G.M. SPEEDS PLANS TO RESUME WORK

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

Among this earth's most wicked men is the bird who will deliberately take advantage of another's enthusiasm. Such a creature is J. D. (Dick) Lauderdale who is charged with the direction of the annual Boy Scout finance raising campaign next week. In the sixty, more or less, years of my existence upon this planet I have not learned with sufficient emphasis the example of wiser men who may be wholeheartedly for a thing, but have the good sense to keep their mouths shut until all the jobs are taken up by the less wary. They then step in with becoming patriotism and drop their pennies into the till with a loud ringing sound.

At meetings of the chamber of commerce, it is quite difficult to get Dr. Clark, Jim Collins or others of their canny breed to sponsor anything that requires soliciting money or votes. But let someone urge them to advocate something of that nature and they instantly "shush" the advocate into silence. "I'd be made chairman, sure," is the invariable explanation. And my experience teaches me that the caution is well taken.

That is the trouble with this newspaper business, however. One must take stands and make advocations, or the newspaper is not being the sort of journal it should be. But the process of supporting something calls the writer into the limelight to the degree that the support is enthusiastic, which means that it is upon him that the eye of the presiding functionary is certain to alight in the search for willing talent to furnish the elbow-grease. Why not? He certainly is interested or he wouldn't support it.

Thus, along comes the boy Scout finance campaign and having argued editorially and profusely in behalf of that program, the finger is upon me. The sportsmanlike conduct of Dick Lauderdale is commendable.

Nevertheless, I still think it is a fine and practical thing. In the degree that scouting is practiced among the growing boys of the nation will the future populations of our prisons be reduced. The money that is spent upon scouting is money that a few years later you may remove with much interest from the contributions you will be required to make to the support of penal institutions. And because it is removed from this side of the ledger and invested in good citizenship, it will be doing a double duty. The program of Boy Scouting in Cisco, Texas, ought to have the heartiest support of the business men of this community.

So I am not sorry that Dick called on me. I shall do my bit and I hope that the rest of you will do yours.

SCOUTS WILL 'RULE' CISCO ON SATURDAY

"Mayor" and Others to Serve with Regular Officials

Cisco's Boy Scouts will celebrate the end of Boy Scout Week tomorrow with a practical example in municipal government and it is hoped, an effective object lesson in law observance for their elders.

Tonight at their two meeting places, Troops No. 4 and 101 will choose a mayor, city commissioners, police chief and other officials who will serve in conjunction with the regular municipal officials Saturday.

Scouts will occupy the city hall, where the "mayor" will preside over a traffic court and members of the commission and other officials will serve in posts corresponding to the places filled by the regular civic authorities. At the various traffic signals and street intersections members of the troops will be posted as traffic policemen, seeking in as courteous a manner as possible, to induce drivers who are not observant of traffic regulations to observe these.

Scouts will be found attached for the day to other departments of the municipal government, operating in association with regular adult employees and officers.

This "Statue of Lincoln," Civil war president, by Henry K. Browne stands in Union square, New York City. Today is the anniversary of the birth of the Great Emancipator.

REBELS FORM NEW 10 - MILE MADRID FRONT

Grasp Is Tightened on Supply Routes of the City

(By Associated Press)

Spanish insurgents established a new ten-mile front in attempting to complete encirclement of Madrid today, dealing losses to government defenders and tightening their grasp on the city's supply routes.

Each side claimed control of the vital Valencia highway. The government shot down five enemy planes during an attempt to break the line on the northwest.

North of Valencia, temporary government seat, insurgent warships attacked Alboraya, but fled before government ships. It was believed to be a forerunner of a drive on Valencia.

Germany, which recognized the insurgents as the de facto Spanish government some time ago, announced the legation credited to them had been raised to the status of an embassy.

Hi School Debaters Go to Waco Tourney

Eight Cisco high school debaters left early today for Waco and a state debating tournament in which they will participate prior to the official interscholastic league contests.

Two teams each of boys and girls accompanied by Mrs. E. L. Hazlewood, instructor, made the trip. They will return Saturday night.

Teams going are: boys, Evatt Horne and Cecil Edwards; Gerald McCrary and J. M. Hazlewood; girls, Hollis Alkire and Edna Lou Prang; Enojane Hazlewood and Daisy Wood.

Expenses for the four teams will be paid by local business men who contributed about $25 for the trip.

