FERTILE EGGS, A PERISHABLE CROP

It is a fact that about 17 eggs out of every hundred which are delivered to the country merchant are unfit for food. This loss falls directly upon the producer for the merchants expect the loss and, therefore, pay that much less for the eggs. This loss can be avoided and in eliminating the cause of the loss a two fold profit is realized, first a better price for the eggs, and second, the saving of feed for the surplus cockerels which are on most farms. After the hatching season there is no legitimate reason for keeping male birds with the hens. It indicates rather a laxity in the management of the flock. It makes eggs perishable. It lessens profits. It increases expenses.

A fertile, when exposed to a temperature of 70 degrees F. will start the germ into life within twenty-four hours. If this temperature is continued, the germ will continue to develop for a few days and then will die. This, then, is a rotten egg. It is not necessary for an egg to be in a temperature of 103 degrees F. to begin to develop. 70 degrees is enough to start it but it requires approximately 103 degrees to continue the development to hatching time. This is why summer temperature, of 77 degrees or over will cause fertile eggs to rot. With the roosters removed from the hens, there is no possibility of rotten eggs. An infertile egg will not rot.

Bulletin No. 75 of the Storrs Experiment Station has this to say about the sterility of hens eggs: "The contents of normal fresh eggs, are as arule, sterile. It is quite probable that an egg yolk may become invaded before it leaves the ovary; but this is an uncommon occurrence except when the ovary is infected with the organism of bacillary white diarrhea. Little, if any, infection takes place in the oviduct while the white and shell are being deposited, on account of the protective action of the mucous lining and its secretions and also the antiseptic and bactericidal action of the egg-white itself."

From the above it is readily gathered that nature provides protection against bacterial infection of the egg. Nature also provides for the reproduction of the species in the fertile eggs. Man can avoid the eggs being fertilized by removing the roosters from the flock. Nature will prevent the infertile eggs thus caused by man from spoiling.

Remove the male birds from the hens, provide clean nests, gather the eggs at least once every day and market them at least once every week. This will increase the income from the farm flock and produce a more wholesome and better egg.—E. B. Thompson, Poultryman, N. M. A. & M. College.

JAMES W. GENTLEMAN—ORIGINAL OF THE BOSS AND CHIEF OF POLICE, WITH A FEW EXPRESS OUR VERY MOST AMPHIBIOUS APPRECIATION OF YOU KIND FRIENDS WHO ARE ALWAYS RIGHT ON THE JOB REVENUE HER SUBSCRIPTIONS WITHOUT HAVING PER. How Is This for an Egg?

Imagine an egg equivalent in size to 150 hen's eggs and with a volume of two gallons—enough to make omelets for fifty men with healthy appetites, and worth, as food, something like $7.50—with hen's eggs selling at approximately five cents each.

Such an egg is now on exhibition at the American Museum of Natural History, New York. Unfortunately, however, its edible qualities cannot be tested since the egg was laid centuries ago by a now extinct fowl, the aepyornis, and is designated as a fossil by archeologists. The enormous size of this egg will be better understood when it is stated that the shell is about one-eighth of an inch thick, the lengthwise circumference 2 feet 8 inches, and its circumference through the middle 2 feet 2 inches. It is six times larger than an ostrich egg, which is the largest egg laid by any living bird.

The aepyornis according to the results of expert research, was a huge wingless creature, the largest and most formidable bird of prey that ever trod the earth. In life it has been variously estimated to have stood from seven to twelve feet in height, possessing massive and powerful limbs. This great bird surpassed the ostrich, the king of modern birds, both in size, Herculean strength and build. It formerly lived in considerable numbers on the island of Madagascar.—The Independent.

The News is in receipt of a card from Dr. Pearce stating that they were at Los Angeles, California, and having a fine time. They will go on up the Coast and return by way of Yellowstone National Park, where they will take in the sights.

Baptist Church

Pastor J. F. Nix will preach at the morning hour Sunday, June 6th, on "The Glory of the Cross in Its Deeper Meaning;" at 7:45 P. M. on "What Is Salvation?" Large congregations heard the sermons last Sunday and will long remember them. Pastor Nix said, with emphasis, "I hope Portales will remember as long as there is a town here, this truth: That the wheels of Zion will cease to revolve and the angelic harps will be hung on the willows while God hears the sinner's prayer."

Sunday School reached a high mark Sunday. Come out next Sunday, for somebody wants to see you.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Morgan and baby returned to their home at Amarillo Sunday, after a week's visit with relatives here.

Likes the "Service"

Emmett C. Roberts saw a "hitch" in the Marines and chased hot-house revolutionists all over the tropical climes before the big war. When that came he enlisted in the First Division's "suicide club" and with a machine gun chased Germans from Chateau-Thierry until 11 a. m. of the 11th day of the 11th month, 1918. Roberts seems not to have been able to forget the army for he came into the El Paso recruiting office recently and signed up again, this time for the 55th coast artillery corps, Camp Lewis, Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Battenfield and baby arrived from Oklahoma Monday and will visit with relatives for a few days.

What! What! What!

Coy Haskett of the Adams Quality store started for Omaha last evening; from there he will go to Madison, Nebraska. We will be there is a skunk in the wood pile because he has a house furnished here and everything points that he is going to add one more to the population of Holdenville.—Holdenville (Okla.) Tribune.

FLOYD SCHOOL WILL CLOSE WITH EXERCISES

School will close at Floyd Friday night, June 4th, 1920. There will be an entertainment consisting of a declamatory contest, plays, drills music, etc. Everybody is invited. Exercises will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

CAUSEY ITEMS

Farmers are all very busy planting now.

The Causey merchant, J. B. Judah, has been on the sick list some few days.

The dairymen of Causey are certainly glad to see these nice rains, as they mean more cream. Our school closes Friday night, with a program Friday night. We are all sorry to see school close but we are certainly thankful to Mrs. Martin for her service rendered us during her few months with us, and as soon as school is out she will go back to her home at Kenna. We certainly hate to see her leave.

Paul Judah, of Elida, visited home folks last Friday night and took his mother, Mrs. J. B. Judah, home with him to stay a few days.

Mrs. Martin spent Sunday night with Lorene Little.

Several of the young folks of Causey motored to Longs last Sunday night to singing.

Several of the Causey folks attended the program at Roebuck last Saturday night.

FLOYD ITEMS

Mr. Ferrin and Miss Marjorie Ferrin made a trip to Portales Tuesday.

Miss Mildred Ferrin is back from Roswell, as she intends to spend the summer at home.

The Sunday School Bible class was entertained by Mrs. Ferrin last Tuesday night.

Bryan Greathouse is visiting friends and relatives of this community.

The nature faker of the Brimfield News says a sow in that county dropped a litter of 19 pigs and had but 15 faucets to care for them. If raised the others will be bottle pigs.—Avon (Ill.) Sentinel.

