HOW CROPS GROW

In Southwest Texas Adjacent to the Gulf Coast Line.

In the vicinity of Brownsville during Jannary this year a truck grower sold the yield of less than an acre of cauliflower for $720.00 net. At Olmita, a station on the Gulf Coast Line, nine miles north of Brownsville, another grower realized a profit of $600.00 from an acre of lettuce marketed in February.

These are sample instances of the Southwest Texas Coast Country's capacity for wealth production. A marvelously equable climate makes the surpassingly fertile soil available for crop culture every month in the year. From two to four crops can be raised on the same land in twelve months.

Besides producing the earliest truck in the United States, it is also the best cotton, corn, rice, alfalfa and sugar cane country in Texas.

Land that will produce these crops and return annual profits of from $100.00 to $800.00 an acre is now selling at prices ranging from $8.00 to $25.00 an acre.
