NANKING BOMBED HEAVIEST SATURDAY

The Cisco Daily Press is the only home-owned and operated newspaper in Cisco, the official paper of the city, with guaranteed circulation built on service to its community, and a program dedicated to the building of Cisco in material and in spirit so that all may prosper and be happy in the best little city in Texas.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

Those who went to Rising Star Friday or Saturday to visit the annual Free Fall Fair sponsored by the Rising Star chamber of commerce got an eye-full of the results of community aggressiveness. The fair which that community staged put into the shade by a wide margin anything that Cisco, Eastland and Ranger have done of that character. That is said in no disparagement of our own efforts, but simply to point out the fact that those who say such things cannot be done here are all wet. Rising Star is doing it, and doing it in real fashion.

Estimates that there were 10,000 people in Rising Star for the fair Saturday were really declared too conservative. There were enough folks there to raise all the dust in the universe, but the dust seemed to assist rather than hinder, for it gave evidence of activity that enlivened the flapping bunting, the lights, the spinning ferris wheel, the bright signs, the carnival grounds, the restless movements of the livestock and the rodeo program which was perhaps the most popular attraction.

Streams of people constantly came and went through the aisles and doors of the exhibit buildings. It was difficult at times to force one's way through the throngs. But it was worth it to see what Rising Star and the communities contributing to the Rising Star fair were doing. The booths arranged by the FFA boys, those of the merchants, and those of the various communities were artistically made up of products of a high order. The individual displays were perhaps of more interest to the practical eye. Each of them was limited to displaying what the exhibitors grew on their own farms and in their own gardens and processed at home. It was actually startling to note the variety of products that were produced. Truly a practical live-at-home program is being carried out on many farms in that area.

The exhibits of home-talent painting, the displays of needlework and other art work, to a laymen's eye certainly afforded no opportunity for eye-browish criticism. They revealed talent not only good, but in many instances splendid.

Rising Star is to be congratulated upon this fine showing. But it is to be congratulated more upon the community initiative and spirit which produced such a splendid demonstration of what intelligent cooperation, and cooperative action can accomplish.

75 School Children Escape in Bus Crash

CHILDRESS, Sept. 25. (AP)—Seventy-five members of the Lakeview high school football team and pep squad escaped serious injury when two buses crashed here at midnight. They were en route home from a game at Shamrock. Three girls and nine boys received hospital treatment.

HITLER, DUCE CONFER UPON FUTURE MOVE

Serious Conversations Are on Program for This Week

MUNICH, Sept. 25 (AP)—Benito Mussolini and Adolf Hitler met today for the second time in their spectacular careers and Europe tensely awaited the result of their rendezvous. The first few hours of the visit of the Italian premier to the German chancellor were taken up with a round of social activities in a flamboyant setting of bunting, troops and parades. Hitler greeted Mussolini at the railroad station. In their serious "brass tack" conversations this week and next may be decided such things as a possible new balance of power in Europe, alteration in the Italo-German intervention in Spanish civil war or the fate of international efforts to control war-like piracy in the Mediterranean.

LAWMAKERS GATHERING

Special Tax-Raising Session Monday

AUSTIN, Sept. 25 (AP)—Lawmakers poured into Austin today to prepare for the tax session of the legislature opening Monday. Governor Allred has insisted additional funds would be needed for old age assistance, aid for the needy blind, dependent children, teachers retirement plan, an to wipe out the 12 million dollar general fund deficit.

Promotion Day at First Baptist Sunday School

The First Baptist Sunday school will observe Promotion Day this morning with certificates of award in the cradle roll, beginners, primary, juniors and intermediate departments, it was announced by Asa Skiles, superintendent. All pupils promoted from the primary to the junior department will be awarded a Bible. The Rev. Mr. Mann of Godley, Texas, will preach at both the morning and the evening services of the church.

Woman Held When Husband Disappears

PARIS, Sept. 25. (AP)—Nadine Plevetskaia was arrested today in connection with the mysterious disappearance of her husband, General Nicholas Skobline, and former Russian army chief, General Eugene De Miller. Surete also issued orders for the arrest of Kkobline as the central figure in the disappearance of De Miller, who failed to return Wednesday from an engagement. Skobline, his aide, reported his disappearance and then vanished himself.

