Howard Lindsey Here

'Howard Lindsey and wife are here this week. Mr. Lindsey, who is the son of Governor W. E. Lindsey, was reared in Portales and has many friends here who will be glad to hear of his wedding to Miss Eunice Parker at Nogales, Arizona, the first of May. Howard is here on business, getting the county books checked up for the new county of De Baca, which was made up partly of the former pan handle of Roosevelt county, as he has been appointed clerk over there, but he and his wife will undoubtedly visit several days with his many friends while here. The News joins in congratulations for his good fortune in winning the hand of Miss Parker and also in the appointment to the office of county clerk of De Baca county. which position he is appointed to fill until the regular election in 1918 names a man to take the place; and we predict that Howard will make such an efficient officer that his election will be assured at that time if he cares to make the race for the office.

If thou wilt cast this black thing aside and give all thy strength and cheer and courage to the things of today real misfortune never can burden thee.

Grow, but Don't Swell

It is well for you to have confidence in your ability, but when it reaches the stage of "swelledheadedness" your value to yourself or to any one else begins to dwindle

"Some men grow with responsibility: others merely swell." The man who swells has ceased to grow. He has reached a place where he thinks he has all the knowledge he needs, and naturally all growth is re-

The Battle of Life.

In God's eyes the differences of social position, of intellect, of dress, which different men exhibit and all the other rarities on which they so fantastically pin their pride, must be so small as practically to vanish, and all that should remain is the common fact that here we are, a countless multitude of vessels of life, each of us pent in to peculiar difficulties, with which we must severally struggle by using whatever of fortitude and goodness we can summon up.-William James

Mistakes.

When you make a mistake don't look back at it long. Take the reason of the thing into your own mind, see how similar mistakes can be avoided and then look forward. Mistakes are lessons of wisdom. The past cannot be changed. The future is yet in your power .- White.

PRESENTING THE BEST.

It is seldom that a person appears at his best. He is awkward, uncouth, careless or slouchy. For some reason or other he hides or suppresses the graces of which he is capable. If it were not so and every man and woman allowed the divinity within them to shine out society would be a heaven. One sometimes meets a man or woman who puts her beautiful nature into word and deed, but there are not many such people. There are indeed some whose very presence seems like a bless ing. They turn a dark world into a bright one. There is a harmony in their lives that one lingers long to entoy. The good Lord created men to be happier and nobler than they are, and it is within them to be so, but another influence sneaked into creation and undermined that beautiful capacity, so that it often happens that people come nearer being devils than angels. But it need not be so. It ought not to be so. Man transgresses the laws of life if he is not the best he can be. The purpose to be so is a virtue of itself .-Ohio State Journal

Love One Another.

How beautifully is it ordered that, as many thousands work for one, so must every individual bring his labor to make the whole. The highest is not to despise the lowest nor the lowest to envy the highest. Each must live in all and by all. Who will not work neither shall be eat. So God has ordered that men, being in need of each other, should learn to love each other and bear each other's burdens.-G. A. Sala.

The Greatest Man. The greatest man is he who chooses the right with invincible resolution, who resists the sorest temptations from within and without, who bears the heaviest burdens cheerfully, who is calmest in storms, most fearless under menace and frowns and whose reliance on truth, on virtue, on God, is most unfaltering.-William Ellery Channing.

Hospitality. Hospitality must be for service and not for show or it pulls down the host The brave soul rates itself too high to value itself by the splendor of its table and its draperies. It gives what it hath and all it hath, but its own majesty can lend a better grace to bannocks and fair water than belongs to grand city feasts.-Emerson,

******** THE FUTURE.

The worst is yet to come, So wail the doubters glum. But here's the better view: "My best I've yet to do."

Tomorrow holds no cheer, Yet farther on life's lane Are love you shall attain.

Go forward bravely then And play your part as men, For this is ever true: "Our best we've yet to do."

CUBA OFFERS AID

Well Trained Troops at Service of United States.

PORTS OPEN TO OUR SHIPS.

Will Act if Necessary as Halfway Station to Aid Northern Republic In Transportation of Troops and Munitions to Panama Canal or Other Points on Gulf.

New Orleans.-In addition to declaring war on Germany immediately following the lead of the United States government, Cuba will place 25,000 well trained troops-infantry, cavalry and artillery-at the service of the northern republic for the duration of the war. President Mario G. Menocal has issued an order to this effect, and Colonel Aurelio Hevias, Cuban minister of war, is apportioning these troops and selecting the officers who will accompany them.

First news of this placing of a whole army division of Cuban troops at the orders of the United States was brought to New Orleans by Eduardo R. Mendez, Cuban sugar expert, who has just returned from Havana.

