CONGRESS TAKES UP FARM PROGRAM

MAJOR PARTS ARE STARTED THROUGH MILL

Crop Insurance and Soil Conservation Taken Up

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Two major segments of the administration farm program—crop insurance and soil conservation benefits—started through congress today.

The senate agriculture committee invited Secretary Wallace to discuss crop insurance recommended by President Roosevelt. Chairman Jones of Texas called the house agriculture committee to hear Wallace's assistants discuss the proposal to extend until 1940 the complete federal administration soil conservation.

Fort Worth Trade Trippers Are Due Here at 3:25 p.m.

A delegation of Fort Worth business men, travelling by bus and carrying entertainers for a program of their own, was due to arrive here at 3:25 p. m. to advertise the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show next month.

The group, whose tour is sponsored by the Fort Worth Round Up club and the Fort Worth chamber of commerce, will be greeted by Cisco chamber of commerce directors headed by President R. L. Ponsler and Secretary J. E. Spencer. They were to be here only a few minutes.

STUDENTS TO BE OUT AT 3 P. M.

Classes were cut short in high school this afternoon to permit the students to meet the Fort Worth delegation. The classes were to be turned out at 3 o'clock.

Oil Belt Teachers' Meet Date Changed

RANGER, Feb. 25—Announcement was made in Ranger Wednesday by W. T. Walton, superintendent of Ranger schools, that the Oil Belt Teachers' association convention, which is to be held in Ranger, had been changed from March 19 and 20 to March 12 and 13. The change was necessitated because Dr. George Frasier, president of the Colorado State Teachers' college, who is to be the principal speaker, could not be present on the dates originally set. Plans are being made for the entertainment of between 2,500 and 3,000 teachers from the 17 counties in the Oil Belt, who are expected to attend the convention.

The change in the dates does not necessitate any change in the original program, as worked out by officials of the association, the announcement said.

Parents of Mrs. Jno. Ward Visiting Here

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davis, of Brownwood, are in Cisco to visit their daughter, Mrs. John Ward, and Mr. Ward. Mrs. Davis will remain as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ward for several days, while Mr. Davis leaves tomorrow for Eastland and Ranger to renew acquaintances of former days. He is a former citizen of Eastland county, where he lived many years. He was in the county when the oil boom started. He saw several of his old friends in Cisco while here, and visited Davis Fields, of the mechanical department of the Daily Press, who is a nephew of Mr. Davis and his name-sake.

Is the Old West Passing, Boys? Cowhands Ponder Sheik Question

Should Cowboys of Dude Ranches of Court, Is Debated

By ROBERT GEIGER
AP Feature Service Writer
CHEYENNE, Wyo., Feb. 25 (AP)—If the moon shines bright, should a cowboy steal a kiss? In a quiet nook, by a babbling brook, should he whisper: "I love you? If an heiress thaws, should he turn cold? The wild and sometimes woolly west is choosing up sides over whether dude ranch cowboys, after wrestling steers all day, should spend their nights courting feminine greenhorns from the effete east.

"A bow-legged cowboy was made for work, not romance," says Charles Belden, dude rancher of Pitchfork, Wyo.

How Far to Go? But Stow L. Witwer, president of the Colorado Dude & Guest Ranch association, contends: "Give the gals romance if they want it."

And there are the two sides of a question agitating the dude ranch industry: Just how far should a dude ranch go in giving service to its guests?

Witwer believes the ranch managers should provide anything a guest might request, from a pill for a stomach-ache to a good-looking cowboy to go with moonlit nights.

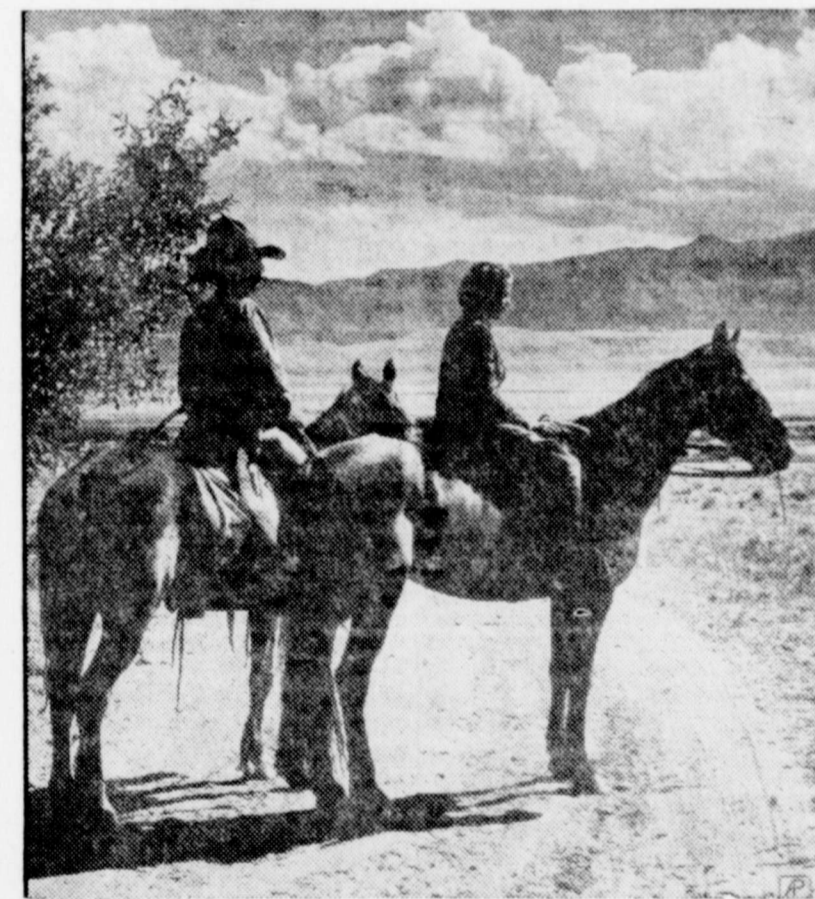

"It costs no more to hire good-

COWBOYS MAY TRADE THIS . . .

Real cowhands get up at 4 a. m. to wrangle calves. They're in the saddle from dawn to dusk, sometimes all night. They work hard, talk rough, have little time for romance. BUT . . .

FOR THIS

Some dude ranch owners think a V-shaped cowboy properly attired, will attract more wealthy feminine guests. So "That old cowhand" may become a prairie Romeo.

Two New Traffic Officers Watch Street Crossings

Two traffic officers have been employed by the city to watch crossings on Eighth street where school children cross at the morning, noon and afternoon periods, and to devote other time to watching other streets in the city to direct traffic and detect violations of traffic ordinances.

The new officers are Roy Lee Garrett and V. E. McCharen. They will be started at H avenue and Eighth street and L avenue and Eighth street during the periods when children cross the highway in numbers.

This is part of the city program to bring about safer traffic conditions in the community.

2nd Senior Skate Party, Picnic to Be Given Monday

The senior class of high school will hold a skating party and picnic Monday, it was decided this morning at the regular weekly class meeting. The group will leave the high school at 6 o'clock and will return between 9 and 10 o'clock that evening. Each senior will be permitted to invite one other person and everyone going to the affair will be required to bring his own eats.

This is the second skating party and picnic for the seniors this year.

Following the regular discussion of other business G. M. Grady, one of the class sponsors, took the remainder of the period in a talk on fire prevention. He also read fire prevention material to the class.

WAGE, HOUR PLAN SOON
WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Administration supporters predicted today that the president would soon send wage and hour proposals to congress.

'GRASS ROOTS' OIL SHOWING IS REPORTED

236-Foot Well West of Cisco Is Standing in Fluid

A "grass roots" showing of oil has been found in a well on the Frank Penn farm three miles west of Cisco on the base line road. The showing was found at a total depth of 236 feet in a sand said to have been encountered at 232 feet.

This morning operations were shut down while a column of fluid was standing in the hole. The surface of the slush pit was covered with oil.

The well is being drilled with a small spudder rig by Sil Boggs.

The well is being drilled ahead about a foot at a time to test the shallow formation. Local oil men said today that showings of oil are often found in wells drilled hereabouts at that depth or even at more shallow levels. In some cases, particularly north of town, it was said, the showing is picked up at 90 feet.

However, no effort has been made to commercialize this pay, and the potentialities of the horizon are not known. The Penn test was reported to appear capable of producing oil in profitable quantities for the investment and time involved, and considerable interest has exhibited here today.

New Traffic Signs Are Installed Here

Installation of the 39 new traffic signs for Cisco streets began today, installation of these signs is under direction of Joe Clements, street superintendent. Most of them will be placed at hazardous intersections on West Eighth street, the Daily Press was informed, while others will be placed where needed at other points in the business section.

It was not determined when the new electric traffic lights will be installed, City Secretary Cates saying it will be a week or ten days before the lights arrive. No agreement has been reached between the city and the West Texas Utilities Co. regarding their operation, he said.