Il Duce's Son to Hollywood by Plane

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 25. (AP)—Premier Mussolini's son, Vittorio, arrived in Hollywood by plane today to learn the inside of the motion picture industry. He will be a guest of producer, Hal Roach. The Statute of Liberty in New York harbor was unveiled in 1886.

10,000 Throng Fair Grounds at Rising Star

Two-Day Event Is Biggest and Best in History of Free Fall Fairs; Entries Received From Three Counties

Rising Star needed its celebrated traffic signal light Saturday. But it didn't need a fair. It had one. What a fair! At least 10,000 people thronged the streets of that southern Eastland county agricultural metropolis Saturday for the final day of the biggest and best Free Fall Fair that that little city has ever held, and one to put to shame the exhibitionist efforts of its larger neighbors. As "Doc" Sellers, publisher of the Rising Star Record, told your correspondent Saturday afternoon, it was, in reality a tri-county event. Rising Star sits near the joining of the corners of Eastland, Brown and Callahan, and among the three buildings crammed with exhibits of farm, home and artistic enterprise and the stock pens restive with more than 200 head of fine farm animals, there were entries from all three of these counties. The stock exhibit alone entitled Rising Star to eminence in its display. But the booths, merchants' exhibits and exhibits of home talent paintings, art work, needlecraft, canning, FFA boys, curios and relics of sundry character, gave a volume, interest and color to the fair which ranked it well with sectional demonstrations anywhere.

The fair is annually sponsored by the Rising Star chamber of commerce and its officers, Cecil Shults, president, and Frank Robertson, secretary, serve in the same capacity as fair managers. The exhibits were opened Thursday evening. Friday morning the principal activities of the program were launched with a stirring parade of school children, numbering two thousand from the Rising Star high and ward schools, and the schools of Pioneer, Williams, May and Romney. The grand parade, more than a mile in length and made up of various sections, including floats, saddle horses, decorated bicycles, household pets, teams, Shetland ponies and so forth, took place Saturday morning. In the community exhibit section, featuring displays of home

Well Bailing 75 Barrels Daily After Treatment

Prospects of a new shallow oil field 12 1/2 miles west of Moran loomed today as the J. D. Meredith No. 1 J. H. Grimes bailed at the rate of 75 barrels daily after acidizing between 1,203 and 1,209 feet.

The well, in wildcat territory, is located in the center of a 600-acre tract in Section 75 of the T. and P. Ry. survey. Meredith is the discoverer of the old Moran shallow production, and he was being credited at Moran Saturday with the possibility of having discovered another prolific shallow area. The oil is of good gravity, testing, according to reports 40 degrees Baume.

129 Bales of Cotton Ginned in County

A total of 129 bales of cotton had been ginned prior to September 16 in Eastland county from the 1937 crop, as compared with 202 ginned prior to September 16, 1936, from the 1936 crop. Mrs. Lannie Mancill, cotton census agent, announced.

Drilling Begins on Phillips Test Near Scranton

Drilling began Wednesday in the Phillips Petroleum company's No. 1 B. P. Cozart, in Callahan county about one and a half miles west of Scranton. The well, deep test slated to test possibility of production below the normal horizons in this territory, is being drilled under contract by Gallagher and Lawson, Cisco firm. It has attracted a great deal of attention and considerable leasing activity has been reported from the district.

Italians Massacred by Ethiopians

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Herald-Tribune, in a copy-righted dispatch from London, said today it was learned from an unimpeachable source that "the entire Italian garrison and Italian civil population of the northern Ethiopian town of Makale has been massacred by tribesmen." Makale was the scene of heavy fighting in the Ethiopian campaign and was captured by Italians on Nov. 8, 1935. "The Makale slaughter," the Herald-Tribune dispatch says, "may partly explain the strange step of Italy in offering the democratic powers something for nothing; that is to say, the stoppage of Italian reinforcements to Spain."

200 BELIEVED KILLED, POWER PLANT RUINED

U. S. Embassy Staff Watch Raid From Veranda

NANKING, Sept. 25 (AP)—Japanese planes bombed China's capital for seven hours today inflicting the heaviest destruction yet wrought in a series of raids. It was believed that 200 were killed. The American embassy staff watched the raid from a veranda. The nearest bombs fell a mile away.

A power plant supplying Canton with current was destroyed. Canton was also bombed again. The American community at Canton cabled Secretary Hull a protest against the Japanese raids. From Peiping Japanese reported they occupied Tsangchow, at the eastern end of China's punctured Hopeh province defense line.

