SECOND PRIMARY APRIL 18th Let Every Democrat be on the Job

F. T. McDONALD ELECTED MAYOR

In the city election Tuesday, F. T. McDonald was elected mayor by a majority of 93 votes. Mr. McDonald has been a resident of Portales for a number of years and is now engaged in the grocery business. He is a man of good business judgment and has the welfare of Portales at heart. As the head of the city government he will doubtless extend the same careful business consideration to the affairs of the city which has resulted in the success of his private business.

The board of trustees are all good sound men and will doubtless do much in the next two years to develop the resources of Portales. They are as follows: Wat Stewart, C. M. Taylor, J. W. Ballow, E. N. Smith.

Miss Irma Bell Smith was elected city clerk. Miss Irma Bell is the daughter of Mrs. Maude Smith. She is an expert accountant and bookkeeper, and is fully competent to handle the affairs of this office.

Following is the vote as cast on Tuesday:
For Mayor:
F. T. McDonald.....257
R. Hardy.....164
For Trustees:
L. M. Tipton.....85
W. H. Ball.....116
C. W. Ison.....172
A. J. Goodwin.....117
Wat Stewart.....177
C. M. Taylor.....228
J. W. Ballow.....208
E. N. (Tot) Smith.....210
F. S. Campbell.....147
J. K. Knight.....94
J. R. Webb.....63
For Clerk:

SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 31

Monday, G. A. Nicholson was elected director of District No. 31.

FAIRFIELD DISTRICT NO. 3

In the Fairfield District J. M. Moss and A. T. Williams were elected as directors in Monday's election.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank my many friends throughout the county for their influence and support in the recent primary. I appreciate it just as deeply as though I had been nominated.

Very truly,
R. A. PALM.

LAND OFFICES AT FORT SUMNER AND TUCUMCARI TO BE TAKEN TO ROSWELL

ROSWELL, March 30.—Under a ruling of the United States Land Commissioner, dated March 21, the land offices at Tucumcari and Fort Sumner will be discontinued and the records will be brought to the office in this city. This means that the territory now included under the jurisdiction of the Roswell land office will be enlarged to almost twice its size and will extend from the southern boundary of Lea county, taking in a small point of Union county as the northern boundary and including practically all of Eastern New Mexico.

It is said that the office at Clayton will also be discontinued and the records transferred to the office at Santa Fe.

PRECINCT CHAIRMEN, ROOSEVELT COUNTY NEW MEXICO

You are hereby called to meet in Portales, on Monday, April 10, 1922, at 11 o'clock a. m. to canvass the returns of the primary held April 4th and to transact any other business that may come before the committee.

It is very urgent that a full attendance be present. No proxy will be recognized from anyone not residing in the precinct from which the proxy may be offered.

Respectfully,
J. A. FAIRLY,
County Chairman.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to all of those who assisted us during serious illness and death of our dear little one, and for the many words of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings. We thank the Home Mission Ladies for their sympathy and floral offering. We thank the pastor who spoke the last kind words over the little body and for the many comforting words spoken.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Taylor and Bonibel.

A. B. Smith came in Monday from Phoenix, Arizona, for a visit with his nephew, E. N. Smith. Mr. Smith's home is in Paducah, K.

PORTALES BOY MAKES RECORD

STATE COLLEGE, N. M.—When the football letter men of the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts last week elected A. S. Fairly, of Portales to succeed himself as captain of the football for 1922, they set a precedent in the athletic history of the institution. Fairly is the first football man who has ever been accorded this highest honor for two years, and it comes to him as only a right to the most consistent backfielder in the southwest during the past fall season, and captain of the mythical all-southwestern second team. The playing of the A. & M. captain during his two years on the A. & M. team has not been sensational or remarkably brilliant, it has been of the steady and consistent type that is always relied on in a tight place. In the opinion of an official from one of the large Eastern Universities who witnessed the game last Thanksgiving at Albuquerque, between the A. & M. and the State University: "Fairly played the best defensive game I have ever seen a backfielder play, and when I make this statement I include every game between the best teams in east."

