A becoming arrangement for the hair is a very important feature of the bride's altar getup, and this naturally includes the right draping of the veil; so it would be ridiculous to claim that any one style of coiffure is to be used, for the lines of hairdressing must conform to the size of the head, the cut of the features and the height of the bride. But, for the most part, hairfressing is done on a very elaborate scale, and to accomplish the vast structures piled upon heads many false pieces are needed. These go under names too numerous to mention, but the bang, the switch, the psyche puff, the cluster puff, the transformation and the pin curl are some familiar titles. In buying any of these pieces by mail, the bit is matched to a lock of hair from that part of the head where the false piece would be worn. Thus bangs and transformations are matched to the front hair, switches are judged by the tints of the back ahir, and so on. The reason for this particularity is that naturally colored hair is of many tones, and these seem to dispose themselves over the hair as they see fit; wherefore it is easy enough to tell dyed false hair at a still wearing black and my mourning glance, for the changing tones of the natural color cannot be imitated. So dyed false hair is without the com- know whether it was proper. How mercial value of the false pieces in long does one usually wear the mournnatural colors, and when the tint re- ing veil? For this style, which is rather intended to give a little height to the figure, the hair is parted in the middle, ms, the lace border of the veil worn about the braided knot, this end- the preparation. ing in a bow without ends at the side.

The bang will be a salient feature of the coiffure of every girl who can wear the forehead fringe, but the bang from their mates until they were is the merest cobweb, and it is slightly waved or left straight, as suits the face. The fringe is also quite short, and when it seems unadvisable to cut the natural hair for it, the little piece, delicately woven to a silk thread, is bought in false shape for about seventy-five cents. A narrow, ventilated and naturally curly bang of "convent is very high, and the face thin, this will be suggested. is very softening to the features.

The smartest tendency of all colffures is toward a distinct flatness of the top of the head, where the hair is parted at the middle or at one side; M. E. from the parting, wherever disposed, the side locks go back with a light waving, and the large knot of braids, or puffs and curls is placed high enough to show all the nape of the neck, and besides, elongates the back of the head to a great extent. This flatness of the top and rear extension gives the head a very lovely contour, and if the face needs the softening of little curls they are put in many places-at the nape of the neck, below or above the ears, or else in the round or pointed rear knot. As to the deep waving once done at the sides and under the back hair, it is still a feature of the coiffure's waxen ladies, but is by no means so conspicuous on human heads. The undulations admired are wide and loose, as if the waving were health conditions in general. I dip natural, for this method certainly gives Ornaments for the bride's coiffure are numerous enough, some very splendid bandeaux of pearls being seen, as well as pearl combs and barrettes and pins. But if the veil is to cover the whole head, as it generally does, the ornaments had better be of shell in they will not conflict with the half or whole wreaths and the separate knots for fastening on the vell.

For Club Entertainment. I belong to a ladies' club. The ages of the members are from twenty-five to fifty. Will you please suggest some way of entertaining them? I would like something in which all might take part.-Violet.

A number of ladies spent a mosenjoyable afternoon in this manner: Each one was asked to dress her hair to represent some famous woman. It was surprising what a change was wrought in the appearance, and it was a jolly crowd. I assure you. Some of the personages were Martha Washington, Mary Queen of Scots, Queen Victoria, Queen Alexandra, Frances E. Willard, Priscilla, etc. Old pictures furnished the ideas, Programs and pencils were passed and a prize was given to the lady who guessed the most and one to the person who remained the longest unguessed. I should think this would furnish entertainment for your club.

SYNOPSIS.

