

KING EDWARD ASSASSINATION FOILED

Father Coughlin Joins Forces With Townsend

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

Familiar faces to Cisco today were those of Mr. and Mrs. Mitt Williams, now of Kingsville, Texas, where Mr. Williams is manager of the J. C. Penney Co. store. Mitt was for a long time boss of the Cisco store. He was transferred to the south Texas city on the 30th day of September, 1935. On their vacation, they were headed north, Mitt to visit his people at Electra and Mrs. Williams to go on to Fayetteville, Ark., to be with her own.

Kingsville is in the domain of the last big cattle barons of Texas. You will recall the publicity some time ago about the difficulty which was experienced in running a state highway through the county of Kennedy, which is, or was, a closely held principality of the King and Kleberg families, fenced about and kept as jealously free of trespassers as some of those puffed up little nations of fictitious feudalism. It was just a part of a big ranch, and so far as county designation is concerned merely a question of legal description. A few months back, however, there was evidence of a breaking up of this exclusiveness and the disintegration of the little kingdom. The county was partitioned among the heirs of the family. Now we shall probably hear of intra-family scraps and feuds which will further destroy the traditional solidarity of the original clan.

Mitt and Mrs. Mitt were looking mighty well. The country quite evidently agrees with them, although it seems a mighty far piece to have to come to renew an acquaintanceship that was pleasant.

The question of black wasps arose at the early morning swimming conference today and Mr. Downey, who comes from somewhere north of the Mason and Dixon line, inquired as to their lethal qualities.

The insects' nest along the shores of Lake Cisco, attaching their paper houses to overhanging branches and guarding them with a jealous regard for the rights of privacy and property. It is reported that fishing parties, boating along the edge of the Lake have carelessly brushed along these domiciles. When the explosion and scatteration was over members of the party gathered themselves out of the water with the utmost respect for the democratic system of private ownership and initiative.

"When one of those babies sits down on you," the inquisitive Mr. Downey was informed, "it feels like you had taken hold of a West Texas Utilities company high line."

Mysterious lights often observed on the slopes of Mauna Loa volcano, on the island of Hawaii, are attributed to minor outbreaks of molten lava.

Cisco Scouts Are At Billy Gibbons For Annual Camp

By LIVIUS LANKFORD Daily Press Staff

CAMP BILLY GIBBONS, July 16.—As a hundred or so scouts over the Comanche trail area gathered together in the early hours of the morning to embark on an adventure, and anxious and excited group of scouts and scouters met at the First Methodist church at Cisco Wednesday morning in preparation to leave on a one week camping trip to Camp Billy Gibbons, 123 miles south of Cisco on the San Saba river and the Brady creek.

Police arrested the would-be assailant and charged him with violating the firearms act. They announced that a loaded revolver "fell in the roadway between the king and the troops that were following him."

Some witnesses said that the suspect actually aimed the gun at the king but that a "woman in grey" knocked it from his hand.

Police said that the man's name was George Andrew Mahon and that he was a newspaperman. He said his act was only a protest and exclaimed, "I didn't want to hurt him."

The prisoner was taken to the Bow street station where he was remanded for eight days.

He urged the members of the club to assist the college in every possible way to insure its success.

Rev. Mr. Applewhite, at the suggestion of Dr. J. Stuart Pearce, reported that the Presbyterian young people's encampment which closed here Wednesday was the most successful of any that has been conducted over the seven years of the encampment's existence. He said that the attendance was secured without publicity, no advertising having been done because the facilities had not been secured to take care of the number who would have responded.

Increase in Sales Of Automobiles Seen

AUSTIN, July 16. (Spl.)—An increase of sales of new automobiles in Texas during June over the preceding month and the like month last year is reported by the University of Texas bureau of business research. Reports from 15 representative Texas counties show a total of 8,226 sales, an increase of 33 per cent over May and 64 per cent over June, 1935. Aggregate sales in these counties during the first half year were 38,751, an increase of 23 per cent over the corresponding period last year. The percentage increase in sales of the lowest price group during June over the two comparable periods was greater than the percentage increase of all groups combined. For many months past, the lowest price group had been making relatively the poorest showing.

Cisco Daily Press Ambassadors Find Cisco Country Crops "In the Pink"

By R. W. H. KENNON

A trip last Friday into the South Cisco area, revealed that the recent rains have been just what the corn and feed crops needed. I told the Cisco Press readers, in the past that if we could have a good rain during the first days of July the farmers of the South Cisco country would make the biggest corn crop seen in this section in many years.