140,000 WILL GO BACK WITH WAGES HIKED

Eight - Point Agreement Is Signed by Corp. and Union

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 12 (AP)—General Motors speeded preparations today to restore work to 140,000 strike-affected employes at increased wages.

William S. Knudsen, executive vice-president, said that after operations are resumed the corporation would be at capacity within 12 days.

The Buick division is the first due to reopen, over 12,000 returning to work Monday. Other plants were due to resume the first of the week.

"Sit-down" strikers left the Flint plants last night.

The eight-point agreement signed by representatives of General Motors corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America composed many of the differences aired in 44 days of bitter labor dispute.

Conference Planned

Remaining issues will be negotiated in discussions between the corporation and union starting Feb. 16.

More than 100,000 idle employes of the nation's largest motor car producer will return to their jobs next week at wages increased 5 cents an hour. The wage increase, approximating $2,000,000, annually, was announced by General Motors coincident with the strike settlement.

The union was accorded recognition as representing its members in the corporation's 69 automotive plants. In twenty plants where strikes are in progress, General Motors agreed not to bargain, without the sanction of the governor of the state, with any other group on "matters of general corporation policy."

General Motors agreed to dismissal of injunction proceedings against the union, its officers and members at Flint and Cleveland, Ohio. The Flint injunction had made the union men liable to a $15,000,000 penalty.

Dramatic Announcement

The ceremonies of signing the peace pact in a crowded recorder's court room in the county building here came as an anti-climax to the dramatic announcement.

Lions Club Will Sponsor Easter Seal Campaign

The Cisco Lions club will sponsor an Easter seal drive within the next few weeks to raise funds for the treatment of crippled children. A. G. Tuttle, chairman of a club committee named to conduct the campaign, said today. Serving with Mr. Tuttle on the committee are Dick Giles, O. L. Stamey and Chapman Williamson.

Proceeds of the drive will be divided "50-50" between the Texas Society for Crippled Children, a division of the state department of education, and the Lions club, the funds allocated to the latter to be used only for the aid of local crippled children. There are five cases now in Cisco who will receive aid from the Texas society, and the funds employed by the club will be used to pay the expenses of transporting these children to hospitals where the state society will pay for their treatment.

Plans for the campaign are now being formed and announcement of the dates to be observed will be made in the next future, Mr. Tuttle said.

Veteran Editor Is Buried at Hamilton

G. H. Boyngton, 71-year-old veteran newspaperman who died at Port Arthur Feb. 8 from the effects of a skull injury received when he was struck by an automobile, was buried yesterday at Hamilton, Texas. He was a brother-in-law of Mrs. F. E. Shockley, whose sister he married, and Mr. and Mrs. Shockley attended the services.

Mr. Boyngton had been with the Port Arthur newspaper for about ten years. For forty years he and his father had published the Hamilton paper.

He is survived by three children, Mrs. Boyngton having died in 1922.

His death was attributed to a skull fracture which he sustained when thrown to the pavement after being bumped by a car as he walked to his office. The injury was at first thought to be healing satisfactorily, but it became suddenly serious a short while before his death.

FD Is Silent Upon Reform Opposition

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt declined today to make direct comment on opposition attacks or suggestions for compromise in his court reform proposals, telling a press conference he preferred not to talk about developments.

Persons close to the administration expressed belief the president would let labor and farm policies simmer for the present, however, concentrating on the program.

Some of his supporters gave notice of no compromise on the most controversial of the suggestions—enlargement of the supreme court if justices over 70 do not retire.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, independent liberal and ally of the president, yesterday created a surprise when he refused to be convinced that the president's program for naming new men to the supreme court is the best way to deal with the tribunal's opposition to new deal enactments.

Norris Opposed

He said he would support the president's proposals only as a last resort.

He said he saw "danger" in the proposed legislation in that it would empower the chief executive to create a new supreme court overnight.

Norris agreed with the president that a constitutional amendment would take too long to meet the present situation.

As an immediate alternate to the presidential proposals, Norris said he favored an act of congress providing that a mere majority of the high court could not declare laws unconstitutional.

He said his own state has a law requiring that five of seven members of the state court must agree before it can hold a law unconstitutional.

"We have been living under that law quite a number of years and our liberties have not been taken away," he added.

As a long-time remedy, which he said he would push regardless of the presidential proposals, the Nebraskan favored a constitutional amendment limiting the terms of supreme court justices.