The scene at the opening of the story is taid in the library of an old worn-out southern plantation, known as the Bareny. The place is to be sold, and its history and that of the owners, the Quintards, is the subject of discussion by Jonathan Crenshaw, a business man, a stranger known as Bladen, and Bob Yaney, a farmer, when Hannibal Wayne Hazard, a mysterious child of the old southern family, makes his appearance. Yaney tells how he adopted the boy. Nathaniel Ferris buys the Barony, but the Quintards deny any knowledge of the boy. Yaney to keep 'Hannibal, Captain Murrell, a friend of the Quintards, appears and asks questions about the Barony. Trouble at Scratch Hill, when Hannibal is kidnaped by Dave Blount, Captain Murrell's agent. Yaney overtakes Blount, gives him a thrashing and secures the boy. Yaney appears before Squire Balaam, and is discharged with costs for the plaintiff. Betty Mairoy, a friend of the Ferrises, has an encounter with Captain Murrell, who forces his attentions on her, and is rescued by Bruce Carrington. Betty sets out for her Tennessee home. Carrington takes the same stage. Yaney and Hannibal disappear, with Murrell on their trail. Hannibal arrives at the home of Judge Slocum Price. The Judge recognizes in the boy, the grandson of an old time friend. Murrell a. Ives at Judge's home. Cavendish family on raft rescue Yaney, who is apparently dead. Price breaks jail. Betty and Carrington arrives at Belle Plain. Hannibal's rifle discloses some startling things to the judge. Hannibal and Betty meet again. Murrell arrive in Belle Plain. Is playing for big stakes. Yaney awakes from long dreamless sleep on board the raft. Judge Price makes startling discoveries in looking up land titles. Charley Norton, a young planter, who assists the judge, is mysteriously assaulted. Norton informs Carrington that Betty has promised to marry him. Norton is mysteriously shot. More light on Murrell's plots. He plans uprising of negroes.

"Well, wish me luck, Solomon, I'm off-come, Hannibal!" he said.

At heart he cherished small hope of seeing Betty, advantageous as he felt an interview might prove. However, on reaching Belle Plain, he and Hannibal were shown into the cool pailor by little Steve. It was more years than the judge cared to remember since he had put his foot inside such a house, but with true grandeur of soul he rose to the occasion; a sublimated dignity shone from every battered feature, while he fixed little Steve with so fierce a glance that the grin froze on his lips.

"You are to say that Judge Slocum Price presents his compliments and condolences to Miss Malroy-have you got that straight, you pinch of soot?" he concluded affably. Little Steve, impressed alike by the judge's air of condescension and his easy flow of words, signified that he had. "You may also say that Judge Price's ward, young Master Hazard, presents his compliments and condolences-" What more the judge might have said was interrupted by the entrance of Betty, herself.

"My dear young lady-" the judge bowed, then he advanced toward her with the solemnity or carriage and countenance he deemed suitable to the occasion, and her extended hand was engulfed between his two plump palms. He rolled his eyes heavenward. "It's the Lord's to deal with us as his own inscrutable wisdom dictates," he murmured with pious resignation. "We are all poorer, ma'am, that he has died-just as we were richer while he lived!" The rich cadence of the judge's speech fell sonorously on the slience, and that look of horror which had never quite left Betty's eyes since they saw Charley Norton fall, rose out of their clear depths again, The judge, instantly stricken with a sense of the inadequacy of his words, doubled on his spiritual tracks. "In a roundabout way, ma'am, we're bound to be lieve in the omnipresence of Providence-we must think it-though a body might be disposed to hold that west Tennessee had got out of the line of divine supervision recently.

BOOSTER TRIPS WORTH WHILE

If Actual Financial Benefit Cannot Be Shown, They Still Have a Distinct Value.

There is a difference of opinion among Burlington business men as to the value of so-called booster trips. Close figuring has convinced a number that these trips do not pay. That is, that there is not sufficient new business developed to make up for the time and money expended.

And perhaps that may be true. But there are always things which your mathematical man is apt to overlook. He is of the kind who counts the day gaged in their manufacture. wasted that is spent at the fishing club or on the golf grounds. The booster trip has a value, and a much greater one than is generally appreclated. It enables the members of the booster party to get acquainted with some of the actual or prospective customers. It may open the way for future business. But what is much more valuable and important, it makes the members of these parties better acquainted with each other. And, then, it is a day, or a week, ostensibly devoted to business, but partly devoted to pleasure. It is a change from the eternal routine, and few of your mathematical men realize how important, how necessary, an occasional change of this kind is, and how heavy is the cost that those are called upon to pay who never indulge themselves with such a change of program.

Even where there are no direct de: ionstrable benefits, the booster trip is of great value, of real benefit, to all who take part therein .- Burlington Hawkeye.

UPLIFT IN LOVE OF NATURE

Cultivation of Ornamental Trees and Plants Marks Always a People of Refinement.

It is an unquestioned fact, certified by all observant travelers of broad experience, that the cultivation of ornamental trees and plants has an uplifting and ennobling influence on all mankind. No matter in what quarter of the earth you are traveling, you will invariably meet with the best reception at that domicile where the greatest love of nature is manifest, through the cultivation or presence of plants and flowers.