"Cuba entered the great war largely in an effort to show its sincere friendship for the United States," said Mr. Mendez at his home. "The island is the key to the gulf of Mexico and to the Caribbean sea, and by declaring war on Germany Cuba closes all her ports to Germany. More than this, all the ports of Cuba now are open to the United States as a war ally for indefinite periods and for unlimited supplies of all kinds, whereas had Cuba not entered the war American warships would have been subjected to all restrictions of international law as to time of stay and amount of fuel obtainable there. "In other words, Cuba desires to be the outpost of the United States in the gulf and to act also if necessary as a halfway station to aid the northern republic in its transportation of troops and munitions of war to the Panama canal or to other points on the gulf or on the Caribbean sea. President Menocal has announced officially in Havana that the entire Cuban army of 25,000 men will be placed at the orders of the United States government and will be supplied with officers who speak English as well as Spanish, for service throughout the war. This quota, constituting an entire army division, will be kept to full enlistment by constant recruiting throughout the war, and 25,000 more volunteers will be recruited to take the place in the army of those sent to the front or distributed wherever the United States wishes to

"Announcement also has been made that American warships will aid the Cuban navy in patrolling the waters around the island and such parts of the gulf as may be deemed necessary. The ill timed and badly advised revolution is at an end; General Gomez is a prisoner in Havana, and other revolutionists are being extradited from Haiti, so the full forces of the Cuban government can be turned to the prosecution of the war against Germany."

BRITON ACTS AS GUARD.

Does Patrol Duty In Boston After Mi litiaman Collapses.

Boston.-A sailor of the British navy maintained a part of the water front patrol here, bearing the rifle of a national guardsman who had collapsed on his post

The bluejacket, a member of the gun crew of a steamship which was tied up in port, found the guardsman on the wharf where he had fainted. Taking him into a nearby shanty, the sailor telephoned for a doctor, then shouldered the guardsman's rifle and for nearly an hour kept the post in a drizzle of rain until a corporal who encountered him arranged for relief.

RAISE Broom Corn

The first demand when the United States declared war on Germany was money for the Allies. The best money crop for the farmers of Eastern New Mexico to raise is Broom Corn. Early delivery, ready cash, the only sure crop to make; it brings home the money when other crops fail. The Broom Corn crop can be harvested earlier than any other and the fodder makes good roughness for feed in addition to the brush value, which answers the purpose for feed and money crop. The same land can be planted in Wheat earlier than other crops; earlier planting of Wheat is the only method of any assurance of Wheat in this district. XXX

Year 1916 the Broom Corn crop was short and light tonnage. Year 1917 demands a large tonnage to supply the demand at good prices. XXX

AMERICA TO THE IMMIGRANT.

A Former Roumanian on the Heartache of Finding a New Home.

What, I wonder, do they know of America who know only America? The more I think upon the subject the more I become persuaded that the relation of the teacher and the taught as between those who were born and those who came here must be reversed. It is the free American who needs to be instructed by the benighted races in the uplifting word that America speaks to all the world. Only from the humble immigrant, it appears to me, can be learn just what America stands for in the family of nations. The alien must know this for he alone seems ready to pay the heavy price for his share of America. He. unlike the older inhabitant, does not come into its inheritance by the accident of birth. Before he can become an American he must first be an immigrant. More than that, back of im migration lies emigration. And to him alone is it given to know the bitter sacrifice and the deep upheaval of the soul that are implied in those two words.

Oh, if I could show you America as we of the oppressed peoples see it! If I could bring home to you even the smallest fraction of this sacrifice and this upheaval, the dreaming and the strife, the agony and the heartache, the endless disappointments, the yearning and the despair-all of which must be ours before we can make a home for our battered spirits in this land of yours.

Perhaps, if we be young, we dream of riches and adventure, and if we be grown men we may merely seek a haven for our outraged human souls and a safe retreat for our hungry wives and children. Yet, however aggrieved we may feel toward our native home, we cannot but regard our leaving it as a violent severing of the ties of our life and look beyond toward our new home as a sort of glorifled exile. So, whether we be young or old, something of ourselves we always leave behind in our hapless, cherished birthplaces.

And the heaviest share of our burden inevitably falls on the loved ones that remain when we are gone. We make no illusions for ourselves. Though we may expect wealth, we have no thought of returning. It is farewell forever. We are not setting out on a trip; we are emigrating. Yes, we are emigrating, and there is our experience, our ordeal, in a nutshell. It is the one way passport for us every time. For we have glimpsed a vision of America, and we start out resolved that, whatever the cost, we shall make her our own. In our beavy laden hearts we are already Americans. In our own dumb way we have grasped her message to us.—M. E. Ravage in Harper's Magazine.

SYNOPSIS

Just previous to the outbreak of the European war Jane Gerson, buyer for a New York house, meets a Captain Woodhouse on a train for Paris. He tells her he is en Woodhouse (the name is assumed) is in a plot with Louisa to impersonate an English officer of that name, who is to be transferred from Wady Halfa to take charge of the signal tower at Gibraltar. Woodhouse, by agreement, purloins Capper's Wilhelmstrasse number.