Gov't to Allow "Some Churches" to Be Reopened

ORIZABA, Vera Cruz, Mexico, Feb. 12 (AP)—A proclamation from the governor today informed Catholics of Orizaba that "some churches" would be permitted to reopen but warned no new religious demonstrations would be permitted.

The decision came while the Catholic rebellion against church restrictions spread throughout the state of Vera Cruz, 14,000 breaking into long closed churches at Cordoba, with similar actions in other sections.

The rebellion was begun Tuesday when Catholics forcibly reopened churches here following the death of a girl worshipper in a police raid.

Two Killed as Train Is Wrecked by Truck

SELMA, Calif., Feb. 12 (AP)—A passenger train struck a stalled automobile today, killing Fireman R. E. Brown and Engineer J. F. Miles and injuring six others as the locomotive and seven cars left the rails.

An officer said that F. K. Ritchie of Portersville, California, driver of the automobile, jumped to safety as it rolled in front of the train. Ritchie was under arrest.

Planning Survey Seeks Assistance of Highway Users

The car owners of Eastland county can aid tremendously in furnishing official information to the State-Federal Highway Planning survey for use in working out a logical plan on which future road and street construction will be based. C. H. O'Brien, the assessor and collector of taxes, has been given a number of post cards which ask for fundamental information that is needed in road planning, thus affording the motorist opportunity to participate in outlining his future road program.

These cards, to be distributed to car owners as they pay their 1937 registration fees, require no postage and are self-addressed. The number of cards which have been furnished Mr. O'Brien was judged according to the number of motor vehicles which were registered in the county during 1936. The number of cards allotted to Eastland county is as follows: 6900 for passenger automobiles, 1550 for trucks, and 350 for trailers and motorcycles, and 125 for owners of five or more vehicles.

The business of constructing and maintaining highways, streets, and roads has become a tremendous task within recent years, and it now affects the well-being of every citizen. Obviously, every effort should be made to plan our public road system so that it will serve all car owners in an equitable manner and so that the tax burden for roads will be distributed justly. The information sought on these cards is vital to the establishment of an equitable, well-rounded program. In order to work out such a program, the Texas Highway department and the United States bureau of public roads are conducting a statewide highway planning survey, and it is to the advantage of each county to participate to the greatest extent possible.

Heir to Throne of Italy Is Born Today

NAPLES, Feb. 12 (AP)—Crown Princess Marie Jose gave birth today to a son, who becomes heir-apparent to the Italian throne.

Celebrations were begun in honor of the newest member of the royal family, who follows his father, Crown Prince Umberto, in the line of succession.

The wolf-eel, a southern California fish, has teeth resembling those of a large dog.

Hardin-Simmons Fish Substitute for Dublin Team

Illness of four members of the Dublin high school basketball team caused last minute cancellation of the scheduled match between that team and the Lobo five and matches between eight Dublin boxers and a similar number of Cisco boxers.

Coach Bill Cooper announced this afternoon, however, that he had succeeded in matching a game with a basket ball team from Hardin-Simmons university and that six freshmen boxers from the school would accompany the team to meet Cisco punchers. One 190-pound H-S lad is coming in the hope of getting a match with an out-of-school boy in his class. He is Truett Fulcher of Eastland who won the heavyweight division in the recent Brownwood "golden gloves" district tournament.

Reminder of the Simmons boys range from 175 pounds down.

The game will start at 7:30. The Simmons team is really good, Cooper said. "If we hold them to 50 points we shall do well."

New Gulf Station Will Open Saturday

The new Gulf service station at E avenue and Eighth street will be opened for business tomorrow under the management of Harvey Thurman, now at the Gulf station at Ninth and D avenue.

The attractive brick and stucco structure, recently completed, houses one of the most complete stations, with a battery of four computing pumps, washing and lubrication racks of the latest design, equipped with the most up-to-date grease guns, and many other features designed to afford the ultimate in service.

One of Three Wendel Suspects Confesses

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (AP)—Murray Bleefeld, one of three men on trial on charges of kidnaping Paul H. Wendel, former New Jersey attorney, and forcing him to confess the Lindbergh kidnaping, pleaded guilty today. Martin Schlossman and Harry Weiss are the others on trial.