Aside from the orchard sections, it is a rare occurrence, in any state, to note in rural districts a farmyard where any intelligent or orderly attempt has been made to beautify the plant. grounds, and in small towns decorated, tidy premises are equally rare. WATER SUPPLY ON DRY FARM

Plant for Average Home Need Not Be Elaborate or Extensive to Be Convenient

(By PROF. E. S. KEENE, Dean of Englneering, College.) North Dakota Agricultural

An adequate and well arranged water supply system contributes to the comfort and well being of the family to a greater measure than any other form of household convenience. Such a system not only lightens the burden of household drudgery, but adds immeasurably to the contentment of those who enjoy its service. When there is added to the convenlence of such a plant that of a system of sewage disposal, the equipment of the suburban or country residence becomes as complete as can be obtained where city water supply and sewer service is available. That plants of this kind are in general use is a matter of common-knowledge, and that they are successful in service is attested by the number of companies en-

A water supply plant for the average home need not be elaborate on expensive in order to be convenient. The water may be taken from any suitable source of supply, and the plant may be made to suit the available conditions, no matter what they may be.

The system is simple in construction, not at all difficult to operate, and contains all of the essentials necessary to the demands of the average

The source of supply is a rain water cistern sunk below the level of the basement floor, the top of which extends above the level of the floor. The water is pumped from the cistern by a common tank pump and forced intothe pressure tank, where it furnishes a supply of water as desired. The tank is an upright cylinder made perfectly. tight and constructed to withstand the necessary pressure required to perform its service. It may be galvanized as a precaution against rust, but this is not absolutely necessary.

The pipe which conveys the water from the pump enters the tank near the bottom, and as the water enters. the contained air is compressed into the decreasing space above its surface. The pressure developed by the compressed air furnishes the force by which the water is driven out of the tank and through the distributing pipes as the supply is demanded. If the air of the tank when empty of water is compressed until it occupies onehalf of its original volume, then the pressure will be twice the original pressure, which in this case will be about 15 pounds to the square inch. The higher the water rises in the tank the greater will be the pressure developed. This may be as high as 125 pounds to the square inch if occasion requires, but 40 pounds pressure is generally sufficient for all the rem ments usually demanded in a house of Alberta.) There is no kind of live stock that can be handled as advantageously in connection with extensive grain growing in a dry-farming country as cam-

MANY BENEFITS FROM SHEEP

No Kind of Live Stock That Can Be Handled More Advantageously With Dry Farming.

This is due to one fundamental fact -the large number of weeds that sheep will eat. Of the 300 grasses and weeds known in Canada, sheep will eat 260. Horses and cattle will eat only about one-fourth that number.

The most serious problem confronting the average grain farmer in Western Canada today is the weed problem. While the weed problem can be handled by proper cultivation, this cultivation can be greatly facilitated by keeping the right kind of animals on the land, and in addition to solving the weed problem the productiveness of the soil will also be maintained.

Anything that will destroy weeds is worthy of the farmer's attention; anything that will maintain the fertility: of the land demands his attention. Sheep will do both, and are therefore entitled to the attention of every grain grower in a dry-farming country.

Overhead Irrigation.

Many gardeners using cold frames for the forcing of early summer crops have found the overhead system of irrigation very practical. Instead of placing the pipes several feet above the frames they are usually placed very close to the frames and in some instances on the inside of the side boards. This method of irrigation greatly reduces the cost of watering and secures more equal distribution of the water than usually occurs by hand watering. When using this system it is always better to water thoroughly and then refrain from applying more water until it is actually needed.

Profit Lies in Seed Bed.

There are few farms on which additional labor expended in preparing the seed bed would not yield handsome returns, It costs about 15 cents. per acre to harrow land and about 35 cents per acre to disk land. For one dollar land can be double disked and be here, because this meeting has to harrowed twice. One bushel of wheat do with boys and girls. NEW MODEL FIVE

L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter

(Ball Bearing - Long Wearing)

The Printing Center is the point where all the mechanical operations become resolved into one unit of effort.

All the energy of this machine is concentrated on the type face the moment it touches the paper.

Smoothness and harmony of working parts are achieved through a wonderful system of ball-bearings.

Vibration and jamming of the typebars are made impossible by the Typebar Guide. Other new features are the Geared Carriage-Ball Controller and the Ribbon Color-Switch.

Model Five has a certain crispness and vitality of key-operation that is a delight and a help to the operator.

