THE FLOOD RESOLUTION PASSES THE SENATE

Valiant Efforts of McGill, Ferguson and Jones Crowned With a Glorious Victory.

After a Deluge of Oratory From the Ranks of the Undeclared the Senate Passed the Measure.

In the face of ridicule and insult, of calumny and falsehood, of libel and slander, these three stalwart, sturdy Americans fought the good fight for the people of their territory and, by the very boldness of their demands and their unflinching determination to secure some concessions from the most villainous and iniquitous document that was ever jammed down the throats of a people grown reckless and weary from long waiting. By their unselfish devotion to principle and to their loyalty to the common cause of humanity Judge McGill, and associates have proven to the committee having this inquiry in charge that New Mexico was entitled to something better than a mere semblance of freedom. So long as human gratitude is a part of our being, and so long as the lust for freedom runs riot in the human breast, just so long should the people of New Mexico honor and revere the dauntless, indefatigable American manhood of the "Big Three," McGill, Ferguson and Jones.

Resolution Passed Tuesday.

The Flood resolution passed the senate Tuesday by more than two-thirds majority. The Nelson substitute was defeated and the judiciary recall in Arizona's constitution was retained. The vote follows two days of oratory; New Mexicans in Washington jubilant and strong hope is held out that President will be induced to withhold his veto; resolution provides for automatic admission of both territories; Arizona must vote on retention of judiciary recall and New Mexico vote on proposition of making her constitution easier of amendment. The Albuquerque Journal has the following report:

The bill granting statehood to New Mexico and Arizona, legislation that has been urged for many years by the people of those territories, was passed by the senate tonight, 53 to 18, after rejection of the Nelson amendment which proposed striking out of the Arizona constitution its judiciary recall provision.

The bill as passed by the senate differs only slightly from the house measure and it is said may be unsatisfactory to President Taft. He has contended a long time that he would be glad to sign the statehood bill if the Nelson amendment prevailed, but that it was a grave question whether he would be willing to sign it if the amendment were defeated, as it was 43 to 26. The indications are tonight that the bill will become a law without his signature. The senate amended the house bill with two minor changes regarding the manner of voting in New Mexico on proposed amendments to its constitution. These will undoubtedly be agreed to by the house and the bill will be expedited to the White House. These amendments were reported by the senate committee on territories and agreed to without debate.

Practically all the debate on the bill centered around the Nelson amendment. Even some senators who declared their opposition to the recall of judges voted against the amendment on the ground that if the people of Arizona desired the recall as part of their system of government it was for them and not for congress to say whether they should have it.

The bill as passed, compels Arizona, as a condition precedent to entry into the union, to submit the recall proposition to the voters for final decision as to whether it shall remain in their constitution. New Mexico must vote on the proposition embodied in the bill which would make the constitution of the state easier of amendment.

The test vote came on the Nelson amendment which was lost.

After this had been defeated it was thought that the bill would be adopted without division, but Senator Bailey called for the yeas and nays. Senators Bradley of Kentucky and O'Gorman of New York, voted for the Nelson amendment. The same two members with Senator Bailey voted against the final passage of the measure as did two progressive Republicans, Senators Bristow of Kansas and Kenyon of Iowa. The others who voted against the admission of the territories were Senators Brandegee, of Connecticut; Burnham, of New Hampshire; Crane, of Massachusetts; Curtis, of Kansas; Dillingham, of Vermont; Heyburn, of Idaho; Lippitt and Wetmore, of Rhode Island; Nelson, of Minnesota; Oliver and Penrose, of Pennsylvania; Root of New York, and Smoot, of Utah.

Better lemonade than we had last year, and that's goin' some. We are talking about the kind that Dobbs makes.

Democratic Rally and Statehood Jollification Meeting on Friday Night and Saturday Afternoon

There will be a Democratic rally and general ratification meeting at the court house Friday night and Saturday afternoon, August 11th and 13th. Hon. William R. McGill, the Democratic Demosthenes of the Pecos, will be present and participate in the jollification over the concessions wrested by himself and associates from the congress of the United States. To the untiring efforts of Judge McGill are due, in large part, the only features of the constitution which make it all acceptable to the people. Come out and hear what the "old timer" has to say.

