Several addresses were delivered by farmers and by experts ted and committees appointed and the convention adjourned. Many samples ally agreed that the balance of the Room, made famous by a century of of fine corn were shown and there ods of selecting and of growing the grain to the best advantage.

Capt. W. H. Gaston and Capt. Sydney Smith of the Texas State Fair Association appeared before the body and Capt. Gaston made a short address of the fair. He said that it is the intention of the association to erect an agricultural building before the opening of the next entertainment; that the money is in hand for the purpose and that be wishes the farmers to advise with him as to the most suitable form and kind of building. The statements were applauded and the executive committee empowered to act for the association in this matter.

Officers of the Texas Corn Grow ers' Association were elected by acclamation. They are: President, Thomas A. McGalliard, Denton; vice-president. John H. Garrett, Forney; secretary-treasurer, A. M. Ferguson of the State University, Austin.

INDIAN MINERAL LANDS.

The Disposition of These Causes Much Worry and Discussion.

Washington: The Senate Committee on Indian affairs has found the matter of providing for the disposition of the mineral lands in the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations such a complex problem that the plan of reporting the bill to the senate last week was abandoned Thursday. It may be that the bill will not be ready even next week. This section of the bill is now being discussed informally and privately by various members of the committee, and an agreement may result which will enable rapid progress next week. Most of the members of the committee feel that unless great lums of Texas. care shall be exercised in providing for the sale of this immense amount of property not only will great injustice be done the Indians, but that, at the cost of a song comparatively, a gigantic coal monopoly will be established and perpetuated in the South-

The ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are just such as best serve to correct and cure all such derangements. It is made up without a drop of alcohol in its composition; chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead of the commonly employed alcohol. Now this glycerine is of itself a valuable medicine, instead of a deleterious agent like alcohol, especially in the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia and the various forms of indigestion. Prof. Finley Ellingwood. M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of it:

"In dyspepsis it serves an excellent purpose." It is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled disordered stomachs, it is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyronis (heartburn) and excessive gastric acidity. It is useful in chronic intestinal dyspepsia, especially the flatulent variety, and in certain forms of chronic constipation, stimulating the secretory and excretory functions of the intestinal glands."

cher Has Bright Idea. "We have all seen sand used as blotting paper," said a school director, "but in New England last month I saw it used as writing paper. The scene carried me back 100 years. "Sand was the original blotting paper. White and clean, it was kept in a cruet, like a salt cruet, and shaken out on the wet writing through the perforated top. It dried the ink and yet absorbed none of the ink itself. It was a miraculous blotting paper that never got dirty. You dried your writing with it and then you put it back in the cruet again for future

"There are affected people, the kind of people who write with quill pens who still use sand as a blotter. But until last month I thought that as a writing paper it had disappeared forever.

"And then I visited a country school in New Hampshire. On the master's desk sat a box three feet square filled with sand. The children came one at a time to the box and with a pointed stick by way of pen they wrote. As each child finished he smoothed out his writing, leaving the sand smooth for the next comer.

"This odd scene carried me back to the days when paper and slates were schools to write on, the days of my grandfather and great-grandfather."

PROVED PATIENT WAS BETTER One Thing Amateur Vocalist Had Successfully Accomplished. It is scarcely to be wondered at that the ambitions of the amateur vocalist generally wither up like summer flowers in wintry blasts. That is Jenkins' opinion, and the reason thereof is because a little while ago he was requested to sing at a house where the eldest daughter was slowly recovering from a nervous breakdown. The invalid was the only one present who could play, and Jenkins trolled forth Tosti's "Good-by," with all the re-fervor. He finished. There was a little rustle of applause, and her mother's voice filled in the awkward pause. "There," she said, "that shows he gets the worst of it. Gertie's getting better. Three months ago she'd never 'ave been able to stand that right in her earhole, as you
