WACO MAN LOW BIDDER ON EAST END

Waycees to Choose New Officers Monday

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

Berry is charged by "Skipper" Thomas with having been recreant in his bounden duty to this community. "Skipper" said it all worked out yesterday when the Cisco Lobos won the football game they played at the Big Spring Steers, the hot-footed it down to the hall and laid the ingenious device before his Hizzoner. Hizzoner didn't even take it out of his mouth to cold shoulder to the pro. Now "Skipper" is indignant, broadcasting his criticism of the mayor and demanding that he be removed from office in favor of a more pliant municipal executive.

"Skipper's" plan was beautiful. It was, indeed, so that one wonders why with some clever person thought of it before. It is based on the fact that a football and therefore the side is afforded a distinct edge. Thus if Big Spring any men on the field after noon, the Lobos have run marvelous interchanges and piled up touches no end. Unfortunately, the mayor failed to react to the suggestion of the "Skipper," there were entirely many Big Spring men on the field and the Lobos were handicapped in their attempt.

"Skipper's" plan, as I said, was wonderfully simple. Under the mayor had to do was order the arrest of the incoming team on any trumped-up charges of traffic law violation something and have them held in the municipal house without benefit of bail until game was over. Now I am certain that the strategy devised by the "Skipper" was brilliant and entirely sensible. The Humble Oil and Refining company employs "Skipper" as division superintendent, and it is rumored that he receives a salary of at least $100 a month for his services to that organization.

Waco may not have pride in the Cisco-Big Spring game Friday (and no reflection on the Cisco boys who played a game of it) but it can only take pride in its high school band and pep squad and demonstration which the two organizations made on the field after noon. Resplendent in gold and black uniforms showed in appearance, marching and in music that they with anything in the state. Exhibition which they presented between halves was easily a highlight of the game at the field which formally closed the new stadium.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN TO BE INITIATED

Report of Delegate to State Convention to Be Heard

The Cisco junior chamber of commerce will meet at the senior chamber of commerce directors room Monday evening at 7:30 for the election of officers for the new year, it was announced Saturday by Edward Lee, president of the young men's commercial organization.

At that time Mr. Lee will also report upon his attendance upon the convention of the state junior chamber of commerce organization at Wichita Falls as a delegate from the Cisco organization.

Nominations for the incoming slate of officers will be submitted by a nominating committee in its report to the body. This group consists of James McCracken, A. D. Starling and D. C. Harper.

Lee urged that all members of the junior chamber be present for this meeting, one of the most important in the annual calendar of the club, if at all possible.

Coincident with the meeting is the plan of the chamber to launch a drive to enlist new members with a goal of 60. It now has about 25.

Present officers, in addition to Mr. Lee as president, are: O. L. Stamey and James Harvey, vice presidents; F. B. Altman, secretary, and James McCracken, treasurer.

Higher Estimate Spurs Move for Special Session

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—The agriculture department's cotton crop forecast of 17,573,000 bales, second largest in history, appeared Saturday to give the final push, if any is needed, toward a special session of congress.

If one is called, probably between Nov. 8 and 16, surplus crop control legislation will be its first business.