Two government hospitals flying the Red Cross flag were struck by Japanese bombs but were not damaged seriously. Three blocks of the city's best shops were wiped out in the heart of Nanking. Chinese officials declared light, water and food facilities upon which 1,000,000 persons depended, were destroyed by the raiders despite Japanese assertions their attacks were aimed only at military objectives.

Reduced to Ruins

The power plant was reduced to ruins by a Japanese air squadron leader who made a spectacular vertical dive directly above the structure to release a deadly rain of explosives.

American cameramen declared they had recorded most of the bomb attack as well as the squadron leader's sensational dive. Eighty Japanese warplanes made the raid sweeping over the terror-stricken capital in continuous waves while Chinese antiaircraft guns thundered defiance. Three Japanese planes were downed.

One raider, hit directly by the first antiaircraft blast, plummeted like a comet into the Yangtze river. Two other Japanese fliers bailed out but their parachutes failed and they dropped to death as their planes fell in flames.

Police, soldiers and other spectators watched the aerial battle from crowded streets, cheering as the Japanese planes fell to earth. Fall Near Hospitals Projectiles rained about the National Health Institute and the adjoining hospital housing 1,000 wounded Chinese soldiers, but none was hurt during the attack. Other bombs narrowly missed the home of T. V. Soong, brother of Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek and former finance minister. As soon as the attack ended, Mme. Chiang, chief of the nation's air forces, visited hospitals to comfort the wounded. Three bombs, falling close together, devastated a teeming civilian area of 200 by 150 feet where streets are only six feet wide. At least 80 flimsy dwellings crumpled like paper under the bombardment and were consumed by flames.

Heaviest Casualties

The heaviest casualties were in the Wuchingmiao slum district, where stretcher-bearers seemed to bring out more dead and wounded children than adults. One bomb narrowly missed the Wesleyan Mission hospital.

In one corner of the Wuchingmiao district 120 mangled Chinese corpses were carried past the Associated Press correspondent within a period of 10 minutes. Anguished men, women and children ran through the streets screaming in terror, their cries mingling with the groans of the wounded. Bodies lay in the alley-like streets, the dead and wounded in-

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS: When flashy Prescott Fanning abducts Janet from Baltimore on his yacht, she gets word to Neil, a young federal agent who loves her. Dashing to Absalom's Harbor, he boards the yacht and finds, in a locked cabin, Fanning shot dead and Janet in a faint, a gun beside her. Neil hides her nearby in a disused liner, then joins Mark Boninger, keen local investigator, to keep tabs on developments. Returning from a trip to the ship, Neil is overpowered by a husky brute who binds him, taping his eyes and mouth, and carries him off.

Chapter 22 A Brutal Grilling

When he was ready, the man turned Neil over on his face and cut the bonds on his wrists. He turned Neil again and, smothering him under his full weight, pulled his arms forward and tied them in front. He tied a second rope to the first one and, standing Neil on his feet, started pulling on the other end drawing Neil's arms above his head and higher until his feet began to leave the ground. He then fastened the rope, leaving Neil dangling, his toes just touching the ground.

The man then came close and, with his foul breath in Neil's face, started going through his pockets and through his clothes to the skin. He even unlaced his boots, and felt inside his socks. He took out Neil's wallet, examined it and put it back. This was no ordinary robber. He was after some particular thing. When he failed to find it, he started low, savage cursing.

"Where is the stuff?" he muttered.

"You damn fool!" Neil said, knowing that meaningless grunts were the only sounds he could make.

The tapes were pulled off his lips. Neil instantly shouted with his full voice. The man laughed.

"Shout your lungs out," he said. "There's no house in a mile."

Neil shut his mouth.

"Where's the stuff? . . . Come across or I'll kill you."

"What stuff?" answered Neil. "I don't know what you're talking about."

The man's reply was a blow that almost jerked Neil's arms out of their sockets. He spun around helplessly.

"Where's the stuff?" growled the man.

Neil knew he had been watched from the beginning. Evidently it was thought that he had secured something valuable on the yacht. Some loot of Fanning's. It was useless to protest that he didn't have it. He stalled for time.

"Loose me and I'll talk to you about it."

The man laughed. "What kind of a fool do you think I am?"

