WAR TENSION IN EUROPE DECREASES

Through the Editor's
Spectacles
By GEORGE

This section is strangely desolate today of football attraction. All Class A games in the high school division being played away from home. Even the Lobos have trekked out of the domestic lair and gone hunting Steers in Big Spring. The Eastland Mayericks travel to Abilene for a laing while the Breckenridge Buckaroos have gone all the way to Brownwood for a contest with the Lions that is more uncertain of outcome. Sweetwater, which defeated Brownwood 8 to 0 at a time when the Lions spirits were low because of the sudden loss of a couple of line stars, took the Lobos into camp 61 to 6 whereas the Breckenridge Buckaroos were able to achieve a victory of only 39 to 0. There is basis for some close figuring in those statistics.

At Fort Worth last Saturday afternoon I saw Mr. Baugh of the Froggies outpitch Mr. Roberts of the Porkers to the delight and amazement of some 10,000 more or less Fort Worth fans. It was an exciting game, but not so exciting, I thought, as some of the high school contests I have witnessed in the oil belt. Perhaps the difference exists in the more reasoned and deliberate character of play in college football.

In a game of so many passes, a good run is a standout. Such was the sparkling center of Roberts, Froggie back and, I believe, a product of Masonic home, who tucked the pigskin under an arm, charged straight through a hole in the right side of his line and executed an S-shaped route for a touchdown near the last of the game. The Porkers were expecting a pass and were spread against it. The play supports the argument that with a passer like Baugh the running game ought to be used more frequently.

The second Arkansas touchdown was taken in the attitude of prayer. The youngster who got the ball did not intend to have it so, but it was effective. He stumbled as he raced across the line before the goal posts, whirled on his knees and took Mr. Robbin's bullet toss right in the breadbasket while in this posture of genuflection. Trying to show how it occurred this morning in front of Garner's I attracted the curiosity of a number who were not certain whether I was playing marbles with myself or begging Bob Elliott and Wyatt Jacobs for life.

I wish whoever is going to build that fine brick home in Cisco would speak up. The suspense is getting as bad as the conjecture the report started.

Wealthy Lumberman Succumbs at Orange

ORANGE, Tex., Oct. 9. (AP)—William H. Stark, 85, millionaire industrialist, lumberman, and philanthropist, died here last night. He had extensive holding in East Texas and Louisiana.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Mr. Stark was the father of H. J. Latcher Stark, a member of the University of Texas board of regents. He was head of the Latcher and Moore Lumber company.

PRESIDENT IS NOT WORRIED, IOWA IS TOLD

Late Senator Murphy Praised; New Deal Is Up to People

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Oct. 9. (AP)—President Roosevelt opened his western campaign today with the declaration that he was not "worried" so long as the future conduct of the nation remained in the hands of the people.

The president said that "the great moral lesson pointing the direction our country most needs to go" was in an oration given by Father Sheehy at the funeral several months ago by Senator Murphy of Dubuque.

He quoted from the tribute that "dras" measures" necessary to meet social problems when Murphy took office, while some may have been unwise, the senator "couldn't stand idly by, and do nothing."

Meanwhile Governor Alf Landon, republican candidate, arrived at Chicago for one of his major addresses tonight.

Drunk Drunk-Curer 'Hurting Business'

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Oct. 9. (AP)—Ezra Seward, half-owner of an establishment for the cure of alcoholism, was arrested here on a charge of drunkenness on complaint of his partner, Mrs. E. G. Eaton, who told police Thursday that she will sign a complaint against him.

Mrs. Eaton complained to City Prosecutor Knowles her partner's recent periods of intoxication are hurting business.

Supervisor For Pensions Placed In West Texas

(Special to The Daily Press)
AUSTIN, Oct. 9. — Assignment of a supervisor of investigation for five West Texas districts of the Old Age Assistance Commission was announced today by W. A. Little, assistant director in charge of investigations.

The supervisor, Mrs. Charlie Thrasher of El Paso, will be stationed in San Angelo.

Dr. Hubert Seale On Program of Medicos

Dr. Hubert Seale appeared on the program at the Tri-County Medical society meeting in Breckenridge last night, reading a paper on "Injection Treatment of Heroin." The society is composed of the physicians and surgeons in the counties of Stephens, Shackelford and Throckmorton.

