handing something to him.

"I place the dicebox in your hands. May I, Senor Billy?"

"Then," cried Stanway, "we must waste no time! Call Pedro."

She rang. Torre, still watching suspiciously, made no comment. Pedro came in his swift, silent fashion.

"Send word to Gaucho to come to the house immediately," Stanway told him. "Let him bring three men with him. Let them come armed. And see that Captain Juarez does not leave the house. I shall—entertain Senor Torre."

A quick light of understanding leaped up in Pedro's eyes. He turned with a brief, grunted "Bueno," and hurried on his errand.

Torre had leaped to his feet, his face crimson.

"What does this mean?" he cried sharply. "As heir to the De la Guerra estates I demand—"

"Sit down!" Stanway's voice was very cool, but it rang with an unmistakable sternness. "We are going to begin our game of dice presently. And you will do well, senor, in playing your hand to keep right on smoking and—Sit down!"

His hand moved a very little as he spoke, coming to rest upon his right hip. Torre sat down.

"Sit Down!"

CHAPTER VI.

A Lawyer Plays Witness. "Vidal has returned, senor."

Billy Stanway awoke with a start. The late afternoon sun was streaming through the drawn curtains of the guestroom to which he had been shown, and Pedro stood over his bed.

"Vidal has brought Mr. Dempton back with him?" he asked, sitting up.

"Si, senor," grinned Pedro. "I think that Mr. Dempton did not like to come, but"—and he shrugged eloquently—"you know Vidal, senor."

"Torre and Juarez have had no word together? They know nothing of our having brought Dempton to the rancho?"

"No, senor."

Stanway slipped out of bed, his great sinewy body towering for a moment over the lesser form of the bed.

"You are a gentleman, Pedro," he said warmly. "Your master, when he comes back to us, will have you to thank as much as anyone. Now, will you ask your senorita to come to the library? And then will you see that Vidal brings the lawyer there?"

Pedro went about his errand, and Stanway, dressing swiftly, went to the library, which he had chosen because it was at one end of the house, and so a place in which to converse without fear of being overheard by Torre or the captain.

Vidal was there before him, a big man with a beautiful body and a scarred, ugly face. And with him, looking grotesquely small, pitifully inefficient in the presence of his guard, was Dempton.

"Mr. Stanway, sir." The lawyer was upon his feet in an instant, his face red with anger, his speech seeming to froth up in a stream of barely articulated words from between his writhing lips. "Are you one of this damnable conspiracy, sir? It is brigandage; it is outlawry; it is sheer defiance of every statute—"

"Good afternoon, Mr. Dempton," said the rancher pleasantly. "There is no conspiracy on our part. We merely wish to ask you a few questions, even to give you a chance to get out of this mess skin-whole. Sit down. The senorita will be here in a moment."

The door opened and Teresa came in. She nodded brightly at Stanway, bestowed a look upon Vidal which plunged him into an ecstasy of delight, and with no word to Dempton went to Stanway's side.

"Have I kept you waiting?" she asked.

"No. I came in just a second before you." He drew out a chair for her and turned to Vidal. "Vidal, we have a few words to say to Mr. Dempton. Will you wait in the patio? I shall call you when we want you."

"Dempton," Stanway went on, "what passed between you and the Senor de la Guerra last night?"

"He sent for me to make a change in his will," said Dempton glibly. "He gave no reasons for what he was doing, although he must have noted my surprise."

"Did you know that he has been engaged during several years on his memoirs?"

Dempton, a lawyer trained to ask just such questions as that, looked at Stanway quickly, suspiciously. He hesitated a moment before answering. "I have heard him speak of it."

Stanway smiled at the girl, which she returned, and Dempton, plainly puzzled, watched them closely.

"The law is rather severe in the punishment it metes out to kidnapers, is it not, Mr. Dempton?"

"Yes."

"There is what you men of the law term an accessory before the fact?"

"Certainly," snapped the lawyer. "But if you care to consult me in a legal capacity—"

"I don't," lightly. "We are sending for Mr. Branson of Branson & Howard to advise us."

Dempton's tongue ran back and forth between his dry lips.

"Now," went on Stanley, without waiting for an answer, "how much money did Torre pay you for your part?"