"You can come with me and I'll take you to it," said Neil.

"No, you don't! You tell me where it is and if I find it, I'll loose you. If I don't find it, I'll come back and kill you with my fist!"

Buried Treasure

Neil thought: If I had an hour, I could release myself. It's worth trying. He said: "Do you know the wooden beacon that stands on Absalom's Point?"

"I've seen it."

"I buried it near there."

The man growled in pretended indifference: "Which direction?"

"He's biting! Neil thought, and went on: "Stand with your back against the beacon and face the big locust that grows in the field. Take six full steps toward the tree, and dig in the sand. It's not buried deep. I didn't have time."

The man was silent, and Neil held himself tense for the outcome.

"All right," he said at last. "God help you if you're lying!" Neil relaxed.

He pasted the tapes back on Neil's lips. They didn't stick so firmly this time. He then pulled himself upon deck and leaped to the shore. Neil heard his steps crunching away.

Neil, blind, speechless and bound, took stock of his situation. Unnoticed by his captor, the rope had stretched somewhat and his feet were now planted firmly on the ground. The strain had loosened the bonds on his wrists also.

He rubbed his mouth against his arm until he got rid of the loose tapes. His eyes were more firmly fastened shut, and he let them go for the present.

He maneuvered his hands until he got hold of the rope from above. It was a coarse hempen rope that afforded a good grip. With endless patient working, he drew himself up on it an inch at a time. The cross-beam was only a foot or so above his hands. He struck against it, and after several failures he was able to hook his fingers over it and hang there.

He now caught the dangling rope between his upper arm and his teeth and, holding it there, started gnawing. It seemed like a hopeless job. Minutes passed before he could feel even one fibre parting between his teeth. Meanwhile his strained fingers seemed to pass beyond his control. Momentarily, out of sheer exhaustion, they threatened to lose their hold on the cross-beam.

But life was sweet and Janet infinitely dear to him. The thought of her fate if anything happened to him kept his hands gripping the beam, kept his teeth grinding automatically. The rope fibers parted one by one. He lost all count of time. He was only a chewing mechanism.

The rope, he thought, was about half chewed through when he heard his captor coming back. There was a heavy slide down the bank and footsteps on the shingle. A sickening feeling of rage and frustration filled Neil. All his pains for nothing! He drew up his legs and let go the beam. The rope broke and he fell to the floor.

But he was still helpless. He tore the tapes off his eyes and pulled savagely with his teeth at the knots that bound his wrists. If he could only free himself so he could put up a fight! Too late! The man was climbing aboard.

Rescued

The round eye of a flashlight blazed in the hatch overhead. It dazzled Neil and he could not see what was behind it. He struggled to throw himself out of reach of its rays, but could not.

"Good God! What happened?" said a husky, uncertain voice.

This was not what Neil had expected. For an instant he was filled with stupefaction, then a surge of joy. "Eyster!" he yelled.

"What shall I do?" the voice quavered.

"Come down here quick and untie me!" shouted Neil.

"I dassn't! I couldn't get out." An ugly suspicion arrested Neil's eye. Was the man playing with him? Were the two in cahoots? "Let yourself drop," he commanded. "You can see that it's

They Still Argue About Sitting Bull

PIERRE, S. D., Sept. 25. (AP)—A movement to construct a new marker on the grave of Sitting Bull at Fort Yates, N. D., again has revived the question of whether the Sioux warrior was a chief or a medicine man. Authorities have differed on his correct title for years.

Lawrence K. Fox, superintendent of the state historical department, maintains the tribal leader was a medicine man but was called chief "for the want of a better title."

Stanley Vestal in his book, "Sitting Bull," wrote: "There are several men still living who saw him inaugurated as head of the non-agency Sioux," and Charles H. L. Johnson called him an Unkpapa chief. However, the band which Sitting Bull led was more commonly known as the Hunkpapas.

Fox says Sitting Bull's grave has been marked several times but the markers have been destroyed by souvenir seekers or vandals.

Oil Man Injured In Accident Near Strawn

STRAWN, Sept. 25.—Ed S. Britton, an oil man, was injured one mile north of Strawn at an oil well on the Strawn Coal company property Friday afternoon. The sand shive fell from the mast pole and struck him a glancing blow between the shoulders. He was knocked unconscious. He was taken to the hospital.