JUDGE WILLIAM R. MCGILL

The greatest exponent of Jefferson Democracy in New Mexico and the first Member of Congress from the new state.

Annual Picnic at Rogers.

The good people of Rogers pulled off their annual picnic last Thursday and, if possible, it was even a more successful and elaborate affair than the one last year. Talk about the good things to eat, why, you have never been where they were to be had until you attend a picnic at Rogers. They had everything you ever heard of that was good to eat, and they had it in abundance, too. No one was allowed to quit as long as they could hold another bite, and some of them could hold a heap, too.

The Sunday school children rendered an appropriate and interesting program and, also Professor Nichols gave several musical selections. The address of welcome was delivered by Rev. Maxwell, one of the pioneers of the Rogers community. County Superintendent of Schools Mrs. S. F. Culbertson gave a talk on educational matters and Judge W. E. Lindsey reviewed the settlement and early history of the county, and especially that portion of it in which Rogers is situated. Judge George L. Reese made an interesting talk on general subjects and also Benjamin F. Kimmons, the father of Mrs. W. W. Van Winkle told the people of Rogers his opinion of their country, their people and their prospects.

Like most of the Rogers people, Mr. Kimmons is from Arkansas.

Baseball, horse races and other healthful outdoor sports furnished the amusements for the younger people and everyone thoroughly enjoyed the days outing and the excellent cooking of the Rogers' ladies.

Notice to Farmers.

All farmers who have subscribed land to the beet sugar industry organized during the present summer are notified that there will be a meeting held Saturday August 12th at one o'clock p. m. at the court house, town of Portales. Important business to transact. You should be there.

A. J. SMITH, Chairman,
L. M. ANDERSON, Sec.

Notice to Tax Payers.

The county treasurer is preparing the delinquent tax list for publication and the same will appear some time during the present month. Parties delinquent can save the cost of advertising by paying at once.

B. J. Reagan, Treasurer.

All the batteries we sell must register the required voltage. That's the reason we sell to most of the people who need batteries for their cars and engines. We are talking about the kind of batteries sold by Fiscus at the Vaughan Garage.

SEPTUAGENARIAN GARDENER MAKES SUCCESS

George W. Wood Has Five-Acre Truck Garden That Looks Good to Benny.

Grapes, Cherries, Apples, Plums, Peaches and also Canteloupes--Min' Yo' Business, Chile.

Speaking of successful truck and fruit growers Portales Valley has so many of them that to select any best from among them would be rather a difficult undertaking, however, your attention is called to one gentleman in particular, who has followed this method of making a livelihood for the past number of years. Grandpa G. W. Wood is a man nearing his seventies, yet, when it comes to putting in a good, full day's work, he makes many a younger man drag his "sand agitators" before quitting time. Mr. Wood owns a five acre tract in the southeastern part of the city, and on this little plot of land he raises almost everything good to eat. His facilities for irrigating the land are primitive and inadequate and yet the results obtained are marvelous. For instance he has a very few hills of canteloupes from which each morning he gathers two dozen choice melons and delivers them to the Travelers Inn and receives in pay for them $1.20, or an average weekly income of $8.40 from a piece of land that could almost be covered with a present day cowboy hat.

Nor is this even a beginning. He has about an acre of those big onions that are destined to make the Portales Valley famous, and while Mr. Wood appears to be a little dissatisfied with them because each and every one does not weigh quite a pound, they are marvels of beauty and calculated to go a long way towards buying the winters coal. He also has an experimental patch of sugar beets and with these he seems to be tickled to death. He says they will outgrow anything on earth, except the interest on a note, and that they are the finest beets for table use he ever tasted. He says there is no doubt in the world but what sugar beets are a winner in the Portales Valley.

Likewise Mr. Wood has a large patch of beans of which he is justly proud and that they are revenue producers there can be doubt.

Grapes, in the opinion of Mr. Wood are the fruit for this country, and he has demonstrated that they are not only prolific but that the quality is unexcelled anywhere. He has about fifty of the Wyoming variety that are now bearing and the yield is all that can be desired while the fruit is sweet and fine. Also he has about three hundred of the Niagara which are probably the best grapes for this climate. Mr. Wood says that he has never missed a year raising grapes from these vines and the quality is good, too. He also has another grape, variety unknown, which is a wonder. The fruit packs so thick in the bunch that they burst against each other and they are next to the Delaware in lusciousness. This grape is the greatest bearer that has ever been grown in this community. In apples, peaches, plums and cherries, Mr. Wood appears to have a few of all varieties and he says that with the exception of the peaches, he always gets a plenty of fruit.