Burns Victims Are Reported Doing Well

Mary Elizabeth Scott, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Scott, 1005 West Seventh street, who was seriously burned when her nightgown ignited from a cook stove burner yesterday morning, was reported resting well this morning. Mrs. Scott, who suffered severe burns on her right hand in tearing the flaming clothing from the child, was also reported responding satisfactorily to treatment.

The child, who had climbed upon the top of her small table and was believed to have reached over the stove, igniting the sleeve of her garment, was burned on the chest and the side and right arm.

The accident occurred about 8:30 yesterday morning at the family home.

Kill Bill Abolishing Agriculture Dep't

AUSTIN, Feb. 25 (AP)—The house killed today an Allred recommended bill to abolish the department of agriculture and transfer its functions to A. and M. college. The vote was 86 to 48.

Its proponents claimed the measure would save between $150,000 and $200,000 annually.

This was the second of Allred's consolidation proposals to be defeated. The committee killed a bill to abolish barber, beauty parlor and embalmer boards.

Wanted: A Name

Have you sent in your suggestion for a name for the Cisco townsite well? A prize of $10 will be paid for the best suggestion. Bring yours to the Daily Press, with the name you think appropriate written on a sheet of paper having your name at the top so that it may be cut off the sheet. When the suggestions are submitted to the judges.

SITE CLEARED FOR OIL WELL

Operations to Begin By March 15

A crew of men today were clearing brush from the location of the Cisco townsite well on the R. L. Poe lots in south Cisco, and Hugh McCreary, who secured contract for digging cellar and slush-pit, was beginning work upon the cellar.

Operations on the well, which is to be drilled to 3,800 feet if commercial production is not found at a higher level, are to begin on or before March 15. The immediate objective of the test is the Lake sand at about 3,500 feet. If no production is found there, the drill will continue to 3,800 feet testing the Marble Falls and the upper and lower Ranger pays.

J. A. Bearman, who promoted the project involving 350 town lots and acreage adjoining the southern limits of the city to a gross total of about 500 acres, said today that the city would build a road to the location and that City Street Supt. Joe Clements would undertake this immediately. The lower trunks of trees on the location will be whitewashed, he said to make the location as attractive as possible.

A huge neon gas-electric sign, towering into the sky 20 feet above the crownblock of the well, will advertise it to the world that passes by. A name by which the well will be designated is being sought in a contest and this name will be written in the glowing letters of the sign.

Associated with Mr. Bearman in the drilling of the well are A. S. Hickok of Toledo, O., who has large investments in Cisco and Eastland county and is represented here by R. L. Ponsler, superintendent of the Hickok interests in Texas Charles J. Kleiner and J. H. Reynolds, prominent Cisco oil operators. Many Cisco business and professional men have contributed acreage to the project or have purchased acreage in the pool in order to help secure the project.

In the event oil is found in commercial quantities, a great townsite drilling activity is anticipated.

Sit-Down Strike Spreading Among Aviation Workers

SANTA MONICA, Feb. 25 (AP)—The sit-down strike of aviation workers spread today from the Douglas plant to the factory of the Northrup corporation, a subsidiary employing 1,000. Officials did not estimate the number striking.

The Douglas situation approached a climax as strikers were invading some offices. They also entered the room of the government radio station and barricaded the door.

The strikers started toward the engineering department where 200 were working. Guards were dispatched.

Band Parents Club to Have Bake Sale

The Band Parents club will have a bake sale for the benefit of the Cisco Lobo band at the Cisco Gas Corp. offices Saturday. The public was invited to patronize this sale, when many delicious cakes, pies and other pastries will be offered.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

A timely warning has been voiced by local physicians to Ciscoans to be on their guard against possible infection with scarlet fever. The disease is highly contagious in its early form and a slight contact with an infected person may easily transfer its virus to another. A few cases of the disease have appeared here and there recently.

It is easily controlled and a person can be readily immunized against it, I am told. Modern serums will render one immune for several months at slight cost and inconvenience, and it is possible to become permanently immune by undergoing a long process of treatment with vaccine. But the trouble is that a person may come in contact with the disease and be infected unwittingly so that the disease appears later and forces isolation from other people and loss of time from work as well as greater expense.

It is prudent, therefore, to give warning of the danger so that precautions may be observed and unnecessary illness and trouble prevented. If you have reason to suspect that you have come in contact with the malady somewhere go to your physician and let him immunize you at once. Health, like success, demands constant vigilance and prudence.

If you have not already thought of a good name for the new townsite oil well, a name that will attract attention because of its striking character, get busy at once. Submit it to this paper or to the Cisco Daily News, on a sheet of paper with your own name written sufficiently far from the suggestion to be readily clipped from the sheet. Corresponding numbers will be placed on the suggestion and your name slip for identification after the judges have picked the winner. Ten dollars is the award for the best suggestion. In event of a tie, the prize will be split.

Dr. E. L. Graham's supreme feat of laziness accomplished in the planting of turnips last year comes to the front again with the advent of Spring. Doc is reported to have achieved this distinction without moving from the bed where he lay near an open window reading the paper. Mrs. Graham had insisted the patch of garden outside this window be sowed and Doc had agreed on condition that a laborer be hired to spade the soil. When he came home one evening the plot was neatly turned, and Mrs. Graham reminded him of his promise. Without moving from his place on the bed, Doc had Daughter Gloria bring him his automatic shot gun, a quantity of shells from which Gloria had previously removed the shot for some purpose, filled the shells with the turnip seed, loaded the gun and fired it at the plowed ground outside the window.

A couple of weeks later, A. L. Clark, who lives next door, came

BLOODY PURGE IN ETHIOPIA IS REPORTED

ROME, Feb. 25. (AP)—An official communique announced Monday that Italian firing squads executed all Ethiopians found with weapons in their homes in a grim sequel to the attempted assassination of Viceroy Rodolfo Graziani.

The communique did not announce the number of the dead, but said that only 100 of the 2,000 arrested in connection with the attempted assassination were released.

The squads worked with "hot rifles," signaling the transition of Mussolini's pacific Ethiopian policy to the iron hand.

Abilene Man Is New President of Oil and Gas Ass'n

BRECKENRIDGE, Feb. 25.—J. C. Hunter of the firm of Grisham and Hunter, Abilene, Saturday night was named president of the West Central Texas Oil and Gas association for 1937.

Art Frazier of Abilene and Ralph A. Fleming of Albany were named first and second vice presidents, respectively. Secretary-treasurer for the association will be chosen later by the president.

The retiring officers are: Paul W. Pitzer of Pitzer & West, president; Ellis A. Hall and Dillard Henson, first and second vice presidents. G. R. Whitney will continue to serve as secretary-treasurer until a successor is named.

New directors included Drew Beams, C. M. Caldwell, Geo. Callihan, N. G. Cheney, M. E. Daniel, James B. Dunigan, E. A. Ungren, Paul Deats, Lee C. Heltzel, Louis Green, W. D. Gulley, C. W. Hoffman, J. C. Hunter, Charlie Kleiner, W. L. Knight, George Lamb, E. T. Merry, L. A. Warren, E. W. Moutray, W. F. Nelson, Karl F. Page, H. L. Pinkerton, R. L. Ponsler, A. H. Rhodes, W. J. Rhodes, Jack E. Robert, J. D. Sandefer, Jr., John W. Sedwick, E. C. Stovall, W. E. Tyler, W. W. Wallace, John Ward, Joe Weaver, C. K. West, Bob Windfehr, Marshall Young, P. W. Pitzer, Ellis A. Hall, Dillard

Henson, Joe Clark, A. V. Jones, J. A. Bearman, Lee Heltzel, R. M. Wagstaff, Malcolm M. Meek, J. H. Reynolds and H. O. Wooten.

Many members of the state house of representatives and senate were among the 350 guests present at the fifth annual banquet of the association.

Lieutenant Governor Woodul was the principal speaker. Other addresses were made by C. V. Terrell, chairman of the railroad commission, Senator Clint Small of Amarillo and Joe S. Bridwell, Bridwell, Wichita Falls independent oil operator, in an unexpected statement, attacked the state old age pension program.

He struck at plans to assess increased gross production taxes against the State's oil industry and denied the need of an old age pension program in the state. Bridwell asserted the agitation for such a program was more of a political situation than a reality, and that in its present lack of discrimination between the needy and those who did not need the payment served only as an excuse to levy more taxes against the already over-burdened oil industry.

Senator Frank S. Rawlings of Fort Worth was a guest at the banquet. A party from Austin headed by Railroad Commissioner Thompson, was forced down at Waco by the dust storm and returned to Austin.

Notice was served on legislators present from the west central division by J. D. Sandefer, Jr., toastmaster, that further burdening of the industry with taxes would be retaliated at the next election.

CISCO MEN DIRECTORS OF O. & G. ASS'N.