The doctor reports Britton seriously hurt but believes he will recover.

less than 10 feet. I'll boost you out when you untie me. Quick!" Eyster finally lowered himself over the edge of the hatch and let go. Neil's spirits leaped up. He could have embraced the little man then.

Five minutes later the two of them dropped to the shingle. Eyster was shaking with nervousness. Neil turned to take a look at his prison. It was an old Chesapeake puny which had been abandoned on the beach. The masts were out of her. She was a complete wreck.

Horse Thief 'Sleuths' Still Meet Together

GARNAVILLE, Ia., Sept. 25. (AP)—The Garnaville Horse Thief Detective association, organized in 1850, still functions.

Thirty members hold annual meetings on Whit Monday (second Monday after Ascension, in May) and they pay dues, elect a captain and 11 riders.

According to original plans the captain and his riders were notified when a horse was stolen. The "detectives" started search immediately. They were allowed $5 a day expenses and stood a good chance of getting the $50 reward if the thief was caught.

If the horse was recovered, the owner paid 10 per cent of its value into the association treasury; if not recovered the association paid 75 per cent of its actual value to the owner.

Moderate Decrease in Postal Receipts

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. (Spc)—Postal receipts in Texas during August decreased moderately from July but were well above those of August last year, the University of Texas bureau of business research has announced.

Reports from 35 representative Texas cities show aggregate receipts of $1,158,769, a decrease of 2.9 per cent from July but an increase of 5.1 per cent over August, 1933.

Cities in which postal receipts for August exceeded both those of the preceding month and the corresponding month last year were: Corpus Christi, Del Rio, El Paso, Fort Worth, Harlingen, Palestine, San Antonio, Tyler, Wichita Falls and Waco.

Seven Words Are Used to Classify Jokes on Radio

By JACK STINNETT AP Feature Service Writer NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—If you "almost died laughing" last night, the chances are it was because a "slugola" smote your eardrums.

A slugola, in the latest lingo to establish itself firmly in the radio broadcasting studios, is a gag or joke that jerks the victim into the last stage of collapse before sudden death from laughter. It is the one which, in old vaudeville parlance, rolls them in the aisles.

It starts with a thunderous guffaw, rips off into rocking gale that causes the victim to do a standing jack-knife, sprawl on the floor, and recover minutes later between hiccoughs and gasps for breath.

Gauging 'Horsepower' Slugola is the seventh word in the dictionary of humor which radio comedians, gag writers and stooges have evolved to describe the laugh-producing qualities of a joke.

This technical jargon of the clowns, according to such masters of the craft as Jack Pearl, Fred Allen, Jack Benny, George Burns and Gracie Allen, is the result of 10 years of steady refinement.

It grew out of the necessity of analyzing audience response to radio jokes and situations. It is now quite common for henchmen of the jesters to sit inside the radio control booths and jot down on the scripts the "horsepower" of each witticism, there being one "horsepower" ascribed to each of the seven stages. The result is obtained from the visual and audible reactions of the studio audiences.

The Seven Stages

The technical terms, according to a standing committee of comedians at the National Broadcasting company studios, are as follows:

1. Stiff. The only negative term in the list, it describes a bust, a flop, a complete failure. The audience response is a dead pan face and utter silence.

2. Soso. This two-horsepower gag, if successful wipes the scowls off the faces in the audience, puts the listeners in a kindly, more receptive mood.

3. Lamiaff. It produces the first stages of a smile. The listener is amused.

4. Tittah-ma-tittah. Provokes a broad smile or grin which any moment may break into a laugh.

5. Hupecha-di-bupcha. This one causes rhythmic, rippling laughter.

6. Belly punch. The gag of joke that draws the well-known belly-laugh, that convulsion that starts in the midriff and emerges from the larynx in jerky but generous yawns.

The seventh and epitome of all radio humor is the slugola previously defined.

The aim of all other funsters is to avoid the stiff. Two stiffs in succession, it has been discovered, create an unfavorable attitude in an audience which will ruin an entire program.

The perfect program is continuous lamiaff, sprinkled with a few belly punches and garnished with at least two slugolas.

Business Failures Decline in August

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. (Sp.)—Commercial failures in Texas during August declined substantially from the preceding month but increased moderately over August last year, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research.