The rain came in due season, and corn and feed crops never stopped growing—it just faired off long enough to permit the farmers to harvest and thresh their wheat—which, by the way, is turning out much better than anticipated. Oats are a little shy of expectations, owing to the continued drouth and late freeze, but corn, maize, and the grain sorghums never suffered a day from the dry spell.

Bud Carmichael

Driving over the country south of Cisco, Friday, our first stop was at the farm of Bud Carmichael, just this side of the Lee Leiseke farm, but as we expected, Bud was not at home. He was in the field, with three two-horse cultivators, where he and two of his farm boys were "running around" a field of young hegari, planted on cut stubble.

Bud Carmichael's hegari was young, and had not attained that growth indicative of the name.

However, just south of Bud Carmichael's farm is that of Lee Leiseke's where the hegari is higher than a man's head and as thick as the teeth in a fine tooth comb. It is all headed out, of a dark green color, with heads well matured and nearly ready for the harvest. This crop alone will make more than Leiseke has barns in which to house it. Lee was out in the field plowing, and we failed to contact him. Mrs. Leiseke said their corn was the best ever grown on the farm, and had never suffered a day from lack of moisture.

20 Bushels of Wheat

We spent some little time talking with Bud Carmichael while he was letting his team rest at the end of the rows. He told us that he had 50 acres in wheat which had yielded around 20 bushels to the acre, and his other crops were most promising.

Speaking of his friend and neighbor, Lee Leiseke, Bud said that Lee was a friend to be cherished, a good citizen, and an A-1 farmer, provided he could get some one else to do the work.

But I fear that Bud was mistaken about Lee, who is a man of family, and we found that Mrs. Leiseke had Lee at work when we reached his home. He may like to have others to do the work while he directs, but Friday, it seemed, that Mrs. Leiseke was the doctor, and had induced him to take over the plowing, which he was doing, maybe, for the reason there were none others to do it. But he was working, any way, and both he and Carmichael have splendid crops to show for the labor and time they have expended in cultivating them.

Crops Are Fine

We drove out near Atwell, and on every farm, except in spots of thin hill-side lands, the crops were uniformly fine. Corn, green from tassel to roots, with two and three large ears to the stalk. Feed crops were the same everywhere, and on many of the farms the hay and feed crops have been mowed and ready for the barn or to be stacked. And along the roadways the Johnson grass was as high as a man's head, which caused me to think it would be unnecessary to plant hay crops, as any of those farmers could run a mower and rake along the sides of the roads and save enough Johnson grass hay to feed their stock all winter.

Cotton is looking in the pink of condition and growing fine, but the farmers told me that already the boll weevil is putting his bill into the squares, and the indications are these pests will beat the pickers to the open bolls this fall, otherwise a bumper cotton yield would be harvested. This is generally regretted, as the staple is selling now around 13 cents, and this price, if a good crop will have been raised, would go a long way toward lifting the Cisco farmer out of the slough of depression to the high ground of prosperity.

Cisco Firemen At Short Course For This Week

Fire Chief J. J. Collins and R. L. Garrett, truck driver, will leave Sunday afternoon for College Station and the state firemen's school, to take instruction with other fire department officials and employees of Texas for a period of several days.

It is the custom of the Cisco department to send one officer and one paid man to those schools. It was Assistant Chief Noah Fowler's time to go this year, but business prevented him, so Chief Collins will go.

The city receives a three per cent credit on its fire insurance rate for attendance on the school. This amounts to around $1,000 a year to Cisco property owners. Cost of attending the school is $50, including meals, lodging and transportation.

The instruction begins at 7 a. m. Monday. Chief Collins will take a general course and Mr. Garrett will take special instruction in automobile pumping equipment operation.

The Judge's Corner

By R. W. H. KENNON

EDITOR'S NOTE—Opinions expressed in this column are the personal ones of the "Judge" and do not necessarily reflect the editorial policy of the Cisco Daily Press. The writer is a member of the staff of the Press and the column is published because of its interesting and incisive comments on issues and news of the day by a journalist of the "old school."

40 YEARS TO GROW A TREE 40 MINUTES TO KILL IT

I am reminded of the little story that was taught in one of the early school readers: "Woodman, spare that tree," when ever I see a tree cut. Bringing to mind this story was the cutting of the two mulberry trees, on the Mayhew lot, corner of Broadway and E avenue, where the new service station is now being erected.