The fire was set to the grain. Upon landing Captain Woodhouse's first business was to go to a hotel en the Grand square, which is the favorite stopping place of officers coming down from the Nile country. He fought his way through the predatory hordes of yelling donkey boys and obsequious dragomans at the door and entered the palm shaded court which served as office and lounge. Woodhouse paused for a second behind a screen of palm leaves and cast a quick eye around the court. None of the loung ers there was known to him. He strode

After a glass with Maitre Mouquere and a half hour's discussion of the day's great news Woodhouse pleaded a touch of the sun and went to his yoom. There he remained until the gold of sunset had faded from the mosque of Omar's great dome and all the city from Pharos and its harbor hedge of masts to El Meks winked with lights. Then he took carriage to the railroad station and entrained for Ramleh. What South Kensington is to London and the Oranges are to New York, Ramleh is to Alexandria-the suburb of homes. There pretty villas He in the lap of the delta's greenery, skirted by canals, cooled by the winds off Aboukir bay and shaded by great palms-the one beauty spot in all the hybrid product of east and west that is the present city of Alexandria.

Remembering directions he had received in Berlin, Woodhouse threaded shaded streets until he paused before a stone gateway set in a high wall. On one of the pillars a small brass plate was inset. By the light of a nearby arc Woodhouse read the inscription on it, "Emil Koch, M. D., 32 Queen's

The heavy gate closed behind the visitor with a sharp snap. One might have said that Dr. Koch lived in pretty secure isolation.

Woodhouse was shown into a small room off the main hall, by its furnishings and position evidently a waiting room for the doctor's patients. The Numidian bowed and disappeared. Alone, Woodhouse rose and strolled aimlessly about the room, flipped the covers of magazines on the table, picked up and hefted the bronze Buddha on the onyx mantel, noted, with a careless glance, the position of the two Germany declares war on Russia. As he was regarding these doors they rolled back, and a short. thickset man, with a heavy mane of iron gray hair and black brush of beard, stood between them. He looked Woodhouse through thick lensed glasses, which gave to his stare a curi ously intent bent.

"My office hours are from 2 to 4, aft noons." Dr. Koch said. He spoke in English, but his speech was burred by a slight heaviness on the aspirates. reminiscent of his mother tongue. The doctor did not ask Woodhouse to en ter the consultation room, but continued standing between the folding doors, staring fixedly through his thick Imperceptibly the accenting of the aspirates in Woodhouse's speech grew more marked; his voice took on a throaty character. "By some specialists my life even has been set to end in a certain year, so sure is fate for those afflicted like myself." What year is it, then, you Dr. Koch's strangely detached eyes-those eyes of glass glowing dimly in the shadow-seemed to flicker palely with a light all their own. Captain Woodhouse, sitting under the descent, looked up carelessly to meet

"If your trouble is so serious that you will die in 1932 I must, of course, examine you for-symptoms."

For half a minute the two men looked fixedly at each other. Woodhouse's right hand went slowly to the big green scarab stuck in his cravat. He pulled the pin out, turned it over in his fingers and by pressure caused the scarab to pop out of the gold backed setting holding it. The bit of green stone lay in the palm of his left hand, its back exposed. In the hollowed back of the beetle was a small square of paper folded minutely. This Woodhouse removed, unfolded and passed to the physician. The latter seized it avidly, holding it close to his spectacled eyes and then spreading it against the light as if to read a secret watermark. A smile struggled through the jungle of his beard. He found Woodhouse's hand and grasped it warmly.

"Your symptom tallies with my diagnosis-1932," he began rapidly. "Five days ago we heard from the Wilhelmstrasse you would come. We have expected you each day now. Already we have got word through to our friends at Gibraltar of the plan. They are waiting for you."

"Good!" Woodhouse commented. He was busy refolding the thin slip of paper that had been his talisman and fitting it into the back of the scarab. Woodhouse-he is already at the Hotel Khedive; saw his name on the register when I landed from the Castle this morning." Now the captain was talking in familiar German.

"Quite so." Dr. Koch put in. "Woodnouse came down from Wady Halfa yesterday. Our man up there had advised of the time of his arrival in Alexandria to the minute. The captain has his ticket for the Princess Mary, which sails for Gibraltar day after tomorrow

I, for instance, did not besitate overmuch to recognize you, and I am under the eyes of the English here at every turn even though I am a naturalized English citizen-and of undoubted loyalty." He finished with a booming laugh.