Reports from Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., showed that there were 13 failures during August, against 17 during July and 12 during August last year—a decline of 23.5 per cent from July, but an increase of 8.3 per cent over August, 1936, the bureau's statement said. Total liabilities were swelled by one large failure. Omitting this unusual case, there was a decline in total liabilities from July of 60.6 per cent and from August last year of 34.6 per cent.

Gives Tips On How To Plant Your Shrubbery

This is the fifth in a series of articles appearing in the Cisco Daily Press and written by J. B. F. Wright.

By J. B. F. WRIGHT

In my last and fourth article on planting evergreens it seems like some one got mixed up a bit, so I hope to straighten this out. When you go to dig up and prepare evergreens for transplanting, be sure your shovel is sharp so you can cut away the soil about the plant, leaving a ball around the roots. When you get the evergreens dug up put a piece of burlap around the ball and tie or nail it securely. Then in handling this plant don't pick it up by the top. Handle it by picking it up by the ball. It should be handled very carefully so as not to burst the ball. Remember the life of the plant is dependent on this. Of course when you buy these shrubs already dug they come prepared as I have stated, with this ball of dirt about the roots. Now everybody listen, I want to sound a timely warning to everyone who is expecting to do any planting. Don't buy anything from these tree and shrub peddlers who go to Dallas or Fort Worth or any place else and buy up a truck or trailer load of trees and shrubs, then start out to town peddling them. They may have this stuff about for weeks, maybe months before they sell it all out. People! for goodness sake, don't buy such stuff, it is likely dead when you buy it and cedars will remain green for awhile after they are dead but in a week or two they begin to turn brown. You wonder why the answer is, "they were dead when you planted them." The peddler is by this time off in some other town and maybe never make Cisco again. We live too close to nurseries to buy from cars and trucks. We can run over to Dallas or Fort Worth or Waxahachie and buy our nursery stocks and bring them back with us and plant them right out. This is the best and surest way to insure that they live so let me repeat this timely warning, "don't buy anything from these peddlers."

EAGLES AND BUCKS ROMP; JACKETS COP

Stephenville Victory Over Angelo Feature of Card

By JAMES JOHNSTON

Practically every team in the state this week pushed off into the 1937 football campaign with the teams of the Oil Belt no exception. Scores went sky-high when such teams as Breckenridge and Abilene moved their powerhouses into action against Ranger and Snyder respectively. Breck who was defeated 14-7 in their first game of the season by the Paschal Panthers, wrecked their vengeance on the inexperienced Ranger team by taking them to a 67-0 cleaning. In the game which saw Coach Eck Curtis of the Bucks use almost every man of his several teams, Ranger was able to earn only one first down, being on the defensive for the greater part of the skirmish. In another Friday's tilt Abilene, considered by many to be the real threat of the Oil Belt this year, found it easy going to take the Snyder Tigers in full stride with a clicking running and passing attack that marked up 54 points to none for the Tigers. Abilene's star of the day was little James Beam, quarterback, who broke away on touchdown jaunts of as much as a 75-yard gallop when he broke through tackle to scamper to the goal untouched.

Eastland, finally managing to work their aerial attack to advantage, tripped the Big Spring Steers by an 18-13 score. After completing 10 out of a total of 22 passes, which accounted for all their scores, the Mavericks tightened up and held the Steers to two counters to capture a well earned victory. Samuels was the passing star for the Mavericks.

A surprising outcome, and a most fitting one, was furnished by the 1937 addition to the Oil Belt class A ranks, the Stephenville Yellowjackets, as they whipped the steamroller put on the field by the San Angelo Bobcats. When the shouting was over the Jackets had emerged with an 8-0 triumph. The score for the greater part of the game was 2-0 as a result of a safety collected by Stephenville at the expense of a costly blocked punt, and it remained so until, with seconds to go, Moser, star triple-threat for Stephenville, intercepted a Bobcat pass and ploughed 93 yards through the mud for a counter. The game was played in a heavy rain.

Cisco and Sweetwater were the only teams in this district to remain idle.

Building Permits Show Sharp Gain

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. (Sp.)—Building permits in Texas during August were sharply above those during July and slightly above those in August a year ago, according to data gathered by the University of Texas bureau of business research.

Reports from 33 Texas cities show aggregate permits of $4,665,304 during August—an increase of 16.9 per cent over July and 2.2 per cent over August last year.