PTA Plans to Sponsor Junior Band for Cisco

Formation of a junior band sponsored by the Grammar School Parent-Teacher association and directed by Robert L. Maddox was announced today by the P.-T. A. "We hope to carry that out as our project for this year," Mrs. D. Ball, president of the organization, said today when questioned concerning the new band. MIDGETS WIN OVER PIONEER

Swamp Visitors 50 to 0 In Opener

The Cisco grammar school Midgets yesterday opened their 1936 football season with a 50 to 0 win over Pioneer on Chesley field.

Led by the powerful backs, Tip-ton and Johnson, the Midgets ran wild with a strong ground game and scored in every quarter. At the same time the Midgets showed the same stubborn defense which last year kept their goal line uncrossed.

For Pioneer Captain Ralph Huntington, diminutive quarterback, was the principal ground gainer and the outstanding defensive man, frequently coming in to stop the Midget drives.

Keeper Is Killed By Circus Elephant

BEAUMONT, Oct. 9. (AP)—Lee Roberti, 20, of Springfield, Mass., was crushed beneath the feet of Trilby, one-eyed female elephant with the Barnum and Bailey and Ringling Brothers Circus Thursday.

Witnesses said the elephant, startled, when Roberti approached to put a collar over its head, grabbed him with its trunk, threw him against the wall of the elephant car and, when he fell to the floor, placed its foot on his head.

Lawrence Davis, head elephant trainer, said the tragedy occurred when Roberti, in violation of circus rules, did not speak to the elephant before approaching it. Davis explained that elephants sleep standing up and workmen are taught to speak to the beasts to awaken them before coming near.

Hungarian Premier's Body Lies in State

BUDAPEST, Oct. 9. (AP)—The body of Julius Goemboes, premier of Hungary, who died Tuesday, lay in state in the parliament building today.

The funeral train bearing the body from the sanitarium in Germany where Goemboes died was met at the Austrian border by the premier's aged mother.

BUY MORE METERS

HOUSTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—Bids were received by city council Wednesday for the purchase of from 500 to 1,000 new parking meters for installation in the downtown area.

APPOINTMENT WITHDRAWN

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 9. Gov. Jas. V. Allred obtained permission of the Senate Wednesday to withdraw the name of L. H. Bridges of Luling as a director of the Guadalupe-Blanco River authority.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Proctor of Fort Worth were guests Thursday of Mrs. Proctor's aunt, Mrs. Joe Shackelford. They were en route to Abilene to attend the horse-show.

Freighter Jamed Off Golden Gate

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9. (AP)—A shipwreck within a stone's throw of a famous San Francisco landmark drew thousands of persons Thursday to the south shore of the Golden Gate, where the freighter Ohioan wedged itself between two rocks and apparently was losing a battle to survive.

The ship crashed into the fog-hidden rocks while trying to grope through the gate heads. Coast guardsmen threw three lines to it from a 250-foot cliff offering an ideal view of the sea and the rocky shore.

Cisco Farmers Win Centennial Exhibit Prizes

Cisco farmers ranked high in the farm exhibits at the Texas centennial livestock exposition, at Fort Worth, a check over the prize list today revealed.

Following are the Cisco winners: Grains: Hard wheat—J. C. Thurman, fourth; Red Rustproof oats—J. C. Thurman, fourth; Barley, J. C. Thurman, fourth; Red milo maize—W. D. Thurman, first; J. C. Wende, fourth.

House Passes Tax To Pay Pensions

AUSTIN, Oct. 9. (AP)—The house of representatives late Thursday passed and sent to the senate the Frazier James omnibus tax bill to raise revenues for old age pensions.

Sponsors estimated the proposal would provide approximately $8,000,000 more each year for pension payments.

It was altered considerably before the representatives tired of discussion and voted to bring the main question to an immediate vote. The important 27.5 per cent tax increases on oil, sulphur, natural gas, and utilities, however, were left unchanged.

Most of the revisions were eliminations of taxes contained in the original bill. The chief exception was addition of a tax of one cent each on cigars.

RUSSIA SAID SATISFIED AT SECRET MEET

27 Nations Studying Crisis at Charge Of Fascists' Work

LONDON, Oct. 9. (AP)—A Russian expression of "satisfaction" came today from the secret session of 27 European states pondering the grave continental crisis created by Moscow and Medrid charges that fascist assistance is being given to Spain's insurgents.

The Soviet representative said he was satisfied with proceedings at the meeting.

It was learned that already the Soviet, Italian, British, French, Belgian and German delegates had spoken.

Open Market Approved

In Edinburgh the British labor party's conference approved a demand that both Britain and France open the arms markets to Madrid if it were shown that the neutrality pact is ineffective or breached.