"But Woodhouse-you have arranged a way to have him drop out of sight before the Princess Mary sails? There will be no confusion, no slip-up?' "Do not fear," the physician reassured. "Everything will be arranged. His baggage will leave the Hotel Khedive for the dock tomorrow night, but t will not reach the dock. Yours"-

"Will be awaiting the transfer of tags at the Cap de Liberte—Mouquere's ittle place." the captain finished. "But he man himself-you're not thinking

The real Captain Woodhouse will not leave Alexandria-by sea, let us say-for many months, although I have no doubt he will not be found in Alexan dria the hour the Princess Mary sails. The papers he carries—the papers of identity and of transfer from Wady Halfa to Gibraltar—will be in your bands in plenty of time. You"—

The doctor stopped abruptly. A hidden electric buzzer somewhere in the shadowed room was clucking an alarm. Koch pressed a button at the side of the operating chair. There was a sound beyond closed doors of some one passing through a hallway; the front door opened and closed.

"But I tell you you've got to recognize me. My number's 1932. My ticket was stolen out of the head of my cane somewhere between Paris and Alexandria. But I got it all rightgot it from the Wilhelmstrasse direct, with orders to report to Dr. Emil Koch in Alexandria!"

Capper! Capper, who was to be betrayed to the firing squad in Malta after his Wilhelmstrasse ticket had passed from his possession! Capper on the job!

Woodhouse hurled every foot pound of figuratal no hear late bis cars. He caught Koch's gruff answer:

"Young man, you're talking madness. You're talking to a loyal British subject. I know nothing about your Wilhelmstrasse or your number. If I did not think you were drunk I'd have you held here, to be turned over to the military as a spy. Now, go before I change my mind.

Again the querulous protestation of Capper, met by the doctor's peremptory order. The captain heard the front door close. A long wait and Dr. Koch's black beard, with the surmounting eyes of thick glass, appeared at a parting of the folding doors. Woodhouse. the tiny thermometer still sticking ab surdly from his mouth, met the basi lisk stare of those two ovals of glass with a coldly casual glance. ### A Liberty Loan Bond

Have you purchased a Liberty Loan Bond? Buying one of these bonds is not only doing a patriotic duty but is making an investment that is a paying business proposition. To buy one of these bonds is simply to loan the United States government the amount of the bond at 31-2 per cent interest; and to whom had you rather loan money than Uncle Sam? It is investing money without taking any risk of loss and having your money exempt from taxation. These bonds are an excellent form of savings for ones children or other dependents. They may be bought in denominations of $50 and up and can be had by applying for same at any bank. The Portales banks are making a special effort to dispose of these bonds and are ready to help you get one or more on a small cash payment if you are in a position to pay the balance on easy payments. Don't buy anything unless you can afford it, but if you can afford to invest $50.00 or save that amount for your loved ones, buy a Liberty Loan Bond.

Insurance for the Soldier

Congress works slowly and makes many blunders, but sary to be done in the operation and we should "hand it to them" for occasionally falling upon said. a really good idea. The council of national defense is now considering the idea of the government carrying a $4,000 insurance policy on every soldier for the latter's dependents, providing also for disability caused by wounds or sickness while in the service. This insurance plan is to take the place of the old pension system, which has been one of the worst abused systems for getting money from the government. This insurance system will not only do away with the continual paying out of pensions, many of which are worked in and drawn unjustly, but also the expense of handling this business from year to year. Besides this it will provide help for dependents and relatives of those who get killed and who could otherwise receive no help at all. In fact, this is the only system for a really fair deal for every man in the service.

Taxes on Publicity

Banks and bankers are now offering their services free of charge in the floatation of the liberty loan. But splendid as this voluntary work of theirs is, it does not begin said corporation may be served is B. to match the contributions which the newspapers are now making and have been making every day for two and a half yeary. When a newspaper gives away its space it gives awar something which costs it real money. It is giving today a much greater percentage of its energy and resources than is any other industry or business in America. Without publicity, Secretary McAdoo would find the liberty loan a dismal failure. At this juncture in the na- art, to me known to be the persons tion's life, no other single agency in our republic is more going instrument, and acknowledged to solidly united for its welfare than the newspapers. other agency compares with it in the mighty task of solidifying public sentiment behind the president and the flag. At such a time and in such a such a crisis it rises to the magnitude of a crime for any congressman to talk of harassing the publishers with honerous postal rates that are in no way a war tax. To strike down the very thing which is our country's strongest weapon in fighting freedoms's war would require a degree of asininity which we cannot believe exists even in Washington. - Albuquerque Morning Journal.

How to be patriotic: If you can not join the army and fight for your country, buy a Liberty Loan Bond, raise a few speckled beans for your own use this winter and all the tomatoes you can for Roosevelt county's canning factory.

A Liberty Loan Bond is an insurance policy that pays 3 1-2 per cent per annum dividend to its holder, semiannually, and matures and becomes payable at face value in fifteen or thirty years.

When the price of eggs in the United States goes up or down one cent it means $18,000,000 gain or loss to somebody-the producer, the cold storage man, the consumer. The value of poultry products in the United States is nearly equal to the value of the wheat crop and half that of the cotton crop. There is not a better poultry country anywhere than right here and those who have engaged in the poultry business have made good money.