The schedule already prepared for the team Fairly is to again captain this year is the best ever presented to any college in this section of the country. Nine games have already been scheduled and the trips given to the team go all the way from Abilene Texas, to San Francisco, California. The main game of the sea-

CANDIDATES WHO WILL BE IN THE RUN OFF

Present indications are that the following candidates will be in the run off at the second primary on April 18:

FOR SHERIFF—
Joe Beasley.
C. C. Davis.
FOR TAX ASSESSOR—
J. A. Pipkin.
Carl S. Turner.
FOR COMMISSIONER, PRE. 3—
H. C. Scruggs.
B. W. Kinsolving.

MRS. BERTHA FOREMAN

Mrs. Bertha Foreman, wife of Edgar F. Foreman, died at the family home one mile north of Portales, Sunday, April 2, 1922, at 6:50 p. m.

Mrs. Foreman had been suffering from the flu, when pneumonia set in which resulted in her death.

Funeral services were conducted at the home on Monday, burial taking place in the Portales cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt appreciation for the kindness shown our wife and daughter in her recent sickness and death.

Sincerely,
E. F. Foreman.
Mrs. Emma Stephenson.
Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Foreman.

Mrs. W. E. Bartlett returned Monday from a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Henderson, and sister, Mrs. Mattie J. Baker, at Amarillo, Texas.

son is an inter-sectional game to be played on October 27th, at San Francisco between the A. & M. and St. Mary's College of Oakland, California, in one of the largest stadiums in the country.

The reputation which is being built up of the New Mexico team with a schedule including so many is assuming a national aspect of the big colleges in the west. An invitation for a game with Texas Agies, the elite in football for the United States, was received but could not be accepted because of conflicting dates.

KENTUCKY VALLEY ITEMS

Last Wednesday the north truck balked, four pupils found another way to come, but there was no talk in that sturdy Howard Jasper. He walked ten miles and reached the school house by 1:30 p. m. Howard is nine years old in the 3rd grade. If every boy was as anxious to be at school as Howard is, there would be better foundation in grade work.

Elmer Beard, Hearst Paxton, Emil Herbert, Donald McAlister, the Manis children, Carrie Hendrix, Louise Beard and Iva Paxton are our sick pupils. Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. Kimbrel, Mr. C. E. Herbert, Mr. Bob McAlister and Mae Miller are our sick neighbors.

School's attendance is slim but it seems better to run the school than to dismiss as school is so near out.

Mrs. W. I. Sims of Grady, Mrs. Maxwell's sister, is teaching in Mrs. Maxwell's place this week. Mrs. Maxwell is at her home in Clovis looking after her political interests. She is a candidate for school superintendent.

Louise Kemp, who has been attending school here, went to her home near Clovis last Saturday.

There was a good rain fell Monday evening and Monday night. School election was held here Monday, and a new director was elected. Floyd Holmes was the new director. We also had several visitors.

There was a singing Sunday night at Paul Eminger's. Everybody reports a good time.

There wasn't any Sunday school here Sunday on account of sickness. We hope that all will be able to attend Sunday school again before long.

ULUS LEO STEPHENSON

Ulus Leo Stephenson, brother of Mrs. L. B. Thornton, died April 4th, 1922. At the time of his death Mr. Stephenson was 33 years of age. Funeral services were held at the Methodist church today, Thursday, at 2 p. m.

WHY JOIN A FARM BUREAU

A Four-Minute Speech by Secretary J. W. Coverdale of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

(From A. F. B. F. News Letter of March 2).

The object of the Farm Bureau is to create a county-wide agricultural organization to advance and improve the agriculture of the county; to cooperate with the State College of Agriculture and the U. S. Department of Agriculture in the employment of county agents; to develop a definite program of work that will bring to the county a better economic, social and educational condition so as to make farming more profitable and country life more attractive.

The Farm Bureau represents every community of the county by providing for a director from each township on its board of directors and for a local group in every community—if one does not already exist—through which it can work.

The Farm Bureau represents all agricultural interests in that its officers include individuals engaged in all of the general and specialized lines of farming.

Urges Cooperation

The Farm Bureau does not aim to replace any other organization as it includes among its membership representatives of all farmers organizations. The Farm Bureau encourages community organization and cooperation.