I hate to see a tree cut in any town, especially in West Texas, where trees are not common, and have to be nurtured and tended to make what shade we have.

One can fell a tree in less than 40 minutes, but it takes 40 years to make a tree.

These mulberry trees were about 42 years of age, according to Bill Mayhew, who said they were about six years old when he came to Cisco with his parents, the late Aaron Mayhew and Mrs. Mayhew, in 1900. At that time they were the prospective shade for the old Cisco hotel, then owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Harrell, parents of our own fellow-townsmen, F. E. Harrell. These trees were mere saplings then, Bill Mayhew said, but many of the men and women of Cisco have since been protected from the evening sun under their shady boughs.

But trees, like buildings that have been out-moded, have to be sacrificed in the path of progress. A new and modern filling station is being erected on that corner for the Humble Oil & Refining Co., and these friendly shade trees were directly in front of the new station, and of course had to be felled. While realizing the necessity of their removal that progress may not be retarded, nevertheless, the necessity for their destruction is a matter of regret.

But we will forget the friendly protecting boughs of the two mulberry trees when the handsome service station, now being erected, is complete, for this new building will enhance the attractiveness of that corner, another evidence of the progressive spirit that prompted the erection of the Humble Service station, which will be in charge of W. V. Alsbrook, who will carry in stock the products of the Humble Oil & Refining Co. and the usual automobile accessories, of course.

The Cisco Lumber and Supply company have the contract to build this service station, and Ed Dolgener is superintending its construction. A. Elder is doing the concrete work, while Theodore McCoy is laying the brick in the building.

IT WAS CAKE, INSTEAD OF FLOWERS, TO JUDGE

It was cake, instead of flowers for the living that came to gladden the Judge's Corner Thursday, when we were pleased with a most delightful visit from Mrs. Sarah Meredith, wife of R. D. Meredith, Moran pioneer oil man. Mrs. Meredith was accompanied by Mrs. C. C. Cady, and those ladies brightened the Judge's Corner for an half hour in most pleasant conversation.

But the compliment, for indeed it was, when Mrs. Meredith announced she had brought the Judge an Angel Food cake, of her own baking. It proved to be a most delicious confection, as light as a snow-flake, and of purest whiteness. Certainly the Judge enjoyed this gastronomic treat, both for its superior construction as well as the kind remembrance of this gracious woman.

Mrs. Meredith announced that she has recently been named chairman of the 17th congressional district for introducing the Democratic Digest, a monthly political magazine, from the subscription of which funds will be raised to supplement the national democratic campaign fund. She will name county and precinct chairmen over the district to get subscriptions for this magazine, by which Chairman Farley hopes to raise about $750,000.

Mrs. Meredith was runner-up candidate in the preferential primary for postmaster at Moran.

Mrs. Meredith takes quite an interest in the elections as they come off every two years, and always has the courage to support her favorite by distributing literature and importuning her friends to support the man whose cause she espouses. Two years ago she was a militant partisan of Hon.

Chesterfield

Wins

...because it has the right kind of Turkish tobacco in it

Turkish tobacco is expensive—that's true—every pound has to be imported 4000 miles.

But it's one of the biggest reasons why Chesterfields taste better.

It's another reason why you'll like the aroma—it's more pleasing and fragrant—the Turkish in Chesterfield is another reason why Chesterfield wins.

Aged Atwell Citizen, J. T. Blackwell, Remembers Capture of Cynthia Parker

By R. W. H. KENNON
The company with W. D. Brecht, the mechanical superintendent of the Cisco Daily Press, and E. Notgrass, whom we impressed as we passed through Nimrod Friday, we called upon another of the pioneer settlers of this part of Texas, John Thomas Blackwell, who is also a native Texan, and who has been born in Anderson county near Palestine, on the Brazos river, July 19, 1854. He will celebrate his 82d birthday next Sunday.

Mr. Blackwell is living with his daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blackwell, near Atwell on the line of Callahan and England counties.

Speaking of his life Mr. Blackwell said:
"I never borrowed any money from a bank, never was sued, never paid a fine in my life, or never paid a note except for land purchased."

"I enjoyed the story the Cisco Daily Press published recently of my old friend, W. W. Foster, and I have been friends for many years."