Again Dempton had leaped to his feet, his face flushed, his eyes ablaze. "You mean to insinuate—"

"Sit down!" Stanway caught him by the shoulders and drove him back into his chair. "Did you know that after you had gone and before he was spirited away Senor de la Guerra added certain notes to his memoirs?"

"What are you driving at?" fumed Dempton.

Stanway stepped to the door. "Vidal," he called, "Mr. Dempton will remain here in the library. You will see that he does not grow lonesome? Bueno." He came back to Dempton's side and added quietly: "I am driving at this: the senor made certain observations upon the character of Americans. He mentioned the fact that a certain man had just come and gone whom he did not trust; he stated why that man had come; he mentioned a flaw that that man had pretended to find— Ah!" as a look of sudden understanding and a quick fear with it leaped into Dempton's small eyes. "Now you see? Shall we leave them, senorita?"

Teresa stepped through the door, Stanway following and closing it after them.

"We'll have him scared out of his life in no time," he chuckled. "By tomorrow morning he'll be ready to tell everything he knows if we'll just promise him twenty-four hours to dig out in."

"You are very wonderful, Senor Billy!"

The look she flashed him was unmistakably full of gratitude; and his leaping hope sought to read something else in it.

"Teresa!" he whispered. But she had slipped from him, laughing, and a lacy mantilla was in his hands, and from the far side of the room, as she whisked into the hallway, she wafted him a kiss from her pink finger tips.

"Teresa!" he urged.

But the door had closed.

"And," he muttered, his eyes darkening, "after all, when I find her papa grande for her he's just going to run me off the rancho! Unless— By Jupiter! I've a notion to do it!"

He was thinking of Padre Ignacio, the priest at La Panza.

Torre shows his hand and makes threats. Stanway defies him and makes counterthreats.

WONDER AT FOREST'S QUIET

Travelers Have Frequently Commented on Apparent Deficiency of Animal Life in the Woods.

European travelers frequently allude to the American forest as remarkable for its solitude and deficiency of animal life. A foreigner is struck with surprise, when rambling through the bush, at the scarcity of birds, rabbits, and hares, and astonished when in the deepest recesses of the wild country he sees no increase of their numbers. When paddling his canoe through lake and river he will startle but few pairs of exceedingly timid waterfowl, where in Europe they swam in multitudes. This scarcity of animals, I would remark, is not peculiar to the American wilderness. The same fact has been observed in extensive forests both in Europe and Asia; and in proportion as the traveler penetrates into their interiors he finds a smaller number of animals of almost every species. Birds, insects and quadrupeds will multiply in a certain ratio with the progress of agriculture, so long as there remains a sufficiency of wild wood to afford them a refuge and a home. They use the forest chiefly for shelter, and the open grounds for forage; the woods are their house, the meadows their farm.—Wilson Flagg, in "Woods and By-Ways of New England."

De Leon's Landing in Florida.

On March 27, in 1513, on Easter Sunday, Ponce de Leon discovered land after his voyage of exploration from Porto Rico. De Leon had sailed in search of the mythical island of Bimini, where the "Fountain of Youth" was said to be, when he discovered land on the North American continent. He named the country Florida, on account of the profusion of flowers.

Woes Laid to Dyspepsia.

How many serious family quarrels, marriages out of spite, and alterations of wills might have been prevented by a gentle dose of blue pill! What awful instances of chronic dyspepsia in the character of Hamlet and Othello! Banish dyspepsia from society and you have no crime, or at least so little that you would not consider it worth mentioning.—Charles Kingsley.

He Wears a Necklace.

Did you ever hear of a man wearing a necklace? Well, that is what the male Canadian warbler does, while on the female of this attractive bird there is only the slightest indication of a necklace, says the American Forestry association, Washington, which is conducting the nation-wide bird-house building contest among school children. The warbler's necklace of black spots shows up very strikingly on his olive green and yellowish throat and breast. On the back the bird is of a slate gray color with the tail more of an olive brown tone. This is a very lively bird. It is very seldom still for more than a few seconds before it dashes out at some tempting bit to eat. It is partial to the wooded banks of streams. It usually keeps in underbrush near the ground.

Wireless vs. Wire.