Salary Increases for Teachers

Santa Fe, N. M., June 3.—With the approval of the proposed increases in salaries of school teachers for the coming year, sentiment in favor of the increase in New Mexico has been made unanimous. The Taxpayers' Association is the most conservative organization in the state. In a statement issued this week it estimates the increase in school operating cost due to necessary raises in teachers' salaries, at $647,000 for the coming year. This, it says must be met because of the school crisis and the necessity of maintaining efficient schools. Economies in other departments of state and county government are urged by the association as a means of making up the difference in general operating cost of the state and counties.

THE BAND CONCERT

The Portales Band gave their second concert at the Cozy Theater last night. The house was packed and everyone seemed to enjoy the program very much. Also the special numbers given by Croft & Croft, and the solos by Mr. P. M. Greenlee were well received. It has been a common expression among those who attended that "they all played like old timers." These boys deserve much credit for their advancement as the band has been a self-supporting organization from the start. It is hoped that we may hear them often this summer.

Methodist Church

Sunday School—10; Preaching—11.
Subject at night, a fallacy, "There Is No God."

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Baker and children, of El Centro, California, were in the city the first of the week visiting in the home of Harve Baker, the shoemaker. They left Thursday morning for Oklahoma, where they will visit during the summer.

W. N. Smiley, of Minneola, Kansas, was in the city the first of the week looking after some business matters. Mr. Smiley owns considerable property around Portales and has to come back and look after it occasionally.

Mrs. Joe Beasley and Mrs. Jim Warnica returned Wednesday from Fort Worth, Texas, where they have been visiting for the past two weeks.

A. G. Tusha, of Elida, and Miss Myrtle Small, of Redlake, were married at the Baptist parsonage Tuesday, June 1st, Rev. Nix officiating.

Finis E. Henderson returned last Saturday from Stillwater, Oklahoma, where he has been attending the A. & M. College at that place.

Miss Virgie Daugherty, of Winters, Texas, arrived last week and will spend the summer in the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank Irvine.

Great Demand for Trained Men

State College, June 1.—The technical schools of the country cannot meet the demand for trained men. Every member of this year's graduating class of the Engineering School of the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts has an excellent position to enter immediately upon graduation. Ernest Carson, of Hope, New Mexico, and Richard Worcester, of El Paso, will accept positions with the General Electric Company of Schenectady, New York. John Redd, of Canutillo, Texas, will probably take a position with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, of Pittsburgh. Milton Blackwell, of Mogollon and Roy Bean of Las Cruces, are to work with the Henry L. Doherty Company, operators of many public utilities throughout the southwest.

Mrs. N. J. Strumquist, of Albuquerque, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union for New Mexico, was in Portales Wednesday and gave an address at the Methodist church Wednesday night. Her mission here was in the interest of the Frances E. Willard Home of the W. C. T. U. to be erected at Belen, an adquate nice sum was realized at this meeting.

J. W. Coleman Dies

The many friends of J. W. Coleman will be grieved to learn of his death, which occurred at his home south of Elida, on Saturday afternoon of last week. Ed J. Neer was called and went down and embalmed the body and brought it to Portales, where interment was made in the Portales Cemetery Monday afternoon. Funeral services were held at the Church of Christ.

Mr. Coleman had been in very poor health for the past several months and everything possible was done for his suffering but to no avail. He was one of the old timers of this county, having lived in Portales for a number of years. The grief stricken family has the sympathy of all.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenton McCoy, of the Oil Exchange, returned Thursday from a month's visit at Denver. While away Mr. McCoy underwent an operation which greatly improved his health.

G. M. Stewart Dead

Watt and Hebe Stewart, of the Portales Garage, left Tuesday morning for Foster, Oklahoma, in response to a telegram stating that their father, G. M. Stewart, had died on Monday night. Mr. Stewart had been in poor health for the past several years and spent several months here with his sons in hopes that he would be benefited. He had just gotten up from a siege of the influenza and could not regain his strength. The bereaved ones have the sympathy of the entire community.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hardy and baby left Wednesday for California, where they expect to spend several months on the coast. Victor Crowell was left "charge de affaires" during their absence.

Prof. Barnes Quits A. & M.

State College, June 1.—Prof. A. F. Barnes, since 1914 Dean of the Engineering School of the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, has resigned this position to work with Bargle-bough & Whitson, architects of El Paso. Dean Barnes' untiring efforts have made the Engineering Department of the State College the leading school of its kind in the southwest. Professor R. W. Goddard, of the Electrical Engineering Department, succeeds as dean of the school. Professor Goddard is widely known among the engineers of this and neighboring states as a progressive and energetic engineer.

PLAN TO CELEBRATE

FOURTH OF JULY

The Carl McDermott Post of the American Legion held a meeting at the court house Tuesday night of this week for the purpose of outlining plans, etc., for a general good time celebration on the 4th of July. The Portales Band was also invited to meet with them and help to decide the matter. Quite a crowd was present and much interest was shown. It was decided that the Band and Legion would go "cahoots" and give the people of the county one of the best celebrations that has ever been pulled off in this part of the country. Committees were appointed to see after the different parts of the program and it is expected that it will be done up in A-1 style. As soon as the proper arrangements have been made we will give the program, and everyone is asked to help them in any way they can to make this the greatest event in the history of Portales. Are you on? Then let's go!

CARLISLE-PRATT

Wedding bells were muffled and otherwise rendered soundless last Saturday afternoon when Hubert Carlisle, assistant cashier of the Clovis National Bank, and Miss Mary Pratt, head bookkeeper in the same institution, slipped away from their friends and were quietly married at Farwell, Texas.

As the doors of the bank were being closed, terminating the days business, Mr. Carlisle and Miss Pratt quietly left the bank. Outside, they were joined by "Hap" Hale and Mr. George Harshaw, who escorted them to Farwell where the license was secured and the ceremony performed by the pastor of the Methodist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle then returned to Clovis and as quietly as they left, resumed work in the bank. They intended to keep their marriage a secret, but the secret was too big. It finally leaked out.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle will retain their positions in the bank where they have been employees the former for about three years and the latter about a year. Mrs. Carlisle was raised in Albuquerque. She is a sister of Mrs. H. N. Hill of this city.

Mr. Carlisle is one of the most promising young bankers of the city.—Clovis Journal.

Mr. Carlisle was formerly a Portales citizen, having held a position with the First National Bank of this city prior to going to Clovis, and has many friends here who wish them much happiness and prosperity.

J. K. Robertson left the first of the week for Kentucky, where he will spend a few days with friends and relatives.

Eight Years Trouble Gone and Feels Fine Every Day Since Taking Tanlac

"Since I commenced taking Tanlac all my troubles of eight years' standing have left me and I can do as big a day's work as any man," said J. Curry, a well-known flagman on the Key Route System, who lives at 577 West Eleventh St., Oakland, Cal.

"I had the worst sort of chronic indigestion," continued Mr. Curry. "I could hardly retain a thing on my stomach and had spells of belching and nausea almost every meal and a bad taste in my mouth nearly all the time. I was so badly constipated that I had to take a laxative nearly every day, was troubled a lot with lumbago and was so nervous that at night I would roll and tumble from one side of the bed to the other without getting near enough sleep and when morning came I would be so tired I simply had to drag myself to work."