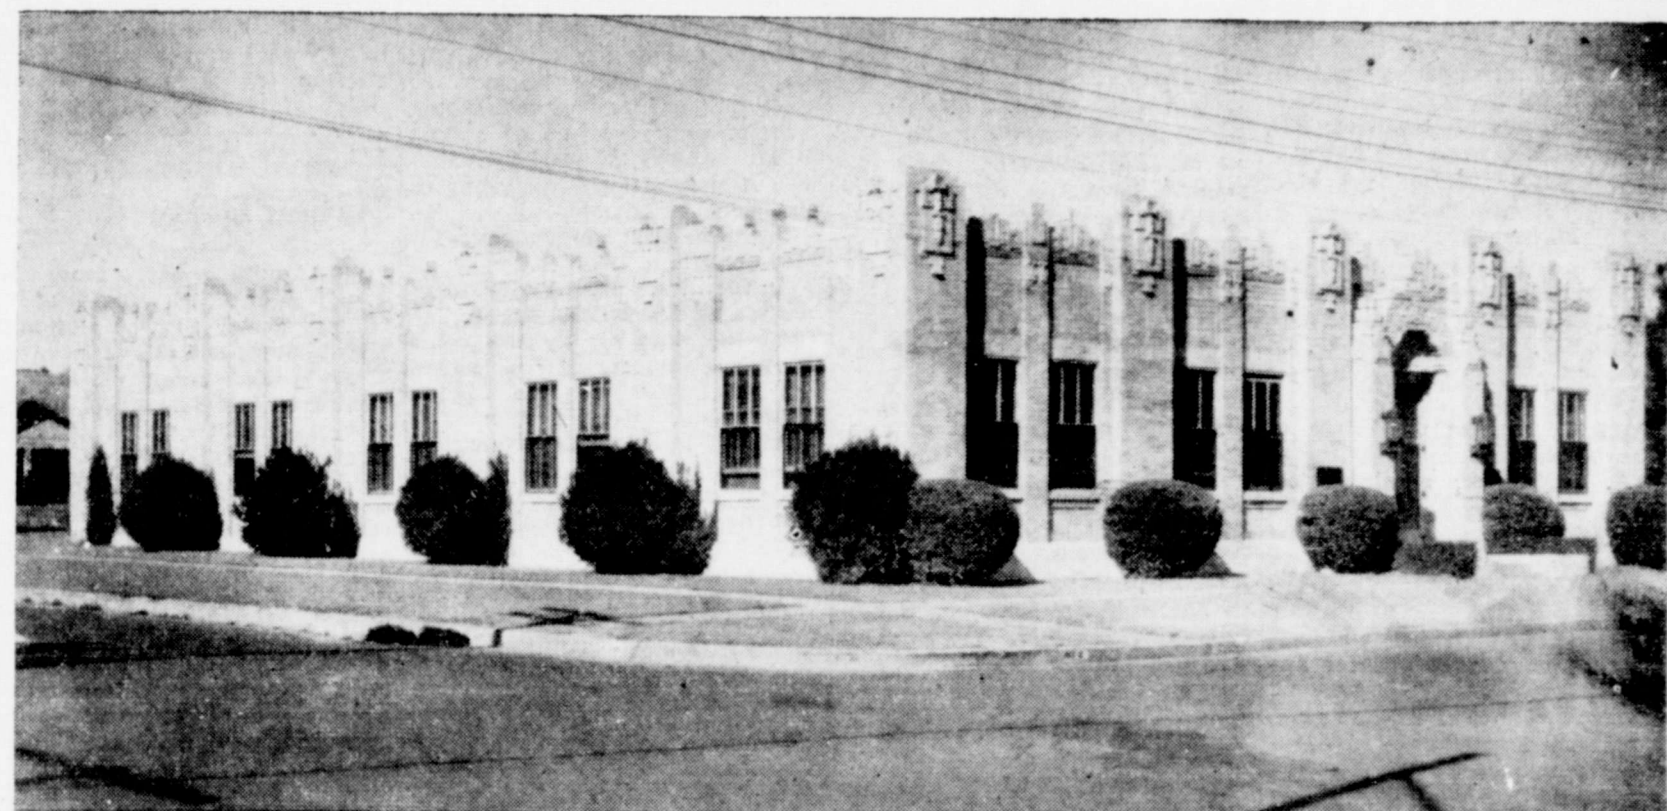

On that legislation, aimed at stabilizing prices and supplies, the administration pins hopes of stopping such sharp price declines as the newest cotton estimate caused.

New Orleans quotations dropped as much as $2.15 a bale after the forecast was flashed over the wires Friday, and the staple for future delivery slumped $1.40 to $1.90 a bale at New York. Prices touched the lowest points in more than four years.

Informed persons said President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace, in a private discussion late Friday, considered these moves to aid the cotton south, where prosperity leans heavily on the "white gold."

CONTRACT DUE TO BE LET IN SHORT WHILE

Offer of $41,611 Is Lowest on Eighth Street Project

Fred Hall of Waco was low bidder Friday on the project for construction of the east end of the Highway No. One relocation through Cisco, it was announced. His bid was $41,611. Highway department officials said that the contract would probably be let soon.

The project calls for the construction and surfacing with a flexible base course and double asphalt treatment of 1.4 miles of highway from the east end of the projected overpass over the Katy railroad, to the present route of Highway One east of the city limits.

Construction of the overpass by the Jensen company of Austin is due to get under way about October 15. Work orders from the state department, expected following Friday's meeting of the commission, were being awaited as material and equipment was arriving for the work.

The overpass will replace the present wooden structure and will be a four-lane affair of concrete and steel in a design reportedly very beautiful. The Austin firm secured the contract with a bid of slightly less than $110,000.

Suit to Void Wine, Beer Vote Is Dismissed

EASTLAND, Oct. 9. (Sp)—The eleventh court of civil appeals dismissed Friday the 19-month-old suit of Joe J. Mickle and others against Clyde L. Garrett, county judge last year, which had been appealed from 91st district court for the invalidation of a beer and wine election.

O. C. Funderburk, associate justice, stated in the opinion. "There is no statute so far as we know authorizing this suit by appellants (Mickle and others) and by their pleadings they show no right to sue."

Joe J. Mickle, O. O. Mickle, J. Mayes, P. L. Parker, purportedly for "themselves and more than 250 qualified voters of Eastland county, Texas" brought the suit to have adjudged null and void and election April 18, 1936, on legalizing the sale of vinous and malt liquors that do not contain in excess of 14 per cent alcohol by volume and to enjoin first temporarily, then permanently the then county judge, Garrett, from hearing or granting applications for licenses or permits.

George L. Davenport, judge of 91st district court, April 27, 1936 granted a temporary restraining order but provided the writ should require the defendant to appear in court April 30 to show cause why it should not be perpetuated and why he should not be restrained to hear applications for beer permits or licenses.

Garrett was named defendant because of his official office. On the date set by the court the restraining order was vacated and relief asked for the voiding of the election denied. From that judgment Mickle and the others appealed.

After the record of the case was filed in the appellate court a motion to advance was denied as shown by a memorandum per curiam opinion as follows: "It appears from the motion and the record that the same is an appeal

NO MANNERS

LONDON, Oct. 9. (AP)—A monkey escaped from its cage in London, entered a woman's bedroom next door and powdered its nose, tried on the woman's jewelry, smashed all her cups and saucers, then eluded police in a chase from one house to another.

Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont are the only states in the union almost entirely free from poisonous serpents.

Legless Pair Part Friends in Court

PARIS, Oct. 9. (AP)—A legless plaintiff and a legless defendant left the Paris police courts as good friends.

One, a war veteran, had been piloting his new tricycle when he stopped at a cafe and had the waiter carry him in for a drink. When the waiter carried him out again, his tricycle was gone. Police found the tricycle being operated by another legless man. In court the second man told this story: "I was propelling myself down the street on a wheeled sled when I saw the empty car."

"What would you have done? You know what it means to have no legs. I was tired and nobody was using your car. I borrowed it."

The plaintiff withdrew his charges and the two left court in the arms of two policemen after the owner of the tricycle had agreed to lend his car to the other when he was not using it.

Traffic Hazard Met With 'Rebel School'

ROMFORD, Essex, Eng., Oct. 9.—Defiant because educational authorities have made it necessary for pupils to walk two miles through dangerous motor traffic to reach school, parents of 212 children have set up a "rebel school" here.

When the old school became overcrowded, authorities built a new one two miles away. Though the new school is very modern, parents became incensed over the dangers they felt the two-mile walk exposed their children to.

The rebel school is held in a corner of a public playground without chairs, desks or blackboard. Pupils squat on the ground and the teacher walks between the lines, shouting questions at them and hearing their recitations.

June, 1938, will be observed as the centenary of the establishment of "New Sweden" in the Delaware valley.

WOMEN'S VOTE FOR NEW FASHION SWEEPS THE WHOLE COUNTRY

It looks like a "landslide" for the new cosmetic fashion inspired by Adrienne Livingston of New York!

Miss Livingston created Adrienne Scientifically Harmonized Cosmetics in response to a definite need of smart women for cosmetics that would really blend with each other, with the complexion, with the costume.

Miss Livingston well knew that with the antiquated make-up of yesterday, there was no hope, however ravishing a costume ensemble, of attaining "harmony from head to toe."

So she was inspired with this new fashion idea... cosmetics scientifically harmonized to eliminate error—to build a complete beauty ensemble.

But even Adrienne herself is amazed at the instantaneous, overwhelming success of her cosmetic ensembles.

Overnight the vogue for Adrienne Scientifically Harmonized Cosmetics has taken the country by storm.

Everywhere women are asking each other not "Have you tried Adrienne Cosmetics?" but "Which Adrienne Ensemble are you wearing?"

Right there is the keynote of this new mode's popularity. Your own Adrienne Cosmetic Ensemble is scientifically blended for your special type. You choose each Cream, Lotion, Powder, Make-up Aid and Bath Accessory so that all will work together in harmony to give you new charm.

Once you've used your own Adrienne Ensemble, you'll never again be satisfied with anything less than the perfect harmony it gives you.

Each Adrienne Cosmetic was perfected by leading scientists to eliminate any flaws... and then dressed in packages styled by the famous designer Gustav Jensen.

In this full perfection, Adrienne Scientifically Harmonized Cosmetics were ready for American women.

Then Adrienne wondered how she might reach the women for whom she had created her cosmetics... smart women in towns and rural communities as well as in cities. And where she might be assured that volume production would be great enough to make prices right.

Retail Stores! The Rexall guarantee of tested quality fitted her cosmetics exactly. Distribution through 8,000 stores would keep prices within reach of every purse... because in Rexall Drug Stores there are no in-between profits to boost prices.

And so it is that Adrienne Scientifically Harmonized Cosmetics took their place among other world-famous Rexall Products.

Don't Gamble with Food Protection!

FRIGIDAIRE WITH THE METER-MISER

Safeguards your food while saving money!

● During the "cool" days of fall and winter thousands rely on inadequate refrigeration that cannot constantly protect their food. They little realize their danger. Food must be kept within a narrow range of temperatures—between 32 and 50 degrees Fahrenheit—all the time. Nature does not maintain these temperatures constantly, even in winter. Neither do old-fashioned refrigeration methods. Ill-health and money wasted can be the price you pay for improper refrigeration. Don't gamble with food protection. It is folly to take chances. Especially when there is no valid reason for doing so. Right now, you can have and enjoy the constant, certain food protection of a Frigidaire with the Meter-Miser without increasing your present household expenses! For Frigidaire with the Meter-Miser pays for itself and pays a profit besides! You cannot afford to be without the protection and savings of Frigidaire! Come in and we will prove it to you.

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS: Neill, a young federal agent, finds his beloved Janet, a gun and Prescott Fanning's freshly shot body locked in a cabin on Fanning's yacht at Absalom's Harbor, Md. Neill hides her nearby in a disused liner, then joins Mark Bonniger, local investigator. Neill learns Janet didn't shoot the flashy swindler but has to find out who did to save her. He suspects queer little Eyster, who hated Fanning, and Fanning's ex-bodyguard, Ira Buckless. He distrusts Kettering, a lawyer down from Baltimore to fish. The yacht is ransacked and Bonniger questions Buckless, who tells Neill's connection with Fanning.

Chapter 34 Eyster Can Lie

"This fellow's story only confuses the issue," Bonniger said slowly. "He claims not to know the girl, and certainly the girl that the crew have described would never have fallen for that brute!"