The Farm Bureau is not a political organization, believing that more can be accomplished in safeguarding and promoting agricultural interests most vital to the welfare of the entire county, state and nation by the united action of all concerned on measures of common interest, regardless of factional or political differences.

The American Farm Bureau Federation depends for its strength upon the united support of the farm people in the 1500 counties of the 46 co-operating state federations.

Solves Local Problems

The County Farm Bureau will help you solve the problems of the county that stand for a better county and that you as an individual know should be solved. In unity there is strength, and the Farm Bureau will be as strong as the people who back it make it.

The State Farm Bureau Federation is just an enlargement of the county unit to do the thing that the county as an individual cannot do; where several counties or the entire state is affected it takes organization to do the job.

The American Farm Bureau Federation is no stronger than its component parts. It needs your help if it is to continue to function properly. It bases its program of action upon a thorough study of its problems, and has provided departments of administration, organization, finance, marketing, research, information, transportation, legislation and legal counsel, and has employed the best trained men that the country has to take charge of the work.

It maintains a daily point of contact with the different research organizations of the country and with the state and federal agencies in studying agricultural conditions. It holds conferences with organizations of all kinds in order that it may study their problems and at the same time present to them the true situation of agriculture.

Holds Public Confidence

It carefully prepares on every subject before speaking—thus it has the confidence and respect of the public, in that it is fair in all its dealings and is not advocating for the farmers anything but an equal opportunity to carry on agricultural pursuits on a par with other industry.

I believe that every progressive farmer should join the Farm Bureau because:

1. It affords membership in a large and strong strictly farmer-controlled organization in your county.
2. It affords membership in a state federation of the county farm bureaus constantly increasing in influence and power for good to the agriculture of your commonwealth.
3. It affords membership in the national association of the federated bureaus of the states and thereby gives you a voice in formulating America's agricultural policy and in winning for the farmer economic and social justice.
4. It affords membership in non-political and non-sectarian associations which have for their prime and only purpose the organization of the farmers of the United States for the advancement of the farming business through a constructive program with reference to existing associated businesses and organizations which are necessary and lawful. Its aim is to make the business of farming better and surer, free from uncertain and unsteady markets, with selling prices based on a profitable cost of production.
5. It affords real opportunity for effective agricultural leadership. It gives each member a functioning place in a vast movement conceived for the benefit of America and for the improvement of life in the open country.
6. It stands for orderly marketing through community associations.
7. It stands for constructive legislation. The results of that stand can best be determined by studying its record at Washington.
8. It stands for lower transportation rates, in proper relationship to the prices of farm products.
9. It stands for the education of the nation in regard to the farmer's problems.
10. It stands for a square deal for all.

Join, if you are a farmer, because the Farm Bureau needs you and you need the Farm Bureau.

CREAM AND EGGS

Better marketing methods for cream and eggs, one of the largest industries of Roosevelt county, is a problem that confronts the Roosevelt County Farm and Livestock Bureau. The production of a better grade of cream and eggs is difficult in this country in the summer but it can be done and it will be done when the producer sees that it will pay him to do it. The following extract from the American Farm Bureau Federation news letter has a bearing on this subject. It might also indicate that this idea is NOT the result of superficial thinking and idle talking but is one that is urged by some of the best authorities in the country on the marketing of these products. Following is the extract from the A. F. B. F. news letter of March 23rd:

Urge Poultry Co-ops.

ducers, E. B. Heaton, Director of Dairy Marketing of the American Farm Bureau Federation, says:

"One valuable line of work which many Farm Bureaus are undertaking is that of promoting egg and poultry marketing associations. This is one phase of our marketing problem that has not been given the attention its importance would warrant. Poultry and poultry products represent about one-tenth of the total productive income of the American farmer. The past two seasons the difficult situation under which the farmers have had to contend from a financial standpoint, has pointed out the value of the cash income derived from this most neglected part of the farm business. The commonplace market for the majority of producers has been the local grocery store. These grocery stores in the majority of cases do not have the facilities for handling eggs or poultry in the most efficient manner. Eggs are kept in the back room or basement of the store without proper cooling in the summer time. But little attention is given to grading or sorting the eggs. Live fowls are shipped in promiscuous lots with no attention given to sorting according to grade or size. There have been exceptions to this, of course, where privately owned poultry and egg plants have been established, but in the majority of instances where these are located, they are operated on a one-price basis. The eggs and poultry are bought as if they were all medium or poorer in grade and the dealer has reaped the advantage of sorting and grading. All this has promoted carelessness on the part of farmers in marketing their eggs and poultry. Cooperative marketing is the only way that his situation can be changed and

