Has been arranged for Saturday, the 18th, at 1:00 o'clock P. M., at the Court House in Portales, N. M.,

At which time it is hoped that the remaining acreage necessary to secure the sugar beet industry for this section will be obtained. It now appears that some 7,000 acres more in addition to what has already been signed and tentatively pledged are required before this project can be consummated and it is imperative that this amount be forthcoming at once. Sign up now, if possible, but do not delay for any reason longer than Saturday. Bring your wife along with you Saturday, attend the mass meeting at the Court House in the afternoon and there place your lands in the biggest project that has ever knocked at our doors. Remember, that Saturday, the 18th, is probably the last day of grace. Let's make this the biggest day in the history of of this section-and it will be, if at it's close we are able to announce that the full 32,000 acres has been subscribed.

Our Heavenly Father from whom cometh every good and perfect gift, and without whom none can prosper, has in his wisdom called from our ranks our sister, Emily J. Brown, wife of S. M. Brown. She was born January 13, 1859; her maiden name was Justice; she was married to Brother Brown in 1873. She professed hope in Christ and joined the Baptist church about 1871, departed this life December 1st, 1910.

She had spent all but about twelve years of her life in the service of the Lord, thereby setting an example all would do well to follow. We realize our great loss to be her gain and hear the Lord say in His Word, "Blessed Lord, yea, saith the spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them."

We extend to our bereaved Brother, S. M. Brown, and his family our love and sympathy. ## MACRAME WORK STILL USED

Handbags and Shopping Bags Embroldered With It Are Both Useful and Pretty.

A good while ago macrame work was all the fashion. It was an odd handicraft, consisting of knotting heavy twine into patterns and fashioning the articles thus formed mto all sorts of things for wear and ornament. Now, very few people do this work, but it still has some adherents, and many of us possess odd bits done by grandmother or Greataunt Eliza Here are a few hints for making use

Both handbags and shopping bags may be made of dark or bright plush or satin, embroidered with this ma crame work or completely covered with a network of twine. These bags have long hanging fringes of the twine, perhaps held in place by beads; in fact, macrame can very well be combined with beadwork.

If you have a good deal of the macrame and do not know what to do with it, make an antimacasear of it. The day of tidies has, thank heaven, gone out: but big comfortable easy chairs still look cozy and inviting with something of this sort covering their capacious backs, like the crocheted shawl on an old lady. Get grayinh linen, cut it into two squares and connect and frame these with bits of macrame, not paying any attention to whether these match in pattern. Finally, edge with a border of the knotted twine, which you can do yourself when no design is required. The effect is charming and exceedingly unusual,