Will all the telegraph and telephone poles, wires and instruments connected with these methods of communication be simply so much "scrap" in a year or so? Representative Steenerson of Minnesota, ranking Republican member of the house post office committee, predicted "Yes," if the progress now being made in wireless communication continues. Mr. Steenerson, as quoted in The Wireless Age, says: "Radio communication is the coming thing. It is making such rapid strides that before the end of the year the average American will not be bothering much about the transmission of an ordinary message over an ordinary telegraph or telephone wire or as to whether the ordinary telephone or telegraph wire is owned or controlled by government or private interests."

Physicians' Oath.

A part of the Hippocratic oath is as follows: "Whatever, in connection with my professional practice, or not in connection with it, I may see or hear in the lives of men which ought not to be spoken abroad, I will not divulge, as reckoning that all such should be kept secret." This oath is respected by every court in the world, and rarely indeed has it ever been broken by a reputable physician.

BAGKACHE AND HEAVY FEELING

Weak, Nervous, Restless Woman In Arkansas Hears of Cardui, Tries It and Is Greatly Benefited. Now Recommends It To Others.

Peach Orchard, Ark.—Mrs. Nonie High, who lives near here, states: "Some time ago I began to have trouble with my back. I would ache and I could hardly get up when down. I was so weak I would just drag around and did not feel like doing anything at all. I was so nervous I felt I could scream, and . . . such a heavy feeling I could not rest at all. It looked like I was going to get down in bed . . ."

I heard of Cardui and thought I would try it and see what it would do for my case. After taking a few bottles I grew stronger . . . The bloated, heavy feeling left me. I wasn't so nervous, in fact, felt better all over. I took twelve bottles and certainly was greatly benefited and can recommend it to any one as a tonic or builder. I often tell others how it helped and strengthened me."

Cardui is a mild vegetable tonic, with no bad after-effects. Its ingredients act in a helping, building way, on the womanly constitution.

"Pape's Dispepsin" puts Sour, Gassy, Acid Stomachs in order at once!

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sick, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested foods—just eat a tablet or two of Pape's Dispepsin to help neutralize acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless antacid is Pape's Dispepsin, which costs so little at drug stores.—Adv.

Stop jolting Liver and Bowels with violent drugs, but take "Cascarets."

"Dynamiting" bile out of your system with calomel and other sickening purgatives is all wrong. Salts, Oil, and Cathartic Waters act by flooding the bowels with the digestive juices which are vital to the stomach. Cascarets are different. They act as a tonic to the bowel muscles, which is the only sensible way to relieve a bilious attack, a sour, acid stomach, or constipated bowels. There is no griping or inconvenience. You naturally return to regularity and cheerfulness. Cascarets cost very little and they work while you sleep.—Adv.

MYOGA HAD DONE ITS WORK

Ample Proof of Its Potency, Though There Was No Occasion for Many Congratulations.

A Japanese, Mr. Aisaku Waseda, discusses Japanese humor in the Tourist, and offers the following selection:

Said an innkeeper's wife to her husband:

"The guest who came this evening carries a package that seems to contain things of great value. I wish he would leave it behind."

"I have a good idea," said the husband. "I will give him a great deal of myoga."

The innkeeper carried out his plan and gave myoga, a spicy vegetable supposed to produce forgetfulness, in abundance to the guest with soup and with vegetables, and soon after the guest had departed he hopefully inspected the room. There was no trace of the coveted baggage.

The landlady began to scoff at the inefficacy of myoga as an oblivion producer, but her husband admonished her not to lose faith so easily.

"The myoga has had its effect," he declared.

"What do you mean?" demanded the woman.

"Why, he forgot to pay his bill," replied the husband.

BROUGHT JOY TO ART LOVERS

Masterpiece of Painting, Recently Found in Spain, Has Stirred Critics and Connoisseurs.

A discovery that has given critics and connoisseurs of art in Spain a fine topic of conversation was made the other day when somebody found in an old barn at Extremadura an ancient painting of great merit, but with nothing about it that has yet indicated the name of the painter, the Christian Science Monitor states.