There was a silence. Kettering looked from one man to another. "Well I'll be on my way," he said heartily. "Got to get some sleep."

He left them. When they were alone, Bonniger said without looking directly at Neill:

"I took a shine to you right at the start, Neill. Your offer to help me out seemed so friendly. I said to myself: This lad has the makings of a first-rate criminologist. He's cool and he's keen."

Neill had dreaded this moment. Bonniger was such a good fellow and a gentleman. When he spoke in this friendly way, Neill had an overpowering desire to blurt out the whole truth. But he couldn't betray Janet. "Certainly is nice of you to say so," he muttered.

"Have you anything to say to me?" Bonniger fooled with a pencil.

"Why, no," Neill said, assuming a look of surprise.

"If you were interested in this girl and Fanning wronged you, you could tell me that."

"Sure, I could tell you! But there's nothing in it!"

"All right. . . . You came down on the bus arriving here at 7:45 on Tuesday, you said."

"That's right."

"What did you do? Eat dinner?"

"No. I had eaten in town, I registered at Wickes' and sat down on the store porch to listen to the village gossip."

"Who was there?"

"How can I tell you, Mark? It was dark and they were all strangers to me. There was one fellow I remember, whom they addressed as Jake."

"Jake Loker. . . . How long did you stay there?"

"Not long. Half an hour. Three quarters maybe."

"Then where did you go?"

Eyster for an Alibi

That question brought Neill right up against it. He thought of the crouching figure outside the window, and his offers of friendship. "Have you noticed a guy called Eyster who hangs around?"

"Sure."

"Well, I struck up a kind of friendship with him."

"He doesn't seem to be a very attractive sort of man."

"Perhaps not. But I was alone. We got to talking and afterwards he invited me up to his room for a drink. So we sat drinking and chewing the fat."

"What did you talk about?"

"Good Lord, Mark! What do men talk about when they're drinking? We just made a noise. I was with him until I went to bed."

Bonniger, still avoiding Neill's eye, called a constable and told him to see if he could find Eyster. To give Eyster time enough to get around to the front, Neill detained the constable by giving him a detailed description of the man.

While they waited, Bonniger and Neill discussed other aspects of the case. The old friendly feeling had gone.

Eyster sidled into the room with his insinuating grin. "You want me, Mr. Bonniger?"

"Sit down," said Bonniger.

"How long have you been in Absalom's?"

"Since noon on Tuesday."

"How did you come here?"

"By taxicab from Baltimore."

He went on to tell the same tale he had related to Neill.

"Can you give me the name of the driver or his license number or the name of the cab company?"

"Impossible, Mr. Bonniger. I never noticed."

"What have you been doing since you got here?"

"Just tapering off. Ain't touched a drop in two days now."

Bonniger indicated Neill. "When did you first meet Mr. Wheatley?"

"He come on the bus Tuesday evening. We got talking later and I asked him up to my room to crack the last bottle. We sat there drinking and chinning until this lad fell asleep in his chair. He couldn't take it. So I finished the bottle and then I woke him up and put him in his own bed."

Neill thought grimly: This guy is a better liar than I am.

"What time was this?"

"Something after two."

"All right. Much obliged."

Eyster went out with his head over his shoulder and his eyes darting inquisitively from face to face. He wanted to hear more.

Bonniger rose and flung his pencil on the desk. "Let's go to bed," he said. Neill perceived that Eyster had overdone it. He was too obviously the glib and ready liar.

tible for Neill to sleep. He dropped in a chair to dope things out. It was clear that Bonniger did not intend to let the situation ride. His suspicions were thoroughly aroused. Morning was sure to bring a showdown.

Well, there was only one way to meet a showdown, and that was to anticipate it. He and Janet must make a break to get away. Capture was almost certain. Nevertheless they must risk it.

As soon as he had come to this conclusion, Neill felt better. He set to work to gather together his few belongings.

Ten minutes later he started down the stairs. It was past two o'clock and the excitement had subsided. Nothing was to be heard except snores in various keys coming through the flimsy doors as he passed. No lights were on. It was not customary to lock the hotel doors at night. Neill paused inside the front door to take a prospect before venturing out. Across the road there was a filling station under a canopy and a street light overhead. Neill studied the gasoline pumps. It was a natural hiding place. Sure enough, while he watched a head stuck out. It bore the cap of a state constable.

Neill felt his way softly back through the long dining room and through the swing door into the kitchen. The kitchen had windows on three sides. He looked through first one, then another. There were so many hiding-places outside—sheds, fences—it was impossible to tell if the door was being watched. Neill tried the expedient of rattling the door handle. Instantly the top of a head appeared around the corner of a shed.

He went back upstairs with a hard grin. The decision had been taken out of his hands. What must come, must come.

IN AND ABOUT MORAN

(By Bob Taylor)

National Fire Prevention week Oct. 3-9, observed yearly was sponsored here by the Moran Study Club. All local social and business organizations co-operating with the sponsor in making the week's formalities more than a mere observance of the event. Mrs. Oscar Wise, president of the study club, presented a talk to members of the Moran Luncheon club at their meeting Wednesday, and public school students were given an impromptu fire drill as the result of a practice fire alarm Thursday afternoon.

As a result of the towns participation in observance of a yearly fire prevention week, the civic insurance rate is allowed a cut of 3 per cent per annum.