In Paris informed sources said that Premier Leon Blum and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had agreed to exert every effort to prevent collapse of the non-intervention accord.

SPAIN LOOKS TO SOVIET FOR AID

MADRID, Oct. 9. (AP)—The Spanish government, disappointed over the fall of strategic cities in Sierra de Gredos, looked to Russia for possible aid today.

Socialists awaited the outcome of a meeting in London on the international non-intervention committee, scheduled to hear Russia's warning that the Soviet will abrogate its neutrality agreement

Communists Defy French Orders To Halt Activities

PARIS, Oct. 9. (AP)—French communists defied government attempts to restrict their meetings in Alsace-Lorraine today.

Threats of virtual civil war in the border provinces were heard as the party was declared to be proceeding with plans to hold widespread demonstrations.

It was claimed that 50,000 followers there said they refused to curtail their activities "because such is the desire of fascists acting on orders from Berlin."

Passengers Dance While Ship Burns

NICE, France, Oct. 9. (AP)—Passengers landed from the Dutch Motorship Marnix V. St. Aldegonde last night and told how they had danced and made merry while fire raged in the hold of the ship the night before.

The fire was extinguished and the ship put in to Ajaccio after a race against the flames. The passengers said they were unaware of the fire through a cargo of matches in the hold, and danced and played deck games while the vessel raced for the nearest port.

SUSPECT GETS PRISON TERM

'Missing Tourists' Man Is Sentenced

DALLAS, Oct. 9. (AP)—An escaped Iowa convict, detained in the disappearance of four Illinois tourists in 1935, will be sent "at least temporarily" to Leavenworth penitentiary. He has a prison term here on a Dyer act charge.

The suspect had been sought for more than a year in connection with the disappearance of Mr. and Mrs. George Lorus and Mrs. Albert Heberer from near Albuquerque. Officers are attempting to identify the man as having cashed Lorus' travelers checks.

NOT IDENTIFIED BY CISCO MAN

Waldo Harris, operator of the Magnolia station at D avenue and Third street, told the Daily Press today that he had been unable to identify photographs of suspects in the case of the missing tourists as of the man who cashed a travelers check at his service station shortly after the disappearance took place.

New Mexico officers showed him some photographs some time ago but he said he was unable to identify any of them.

Huge Carving Placed At Museum Entrance

EL PASO, Oct. 9.—Erection of an eight-ton stone-carving above the entrance of the new centennial memorial museum at the College of Mines and Metallurgy, a branch of The University of Texas, El Paso, has just been completed.

The bas-relief, valued at more than $2,000, depicts several characters in Texas history. It was carved by the Texas Quarries of Austin. Four hours were required to put the stone in place, according to Preston Goss, superintendent of construction.

Plans now call for completion of the museum early in November, at which time dedication ceremonies will be held, college authorities said.

RICHARDSON TO SPEAK

Rev. W. A. Richardson, pastor of the First Christian church in Eastland, will be the speaker at the First Christian church here Sunday and Dr. David Tyndall will speak at the Eastland church.

Loboes, Peppers, Band Leave for Big Spring

The Cisco Loboes left this morning for Big Spring, where they will meet the Big Spring Steers in an Oil Belt grid tilt this evening.

Coaches Dexter Shelley and Billy Cooper announced that they will present an almost entirely new lineup against the Steers and they will resort to an open game against their heavier opponents.

The Lobo band and the pep squad left for the game today, the band going in a school bus this afternoon and the pep squad in individual cars this afternoon.

Short periods were used in the high school this morning so that students could leave early this afternoon for the game.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

He is our peace. . . By grace ye are saved through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God.—Eph. ii, 8, 14.

Tremble not, though darkly gather Clouds and tempests o'er thy sky; Still believe thy Heavenly Father Loves thee best when storms are nigh.

Glory thy King of Kings; Take the peace the gospel brings.

I wonder many a time that a child of God should be sad. When we ask God to guide us day by day, may we not leave it to Him now He guides?—Anon.

Inconsistency

WHEN your humble garden variety of democrat takes a walk, it's treason. But when Al of the Brown Derby strolls out of the party fold and parks his carcass with the republican enemies of the man who twice nominated him for the presidency it's an event. It is pertinent to inquire, perhaps, what Mr. Smith has done with those arguments and protestations advanced so eloquently and forcefully against bolting in 1928? He lamely explains that the Roosevelt administration has "abandoned" the democratic platform of 1932. From his references and manner of saying it, it occurs to us that Al means Roosevelt has abandoned the Smith platform, a more or less naive revelation of disgruntlement rather than sincere disagreement with the program and policies of the democratic administration. But even if Mr. Smith is altruistically and constitutionally opposed to the Roosevelt conduct of the national administration, how does he reconcile his bolt with the obligation of 1928 to preserve the party by abiding faithfully with the majority rule? It would be amusing if it was not so saddening to contemplate the failure of a great leader to become truly great in the final demonstration of a noble character. Perhaps we should forgive an old and disappointed man for stumbling.