Manuel Cossio, an expert, declares it a work of "transcendent importance for the history of Spanish art," a precursor of the figures by El Greco and Zurbaran—but offers no opinion as to the identity of the artist. Mr. Exhevarrieta, a millionaire of Bilbao, comes forward with the large sum of money needed to persuade the possessor not to offer the picture for foreign purchase, and so it remains temporarily in the Prado museum while the government decides whether or not to acquire it permanently. The critics seem in agreement that the unknown painter painted it in the first half of the sixteenth century. Otherwise the world has found a new art mystery; and apparently, too, the man who owned the barn is as much surprised as anybody else.

Lots of men would be good husbands if they had better wives.

It is easier to cultivate a girl's imagination than her voice.

A FREAK PLAY

There have been many freak plays this season at the Polo ground, but one that occurred in the final game of the season between the Giants and Pirates was one for the book. It happened in the seventh inning. Schmidt, the Pittsburgh catcher, was at bat. He hit a grounder sharply at Zimmerman. Heinie fielded the ball cleanly, but noticed that Schmidt did not run to first. Instead, the visiting backstop was rapping his bat on the ground to see if it had been broken by the blow. So Zim tossed the ball to Fletcher. Fletcher relayed it to Frisch and Frisch passed it to Chase, retiring Schmidt at first base. Schmidt's bat had been fractured at the handle.

GIVE VARDON CREDIT FOR PECULIAR GRIP

Supposition Is Incorrect, According to Harold Hilton.

John Ernest Laidley Held All of His Clubs by Aid of Overlapping Fingers Long Before Vardon Became Prominent.

While a majority of the star golfers in this country use what is known as the overlapping grip, there are few who know the origin of this method. If the average links devotee were asked who was the pioneer of this style, he would probably reply without hesitation, "Harry Vardon, of course," but, according to Harold H. Hilton, former British amateur champion, this is incorrect.

Many years before Vardon was taking part in championship golf a certain amateur, John Ernest Laidley, was playing better than any other in Scotland and at the same time much more on a par with the best professional talent in either Scotland or England, says Hilton. Laidley was holding the grip of all his clubs by the aid of overlapping the fingers of the right hand over the forefinger and thumb of the left hand, and his success was so great that one would have naturally assumed that he would have many imitators.

No doubt in his own circle at Musselburgh and at North Berwick there was a certain coterie of admirers who followed him, but as none of them made any marked success it became somewhat recognized that Laidley's unique methods were simply the eccentricity of golf genius, and were not safe for the ordinary man to imitate.

Next to adopt the overlapping grip among the famous players was J. H. Taylor. He is a slightly younger man than Vardon, and while it would not be fair to assume that he took to the method of grip before Vardon, he appeared in first class golf before the Jersey man and made a success of it before the latter did, so he must be viewed in the light of being the second apostle of the grip which is so prevalent in present-day golf.

A little later Vardon came on the scene, utilizing a similar grip to that of Laidley and Taylor, and it was only then that the critics began thoroughly to realize that there must be something in this unorthodox method of gripping the club. Soon there became quite a craze for overlapping the fingers, and the comparatively new form of hold was termed the "Vardon" grip, by which it is referred to this day. By that name it will probably always be known.

HEALTH CRUSADERS FIGHT OFF ILLNESS

Twenty-Five Thousand School Children Just in Modern Tournament for Better Health—Seal Sale Finances Crusade.

The days of chivalry have returned in New Mexico. Through out the schools of the state, there are 25,000 Crusaders who are combating the demons of ill health and preventable disease. They are enrolled in the Modern Health Crusade, conducted by the New Mexico Public Health Association in most of the public and many of the private schools of the state.

The Modern Health Crusade is a system of practical health instruction depending for its success upon the formation of health habits rather than the memorization of mere rules. The child is regularly enrolled as a Crusader and is assigned eleven health chores which must be done daily. If seventy-five per cent are done for two weeks, the child becomes a page in health chivalry; at five weeks, a squire; at ten weeks, a knight; and at fifteen weeks, a knight banneret. Pins and buttons symbolic of success are awarded at the end of the various periods.

Endorsed by the National Educational Association and the state department of education, the Crusade has been widely adopted in New Mexico. Refused Insurance

Mr. Dunning Left Service in Bad Shape, But Doan's Soon Corrected His Trouble.