Oh you lawyer; Oh you statesman; And you fellow working man, Come alive and do your duty; Help your country all you can!

Stick, boy, to your Uncle Sammy; He has been worth much to you.

When we do fight those Germans And we catch that Kaiser bold, You want to get a good grip, old boy, Just get a steady hold.

But stick, boy, to your Uncle Sammy; He has been worth much to you. Keep loyal to the banner flying; Just love the red and white and blue.

INSTANT ACTION SUR-PRISES MANY HERE

This grocer's story surprises local people: "I had bad stomach trouble. All food seemed to sour and form gas. Was always constipated. Nothing helped until I tried buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka. One spoonful astonished me with its instant action." Because Adleri-ka flushes the entire alimentary tract it relieves any case constipa tion, sour stomach or gas and prevents appendicitis. It has quickest action of anything we ever sold. Great Moral Can Be Gained From Reading American History, Says Cornell Professor-Buy a Liberty Bond 80 That Our Great-Grandchildren Will Speak Gratefully.

By HENDRIK WILLEM VAN LOON Of the Vigilantes. [Professor of history at Cornell univer-

One of the most momentous struggles of the American Revolution did not take place on the American conti-

It was fought out between the diplomatic agents of the newly formed commonwealth and the bankers of France and Holland.

It was comparatively easy to get men who were willing and able to carry arms in the fight for liberty. But it was difficult to make the European bankers see the great future of a dozen forlorn colonies engaged upon the hopeless task of defeating the mighty British empire.

Conditions in the year 1781 were not different from those in the year 1917. Napoleon remarked that war was a question of "money, money and more money." That was true when Washington guided his men against Yorktown. It is still true when the allied powers are trying to defeat the Prussian idea of world domination. The If God has sealed him for palm and cross, golden bullets of America will demolish the Hindenburg line and will ultimately defeat the submarine.

Money talks. And money also carries trenches.

Five American Patriots.

There are five American patriots whose lives and letters make interesting reading these days of the liberty loan. They are Franklin, Adams, Lee, Morris and Livingston, who fought the war for America's independence on European soil. They were brave fighters, these five. Often they did not have enough cash in their pockets to pay their own board bill. But they kept fighting. And they finally obtained the foreign loans which carried the American Revolution to a successful end and put the weak colonies firmly upon their feet as an independent and lest honors which come to any undersovereign nation.

It was John Adams, in 1780, who began the negotiations for the first great Dutch loan. At that time congress was so hard up for ready cash change for money which had not yet commissioners in Europe to find the necessary funds. The trenson of Arnold and the capture of the latest congressional missionary together with the discovery of all his papers-they were fished out of the ocean after be had thrown them overboard-had made about the ultimate success of the coionial uprising. The surrender of Cornwallis in October of the next year, however, offset these fears of ultimatedefeat, and a combination of Dutch firms ventured to invest 5,000,000 guilders in a congressional loan. In September of 1782 congress affirmed this loan and at once received 1,300,-000 guilders, more money in actual cash than had been seen on the American shores since the beginning of the Total of Eleven Loans.

During the following years other American congress was willing to pay credit of the new nation, another loan signal gallantry in action. of 2,000,000 guilders at 6 per cent was placed with several Amsterdam banking firms. In 1787 the third loan followed. Then in rapid succession came the loans of 1788, 1790, March, September and December of the year 1791. the loans of 1792, 1793 and 1794. These loans, indeed, became an annual event. and a greater part of the running expenses of the new and unstable congressional government was paid for with Dutch money. All in all eleven such loans, averaging between $2,000,-000 and $5,000,000 each, were placed in Holland during and immediately after

The garden of American liberty was laid out and the seed therein was planted by the genius of Washington and the men who co-operated with him, including the French volunteers. But the final growth and prosperity of the American commonwealth was in a houses of Holland procured from the Dutch people for the benefit of their sister republic across the ocean.

There is a moral in this Our freedom was won by the sword, backed by hard cash. Our freedom can be preserved only by the sword, backed by a bigger pile of hard cash than those thrifty Dutch bankers ever dreamed existed. Here is the moral: Buy a liberty bond, so that your great-grandchildren will speak as gratefully of you some day as we speak of those farsighted Dutch bankers.

HAS HAD EVENTFUL CAREER SOME QUAINT EXPRESSIONS

Doesn't Like Mahogany Desks, but Is Happy on the Field-Wen the Sobriquet of "Black Jack" as an Officer of the Famous Negro Tenth, Which Teek San Juan Blockhouse.

For the first time in history the United States will send a force of troops for military purposes to Europe. and to "Black Jack" Pershing, youngest of the major generals, has fallen the distinction of commanding this expeditionary division. Through skirmishes with the Indians, battles against Spain, Filipino insurrections and clashes with the Mexicans Major General Pershing has won his way until now he receives the active command of the first Americans fighting under this flag who will come to grips with the Germans in the Armageddon. For thirtyone years Pershing has been a soldier, and during that time he has crowded into the chapters of his life action, troubles and laurels that make him a distinctive figure among the general officers of the regular army.