Cities showing gains in permits granted, both over the preceding month and the corresponding month last year were: Abilene, Amarillo, Big Spring, Harlingen, Houston, Lubbock, Palestine, Paris, San Antonio, Waco and Wichita Falls.

A woman of 40 who is 5 feet 6 inches tall should weigh around 146 pounds. A man of the same age should weigh about 150 pounds.

Boynton Quits Grid to Become Commentator

Ben Lee Boynton, who has been one of the leading officials in Southwestern football for 12 years, and who has played in or officiated in 19 or more games every year for a quarter of a century, has abandoned the gridiron to serve as football commentator for the Coca-Cola Bottling companies of Texas, which are sponsoring the "College Night" radio broadcasts and weekly name-the-winners football contests, according to Wilton W. Crook, of the Crook Advertising agency, which is handling the state-wide campaign.

"Although football crowds will miss Benny Lee's familiar officiating this season," said Mr. Crook, "they will get to hear him forecast the week's results every Thursday night, and comment on each week's games every Saturday night. Both Thursday and Saturday "College Night" programs will be broadcast at 6:30 p. m. by Stations WFAA-WBAP, KPRC and WOAI of the Texas Quality Network. Texans will have the opportunity of entering each week's name-the-winners contest featured in the newspapers. Mr. Boynton was born and reared in Waco, Texas, where he played his first football with Paul Tyson's famous high school squad. He was an All-American quarter at William's college; served in the air service of the Marine corps during the world war; played professional football and baseball in the east for several years; and has been a favorite referee in the Southwest since 1925, where he settled as vice president of a group of leading insurance companies.

The "College Night" programs are tributes to the universities of Texas. They will feature the famous bands, cheer leaders, glee clubs, football coaches and stars as well as the comments of Ben Lee Boynton. The first broadcast will come direct from the campus of Texas Technological college in Lubbock on Thursday Sept. 30, before the Tech game with the University of Montana; and the second will come from the Pan-American exposition in Dallas starring the bands of S. M. U. and Centenary college. Following is a list of the other programs: Oct. 7 at Baylor university; Oct. 9, Texas and Oklahoma bands in Dallas; Oct. 14 at T. C. U. in Fort Worth; Oct. 16, T. C. U. and A. & M. bands in Fort Worth; Oct. 21 at Texas University in Austin; Oct. 23, A. & M. and Baylor in College Station; Oct. 28 at Rice Institute in Houston; Oct. 30, S. M. U. and Texas bands in Dallas; Nov. 4 at A. & M. College Station; Nov. 6, Baylor and Texas bands in Waco; Nov. 11 at S. M. U. in Dallas; Nov. 13, Rice and A. & M. bands in Houston; Nov. 18 at Hardin-Simmons university in Abilene; Nov. 20, T. C. U. and Rice bands in Fort Worth; Nov. 25, A. & M. and Texas bands, the night after their Thanksgiving game in College Station; and Nov. 27, T. C. U. and S. M. U. bands in Fort Worth.

Each week a case of Coca-Cola will be given to every Texan who names the winners in all the games played that week by Southwest conference teams plus those of Hardin-Simmons and Texas Tech. No scores are to be forecast, just the names of the winners. The games to be counted in the first week's contest ending Friday noon, Oct. 1, are: Texas-Louisiana; T. C. U.-Arkansas; Baylor-Oklahoma City U.; A. & M.-Manhattan; S. M. U.-Centenary; Rice-Oklahoma U.; Texas Tech-Montana; Hardin-Simmons-Ouachita college of Arkansas. Contestants are urged to write the names of the winners on a plain card and hand to their local Coca-Cola Bottling Co. by noon, Oct. 1.

Lobo Squads Play Baird, Stamford in Practice Goes

Two scrimmage games with tough opponents was the football diet for the Lobos yesterday in a workout which lasted from 10 o'clock in the morning until after 1 that afternoon. The eligibles of the Cisco squad took on a team from Baird and the eligibles fought it out with the Stamford team. Both scrimmages were full-time games, both games lasting well over one and one-half hours.

The first game between Baird and the eligibles ended with the Lobos on the larger end of a 6-0 score. The only score was made by Coy Warren, swift little back who has been showing up so well in practice. The score climaxed a 40 yard sprint for Warren after he had received a lateral pass from Marcell Harrison, who was the outstanding defensive star of the game.