Cisco members of the board of directors of the West Central Texas Oil and Gas association elected at the annual meeting of the organization at Breckenridge Saturday night, are Chas. J. Kleiner, J. H. Reynolds, J. A. Bearman, R. L. Ponsler, L. A. Warren, W. W. Wallace and Lee Heltzel.

These, with the exception of R. Reynolds who is in south Texas, were present at the meeting. Frank Bond of Cisco was also present.

Election to Make Eastland County Dry to Be Sought

EASTLAND, Feb. 25. (Sp.)—Commissioners' court will be asked to call an election for removal of 14 and 3.2 per cent alcoholic beverages from the county executive committee of the United Dry Forces voted Monday morning in county courthouse at Eastland.

The vote was made upon the recommendation of G. M. Meglasson of Cisco, president, who presided.

Meglasson and Rev. Robert E. Eowden of Eastland, secretary-treasurer, were designated to consult an official or a lawyer for assistance in forming a petition which will bear signatures asking the election.

It was also decided voting precincts of the county will be organized for the campaign.

A mass meeting of the executives and other prohibitionists was set for 10 a. m. next Monday in the county courtroom.

Former Eastland County Judge Dies

MEMPHIS, Hall Co., Tex., Feb. 25.—Judge S. A. Bryant died at his home Monday. A native of Kentucky, he was graduated from the University of Waco, which later became Baylor. He served as Eastland county judge and later as Hall county attorney.

Bryant was a member of the legislature of the thirty-sixth and through the fortieth sessions. Farming interests engaged his attention here in recent years. Three daughters survive, Mrs. Byron Gist of Amarillo, Mrs. O. L. Jameson of Knox City and Miss Elizabeth Bryant of Memphis.

At one time Judge Bryant edited and published the Cisco Pilot, a populist newspaper, when the populists elected most of the county officers.

HONOR COURT IS HELD HERE

Thirty or more Boy Scouts of Cisco were advanced in scouting honors at a court of honor which, held in the basement of the First Methodist church Friday evening drew one of the largest and most enthusiastic gatherings of scouts, scouters and fathers that have attended any similar meeting here in years.

Between 50 and 60 were present. Guy N. Quirl, scout executive of the Comanche Trail council, of which this district is a part, was present. Judge Eugene Lankford of Cisco, chairman of promotion for the district, presided.

Badges denoting their achievements in the various fields in which scouting encourages youthful endeavor, were awarded those found justified of advances. Boys who secured one or more members during the months of November and December were given Acorn badges, while the application of Cecil Edwards for the "Golden Quill" was laid before the court for action at the next session. The "Golden Quill" is awarded for achievements in journalism.

Members of Troops No. 4 and 101 and their scoutmasters, Standlee McCracken and S. E. Hittson composed the court of honor. Possibility of the organization of a third troop in Cisco was heard during the enthusiastic program. Many requests from boys who are not now scouts have been received, and the present two troops are full.

Another possibility discussed was the organization of a cub pack for boys between the ages of 9 and 12. Should this be done, Cisco would have the only such pack in Eastland county and the second in the council. Breckenridge now has the only pack in the area.

Refreshments, consisting of pies brought by the boys, were served at the conclusion of the program.

Fire Sunday Burns Garage and Contents

The garage at the home of Leon Cagle, 104 West Eleventh street, was destroyed by fire about 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The building and its contents, including several hundred dollars worth of auto accessories, were completely destroyed. The building was insured but the contents were not, it was learned.

The cause of the fire was not determined. Fire Marshal O. Gustafson said today.

Senate Group OKs Bill to Retire Justices at 70

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. (AP)—The senate judiciary committee voted today to report out the Summers bill providing voluntary retirement for supreme court justices at the age of 70.

The group fixed March 9 to start hearings on the president's broader court reorganization program.

The retirement bill was reported out without a change after several amendments were rejected.

Shortly before the committee action it was announced that Roosevelt conferred with eleven farm leaders endeavoring to win their support on the court proposals.

Mrs. Rachel Macarthur of Edinburgh, said to be Scotland's oldest woman, is 109. She underwent an appendectomy at 96 and has been in good health ever since.

Murray Harris vs. Harvey Harris, divorce and custody of minor children. James Young vs. Jack Lee, trespass and to try title, damages and possession.

Judgments and Orders

The following orders were handed down in the 88th court during the past week:

First State Bank of Rising Star vs. C. L. Gotcher, suit on note. Judgment for plaintiff for $1,026.50, interest and cost.

Order of Governor Allred designating Judge E. J. Miller, judge of the 35th district court at Brownwood, to preside in a hearing in the 88th court in which both Judge Patterson, of that court, and Judge Davenport, of the 91st court, were disqualified, was ordered spread upon the minutes of the court.

J. T. Cowart vs. John A. Russell et al, suit on official bond. It appearing to the court that the plea of limitations by the heirs of M. Hill, one of Russell's bondsmen, and that other bondsmen were dead and their estates insolvent, the plea of limitations was approved, and judgment was rendered for the defendants. Plaintiff excepts from the judgment and gave notice of appeal to the eleventh court of civil appeals, after a motion for a new trial was overruled.

Verdict of Guilty

A jury verdict of guilty was returned into open court finding Ray Burns, of Gorman, guilty of criminal assault, and assessing his punishment at five years confinement in the state penitentiary. Motion for new trial overruled. Notice of appeal filed.

Jury Commission

The following were named as a jury commission for the 88th court to draw a grand jury and petty juries for the second, third and fourth weeks of the March term of the court, subject to reassignment by the court: T. L. Overby, Eastland; E. P. Crawford, Cisco; and A. J. Ratliff, Ranger. The commission was sworn and empaneled Friday, and proceeded to draw the juries as ordered.

THE NINETY-FIRST DISTRICT COURT

(Judge Davenport, Presiding)

New Cases Pending

The following new causes of action have been filed in the office of the district clerk for litigation in the 91st court:

Ex parte Elizabeth Bone, to change name. Margareta Flores vs. Aurelia Flores, divorce. Marie Jones vs. D. O. Jones, divorce.

Judgments and Orders

Judge Davenport handed down the following orders in the 91st court during the past week:

Ex parte Elizabeth Bone, to change her name. Petition approved, and name ordered changed to Elizabeth Bone Daniel.

C. H. Yeager vs. C. M. Root, damages. Settled and dismissed.

W. F. Jeffs vs. L. J. Jeffs, petition of intervention by O. R. Taulenhahn, for the purpose of establishing his claim against the estate. Petition approved and intervention authorized.

State vs. James Smith is the style of an indictment returned by the 91st grand jury, who has been placed under arrest recently. He is charged with tapping an oil and gas line for the purpose of appropriating its contents to his own use and benefit, against the statutes therefor provided.

Application of O. R. Cooper for letters of guardianship of the estate of Carl Oscar Jensen, minor, approved and letters of guardianship ordered issued. Oath subscribed to and bond approved.

Ruby Rae Cheatham, to be adjudged tubercular. G. W. Arnold, charged with lunacy, are pending cases.

County Court Orders

W. C. Kimbrough vs. Loss Woods, sheriff, to recover confiscated liquors. This case was tried before Judge W. S. Adamson, who took the case under advisement, and later rendered a decision and order of restoration. This order, however, was later set aside, and the contraband goods still remain in the hands of the sheriff.

Discussing the matter with a representative of the Cisco Press Judge Adamson said:

"To restore this stock of liquors to the plaintiff in this case would be turning over merchandise to a person not authorized to sell or receive it, as he would, as soon as it came into his possession, be liable to arrest. This case is different, in this respect, to the case in south Texas, in which the court of appeals passed upon and issued an order of restoration. In that case the plaintiff was in possession of a permit as a package dealer, and had a legal right to receive the merchandise.

"I have not yet formulated a decision in the case, but I am inclined to think that a solution of the problem would be for the wholesaler, from whom the liquor was purchased, to intervene, and the liquor could be restored to him, as he has a permit, or presumably has, to deal in the wholesale of liquor, then the wholesaler and the plaintiff, Kimbrough, could adjust the matter among themselves. But, as I said, I have not yet reached a conclusion that is satisfactory to myself in the premises."

Stockyards National Bank of Fort Worth vs. H. C. and C. V. Ables, action for debt. Plea of limitations filed, showing the debt to be barred by limitation, as the case has been on the docket for several years, and no prosecution has been had. The limitation plea was sustained and the cause dismissed.

Ludie Mae Owens vs. Regional Agricultural Credit corporation, injunction. Injunction dissolved and cause dismissed.

Commissioners Court

By special resolution the commissioners court approved the application of the Commercial State bank of Ranger, county depository, for the release of $30,000 of United States treasury bonds, as it appeared to the court there were sufficient funds still in the hands of the trustee to secure the funds of the county. Therefore, it was the order of the court that the trustee, the First National bank of Dallas be directed to release the above described securities.