As a direct result of recent amateur night programs at the high school auditorium, Moran's amateur talent is to be given a chance to reach a waiting world. Under the management of J. W. Price, local pastor, assisted financially by the Moran Luncheon club, weekly 30-minute programs of Moran talent will be presented Saturdays from radio station KRBC, Abilene. Initial program of the series will be broadcast on Oct. 16. The personnel of the talent has not yet been announced.

Last year's coats and moth eaten sweaters came out of camphor ball storage this week as Moran natives shivered in an early "norther" which cooled the dry atmosphere of this section late Wednesday, Thursday morning dawned clear and just a little cold, with early risers welcoming the feel of wraps, as the cooling winds gave relief from the unusual heat of the current drought. Farmers and ranchers, banking on early north winds to bring the long delayed fall rains, were pessimistic as the first dry "norther" came from a cloudless sky.

Effects of the bracing north winds have worn off, however, and even now, world series fans perspire from more than the natural nervous strain created by their interesting sport. Hovering clouds, the first to show in these parts in many a moon, promise respite from the extended drought that sends stock feeders deep in their pockets to buy more feed for ravenous cattle.

Eskimo Can't Dance With Girl Friend

BARROW, Alaska, Oct. 9. (AP)—The opposite sexes do not dance together in native Eskimo dances. Another custom is that only relatives may dance at one time and each participant dances by himself.

The "floor," on occasions during the short Arctic summer when such celebrations are held outdoors, may be pieces of walrus skin sewed together and laid on the sand. The musical instrument is something like the lining of a drum made from the tip of a whale's stomach.

Loboes Drop Dedication Game to Big Spring

As Big Spring Defeated Loboes Friday

FIRST DOWNS MARGIN GOES TO LOCAL 11

Hard-Fighting Features Play of Home Team Friday

By JAMES JOHNSON

The Cisco Loboe's rally in the second half of their game with Big Spring Friday occurred too late for them to overcome the lead that their opponents held as a result of two touchdowns in the early part of the game. The black and gold were fighting to the last minute of play and had their heavier opponents in hot water for the greater part of the last two periods. A ten yard forward pass by the Big Springs team which was latered to Settles who miraculously wriggled out of the clutches of several Loboes to gallop for a counter resulted in the second touchdown for the Steers.

The first Big Spring counter came midway in the first period when Cunningham, big 190 pounder for the Steers, skirted the Cisco right end from deep in his own territory to place the ball in scoring position on Cisco's 30. The Loboes held for three downs but received a penalty of 15 yards on the fourth, placing the ball within six yards of their own goal. The Steers then drove it over.

The Loboes came back fighting in the third quarter and getting the ball after kicking to the Steers they reeled off one gain after another down the entire length of the field to score on third down from the one yard line. Cisco had missed a chance to score at the very start of the game when a costly fumble on the Big Spring 5-yard line was recovered by the Steers.

The third touchdown for the Steers came after they had advanced the ball deep in Cisco territory. The Lobo line stiffened on the 6 yard line and after 3 downs the Steers had managed to push the ball to only the two yard line. The fourth attempt, however, moved the ball one-half yard for a first down on the Cisco one and one-half yard line. After one of the most thrilling stands of the game the Loboes finally yielded on the fourth assault of the Steers.

Bethel's kicking for the Steers kept the Loboes out of Big Spring territory for the greater part of the rest of the game and the home town boys made only one more threat which was broken up far up in the Steers' premises. Cisco made 12 first downs to 10 for the Steers.

The Lobo coaching staff expressed their opinion of the work of the boys by stating that they couldn't have expected more than the boys gave Friday. With the impression that the best team did not win the dedication game, the Lobo mentors said that they must have a passing attack to overcome the fancy aerial game being used by most of the oil belt teams this season. Coach Petty will probably develop Odell Harrison and Tipton into passers and he already has two excellent pass snatchers in Bacon and Preston.

Some of the outstanding individual work done by the Loboes was Bacon's impressive defensive play. Bacon was in on practically every play and did not hesitate, nor did any of the other boys for that matter, to hit the big backs of the Steers with all they had. Preston, the other end for Cisco, knocked out twice, wouldn't leave the game and was fighting at the end just as hard as he was at the first. Yancey and Harrison in the Cisco backfield, assisted by Yarbrough carried the ball on almost every play. Yancey averaged over six yards for every time he toted the ball.

Stewart was injured once but came back later to play his usual fine game, and one could go on to mention the entire squad as every player stood out on the majority of the plays.

The team will start training for their game with San Angelo Monday.