FARM BUREAU ORGANIZATION WORK IN ROOSEVELT COUNTY

During the month of March time was devoted to getting the Farm Bureau idea before the farmers, getting them to think about it, and then going after memberships. Numerous country meetings have been held in the interest of the Farm Bureau and farmers in several communities have made personal calls and visits in behalf of the movement. The exact membership of the organization at present is not available for publication owing to the fact that membership contracts are retained in the several communities until the time of county organization. However, it is around 140. Prospective members have repeatedly told that the success of the enterprise rests on the members having the right attitude and they have been made to feel their own responsibility to the movement, to realize that the whole thing means working and perhaps waiting. In the words of some of the leaders, "Don't join then expect Santa Claus to come around next week with something, we mean business and we are looking to the future and its attendant results from co-operative effort expended now." The communities of Longs, Inez, Richland, Rogers, Floyd and Portales Valley now have local organizations to which the applications for membership can be made. The following men are in charge in at the same time develop increased profits for the producer.

"It is a feasible proposition for each of the 1,400 or more co-operative creameries in the United States to establish poultry and egg departments. This may either be developed as a separate poultry association handling the business through the creamery, or the creamery may undertake this proposition under the same management. The most profitable way to do this would be to have the poultry and egg association pool these products the same as the producers are pooling their butter fat through the creamery. The creamery could furnish additional cold storage space and employ an egg and poultry man who could carry on the details of this business separate from that of the creamery, even though under the same general management.

"In communities where there are no co-operative creameries, or other co-operative dairy plants, other possibilities are offered with the co-operative elevator or co-operative livestock shipping association, or by having poultry and egg associations. The possibilities for the future development along these lines are big.

"The Farm Bureaus will do a splendid work when they promote better marketing facilities for the poultry products of our farms."

their respective communities:
Inez—Mr. J. W. Clem.
Rogers—Mr. Ezray Watts.
Richland—Mr. D. A. Gordon.
Longs—Mr. U. S. Frazee.
Floyd—Hugh King and John Russell.

At Portales members can join up at the office of the Sweet Potato Association.

It had been originally planned to have the county organization meeting early in April and at that time map out a program of work for the organization to get busy on, but circumstances have made it necessary to postpone this till later in the month at which time it is hoped that President Kent of the Agricultural College will be present as the main speaker. Full particulars as to time and place of the county organization meeting will be made public in due time. Members are being urged to think, think, THINK! about who they will put in as officers of the Farm Bureau. If the movement amounts to anything the most capable, most self-sacrificing farmer in the county will have to be made president of the Farm Bureau. So think about this and begin to get your men in mind. The history of Farm Bureaus elsewhere shows that efficient leadership is essential to success. At the time of the county organization meeting think about this as a part of your business as a farmer of Roosevelt County and tend to it as any other business man would attend to it. Put in the best man you have on the farms of this county for your officers.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

The Women's clubs of the county were unusually active during the month of March. In cooperation with Miss Neiman and Miss Richardson of the Extension service, millinery and "foods for the family" were taken up by the Inez and Rogers clubs. The Homemaker's Club of Portales have taken up the work of making individual dress forms. The women are to be congratulated on the spirit and work they have put into the enterprise entered into.

Commissioner C. S. Toler was in Monday and Tuesday attending commissioner's court.

U.B. Thrifty says

Ask the man with the bank account if he started it tomorrow

You can safeguard tomorrow by careful preparation today.

More especially is this true of the farmer who is now getting ready to plant for this season's crop.

We believe that the farmer this year should utilize every foot of available space, and be especially careful with the seed bed and the seed itself.

Tested seed insures perfect germination and carefully prepared soil is a vital necessity for abundant production.

So get a good start—that is half the battle.