Geo. Dunning, ex-Chief Boatwain Mate of the U. S. Navy, 470 Medford St., Somerville, Mass., says: "Every bit of trouble I suffered from my kidneys was a result of exposure at sea. I was retired practically an invalid. My kidneys became more irregular all the time and some nights I was forced to get up every half hour. The kidney secretions burned like fire and were filled with brick-dust-like sediment. My joints swelled and were inflamed. I couldn't bend over to lace my shoes and had to be helped up and down. Right after my retirement from service I tried to get insured, but was turned down because of kidney trouble. I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and used sixteen boxes. By that time every sign of kidney trouble left me and my back was like iron; not an ache or pain left. I tried for insurance again and was declared a good risk. I give Doan's Kidney Pills credit for putting me in perfect health."

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MR. GRASSHOPPER.

"You know," said Mr. Grasshopper, "I have a number of ideas."

"Dancing About."

dancing about on this lawn; just any number of them are hopping and jumping and having a fine time. But they're not doing anything serious and so they are frivolous.

"Of course it is good to be frivolous once in a while for if we weren't we would be too serious and we would miss lots of fun and that would be foolish."

"It would, it would," agreed Mr. Grasshopper.

"Well," Mrs. Grasshopper continued, "we will move a little away from the rest."

So they moved away from the grasshoppers who were taking walks with people who came across the lawn and over the groups where they were all playing. That is they hopped on ladies' skirts and on gentlemen's shoulders and they jumped in front of them and around them and everywhere.

Some had actually gone hopping along the fields and sprung and hopped this way and that on this lovely autumn day when they felt so fine and spry.

But Mr. and Mrs. Grasshopper moved away from all those playing on the lawn, neither did they join those who were taking cross-country walks, and neither did they play with any of the ones who were going in for all sorts of games.

They didn't jump on any one's shoulder, nor on any one's skirt but they went off a little to one side, and Mr. Grasshopper said:

"I will tell you some of the ideas I have and I have them because I have heard many people talk and I have decided many things."

"In the first place I think it is very foolish for people to like a person who is dressed up fine and who has lots of money and make a great fuss over them then. I've seen people doing that. And I've seen people making a fuss over some one in a uniform who would think the person quite beneath them when in ordinary clothes."

"All of that I've seen, for we live where many people are in the summer time."

"But I'll tell you what I've also seen, Mrs. Grasshopper."

Mrs. Grasshopper hopped a little nearer and said:

"Yes, what is that, Mr. Grasshopper?"

"I've seen that the people who are really friends and who really stick to each other all the time are those who don't think of whether they have titles or uniforms or fine clothes but who simply think of what the people are themselves."

"And it has been a pleasure to me to see the younger grasshoppers. They have hopped along and played with different people, and they haven't been snobbish in the least."

"I really think the school they all went to this summer did them a great deal of good. It really benefitted them."

"Just what I think," said Mrs. Grasshopper.

"By the way," said Mr. Grasshopper, "I have heard that our sign painter, Mr. Green Grasshopper, has painted a fine sign to go over the school."

"What is it?" Mrs. Grasshopper asked.

"The sign reads, 'Here is the School of Good Sense.'"

"Fine," said Mrs. Grasshopper. "That is truly a splendid sign."

Then she added after a moment, "Was it your idea, Mr. Grasshopper?"

"Yes, it was my idea," he admitted "but Mr. Green Grasshopper did the beautiful work in making the sign out of wide grass."

"We Will Move."

"I caught her pussyfooting around my room the other day."

"The old cat!"

SOUTH IS TURNING AGAINST CALOMEL

Mr. Dodson, the "Liver Tone" Man, Responsible for Change for the Better.

Every druggist in town has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it." Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle doesn't cost very much, but if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, just ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day.—Adv.

HOT SOUPS FOR COOL EVENINGS.

The expert soup-maker will obtain delicious flavors by using leftover meats and vegetables. After cooking the soup should be strained and thickened as usual with a binding of butter and flour cooked together.

Corn Chowder.