THE COUNTRY'S BUSINESS IS NOW AT FLOOD TIDE

From Every Section of the Nation Comes the Good News of a People's Prosperity

That Is the Chorus That Comes from Every State, and It Is a Song That Gladdens the Heart of All

HE country is at the flood tide of prosperity. The last four years under Republican laws and Republican policies mark a triumphant climax in the nation's history.

From the day that William McKinley, in the name of the Republican party, assumed control of the government, down to the present time, when William Howard Taft is proving the worthy and patriotic successor of the martyred president, there has been uninterrupted progress, unexampled prosperity, marvelous growth.

Business everywhere is booming. Labor is in great demand and wages were never better. Banks' deposits are increasing. Railroads are carrying enormous quantities of freight. Shipbuilding has taken on a new lease of life. Farmers are making money and miners and all other classes of workers are busy. Never was such universal activity known before.

The details presented in these columns tell their own convincing story. They are gathered from all sections of the country -a broadside of interesting, instructive facts that demonstrate the widespread blessing of prosperity all over the land.

BUSINESS IS BRISK

Local Merchants in the Towns Find Receipts Increasing Each Month.

Under the heading, "Business is Brisk this Fall," the Freeport, Ill., Journal says that local merchants are optimistic and that "autumn displays in local windows include great variety of high class goods that will sell well." The Journal then says:

"Recent reports from shippers in almost every section of the country give one the idea that the only famine we will have is one of freight cars rather than of produce. The conditions in the harvest fields of our great grain sections this year have demanded more labor than they could get, and that condition has not existed for several seasons. Wages are at the top notch and there is plenty of work. Factories are working full force and many of them over-time. And the farmer still buys automobiles.

"Among local merchants business has been good this summer and each month has shown an improvement over the corresponding month one year ago."

WILL DEPEND UPON ELECTION

Politics, Unfortunately, Will Have an Influence Upon Continued Prosperity.

In an interview published in New York, Mr. James S. Alexander, president of the National Bank of Commerce, said: "Merchants have been increasing their stocks. Labor is well employed. Tremendous crops are assured. The outlook is exceedingly good." But Mr. Alexander added that politics, unfortunately, were a factor in the situation and that if present conditions were changed by the election, the business world would naturally suffer.

Bright Business Signs. From the Reading, Pa., Times.

It gratifies the Times to be able to bring to the attention of its readers the many evidences of business improvement appearing in all sections of the country. These come from the west as well as from the east, and affect the agriculturist as well as the industries and financial and commercial houses.

The following is taken from an address delivered by Professor Woodrow Wilson before the tariff board in 1882, showing his view then on the question of the tariff and the distinct announcement of his position as a free trader, opposed to all tariffs except merely for the purpose of raising revenue:

"But the danger of imposing protective duties is that when the policy is once embarked upon it cannot be easily receded from. Protection is nothing more than a bounty, and when we offer bounties to manufacturers they will enter into industries and build up interests and when at a later day we seek to overthrow this protective tariff we must hurt somebody and of course there is objection. They will say, 'Thousands of men will be thrown out of employment and hundreds of people will lose their capital.' This seems very plausible; but I maintain that manufacturers are made better manufacturers whenever they are thrown upon their own resources and left to the natural competition of trade."

"Protection also hinders commerce immensely. The English people do not send as many goods to this country as they would if the duties were not so much and in that way there is a restriction of commerce and we are building up manufactories here at the expense of commerce. We are holding ourselves aloof from foreign countries in effect and saying, 'We are sufficient to ourselves; we wish to trade, not with England, but with each other.' I maintain that it is not only a pernicious system, but a corrupt system.

"By Commissioner Garland: "Q. Are you advocating the repeal of all tariff laws?

"A. Of all protective tariff laws; of establishing a tariff for revenue merely. It seems to me very absurd to maintain that we shall have free trade between different portions of this country and at the same time shut ourselves out from free communication with other producing countries of the world. If it is necessary to impose restrictive duties on goods brought from abroad it would seem to me as a matter of logic, necessary to impose similar restrictions on goods taken from one state of this Union to another. That follows as a necessary consequence; there is no escape from it."

Scattered among the platitudes or Dr. Wilson's speech of acceptance are some truths. None is more significant than this:

"We stand in the presence of an awakened nation, impatient of partisan make believe."