"I began taking Tanlac and will say right here it measures up to everything people say of it, for it has put me back in as fine health as I ever was. I eat anything set before me without the slightest bad after effects, I sleep like a log every night and all my other troubles are gone. I have more life and energy about me than I have had in years and can't praise Tanlac enough, for it is the most dependable medicine I ever heard of."

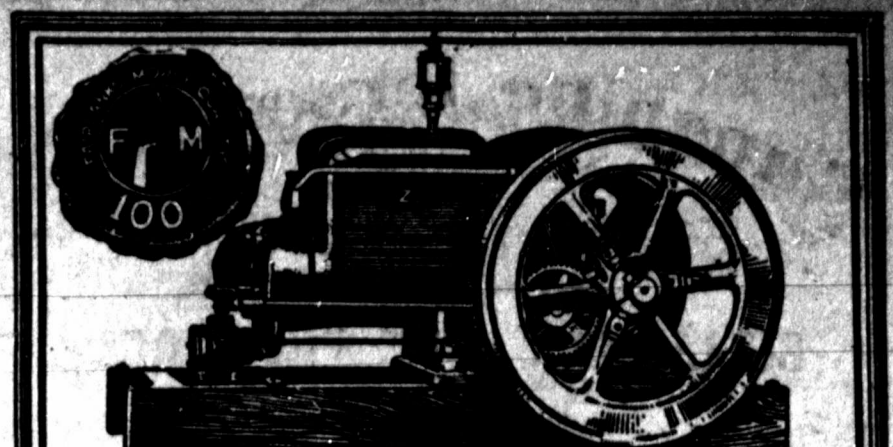

Tanlac is sold in Portales by Ed J. Neer.

STOP THAT ACHES

Don't worry and complain about a bad back. Get rid of that pain and lameness! Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Many Portales people have used them and know how effective they are. Here's a Portales case.

Mrs. Carl S. Turner says: "I suffered from an awful weakness in my back. I hope I never feel like that again! Every time I tried to bend over, sharp pains caught me in my back and I could hardly straighten up. My kidneys were in a bad condition, too and I had dizzy spells. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and tried them. Doan's soon helped me and before long, completely cured me of kidney complaint."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Turner had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

ANTONIO MORENO

Antonio Moreno was a small boy when his father died. Eager to assist his mother by sharing part of the family burden he obtained a position as baker's clerk. For this service he received the princely sum of two dollars a week. Although he liked his position, the Spanish lad had dreams of making a fortune. He had seen wealthy American tourists in his native town and they awakened ambition in his breast. He resolved to save his money and go to the land of promise.

The Americans who visited Campamento were all supposed to be millionaires. Into the mind of Antonio Moreno came dreams, dreams of wealth that lay across the great ocean. He became determined to go to the United States and make a fortune.

When Antonio Moreno, at the age of fifteen, walked up the gangplank from the Gibraltar docks to an American steamship, he was in reality crossing the bridge from nonentity to fame. Aboard the boat was one of America's most distinguished actresses, Miss Helen Ware. Her attention was attracted to the handsome lad with the fiery eyes, and she became interested in him. "What do you intend to do when you reach America?" inquired Miss Ware.

"Make a fortune," promptly replied young Antonio.

Miss Ware smiled at his confidence and replied, "I think you will find both fame and fortune in the theater if you chose to become an actor."

The prophecy is now being realized. Antonio Moreno as the star of such Vitagraph serials as "The Iron Test" and "Perils of Thunder Mountain" is earning international fame and a considerable fortune. While in New York recently he signed a two year contract with the Vitagraph Company and recently finished a serial production dealing with secret service, entitled "The Invisible Hand."

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cutler attended church at Garrison Sunday.

Mrs. T. M. Byrd went to Portales last Sunday.

Britt Floyd and Robert Mitchell of Childress, Texas, are the guests of their aunt, Mrs. L. E. Wilks. They expect to spend the summer here.

Emzy Roberts fell from the top of a windmill tower last Friday but was not seriously injured.

Louis Propps of Portales and brother-in-law, Bill McComas of Alamogordo, were in Emzy Sunday.

The south part of the Emzy community was visited Friday afternoon by the largest hail storm that has ever been known here. It hailed continually for fifteen minutes. The hail stones were nearly all of uniform size, measuring about one inch in diameter. Some few were as large as hen eggs. The hail was from four to there was not any Vemkff TAO six inches deep on the level. Its path was short and narrow and there was not any great damage done.

ANTONIO MORENO

Inspired by the advice of an American actress, Antonio Moreno joined a stock company at Northampton, Mass., after completing his course at Willistown Seminary. Soon he was engaged by Leslie Carter and later appeared with Constance Collier in "Thais." Then he went into silent drama and played with Edith Storey, Irene Castle and Pearl White. Then Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph, placed him under a long-term contract and introduced him to the serial. His fiery black eyes, black hair, complexion of "golden pallor" and a talent for expression make him the ideal type for the screen.

JOE RYAN

Joe Ryan felt that he just had to be a villain to keep up the natural fitness of things. He was born at the foot of Devil's Tower, in Crook county, Wyo., and he just naturally had to play he was a bad man. That he succeeded is evidenced by the hits he receives in nearly every city and town in this broad land. But away from Vitagraph's thrilling serials, he is one of the most quiet and likable men in the motion picture world. And to prove it he is being co-starred with Jean Paige in a serial.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

THE ROBINS.

"It seems nice to be back again, doesn't it?" asked Mrs. Robin of her mate. And Mr. Robin looking at her out of his lovely eyes which Mrs. Robin thought were so sweet and affectionate, said, "It is nice to be anywhere with you, my love."

"I think it is so nice," said Mrs. Robin, "to come back, and to have folks glad to see one. Now the lady who lives in that big white house there loves robins."

"She talks to us and we like to be talked to. We put our heads on one side and then on the other and we listen and think her nice soft voice is very sweet. Did you hear what she said when she first saw us?"

"Ah, but our lady of the white house yonder doesn't do any such thing. She knows that people themselves don't eat the choke cherries and she loves to see us eat them."

"So they hopped across the lawn and there they dug and found some fine big fellows. They ate worms whole at a swallow—great big worms, too, and they seemed to grow fatter as they ate, and their little chests stuck out in such a happy, satisfied way."

"Dear me," said Mr. Robin, "I do believe we're going to have a shower." "Dear me," said Mrs. Robin, "I believe so, too, but it will be nice and cooling, eh?"

"Let us chirp and urge the rain to come," said Mr. Robin. "Yes, let us do that."

"Now isn't that sweet?" said Mr. Robin. "Some old cranks would object to a drop of rain, but she wouldn't, not she!"