Ickes Says Connally Bill Should Endure

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 12 (AP)—Secretary Ickes told a senate committee today the Connally "hot oil" act should be made permanent, and advocated a "national policy of oil conservation." He praised highly the act which prohibits interstate movement of crude oil and in products in excess of state allowances.

Britain Reported to Be Raising Armament

LONDON, Feb. 12 (AP)—Great Britain was reported today to be preparing for war expenditures of between six and eight billion dollars in the next five years as a "big stick" to enforce European peace. A drive for armaments launched yesterday would enforce insular safety in hte event England is unable to preserve peace among other nations.

Band Benefit at High School Last Night Nets $70

Appreciation of the patronage attracted by the "Fun Fest" benefit for the high school Lobo band at the high school auditorium last night was expressed by members of the Band Parents club which sponsored the program.

About $70 net was realized from the benefit, and this sum will be applied on the purchase of a set of pedal tympani and other instruments which the band needs to compete favorably with the instrumentation of other high school units in Class B.

The Parents club plans to sponsor a series of entertainments and programs to raise the funds required for the purchase of these instruments, and if the public cooperates as it did last night, members said, the instruments will soon be obtained.

Appreciation of the publicity given by the newspapers and of the use of flags loaned by the West Texas Utilities company and the City Drug company was also expressed.

H. D. GORHAM ILL

Mrs. H. D. Graham went to Sweetwater Thursday to bring Mr. Gorham home who is ill with influenza. Mr. Gorham was reported this morning to be improved.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

SYNOPSIS: A shot crashes through Anne Phelps' apartment late one night. When Bigelow, the young American from Paris, reaches the studio, he finds Anne and Karsanakoff, the glamorous dancer, staring at the corpse of Count Vronski who was blackmailing Anne with love letters. They hide the body in a cupboard during a gay party, then Bigelow and Dr. Austrelitz, the psychologist, remove it to Vronski's apartment. Police arrest Thorne Dryden, a wealthy young man who hated Vronski, but he refuses to talk. Dryden's wife, Lorena, vanishes.

Chapter 21

Where Was Karsanakoff?

"But suppose it was Lorna who followed us from the night club?" cried Anne. "She was there! You remember, Clarke, I waved to her and she reminded me that she was lunching with me the next day. Then she had her maid call me up the next morning to break the date."

"Yes, of course!" cried Bigelow. "And Lorna wouldn't have been armed. And she knew where I kept the gun!" added Anne excitedly. "I remember distinctly that she opened the drawer of the bed-side table one day looking for cigarettes. I always keep a supply there. And we talked about the gun. I told her how Philip had come to present it to me and she examined it. She knew about guns, too. You wouldn't think it to look at her, but she was an excellent shot. At least, so I've heard. Her father taught her to shoot. But somehow I can't conceive of her killing anybody."

"People are capable of the most amazing and unexpected things under the stress of circumstances," said Austrelitz. "And if she did shoot Vronski and told her husband so, we could understand his refusal to make a statement to the police and her disappearance, now."

"Yes," said Anne, "that's true. We might find out whether she had any opportunity to shoot him," suggested Bigelow.

"How?" asked Austrelitz.

"By asking Karsanakoff where she was when the shot was fired."

"I doubt that she will admit being in the studio," said Austrelitz smiling.

"She might have been there, with her back toward Vronski," said Bigelow, "in such a position that she couldn't see who fired at him."

"She might have been," admitted Austrelitz, "but she would be very foolish to admit it even to us."

"Oh, I don't know. She couldn't have known the gun was there and she had no reason to shoot the man. She had only just met him."

"She registered a significant interest in his name the first time she heard it," Austrelitz reminded him. "You noticed it and mentioned it to me. Also you got the impression that both she and her maid recognized him when they saw him, although he failed to recognize them."

"Even so," said Bigelow, "I'm inclined to think now that they were merely interested in the Vronski jewels. She asked about them almost at once."

"Why not ring her up and ask a guarded question or two?" put in Anne.

Austrelitz meditated an instant. "I think I will," he decided, going back to his desk and reaching for the telephone. He looked up the number on the small desk directory before him and called the Carleton. Bigelow and Anne sat waiting.

"This Is What Happened—" "Hello?" he said presently having reached Karsanakoff. "I wonder if you would answer a question for me?"

"But indeed I shall be delighted, doctor, if I can," replied the Russian. "What is the question?"

"The other night," began Austrelitz, "you know the night I mean—?"

"Yes," answered Karsanakoff. "Where were you exactly—at the—er—critical moment?"