OTHER OPINIONS

New Catholic Crusade

THE CATHOLIC CHURCH has done much valuable work in recent years toward the elevation of moral standards in current social customs. It was largely responsible for the revision of motion picture making to eliminate the sordidly vulgar and indecent scenes which for several years were emphasized in a majority of the films. For many years it has insisted upon a sane, moral attitude toward marriage and divorce; and in many similar matters has made its powerful influence effective in checking downward moral trends in the public's thought and action.

Recently, in a conference at San Antonio, representatives of the Catholic church launched a crusade against indecent literature which undoubtedly merits the hearty support of every decent-thinking citizen. The current modern attitude toward what former generations called "modesty" is amazingly liberal. Custom has placed its okeh upon many things which in other years would have been regarded as utterly intolerable. But even the modern mind, liberal as it has become, can not adjust itself to the type of literature which appears not only in the news stands where filthy vulgarity is sold in the guise of magazines and periodicals and books of fiction, but in many newspapers of wide circulation.

For instance, a newspaper which claims to be "the world's greatest" advertises a forthcoming serial story purporting to give the true story of the fall of a once famous author who ruined himself "in the search for new sex sensations." That a presumably reputable newspaper dares publish such vulgar rubbish is indisputable evidence that the current attitude of tolerance toward literature of this type has reached an alarming stage. In defense of newspapers as a class, it should be said that they are admittedly cleaner in this respect than are the magazines, periodicals and fictionists. Nevertheless, there are newspapers that are willing to make capital of the apparent appetite of the public for indecency, and no better evidence than this need be cited in support of the demand of the Catholic church that definite action be taken to improve the situation.

Will Rogers' wisecrack that "all he knew was what he read in the newspapers" had much truth in it. The people gain most of their information from what they read. If what they read is as salacious as much of the literature now being consumed, it inevitably follows that their minds are hopeless poisoned. A poisoned mind means a degenerate life.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Texas Nominees Urged to Support FDR and Garner

(Special to The Daily Press) AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—Every democratic nominee for public office in Texas will be urged to exert his efforts toward the reelection of the Roosevelt-Garner ticket, under a plan announced here this week by Roy Miller, State director of the national democratic campaign. Miller estimated there are more than 5,000 such nominees for precinct, county, district and state office.

"Active work by them among their friends and supporters in the interest of the party's presidential ticket would be invaluable," Director Miller declared. "I'm sure they will all be glad to take this opportunity to aid the party which nominated them for public office."

Personal letters, soliciting the support of the 5,000 or more democratic nominees in Texas and urging that they make active campaigns in their respective counties for the reelection of President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner will be sent from state headquarters over Miller's signature.

Many of the county clerks in the 254 counties in Texas already have furnished the state office with lists of the democratic nominees in their counties, and letters to the nominees will be mailed out as soon as additional lists are received.

County in Ohio Claims Origin Of 'Cure for Warts'

LOGAN, O., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Oldsters around here say Rocking county contributed to American folklore the "wart cure" made famous by Mark Twain in "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer."

In pioneer days the county had large timber tracts. As the trees were felled for lumber, the stumps remained and rotted in the middle. Water collecting in the holes was "spunk water."

"To remove warts, you had to approach a spunk-water stump in the light of the moon, turn to the right and walk around it three times. Then you approached it backward, placed your hand in the spunk water and repeated. "Spunk water, spunk water. Injun meal and shorts. Spunk water, spunk water, Swaller these warts."

Then walk around the stump three times to the left, go straight home, and talk to NO one until morning. Three days later the warts were supposed to disappear.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Terence Mahony has rescued two girls from Ambrose Lawson's gang of kidnapers the same night. When he took Elsa Little, the film star, to her home he unfortunately made himself a suspect in the murder of her uncle. And now he has left Ruth Fraser at the home of her guardian, Lee-Ramsden, and departed without telling her who he is. And Lee-Ramsden tells Ruth that the police will never believe the story she has told him of her experience.