Following which he makes believe that he is telling the voters of the country his position on the campaign issues. No one has yet been able to determine from a reading of the speech precisely what that position is. Some slight enlightenment comes from time to time in his later utterances, like, for example, the declaration the other day that Tammany is to be safe from his assaults; but none of it is satisfying.

Dr. Wilson, in the preconvention days, was represented to the country as a scholarly gentleman, too lofty of mind to practice the wiles of the professional politician, too earnest in the cause of good government to be aught but frank and fearless in his expression, too unselfish to put private ambition above the public weal, too idealistic in character to truckle to the forces of evil in the nation.

But how singularly he has masked all of these qualities since William Jennings Bryan forced his nomination at Baltimore.

There is no difference, save in the purity of the English, between his speeches and the speeches of the professional office seeker of the worst period in American politics. He steps pussy footed over all the large questions of the day. He exhibits a suspiciously broad tolerance for all elements in the body politic, even the elements which, to nominate him, Bryan found it expedient to denounce by name in the convention. There is none of the rugged frankness of utterance that characterized his writings n the days before he was inoculated with the virus of political ambition. He is proving over apt as an advanced student of practical politics.

It is not a pleasant nor a heartening exhibition he makes of himself. The right minded citizen can feel nothing but sadness in contemplating a man of education and culture so intent upon partisan and personal victory that he sacrifices those ideals of truth and honesty for which he has always stood to fawn upon and honeyfugle the voters. Dr. Wilson as a candidate is not in character with the Dr. Wilson that was pictured to us prior to the Baltimore convention. This "awakened nation, impatient of partisan make believe," detects the difference.

HAPPY FARMERS

They Have Every Cause for Joy on the Next Thanksgiving Day.

From the Detroit Free Press, Sept. 13, A marvelously fortunate year is this of 1912 for this land of ours. The government crop report yesterday renews once more the proof that all things are uniting for the welfare of Americans. It is an amazing showing, 300,000,000 bushels of spring wheat being reported as in sight, where last year the yield was only 190,000,000 bushels, and the year before 200,000,000. Added to the winter wheat, which in spite of the soft wheat losses in our own section of the country, will still pass the 1911 mark, the total yield of this grain will run well above 700,000,000 bushels, and if private advices are reliable, even above 800,000,000 bushels.

We have had but two years in the past when the 700,000,000 mark was passed, 1906 and 1901, and the outlook is that the return per bushel for the harvest now available will exceed that of either of these

What crops have grown are drowning in flood. The American farmer, with his barns bulging with the yield of his acres, will get big prices for his big stock of food supplies.

A bountiful harvest and a strong demand should make the farmer of this country a happy man on Thanksgiving day.

BRIGHTENING WEEKS,

From the New York Commercial, Sept. Each week is more auspicious than its predecessor in the auspicious promise of a great business year. This implies according to the laws of trade chances several to succeed it. With immense uniform crops as a foundation, accompanied by conditions in the Old World much less favorable, it gives this country a place of vantage which it has rarely if ever experienced, so concurrently do the general facts at home and abroad run in our

A significant fact is that New York for the last week has been put to its trumps to accommodate adequately the immense throngs of business visitors. No city is better supplied with such resources of hospitality, but they have been strained to the uttermost since the middle of August. There is nothing in the capacity of our transportation lines which does not fully conjoin with the sanguine outlook that pervades the whole country.

While all the activities of trade are notable now they will be vastly more as in a few weeks.

BANKS SHOW PROSPERITY.

From the Beleit, Wis., Free Press, September 11, 1812 Bank deposits are a sure indicator of prosperity in a ceity, and on this point Beloit banks show a steady ingreese and this city on this score compares most favorably with the outside world. Total deposits in the four banks according to the current statements aggregate $4,348,478.46, of which $2,560,871.14 represent the savings of the people. Rockford with three times the population has little more than double the amount of money on deposit in her seven banks. Figuring Beloit's population at 18,000, which is probably conservative, the per capita deposits in the banks amount to $3.41%, which is a pretty good showing.

Can we Affected by Politica.

Henry Clews, the New York financial expert, says in his weekly letter that business conditions are good, especially in the west, but he points that they may become unsettled by political developments.

There were good times before the last Democratic administration, but they soon became bad times. The country does not want history to re-

Secret Service Chief Says That With Good Times There is Less Law-Breaking.

From the Buffalo, N. Y., Inquirer. The department of agriculture in its latest announcement reports bumper crops of corn, white potatoes, spring wheat, cats, rye and buckwheat.