Mysterious Romantic Thrilling

The Indian Drum

By William MacHarg and Edwin Balmer

Brothers-in-law frequently make good team mates, especially in literature. One of the best novels bearing the name of Rudyard Kipling was written in collaboration with Wolcott Balestier, the brother of Kipling's wife.

When two such capable fiction writers as the brothers-in-law MacHarg and Balmer decided to join forces, it was evident that some good stories would result. The stories came out and their success has been attested by the large measure of public approval bestowed upon: "The Achievements of Luther Trant," "Sunkarta," "The Blind Man's Eyes" and "The Indian Drum."

The latter is such a particularly absorbing tale that, the opportunity presenting itself, we secured the privilege of printing in serial form and now intend to give it to the readers of this publication.

FARM BUREAU NEWS

Watch this paper for the date of the organization meeting of the Roosevelt County Farm and Livestock Bureau. It will be some time in April and the exact date will soon be made public. Watch for it.

WHAT IS THE FARM BUREAU AND WHAT IS IT GOOD FOR?

(Continued from last month) Under this heading last month a hasty survey was taken of the rapid development of all industry immediately after the Civil War, the lagging back of agriculture in the forward movement, the many futile outbursts of farmers' organizations, and the final awakening of Agriculture with the attendant developments in methods of farming. All of these factors were part of a process of evolution of agriculture and the reason that the Farm Bureau is today in the powerful position it occupies is that it is the result of slow, sure development, and is NOT a skyrocket outbreak of a bunch of radicals.

Back in the early teens of this century the Extension Agents of the Department of Agriculture and the Agricultural Colleges, in endeavoring to introduce better methods of farming on the farms, saw, that by establishing community organizations for the taking up of community problems, more could be accomplished than by individual effort. So the people of the communities were brought together to cooperate with each other in the purchase of better sires for their stock, in the testing of their cows, in the culling of their poultry, and kindred lines of endeavor. Each community organization adopted a "program of work," set certain goals and then worked toward them. If poultry culling was the project they went into they set a certain number of flocks to be culled and worked toward that end. It was soon realized that if these community organizations were brought together under a county head and the efforts of each community correlated to suit the best interests of the Agriculture of the county, that work would be more effective than where communities were working apart from each other. Accordingly County Farm Bureaus came into being. In many counties of the middle west (and later in all parts of the United States) these county Farm Bureau organizations began to concern themselves with methods of marketing farm products as well as methods of production. It was recognized that the farmers were so busy in the fields producing the crops that they were not giving time enough to the preparation of their products for market and the disposal of them to the best advantage. So the County Farm Bureaus began the work of improving marketing facilities. They found that their biggest work was with the farmer himself in getting him to have confidence in his ability to do his own business in cooperation with his neighbors, and in doing away with the practices that were tending to place farm products on the market in poor condition.

When County Farm Bureaus had made decided successes, farmers who had vision began to see the possibilities of the State Farm Bureaus (a federation of county state organizations) came into being. Then in 1919 the National American Farm Bureau Federation was organized and today its name is a household word and it is recognized and respected by other industries as the representative of the interests of the American Agriculture. But it and the state organizations are dependent on farmers back at home. They must back up the movement in their communities or the whole movement will not reach its maximum of success. This is the opinion of the president of the National Farm Bureau organization, Mr. J. R. Howard. And to keep the interest of the local communities it is necessary to help the people to solve their local problems. By seeing success at home they are more confident of the success of the great national movement of which they are a part.

BROOMCORN ASSOCIATION DIRECTORS HOLD MONTHLY MEETING

The regular meeting of the Directors of the Portales Co-operative Broomcorn Association was held last Saturday, April 1st, at which time the questions of seed for the coming year and the acquiring of a warehouse were discussed. The manager of the association was instructed to order 500 pounds of broomcorn seed from C. C. Miller of Oklahoma and to have it ready for distribution by April 5th. The association is laying plans for either the purchase or building of a ten car warehouse for its use the coming season, and in time hope to have a large storage warehouse.

Reports from the directors concerning the membership campaign which was instituted two months ago indicate that a considerable number of new members have come into the organization lately. It is considered highly important by the association to get as much of the coming year's acreage within the fold as possible for it is probable that the fight of last fall will be renewed the coming season.