Gorman Farmers to Plant Watermelons
 Gorman trade territory farmers have already signed for watermelon seed to plant 84 acres of the vines, according to a story in the Gorman Progress. Twenty-seven farmers had signed for seed which the Gorman Luncheon club will furnish. It was predicted that twice this acreage would be planted, however.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

My soul shall be satisfied, even as it were with marrow and fatness, when my mouth praisth thee with joyful lips.—Ps. lxxiii, 5.

No more to fear or grief I bow, God and the angels love me now; The joys prepared for me to-day Drive fear and mourning far away.

—HINMAN.

Why not speak as though mankind were always on the eve of great certitude of great joy? If you have learned to let your glance rest on sincerity, simplicity, truth, you will ever discover, deep down in all things, the silent over-powering victory of that which you love.—Maeterlinck.

The Cue!

CONGRATULATIONS, MR. BEARMAN and your associates, upon the successful promotion of your project for drilling a townsite well in Cisco. Whether or not the well is a success from the standpoint of production, it is already a success as a grand and inspiring civic program.

MEN and initiative make towns. Men with practical vision, with force, courage and capital can do almost anything in community building. Cisco has plenty of opportunities. These need only the alchemy of human mind and power to transform them into the realities of prosperity. In this project it has been demonstrated that these human qualities are here. And in their operation that exists opportunity for every person.

FOR long it has been complained that Cisco has needed leadership and capital. In the bottom of the depression these were openly longed for. They have come rather by happy accident. Men of capital, community spirit and ability are providing the means.

Texas Senate Stands Firm

ONCE more the senate of the state of Texas has stood courageously on the issue of the rights of the state and local government and refused to ratify the misnamed and deceptive "child labor" amendment to the national constitution in the face of the tom-tomming of the reformers and the politicians.

NEVER was opportunism more plausibly advanced and defended than in the demand for this amendment. No single constitutional sentence embodied such a broad delegation of startling powers to the congress and, through the enactments of congress, to the administration of the federal government.

THE action of the Texas senate is more praiseworthy because it stood firm in the face of a wave of popularity to which the better reasoning of many people seems timidously to have succumbed. As time moves on, the refusal of the Texas upper house to ratify will gain more and more gratitude at the hands of the people.

Hot Cakes Oiled With Venison Fat Delicacy in Inland Alaska

Alaska, a land of high prices, primitive conditions and beautiful scenery is the word picture which a friend painted in a letter to Mrs. Lulu Paschall of Cisco. The following excerpts provide a graphic description of some of the conditions which a traveler will meet in the more remote portions of that "last frontier" of America:

"On leaving Seattle we sailed on a large freighter and it took us ten days to reach Juneau where we docked for two days loading and unloading; thence another week before we arrived at Valdez. All this due to the very heavy fogs and going through what is known as the Inside Passage. We did not enter out on the open Pacific at all. We arrived at Valdez 3 o'clock in the afternoon and it was already beginning to get dusk. We had expected to remain there a couple of days, but were informed that if we wanted to get our inland destination we had to leave the following morning at five o'clock.

High Prices With that information, we had to get our belongings together in a hurry and obtain such necessities as we could in at once, and that was a task in that burg. And do they hold you up on prices? Well, it almost made you say 'maddog' backwards. Articles that can be secured in any five and ten cent store were cheap at seventy-five cents. A few canned goods, a sack of spuds, and a sack of flour set us back $13.50 besides we had to pay $1.00 per c.w.i. for transportation. Whew!

"After a fashion we managed to get started at five o'clock the next morning on the 197-mile trek through lovely scenery. The farther you went the more lovely it became, but we also got farther away from civilization. We traveled as fast as the horses and donks could go with the heavy burdens, and we each had a pack sack and were on foot. Took only time for a bite to eat now and then and slept just long enough to let the animals rest and eat. It took us three days and two nights to negotiate the 197 miles. Have you ever seen a dark night? If not, go to Alaska. It really gets dark up there. It is so dark that you cannot see the dark. Still, the horses did not get off the trail or make a mis-step.

Depression Camp "At three in the afternoon we arrived at what used to be called Depression Camp. Quite a depression, too! Very lofty mountains surround the valley. Beautiful! Words are inadequate! Lucky we were to arrive in daylight, or we would have been out of luck for the night. We managed to locate a fairly good cabin. This cabin was built across the stream, the water running directly under. It was 38 feet long and 24 feet in width, and all in one room. A large fire place built directly over the stream, with a hole in the floor where you could rake the ashes and all other refuse and garbage into the creek underneath, and let it go on to the sea, if it ever got that far. This cabin made from very large logs. The floor was made from hewed timbers and the fire place from slate rock on the floor, and it was a dandy which also served as heater, cookstove, light and reading lamp. We did not suffer from want of fuel, but had to cut it. That was the hardest work.

Hay Burners "Had no lights except two old hay-burners (lanterns) but we could not burn them but very little as we could not get the kerosene. We used pitchy wood at night, and that made us good light from the fire-place. We could open the door in the floor, and drop the fish-hook down and get what salmon we wanted at anytime. Water dipped up through this hole, but I fixed up a small log and made a trough and placed it against the water fall on the upper side of the cabin and let the water right into the cabin and fixed it so that the over-flow dropped into the creek. You couldn't beat these conveniences in a modern city. We had plenty of aurora borealis, or, northern lights. They are a phenomenon

Acclaim Begins At Age of 73 for Eccentric Artist

By CHARLEC NORMAN AP Feature Service Writer NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Louis Michel Eilshemius sits with a shawl around his shoulders and a blanket over his legs in a room cluttered up by his unsold canvases.

The pictures are ranged a score deep on the floor, they perch on chairs, hide a sofa from view, engulf the piano and overflow into the next room. In their midst, like King Canute with his ankles in the tide, sits their creator, who calls himself "Supreme Parnassian" and "Transcendent Eagle of Art." Above, perched on top of a two-tiering bookcase, two stuffed pelicans, with the dust of years on them, look down placidly.

"Mighty Man" Is He By his own admission, Eilshemius has painted 9,000 pictures; written, he says, 200 books, most of them unpublished; and composed perhaps a hundred pieces of music. For years he went about the street handing his card to strangers. The card proclaimed his painter, poet, composer, marksman, inventor and "ex-fancy amateur" dancer. Nevertheless, critics remained distinctly unfriendly.

He also sent letters to newspapers, letters which deplored the state of art, but were full of exhortation to behold when you are close to them. Almost scary. "The valley is most beautiful, but rather narrow and the mountains are sky-high and covered with immense timber of various kinds. Plenty of Gold "There is plenty of gold,—but get it!—No matter what one would be able to get up there, you sure do earn every cent of its worth and then some. Did not tell you about our 'bunks' did I? Well, there were three 'fashioned' ones and we filled them with fir and cedar boughs, straw on top, and then our bedding. We slept real comfortable. Not at all bad.

"We had plenty of hot-cakes, but they were dry, without butter. Of course we had to 'oil' them with venison fat. I managed to bribe the packtrain man to bring me some syrup and that was a surprise to the other two as I did not tell them until I placed it on the table. What a delicacy! They also brought a little Crisco, sugar, salt and pepper and the venison tasted mighty fine, but it got old to have to eat it every day and practically every meal. We had to. "If you want to go picnicking, there is the place to go. The climate at Juneau is similar to Seattle. It is the capital and a city of about 4,500. The scenery is beyond words all over Alaska. Valdez is a nice little place of about 700 'natives' or what you might call them."

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

"Papa, I'm ten years old today," said an aggressive youngster to me several years ago. I gave him a side notice away from the task that occupied me and muttered an indifferent, "Uh-huh." I had passed a few decades myself and a year, more or less, was a matter better ignored than noticed. But that night after the affairs of the day had been laid aside, the boys were asleep, and I had time to think, the boy's remark came back to me, and the tone of it that gave away a little of the pride and the sense of importance that was behind the words, and the evident expectation that I would enter into his experience, claiming to be a father of a ten-year-old boy and his brothers. The incident always comes back to memory with something of regret. Why should I not have intensified a great deal the meaning of a boy's tenth birthday?

Every birthday has its own meaning. The sixth or seventh means that strange experience of starting to school. The twelfth may mean a little resentment at being treated like a child. The fifteenth or sixteenth has an eye, shy or otherwise, for some one else, not always knowing which one. The eighteenth may bring a grown-up feeling and a pause on the threshold of independence. The twenty-first one may feel like he is being pushed out of the nest. The fiftieth one feels as if he was over the hill and decided to hold back. I do not know the experience of one much beyond that. But I presume as one goes on and on he becomes reconciled to the impending fate of all; he knows that an end of the way is somewhere ahead. It is well if he has hope that he may turn into another way. Anyway the enjoyment of each passing year lies in making the most of it while it is ours, and in being ready for the better days that may come even if they prove unending.