Chapter 13
THREAT FROM LAWSON
Lee Lee-Ramsden rose from his chair.
"Why not tell them the old story that you went to stay with an old school friend and forgot to let us know you were going," he suggested. "Then they won't have to pretend to be busy investigating a lot of kidnapers who, they will be quite sure, don't exist. I don't suppose for a moment the police will believe the story of the old school friend, but at least it will relieve them of further responsibility, and it will look much better in the newspapers than that ridiculous kidnapping story."

Mullins feared Lee-Ramsden with a mortal terror.

"Perhaps you're right," she replied. "I'll tell the old school friend story if you think that will cause less fuss. Now I'm going to bed. Good night, Uncle Gerald."
She always called him uncle, though he was not her uncle. But he had been her dead father's best friend.
"Good night, my dear," said Lee-Ramsden. "And next time you're thinking of going off for a day or two just let me know. I shan't ask where you're going. But I shan't start the police hunting for you."
Ruth did not answer; she went to bed. After she had gone Lee-Ramsden remained for a few minutes leaning back against the mantelpiece with his hands in the pockets of his silk dressing-gown. The butler entered to remove the things from the dining-room table. Lee-Ramsden glanced at him.
"Well, Mullins, this is a surprise, isn't it?" he observed cheerfully.
"Indeed it is, sir," replied Mullins. He had an uneasy air.
"Our friend Lawson seems rather to have made a mess of things somehow," went on Lee-Ramsden. "I wonder who that young man was who fetched my ward back. You didn't see him, by any chance, did you?"
"No, sir. He drove away before I had the door open," answered Mullins.
"That's a pity. A great pity," said Lee-Ramsden, and his voice became more genial and cheerful than ever. But a little pulse was beating strongly in his forehead.
"A great pity," he repeated. "Because we shall have to find out who he is and deal with him before we can do anything more about Miss Ruth. And in two months' time she will be twenty-one. Which does not give us a great deal of time, does it, Mullins?"
"No, sir," said Mullins.
"Time enough, though, I hope," said Lee-Ramsden.
Mullins picked up the tray and hurried from the room as though anxious to get out of it as quickly as possible. He was frightened.
For twenty-five years he had served that large affable, cynical, pleasant-mannered man, Gerald Lee-Ramsden. He worshipped Lee-Ramsden; he would have done the same time, he feared him with a mortal terror.

After leaving Ruth Fraser, Mahony returned to Notting Hill Gate, where his rooms were situated, put the car away in a lock-up garage he had rented in a nearby mews, and entered the house where he lodged.
He wakened fairly early in the morning, and during breakfast he studied the morning papers. Nothing was in them about the murder of Vincent Little.
After breakfast he rang up the hospital to which Ross had been taken to enquire about him. Ross was still alive and still unconscious; he might remain unconscious for several days. The doctors did not know yet whether he would live or not.

Mahony decided that it would be best to leave the next move to his enemies. He wondered what form that move would take. Lawson could hardly tell the police that he, Mahony, had been in the Little's house when Mr. Little was murdered, and he thought it extremely unlikely that Elsa could have recognized him.
Nevertheless his enemies, not knowing what he knew about them, would be pretty sure to make some move against him for their own protection.
In the meantime it might not be a bad idea to have a bit of a look round. When he had finished his second cigaret, he consulted the telephone directory and looked up Lawson's home address. Then he set off, on foot, in the direction of Lawson's house.

As luck would have it, at the end of the street in which Lawson lived he met Lawson himself.
Both men stopped. For a moment they eyed one another warily, like strange dogs meeting, their hackles bristling. Then Lawson smiled.
"Good morning, Mahony," he remarked. "And what are you doing in this part of the world?"
"Walking," answered Mahony. "Do you mind?"
"Not at all," said Lawson. "Walk as much as you like, my dear fellow, while you have the chance. You may not have the opportunity of walking very much longer."
He paused.
"I'm just going to call on Miss Little," he went on blandly.

"You've formed a habit of dropping in at her house, I believe. Why not come along too?"

There was a kind of insolent challenge in his tone; he seemed to be daring Mahony to come. Mahony was irritated.

He took up Lawson's challenge. "That's quite an idea. I will come along with you to see Miss Little," he said.

At the same time he wondered about the object of Lawson's invitation. Why should Lawson invite him to come along to see Elsa Little?

"What have you been doing to your lip?" he asked. "It looks as if you ran into something."

Lawson ignored that.
"Good. I'm sure Miss Little will be glad to see you after you so gallantly rescued her last night," he said in a mocking tone. "Unfortunately, though, she doesn't appear to know that it was you who rescued her. I should tell her if I were you."