POISON THE RATS

Many farmers are obtaining poisoned grain for use against field rats this spring and it is time that all who are likely to be troubled with them should begin to give the matter consideration. They are every easily poisoned with the poisoned grain. If ground is infested with rats they should be poisoned off before planting, not after they have taken the seed of the first planting. See about it now if you have trouble with field rats.

ENEMIES OF CO-OPERATION

Much is heard about co-operative marketing in all parts of the country these days. Farmers are entering cooperative marketing organizations of all kinds in all parts of the country and naturally the cooperative movement is finding opposition from some circles. However, a certain kind of opposition is what any new movement needs for "every knock is a boost." But the greatest difficulty to be overcome is not the outside opposition that is encountered. The following extract from the Year Book Department of Agriculture for 1914 tells, in the words of one of the best students of country, the real menace to co-operatives. The following will apply to any community, sweet potatoes, broomcorn, or any other product that is handed thru a cooperative enterprise anywhere: From Year Book Department of Agriculture, 1914.

"Of all things necessary to the success of a cooperative enterprise the cooperation of members is the most essential. The most capable officers, managers, and agents can not be expected to succeed in handling the affairs of organizations unless they receive the full strength of the members' patronage and their complete moral support. The disloyal member is the chief element of failure in cooperative circles. "It would appear that owing to the very fine principle of mutual help involved, those forming a cooperative organization would be consistently loyal in their mutual relationship. But, on the other hand, unless exceptional care be exercised by the leaders an organization from the beginning will be burdened with drones, cheats, deadbeats and traitors.

"When a grower joins a cooperative organization and then refuses to patronize it, he is a drone. He cannot excuse himself even on the ground of bad management, for it is his duty to help secure proper conduct of the business.

"If in selling through his organization a producer endeavors to pass off shoddy, poor-grade products, which injure the reputation of the body of which he is a member, he is a cheat.

"The member who uses the special and private information of the association in making sales outside, without contributing to its support, is a deadbeat.

"The man who joins a cooperative enterprise and then through subtle ways endeavors to obstruct its progress and defeat its purpose is a traitor.

"Those experienced with cooperative organizations have known all these types. They are to be found in practically every community. They are the greatest enemies of agriculture and agricultural cooperation. If allowed to dominate with their dishonest practices, they will sap the energy, brains, and spirit of the officer, exhaust the moral and financial strength of the undertaking, and reduce the whole to a state of miserable failure and ruin."

SIAMESE TWINS DIE; OPERATION NOT ALLOWED

Brother Refuses to Give Consent to Separation of Bodies Joined at Hip Since Birth.

CHICAGO, March 30.—Josefa and Rosa Blazek, the Siamese Twins, died at a hospital here today at 2:37 o'clock. Josefa's death occurred first and was followed in a few seconds by the death of her sister. Physicians had declared early in the night that in the event of the death of one of the sisters the other would die inasmuch as their brother, Frank Blazek, had refused to permit an operation which would separate their bodies.

The twins had been in a hospital 10 days. Josefa was ill with yellow jaundice which was caused by pneumonia. Shortly before her death Rosa was afflicted with bronchitis.

Following the refusal of the brother to authorize the operation Dr. B. H. Breakstone, chief of the surgical staff of the hospital, declared this morning that it would be impossible to save one of the twins in the event of the other's death.

Dr. Breakstone explained that a delicate operation would have been necessary. Before their death he had expressed the opinion that the physiological affinity of the twins was so vital that if one should die the other might also succumb before the band of flesh and bone that joins them could be severed.

separate respiratory and cardiac systems. Dr. Breakstone explained that they had only one set of secondary digestive and pro-creative organs. The operation, he said would have necessitated the building up of a part of the digestive and other essential organs to save the life of one twin.

Rosa was once married, her name being Rosa Blazek Dvorak. She is survived by a normal 11 year old boy. Her husband was a captain in the German army and was killed in action in 1917. She was married 15 years ago. Josefa never married.

The little son, Franz, has been at the bedside of his mother, who until within the last few hours was less critically ill than Josefa.

The twins were the second offspring of a normal parentage in Czecho Slovakia 42 years ago. There were four other children, all normal and all still living. The father is also said to be alive, his age being 85 years. The mother died a year ago at the age of 65 years.