Fertilizer Aids Yield of Hegari

The yield of hegari was increased more than 400 per cent for Henry Pittman, a farmer living near Seranton, by the application of fertilizer which cost $1.90 as shown in his recent report to County Agent Elmo V. Cook. Pitt-ture and two of my paintings in this issue." He paused to let that sink in. "Art," he suddenly exclaimed, "is like a bird flying through the air—you know that, don't you?" His visitor looked up and saw the stuffed pelicans gazing down with dusty, lack-luster eyes.

Lions Hear State Highway Engineer at Noon Luncheon

A. D. Schmid, resident engineer with the Texas highway department, was the speaker for the Cisco Lions club Wednesday, discussing statistics on the amount of funds released in the course of the recent construction of Highway No. One over West Eighth street, and presenting possibilities for future highway and grade separation construction in Cisco.

Among the projects which are under consideration, in addition to the building of the giant four-lane concrete and steel overpass to carry No. One over the Katy tracks on Eighth street, are an underpass to carry Highway 23 under the T. and P. and M. K. and T. tracks at the south end of 7th avenue, and widening of Highway No. One west to Dothan from the junction of the new and old routes just west of the city limits, he said. This stretch of road, narrowest on the No. One route, is only 16 feet in width. It would be broadened to 18 or 20 feet.

The proposed overpass, to cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, would eliminate one of the most serious grade crossing situations in this section. By its construction, after the eastern half of the new No. One route over Eighth is completed, traffic would enter and leave Cisco on both principal highway routes without crossing any railroad at grade.

T. C. Williams was program chairman and presented Mr. Schmid.

PORTABLE BULLETIN BOARD FOR CLUB

A portable bulletin board, constructed with two compartments that may be closed and locked—one on either side of a central panel containing a large electric alarm clock—was presented to the Lions club Wednesday by Hal Dyer, who constructed it. The board may be rolled into position before the club at luncheons and then pushed out of the way. In the locked compartments are niches for the club's bell, song books and other property, as well as bulletin boards for posting various information. In the central panel the current club roster of officers, directors, committees and members is kept behind glass.

The board is painted attractively in aluminum.

Tobacco Specialist E. Y. Floyd of North Carolina State college says a hundred square yards of bed, or a bed 10 yards long and 10 yards wide, will produce from 10,000 to 15,000 seedling tobacco plants.

News From County 4-H Clubs

Meeting of Club Girls at Flatwood

The Flatwoods 4-H club girls met February 16 at the home of their sponsor, Mrs. T. E. Robertson. Methods were discussed by which money could be raised to pay back the money loaned to them by the Flatwoods Home Demonstration club. This money was used to send a delegate to short course.

Lorraine Byrd and Rosa Mae Harbin had their sewing boxes equipped with tape measure, needles, thread, thimble, scissors, pins and pin cushion. They also had their material for their pajamas.

The following club members were present: Cleo Norris, Frances Cartwright, Rosetta Arnold, Margaret Arnold, Virginia Cornwell, Bobbie Byrd, Leola Snell, Dora Hallmark, Jewell Justice, Lorraine Byrd, Lorene Deshaner and Rosa Mae Harbin.—Rosa Mae Harbin, Reporter.

Subirrigation

"I plan to supply my family with tomatoes by subirrigating my garden," says Johnnie Nix, garden demonstrator of the Morton Valley 4-H Club girls. "I have laid 100 feet of tile with the help of the club girls and agricultural class at Morton Valley. My father dug the trenches about four feet apart. They were made level so that the water would flow to all parts of the garden. An old linoleum was torn in strips and placed across the joints to be certain that no dirt would get into the tile. My tiles only cost me a cent per foot."

Meeting of Club Girls at Mangum

The Mangum 4-H club girls met February 23 at the Mangum school. Inez Maxwell, Ruth Peel, and Mildred Skaggs had well equipped sewing boxes with material for pajamas and their hotbeds were ready for the tomato seed to be planted. Muriel Gray and Helen Hager had well equipped sewing boxes with material for pajamas. Mary Louise May and Connie Bee Lovell had well equipped sewing boxes. After the sewing boxes were examined as to size and equipment, Cornelia Faye Stewart, assistant county home demonstration agent, carried the girls to Mildred Skaggs's home and gave a hotbed demonstration. After the hotbed was filled with fertilizer, Miss Stewart showed us how to plant the tomato seeds, in rows one to two inches apart, dropping four or five seeds to the inch and covering with 1-4 inch dirt. Mildred will allow her hotbed to heat for a day or two before planting her tomatoes.

The officers of the club are as follows: president, Jeanette Daniels; vice president, Inez Maxwell; secretary, Muriel Gray; reporter,

Eastland Lodge Celebrates 73rd K.P. Anniversary

EASTLAND, Feb. 25.—One hundred and fifty Pythians of the district observed the founding of the order 73 years ago at a meeting sponsored by the Eastland lodge Tuesday night in Castle hall.

Karl K. White of the Eastland lodge made the address of welcome.

Clyde L. Grissom, associate justice of the eleventh court of civil appeals, presented a cake, prepared by Mike Andrews of Eastland, to John Lee Smith of Throckmorton, district deputy supreme chancellor, and another to D. B. Roark, Eastland, for over 50 years a member of the Pythian lodges. Both cakes, prepared by Andrews were designed to represent the occasion.

Les Dorsey, chancellor commander of the Eastland lodge, was given a "dozen button" by Theo Yarbrough of Weatherford, grand-keeper of records and seals, for obtaining 12 members last year. The Eastland club was designated by Yarbrough in the dozen club of the supreme lodge of Texas for last year.

Other officials attending were Deputy Grand Chancellor Pullig of Gorman, Chancellor Commander Bray of Gorman, Chancellor Commander Mayor Schwartz of Baird and Deputy Grand Chancellor Gibbs of Breckenridge.

Twenty-one attended from Breckenridge, five from Baird and twenty from Gorman.

My sister is wardrobe demonstrator this year and plans to make a hat rack, add a door, paper the inside and outside and extend the closet to the ceiling."

Hotbeds
 "We are starting our spring gardens now by building a hotbed," says Mrs. W. J. Greer and her three daughters, sponsor and garden cooperators of the Carbon 4-H club girls. "We are making the hotbed six feet by eight feet so we can grow several vegetables in it all the year round regardless of the cold weather and drought. The covering of the hotbed cost $1.25 and the nails 10c, but we plan to use it for several years."

Closet Improvement
 "I moved our old closet from a very dark corner of the hall to our bed room," says Billie Timmons, wardrobe demonstrator of the Kokomo 4-H club girls. When I joined the club our closet was too small for the four people in our family. I decided to make it larger and move to a lighter part of the house. The closet was made 7 feet long two feet wide and six feet high. My sister and I have our clothes at one end of the closet and our parents have the other end. Four shelves are in the middle of the closet on which we store folded garments. I have built a shoe rack under the shelves."

 looking cowboys to help entertain our feminine guests than it does to hire a tongue-tied one who knows how to toss a lasso," says Witwer.

"I speak from experience. A charming eastern girl came to the ranch and now she is Mrs. Witwer. Today she is one of the best dude ranch hostesses in the business." Belden, who has one of the largest dude ranches in the west, says Wyoming and not cowboys should provide the "atmosphere" for a dude ranch vacation.

Costly and Inefficient
 "Good cowboys are needed. In the summer they have the dudes to wrangle in addition to the spring and fall branding, dehorning and weaning of calves. A 'drug store' cowboy can't do it."

"The atmosphere idea is all right, maybe, but it runs up the overhead, decreases general efficiency and is just as out of place as a uniformed groom would be on a western ranch."

"A cowboy should be homely and weather beaten."

Paul Holmes of Encampment, who herds dudes and white-faced cattle in the Saratoga valley, said he has no place on his ranch for a cowpuncher who "can't punch cows."

"But a lot of Wyoming cowboys are just naturally good-looking," he added. "They have the v-figure, bronzed features and the healthy look that women go for. I recall that Ann Gould Meader

Slight Increase in Shipments of Stock Is Shown

AUSTIN, Feb. 25.—Shipments of live stock from Texas to Fort Worth stockyards and interstate points during January increased moderately over the corresponding month last year, the University of Texas bureau of business research has reported. Forwardings of all classes totaled 5,186 cars against 4,972 a year ago, an increase of 4 per cent. Cattle shipments, 3,305 cars, declined 4 per cent from January last year. Shipments of calves, 661 cars, increased 17 per cent; hogs, 736 cars, increased 23 per cent; and sheep shipments, 369 cars, increased 40 per cent.

"The large year to year increase in marketings to Los Angeles, noted in previous months, continued during January," the bureau's report said. "There also was a marked increase in shipments of cattle and calves to other California points."

"Comparatively large shipments of sheep were made to Kansas City, Oklahoma, and Iowa."

PALM-LEAF QUILTING

PARIS, Feb. 25. (AP)—A palm-leaf motif worked out in quilting accents each side of the front of a white satin tuck-in blouse. The "stem," which is run through several perforations, is tied with a white satin bow.