"Black Jack" Pershing, as the men of the rank and file know the commander of the department of the south and the successor to the late Frederick Funston, is the type of the soldier whom Frederic Remington immortalized in his pictures of the Indian campaigns. Lean, but rugged, his six feet and better every inch bone and muscle, he typifies the ideal cavalry officer. He has been hardened by field service physically and has been broadened in executive service by several difficult posts in the Philippines. He cares little for swivel chairs and desks, but he dotes on boots and saddies, and in his Mexican expedition he took his troops ahead with such dash and efficiency that his command won the unstinted praise of foreign officers. One British subaltern, sent for observation purposes, called Pershing's command "the finest body of soldiers of its size in the world."

General Pershing is afty three years old, and his honors came with w "sh during the last sixteen years. He was born in Laclede, Linn county, Mo. Pershing was appointed to West Point in 1882 and four years later was graduated as senior cadet captain, the highgraduate of the Military academy.

to France fought Apaches and Sioux Indians until the militaristic Poor Lo gave up the unequal fight and became tenant Pershing never knew a promotion, but in 1893 he was raised to the rank of first lieutenant. He was assigned to the Tenth cavalry, the crack negro command that afterward won fame at the San Juan blockhouse. Because of the fact that he was appointed to the colored troop he earned the sobriquet of "Black Jack."

The young officer applied himself to a study of tactics, an application which has since resulted in the acknowledgment of Pershing as the best strategist in the regular army. Such became his reputation even then that he was assigned to West Point as an instructor on this subject. He did not remain above the Hudson long, for the war with Spain broke out, and Pershing applied instantly for a place with the negro Tenth. His command was shipped to Cuba among the first troops of that expeditionary force, and be distinguished himself in the field. Dutch loans followed each other with. His colonel termed him "the bravest and coolest man be ever saw under are." while at the battle of El Caney almost any premium to maintain the Pershing was promoted to captain for

Sent to the Philippines. When the war ended President Mc-Kinley exercised his executive right and gave Captain Pershing a berth as the head of the customs and insular affairs in the war department. But the life of the bureaucrat was like an opiate to the man of action. Pershing tired of the endless routine and was anxious to get back to the battle line again. So he asked to be sent to the Philippines, where the little brown men were cutting up rough with the nephews of their adopted Uncle Samuel. So to Mindanao Pershing went as adjutant general of that department. He familiarized himself with the Moro problem, for the brown bandits were largely of that tribe, fighters, cruel and bloodthirsty too. Active command of the expedition to subjugate these tribesmen was finally given to Captain Pershing, and after months of applied diplomacy and bulstream of gold which the banking lets he brought them to subjection. He was made military governor of Mindanao and showed such executive foresight and prescience in his dealings with the natives that the Moros chose Pershing to be a datto, or ruler. This subjugation of a fighting race was accomplished with the loss of but two American lives.

Pershing is loved by his men and respected by his subordinates. "The best commander in the army," said a man who served in Mexico with Pershing "A tactician and a strategist who will not shame American traditions," this same officer added.

TROOPS TO LEARN TRENCH SLANG

Europe's Battlefields.

Americans, Famous the World Over For Coining Colloquial Phrases, Are Expected to Supplement the Vocabulary of Soldiers-"Fritz," "Alleyman" or "Boche" Means Enemy.

Undoubtedly one of the first things the American soldiers will learn when they get into the trenches will be the goodly assortment of nicknames and slang phrases to which the war has given birth. English, French, Italian, Canadians, Austrians, New Zealanders and last, but not least, the Hindus, have contributed to the immense vocabulary of army slang with which every soldier at the front is familiar. Based on past performances, as the dope sheets say, the Americans may be expected to add another entire volume to the vocabulary, for in no other country of the world do so many expressive slang words and phrases originate as in the United States.

Slang Words Are Legion. The American soldier won't be many hours at the front before he will hear the quartermaster referred to as the 'quarter bloke," and he will quickly get to know that gunfire is not gunfire at all, but the early morning drink of tea or coffee which he will get if

At the base he will hear of people who have the "wind up" or who are "windy," which is equivalent to the American term of having "cold feet." He will hear the enemy referred to as "Fritz," "Alleyman," "Boche" and several other designations that would scarcely look well in print.

Very often he will hear the word "scrounger," a term applied to any man who for some reason or other is dodging the fighting and the hard work. He will also hear him spoken of as a man who is "dodging the column" and as one who is "swinging the ie.d." A "lead swinger" is be who is shamming sickness in order to "dodge the column," but army docare few lead swingers nowadays.