Now if all these things can be accomplished by a man who has long since passed the meridian of life, and who has none of the modern conveniences for putting water on his place, why couldn't a younger man, with the splendid facilities for present day irrigation now within his grasp, make for himself and family a paradise the like of which would have made old Adam turn green with envy.

Portales Boy Makes Good.

Long about May the first of the present year, Chester Garrett, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Garrett, went to San Marcial to work in the railroad yards at that place. He took the first position offered, which was that of call boy. Now the job was not just what Chester had expected but, being determined to make a beginning somewhere, he accepted the job and went to work. Also he worked assiduously and faithfully with the result that on August first he was promoted to the position of yard clerk with a corresponding increase in salary. Now you may think a promotion of that character is a small thing, but it is a fact that Chester Garrett was the first boy to fill the position. The position of yard clerk is a man's job and heretofore they have always put a man on it, but it is "dollars to doughnuts" that Chester's employers knew what they were doing and the wage bet goes as it lays that he makes good, too. Chester Garrett has been practically raised and educated in Portales and he has always been manly, honest and ambitious. The Herald learned of his success and that this is only a beginning and that his star will give a gleam in the ascending.

C. C. Reeves, of Michigan, who has been over our irrigated lands, says that home Monday, after having one hundred and fifty of our "Min' Yo' Business" canteloupes, he did the business for...

VISIBLE CHANGES

Some of the noticeable changes in the affairs of the town and vicinity are the characters of the produce and crops to be found on our market. Changes that are due exclusively to the irrigation project that is now in operation in this valley. Not longer ago than last year the only feed crops in evidence were maize, kafir, sorghum and occasionally a little millet, but with the advent of the new order of things this has materially changed. Instead of our drays unloading alfalfa out of freight cars you can now see our farmers loading the said freight cars with a much better grade of alfalfa than was ever shipped in. Also the casual observer may see here and there, farmers wagons loaded with the same staple, waiting the town buyer. Nor is alfalfa the only crop that has readily responded to the application of "frog toddy" scientifically administered. Several farmers can show corn that will yield seventy-five to one hundred bushels per acre; millet that has harvested over one hundred bales per acre and onions, beets, sweet potatoes, canteloupes, Irish potatoes, beans, peas, celery, cabbage and all kinds of garden truck have yielded so abundantly that to tell only half the truth would call into question the veracity of the narrator. These and many more changes have come and are present and apparent now, to say nothing of the numbers of various opportunities on the way and to come just as fast as the everchanging conditions will permit. All of which tends to show that Portales has a future not in any manner uncertain or problematical except in so far as degree is concerned. We all know that Portales will be it, and our imagination fails us when we try to comprehend the magnitude of the it.

Some of the Republican papers of the county are making strenuous efforts to prove that Mr. Taft is stronger today with the people than he was at the time of his inauguration. This may be true in the sense that they have an abiding conviction that he has sadly neglected the home ties for the past few years and that they will use their good offices in effecting a reconciliation and resumption of the former relations. Mr. Taft should not be required to sacrifice the simple life for the irksome cares of public duties.

It would be awful if a district judge should get scared of the recall and become honest, but little things like the Lorimer scandal in the United States senate are matters of very small moment. It would be a crying shame if Illinois was in a position to enforce a recall against Mr. Taft's friend, Lorimer.

It is not so much the recall that Mr. Taft objects to as it is the place in which the recall is placed. If its application is left to the discretion of Mr. Taft it is a very beneficent institution; if placed in the hands of the people it is revolutionary, socialistic and un-American.

Twenty acres of Portales Valley irrigated land, if properly cultivated, will amply provide for a family of twenty, yes, and lay up something for the proverbial rainy day, too.

Why should New Mexico ever want to change her constitution? Haven't the railroads and corporations everything they want under it? Then what the dickens is the use to change it?

THE FLY QUESTION.