Never Had an Enemy
"I am now nearing my 82d birthday, and so far as I know, I never had an enemy. Looking back in the time when I was a young man, and comparing those days with the present, I believe we had more fun and enjoyed life more than the young people of these times. Of course we did not have as much to amuse us, such as the movies, radios, automobiles, etc., but we rode horseback to the games, fiddled and enjoyed ourselves to the fullest. I think, too, the boys had more respect for the girls and women than is now apparent. Although saloons were in every town, and most of the men drank to a certain extent, the boys, when I was young, kept sober when they went among the girls or grown women. They knew if they showed up under the influence of liquor the girls wouldn't have anything to do with them."

"But it seemed that quite a change has taken place, as I understand many of the girls now won't refuse a drink. In the old days I believe the boys had more respect for the women than they do now. Then you never heard a boy or man make disparaging remarks about any woman and if one would so far forget himself to do so, some man or boy would call his hand."

"I have always played a fiddle, and can still draw a pretty neat bow across the fiddle strings. I used to play for the dances, and sometimes one of the boys would offer me a drink, but I always refused, as I never mixed my music with booze. After the party broke up I might take a drink occasionally, as I would be pretty tired, and felt that a small drink would me up a bit."

Babe Nursed Dead Mother
"My parents moved to Jack county when I was about 10 years old, and there were plenty of the Indians there at that time. The Indians scalped and killed a family in Lost Valley, north of Jack county, and when the neighbors found them the baby was crawling around the dead bodies, and was nursing its dead mother. The Indians killed two families on that raid, and at one home they ripped open the feather beds and scattered the feathers all over the yards.

"We later lived in Johnson county, but that section was pretty well civilized and we were not bothered by the Indians.

"Leaving Jack county we moved to Parker county, and then to Coleman county, where we were not bothered by the Indians until the Civil war. Going there we camped on the Leon, and the next morning we saw the signs of the Indians' camp fire about a quarter of a mile from our camp. When we went to look after our horses an old skin and bones horse was staked where one of our party, Haywood Hunter, had staked his horse, and three of his horses were missing. Haywood was a brother of Bill Hunter, who now lives in Santa Anna. But the Indians did not molest us, as they knew we were pretty well armed, and also, they were more interested in stealing the horses than they were in our scalps. They were mostly on stealing raids, and they rarely ever attacked the immigrants. But when they went on the war path, and put on their war paint, we expected trouble, and the new settlers were in danger."

Played With Indians' Head
"The next morning when we were breaking camp we saw the smoke from their signal fires, and saw other signals further on, as they were made and responded to."

"In Coleman county, near Echo, there was a company of soldiers stationed at Coleman Post, who killed two Indian bucks. These were dressed in the finest Indian apparel, with beaded work all over their clothes, and otherwise elaborately decorated. The soldiers cut off their heads, and the children of the settlers dragged these heads around as playthings. Coleman Post was located about 10 miles east of where the town of Coleman is now located, but there was no settlement there then."

"Turkey, antelope and deer were plentiful all over this section, and we had all the turkey we could eat."

"I was then very fond of turkey gizzards. My father killed 13 of the birds one time, and my mother cooked the gizzards of those 13 turkeys for me. I don't remember how many I ate, but right there I lost my appetite for turkey gizzards, and I have never cared for them since that day. Now, I am a firm believer in 13 being an omen of bad luck."

"There were nothing but ranches in this section of Texas at that time. Rufe Weddington, the Blackwell's, John and Jim Heyser and Captain Elkins, whose four sons, live in Coleman, owned cattle in this section."

"My first experience in the cow business was when I was about 11 years old, wearing a pair of brass-toed boots, and thought I could ride anything that wore hair. We kids would ride the wildest horses on the range, and when the pony would throw one of the boys another would mount him, and we would ride and quit that pony until he was as gentle as a brood mare."

No Roads or Bridges
"There were no roads or bridges in West Texas then. Just a sort of path, or cow trail, but there were no underbrush of consequence, and we could drive most anywhere, as very little of the land was fenced. Game was plentiful, and the streams and water holes were full of fish. A cousin of mine caught a hundred pound yellow cat out of the Jim Ned creek one day. He was unable to land it alone, and my father and uncle helped to bring it out. We made our fishing lines, saddle girths and bridles out of hair from cows' tails. They were not very pretty, but nothing could break them, and the fish lines would hold any size fish."

Groesbeck Nearest Market
"Groesbeck was our nearest market. We would drive a bunch of fat steers there and trade them for what supplies we needed, and often be gone on the trip for six weeks. We had practically no coffee, but parched rye grain and burned molasses which we used as a substitute for coffee."

"Most of our clothes were made of buckskin. My father would kill the bucks and dress the hides and we boys would rub and work these hides and make them soft and pliable, then our mother would make suits of clothes out of them."