"Just then the rain began, harder and harder it fell. 'Ah, let us stand under that bench at the bottom of the steps where the lady is sitting,' said Mr. Robin. 'She is sitting on a bench near the back door now and she is keeping dry.' 'I feel sure she will not mind if we take refuge under the bench.' 'I feel sure she won't,' said Mrs. Robin. So they took their places under the bench which was right below the back steps and the lady smiled as she saw the two dear little robins side by side while the rain poured in torrents all about them."

"The leaves will be so nice and wet," said Mr. Robin. "Ah, what drinks and baths we will have." Pretty soon the rain let up and the two little robins came out from under the bench and spread their feathers as the rain drops which were now gentle fell upon them.

And the robins sang, they were joy because they were cool and they had plenty of water to drink and they knew that all their bird friends around were happy.

"Denr Mr. Robin," said Mrs. Robin, "what good times we have, you and I."

Will Mountains Grow? We were returning home from California and Billy, who was accustomed to the towering, snow-capped peaks along the Pacific, gazed with wonder at the low ranges of Nevada, hardly more than foothills in comparison. LARRY SEMON

Larry Semon, whose recent triumphs have impelled reviewers to style him "The New Comedy King," has risen to that coveted place by long training. Each stage in his career acted as a stepping stone to his great achievement. Perhaps he was born under a lucky planet. Anyway, he was fortunate enough to be the son of an actor and received an early training in magic, juggling and acrobatics. He mastered some of these arts before he had finished the third reader. After leaving school he traveled with his father and became more efficient in the art of entertaining.

Then followed the period in the newspaper business as cartoonist. This developed his creative ability and prepared him to write his own comedies. It also taught him to forsake the well beaten path and search in the byways for new material. A cartoonist must be original.

Then, Larry Semon is perhaps the best qualified for the title of comedy king. All of his past experience can be utilized upon the screen. He can resort to thrilling acrobatics where the average comedian is forced to use slapstick. He is also adept in training animals and has a cat, monkey and six white mice that play difficult roles in his comedies.

During the three years previous to 1922, Albert E. Smith, president of Vitaphone, has agreed to utilize $200,000 on Larry Semon in the production of 24 new comedies. "The Grocery Clerk," which is something different from the usual run of comedies, was the first film to be produced under the new contract. "Between the Acts," "Dew Drop Inn" and "The Head Waiter" are some of Larry Semon's comedies that stand out prominent as being in a class by themselves.

GIVE US YOUR NEWS ITEMS, ASK US QUESTIONS, TELL US YOUR TROUBLES

There is a news item in every family and there must be one in your family that is worth printing. Send it to the Leader so that it may be published. Feel as hundreds of others do, that the Leader is YOUR paper; that it is the paper through which you may express YOUR views as well as read the views of others; that it is the paper through which YOUR news may be printed to interest others just as the news about others is printed to interest you.

Write out what you have and sign it so we may know it is authentic. We will rewrite it if necessary and publish it. Many things constitute news. Some member of the family may have just recovered from serious illness or gone away or returned from a trip. Some of the children may have made exceptionally good records in school or may be adepts in painting, gardening, carpentering, mechanics, or some work that would be of interest to others. You may have some unusually fine livestock or chickens; you may have been very successful in the growing of certain crops or plants; you may have met and overcome failures in some line that would be of interest and help to others. You may want information that others could give. Write out what you have to say or want to know and send it to The Leader and it will be printed.

This invitation does not apply to the present alone; it applies to the future. Any time you have anything to tell or ask about, tell it to or ask it of The Leader. All communications must be signed to receive attention.—The Lovington Leader.

The above article portrays the spirit of the average "country paper," that is that the editor is always glad and anxious to get news items that will be of interest to anyone. He may not thank you with tears of joy in his eyes when you tell him of a news item but don't think he does not appreciate your thoughtfulness in telling him; at the time his mind may be so wrought up in an effort to get something of real local interest to fill a big hole on a certain page, that was occupied by a paying "ad." last week, that he forgets to thank you, but don't become offended. Do it again; he MAY treat you to a good cigar or a visit to the cream parlor next time.

MRS. BARNETT TO KEEP INDIAN HUBBY

GOVERNMENT TO MAKE NO EFFORT TO PART CONTESTED MARRIAGE

DOES THEIR OWN WASHING

Millionaire's Wife Says She Gets Little Money of Rich Indian Who Wedded Her.

Muskogee, Okla.—The government will make no effort to separate Jackson Barnett, aged millionaire Creek Indian of Henryetta, Okla., and Mrs. Anna Love Barnett, who attracted national wide attention when they eloped to Kansas and were wed several weeks ago.

This was announced at the offices of the superintendent of the Five Civilized Tribes following a conference of the Barnetts, federal officials and attorneys at which Barnett and his wife agreed to make their home on Barnett's farm near Henryetta.

Mrs. Jackson Barnett, wife of the wealthiest Indian in the world, has had to do her own washing. She says that they don't get enough money and what they do get is parcelled out in $25 lots so they won't have too much at any one time.

Neither of the Barnetts were dressed in the latest style, but both were good looking clothes. Jackson's grey suit hung from his aged figure, his soft collar and tie were slightly rumpled and his hair was recently combed. His wife wore a rather plain dress with brown oxfords and silk stockings.

DENY AMERICAN MANDATE

Committee Does Not Detail Its Objects To Senate.

Washington.—The senate foreign relations committee by a vote of 11 to 4 reported a resolution to the senate "respectfully declining" to grant the authority requested by President Wilson to accept a mandate for Armenia.

The resolution presented by Senator Sandercock, republican of Connecticut provides "that the congress hereby respectfully declines to the executive the power to accept a mandate over Armenia as requested in the message of the president."

The report of the foreign relations committee will not go into the question as to the reasons for declining to accept the mandate, the question being left open for argument of the various phases by members of the committee on the floor of the senate.

Senator Hitchcock, democrat, suggested that the committee make a detailed report and not decline in "such a summary manner." He was overruled.

ENGINEERS FOILS BANDITS

Obstruction is Placed on Track at the Place of Former Holdup.

St. Louis.—Chancing wrecking his train, Engineer John B. Butterly of Hoberly, Mo., drove Wabash train No. 5, the "Kansas City Limited" through a pile of cross ties placed on the tracks in a deep cut near Gilmora, Mo., in what officials believe was an attempt to holdup the flyer by train robbers.

When Butterly suddenly sighted a red lantern and a blurred obstruction on the track at the same spot where a similar attempt was made last December he put on full speed and hurled a dozen cross ties from the rails. The train sped on while the bandits watched from behind a barricade of ties erected along the top of the cut.

Sheriff Grothe of St. Charles county, who later visited the scene with a posse traced the footprints of the robbers for two miles, where he found they had entered an automobile.

Bryan Opposes League Reservations. New York.—I am in favor of the immediate and final ratification of the peace treaty with the reservations already agreed upon by a decisive majority of the entire senate and by more than two-thirds of those favoring ratification. Any needed changes can be made in the league. I shall oppose any and every attempt to make the reservations a campaign issue. No party, least of all the democratic party, can afford to claim for a minority of the senate the right to degrade the policy of the nation.