Karsanakoff laughed softly. "But that is a very odd question," she said.

"The point is," explained Austrelitz, "that we have got hold of a new theory—which concerns the man who has just become involved—and I want to test its possibilities."

"I see," said Karsanakoff slowly. "This is precisely what happened, doctor. With me in the room, there was a man, you know? A fellow countryman of mine. He was telephoning a long time for food. I was not very interested in all that and wandered into the bedroom to smooth my hair. Then I heard—a noise. And immediately after, the lights went out. In the dark, I found my way back—!"

"Yes," said Austrelitz quietly, "that is the way I imagined it. Thank you very much."

"But this theory—? You must tell me. I am interested, too, very much."

"I'll come and see you and tell you about it," promised Austrelitz. "I have been promising myself the pleasure of coming to see you soon, in any case."

"When will you come then? Tomorrow?" asked Karsanakoff.

"For lunch? For tea? For dinner? When?" she persisted.

"For dinner," he answered, making a comical face over the top of the telephone at the others. They were laughing at him.

"Very well, then. I expect you for dinner. And no excuses will be accepted. I warn you. Good-by."

She hung up the receiver. "She says she was in the bedroom," he reported dryly, "but you must remember that she is not a stupid woman and that she has had ample time to think over all this and to decide what she will say."

"But she may be telling the truth," Anne pointed out.

"Yes, there's just a chance," admitted the doctor, grimly.

"And if she was in the bedroom," Anne continued, "anyone may have come into the studio from outside. I don't mean only Dryden or Lorna or one of the others who turned up for the party; I mean literally anyone. It doesn't even depend on Vronski's having left the door unfastened. If he had heard a light tap, he would have opened the door, expecting to admit one of the invited guests. . . . Someone we don't even know may have seen him enter the building with us and may have followed on the chance of having a word with him."

"But no one outside could have known that he would be alone in the room at just that moment," said Bigelow.

"No. But that might just have happened. Someone might have taken advantage of the unexpected opportunity to settle an old grudge."

Austrelitz smiled. "Except that Madame Karsanakoff was—by her own admission—in the bedroom—where the gun was that killed him."

Bigelow and Anne stared at him.

"That's true," murmured Anne in an altered voice.

The Most Likely Suspect Austrelitz rose from the desk and began to pace the floor again. The others watched him with close attention, trying to guess his train of thought.

"No, I can't—somehow—believe in your unknown outsider who happened in by chance," said the doctor gravely. "To me, Madame Karsanakoff is the most likely suspect. The fact that we are unaware of any motive doesn't mean that a motive may not exist. . . . I think I must cable a colleague of mine in Paris and see what I can find out about Madame Karsanakoff and about Vronski." He stopped at the desk and made a note on a pad that was lying there.

"Here's another possibility that just occurs to me," said Bigelow thoughtfully. "Suppose that someone else did come in and shoot Vronski—and Karsanakoff knows who it was and how it happened" and why—but isn't telling?" Anne looked inquiringly at the doctor.

"Mrs. Dryden—?" he asked. "You were thinking of her?"

"Yes," admitted Bigelow. "But Madame Karsanakoff doesn't know Lorna Dryden," said Anne. "At least, I don't believe she does."

"Even so, it's conceivable that Karsanakoff might shield another woman if she thought that woman had been justified. If it happened as I'm imagining it, now—she might have heard exactly what passed between Mrs. Dryden and Vronski before the shooting occurred. And remember Mrs. Dryden knew that the gun was there and that it was loaded."

Austrelitz nodded. "We must find Mrs. Dryden as quickly as possible and hear what she has to say. That is imperative."

"Why?" asked Anne.

"The more we know, the better position we'll be in if we should ultimately be implicated. We can use our own judgment afterward about passing on our information. I don't propose to find and question Mrs. Dryden in order to betray her. Let us aid her, if you like, but let us first find out what she knows so that we will know how to act."

"Yes," added Bigelow, "that seems to me only sensible."

"But how can we hope to find her if the police have failed?" asked Anne.

"She might not try to elude you as she would the police," said Austrelitz. "And you will know where to look for her as the police will not. You know which relative she might go to for shelter in an emergency like this—or which intimate friend!"

Anne nodded, but obviously she was not happy over the plan.

"Suppose you dine with me," suggested Bigelow, "and we'll discuss ways and means. Afterward, we can begin the search."