Schedule on Range Program Announced

EASTLAND, Feb. 25.—A schedule of meetings for explanation of the 1937 range program was announced Tuesday by County Agent Elmo V. Cook.

Agent Cook stated "any farmer or rancher who has 200 or more acres in pasture will be interested in the range program and should attend."

He said those having less acreage are eligible to participate in the program, but indicated the payments would not warrant.

The meetings:
 Rising Star, 10 a. m., Friday, Feb. 26, chamber of commerce.
 Cisco, 2 p. m., Friday, Feb. 26, chamber of commerce.
 Ranger, 10 a. m., Saturday, Feb. 27, chamber of commerce.
 Eastland, 2 p. m., Saturday, Feb. 27, county courtroom.

The county agent will offer the explanation.

The 1927 conservation program as applicable to farmers will be explained at a series of meetings to be announced Wednesday.

There are approximately 20,000 private slaughter-houses in England and Wales.

Texas Natural Resources to Be Presented in Extensive Exhibit

Texas' natural resources, more than 90 per cent undeveloped, will be presented to the public in the most comprehensive exhibit of its type to be shown in the state at the Greater Texas and Pan American exposition opening in Dallas on June 12.

For the purpose of assembling this comprehensive showing field men will be sent over Texas within the next few days, with a full knowledge of geology. They will go into every section of the state, hunt out showings of these latent resources, get the consent of their owners for placing them at the exposition and transport them to Dallas in ample time for the opening date.

Co-operation in this movement will be the transportation companies of the state and industrial leaders. Railroads will transport exhibits from point of origin to Dallas free of all costs to exhibits and the exposition.

According to Judge John M. Spellman, director of the exhibit, and president and director general of the permanent resources committee, important raw materials to be added to the exhibit in a more comprehensive way will include potash, wood for the manufacture of paper pulp, iron ore and lignite.

Rich in Lignite
"Texas possesses more than half the lignite resources of the world," Judge Spellman said. "This resource is practically undeveloped. Its dormancy has been due to the fact that Texas at the moment has an over-supply of cheap fuel in the form of natural gas. Of course all who have investigated know this resource must of necessity become exhausted in the future. Then industry in the state must turn to another cheap fuel. It has it in these vast lignite deposits, the extent of which are yet unknown to any geologist. Also, during the years natural gas has been used, transportation facilities have been developed to the point where it will not be a problem to transport this fuel as it was in earlier days.

"It is a part of the vision of those having in charge the resources exhibit to place these deposits and their potentialities before the investors of the world so that finances will be available and development started at the moment needed.

"During this year the committee representing this exhibit expect to cooperate to the fullest in the presentation of these vast resources to visitors from all sections of American and the Pan-American countries.

"Many of our visitors from Pan-America will be coming from countries which, themselves, have great undeveloped resources. The inspiration we can give them with the planning development we are working out will prove of great value to them when they return home. It is our hope that many of these ideas may be incorporated in their plans for the development of their own resources.

World Market Ready.
"There is no competition between the leading resources of Texas and those of Pan-America. As a matter of fact the world is the market for both. It is furthermore true that the leading latent resources of Texas are practically without competition anywhere else in the world."

Judge Spellman said that the plan of his committee, which has been incorporated under Texas law, and which contemplates a continuous five-year program after the close of the exposition, is to send its own emissaries into the Pan-American countries, with the hope of interesting industrialists, transportation companies and developers in those sections in sending to Dallas a great showing of their resources. The hope of the committee is that these resources showings may be placed at a point convenient to the showing by Texas so that the visitor may see all with a minimum of trouble and travel.

The resources exhibit, during the coming exposition, also has planned to enlarge its staff of trained personnel so that every visitor may receive the information sought upon any particular resource.

More than 50,000 letters and cards are on file with the committee asking information concerning specific Texas resources. These have been indexed by resource, a booklet has been prepared and full information given. In addition the information is available to any industrialist interested in the development of any of these particular resources.

Thousands Saw 1936 Exhibit

During the Centennial Exposition the resources exhibit was visited by many thousands of Southwestern school children, accompanied by their teachers. It was placed among the preferred educational showings. As a result discussion of these exhibits was a part of the curriculum in the higher grades in hundreds of Southwestern schools this winter. It is the plan of Judge Spellman and his committee to elaborate further on this feature of its showing, directly contact teachers of the Southwest, and as far as possible the Pan-American countries, and make certain the resources exhibit is visited. A textbook on resources also is being prepared; 200,000 copies are to be issued, and it is to be placed in the public and private schools of the region.

"Limitations of space last year held us to a 65 per cent showing of Texas resources," Judge Spellman said.

"Having begun in time we are assured adequate space this year in one building, and thus our objective of a 100 per cent showing will be obtained.

"In addition to lignite, iron ore, potash, various grades and sorts of lumber material, which were somewhat neglected in the last showing, we expect to include petroleum and all its by-products in the showing this year. Last year the petroleum showing was confined exclusively to the efforts of private concerns. Of course, our showing in no way will conflict with these private showings, which are expected again, but merely will be supplementary and assembled without reference to companies or territories.

"There is now being erected in Texas a paper pulp mill at a cost of $5,000,000. Some of the leaders in that industry are members of our committee. It has been their urging work, largely, which has made this plant possible.

Industrial Age Ahead
"Industrial and economic leaders realize the era of exclusive livestock and agriculture in Texas is passing. To reach its destiny the state must become a great decentralized manufacturing community. By this we are not, of course, suggesting abandonment of either livestock or agriculture. We simply are seeking to supplement them with pay rolls. World competition in the production of cotton, beef and wool is making this move upon the part of Texas an economic necessity. It is our intention to interest capital in this move, and we have found no better plan than an exhibit such as we contemplate, assembled under the direction of competent men, on hand at all times to explain the extent of these resources and their commercial possibilities to our visitors. This is our goal in the Pan-American Exposition. We expect it to attract many millions of industrial dollars to our state."

Cisco Men Allege Breach of Contract

EASTLAND, Feb. 25.—Breach of contract is alleged by Pete Cooles and Charles Sandler, operators of the Cisco Lumber and Supply company, in 88th district court where they have sued Eastland County Lumber company, which they claim they were to have purchased.

Prior to January 7 this year, the petition filed by the lumber men states they had contemplated opening a lumber yard at Eastland.

Charlie Bartlett of the Higginbotham Bartlett Lumber company, at Eastland came to Cisco Jan. 5, it is alleged, and suggested they cooperate with him in purchasing the yard and land of the Pickering Lumber company of Eastland and the building and stock of the Eastland County Lumber Co.

The petitioners also claim E. L. Kurth, president of the Eastland County Lumber company, on Jan. 6 made a verbal agreement with them to sell the land, building and stock of his organization. The agreement was confirmed by mail Jan. 8, Sandler and Cooles claim, to buy the property for $3,500 and that Frank Crowell be associated with them.

The court was asked to render judgment for the amount of loss sustained by the cancellation of a contract for purchase of lumber and material for a yard they contemplated opening in Eastland and specific performance of the contract with Eastland County Lumber company, or in the alternative, $3,500 for the failure of the defendant to comply with the contract they declare in effect.

$10,000 In Cost of School Buses Being Sent Out

The county superintendent's office was mailed out warrants last week to the various schools of the county for maintenance and drivers' salaries of public school buses engaged in transporting scholastics. The total sum being disbursed amounted to $10,000, and was distributed in the following amount to each of the schools named below:

Scranton, $740; Cisco, 11,175; Morton Valley, $740; Reagan, $172; Okra, $310; Ranger, $638; Carbon, $1,179; Alameda, $545; Colony, $487; Romney, $243; Desdemona, $376; Gorman, $811; Flatwood, $132.92; Pioneer, $762.39; Cross Roads, $191.09; Rising Star, $1,227.81; to private transportation, $39.90.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

SYNOPSIS: When Count Vronski, who is blackmailing Anne Phelps with love letters, is shot dead in her studio, three persons are nearby: Anne, Clarke Bigelow and Karsanakoff, the glamorous dancer. They hide the corpse during a party, then Bigelow and Dr. Austrelitz, the psychologist, move it to Vronski's rooms. Police arrest Thorne Dryden, a wealthy chap who hated Vronski, and his wife, Lorna, disappears, thinking to make the police suspect her. Anne and Bigelow find Lorna, realize she's innocent, then visit Austrelitz.

removed beforehand unknown to Anne.

"We never thought of that!" cried Bigelow, sitting up.

"No," admitted Austrelitz. "But then we hadn't the same incentive. She was actually in the room where the gun was supposed to be!"

"But who could have removed the gun?" asked Anne.

"When had you seen it last?" asked the doctor.

Anne thought hard. "I don't know. The last time I went for cigarettes, I suppose, I kept them in the same drawer."

"When do you remember going to the drawer for cigarettes?"