"We attended the post school at Coleman Post, as did the Tonkawa Indian children. We used to play poker with the Tonkawa Indian boys, betting our school lunches against the Indian boys' bows and arrows. Sometimes we would win the arrows, and sometimes we would go hungry, having lost our lunches."

"Pecans and other mast was plentiful, but there was no market for them and we only gathered such pecans as we wanted to eat. Turkeys, squirrels and other game kept fat on them."

Raw Hide Shoes

"I owned my first pair of shoes when I was about 10 years old, and they were made of raw hide by my father, who made the shoes for the family, and the harness he used for the teams, saddles, etc. We boys would wade the water holes and creeks with our shoes on, and after drying we could not get them on the next morning unless we had soaked them in water all night to make them soft enough to put on."

"About the only rains we had in the early days came in the spring, and this moisture was enough to bring up the mesquite grass, which grew six or seven inches, and kept the cattle fat the rest of the year."

The Texas Northerners

"Those were the days of the old Texas northerners. Nowadays we don't know anything about cold northerners, compared to those we endured. A day might be fair and balmy, but often would be turned into bitter cold. Suddenly the air would be filled with the smell of powder and brimstone, the cattle would stampeed and rush for the brakes for protection, and soon the norther would break, and a fellow would mighty near freeze, unless he carried a slicker or blanket, before he could get to shelter."

"When we lived in Johnson county prairie chickens were plentiful. We boys used to kill them with rocks."

"Bob white quail came to West Texas after the Civil war. Previous to that time there were none in this part of the state. They came in at a later day. As these birds seem to have left in recent years leads me to think they belong to the migratory species. There were some blue quail, but no bob whites."

First to Run a Furrow

"There were no farming being done when we first came to Coleman county, and my father was the first man to run a furrow in that county. He cleared off about five acres of land and planted it in corn. We raised a few nubbins, of course, but no real corn, compared to the splendid crops promised from the present prospects."

Capture of Cynthia Ann Parker

"Captain John Elkins, of the Coleman Post, assisted in the capture of Cynthia Ann Parker, the white mother of Quannah Parker, who afterwards became chief of the Comanche Indians, a band of savages that made forays into Texas and on the Mexican border. Elkins and a squad of soldiers had engaged the Indians, and they saw this woman trying to escape, and one of the soldiers was about to shoot her, when Captain Elkins ordered him not to, saying, "I believe she is white." They captured her and her papoose, who was wrapped in a buffalo hide. That papoose was afterwards known as Quannah Parker, chief of the Comanches, and for whom the town of Quannah, Texas, is named.

"Captain Elkins died November 4, 1932, at the age of 92 years, at his ranch on the Jim Ned."

Bees Came Later

"There were no bees in this country in the early days. The first bees were introduced in Callahan county about 40 years ago."

"My father-in-law, who was one of the grand jurors of Coleman county and early court jurisprudence was a subject that many commented upon later. At times the petit juries would take exceptions at the judge's rulings, and the jury would arraign the court, and find him guilty, assessing his penalty at a fine of a quart of whiskey for the jury, and they made him pay. The saloon then was a barrel of whiskey on an ox wagon. The judge would pay the fine by going out and buying the whiskey from the peddler."

Likes to Fish

Mr. Blackwell is still quite a sportsman, his weakness being fishing, and he often goes down on the Jim Ned, where he spends several weeks enjoying the sport. He is also quite an expert bee hunter, and when he gets on a bee trail he generally hives the colony and brings it to his apiary, in which he now has seven colonies."

Mr. Blackwell is also an old-time fiddler, and has participated in many old fiddlers' contests. He said he was never beaten but twice. Once a woman won first place in the contest, according to the judges' decision, which he said was chivalry; and again he lost by the first man to run a furrow in that county. He cleared off about five acres of land and planted it in corn. We raised a few nubbins, of course, but no real corn, compared to the splendid crops promised from the present prospects."

"In the early days lumber was not to be had, and we built our houses of logs, many of which only had dirt floors. Later we floored them with puncheons, which we rived from logs into thin slabs or boards. These also constituted the covering for the houses," he said.

"Yes, I remember the spring round-ups the cattle men used to have. They were generally held about where Cisco's big dam and lake is now located. Cattle men from all over this section would join in these round-ups of their cattle, many of which would drift during the winter for 100 miles. Every brand belonging in this section was thrown in the herd and driven back here, where each rancher would cut his brands and drive them to his home range. And they would make a real feast day of those round-ups, as a special cook would be employed, and the best the land afforded was used in the meals this cook would prepare," he stated.

