A Household Necessity.

I would almost as soon think of running my farm without implements as without Hunt's Lightning Oil. Of all the liniments I have ever used, for both man and beast, it is the quickest in setion and richest in results. For burns and fresh cuts it is absolutely wonderful. I regard it as a household necescity. Yours truly, S. HARRISON, Kosciusko, Miss

Mr. Henry of the Amsden lumber firm here says we are very fortunate in having T. L. Streeter of Illinois investing in Inland Valley, as he is rich and an example others will no doubt follow. He has bought two sections of land, one near Roswell and the other near Portales. He will not himself engage in the mercantile business, but will give his boys a start, says the Roswell Record today.

His Humorous Explanation.

An amusing instance of a minister stumbling on a text of a humorous personal application is that related of a widower who had remarried within a year after his first wife's death His friends and congregation thought him very expeditious and on the next Sunday, when his text was announced they could scarcely control themselves. He rose in his place in the pulpit and said: "My beloved brethren, you will find my text in the seventeenth verse of the fourth chapter of Second Corinthians, "Our light affliction, which is for the moment.'

DOCTORS FALL IN LINE.

Forres-Milauen Co., Buffalo, N. Y. YORKTOWN, ARK., Mar. 1, 1904.

Gentlemen:—I have been engaged in the practice of medicine in this section for ten years. This is a very sickly climate, on the Bayou Bartholomew, near the Arkansas River. It is particularly malarious and sasmatic; we meet with many and various abnormal conditions of the human family, prominent among the cases in which I have been called apon to prescribe is kidney disease. Many of these disorders manifest themselves by pains in the back, often extending to other parts of the body; sometimes headache is present, caused by uræmic or chronic uric acid poisoning, soreness in region of kidneys, cloudy, thickened and foul-smelling urine, discharges of pus or corruption; inflammation of the kidneys, extending to the bladder, is caused by excess of uric acid and decomposition of the urine. Hemorrhage is sometimes met with, caused by high state of inflammation or congestion.

There is no class of diseases a doctor is called oftener to treat than the variety of kidney diseases, in many of which the patient will have chills or rigors, followed by fever, a result of the kidneys failing to eliminate the uricacid poison from the system. Such cases require the kidneys restored to their natural functions, then the poison and foreign substances are removed—shock to the nervous system averted, and natural bealth restored.

I have, for some time, been using Doan's Kidney Pills in these many manifestations and with uniform success, curing most cases. I can further say that even in hopeless cases where they have waited too long, Doan's Kidney Pills afford much relief and prolong life. I can recommend the pills in conditions of excessive or deficient secretion of urine, as also in convalescence from swamp-fever and malarial attacks, as verified by the following cases in my practice. CASE 3.

CASE 1. Thos. Orell, Bear, Ark., age 60. Pain in back for several weeks, then chills, irregular sometimes, severe share followed by fever. Gave good purgative of calomel and padoph, and Doan's Kidney Pills. After taking four boxes of the pills, patient ap and enjoying good health for one of his age.

MRs. SHITH, Tarry, Ark., age 29, mother of four children. Had female complaint and kidney trouble, manifest by pain in back and urine irregular; sometimes very clear, changing to cloudy, and with much sediment on standing in chamber. Gave local treatment for female complaint and prescribed Doan's Pills; after using six boxes she regards herself as

These are a few of the typical cases in which I have used Doan's Kidney Pills. In a great many instances I use them alone with curative quite recovered consciousness, the results, while with some others indicated remedies are associated. Beautiful Actresses.

"Who is the most beautiful woman on the American stage?" is a question of the American stage? Is a question often asked, and it nearly always starts a controversy. Violent partisanship usually warps the judgment of those who join in, so that no correct decision can be reached. If the race were always to the swift and battle to the strong it might be not so difficult a matter to judge between Miss Lillian Russell and Miss Maxine Elliott, to whom the issue is most often reduced. A specialist in beauty recently undertook to prove that Miss Elliott's personal charms are transcendant and came near being mobbed by admirers of Miss Russell. Miss Russell has had - ong reign as queen of beauty, longer, perhaps, than that of any other stage favorite. She has occupied the throne for more than twenty-four years, admitting that she holds t now. At 44 she is "To Kalon!" She is in nearly every way the exact physical antithesis of Miss Elliott, who is 12 years her junior. As a distinct type the latter also is "To Ka-There was a woman on the stage some years ago who easily split the difference between Miss Russell and Miss Elliott in the matter of beauty. Caroline Miskell (afterward Mrs. Charles Hoyt) possessed a perfectly beautiful face, accompanied by a divine form, which is something more than mortal.

"So Long!"

With reference to the origin of the familiar expression, "So long," a correspondent of the London Academy suggests that it is derived from the Norwegian. "San Laenge," a common form of farewell, equivalent in meaning to "au revoir," and pronounced like "so long," with the "g" softened. There was a fair number of Norwelgians among the settlers in America, to judge by names, and it is quite likely the phrase was picked up from them. It is in general use among the Dutch in South Africa.-Philadelphia Times.