That was plain speaking enough. Mahony smiled.
"Does she know that it was you who murdered her uncle?" he asked.

"No. Fortunately she doesn't know that either. You can tell her that too, if you like. Here comes a taxi. I suggest that we take it."

They entered the taxi.

Antelope Is Guard For Customs House

CORWINE CENTER, Mont., Oct. 9. (AP)—"Slim," an antelope with goat-like proclivities has become a self-appointed "watchdog" at the U. S. customs office here.
When "Pal," shepherd dog and constant companion of the pet antelope, died, the 100-pound, year and a half old animal took over the job voluntarily.
Strangers stand the chance of getting butted out into the street when they attempt to enter the customs station. The practical way, customs officials say, is to "bulldog" the animal like a steer.

The Daksha, Hindu mythological deity, has a goat's head.

Humming Birds Board At Texas Hospital

LEGION, Tex., Oct. 9.—Supervising the daily diet of approximately 500 humming birds is the odd hobby W. R. Sullivan has chosen.

Groups of the tiny birds dart into Sullivan's room at the Veterans administration hospital, alight momentarily on light fixtures, zoom around the ceiling and are gone.

Twenty-five boxes for food have been placed throughout the hospital grounds. A container of sweetened water outside Sullivan's window attracts the greatest number. The birds start their visit the middle of March and remain until September.

Sullivan said some of them have a wingspread of eight inches, although the average is two and a half.

Hope for Rescue Fades as Yacht's Radio Goes Dead

HONOLULU, Oct. 9. (AP)—Wireless operators throughout the mid-Pacific area listened in vain for word from the helpless auxiliary ketch Margaret Payne, "lost" in the great expanse somewhere south of the Hawaiian Islands.

The coast guard cutter Itasca kept on with its search in the general area where the little yacht reported its plight Saturday with a plea that its six occupants could "hold out" only three days.

Odds against rescue increased when the yacht's radio went silent. It was last heard Tuesday midnight, reporting its position as unknown and its occupants unable to cope much longer with the difficulties besetting it.

Army, navy, coast guard and amateur radio operators kept their headsets to their ears throughout the early morning hours but heard nothing from the battery set on the Margaret Payne. The listeners concluded the batteries were exhausted.

Senator Bankhead, Well Again, Thanks "Keeper" Wife for Saving His Health

Although Tallulah Bankhead, the actress (right), is the daughter of Speaker of the House Bankhead's first wife, many persons see a striking resemblance between her and the second Mrs. Bankhead, with whom she is shown.

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY JASPER, Ala. (AP)—Those who have watched Mrs. William B. Bankhead's long guardianship over her husband's health have come to know her as "the speaker's keeper."

In the quiet of their home here, as in Washington, the wife of the presiding officer of the house of representatives "prods" him to a routine designed to hold the strength Bankhead has recovered after a severe heart attack.

Mrs. Bankhead, at the capital, could be seen daily in the speaker's lobby of the house, calling the speaker from the floor by messenger—to take his periodical rest prescribed by physicians.

Remembers Tallulah In Jasper, the speaker's keeper governs the extent of his indulgence in the care of his new turnip patch, and in myriad other activities that might cause too great a strain.

"And he loves it," Mrs. Bankhead said.

Mrs. Bankhead and Tallulah Bankhead, the actress, bear a striking resemblance. Tallulah is the daughter of the speaker and the first Mrs. Bankhead, who died shortly after her birth.

"Many say that," Mrs. Bankhead said when reminded of the likeness of features. "And I always appreciate the compliment."

Picture Of Health Bankhead was in his turnip patch when reporters approached his big white house. Mrs. Bankhead called him.

"Doesn't Billy look well?" she asked as he came into the house. And "Billy" did. His face, sun-tanned and rested, bears no mark of the long illness of 1935, when as democratic floor leader, he did not appear in the house. The speaker said he was in extraordinary health, but was taking every precaution against recurrence of the heart malady.

Will Bankhead and Florence McGuire met in 1905, when Bankhead moved to Jasper to practice law, and were married 21 years ago.

Survey Work On San Gabriel Due To Begin Monday

TEMPLE, Oct. 9. (AP)—Maj. Eric Haquinus, chief of mapping and surveys for the Brazos River conservation and reclamation district, announced today that survey work in the San Gabriel River reservoir areas would begin Monday.