Business agencies report booming iron and steel trade, strong demand for cars and decrease in the number of commercial failures.

The most novel sign of prosperity, however, is recorded by Chief John H. Wilkie of the United States secret service. "Whenever work is plentiful and employment easily obtainable," says Chief Wilkie, "crime is less, and this rule, which has been demonstrated by years of experience, applies as much to counterfeiting as to other offenses against the law."

As a general proposition easy times are the times freest of crime, indicating that distress is the cause of much law beanking

As to the general business of the country, although within less than eight weeks of election, with conditions growing feverish among candidates, there can be no two opinions. It is large and tends to become larger, in some cases showing a volume never before recorded.

This is especially the case with those industries which imply a large volume of business in other lines and directions, such, for example, as the industrial demand for fuel and the biggest output ever known in manufactured steel.

At no time in the history of this country has the production of steel been so great, and its relation to other industries is shown in the large orders received from the railway equipment companies.

Have your chickens got the pip? Do you suffer from the grip? Have you trouble with your toes?-Vote for Teddy and it goes. That he might secure negro Have your children got the mumps? Do you suffer from the chills?---Try a box of Teddy's Squills.

> Are there wrinkles on your spouse? Have you measles in the house? Have you lost your sense of smell?-Vote for Teddy and get well. Can't you liquidate your debts?-Try one dose of Teddyettes.

Have you water on the brain? Does your roof leak in the rain? Don't you dare discharge the cook?-Vote for Teddy and the Hook! Are you getting rather stout? Does your back ache from your toil? Try St. Teddy's Nationoil!

Moles or freckles on your face: Too much taxes; too much wealth; Too much labor; too much health: There's no ill that men endure Teddy's Quick-Quack Cannot Cure!

School should be dismissed for such a time as will enable teachers to get to Albuquerque by Thursday morning, November 7th, and no pay should be deducted for time that the teachers are absent in attendance. So important is it that your teachers should keep in intelligent touch with the best educational thought and effort by going to Albuquerque that the expenses of your teachers and superintendent, whatever funds are available, should be paid in whole or in part by the various boards employing them. Let me hope, therefore, that you will present this matter to a full meeting of your board and that you will take action in accordance with the wishes of the State Board of Education and this department in this matter, and that we shall have the pleasure of seeing your district or town represented by a member or members of your board and by all means by your teachers.

I might dwell longer upon the importance of you and your teachers attending this meeting but I take it for granted that you understand how important it is and how much benefit will be derived from attendance without my presenting further argument to you. Certainly your teacher will more than repay the expense incurred and the time absent, by doing much better and more effective work. Special railroad rates and low hotel accommodations at Albuquerque have been obtained. The expenses will not be great, the benefits will be.

I shall appreciate hearing from you that you and your teachers will be in attendance. Feeling sure of your hearty co-operation in this matter, I remain, Yours very truly, ALVAN N. WHITE, Instruction and Secretary illness of Mrs. Reid. State Board of Education.

Plants May Be Kept Throughout

Throughout zero weather you can keep your house plants by using Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater.

This heater maintains a steady even temperature day and night. It will hold fire and heat over night and you can heat your living rooms for two hours next morning with the coal put in the night before.

The patented construction of

enables the manufacturer to guarantee it to remain always air-tight.

You have perfect control over the fire at all times. Thus, the coal does not waste away and you don't have to kindle a fire in the morning as with other stoves. Think of it! Your dressing rooms and breakfast rooms warmed by the fuel put in the night before.

This truly great heater is growing in popular favor year after year. The following is a message just received from the manufacturer:

We are working full force to supply the demand for Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater- Never in history was the demand so heavy for our better finished heaters.

Colo Manufacturing Co.

Now is the time to select your heater. We will set one aside for you and have it ready when you wish it put up.

IF ELECTORS FAIL

One for President.

House of Representatives Would Have Next Chance, and If No Candidate Had Majority of States, Vice President Would Occupy White House.

By E. W. PICKARD.

Washington.-Of course your presidential candidate will be elected, but just for the sake of an argument let us suppose the electoral college were so divided that no one candidate received a majority. The possibilities in such a case are interesting.