KILLED BEFORE SWEETHEART WHITE MAN SLAIN WHILE PROTECTING GIRL

Employee of Navy Held Up While in Car On Alexandria Pike.

Washington.—Miss Pearl Clark of Chicago, private secretary to Representative Fred A. Britten of Illinois, saw her fiancé, T. Morgan Moore of Alexandria, Va., shot down by a negro footpad who stopped their car on the Alexandria Pike. She was rescued by a party of motorists who heard her screams.

Moore, an expert torpedo mechanic employed in the naval plant at Alexandria was passing the national capital horse show grounds bringing Miss Clark home after a drive. The negro, who has been since captured and has confessed leaped upon the running board of Moore's automobile.

"Give me a dollar," he said, brandishing a revolver.

"I haven't any dollar," replied Moore, stopping the car to give Miss Clark a chance to escape.

As she leaped from the car the negro now identified as William H. Turner, an employe in the District of Columbia ran around the car to pursue her. Frantically she tore off her jewelry to pacify him.

Moore, getting a small calibre pearl-handled revolver he carried in the automobile, opened fire on the holdup. He fired two shots one taking the tip of the negro's thumb and the other lodging in his leg.

Turner turned and fired just one shot. The bullet struck Moore in the head and he died almost instantly. Miss Clark took flight and the negro pursued her.

By the time her rescuers reached her side Turner had disappeared. A posse formed by Sheriff A. C. Clements of Alexandria captured him near the Arlington cemetery, rushed him to jail under a safe guard against any possible lynching.

Moore was dead when the rescuing party reached him. Miss Clark in a state of nervous collapse was brought to her home here.

A WORLD SECRET SERVICE

Organization Planned To Combat Sovietization of the World.

Paris.—Amazing disclosures of the existence of an international secret service with world-wide ramifications, organized by the United States, France, Britain and Italy, to combat alleged bolshevist plots to sovietize the world, were revealed when it was learned that hundreds of arrests have been made in France during the last two weeks, including practically every prominent radical agitator.

The founding of the international secret service is believed to have been broached by the secret service chief of the United States department of justice, following admissions by American radicals that there is a plot afoot to sovietize the world.

WILSON VEToes PEACE TREATY

G. O. P. PEACE MEASURE PLACES STAIN ON HONOR OF AMERICA

KNOX RESOLUTION IS VETOED

Nation's Honor Would Be Compromised and War Aims Not Satisfied, But Gives No Hint of Disposition of Pact.

Washington.—President Wilson vetoed the peace resolution and informed congress he could not become a party to the peace program framed by republican leaders of the senate and house because he considered it would put an "ineffaceable stain" on the nation's honor.

To establish technical peace by such a method, the president said in his veto message would be to effect, "a complete surrender of the rights of the United States so far as Germany is concerned and to relinquish all the high purposes which led the nation into war and which were embodied in the rejected treaty of Versailles.

Final Deadlock. The president's act apparently brought to a final deadlock efforts of the president's administration and congress to agree on a peace program.

Republican leaders conceded they could not pass the resolution over the executive's veto though an attempt will be made in the house and on both sides, it was predicted that the issues of the treaty controversy would have to be fought out in the political campaign with democrats and republicans blaming each other for the failure to effect a state of peace.

The president did not indicate whether he might again submit the treaty to the senate for ratification, but he said the resolution raised again the question of whether the United States cared to draw apart from the rest of the world or join with other nations in attaining the end to which the treaty was framed.

SAYS AMERICANS NOT HELD

Agent at Chihuahua City Makes Investigation.

Washington.—The American consul at Chihuahua City reported to the state department that he had investigated reports of the seizure of "McDonald" and Homer Carr, two American citizens of Jiminez and has found that the reports were untrue.

The report also said that it was rumored a reward of $100,000 pesos had been offered by the state of Chihuahua for Villa, died or alive.

According to Mexican press reports to the state department the commission investigating the death of President Carranza has found that the former president was assassinated by General Herrero and the men under his command.

Further investigation is to be made to fix the responsibility of Herrero, his forces and his escort.

RED RIVER DISPUTE IS UP

Government Says Scheme of Settlement is Inadequate.

Washington.—The government filed a brief in the United States supreme court asserting that the plan of Receiver Frederic A. Delano of the Red River oil lands was inadequate for the protection of the government and the Indian wards who were owners of the oil lands.

The government asks that the receiver be instructed to provide for the development of the lands by leasing to operators five acres in connection with each well; that the receiver accept three-sixteenths of the production of each oil and natural gas well since July 1919, when the fields were discovered and that he permit new production on the one-eighth royalty privilege in all oil development.

Miners Accept Wilson's Wage Board.

Wilkesbarre, Pa.—The offer of President Wilson to appoint a commission to arbitrate the anthracite wage dispute was accepted here by an overwhelming vote of the tri-district convention of hard coal miners. R. R. WANTS BILLION DOLLARS INCREASED FREIGHT RATES TO RAISE SUM

Living Expenses Will Be Greatly Hiked if Railroads Get Hike in Freight.

Washington.—Belief that advances in freight rates to provide the revenue asked by the nation's railroads would not increase the cost of living was expressed by spokesmen for the carriers in opening their case before the interstate commerce commission.

"Nothing that I know of," said Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, would reduce the cost of living so much as the prompt and speedy transportation of goods." He added that the revenues asked as necessary to provide the six per cent return guaranteed by the government would enable the carriers to purchase sufficient equipment to move commodities unable to reach a market.

Frederick Strauss, of New York, appearing for the railroads, declared that a 5 or 60 per cent increase in freight rates would have no appreciable effect on the present movement to bring down living cost.

EXECUTION IS A PLEASURE

Convicts Thought To Have Rehearsed Their Last Words Together.

Ossining, N. Y.—Walter Levandowski and Leo Jankowski were put to death in the electrical chair at Sing Sing prison within a few minutes after 11 o'clock. Both died without a sign of nervousness. Each spoke a few words from the chair before the current stopped their voices forever, and because of the similarity, it struck the witnesses that they had rehearsed their final remarks in their cells in the death house. Both were tuberculosis victims who were brought to Sing Sing from the mountain prison at Dannemora, where they killed a keeper in attempting to escape.

Levandowski was the first to die. While he was being strapped in the chair he said: "I am going over the top. It's a pleasure, gentlemen. Good-bye, everybody." In ten seconds he was dead. Jankowski's last words were: "I am going over the top. It's a pleasure to die."

BACHELOR TAX IN FRANCE

Berard is Forced To Suspend Senate Session In Confusion.

Paris.—Discussion of the special tax on bachelors and spinsters of France caused a scene so violent in the French senate that the presiding senator, Alexandre Berard, in the absence of Leon Bourgeois, the president, was obliged to suspend the session.

Senator Dominique Delanaye had proposed an amendment asking that ecclesiastics, priests, sisters and nuns be excluded from the proposed law. The original law calls for a tax of 25 per cent upon the revenue of all unmarried or divorced citizens more than thirty years of age.