Came Here in 1898

Although Mr. Blackwell did not move to Eastland county until 1898, he has lived in Coleman county and other parts of west central Texas most of his life, and is, therefore, one of the pioneers of this part of the state."

John Thomas Blackwell and Fannie E. Jackson were married in Johnson county, February 3, 1876, and to this union eleven children were born, only three of whom are living. He said most of them lived to attain their majority, but all were specimens of health, but an epidemic of tubercular trouble caused the death of all except three. These are Robert Blackwell, with whom he makes his home near Atwell; Mrs. Lucy Turner, of Klondike, Arizona; and Mrs. Octavia Fenter, of Valley Mills, Texas.

Mrs. Blackwell died March 4, 1933, aged 65 years, after the family removed to Eastland county. She was buried in the old Haskell cemetery, near the Blackwell home.

Mr. Blackwell was the father of eleven children, eleven grandchildren and ten great grandchildren.

Floyd Cooper Funeral Rites Held Wednesday

Floyd Cooper, for many years cafe operator in Cisco, was found dead in bed Tuesday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. D. Carr, 1103 West Ninth street. He was 62 years old.

Funeral services were held in Oakwood cemetery Wednesday morning at 10:30 with Rev. C. S. Tyndall of the Church of God and David F. Tyndall of the First Christian church officiating. Mrs. Carr's home had charge of the body.

Survivors

Mr. Cooper was married three times. His first wife was the mother of all four of his children, Robert, Hayden, Floyd, Jr., and Mrs. M. Carr, all except Robert, are living in Cisco. Robert is in Eagle Pass. There are two brothers, Albert and George, who live in Cisco. Mr. Cooper's first Mrs. Cooper was Miss Gregory, who died several years ago. His last wife was Mrs. Beasly, a widow, who died last year.

Calf-Owner Boys Guests at Luncheon

EASTLAND, July 16.—As guests of the Eastland Rotary-Lion clubs' joint luncheon Monday were the nine 4-H club boys who received nine Jersey heifers from C. N. Pearce and Dr. Jack Skiles, Jersey breeders of Denton county, who were also guests at the luncheon.

Established Cafe

Mr. Cooper engaged in the cafe business when a young man and established the Cooper cafe, which has been in the Cooper family continuously since except while the business was conducted from 1926 to 1935, as he sold the business and name to R. W. Kirshner, who disposed of the cafe to Hayden Cooper, his son, from whom he acquired the business last year.

which he and his son, Floyd, have operated up to the time of his death.

Mr. Cooper was fond of hunting, and once every year including last winter, he has enjoyed his annual deer hunt, and being a splendid marksman, always bagged his limit.

During his long continuous operation of his cafe, it is probable that he was one of the most widely known men in this part of West Texas, as many of the old-timers were his guests, and when one of these old citizens pass through Cisco they always hunted up Floyd Cooper at meal times.

Burial was in Oakwood cemetery Wednesday morning, in charge of the Green Funeral home.

Hundreds of friends of the deceased gathered at the graveside to pay their last tribute to one of Cisco's earliest citizens, many of whom manifested their friendship in the rare flowers, which literally covered the mound where sleeps the remains of Floyd Cooper.

The pall bearers were selected from some of his life-long friends, and were Joe Wilson, R. W. Mancill, Homer McDonald, Ed Aycock, R. L. Wilson and Bill Ernest.

Campaign For Edison Funds Opens Friday

H. L. Dyer, chairman of the junior chamber of commerce drive committee for the Edison Memorial Campaign, has announced that a one-day canvass will be made by four teams of Jaycees beginning at 8 o'clock Friday morning to raise Cisco's quota of the memorial fund.

This fund will be raised to establish a foundation to finance 100 scholarships annually for young men and women who show special aptitudes in the field of science. This character of memorial is designed to perpetuate the Edison influence in the field of invention and research and, perhaps, to discover a worthy successor to the great inventor.

Four Groups

Each of the four sections will be under a captain and each of the four will be given an equal number of merchants and individuals to see.

Contributions of from five cents up will be accepted. "We are especially anxious that every family in Cisco be represented by some form of contribution to the fund," said Mr. Dyer. "It is not so much the size of the donation, but the number of contributors that counts."