Major Haquinus said he expected about 60 days would be required to survey the areas, one on the North San Gabriel and one on the South San Gabriel where dams will be built as a part of the Brazos watershed flood control program. Headquarters for both survey crews will be at Georgetown.

The San Gabriel areas to be mapped, totaling 200 square miles, are relatively small reservoir

Wilkinson, 200 Pound Guard in 1935. Gets Minnesota Quarterback's Post

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 9. (AP)—Charles (Bud) Wilkinson is the answer to the question: "Who can fill the shoes of Babe Lenoir and Glenn Seidel at the Minnesota quarterback post?"

When Lenoir and Seidel were lost by graduation, Coach Bernie Bierman faced a difficult problem. Those two men were considered as possibly the best field generals in Minnesota's history.

Last fall, in the Northwestern game, the 200-pound Wilkinson, a brilliant and fast guard, intercepted a Northwestern pass and barged down the field like a 10-ton truck until he was run out of bounds near the goal line.

Wilkinson, a backfield man in prep school, was quickly put through Bierman's "quarterback school" and came out with a double "A" rating.

When practice started this fall, Bierman immediately took him out of the line and named him his No. 1 quarter.

Wilkinson, in his first game as pilot, maneuvered the Gophers to a 14-7 win over the Washington Huskies at Seattle.

"I only used about five or six plays," Wilkinson said after the game. "I guess I'm not so hot." But Bierman and his aides don't agree.

Wilkinson not only is a powerful blocker but has the surest hands on the squad on pass plays.

The Uram-to-Wilkinson pass combination may rival the famous Wyman-to-Boston team of 20 years ago.

Former Texas Man Covers Revolution

In the Washington game, Andy Uram passed to Wilkinson for 20 yards to put the ball on the 10-yard line and the next play, Uram to Ray King, was good for the winning touchdown.

Saturday Games In Southwest To Clear Standing

The Southwest conference football race will be considerably clearer to radio followers of the game after Saturday. On that day they will be able to listen to four conference teams in action in two conference games, both to be broadcast under the sponsorship of the Humble Oil & Refining Co.

Bill Ware, who did a nice job on play-by-play at the Texas-L. S. U. game last Saturday, will be at the microphone, with Gene Wyatt handling color.

Of equal importance to radio football fans is the conference debut of Rice and Texas A. & M. in their game at Houston. Rice, smarting under defeats from L. S. U. and Duquesne, is anxious to make it three wins in a row over the Aggies. The Cadets, on the other hand, have better prospects for a conference championship than they've had in years, and are double-anxious to turn in a win in their first conference start.

This game will be broadcast under the Humble company's sponsorship over stations of the Texas

Couple Happy After 75 Years Together

DENVER, Oct. 9. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. John Sanderson Dalziel looked back on 75 years of life together today, smiled and said: "We have been happy."

They celebrated quietly the diamond anniversary of their wedding performed in London, when she was 20 and he was 21. Now they are nearing 100.

John Dalziel said he never will forget the time he did an engraving to illustrate a book written by Charles Dickens and Dickens said: "That's exactly the picture I had in my mind."

"That was, let's see, about 73 years ago," said Dalziel. "Yes, that must be right."

John Dalziel dressed carefully and completely today. That is something he has not done for several years, for its hard for him to move about, even by the aid of his heavy cane.

"I am a handsome man today," he said. "I am going to get dressed and I am going to go out with my wife. This is our anniversary."

Running Attack Is Foreseen For Froggie Eleven

FORT WORTH, Oct. 9. (Spl.)—The Horned Frogs have a running attack.

And that, football fans, in this year of 1936 is News with a capital "N."

Maybe their ground game is not as potent as it was last year with Lawrence, Manton, et al, but the Christians are going to have more than a pass and a prayer with which to engage the enemy.