"Come and dine at home with me," countered Anne. "Mother has known Lorna all her life—knows all the family. She might have some suggestions."

"Right," agreed Bigelow. They took leave of the doctor and drove back together to the Phelps house. Walters heard the taxi stop and had the front door open for them before they had mounted the steps.

In the doorway Anne halted, catching her breath. It was not until she felt the warning pressure of Bigelow's hand on her arm that she remembered to smile a welcome. For in the hall sat Chief Inspector Hagedorn, waiting for them.

MAN OF STEEL

Simple Life, Hard Work and Clean Jokes Suit Soviet Leader Stalin

Communists Know Policies But Few Really Know Man

This is the third in a series of articles on the life of Joseph Stalin, Russia's uncrowned, self-made ruler.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP Feature Service Writer
NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—All communists know Joseph Stalin's policies, but few are acquainted with the man behind those policies. Only twice in more than 12 years has he broadcast a speech to his people.

Stalin intensely dislikes personal publicity. He believes attention should be centered on a person's aims and achievements rather than on his characteristics; it is the work that counts, not the fact that a man happens to like caviar for breakfast. This is the code of the communist party.

Stalin's picture hangs in most homes and public places throughout the vast empire, but few persons have seen him, as he rarely appears in public.

His Joke With Newsman

Only a few weeks ago he kept under cover so long that rumors got about that he was dead. When The Associated Press correspondent in Moscow sent a note to the great man, calling attention to the rumors, Stalin replied jokingly, advising the newspaper man to believe the reports and not disturb him "in the calm of the other world."

A strong sense of humor is one of the characteristics of this man noted for grumness and ruthlessness. He laughs frequently, uproariously.

Prefers Plain Clothes

There is a good deal of the boy in Stalin, and he laughs most often at the unusual or unexpected. But he hates anything not clean. He once severely reprimanded an editor who published something that Stalin considered obscene.

Simple and conservative in his habits, Stalin still sticks to plain uniforms such as he wore as a soldier—a khaki tunic with the collar buttoned across the throat, and khaki trousers tucked into boots reaching his knees. His only departure from this garb is when he dons white linen in summer.

He smokes nothing but a pipe—and what a pipe! It is ancient and charred and scarred and strong. But it is an honest, friendly sort of pipe. He doesn't smoke ordinary pipe-tobacco in it, but fills it by breaking up cigarettes. As for other habits, he is said to be temperate in all things—excepting work.

He used to be a fine horseman and played much polo. Wild boar hunting was another of his pastimes. These things have given way to motoring; he likes to take the wheel from his chauffeur and spin over country roads.

played much with old cronies. He plays a good game, both offensive and defensive, and is vigorous in his attack. He always wants the black pieces. Why? That's another Stalin puzzle.

Stalin loves the theatre, has a particular leaning towards opera, and is also a movie fan. He is fond of music, mostly symphonic. He is a great reader, history being his first choice, and after that philosophy. Stalin himself has written many books which critics say will live in Marxist literature.

A Night Worker

Much of Stalin's work is done at night. He likes to get to bed about 4 o'clock in the morning, but he is usually back in his office again after a few hours' rest.

The burdens of state, heavy as they are, do not prevent Stalin from taking a paternal interest in the smaller affairs of his people. If an aviator, for example, scores some outstanding achievement, he gets a personal letter, of commendation from his chief.

If a plane crashes and the flyer leaves a widow and children, Stalin personally investigates the plight of the family, expressing

Plans are being considered to offer extension work to teachers and advanced students. If this is put on, three semester hours may be made; classes will meet at night weekly; and students may take two courses.

Mexicans Begin Restoration of Historic Church

CHILPANCINGO, Guerrero, Mex., Feb. 11.—A landmark of Mexican history, the meeting hall of the country's first congress, is being restored here, after standing in semi-ruin for 28 years. Catholics of this state capital contributed most of the funds for the work on the old parochial church where representatives of Mexican rebels against Spain first met September 14, 1813.

In the same building, November 6 of that year, they formally proclaimed their independence, which was not to be realized, however, until eight years later, with the signing of the treaties of Cordoba.