Low Prices For Attractions At The Centennial

(Special to The Daily Press)

DALLAS, Tex., July 16.—One of the outstanding features of the Texas centennial exposition's amusement zone is the low scale of prevailing prices for the many attractions as well as the eating establishments. A recent check of the grounds and admission charges revealed that an adult can visit eighteen of the leading attractions on the grounds for less than six dollars. This included the fifty-cent general admission price to the exposition itself.

The majority of the shows throughout the exposition have a twenty-five cent top price. This includes streets of Paris, streets of all nations, little America, black forest, midwest city and many others. Shows with a forty-cent admission charge are limited in number and are chiefly confined to the legitimate theatrical presentations where production costs are higher. In this group are "Cavalcade of Texas," the exposition's quarter of a million dollar dramatic pageant, and during the first half year, and during the first half were 24.3 per cent under the first six months of last year.

Soft drinks and double-dip cones are a nickel at the many refreshment stands, hot dogs and hamburgers a dime and hearty plate dinners start at thirty-five cents. Rest rooms are free and in most of the attractions the patron is invited to stay as long as he

The exposition's survey revealed that two adults can spend twelve hours, eat two meals and have a whale of a lot of fun for $10. The public is a product of the printing press, believes Gabriel de Tarde, the French sociologist and criminologist.

Moore Quits As Ranger Coach To Take Sinton Job

RANGER, July 16.—Otis M. Moore, for the past two years head coach of the Ranger high school football and basketball teams, has tendered his resignation to take effect immediately, as announced Tuesday by F. P. Schier, chairman of the athletic committee of the Ranger school board, to whom the resignation was given.

No action has been taken by the school board upon the resignation, though it was believed that the board would probably meet tonight.

In making his resignation known Moore stated that he had signed a contract to be head coach of the Sinton high school football team, and as teacher of mathematics in the Sinton school.

Moore came to Ranger from Snyder, where he had been unusually successful as a football, basketball and track coach, and resumed his duties as head coach during the last of three phenomenal football years for the Ranger High School Bulldogs.

During the 1934 season the football team he coached won the district title without losing a game and scored a total of 185 points in district play against 21 points for the opponents of the Bulldogs.

The 1935 season, however, was not as successful for the Bulldogs, who finished the season without a win.

Lax Methods Of Business Charged By W.H. McDonald

DALLAS, July 16.—Procedure inconsistent with good business practice in the leasing of Galveston Bay was charged here by William H. McDonald of Eastland, candidate for state land commissioner.

"Some leases were given to bidders offering the most in cash; other leases were awarded to those bidding the most in cash and oil, mainly oil, which would be paid only if oil was found and in large enough quantities.

"When the state land office decided to lease the bay for drilling, the officials should have adopted a uniform course. If they believed the waters covered a large store of oil, they should have accepted the largest combination cash-and-oil offers. But if they were not sure that oil was there, they should have taken the offers that meant the most cash on the barrel-head.

"Such haphazard methods make possible the practice of favoritism the importance of having at the head of the department a man who has had practical business experience and who has an understanding of the oil industry."

Small Farmers Show Increase In Their Livestock

EASTLAND, July 16.—An increase in the amount of livestock owned by low-income farmers is one result of the first year's work of the resettlement administration, which ended with the month of June. Lane, county supervisor, covering the period to May 31, show that resettlement borrowers in Eastland county purchased 311 horses and 77 mules, 147 dairy cattle, 192 hogs, and 2,335 chickens.

These livestock purchases accounted for $49,736 of the $151,846 loaned in this county. The loans were made to 309 families, of which 305 were white. They included 1,629 persons. The average loan was $459 per family. Loans for machinery totalled $4,976, harness, $372, food $40,024, clothing $1,063, feed for livestock $10,233, seed $9,707.

...you'd find Sinclair Motor Oils already in the making. The crude oils used in their manufacture were even then being put through Nature's priceless mellowing process.

Generally speaking, the longer a crude has been mellowing and filtering in the earth, the tougher the lubricating film it will provide. Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oils each give a lubricating film that is ten times tougher than your engine normally requires.

Swine and Truck Farming Profitable

TYLER, July 16, (Spl.) — Inez Leonard Meyer, 4-H club boy of the Birdville community in Tarrant county, has proven that profitable swine raising can be carried on in connection with truck farming, reports J. O. Woodman, assistant county agricultural agent.

Leonard has raised swine principally on the unsalable products from his father's truck farm for three years.

In 1933, when hogs were low in price, Leonard's books showed a profit of $30 on two Poland China hogs that weighed a total of over 600 pounds when sold.