Senator Delanaye championed his amendment with great vigor, demanding especially a recall of the proposed law making a tax of 25 percent on married people who have been wedded for more than two years and have no children.

PRESBYTERIANS TO UNITE

Members of Southern General Assembly Taken By Surprise.

Charlotte, N. C.—Taking many members of the body by surprise, the Southern Presbyterian general assembly without debate adopted the plan of union with other presbyterian and reformed church bodies submitted by the joint committee. The vote was by acclamation and few "noes" were heard.

Moderator W. L. Lingle had called for discussion without response. The question was called and warning given that the vote was about to be taken but none offered objection. Vigorous opposition had been freely predicted by members of the assembly and outside observers.

Soon after the assembly had taken action, it received from the Northern Presbyterian general assembly at Philadelphia a telegram officially announcing approval by that body of the same plan of union.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR JUNE 6

SAUL'S FAILURE.

LESSON TEXT—1 Sam. 15. GOLDEN TEXT—For thou hast rejected the word of the Lord, and the Lord hath rejected thee.—1 Sam. 15:23.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—1 Sam. 16: 4-5. PRIMARY TOPIC—A King Who Disobeyed God. JUNIOR TOPIC—How Saul Lost His Kingdom.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Saul Failed. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Strength and Weakness of Saul's Character.

This is one of the saddest pictures in Bible history. No one has had a brighter prospect before him than Saul, yet no one has made a greater failure.

He possessed strong natural gifts, the qualities of a great king. He had a fine physique, which greatly favors one's success in life, other things being equal. He had the benefit of Samuel's advice and godly life, which was of inestimable value.

I. The Command to Saul (vv. 1-3). He is commanded to utterly exterminate the Amalekites, leaving neither people nor booty. The reason assigned is their evil treatment of Israel as they came up out of Egypt (Ex. 17:3; Deut. 25:17). This command may seem cruel, but we must remember that it was given by the Lord, who has the right to kill or to make alive. The wickedness of this people was very great. Their judgment was only such as their sin deserved. It was not Israel's act, but God's, Israel only being the sword in his hand.

II. The Disobedience of Saul (vv. 4-9). He renders a partial obedience. Agag, the king, is spared and the best of the goods is appropriated. The purpose of God's thoroughgoing command was to show that it was a warfare of judgment for wickedness, not for greed. Saul only obeyed as far as his inclinations led him. The obedience to God which is limited by the heart's inclination is the worst kind of obedience.

III. Saul Rebuked by Samuel (vv. 10-25). 1. Samuel cried to God (v. 11). The news of this disgraceful act greatly disturbed Samuel, causing him to cry to the Lord all night.

2. Saul's hypocritical pretense (vv. 15, 16). Saul met Samuel with the pretense of having executed the Lord's commandment. This pretense carried a lie upon its face. Those who are the most willing to speak of their obedience are the ones who are conscious of disobedience, and their consciences trouble them over it. Though disturbed by a guilty conscience he tried to conciliate Samuel, the prophet, but the very bleating of the sheep and the howling of the herds betrayed him. Thus betrayed, he tried to shift the blame upon the people (v. 15). This is always the way. It matters not what the crime may be, some excuse can be made for it. He then played the hypocrite by trying to make it pass as an act of devotion to God (v. 15). He should have known that things gained by disobedience to God are an abomination to him. Offerings to God of ill-gotten gains can never atone for sins of disobedience and neglect. Saul tried to justify himself by pleading that he was keeping the spirit of the commandment, while not literally carrying out its requirements. He has many successors today who do not believe in the literal interpretation and practice of God's Word.

3. Samuel rebukes before Saul God's dealing with him (vv. 17-23). Samuel met this hypocrite by bringing him to squarely face his sin. God is more concerned in having his subjects render obedience unto his commandments than he is for them to offer unto him sacrifices. Such an act when the heart is in rebellion is as hateful to God as withcraft and idolatry.

IV. The Judgment upon Saul (vv. 26-35). For the presumptuous offering of sacrifice the dynasty passed from Saul's house, and for this act of flagrant disobedience the kingdom is rent from him. It is taken from Saul and given to his neighbor, who is better than he. He confessed his sin and begged Samuel to still honor him before the elders of the people. This further shows his self-centered life. His honor was more to him than the glory of God. Samuel forsook him and left him alone to suffer in disgrace. He refused to punish the Amalekite (II Sam. 1:10). Unless we slay our enemies they will slay us. Judgment shall come sooner or later upon those who sin, for "the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." (Rom. 6:23).

Great Deeds. We all want to do some great thing—to do what prophets, saints, heroes, and martyrs have done. But the small thing, the commonplace thing, the little trivial duty, the thing that has to be done out of everybody's sight—in the routine of business, home or school—that seems poor work to do for God. But it is what he wants us to do.—C. J. Perry.

Knowledge. Knowledge is folly unless grace guides it.

CONDENSED CLASSICS

THE CHOIR INVISIBLE

By JAMES LANE ALLEN

Condensed by Miss Sara Ware Sweet

James Lane Allen, who has lived much in New York City since 1886, had the good fortune to spend his boyhood in a country of surpassing loveliness. He was born (Dec. 21, 1850) near Lexington, Ky., on the old Allen estate, where his father settled in the wilderness days. The shadow of the blue grass region seems to have woven itself into the nature of the boy, who was destined to paint so many exquisite word pictures of his native state.

Mr. Allen took his bachelor's and master's degrees in the old Transylvania university, founded by Kentucky pioneers. He was compelled, by the failure in his father's fortune, to begin to teach at once, in public and private schools. He later became professor of Latin and higher English at Bethany College. He never married. In 1886 he definitely forsook academic pursuits, went to New York City and devoted himself to writing. By 1918 he had published 17 books, "Plute and Violin," a collection of short stories, appeared in 1891. "The White Cow" has brought many pilgrims to its scene, the Abbey of Gethsemane, an exquisite bit of old France, near Louisville, in "Kentucky Cardinal" and "Aftermath" (1895-6). Mr. Allen first really proved his power. Well known among his later books are "The Reign of Law," "The Mettle of the Pasture," and "The Bride of the Mistletoe." His novel "The Choir Invisible," written in 1897, is perhaps the most "vibrant with the passion of beauty and pain" of any of his books.

Few writers of American fiction are better qualified to present the early history of Kentucky than is James Lane Allen, himself a native of the Blue Grass State. He chose as his setting for "The Choir Invisible" that picturesque period during Washington's administration when the Mississippi was just being opened for navigation, and great tides of pioneers were migrating through the Alleghany highway to settle the sparsely populated regions of the West and South.

Lexington, Kentucky, chancing to be directly in the path of one tributary of this current, received not only many of those who were abandoning the cities of the coast for the untried territory of a newer land, but also others who, having tested out the Utopian western country, and left their health, wealth, and dreams of success, were returning broken-hearted to the homes from which they had come.