"Not for several weeks. You see, I usually fill all the boxes and don't go to the drawer again until the supply in the boxes runs low."

"And have many people been in and out of the studio in those weeks?"

"Dozens," sighed Anne.

"So really the gun might have been taken a week or two before the night of the murder—without your knowing?"

"Yes, I suppose so," Anne looked troubled.

"Which makes the case look much less dark against Karsanakoff," said Bigelow.

"And increases our number of suspects by dozens of my friends," said Anne.

They were silent for a moment or two, each busy with his own thoughts.

"Did Karsanakoff have any more to say that was interesting?" asked Bigelow.

"Yes. She said that in her opinion we were wasting time over this problem that might be much better employed. She said that none of us is of much importance in the world, in any case and—so far as she could learn—that Vronski was even less than most. And that she could not look on his death as a calamity."

"I wonder what she knows about him and how long she has known it and how she found it out?" murmured Bigelow.

Austrelitz smiled dryly. "Yes, that might be most convenient." He reached for a hand-worked silver cigarette box on his night table and offered cigarettes. "Have you dined, by the way, you two?" he asked with belated compunction.

"No," answered Bigelow, "not yet. We thought we'd rather come and compare notes with you first."

Austrelitz rang. "I'm sure we can fix up something for you here," he said. "My own hours are so uncertain, Deakin has become quite an expert in the matter of scratch meals."

"Please don't bother—" begged Anne.

"As a matter of fact," grinned Bigelow, "we've had one scratch meal today. It consisted of soup. I'll admit that there was everything in it that could be in soup, but I think I should prefer a proper dinner tonight, if you don't mind. Thanks just the same."

"Well, we'll have a drink in any case," said the doctor. "If you like old-fashioned, we make them rather well, here."

"Adore them," Anne assured him enthusiastically.

Deakin came to the door and was instructed to prepare the drinks.

"It Would Be Sordid"

"I suppose you've not had an answer yet from your colleague in Paris?" asked Bigelow. "About Karsanakoff, I mean?"

"No. It will probably come tomorrow, but it was only a routine inquiry and I don't expect to learn much from it, you know. One reads and hears a great deal about these women like Karsanakoff but in the end one learns little more than they or their press-agents wish one to know. Their private lives remain largely a mystery. My colleague will cable me a record of her professional appearances and perhaps report a few of the scandals that have been circulated about her. But if there is no mention of Vronski we will be no wiser than we are now."

"It would be interesting," said Anne, "to know exactly what her life has been. I mean the true story without any garnishing."

"Much of it would be sordid, I should think," said Austrelitz.

"Oh, quite," agreed Anne. "But she probably didn't begin with many advantages."

Austrelitz smiled. "You mean she may not have had wealth—beautiful surroundings—governments—the opportunity to acquire various accomplishments. But would all these things have been advantages?"

"Wouldn't they?" asked Anne, surprised.

"Would she have developed her artistry, do you think? Would she have become a famous dancer?"

"Probably not," Anne admitted. "Then both she and the world have benefited from the fact that she found the strength to lift herself out of difficult conditions. I sometimes think that is the Scheme of Things—and why the world is in such a chaotic state. We're here to work things out. To fight our way up. To escape if we can."

Chapter 32
A Cryptic Utterance

"So," said the doctor, thoughtfully summing up the report of Anne and Bigelow, "she didn't come to the studio and she wasn't the woman in the mink coat who went to Vronski's apartment?"

"No," answered Anne.

"Then," said Austrelitz, "Karsanakoff must have killed him."

"Or the baroness—?" suggested Bigelow.

"The baroness?" The doctor regarded him curiously.

"She was invited to the studio party. She might have made two trips: the first to shoot Vronski; the second to pretend she hadn't been there before and to see what we had done about the murder. She was the only one who kept remarking on Vronski's continued absence and thinking it odd. Maybe she knew why he wasn't there. And may be she deliberately created that scene at the Colony next day knowing we must have got the body back to the apartment. No one else could have, you see."

Austrelitz frowned in deep thought. Anne stared at Bigelow.

"But how could she have got the gun from the drawer in the bedstand? Did she know it was there?" Austrelitz asked.

Anne shook her head. "She'd never been in the studio before."

"Could she have been there with Vronski without your knowledge?"

"Impossible. Vronski never had the key," declared Anne.

"Had she ever met Karsanakoff before that night?"

"I don't know," answered Anne. "I wasn't paying much heed to anything at the party. And Vronski had introduced a number of them to Karsanakoff in the bar at Madge's—before the party began. So she already knew them when they arrived there."

"If we only knew what Karsanakoff knows about that night," sighed the doctor.

"We might question her—?" suggested Bigelow.

"I'm afraid she'd tell you only what she wanted you to know," he answered, smiling faintly. "She called on me today, by the way."

"Oh?" said Anne, interestedly.

"You may remember I promised to dine with her tonight, but this morning, I realized that would be impossible, so I sent round some flowers with a note to make suitable apologies and break the engagement. I was out most of the afternoon—called into consultation over a very interesting case at one of the hospitals. When I returned, she was waiting for me in my private office."

"In your private office?" repeated Bigelow, in surprise.

"Yes. She had persuaded Miss Westcott to let her wait there as the waiting room was full. She said they must be ill or they would not come to see me and that she had a horror of germs. She said if she sat in there she would imagine them breathing them out by the thousands and she would certainly have hysterics."

Anne smiled.

Was the Gun Stolen?

"What did she want?" asked Bigelow.

"To know all about the new theory of the crime that I had mentioned on the telephone yesterday. I explained that we wondered if a fifth person might not have managed to gain entrance to the studio and shoot Vronski while the rest of you were out of the room. She thought it over for a long time with her eyes fixed on my face, but her expression revealed nothing. Finally, she said she supposed it was possible but that she did not think it probable that it could have happened without her knowledge. I call your particular attention to that cryptic utterance. She pointed out that she was in the next room all the time with the door open between. She then said there was the gun, too—one would have to think how it could have got into the possession of this mysterious fifth person. She reminded me that Anne had identified it definitely as hers and had said that it was in the drawer of the bedside cabinet, but she added that, of course, what Anne had really meant was that it was habitually kept there, and as nobody had looked for it upon entering the studio that night, it could—she supposed—have been agents wish one to know. Their private lives remain largely a mystery. My colleague will cable me a record of her professional appearances and perhaps report a few of the scandals that have been circulated about her. But if there is no mention of Vronski we will be no wiser than we are now."

"It would be interesting," said Anne, "to know exactly what her life has been. I mean the true story without any garnishing."

"Much of it would be sordid, I should think," said Austrelitz.

"Oh, quite," agreed Anne. "But she probably didn't begin with many advantages."

Austrelitz smiled. "You mean she may not have had wealth—beautiful surroundings—governments—the opportunity to acquire various accomplishments. But would all these things have been advantages?"

"Wouldn't they?" asked Anne, surprised.

"Would she have developed her artistry, do you think? Would she have become a famous dancer?"

"Probably not," Anne admitted. "Then both she and the world have benefited from the fact that she found the strength to lift herself out of difficult conditions. I sometimes think that is the Scheme of Things—and why the world is in such a chaotic state. We're here to work things out. To fight our way up. To escape if we can."

HOW LONG CAN A THREE-QUARTER WIFE HOLD HER HUSBAND?

YOU have to work at marriage to make a success of it. Men may be selfish, unsympathetic, but that's the way they're made and you might as well realize it. When your back aches and your nerves scream, don't take it out on your husband. He can't possibly know how you feel.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three eras of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "smiling through."

Louisville Pessimist's Paradise Young Cisco Minister Writes Home

Louisville presents a paradise for the pessimist, wrote young Edwin Skiles, Baptist minister and theological student at that beautiful Kentucky city which was submerged by the worst flood in American history as the Ohio river inundated it last month. Mr. Skiles, who with others of more than 500 young ministers was forced to evacuate the Southern Baptist Theological seminary during that period to make room for refugees, returned to Louisville from Cisco two weeks ago. He wrote a graphic description of the effects of the flood in the course of a long letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Skiles.

Below is an excerpt:
Louisville is in a terrible condition. The papers have not exaggerated the destruction wrought by the flood. All the business houses in the district were flooded, the depth of water ranging from a few inches to 20 feet. The flood waters were covered with oil, and the oil line where the water was remains to show the depth. Plate glass broken by the pressure, plaster falling, floors buckled, furnishings twisted, merchandise destroyed presents a horrible picture. We drove by the corner where the terrible explosion occurred and saw a mass of twisted steel and brick partly filling a gaping hole in the earth. Everywhere we saw water being pumped out of basements. Many of the streets are sinking. The central part of the city is still in darkness and all furnaces are out of order.

Most of the business establishments have signs on the windows announcing that they are open for business. We went into some of the large department stores. Coal oil and carbide lamps are being used, and the sales ladies were wearing heavy coats. Only small portions of the stores were open while other sections were closed for repairs and filled with damaged merchandise.