Charters Issued During September Decline Sharply

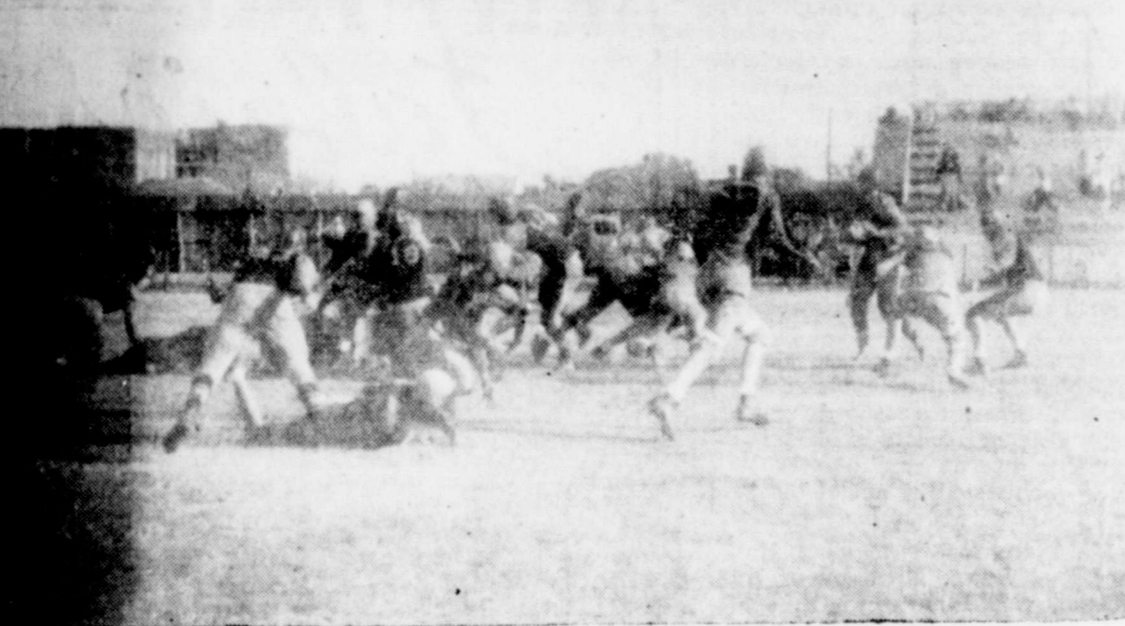

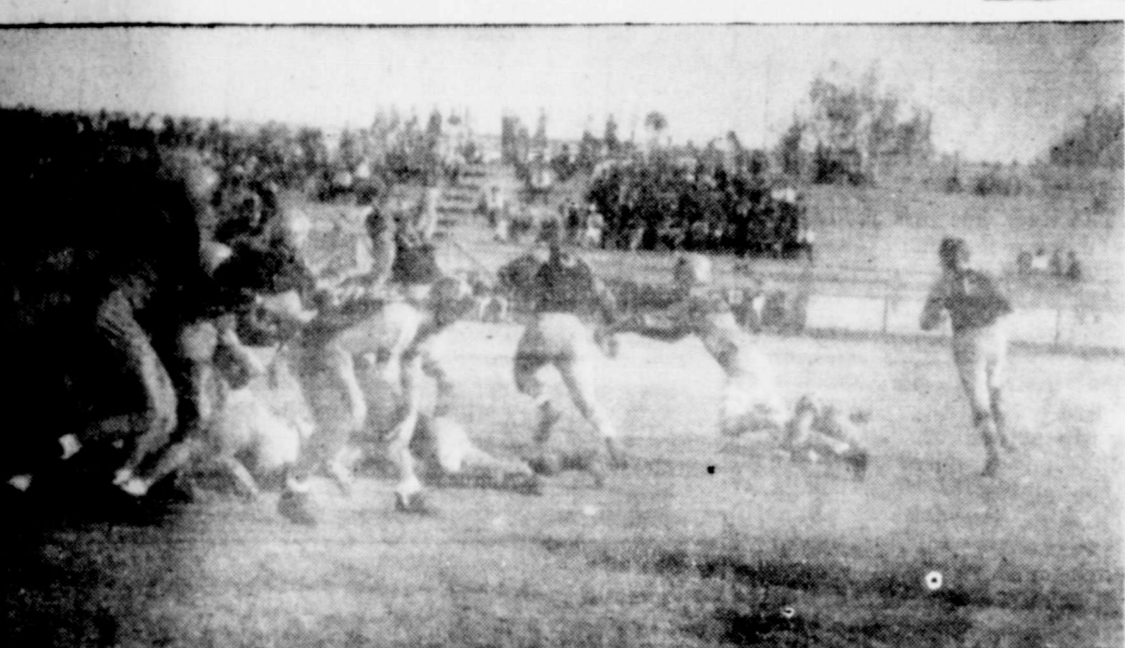

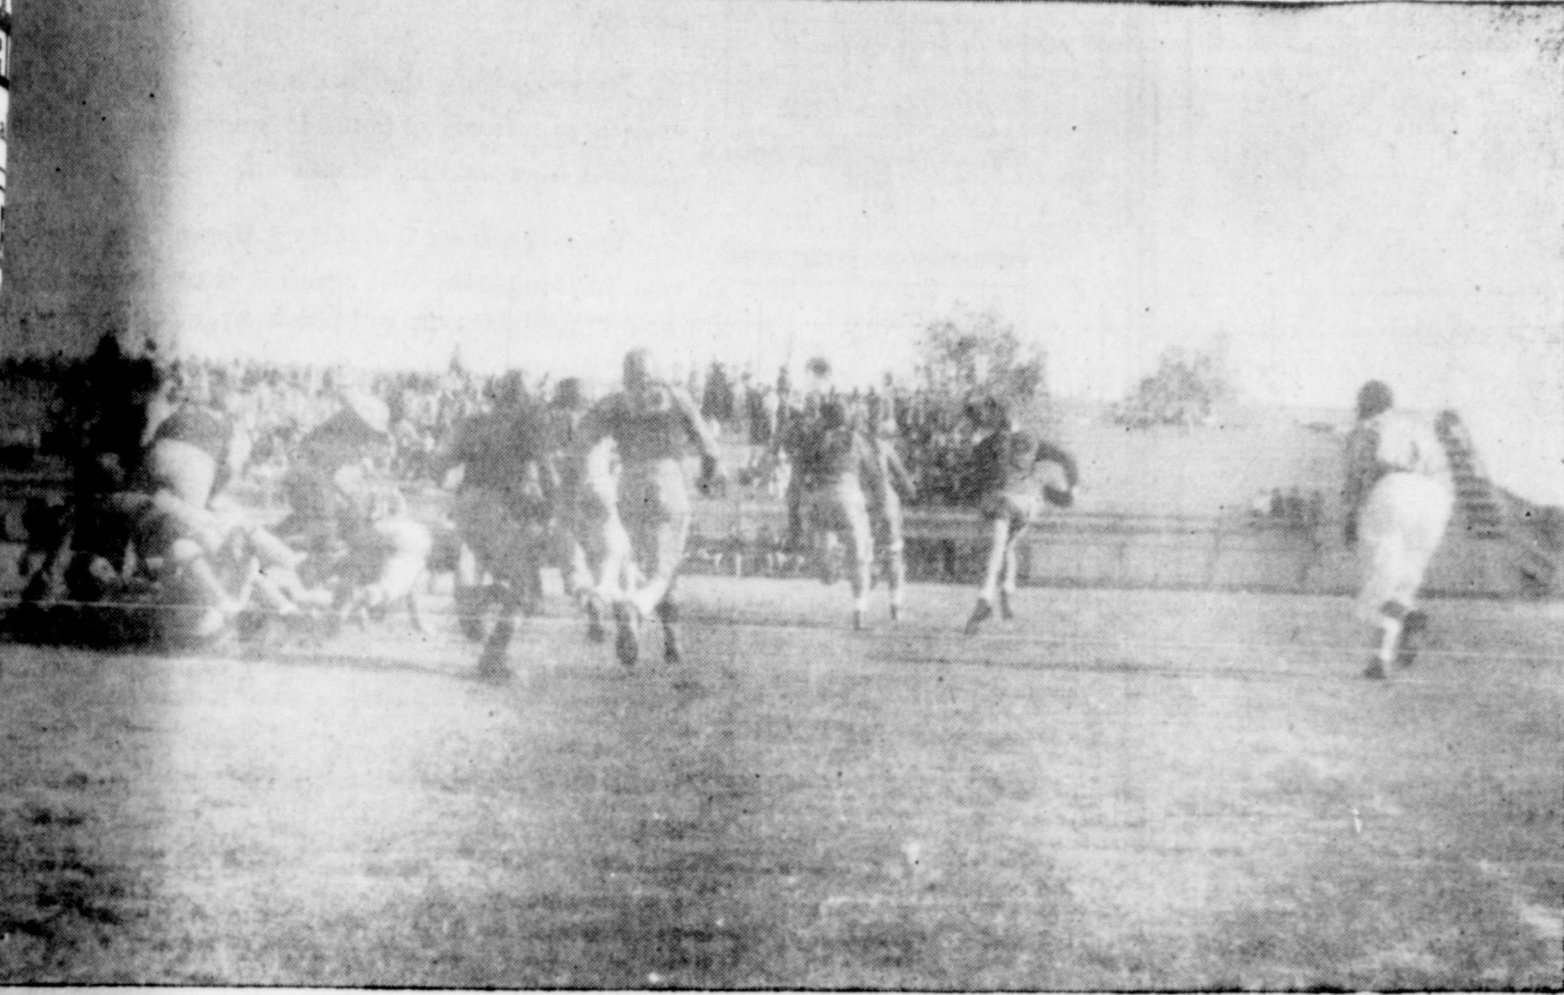

AUSTIN, Oct. 9 (Spl.)—The number of new corporations chartered in Texas during September declined sharply from the preceding month and moderately from the corresponding month last year, the University of Texas bureau of business research has reported. Capitalization of the new corporations dropped off even more sharply from August to September but increased substantially over September last year.

Reports from the office of the secretary of state show a total of 103 new charters, a decline of 27.5 per cent from the preceding month and 16.5 per cent from the like month last year. Capitalization of the new firms totaled $2,034,000 a decline of 49.6 per cent from July, but an increase of 24.1 per cent over September last year.

Groups showing increases in new charters granted over last year were banking-finance, public service, and real estate-building, the bureau's analysis showed.

There were four corporations chartered with capitalization of $100,000, or more, against ten in August and three in September last year.

Fifteen Americans go abroad for each European visiting America.

November Time for Planting of Rose Gardens

(Editor's Note: This is the eighth of a series of articles on planting and care of shrubbery by J. F. B. Wright, 306 West Eighth street.)

If you expect to plant a rose garden now is the time to prepare your ground. Dig deeply and thoroughly pulverize the soil, and, needed (and most always it is), add some good rich soil hauled or some well-rotted manure. Mix with the soil on top of the bed, and plant your roses in November, if you can, or by the middle of December. They will take root and grow downward, and you will have earlier roses and better blooms next spring.