Hence in Lexington one encountered persons of every class. It was a heterogeneous populace, high of courage and strong of fortitude, that amid clearing in forest and cane-brake laid the foundation of this fine old Southern city; a populace not to be daunted by discomfort, privation, or unceasing toil.

The heroes and heroines who thus sacrificed their lives on the altar of civilization have, the author tells us, long since joined "the choir invisible of the immortal dead," but they have left behind them a heritage that has come down to us through the centuries. The chief character of the story is John Gray, the master in the little log schoolhouse, and we have a charming glimpse of him: "a young fellow of powerful build, lean, muscular, wearing simply but with gentlemanly care a suit of black which was relieved around his wrists and neck by linen, snow-white and of the finest quality." He had a handsome head covered with thick red hair, we are told, and was a man of such integrity as to render him a worthy descendant "from one of Cromwell's unconquerable, hymn-singing army."

We therefore are not surprised to find him holding himself aloof from the follies of the time, and seeking out the comradeship of those to whom the finer and nobler things of life appeal. Yet he is very human—a creature of anger, passion, and a multitude of moods. Moreover it is quite consistent with his character that he should fall in love with a woman whom he idealizes. Amy Falconer, who "was perhaps the first beautiful girl of aristocratic birth ever seen in Kentucky, and the first of the famous train of those who for a hundred years since have checked or saved the lives of men." She is a coquette, vain, shallow, and incapable of deep feeling, and she tosses John's love aside in a moment of pique for that of Joseph Holden; afterward, on discovering that there is a prospect of John's inheriting a fortune and becoming a person of importance, she shamelessly offers to rid herself of Joseph and reinstate John in her graces.

John Gray, however, is not to be so lightly dropped and picked up again. The episode proves to him that his idol has feet of clay, and with his faith in her shattered he bids her farewell.

Amy, in the meantime, has made her home with her aunt and uncle, Major and Mrs. Falconer. Mrs. Falconer stands out against a background of high-born Virginian ancestry—a background of jewels, brocades, fags, and satin slippers; of balls and minuets; of wide-reaching plantations and slaves. The Major has been one of those who has heroically fought in the Revolution, and to whom the Southern beauty out of patriotic gratitude has given her hand, bravely following him into the Kentucky wilderness. Unfortunately, although neither of the pair confess it, the marriage has been an uncongenial one. Both, however, are too noble minded to do otherwise than be true to the union that holds them together. Yet there is a scar of disappointment beneath the surface, and in the woman's heart a weariness and longing that nothing satisfies. During John Gray's visits to her niece Mrs. Falconer has become deeply interested in the young schoolmaster, who is about her own age and whose tastes she shares. Between them a companionship has sprung up which each honestly mistakes for friendship.

Amy's attraction for the man has been an untutored impulse of the senses; but Jessica Falconer's power over him is one of deep spiritual inspiration. When he awakens to the discovery that in reality it is Mrs. Falconer whom he loves his reverence for her, her purity, and her loyalty to her husband all bind him to silence. She also loves him but is in honor bound to give him no sign, and hence with their love unspoken he goes East ostensibly to recover the legacy he expects to inherit, but determined never to return.

The lawsuit for his property goes against him and he is cast into jail for debt, from which knowingly the efforts of friends release him. He is a proud man and wishing to pay this debt of gratitude he proposes to marry the daughter of the family that has befriended him. Before the marriage, however, he tells his future bride quite frankly that he loves someone else who is not free, and it is with this knowledge that she accepts him. While the wedding is in preparation a letter comes to him from Mrs. Falconer announcing the death of her husband, and in the silent hope that his fiancée will give him his liberty he acquaints her with the change in his prospects. We gather from the text that the girl is unwilling to give him up, and as he is too honorable to demand his freedom he carries out his pledge.

All ignorant of this turn of events Mrs. Falconer in the meantime is sure of his love that she erects in distant Kentucky a stately mansion modeled after the home of her early youth. She is still in the thirties and beautiful, and deluded into the belief that at last her dreams are to be fulfilled she makes ready for her marriage. A paper telling of John's union with someone else rudely destroys his paradise. Twice she has missed this prize of happiness. The intense joy of womanhood she is never to know "I shall go softly all my days," she murmurs.

Time sweeps on but her beauty does not fade. She becomes the great lady of the Southern settlement and at her home Aaron Burr and many another famous American is entertained. More than one man lays his fortune at her feet and goes away disappointed.

There are women who never experience the heights and the depths of life. "Gazing deep into their eyes we are reminded of the light of dim churches—They are the women who have missed happiness and who know it; but having failed of affection give themselves to duty. It was into the company of these quieter pilgrims that she had passed."

One day long afterward when she is alone in her garden she sees coming toward her a magnificent young fellow at the brink of manhood.

He lifts his hat with courtly gesture. "I am John Gray, the son of your old friend, and my father sends me to you to stay if you will let me. And he desires me to deliver this letter."

"John Gray!" she cried. "You John Gray! You! Take off your hat." For a moment she looked at his forehead and his hair; her eyes became blinded with tears. She threw her arms around his neck with a sob and covered his face with kisses.

Alone in the solitude of her bedroom she reads the letter. John tells her that he loves her, that he has always loved her; and that it is the fire of this love that through the years has kept his ideals aglow.

"Many a time this candle has gnawed out; but as quickly as I could snatched any torch—with your sacred name on my lips—it has been relighted." "If," he adds, "I have kept unbroken faith with any of mine, thank you. And thank God!"

PESTS THREATEN GARDEN SUCCESS

Specialists Advise Use of All Preventive Measures Possible as Best Plan.

SAVE SOIL DEEPLY PLOWED

Rotation of Crops Has Been Found by Many Farmers to Be Excellent Means of Controlling Disease and Harmful Insects.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

From the time the seeds are planted until the crop is harvested a series of insect enemies and diseases may appear that, unless they are controlled, will destroy much of the value of the garden. Garden and truck crop specialists of the United States department of agriculture have worked out a great many specific means for destroying insects or holding them in check. They point out the fact, however, that preventive measures are best.

It is important to have the soil deeply plowed or spaded and made loose and light with plenty of well-rotted manure or compost and to keep the ground cultivated so that the surface will not become hard or weedy. Use the best seed to be had and sow it liberally to get a good stand, but thin out the plants, as overcrowded plants are in much greater danger of becoming diseased than those that receive plenty of air and sunshine.

Rotate Crops if Possible.

Farmers have found that by rotating their crops they reduce the injury from plant diseases and insects and also increase the fertility of the soil. This principle applies to the home garden, where, if possible, it will be better to make a new plan each year, placing each vegetable where some other grew the year before—peas on the old tomato ground, beets and carrots after the corn, etc. The details of this rotation must vary in each case according to the climate, soil, and vegetables grown and the diseases and insects to be guarded against.

Avoid introducing insects and diseases on plants obtained for setting out. Practice clean cultivation. Employ fertilizers to stimulate plant growth. Work on the principle that a vigorous growing garden will produce a crop in spite of injurious insects and diseases.