The second game ended in a 0-0 deadlock with neither team being able to reach pay dirt. Due to the lack of players among the eligibles the second game saw some of the regulars in action. These games have no bearing on Cisco's chances in the Oil Belt race and do not count as official games. Cisco will tackle the Stephenville Yellowjackets next Friday with Big Spring coming up Friday week.

Cement Makes Generally Favorable

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. (Sp.)—A general favorable trend was made during August by the cement industry in Texas, as announced by the Texas bureau of business research. According to figures from the United States of mines, production totaled 400,000 barrels, an increase of 3.3 per cent over July and 3.3 per cent over August last year, respectively from the month and the corresponding month last year; and the August 31 were 715,000, a gain of 5 per cent over July 31, and 27.5 per cent over the figures for August 1936.

The United States cement industry for August made a favorable showing. Production was up 2.6 per cent from July but 5.1 per cent over August last year, were less than half per cent those of July and 2.1 per cent those of August a year ago. On August 31 were down 1.2 per cent from those of the corresponding date the preceding month, 21.2 per cent above those of August 31, last year.

Drill Practice of Band Every Morning

By J. CPASCHAL, Band Director

Drill practice will be every morning of the coming year from 7:40 to 8:30. All band members are expected to attend, issuing of uniforms will be largely on your attendance, cooperation at these drills, especially is this true among freshmen.

There is also being held practice after school each day for the benefit of the freshmen. Freshman are expected to be present.

We want to have a postcard band this year. Each band will be required to march in the festival in order to complete the music trophy.

Give us your cooperation, help us make a bigger and better band.

Striking Workers Don't Want to Take Over the Boss' Job

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25. (AP)—The proposal of L. G. Griffith to turn over his $20,000 knitting mills at no cost to his striking employes was up in the air yesterday.

Everyone involved was slightly confused.

"Take it over and run it yourselves," Griffith told the strikers who walked out a week ago. "I'll buy the goods you make."

Three of the 55 strikers, J. D. Tate, Robert Clark and Max Dalton, filed articles of incorporation said they would operate the plant on a co-operative basis, buying the equipment and letting Griffith sell their products.

Two pickets at the factory said, however, that the proposal was "just an employer trick."

"Griffith has to recognize the union before we make any deal," they said.

Connally Asks More Time For County Agents

DALLAS, Sept. 25. (AP)—Senator Connally Saturday dispatched to Secretary Wallace a plea that regulations regarding cotton bounty payments be liberalized to allow county agents more time to prepare claims.

His telegram read:

"Your regulation requiring cotton farmers who sold cotton before Sept. 15 to file claims by Sept. 30 is working a great hardship. It is impossible in many cases because information was not available early enough. There is so much cotton being sold that it is physically impossible for county agents to prepare claims and secure supporting proofs to entitle farmers to the 3 cents per pound bounty payment.

"Since payments are not to be made now, respectfully urge you to liberalize regulations to aid farmers who are busy picking cotton and preparing it for market. The bounty payment is a boon to cotton farmers while cotton is selling at ruinous prices and I want to see them receive the bounty without losing it through technical requirements."

Every Day Is Loaning Day

This is the BANK that SERVICE is Building

Modern Safety Deposit Service

First National Bank

IN CISCO, TEXAS MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

This bank has never discontinued the business of loaning money to its customers on any banking day in its history.

The only requirements that ever prevented customer from getting a loan at this bank was the customer's inability to furnish a bankable note.

From time to time we have stressed the bank's desire to make loans, but the fact that the bank is still here and no depositors ever had to go without their money on demand on any banking day is all the justification necessary for the bank's insistence upon having a good note before making a loan.

Bring your account here and we will render you a cordial, satisfactory banking service.

Christian Science Services "Reality" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist on Sunday, Sept. 26.

The golden text is: "Forever, O Lord, thy word is settled in Heaven" (Psalms 119:89).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thus saith the Lord the King of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of hosts; I am the first, and I am the last; and beside me there is no God" (Isaiah 44:6).

The lesson-sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Scriptures imply that God is All-in-all. From this it follows that nothing possesses reality nor existence except the divine Mind and His ideas" (page 331).

Grace Lutheran Church Sunday school at 9 a. m. There will be no services today. Members and friends are invited to worship with Christ church. The Rev. A. B. Wagner, formerly of Albany, now of Eden, Tex., will preach at the annual mission rally of Christ church.—E. R. Riese, pastor.