The fathers of the country who framed the constitution provided that the electors "appointed" by the states should vote on candidates for president and that the one receiving the elections of George Washington, for there was really no opposition to him. But in 1796 John Adams was the candidate of the federalists and Thomas Jefferson of the Democratic-Republicans, and though Adams was elected president, Jefferson, his leading rival in the politics of the day, received the asecond largest vote and was seated in the vice presidential chair. This was embarrassing to both of them, and the system was so generally unsatisfactory that the constitution was amended in time for the election of 1804. In accordance with the new plan, which is still followed, the electors vote for president and vice president by separate ballots and a majority is required in each case.

Suppose They Do Not Elect Any majority. This would throw the election into the house of representatives, and again it would be no severe strain on one's imagination to fancy the house also about equally divided among the three candidates. For instance, though this is not a political prophecy, suppose the state delegations, voting as units, stood as fol-

Becoming a Busy Industrial Center.

St. Petersburg.-The ancient city of Riga, on the River Dwina, hear the Baltic sea, is undergoing a wonderful change. The place was founded in German order instituted to convert the Letts and Esthonians. It became time a fortress of considerable strength. It did not lose the appearance of a mediaeval town until 1857, when its masonry walls were torn down. When Napoleon invaded Russia more than a century ago the governor of Riga burned 2,000 houses, Riga is now being converted into a modern industrial city. METHOD OF USING WINDMILLS Especially Adapted for Pumping Irrigation Water for Garden and Supplementary Supply.

(By G. E. P. SMITH, Arizona Experi-The records of wind movement show considerable difference in the amount of wind in different months, but the wind for any month is approximately the same on succeeding years. In any locality, therefore, the experience of one or two years will enable an observant rancher to know in advance how much ground it is safe to plant.

Wherever windmills are much used, it is customary to build reservoirs close by. For house service and cattle watering they serve as storage to provide for periods of calm weather. For irrigation uses they are too small to be of importance as storage, but they serve as accumulators of water, perhaps for several days, and when they are filled the water can be drawn out and applied to the fields in a few hours. Thus they save the irrigator's time and they secure an irrigating "head" which can be gotten over the ground as desired. It is not desirable to build large reservoirs, as the loss by evaporation and seepage is then of greater moment than the gain in other directions:

Fortunately the months of greatest wind movement are the spring and early summer months, which include the best growing season. In order to take advantage of the high winds of early spring, the garden irrigator should borrow from the dry farmer the method of water storage in the soil. During the season before seed is planted, heavy irrigations can be given, preferably in deep furrows, and after each division of the garden is thus treated, the furrows should be covered by cultivation to prevent the escape of the moisture. If the soil is loamy and deep and retentive, fifteen to twenty inches depth of water can be advantageously stored in this way. If the soil is shallow and underlain by porous gravels, such irrigations are a waste of time and water.

There are two conditions in which windmills are cially adapted for irrigation pun. 3. First, for the house and garden lot, where no other pumping plant is available and where the depth to groundwater is not excessive. Very often the windmill is required for house service, and since that service does not work the mill to more than a fraction of its capacity, it can be utilized the rest of the time watering a garden or an alfalfa patch for poultry with no additional investment. In one instance on record a windmill lifting water ninety feet furnished the water supply for a house chard trees and thirty-two other miscellaneous plants. The second condition in which the windmill is adapted out dry-farmed crops. There are large areas in Arizona where dry farming unaided is almost, though not quite, successful, provided judicious selection of crops is made. The experiments of this station have shown that in such cases a small amount of supplementary irrigation increases the yield out of proportion to the small amount of water applied, even so small an amount as three or four inches depth making the difference between crop failure and profit. Over a considerable area which promises to be utilized in this manner the valley fill is of such a character that it is impossible to develop a well at one place which yields sufficient water for a centrifugal pump, yet the slow constant draught of a windmill pump can be supplied. Both conditions presuppose that the prevailing winds are strong. If the windfill is used to irrigate garden crops such as tomatces, which need irrigation every few days, it is desirable to rurchase a small gasoline engine of one or two horsepower and connect it to the pump rods by belt or gearing. It is then available for use when the wind does not blow.

It Pays to Fatten Poultry. There is ordinarily from three to seven cents per pound difference in the price paid for well-fleshed or fattened birds, to that paid for birds just. off the range or fields. This means a difference of from 15 to 35 cents on the five-pound chicken, depending upon

RED, ROUGH HANDS MADE SOFT AND WHITE

For red, rough, chapped and bleeding hands, dry, fissured, itching, burning palms, and painful finger-ends, with shapeless nails, a one-night Cuticura treatment works wonders. Directions: Soak the hands, on retiring, in hot water and Cuticura Soap. Dry, anoint with Cuticura Ointment, and wear soft bandages or old, loose gloves during the night. These pure, sweet and gentle emollients preserve the hands, prevent redness, roughness and chapping, and impart in a single night that velvety softness and whiteness so much desired by women. For those whose occupations tend to injure the hands, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are wonderful.