Feed your roses about March 1 one tablespoon full of vigo to the hill or plant, but be careful not to get it on the stems or leaves. Make a little circle or furrow with your finger around the plant, about six inches from the stem, put the vigo in the little circle furrow, then take a stick or your finger, and mix the soil with the vigo, after which water it down. Repeat this about every 30 days, and you will be surprised at the results. I suppose most any of the other fertilizers will do as well as vigo. I have used more vigo than any other.

Now in planting flowering shrubs about the house there are sizes for all places. The dwarf plants should be planted under the windows, close up or in places

Not Much Trouble For Sportsman to Land in Jail

AUSTIN, Oct. 9. (Sp.)—A sportsman so inclined wouldn't have much trouble landing in jail in Texas.

In addition to the general laws applicable to the entire state, there are 545 applications of special county laws on game, fish and trapping, according to a compilation made today by J. G. Burr, director of research of the Texas game, fish and oyster commission.

"That doesn't mean there are 545 separate county laws; one special law may be applicable to where you wish to have small plants, and the tall varieties, such as crepe myrtle, althea, lilac, pomegranate, red bud and other tall varieties, should be planted in the yard so they can develop and make beautiful tree-like shrubs. The small varieties, such as snow ball, hydrangia, and lots of others, can be planted in those places where you don't want taller plants. Remember to plant them deep in the ground, but not too deeply. Most people don't plant them deep enough. Always cut them back and leave a basin around them, so you can water and take care of them. I have a catalogue of roses at 25c, each plant post paid. If you want to plant a rose garden, and nothing is more beautiful than two or three dozen roses of all colors in a bed, I'll be glad to help you any way. Feel free to call on me.

several counties. But the applications are the same as laws, so that there are 545 ways of getting in jail, not including the general laws," Burr explained.

There are 212 applications of local laws affecting game, including 20 on squirrels, 20 on quail, 64 on turkeys, 121 on deer and nine on doves, Burr said. A total of 218 applications of local laws affect fresh water fishing, two affect the taking of oysters, and 91 govern trapping.

Virtually all of the state's special county laws have been passed since 1925, Burr said. In that year there were no special game laws, and only seven relating to fish. Most of the present special laws have been passed since 1930. The last regular and special sessions of the legislature contributed 47 special county laws relating to game and fish and one general trapping law.

Many of the special county laws provide closed seasons for various species. Four counties have closed seasons on doves, 15 on quail, 45 on wild turkeys, 54 on deer and 57 on foxes.

The game commission, under present statutes, does not have power to regulate open seasons on any species except ducks and geese.

Plants played an important part in the lives of the early people of the territory now comprised in Zion National Park, Utah. Game animals were killed for meat but scientific evidence indicates plant food was the chief diet of the prehistoric inhabitants.

X-rays generated by voltages up to 200,000 have been actively used in this country and abroad since 1918 in the treatment of cancer, tumors and other serious diseases.

IT'S ODD
But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—Hay ricks may not be the things you dread hitting on the auto highway at night, but they show the risk clearly.

What would happen if you came upon a hay rick with no tail light at night is told in the Transactions of the American Illuminating Engineering Society. With the best bright lights, the rick does not become visible to the auto driver behind it, until he is within 365 feet.

This, says the report, is too short a distance to stop at a speed more than 50 miles an hour. Switching on "passing lights" reduced the distance at which the rick could be seen to 206 feet. The engineers figured this meant that 33 miles an hour was top speed for permitting a stop in time to avoid collision.

But when another auto was approaching, its glare cut down the spying of the rick to 173 feet and the safe speed of the auto behind to 28 miles an hour.

Drivers can do other things than stop, and one of them is to dodge.

"Napoleon: A Doctor's Biography," by Boris Sokoloff; (Prentice-Hall; $3.25).

The week has just about buried us under a flood of books on Napoleon—historical novels, biographies, what not.

It would not be so bad if only these afflicted writers could agree about their obsession. This they seldom do, and this Dr. Boris Sokoloff, author of "Napoleon: A Doctor's Biography" and Raoul Brice, author of "The Riddle of Napoleon," especially do not do.

Those who follow this column for better or worse will remember that Dr. Brice does not accept the thesis that Napoleon died of cancer, toward which, legend says he had a predisposition through inherited characteristics. He does not even believe much in the possibility of such a "predisposition" in the way and to the extent biographers of Napoleon have accepted for so long.

Apparently Dr. Sokoloff accepts the cancer diagnosis readily; apparently, even, he has not bothered to question it although he has quoted a lot of material about the autopsy which indicates that something was being suppressed about the condition of the Napoleonic liver. Dr. Brice agrees with Surgeon Colonel Abbatucci that the Emperor died of an abscess of the liver complicated by amoebic dysentery contracted at Longwood.

Dr. Brice makes much of the fact that Lowe, governor of St. Helena, would naturally (almost necessarily) want to suppress the fact that the climate of St. Helena had certainly contributed to Napoleon's death—hence his use of doctors of known venality to as-ist at the autopsy. Dr. Sokoloff is not impressed by these matters either.

A less superficial, more extended, consideration of these and other matters would also have lent lustre to Sokoloff's chapters on other Napoleonic characteristics—his relations with women, for example. It is not that Sokoloff is necessarily wrong, but rather that his book does not give sufficient support to his theses.