During a tour of the world the twins acquired considerable wealth. They died without making a will.

IN THE LEAD IN COUNTY HEALTH WORK

That New Mexico is well in the lead in county health work is shown by a report recently issued by the U. S. Public Health Service, according to a bulletin of the New Mexico State Bureau of Public Health. This report covers the year just past and indicates which states have provisions for full-time health officers serving the rural populations. New Mexico ranks tenth so far as the number of counties having such health service is concerned. When the percentage of rural population reached is taken into consideration, this State ranks sixth. These figures were for last year. It is interesting to note that the five states leading us in respect of rural population reached are Vermont, Ohio, North Carolina, Alabama and Washington. Such states as New York and Massachusetts, which would be expected to have the highest grade of rural health work, do not appear in the list at all.

When we compute the figures for the present year, New Mexico makes even a better showing. There are now eight counties with full-time health officers, as against five last year. The rural population reached totals more than 91,000 which means an increase of fifty-five percent over 1921. Adding the population of the cities served by full-time county health officers, there are 126,000 persons within the reach of such public health work. This means that thirty-five per cent of our entire population, more than one-third is receiving the benefits of up-to-date health protection under the direction of men who are specially trained and who give their entire time to the work. Such a record speaks well for the progressive ideals of the people of New Mexico, when it is realized that only two and one-half years ago the state had no organized health department, either central or local.

A good dairy herd and a flock of hens will furnish the farmer revenue to meet his current expenses and also tide him over the tight times which always come to the one crop farmer, be it cattle or cotton. Diversified farming is what fills the bank vaults with ready cash and puts the country in a truly prosperous condition.

The surest way to lower the taxes of Roosevelt county is to develop the county 100 per cent. This will give sufficient taxable property to meet the demands of the county government, and lower the rate of assessment.

RURAL COMMUNITIES REACHED BY SCOPE OF REHABILITATION WORK

SANTA FE, N. M., April 4.—A bulletin of special interest to the rural communities of New Mexico was made public at the state department of education this week by D. W. Roeky, state supervisor of industrial rehabilitation. The bulletin, one of a series of informative publications issued by the federal board for vocational education, of which James J. Davis, secretary of labor is chairman, points out that the vocational rehabilitation work in which the federal and state governments cooperate, is by no means confined to aid for those injured in industrial accidents, to residents of cities or of industrial centers, but is available for the rural communities of the nation as well, including those incapacitated in agricultural pursuits. The bulletin says:

"Except in a few states, agriculture is not covered by State workmen's compensation laws, and it follows that persons injured in agriculture are not automatically reported for help in working out their economic independence. In these cases reporting is more or less a matter of chance.

"The Federal Board for Vocational Education solicits the cooperation of county agricultural agents, agricultural teachers, extension workers, rural ministers, and other agencies in reporting to the State rehabilitation services such cases as seem probably eligible for vocational rehabilitation. Agencies engaged in promoting rural welfare can render a valuable service by advising with rehabilitation agents and handicapped persons with reference to the selection of suitable vocations and the training and placement required in each case. The 2,312 county agents, 874 county home demonstration agents, and 1,760 Smith-Hughes agricultural teachers can aid materially in this work since they are in close contact with conditions in rural districts in every section of the country."

CHECK SIGNED 'O. WHAT LUCK' CLEARS BANKS

DENVER, March 21.—a worthless check for $275 drawn on the defunct Denver State bank and signed "O What Luck" was accepted in Kansas City, Mo., in payment for an automobile, passed through the Kansas City Clearing house banks and was discovered to be worthless only today when it reached Homer S. McMillin, executive officer for the affairs of the defunct bank.

McMillin returned the check today to the Kansas City garage owner who accepted it, March 3. McMillin said he believed the check had been given by some person familiar with the condition of the Denver bank, which was ordered closed last July.

"THE ECONOMY of MILK as a FOOD"

"Many people," says a United States Government report, "think of milk, for adults, at least, as a beverage rather than a food, and do not realize that a glass of it adds much to the nutritive value of a meal as a quarter of a loaf of bread or a good slice of beef."