SANDERFORD FOR GOVERNOR

To the People of Texas:

In announcing my candidacy for Governor subject to the Democratic Primary, July, 1936, I wish to make the following statement:

I am a native of Bell county, Texas, and am in my 41st year. I have had fair educational advantages in the common schools, Nedomeyer's Academy, from which I graduated in 1914, and was for two years a student in Baylor University of Waco. I taught a rural school for one year. In the fall of 1917, I voluntarily enlisted for flying duty in the United States Air Corps in which capacity I served for 21 months.

I am married and have three children, all within the scholastic age. I have been a member of the Baptist church for over twenty years. I served for two terms as tax collector of Bell county and have been in the automobile and associate business continuously since 1923. I am not a lawyer. I was elected to the State Senate from the 21st district over two worthy opponents in the first primary in July, 1932.

When I am elected I shall respect the constitutional rights of the people to have a governor who will stay on the job, cooperate with the legislature and will neither squander the people's time nor abuse the opportunity for service by continually engaging in social, political and pleasurable affairs. I will not use the powers of the office to place my relatives on government payrolls.

I favor: First. A substantial reduction of government expenses and where conditions will justify I shall, if necessary, use the veto power to reduce appropriations twenty-five per cent. Second. A three per cent retail sales tax for the purpose of paying the Old Age Pension and to take the place of the present real estate taxes for general revenue, schools and Confederate Pensions.

Third. I am opposed to any state income tax, as the Federal Government has already preempted the income tax field. It would be a wise state policy to prohibit enactment of such a tax by constitutional amendment. This would invite new capital to our state, result in the development of industry and the employment of more labor than perhaps any other one thing that could be done.

Fourth. I favor a graduated land tax for county purposes, beginning with small valuations. This will increase opportunities for home ownership and tend to discourage the holding of large tracts of land for speculative purposes. The Federal Government while loaning millions to banks, railroads, insurance companies, towns, cities and counties, could render no greater service than to loan up to $3,000.00 at 1 1/2 per cent interest on 21 years' time, without down payment, to families with which to buy farm homes.

Fifth. I favor a reasonable chain store tax provided it treats everybody alike and does not exempt any special class of business.

Sixth. To promote employment, I favor a constitutional amendment exempting from taxation all textile, leather, paper and woolen mills, and other similar factories for a period of twenty years that have 50 or more employees.

Seventh. I favor the right of suffrage being extended to any citizen on the payment of a small registration fee in lieu of our present poll tax.

Eighth. I subscribe wholly to the principles of local self-government with the enforcement of all laws administered honestly by local authorities and with the backing of the state government.

Ninth. I believe that labor has the inherent right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of its own choosing. Tenth. Since the people of Texas have voted repeal, I favor the passage of such laws as will insure strict regulation of the liquor traffic and reduce the evils of this trade to a minimum.

I am the only candidate that can beat Alford in the runoff. Hunter has lost twice and Fischer is unknown, incompetent and is an oil millionaire.

ROY SANDERFORD.

DEATH CRASH SHOWS BOGUS COINS IN CAR

Officers this week believed they had ended a two-year search for a counterfeiting ring operating in this area with the arrest of two men after an automobile crash on the Eastland-Cisco highway July 2 which took the life of one man.

Bonds of $1,000 each were set for the two men, J. A. Wheat of Eastland and Jess Williams of Moran, upon arraignment before Ida M. James, United States commissioner at Abilene.

Counterfeit 50-cent pieces were found in the car of Marvin Patterson, 22, who was killed in a crash with a car driven by Ranger negroes. Officials reported that they had contacted John McGrath, U. S. secret service agent in the treasury department at Dallas.

Statement Obtained

McGrath came to Eastland and obtained a statement from a relative of the Eastland man charged in the federal court, it was revealed.

After a visit to Moran the charges were filed in Abilene. Wheat and Williams were charged with making and possessing counterfeit 50-cent pieces.

Cisco police revealed this week that since the arrest of the two men more of the bogus coins had been reported to them. A number of them had been passed to Cisco business firms in recent months, it was revealed.

Good Imitations

The coins, all dated 1935, appear at a casual glance, when new, to be genuine American money, police said. As they become older, however, they begin to blacken, with the result that only the older ones are easy to detect.

Marvin Patterson was killed in a highway wreck July 2 in which seven others in his car and that of the Ranger negroes were injured. The occupants of the Moran car were brought to a Cisco hospital for treatment but were released shortly.