The restoration is significant as indicating increasing moderation of this state government's policies toward the Catholic church. Invitations to the ceremonies held in connection with installation of bells in the first tower of the church to be finished were signed by "Sr. Agustin M. Diaz, priest authorized to officiate, and chairman of the Mexico City and Chil-

Decision in Liquor Case Is Withheld

EASTLAND, Feb. 12, (Sp.)—County Judge W. S. Adamson Thursday had under advisement a case in which the plaintiff is seeking possession of liquor seized by the officers between Texas' voting for the constitutional amendment repealing prohibition, Aug. 1935, and the drafting of new laws by the legislature, Nov. 13 the same year.

Milton Lawrence, attorney for the plaintiff, W. C. Kimbrough, contended Wednesday in the arguments there were no laws in September, 1935, when 264 pints of liquor were seized by Ranger officers and turned over to the sheriff's department, whose head, Earl Conner, Jr., district attorney, representing the state, contended the prohibition laws were in effect.

The case is the first of its type in Eastland county.

Local Labor Will Be Favored Upon '39' Construction

RANGER, Feb. 12. (Sp.)—J. E. Meroney, secretary of the Ranger chamber of commerce, and Clayton Gunnels, representative of the National Reemployment service, whose office is in Eastland, were in Weatherford Wednesday, where they visited the office of W. R. Briggs, road contractor in charge of paving Highway 89, and the office of W. E. Nichols, in charge of the Texas State Reemployment service.

It was learned that the work on Highway 89 will be in full swing within a few days and that the local labor will be used by the contractor insofar as it is possible. All work in each county will be done by labor furnished in that county. In the event there is not a sufficient number of men in a county to do any particular kind of work, men will be used from other counties, provided they have filed application with Nichols at Weatherford.

Men in Eastland county, who contemplate applying for jobs on the highway, have been advised that before they can file an application at Weatherford it will be necessary for them to go to Gunnels' office in the court house at Eastland and register. They will be given an identification card which, together with social security card, must be presented with the application at Weatherford.

It is contemplated, not by the contractor, that work will not begin in Eastland county before the middle of April. The contractor promised to give the reemployment office in Eastland sufficient notice in advance of the beginning of this division of the work in order that workers will have time to register and file applications for work.

Perforations and Colors Feature New Shoe Styles

By ALICE MAXWELL
PARIS, Feb. 12. (AP)—"Porthole perforations" open up the subject of 1937 shoe styles in Paris.

More perforations are crammed into each square inch of shoe leather this season than have ever been used before. From big ones, in dime size, to pin-pricks done in various patterns, they ventilate suede pumps, kid sandals and calf oxfords.

All shoes are climbing up in front. Bands, straps, high lacings and tall tongues are among the frontal approaches made by designers.

Colored pipings and colored stitchings continue to be popular. A black pump is stitched in yellow, while a navy blue shoe is piped with royal blue.

Three Color Shoes
Several striking three-color shoes have also come to the fore. Flat-heeled sports models have white suede fronts and navy backs or quarters while the third color has chosen for his subject: "Crooked Church Members." He declared he will call names and name the churches to which these crooked members belonged. The revival is being conducted under the direction of the pastor, the Rev. Luther Pryor.

is worked in on red and white appliques stitched to navy blue tongues. Dark red "velvet calf" sports shoes have applique kid. "Velvet calf," in fact, is the last word in soft leathers for sports shoes. Its suede surface is often accented with smooth kid or shiny patent leather appliques. One white velvet calf shoe is scalloped at the top and overlaid in back with green box calf. The leather lacing run through the scalloped top is white on one side and green on the other.

Punchwork Accents
Punchwork on afternoon shoes comes in kitchen strainer effects in which smaller perforations make rings and spirals around larger ones.

New mules and sandals use a transparent material to cover the toes. Greco, also shows sandals made of orange linen strips tied together with white leather lacings.

White linen boots are displayed for beach walkers who prefer to have the sand remain outside of their shoes rather than slip down through their toes.

SOCIAL SECURITY
TOLEDO, O., Feb. 12. (AP)—Social security is nothing new to Emil Gerchow, Toledo interior decorator. Forty-six years ago in Berlin he received certificate No. 1 of a German old age security plan in which the employer paid two-thirds and the employee one-third of assessments ranging from 2½ to 10 cents a week, according to salary. Gerchow, who came to the United States in 1892, still has the certificate.

Indianapolis Prize for Economy in Gas

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 12. (AP)—Race drivers will have plenty of time to consider—and worry about—rules governing the fuel supply for the annual Indianapolis Speedway classic, May 31. The speedway has announced that any gasoline available at a public pump may be used provided it has been on the market at least a year prior to May 1, 1937.