Portales has very stringent ordinances on matters sanitary and their enforcement strictly, not only in letter but in spirit, is a matter of first importance to our citizens. All the fly traps, poisons, etc., are of no avail whatever, unless their breeding ground is eliminated. As an example, you will remember that when Portales was first incorporated the flies were so thick they broke the fence palings down where they roosted but, under the aggressive crusade of Dr. Garmany, who was, at that time town physician, they were practically, all destroyed within a period of two or three weeks. Of course Dr. Garmany got a good many cussings but he settled the fly question for that year, at least. Flies, according to the best authorities, are more deadly than the white plague, and yearly, monthly, yes daily take their toll of human life and our children and your neighbor's children are made to pay the penalty for our negligence and carelessness. You will go a long way out of your road to put down some minor social or physical evil, yet pat the deadly fly on the back and keep him by you, that he may the more readily rob you of your loved ones. If you wish to avoid typhoid fever stamp out the fly. In this connection the Ende Enterprise tells a great truth about the fly in a few short verses as follows:

THE FLIES' REVENGE.

Ten little flies
All in a line;
One got a swat!
Then there were—
Nine little flies
Grimly sedate,
Licking their chops—
Swat! There were—
Eight little flies
Rasing some more—
Swat, swat! Swat, swat!
Then there were—
Four little flies
Colored green-blue;
Swat (Ain't it easy?)
Then there were—
Two little flies
Dodged the civilian
Early next day
There were a million!

Wouldn't it be an awful calamity if, as it appears the Republican press of the Territory very much fear, some Arizona district judge, with a wobbly backbone, should become frightened at the recall in the Arizona constitution and by reason of such fright should give the citizens of that proposed state a square deal? And wouldn't it likewise be awful if New Mexico should so change her laws as to permit the people to get into the very pernicious habit of requiring the judiciary to be at least as honest as are the victims upon whom they impose sentence?

Do you believe that Senators Root, Borah, Nelson and Crawford actually believed all that rot about the integrity of the judiciary? If honesty was a mandatory requisite to hold public office how would these four worthies make a living.

Portales Valley, the home of the big onion; the natural domicile of the canteloupe; the valley of inexhaustible "frog toddy" and unlimited resources; the "Peerless Empress of the Llano Estacado." Ask anyone about it.

Senator Borah delivered a long speech in the senate Monday in which he pleaded for purity in the judiciary. Let's see wasn't this fellow Borah the one who helped kidnap and prosecute Moyer, Heywood and Pettibone. Purity in the judiciary would put Borah out of business.

Judge W. R. McGill, the foremost democrat of New Mexico, represented the party of the faith of Jefferson, Monday at Mountainair, the same being political day at the Chautauqa.

B. J. Reagan Jr.

B. J. Reagan and wife married some eighteen years ago the coming October; and there have been born to them five children of whom only one, a daughter twelve years old, survives.

Nine years ago, they moved from Jackboro, Texas, to Portales, with one child, the daughter who still gladdens this deeply stricken home. About a year following the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Reagan to Portales, there was born to this home, a son, B. J. Reagan Jr., one of the most manly little fellows that any father or mother ever called "son."

He grew up with a splendid though not a robust form and physique, a handsome manly face and a well balanced disposition, a quiet, thoughtful little boy, who was the joy and pride of a mother's love and a father's hopes and ambitions.

Two years ago, however, the shadows which had formerly fallen over this home, again cast their pall upon the hearts of father and mother. Inflammatory rheumatism in violent form seized upon the body of the little man of the Reagan home, and it was realized at once that B. J. Jr., as he was known, was very ill. Would he outgrow or shake off the disease? This was the all-absorbing question for a while, when the first attack, which came in March 1909, was succeeded by a second and then seemed to settle down and permeate and enthrall the entire system. Everything known to medical skill and the vigilance and loving care of parents was done for the little sufferer, who always bore himself more like a man than a child. But it was in vain. The disease finally reached the heart. The change of climate for two months during the past spring did no good. The mother and stricken child returned from Mineral Wells to Portales in May to fight a losing fight. But it was a brave one. Indeed, we may doubt if more unselfish, heroic sufferer ever passed to the arms of the exalted Christ, than B. J. Reagan Jr. who was called from his suffering to his Savior, August 3, 1911, at 3 o'clock in the morning.

