In Texas near Waco they had some cyclone watching from the square, *\- * dreus stunts. But these are all for the present. But down in pretty hard. You later gardens were beds were put out of order and damaged with bearing strawberries. The entire trip was on the Portales route as they pass through town — but we must not mention it or another thing that must be kept a secret. An outsider might ask why it was not paved and ditches another thing that we could not have for the mover's or for any reason.

Some outsider will get a bad impression of the town. It is all for the good frog pond—and it comes in, as we fully realize the tremendous accuracy, and fresh drugs. The loss of those killed in the cyclone cannot be replaced. The world's Mothers! The nation's Mothers! Attend this service without fail.

That Intangible Something

BACK of the Telephone there is something intangible—something invisible—something without which the instrument itself would be of little value.

It is something wrought into every unit of telephone equipment—something which pervades the atmosphere of the central exchanges and of the administrative offices. It is something which animates and gives spirit to the personnel of the employe body, out of which emanates efficiency, courtesy and a genuine desire to please.