Each entrant may select his own fuel, but he must report the brand to the race technical committee eight days before the first qualifying trials and use the same brand in qualifying that he does in the 500-mile race.

A $2,500 prize is offered the driver who finishes the race with the least fuel.

Curiosity Traps Cat But It Nearly Paid

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 12. (AP)—The old adage "curiosity killed a cat" all but came true here.

The cat apparently stuck its head into a small can while searching for food, and became trapped. A sympathetic man noticed the animal's plight and went to its rescue. In this instance, however, the tabby's curiosity came near to being rewarded. In the bottom of the can were three baby mice.

Quarterbacks Will Have More Classes

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 12. (AP)—Prospective quarterbacks on the University of Missouri's 1937 eleven are taking a required course this spring.

Coach Don Faurot has inaugurated a school for quarterbacks.

Faurot, who is challenging Frankie Frisch for the honor of America's No. 1 year-around warrior, conducts classes for future field generals once a week.

The objective is to find one student who will make "A plus." Faurot needs a man to replace retiring Signal-Caller Jack Frye and Al Londe.

"Fire Checks" Are Youngsters' Demand

Kitchen Grouch?

NOT IN THIS HOME!

Electric Servants Do The Work

No bad humors . . . no cross words . . . no grouches. That sounds like Utopia, doesn't it? And that's just about right. Electric service offers West Texans the nearest thing to perfection yet devised for use in the home. The kitchen, where throbs the pulse of the average family, is the first scene of action each day. Tardy meals or poorly-cooked foods create the mood that a man carries to his office or the job by which he replenishes the family larder. It is on the job that a man must be at his best. A grouch, instead of a smile, may spoil his chance for promotion . . . mean the difference between success and failure. Kitchen drudgery, unnecessary in this modern age, reflects its ugliness throughout the home. The present social structure demands that housewives have "time on their hands" for more than merely "keeping house."

Locating a building in the neighborhood of Burlington where a dental firm had operated for 30 years, they got permission to work the pile of sweepings and rubbish that had accumulated in the rear. As anticipated, there was gold in the sweepings, most of it in minute fillings dropped in fashioning gold teeth. The cousins claim they are making wages.

Learning of the fire, his wife started to return to Lincoln from Chicago. As she was about to board a bus, she slipped on the ice, and went to the hospital with a fractured leg.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12. (AP)—The steamer Ohioan is breaking up on the rocks of the Golden Gate, but in the eyes of a real seaman she still has some dignity. Promoters approached William J. "I told those guys: 'She's still a ship, rocks or no rocks, and no signs go on her. Business may be bad but there's still a little sentiment in the old frame.'" ment at 2:35 a. m. yesterday by Michigan's 43-year-old bachelor governor, red-headed Frank Murphy, that—

"An agreement has been reached."

This brief statement in a downtown hotel where John L. Lewis, chairman of the committee for industrial organization, participated in final conferences at the bedside where he lay ill with a severe cold, ended eight days and nights of meetings which Murphy arranged at "the wish of the president."

After three leaders of the opposing sides affixed their signatures to the settlement, President Roosevelt telegraphed to Murphy "the thanks of the nation" for "a high public service nobly performed."

Less than 500 words were required to state the peace terms that halted a nation-wide industrial strife in automobile plants, and made possible the resumption of operations in General Motors units which William Knudson, executive vice-president, predicted would reach a speed of 225,000 cars and trucks in March.

The corporation agreed: To recognize the U. A. W. A. as collective bargaining agency for its members. To reopen as soon as possible all its plants on strike or otherwise idle.

To exercise no discrimination or prejudice against any employee because of his activity in the union or the strike.

GULF'S NEW NO-NOX ETHYL

HIGHEST ANTI-KNOCK RATING in motoring history—that's the secret of Gulf's new No-Nox Ethyl!

Your motor won't, can't knock with this fuel. For it is literally knockproof... even in the high-compression 1937 cars.

It steps up any car's power, smoothness, and economy, too. And gives split-second starts... cuts down battery drain, crankcase dilution, wasteful chocking.

Get Gulf's new No-Nox Ethyl at the Sign of the Orange Disc. Costs no more than other premium fuels. And we recommend—as a worthy running mate—the world's finest motor oil, Gulfpride.