The New York Milk Committee, in making a comparison of the cost and value of various articles of food states that one quart of milk is about equal in food value to any of the following:—

- 6 lbs. Spinach.
- 7 lbs. Lettuce.
- 4 lbs. Cabbage.
- 5 lbs. Turnips.
- 2 lbs. Potatoes.
- 4 lbs. Beets.

"THE SOURCE AND END OF WISDOM"

Who can tell where to find it?

Who can tell how to use it?

"HELLO" BARRED IN BOSTON.

According to Superintendent of Schools Burke the Word is Both Undignified and Slovenly.

Do not say "Hello" when you pick up the telephone.

Avoid "Nope" and "Yep" in your conversation when you mean "No" or "Yes."

If Boston is going to sustain its reputation as the Athens of America, it must quit the use of these barbarisms, according to Jeremiah E. Burke, new superintendent of Boston schools.

It is more in accordance with Boston culture to say something like "This is Mr. Smith talking; with whom am I conversing?"

"There are many words," Superintendent Burke says, "which may be used in place of that moth-eaten, undignified and impolite word 'Hello.' Its use is condemned in Boston schools, particularly in classes in safety where knowledge of dignified and grammatical English is essential.

"There is no excuse for the use of 'Nope' and 'Yep' in conversation. I believe that if Boston school children will check themselves in their use, parents at home will gradually dispense with their use.

"My advice to the children in Boston schools is:

"Don't be slovenly in the use of English. Slovenliness is the result of habit, and once tolerated, it is likely to cling to all of us until mature life."—Boston American.

ETIQUETTE THAT SEEMS ODD

Table Manners at the Time of Chaucer Were of a Decidedly Primitive Character.

Table manners at the time of Chaucer were described in a lecture by Kenneth Hare, author and poet, on "A Holiday in London in the Days of Chaucer." Etiquette in those days (the latter half of the Fourteenth century) demanded that meat should be held between two fingers and a thumb of the left hand, and no more, if one was to be received in polite society.

After soup, pike roasted in claret and flavored with strange and varied spices was eaten. Then followed partridge roasted with saffron, cloves and ginger, and jam tarts and jelly.

It was the custom to change the cloth with the courses, and one read of one feast in which each new cloth was scented with a perfume appropriate to the dish. In Chaucer's day the bath in construction was not unlike a miniature pulpit, and a bouquet of sweet scented herbs was hung over it for the stream to draw out their refreshing qualities.

The Man in the Moon.

Observations made from August, 1920, to February, 1921, by Prof. William Henry Pickering of Harvard, who is one of the world's leading astronomers and an authority on lunar and Martian phenomena, tend, he asserts, to prove beyond doubt that life exists on the surface of the moon.

Only Fat Girls in His Office.

"I have found one employer whose 'bug' in hiring folks for his office is worse than the idea against bobbed heads and short skirts," lamented a young woman who was weary with hunting work.

"And what's that?"

"He won't hire any one—male or female—unless he has a fat, healthy, well-fed, well-cared-for look. I was talking to the girl who lets applicants in to see the boss. She was real sweet and kind and she told me I might as well not go in. I asked her why, and she confided to me that I was too pale, too delicate looking. This girl thinks it is just because he is known as an old tightwad and is selfish, and he doesn't want it said of him that even his office people look pinched and pale and ill-treated."—New York Sun.

A Day Dream.

"That was a smooth stock salesman in here just now."

"He was, indeed," said Mr. Dubwalte. "He hadn't been talking five minutes before I saw myself stepping briskly into a bank to deposit a few hundred thousand dollars, then strolling around to my tailor to order a winter outfit of a dozen suits and making an engagement with a friend of mine in the motor business to look at the fall styles in limousines."

"What happened next?"

"Oh, I woke up, glancing hastily about to see if I was still sitting in the little old office and wished him 'good morning.'"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

AN APPRECIATION

We take this as one method of expressing our heartfelt gratitude to the people of Portales for their kindness and help during the illness and death of our little son. We appreciate the floral gifts, the funeral address, the songs, those who sat by his bedside, those who waited upon him, every offer to assist (of which there was a countless number) and every kind word spoken.

And though we should live many years in many places we shall never forget Portales and the Portales people who have been so kind to us here. Signed, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Arrant.