"Coal Boxes" Are Dugouts. Leaving the base for the trenches is termed "going up the line," which will not sound unfamiliar to the American ear. The soldier from the States also will readily become accustomed to 'Jack Johnsons," "whizz-bangs" and 'coal boxes." and, not content with calling his hole in the ground a dugout he will learn to call it a "tamboo" and Often he will hear of a man who has got a "cushy" job—that is, a soft job. 'Cushy" trenches are trenches where there are plenty of comfortable dugouts and not much shelling. The "it's a gaff" or "it's a doddle;" in plain English it's simple, it's easy. For all articles of diet the soldier in the trenches has his own name, generally one of Hindustan origin. Tea is "char," bread is "rooty," while butter is "muckin" and very often "Maggie onion is a "peadge," all of which are words brought from India. If a soldier wants plenty of gravy with his dinner he asks for more "gippo." and for cheese he asks for "bungy," while all puddings are classed as "duff." There are scores of Hindu words which the soldier has appropriated for himself, such as "atch-a," all right; 'dhoble," washerman; "dhersey," a tailor; "kn aphi," the barber; "garrywaller," generally a transport driver, and many others. The war in the air has likewise evolved a new language of its own. Hundreds of quaint and peculiar words are is being added to daily. No airman ever thinks of talking about a flight. for example; "flip" is the word be uses For an allied airman to attack a German zepp is to "spikeboozle" him. "Huffed," meaning not killed, is another characteristic airman's word. Of the same meaning is the phrase, "He besn't come back for his cap."

Another common expression among the airmen is "hockboo," which means a good many things, but chiefly that enemy aircraft are about. If Zeppe-"hockboo" is "on." Anything, in fact, that is calculated to give the timid 'cold feet" is a "hockboo." The word is really a distortion of an Indian word

It is rather curious that the military aviators, being s, fertile in the invention of new words, should not as ye term for themselves. At present they lots or any of the other fancy names which certain ingenious persons at tempt to foist upon them.

o him the minute he comes back to reort where Capper is stopping." "Until when?" the captain asked, pausing at the gate, to which Koch had escorted him.

"Here tomorrow night at 9," the doctor answered, and the gate shut behind him. Captain Woodhouse, alone under the shadowing trees of Queen's terrace, drew in a long breath, shook his shoulders and started for the station and the midnight train to Alexandria. Consider the mental state of Mr. Billy Capper as he sank into a seat on the midnight suburban from Ramleh to Alexandria. Even to the guard, unused to particular observation of his passengers save as to their possible propensity for trying to beat their fares, the bundle of clothes surmounted by a rusty brown bowler which byddled under the sickly light of the "Consider the Lilies of the second class carriage bespoke either a candidate for a plunge off the quay or a "bloomer" returning from his wassailing. But the eyes of the man denied this latter hypothesis; sanity was in them, albeit the merciless sanity that refuses an alternative, when fate has its victim pushed into a corthe flood of his own bitter cogitations that he had not noticed the other two passengers boarding the train at the little tiled station—a tall, quietly dress-

Hadn't he come all the way down here from Berlin. faithful to his pledge to Louisa, the girl in the Wilhelmstrasse, ready and willing to embark on that important mission of which he was to be told by Dr. Emil Koch? And what happens? Koch turns him into the street like a dog; threatens to have him before the military as a spy if he doesn't make himself scarce. Koch refuses even to admit he'd ever heard of the Wilhelmstrasse. Clever beggar! A jolly keen the hands of the English, even when he ought to see that a chap's honest when he comes and tells a straight story about losing that silly little bit of paper with his working number on duce the ticket when he has the number pat on the tip of his tongue and is willing to risk his own life to give Girls Have Pretty Face that number to a stranger?

Back upon the old perplexity that had kept Capper's brain on strain ever since the first day aboard La Vendeewho had lifted his ticket, and when was it done? The man recalled, for the hundredth time, his awakening aboard the French liner. What a horror that first morning was, with the ratty little surgeon feeding a fellow aromatic spirits of ammonia like porridge! Capper, in this mood of detached review, saw himself painfully stretching out his arm from his bunk to grasp his stick the very first minute he was alone in the stateroom; the crooked handle comes off under his turning, and the white wisp of paper is stuck in the hollow of the stick. Blank paper! Safe as safe could be had been that little square of paper Louisa had given him with his expense money, from the day he left Berlin until-when? To be sure, he had treated himself to a little of the grape in Paris and, may be, in Marseilles, but his brain had been clear every minute. Oh, Capper would have sworn to that! The whole business of the disappearance of his Wilhelmstrasse ticket and the substitution of the blank was simply another low trick the Capper luck had played on him

WAR'S GOLDEN AGE.

Cardiff's Subscription to British War Loan is $150,000,000.

Cardiff, Wales.-Subscriptions from Cardiff to the new British war loan woman and child in the city. This reof the golden age which the war has brought to Cardiff. In no British city has such vast wealth been earned so easily and quickly.