Become familiar with the insects and diseases known to occur in your district on the crops you are growing. Equip yourself in advance with all necessary remedies and the means of applying them. Remember that the timely application of a remedy acts as an insurance against loss.

Watch constantly for the first appearance of a disease or insect. Inspect the garden at least every other day. Determine what is causing injury and apply the proper treatment promptly. Use combination treatments as often as necessary, keeping in mind the influence of weather conditions as well as the life history of the insect or fungus causing the disease.

Neighborhood Should Co-operate.

Use insecticides and fungicides in the proper dilution to accomplish the object without injuring the plants. Standard remedies are best. Test others experimentally before using them on a large scale.

Use the best sprayers. A thorough application is necessary for the best results. Adjust the sprayer so that all parts of the plant that are exposed to the air will be covered.

Work for co-operation in the neighborhood. One badly infected or infested garden may be the source of disease infection or insect infestation for several near-by gardens. Keep your own garden clean and it will be an object lesson for careless neighbors and will have a tendency to help clean up the neighborhood. This will make control easier and cheaper another year.

For garden insects there are several control methods that do not require the use of insecticides, but too much must not be expected from them. Of these hand picking is useful for large, comparatively inactive insects such as the potato beetle, cutworms and other caterpillars, and the squash bug. Another method is jarring or beating insects from low plants into large pans of water on which a thin scum of kerosene is floating. The water prevents the insects from escaping, and the keroseene, being on the surface, kills the insects with which it comes in contact. Collecting nests are valuable for some pests; for example, the tarnished plant bug. Brushing by different means is used to a considerable extent and consists in beating or brushing insects from the plants with pine boughs or similar brush. This method has proved of great value in combating the pea aphid. Covering with cloth is of use as a preventive for the striped cucumber beetle when the cucumbers are quite small, and for root-maggots. Trapping by different methods with old boards is useful for squash bugs and cutworms. Poisoned bait may be placed under such traps. Flowing, diking, and harrowing all can be done by hand and are of considerable service.

Spraying Methods.

To be successful in the control of insects and diseases, spraying must be done promptly and thoroughly. Spraying with bordeaux mixture should be done before rains rather than after, provided the spray has time to dry on the leaves. Intervals between spraying should depend on the weather. If it is rainy or muggy, with fogs or heavy dews, spray frequently to keep the foliage protected at all times. If dry, a longer time may be allowed.

The ideal spray is a fine mist, and the best work is done when the plant is thoroughly and evenly covered with fine drops. Stop spraying before the foliage is drenched.

The higher the pressure, the better the spray.

Clean all sprayers each time after using.

For delicate foliage, spray after this gets under shade. Hot sunlight is dangerous with many sprays, such as kerosene emulsion.

Get a copy—free by writing to the United States department of agriculture—of Farmers' Bulletin 856, "Control of Diseases and Insect Enemies of the Home Vegetable Garden." It discusses the whole subject in detail—the various garden insects and diseases, poisons and how to prepare and use them, spraying machinery, and the like.

DEPTH OF CORN CULTIVATION

Shallow Method Is Favored as Result of Many Comparative Experiments by Specialists.

Many comparative experiments of deep and shallow cultivation have been made, and on the whole the results are in favor of shallow cultivation, say specialists of the United States department of agriculture. The occasions when deep cultivation is preferable are few. If excessive rains have packed the soil and kept it water soaked, deep cultivation will help to dry and aerate it. Breaking the roots of the plants must be avoided so far as possible. If roots are broken the plants will rapidly produce other roots, but it will be at the expense of vitality and the food supply. After the plants have reached a height of 2 or 3 feet, the soil even in the middle of the rows should not be cultivated deeper than 4 inches, and usually a shallower cultivation will prove better. A loose soil much 2 or 3 inches in thickness should be maintained. It retains soil moisture and facilitates the penetration of rainfall.

"BETTER SIRES" LOCAL COLOR

Farmers Recognize Value of Improved Stock Even Though Living in Remote Sections.

That the value of improved live stock is recognized by farmers even though they are still far from reaching that goal on their farms is shown by correspondence reaching the United States department of agriculture from regions where the live stock industry is undeveloped. "This township," one farmer writes in pencil on a scrap of paper, "is interested in a better grade of cattle. There is a sawmill and a carriage shop and a blacksmith shop right by us, and I think these would be good places for your colored poster about better sires. If you will send me some I will post them up."

"We have several cows in our barn," he continues, "and will improve our cows with a pure-bred Holstein bull, which will soon be ready to head the herd."

COULD NOT HOLD OUT LONGER

Virginia Lady Realized She Couldn't Stay Nervous, Weak, Pale, and Hold Out Much Longer.—Cardui Helped Her.

Dublin, Va.—Mrs. Sallie Hughett, of Route 2, this place, recently related her interesting experience in recovering her health, saying: "When . . . came on I was in a very bad condition and nothing the doctor gave me did me any good. Some say you have to let this take its course . . . but I knew there ought to be something to give relief. I was nervous, weak and pale. I couldn't eat or sleep to do any good, and felt I couldn't stand this very long. "I heard and read of Cardui, and how it had benefited other women in the same condition, so decided to use it myself. After my first bottle I felt better, so, of course, kept it up, and it did the work. "It helped me as nothing else did. I began to pick up right away. I ate and slept and could rest. I knew I was getting better. I kept it up and it did wonders for me."

Thousands of women, suffering as this Virginia lady did, have used Cardui with equally happy results, and voluntarily relate their experiences, so that others, troubled with disorders common among women, may learn to take Cardui.

GAVE AMATEUR "SOFT" PART Pompous Individual Duly Awarded His "Place in the Sun," as He Had Requested.

The Swampton Dramatic society wanted their annual performance to be a success, so they engaged a professional from London to arrange it all. As soon as this gentleman appeared, one of the amateurs tackled him. "I must have a role to suit me," he began pompously. "I always play one of the principal parts in our shows, and so far I've been most successful." "Excuse me," interposed the professional, "but you must allow me to be the judge of the most suitable cast."

The first rehearsal occurred a few days later. When the cast was read out the pushing amateur found he had been left out altogether.

"Why have I not got a part?" he demanded angrily.

"You have a part, all right," replied the producer. "You are to be the first banana in the fruit-market scene!"—London Answers.

ASKING A LITTLE TOO MUCH Under the Circumstances, Actor Was Justified in Refusing Parts Manager Allotted Him.

Owing to the limitations of his purse the manager of a theatrical show on the road traveled with a short company.

One afternoon he called one of his players to him and remarked: "Look here, Wellington, you'll have to play three parts tomorrow night in 'The Silent Foe'—Henderson, Uncle Bill, and the Spider."

"Can't do it!" retorted Wellington briefly, but firmly.

"Can't do it? Won't do it, you mean!" snorted the manager. "Why won't you do it?"

"Because it can't be done. No human being could play these three parts at the same time. In the third act Henderson and the Spider have a fight and old Uncle Bill rushes in to separate them."