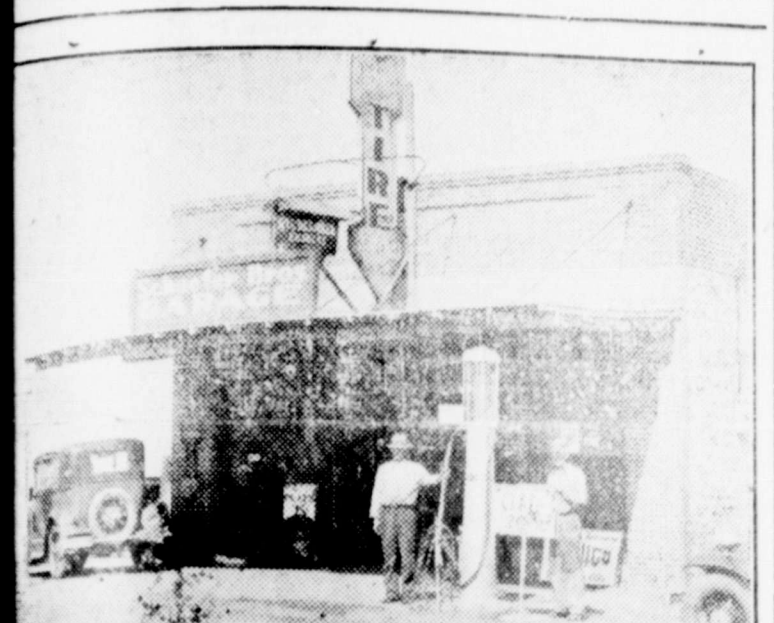

Two bits of evidence may be submitted in support of the statement.

First, the Frogs gained 197 yards on running plays against Arkansas last Saturday, slightly more yardage than they made by passing. And, it might be noted, they held the Razorbacks to a total of 49 yards on the ground.

decentralization policy of the commission."

Little explained that the five West Texas supervisors would still be administrative heads of their districts and that the new plan would in no way affect their authority.

He also announced that each of the five districts would be divided into sub-divisions containing two or three counties. A competent staff member will be placed in charge of each sub-office.

Offices Near Applicants

"We have adopted this latter policy because in most instances the district office is so far from the homes of the applicants that they can not conveniently come in when they want to. Our idea is not only to facilitate investigations but to have offices convenient to applicants in West Texas," the assistant director said.

The five districts are as follows: Number 13, Taylor and surrounding counties, with headquarters at Abilene; number 14, McCulloch and adjoining counties, with district office at Brady; number 18, Howard and twelve other counties with headquarters at Big Spring; number 19, Tom Green and nearby counties with office at San Angelo; and number 20, the El Paso district.

POLITICS at random

By BYRON PRICE

Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington.

Words hardly could tell a plainer story than that presented by the October itineraries of the two principal candidates for president.

Unless—as some believe—the outcome of the election was settled long in advance, what Messrs. Roosevelt and Landon do during this calendar month will settle it.

What they are doing, as with one accord, is to concentrate their efforts on the north central section of the country which lies between the two great mountain ranges. There will be a few brief excursions elsewhere, but perhaps nine-tenths of the pressure from now on will be applied to the midwest.

Seldom in past campaigns has a situation been so clearly defined. In the south and the far west, the democrats regard themselves as secure. In New England and most of the east, the republicans count the battle won. But from Ohio to Colorado, across the whole expanse of the inland plain, furious action testifies to the concern in both party camps.

In all of that section there is not a single state in which either side is ready to abandon hope.

Center On Midwest

It may be, of course, that one party or the other is mistaken about its claims elsewhere. Certainly the democrats mean to keep pounding away in Pennsylvania, New York and some other eastern states, and the republicans will continue their campaign in earnest in some of the far western and border states.

But New York and Pennsylvania not only lie in that eastern commercial and financial section where such bitter opposition to Mr. Roosevelt has developed, but their presidential traditions are deeply republican. It may be they are good democrats betis this year; yet there is no democrat who is willing to risk everything on either of these states. The democratic managers mean to get what they need in the midwest, if possible.

Similarly, in far west, the hopes of the republicans face a recent record of overwhelming democratic majorities, plus the fact that this year's registration figures show wide margins for the democrats. The republican managers find their outlook in the midwest far more worthy of attention and effort.

So into the midwest moves the greatest show on earth, with all its flags and banners, all its ballyhoo and money-bags. If the good people of the plains are in a mood to be stirred by tongue or pen, they may as well be prepared for a season of hysteria.

Small Majorities Expected

Individually, the states in this disputed section have developed some highly interesting local situations.

In Minnesota and Wisconsin, regarded by the democrats at convention time as push-overs for Roosevelt because of independent party influence, the republicans have organized with every indication that they mean business.

Ohio, almost conceded to be republican a few weeks ago, now is spoken of by republican leaders as fighting ground. It is apparent that the democrats do not even mean to let Governor Landon's own state of Kansas go by default; they are making a real effort to edge it toward the democratic column.

And throughout the whole territory, comparatively small majorities are the universal expectation. Almost every request for an election prediction, to whichever party managers it may be addressed, brings the same response:

"It will be closer than usual in this state this year, but—"

That ought to insure some interesting statistical reading for election night.