Take about four teaspoonfuls of fat salt pork cubes and try them out; add one sliced onion and cook five minutes, stirring often to keep the onion from burning. Parboil four cupfuls of potato slices in water to cover, drain and add the potatoes to the fat and onion, with two cupfuls of boiling water; cook until the potatoes are soft, add a can of corn, a quart of milk, salt, pepper and buttered crackers. Serve with the buttered crackers on top. This recipe will serve six.

Cream Soup.—Put thin slices of bread as thin as shavings with a small amount of butter in a saucepan and brown; pour over enough boiling water to make the soup needed, add salt to taste and let the mixture boil up; then remove the saucepan and stir in a large cupful of cream, the thicker the better. Be sure to have it well salted or the soup will taste flat.

Cream of Peanut Soup.—Put a cupful of peanut butter into a quart of milk, add salt, cayenne, a tablespoonful of grated onion, a bay leaf, celery salt, and cook ten minutes in a double boiler. Moisten a tablespoonful of cornstarch with cold milk and stir until smooth, add to the soup and cook ten minutes. Strain and serve with cubes of toasted bread.

Quick Egg Soup.—Stir a teaspoonful of beef extract into a quart of boiling water, add a grated onion, celery salt, salt and pepper to taste. Pour boiling hot into a tureen with four tablespoonfuls of boiled rice and two well beaten eggs.

Split Pea Soup.—Pick over, wash and put to soak in plenty of cold water one cupful of split peas. In the morning cook in two quarts of water, add a two-inch cube of salt pork and one sliced onion. Cook and stir often until the peas are soft, rub through a sieve, thicken with two tablespoonfuls of flour and butter, add milk to thin the puree to the desired consistency. Season well and serve very hot.

Ordinarily we find in people the qualities we are mostly looking for or the qualities that our prevailing characteristics call forth. The larger the nature the less critical and cynical it is, the more it is given to looking for the best in others.—Trine.

CHEESE DISHES.

Cheese naturally suggests itself as a substitute for meat, since it is rich in the same kind of nutrients which meat supplies; it is also a food which is staple and may be used in a variety of ways.

Stuffed Potatoes With Cheese.

Split hot baked potatoes lengthwise, remove contents without injuring the skin of the potato. Mash the potato, add seasoning and enough hot milk and butter to season well; beat until light, then refill the skin, piling it up lightly; do not smooth the top. Sprinkle with grated cheese and reheat in oven until cheese is melted and a delicate brown.

Pittsburgh Potatoes.—Cook one quart of diced potato cubes with a small minced onion until the potatoes are nearly tender; add a teaspoonful of salt and half a can of minced red peppers and cook until the potatoes are done. Drain and put into a baking dish. Make a sauce of two tablespoonfuls of butter and flour, one teaspoonful of salt and a pint of milk, then add one-half pound of grated cheese. Pour this over the potatoes and bake until a golden brown.

Baked Fish with Piquant Stuffing.—Bass or any firm-fleshed fish of moderate size may be used for baking. If the fish lacks fat insert strips of pork in gashes along each side of the fish.

Baked Eggs With Cheese.—Break four eggs into a buttered baking dish and cook in a hot oven until they begin to turn white around the edge. Cover the eggs with a white sauce and over this a cupful of cheese and bread crumbs well mixed. Season and brown the crumbs in a hot oven.

Egg shells should be carefully scraped out with a teaspoon; someone who has tried it says that the bulk of one egg is saved in the scraping of a dozen shells, and with eggs worth four or five cents apiece, it is worth while.

WELL KNOWN WOMEN

San Antonio, Texas.—"In my early married life I became very ill with feminine trouble, and no doctoring or medicines gave me any relief until I started to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I was down in bed, unable to do my own housework, but it was only a short time before I was feeling stronger and all my pains left me. I took about six bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and can say positively that it cured me of all feminine trouble, for I have been in perfect health ever since. I take pleasure in recommending Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to all women suffering with inward trouble."—Mrs. Annie F. Edda, 224 Rogers St.

Houston, Texas.—"For more than thirty years I have always spoken a good word for Dr. Pierce's medicines. The 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pleasant Pellets' were my 'standby.' I still take the 'Pellets' when I require a mild laxative, and consider them the very best medicine of that kind I have ever taken."—Mrs. M. Parish, 911 Dowling St.