In two respects, at least, this was a remarkable child. For the poise and self control and heroism, the uncomplaining, unselfish way, with which he bore his sufferings, he was indeed remarkable and would have been so had it been a grown man who was undergoing the tortures of the terrible disease. Sometimes he would forget himself when a keen pain would strike him through and would cry out in anguish. But the moment he would see that his sufferings had touched his mother or father, he would apologize for complaining. Then toward the end, he ceased complaining almost altogether, and when asked how he felt would always say "I'm alright."

The religious side of his nature also had remarkable development. In spite of all his sufferings, he would not forget to pray, kneeling at his mother's knee. In a recent meeting in the Methodist church, though only seven years old, he was deeply moved to be a Christian and one night, upon returning from church, and afterward standing alone out on the porch for a while, he came in joyfully and said to his mother: "Mother I've made up my mind to be a Christian."

Such in brief is the life story of the son of our fellow townsmen, friends and neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Reagan, who passed to his reward. Funeral services were conducted at the Methodist church by E. P. Alldredge, assisted by Rev. Goodloe, Pastor E. L. Young being sick in his bed.

Joe Kuykendall, who is holding down a responsible position with the Santa Fe people at Sweetwater, Texas, arrived Monday for a two or three days visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Kuykendall.

By way of illustration it might be interesting to some of our farmers, who own farms with water, to learn that E. Ruse, an irrigation farmer from the Salt River Valley of Arizona, cleared above all expense $600, on three acres of canteloupes, and he said, while investigating our country last week, that we have a much better soil and more favorable conditions than where he lives.

R. D. Yoakum, of St. Louis, who has been inspecting our shallow water and irrigated lands the past week, left Wednesday for his home.

Cards were received last week from Lawton, Oklahoma, announcing the birth of a fine son to Mr. and Mrs. Marshal Chesher, of that place. Mr. Chesher is a son of Lem Chesher of this place.

E. G. Galbraith will leave Sunday, for Socorro, where he has been employed as superintendent of the public schools. Professor Galbraith is a very successful teacher and Portales deeply feels his loss.

J. O. Fife and son, who have been here for the past week trying to buy a section of shallow water land, left Wednesday after having made a selection and an offer on the same. If they get this land they will put it under water and highly improve it for intense farming.

Coe Howard is in receipt of a letter from C. E. Hall, dated at Altus, Oklahoma, at which place Mr. Hall has entered in the practice of law. Charles Edward has a large number of friends in and near Portales who will be pleased to learn that he likes his new home and that he has bright prospects in a professional way.

SOCIETY

T. F. C. GIRLS GIVE SLUMBER PARTY.

Tuesday night in honor of Miss Maud Brandon, who departs soon for her home in Texas, the girls of the T. F. C. Club, of which Miss Brandon is vice-president, gave a slumber party at H— ranch. About six o'clock on the McCallum dray were seated Misses Sara Monroe, Bula and Georgia Stewart, Maud Brandon, Jim Rowland, Mabel Martin, Cornie Smith, Marguerite Patterson, Nannie Osborn and Nannie and Edna Farmer who are club members now residing at Upton, and Mr. and Mrs. McCallum. Amid much laughter, song and harp and guitar music, they drove out, arriving about dusk at the ranch. The lunch was spread, a little later, clear of the magnificent trees in the brilliancy of the full moon, and enjoyed as none other ever had been. After more music and amusements of an impromptu nature, the bedding was spread on the ground under the trees, and all were soon prepared for rest. We say prepared advisedly, for none was had until hours later. Every few minutes roll was called by someone whose love of mischief kept them awake and any girl not answering to her name would have been promptly pulled out of bed. The mere answer of "here" or "present" soon became too tame for these wide-awake ones and the command went out that roll call must be answered by imitating the call of some fowl or animal. The sleepy ones now turned on two of the tormentors and made them give an imitation dog fight, much to their sorrow, however, for the aforesaid tormentors fought all over the long bed. Just as the morning sun tinged the eastern sky with its colors of exquisite beauty, the twittering of hundreds of birds in the tree tops far above, awakened the sleepers to the happy realizations, we hope, of their dreams. Breakfast was prepared and eaten and those of the girls who had engagements in town were driven in Misses Martin, Monroe, Smith, Brandon and Rowland remained, and pleasantly filled the hours reading, etc. and wondering talking of the traditions and comedies that had taken place during the fifty years or more since the erection of the old adobe, now partially in ruins, but picturesque beyond expression in its setting of stately cotton-woods. Mrs. Barton, assisted by some of the girls, had prepared by the noon hour a repast from the fruits of field, garden and orchard fit for a prince. Some young men, namely, Geo. Monroe, Earle Williams, and E. G. Galbraith, who had been hunting, accidentally(?) wandered toward H— and arrived in time to help dispose of this excellent dinner. This addition to the party added zest and the afternoon went so swiftly that the announcement that it was six and past time to go was received with amazement. Some went "the long way round" (walked) and others drove home, thus ending a season of pleasure unparalleled, perhaps, in the history of this club of congenial and talented young women.