The railroad tracks down by the river are covered with tank cars which were floated by the water and now are strewn all up and down the waterfront.

We drove in the direction of "The Point," the slum section of the city. Large maple trees which once gave their branches to nesting swallows, are now burdened with the unusual and unnatural load of house tops, chicken coops and pieces of furniture. Sections of houses weight down telephone cables. Soon we were forced to turn back for houses barricaded the street. They were jammed in the thoroughfare in the most unconventional positions.

Then we drove into one of the

nice residential sections of the city. The same nasty oil line was to be seen ranging from the window sills of the first floor up to the second floor and roofs. We went into a building, now condemned, which two weeks ago was the beautiful edifice of a Baptist church. The water reached above the key board of the organ console which is located above the pulpit. The floor of the auditorium had a carpet of mire inches thick. Pews were fallen apart, plaster falling and beautiful furnishings destroyed.

Louisville presents a paradise to the pessimist. However, the people are returning to their homes and the work of reconstruction is going forward.

Highways along the river are in bad condition. When I went to my church, a few miles from Owensboro, I had to go down on the Indiana side of the river and ferry across. I am going to Bristol, Ky., near Bowling Green, this week end for services and will travel by train.

Extension School Being Taught Here

An extension school from Howard Payne college meets each Thursday evening at 6 o'clock at the grammar school here with A. F. Fielder as instructor in the two courses taught, it was announced today. Advanced English and advanced sociology are taught. These courses will allow six hours on degrees from the college, it was explained.

Nearly $16,000 Salary Deficit in County Fund

EASTLAND, Feb. 25.—Eastland county had a deficit of $15,662.50 in the officers' salary fund for the year ending December 31, 1936 according to figures compiled by Auditor Don Parker.

The deficit in the fund was made up from the general fund. The state was to have paid 14 cents per capita as its portion of the salary fund to the county, as reimbursement for the handling of criminal cases, and 70 per cent of the district attorney's salary, but only seven cents was paid on the per capita proposition. That helped the county to the extent of about $2,300.

No appropriation was made by the legislature for its aid on the district attorney's salary.

Fees from the different offices put $47,130.57 into the officers' salary fund, from which the officials and deputies were paid with the additional $15,662.50 from the general fund. That much was provided the officers and deputies under the law.

Eastland has been under the officers' salary fund type of payment with other Texas counties for a year. The constitutional amendment abolishing fees for certain offices was voted in 1935.

Commissioners' court, which had the option of allowing precinct officers, constables and justices of peace, their remuneration by salaries or fees decided upon the latter method.

$7,000 Increase in Grants for Schools

An increase of $7,000 in state grants for Eastland county rural schools occurred in 1936-37, a report of County Supt. C. E. Eldridge revealed.

The sum allowed for transportation this year is $20,433, which is being prorated among the various districts.

Arrests in Philadelphia totaled nearly 30,000 less in 1936 than in 1935, the police bureau reports. The 1936 figure was 105,163.

FLAG PROGRAM HELD MONDAY FOR STUDENTS

"The flag is your protection wherever you may go and you ought to honor and defend it."

These were the concluding words of Rev. E. S. James' talk Monday afternoon in the special flag raising program at the grammar school in commemoration of George Washington's birthday. The pastor's speech was taken up mostly with a history of the flag and Washington's connection with the first one.

The special ceremonies, honoring the father of our country and further the purpose of endeavoring to teach the pupils and grown-ups knowledge which they should know about the flag, came at 3 o'clock Monday and the entire grammar school student body, several townsmen and the Boy Scouts were present for the occasion.

The occasion opened with the entire group singing "America," Rev. James delivered the invocation.

Following the Baptist minister's principal speech, Ernest Hittson, chairman for the program, introduced Rev. M. H. Applewhite who explained the uses and cautions of the flag as they were demonstrated by the scouts. Crandall Jones explained fully the proper times and places for using the American flag.

Then, while the entire gathering saluted, the flag was raised to the top of the pole and brought back down to half-mast while "To the Colors," was blown. With the banner waving in the breeze the group repeated the "Pledge of Allegiance" in unison and A. G. Bardwell gave the rules of the flag. As Jack Lauderdale, the bugler, sounded "Retreat" the Red, White, and Blue was lowered, ending the celebration.

The program was sponsored by the local American Legion auxiliary with Mrs. James Haynie and Mrs. Charles Yates in charge.

A. C. Green, Cisco undertaker, donated the use of a casket box and a carpet for one of the demonstrations.

Increase in Deficit of State Reported

AUSTIN, Feb. 25.—An increase in the general fund deficit to $14,019,783 was reported Saturday by Treasurer Charley Lockhart in calling for payment of $464,456 in warrants, including No. 192,494, issued Aug. 16, 1936. The deficit Feb. 5 was $13,156,395.

A deficit of $5,014,467 was reported in the Confederate pension fund, for which warrants issued through February, 1936, were called for purchase if not discounted through February, 1935, regardless of discount.

Odd Fellows Here Install Officers Monday Evening

Cisco Lodge No. 281, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, electly installed the officers, elect of that lodge Monday night in a ceremony followed by a supper served by the members of Good Will chapter No. 102, Daughters of Rebekah. The installing officer was Walter Clements, district deputy grand master; who was assisted by Coe McLeRoy, district deputy grand warden; J. A. Jensen, district deputy grand secretary; J. E. Pross, district deputy grand treasurer, and E. P. Whiteaker, district deputy grand marshal.

Those inducted into their respective stations were:

W. W. Manning, noble grand, J. R. Coleman, vice grand; Coe McLeRoy, secretary; Walter Clements, treasurer; Coe McLeRoy, representative to the grand lodge; J. A. Jensen, G. P. Rainbolt and W. S. DeRossett, trustees.

Department Store Sales In Decline

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 25.—Sales measured in dollars in Texas department stores declined during January somewhat more than the average seasonal amount from the preceding month, but were substantially above those of the corresponding month last year, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research. Reports from a representative group of stores show an increase in sales of 11.9 per cent over January last year, but a decline of 55.3 per cent from December. The average seasonal decline from December to January is 51.8 per cent.

Cities with an increase in sales during January greater than that for the state are: Abilene, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Houston, and Port Arthur.

DYNAMITE CRIME WAVE

HELSINKI, Finland, Feb. 25 (AP)—An increasing number of burglaries, with dynamite being used extensively to wreck safes, has become a matter of public concern in this usually quiet northern capital. Police have not been able to break up what appears to be an organized gang of safebreakers.

Peach Orchards Being Planted in Eastland County

Planting of commercial peach orchards in Eastland county is assuming considerable proportions, a survey reveals. J. E. Spencer and B. B. Poe have just finished setting out a total of 2,550 peach trees on two tracts near Long Branch, three miles east of Romney. Mr. Spencer has 1,300 trees set on 30 acres and Mr. Poe 1,250 trees on 35 acres. Approximately 800 trees of the new Frank cling variety developed by J. W. Stubbs of Mexico, Tex., and acclimated so successfully to this soil and climate by the Wolfe nursery at Stephenville, have been planted on the two tracts. Other principal varieties planted include 300 of the Hart Cling and 300 of the Fair's Beauty which are the principal varieties produced in Parker county.

The orchards are expected to go into commercial bearing in three years. In the meantime the land can be devoted to annual crops. Dallas Jobe of Gorman, who has an 80-acre peach and pecan orchard nine years old near Gorman, last year set out 150 acres of the Leveridge farm near Scranton, which he purchased, to peaches. His experience with the Gorman orchard convinced him of the practicability of commercial peach growing in this county and induced him to devote this acreage to the fruit.

Barton Philpott, Cisco florist, has also set out, this year, a small commercial orchard of 10 acres on land one-half mile east of Romney. He has mixed peaches and pecans.

Throughout the country south of Cisco farmers are turning more and more noticeably to fruit. Numerous small and large plots of land are being devoted to peaches and to papershell varieties of peaches, with peaches taking precedence. The experience of Parker county with growing commercial fruit has had a noticeable influence upon the initiative of the landowners and the farmers of that section, where the land is of the rolling, well-drained type with soil and sub-soil characteristics similar to those of Parker county and evidently well adapted to peach growing.

Senior Girls Attend Tarleton Open House

Nine girls of the senior class left at noon to attend the open house sponsored by the Association of Women Students, to be held at John Tarleton college in Stephenville this afternoon. The girls were accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Daniel, one of the senior class sponsors. The trip today came in response to the invitation sent them last week inviting all the Cisco high school senior girls to attend. Among the Tarleton girls who are hostesses at the open house are Misses Francis Gorman, Pansy Lee Porter, Louise Statham, Dena Carroll and Marjorie Page, all Cisco girls. Guests are expected from Cisco, Brady, Evant, Hico, Iredell, McGregor, Talpa and Tolar.