Rabies. The following is from a circular station: Rabies does not occur most frequently during hot weather, as is generally believed, the greatest losses occurring during the fall and spring, but it may occur at any season of the year. The disease seems to appear periodically, some years no outbreaks being reported, and other years the losses are frequent and severe. Rabies is a disease of the nervous system that is transmitted from one animal to another by direct inoculation through a wound, usually a bite from a rabid animal. It is possible that food or water contaminated by an animal affected with rabies may infect animals having sores in the mouth or digestive tract, or the infected saliva being deposited upon an open wound or irritated mucous membrane may cause the disease.

The disease as observed during the year 1902 was among cattle, except in one instance, where two horses died. The loss among the cattle varied from five to twenty-seven head. In one herd of sixteen head, eleven died from rabies. In four out of the seven outbreaks reported, a dog supposed to be rabid was known to have bitten or been among the affected cattle. The disease usually occurs in from five to ten days after the animals are bitten, and, among cattle, they may continue to develop the disease for from eight to ten weeks after the first case occurs.

The symptoms vary considerably even among cattle. The affected animal becomes nervous and excited, in many cases vicious, attacking persons and smaller animals, particularly. In some instances they will dash at a person but suddenly stop a few feet away. There is a peculiar wild or vacant stare. Affected cattle will often push and maul other animals in the herd, and there is a tendency to lick the genital organs of other cattle. As the disease progresses they become more excited and will often emit a hoarse bellow frequently or almost continuously. In many cases ther is often violent straining as if to pass dung, the rectum often being everted Paralysis often occurs, and is first noticed in a wobbling, uncertain gait, and later the hind quarters give way and the animal is unable to rise. In a few cases the animals will fall in convulsions. In all cases animals will eat and drink water until paralysis of the throat makes it difficult or impossible. There is frequent shak ing and swinging of the head and animals to eat dirt, dung, stocks, etc. Post-mortem examination shows no signs of disease, although the body is unusually stiff and rigid and the stom ach contains dirt and other foreign material. The Growing Lambs. A. G. Gamley of Manitoba, in an address to farmers said: By the time the tambs are a month old the spring will have come; and if all has gone well with the shepherd and his flock, it ought to be in good shape to commence the summer operations. For a week or two feed them a few cat sheaves before they go out in the morning, and the same in the evening when they come in, also hay in their racks for night, if they will eat it They will eat very little hay at this time, but it helps to keep them up un til they get a full bite of grass. Fron now till clipping time the shephere will have it a little easier, and well he deserves it, for if his flock is a large one, he will have been hard at work 24 hours a day all through the lamb ing time. Shearing ought to be done between the middle of May and 1st of June. Until the wool has grown give them the run of the pens at night for a man who has told her friends to protect them from the cold, also during the day, to protect them from the sun. Dip ten days after clipping and ten days after that again, to kil the ticks that have hatched since the first dipping. Weaning time comein August or September, according to the time the lamb was dropped.

The ewe lambs may be kept sepa rate for a week or ten days, and then turned in with the flock again, care having been taken in the interval to milk the ewes, at least twice in that time, and the heaviest milkers, as oft en as required. The ram lambs, if bred for the butcher, and to be sold as lambs, had better be sold as soon as weaned, as they will fail rapidly if no special provision has been made for their care, such as a field of rape or turnips to run in during the day and hay and grain at night. Care should be taken not to allow them in the rape with an empty stomach until the frost is off in the morning, and then not too long at a time, until they get accustomed to it. At weaning time, and while the ewes are being handled, it is a wise plan to mark those that are to be disposed of to the butcher. In this connection I would impress on the young breeder that the successful management of the flock, in a great measure, depends on these things: Foot-Ease makes new or tight shoes easy. At First, the choice of a ram; second, eternal vigilance at lambing time; and third, culling closely each year. Don't keep an old ewe or those not typical of the breed; don't be afraid to weed them out.

"I think I must have been troubled with catarrh ever since I was very young, aggravated each time I caught a cold. This did not prove sufficiently serious to be obnoxious until last winter. Then my head and nose were so stopped up that I felt I must do something. Peruna was recommended to me by a friend. I used it for four weeks and found to my relief that it cured me. I have not had a bit of trouble since. My head is clear, and I can safely affirm that Peruna cured me."—Miss Flora Hauser.

PR. HARTMAN has probably done more than any other physician toward popularizing a means of escape from the facial deformities, such as watery eyes, twisted nose, offensive breath, dry cracked lips, due to the ravaging effects of catarrh.

He has made chronic catarrh a life-long study. His remedy, popularly known as Peruna, is the most famous remedy for opening of the jaws, with dripping of