Mrs. D. Hardy entertained with a luncheon one day this week in honor of her mother-in-law, Mrs. R. Hardy, of Ardmore, Oklahoma.

Miss Jim Rowland entertained Misses Edna and Nannie Farmer of Upton, and Misses Nannie Osborn and Maud Brandon in house party style the first of the week. The warm hospitality of this beautiful suburban home is irresistible and the only trouble with Miss Jim's guests is that they never want to leave.

MISS HARDY GUEST OF HONOR.

On Friday night of last week Mr. and Mrs. D. Hardy gave the young people a social at their pretty bungalow home on Merchant's Row, in honor of Mr. Hardy's sister, Miss Vinnie. The guests were Misses Polly Monroe, Fannie Williamson, Mattie Doss Hightower, Irene Smith, Willie May Culberson, Hazelwood Moore, Blanche Hostetter, Theo Bagwell; Messrs. Guy Mitchell, Edwin Neer, Sam Osborn, Cash Austin, Morris Bramlett, Edwin Patterson, Jesse Freeman, Temple Molinari, Loyd Connally, Frank Culberson and Thompson Monroe. The evening was spent in dancing and playing games. The refreshments were dainty and were elegantly served.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Seay had the B. K. A. club and their young men friends up to their inviting lawn behind the trees and porch beyond the vines on Tuesday night, in honor of Mrs. Seay's niece, Miss Vinnie Hardy, of Ardmore, Okla. There was orchestra music, refreshments rare and rich, and a good time generally, which expression covers a multitude of things easily imagined by acquaintances and friends of these happy youngsters.

The hay-ride fever, encouraged as it is by the man in the moon who shows his smiling face for hours each night, is now raging as never before, the younger set being the chief sufferers. Monday night Mrs. Jeff Hightower and Mrs. A. A. Williams chaperoned a crowd of them out to the McDermant home and from thence to the Moore place. Melons, peaches and plums were lavishly served at both places, and the party, steeped in these luxurious dainties, were afraid to retire early so did not return to town until past midnight.

In connection with the regular Wednesday night band concert, there was an icecream and cake festival this week at the regular place of meeting, the court house lawn. A large crowd attended, and the affair was a success both socially and financially.

The private school conducted for the past few weeks by Mrs. Kaune at the public school building closed last Friday and on Monday evening the students lunched at this H— ranch.

His parents brought him to New Mexico two and one half years ago for his health, and he had enjoyed good health until stricken with the disease which caused his death. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Welch from Springfield Missouri.

Notice to Patrons.

To the patrons and pupils of Portales public school: I have heard of quite a great deal of talk about promotions in school and for the benefit of those interested will say that I expect to allow all promotions approved by Mr. Staples, all made by the teachers who continued the school and those recommended by Mrs. Kaune, all other students will remain in the same grades they were in last term or take entrance examination before me. All students will be treated alike, no special privileges will be granted to any and this will be an examination too, and not a mere form.

I wish to say that I have been advised by some of the teachers who taught here last year, and by some of the best informed people of Portales that it would be much better to hold all in the grades they were in last term, that there were very few pupils strong enough to do heavier work, but that I may treat all just exactly the same I have decided on this plan and ask your hearty cooperation in it.

Don't listen to what you hear and don't send anyone to talk to me about this or any other matter, come and talk it over with me yourself; I would be glad to know how many expect to take examination and for what grade so that I may have the questions ready for you.

R. A. DEEN, Superintendent.