Physicians in all of the eastern states will be asked by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis to stop sending consumptives in the last stages of tuberculosis and without sufficient funds to the southwestern part of the United States in search of health. While it is impossible to tell accurately how many consumptives there are at present living in the states of Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, southern California, and western Texas, it is probable that no less than ten per cent of the 6,000,000 people in this territory have tuberculosis themselves, or have come to the west because some member of their family have had it. Every year, the health authorities estimate, not less than 10,-000 consumptives, hopelessly diseased, come west to die. For these cases, the climate of this section of the country can do nothing, and they are compelled to die in strange surroundings and thousands of miles from home and friends. The National Association points out further that from 50 to 60 per cent, of these advanced cases are too poor to provide the proper necessaries of life, and they are either starved to death, or compelled to accept the meager charity which this

The Love in Fiction and Life,

A periodical devoted to the drama pleads for plays based on some emction other than love. The difficulty in producing such plays is that every play must have a hero, and in making a hero, the playwright, as well as his audience, almost inevitably adopts dries and no strips of red cloth swung the form of the glowing curves of the the view expressed 2,000 years ago by a scribbler of the dead walls of Pompeti: "He who has never loved a woman is not a gentleman."

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CON-TAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. J. A. Boarman, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children, known the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children."

happy effect, and fully endorse it as a safe remedy."

Dr. J. J. Mackey, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I consider your Castoria an excellent preparation for children, being composed of reliable medicines and pleasant to the taste. A good remedy for all disturbances of the digestive organs."

"THE BLUE AND THE GRAY"

A mother's gift to her country's cause Is a story yet untold, She had three sons, three only ones, Each worth his weight in gold. She gave them up for the sake of war While her heart was filled with pain, As each went away she was heard to say He will never return again.

One lies down near Appomatox. Many miles away; Another sleeps at Chickamauga And they both wore suits of gray. 'Mid the strains of 'Down in Dixie' The third was laid away In a trench at Santiago, The blue and the gray.

She's alone tonight while the stars shine bright, With a heart full of despair;

On the last great day I can hear her say My three boys will sure be there. Perhaps they'll watch at the heavenly

Will enter with her sons.

Darling fold me to you closer As you did in days of yore, Press your lips upon my forehead E'er I see the shining shore.

Life is from me fastly fleeting, Soon I'll be in sweet repose When I'm gone I'll ask this favor, Lay my head beneath a rose.

Lay me where sweet flowers blossom, Where the dainty lily grows; Where the pink and violets mingle, Lay my head beneath a rose. Darling one when first I met you, Well I believe most everybody | When I pledged your hand and heart,

And we vowed we ne'er would part.

One more kiss for I am going Far beyond all earthly woes, Let my grave be like your cheeks love, Why am I so weak and weary? See how faint my heated breath. All around to me seems darkness, Oh how well I know your answer

Soon with angels Ill be marching With bright laurels on my brow, I have for my country fallen Who will core for mother now?

Who will comfort her in sorrow, Who will dry the fallen tear, Gently smooth the wrinkled forehead, Who will whisper words of cheer? Even now I think I see her, Kneeling, praying for me, how Can I leave her in her anguish, Who will care for mother now? Let this knap-sack be my pillow And my mantel be the sky, Hasten comrades to the battle I will like a soldier die. Soon with angels I'll be marching With bright laurels on my brow, Died-Mrs. M. E. Boone died last Saturdy evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. J Farnham, after a short illness, during which time she was tenderly cared for by friends and loved ones, and everything done within their power to relieve her suffering, but about 4 o'clock the cruel hand of death laid its chill upon her brow. Mrs. Boone was born March 3, 1831, in the state of Georgia. In 1845, at the age of 14, she was married. Her husband was killed time she lived in Arkansas.

She was the mother of eight children, four of which survive her. Sam Boone, at Memphis, Texas, T. M. Boone, Claude, Texas, Mrs. F. T. Myers, Vernon, Texas, and Mrs. H. J. Farnham, of this place. The re-