At the outbreak of the war Cardiff had the largest export trade in the country. Freights began to increase. Ships doubled, trebled, quadrupled in value. Young business men, enterprising and daring, bought whole fleets on a speculative basis which would almost make a New York curb broker hesi-

Among the new millionaires of Cardiff are fourteen young men who before the war were shipping clerks earning not more than $10 a week. It has not been the owners only who have profited. First class dock laborers, especially trimmers, have earned as high as $100 a week. The min ers, too, have earned big money, and the shopkeepers, especially the jewelers and the department stores, have never known such prosperous times.

Several years ago Swain was a nurse in a Denver hospital, where a man known as Oklahoma Charley was a patient. Oklahoma Charley, Swain said, had been a bandit and buried large amounts of money in three different places near Tulsa.

Before he died he gave Swain three diagrams showing where the money is buried. It all amounts to $200,000. Oklahoma Charley said. The supposed badit charged Swain with finding his daughter, a half breed, wishing the girl to share in the money.

Swain said he never thought much of the affair until he read in a newspaper that Scout Younger was getting ready to dig for buried treasure near Tulsa. Then Swain caught the first train for Tulsa.

ASHES ON LAKE BOTTOM.

Scientists Will See if There is a Volcano There.

San Francisco.-A strange phenomenon is agitating the waters of the Laguna and the members of the San Luis Obispo (Cal.) Rod and Gun club. Whether the bed of the lake harbors a semiactive volcano, geyser or other eruptive force is still to be determined. Weird tales are also being told of a floating island in the lake, the waters of which are no longer clear, but turbid. In the bottom of the lake a sediment which resembles volcanic ash has been discovered. An effort is to be made to secure a scientific investigation of the strange phenomenon by scientists from the state university.

In the meantime sportsmen are wondering what effect the disturbances in the lake are having on the fish that inhabit it. Fishermen who cast their lines for black bass on the opening day of the season have failed to get even a most remote sign of a nibble.

MOTHER OF HERO IS PROUD OF HIM

Son of Blind Texas Woman Carried First Flag at Vimy.

HE WILL COME HOME SOON

Bob Davis, That "Unknown Texan," Always Was a Good Boy and Sent a Kiss Home In Every Letter From the Front-He Went Because He Saw

A few days ago word rang through the land that the Stars and Stripes at last had appeared on the battle front in France. An "unknown Texan," the dispatches said, had carried the flag up Vimy Ridge when the Canadians captured that important link in the German line.

Maybe he was an "unknown Texan" to the rest of the country, but he wasn't unknown to a little white haired woman at Bland, Tex. When neighbors read the dispatch to

And the mother's intuition seems to have been right, for it has been pretty definitely established that Bob Davis of Bell county, Tex., was the man who first took, the Stars and Stripes into notified by the British war the boy's kite rises. office that her son was wounded in the attack on Vimy Ridge. The meager dispatches telling of the "unknown Texan's" exploit said be had fallen wounded during the battle He Will Come Home Soon.

Bob Davis' mother is probably the st woman in the United States The last two years have been full of sorrow and dread for her, but those anguished hours of foreboding are forgotten now. Her boy has proved himself the hero she always him to be, and, best of all, he his feet was shot away, and, of course, battle of Vimy Ridge was the climax to Bob Davis' wandering, adventurous career. Finding life monoto nous in the tiny Texas village of Bland, where his father, David Josiah Davis, was the neighborhood preacher, he left when a boy and wandered into faroff iffe saving corps and the regular army when the war began. The conflict promised new excitement for the nerves of the tall young Texan, already jaded by the routine of civil life. He at once enlisted in a Canadian expeditionary force and was sent to Europe early in

Bob Davis was a good son. He never forgot his aged mother, and he wrote many letters to her. Knowing she was eighteen-year-old niece, Miss Mintie Jones, and the girl read them to the white haired woman and wrote the Davis' letters ended with some such an expression as this: "Kiss mother for me." or "Give mother a big hug and kiss for me." Each letter referred to some little incident of Bob's childhood that he knew would be engraved upon his mother's memory Fought For World Freedom.

It was not alone a spirit of adventure that prompted Bob Davis to offer his life for the allied cause. This extract from one of his letters proves that fact

Quite a few of the boys who soldiered with me have been put out of action. They were good boys and great pals. If I am able to do as much as they did I will die as I know each of them died-satisfied that I have done my bit for the freedom of the world and civilization. I have served in the ranks before, but that was only for experience. This is different. I am here because I think it is my duty

The Texas legislature plans to honor Bob Davis in some signal way, probably with a fund that will more than offset the handicap of his lost foot. And, too, there is being planned a big shall return from Europe. But more precious to Bob Davis than these tributes undoubtedly will be the loving emand the words, uttered as only a mother can speak them, "My boy, my hero!"
