He left for Waxahachie because he was prominent in our work in Cisco and the credit for the growth activity here is due to his work in the organization of troops.

Moran gap "sore thumb" will be healed, according to Spencer of the chamber of commerce, who conferred at Abilene with the new manager for the state department district in which the gap is located. The gap is about half a mile west of Highway 66 where that highway crosses the M. K. & T. railroad. The road was left unpaved in prospect that an express would be at that point. Decision to grade separation structures later made and a surveying was ordered.

The gap lies in a corner of our county and its importance to the powers that be in the western district so that a general shuffle of things otherwise there the spot was taken despite the constant of the Cisco chamber of commerce and of Moran, to whom it is of considerable value.

At the time the highway department planned the paving out of "force" or maintenance. But no financial corner could be found in which to lodge it. Finally, it was determined to do it by contract, and division engineer of the district, S. J. Treadaway, assured Mr. Spencer that it would be let the contract Tuesday, and thus dispose of the problem.

SAYS CAPITAL WILL STRIKE

Warns Tax Laws Must Be Revised

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)— Maurice Wertheim, New York investment banker, told the Senate Finance committee today that "a sit-down strike of capital would certainly be here shortly unless our tax laws were changed." Testifying at the hearings on the house-approved revision bill, Wertheim recommended immediate repeal of the undistributed property tax. Wertheim also recommended the levying of a flat rate capital gains tax, the broadening of the income tax base, and a reduction of surtaxes on upper-bracket individual incomes.

Oil Belt District Committee Wrangles to No Purpose Saturday

The meeting of the Oil Belt district executive committee at Abilene Saturday afternoon wrangled to no purpose when the western division schools, failing in a measure of attempted coercion to force one of the eastern division teams into their half of the divided group, refused to admit Lamesa by a vote of 2 and 2.

The western schools, consisting of Abilene, Big Spring, San Angelo, and Sweetwater, sought the power of the state league officials to compel one member of the eastern division of the district to be transferred to the western area. Dr. T. H. Shelly, Roy Bedichuk and Byron Kidd, the latter the new athletic director of the league, were present and were asked by representatives of the western division if they could not force a reallocation of schools. They replied they could not.

Some method for a solution of the issue which caused the top-heavy district to split into two divisions, with a Thanksgiving day play-off, was sought but no remedy was found.

LITHUANIA IS SUBMISSIVE TO POLISH THREAT

Bows to Demands to Save Herself From Invasion

KAUNAS, Lithuania, March 19 (AP)—The government and parliament today bowed to the ultimatum backed by Poland's army and navy, and saved herself from an invasion. The Lithuanian minister at Tallinn, Estonia, delivered a note to Poland's minister there fully accepting Poland's demands for reestablishment of diplomatic relations broken since Poland seized the ancient Lithuanian capital, Vilna, October 9, 1920. The Polish minister in a reply confirmed the resumption of such relations. At the time Lithuania capitulated an estimated 100,000 Polish troops, five times more than the whole Lithuanian army, were massed along her borders.

GERMANY REACTS FAVORABLY

BERLIN, March 19 (AP)—The German government reacted favorably Saturday to Lithuania's capitulation in her dispute with Poland and indications were that Reichsfuehrer Hitler would "sit tight" a while before attempting any new move.

Because of the strong German element in Lithuanian Memel, a Polish invasion of the little Baltic country would have directly involved Germany through Hitler's declaration February 20 that he would protect all German minorities.

County Meet Is Expected to Draw Biggest List in Years

Stubblefield Land Purchased by Cisco Attorney

One of the largest real estate deals in recent years in this country was consummated early this month with the purchase by F. D. Wright, Cisco attorney, of all farm and ranch properties of the Stubblefield estate, amounting to about 5,500 acres.

Largest item involved in the deal in the former Ward ranch of 3,000 acres lying north of Cisco, half interest in which Wright has sold to Frank Harrell, prominent farmer and stockman of Cisco.

The property purchased by Wright also includes a large farm south of Eastland and farms in the Rio Grande valley.

Consideration in the transaction was not announced.

All city real estate, most of which is at Eastland, was retained by Tilman Stubblefield, heir of the estate.

Texas Traveling Bill for Employees Is $1,344,315

AUSTIN, March 19.—Texas paid last year for an employee's driving his car the equivalent of 600 times around the globe.

It provided him hotel rooms each night for 300 years.

It bought him 546,000 meals, or enough to last breakfast, dinner and supper, for 500 years.

This was shown in the consoldated travel expense account of the state, compiled by Compt. George H. Shepard, for the fiscal year that ended last Sept. 1.

Total travel bill of state officials and employees was $1,344,315.

The report did not recount the full time of an estimated 25 state employees, whose full time is given to tasting drinks in three establishments in Austin, one of them operated by the state, two by private owners. An average of 25 state employees sit in these soft-drink establishments throughout the eight-hour working day.

Following is the travel bill for 12 months, on which the state paid out money:

Fares, $54,315; mileage paid car owners for travel, $773,302; hotel,

Hitler Seeks 4 More Years to Complete Work

BERLIN, March 19 (AP)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler wants four more years of power "to complete the tasks ahead in the greater Reich."

Another step toward consolidation of Austria into the nazi domain was taken Friday when the old reichstag was dissolved and new legislative elections were called for April 10. The new reichstag will be the first to represent the greater Germany.

Hitler announced that all of Germany, including Austria, would vote at the same time on union of Austria with Germany. A plebiscite already had been called in Austria for April 10.

The reichstag heard Hitler in blunt terms, reiterate his warning against infringement on the rights of German minorities in other countries.

His threat to use force, as he did in Austria, was taken as a veiled thrust at Czechoslovakia, with 3,500,000 restless Germans inside its borders and half surrounded by Nazi territory.

Hitler took occasion to thank Premier Benito Mussolini for approving the Austrian annexation.

The "word of the German nation" was pledged as security that Italy's frontiers would remain inviate.

In justification of his armed absorption of Austria, Der Fuehrer said his decision to march into the land of his birth was dictated by realization that, otherwise, bloody civil war would break out.

"I was determined to spare Austria the fate of Spain," he said.

"Schuschnigg (the ousted Austrian premier) can thank God I acted my decision saved him and 10,000 others their lives."

He declared the time was past when Germans just across the border could be mistreated.

"Rights must be rights even when Germans as concerned," he said.

Saying he "pitied the democracies" because they did not understand his move in Austria, Hitler said his act was the result of "a stark violation of the right of self-determination of the 6,500,000 people of German nationality."

The 1936 estimate on poll taxes was 1,172,926.

Statistics were not available for last year when state offices were not at stake. The primaries this summer are scheduled for July 23.

Exemptions registered with county collectors were estimated at 55,000, but department experts explained the figure represented only those for which registration was required and therefore was far from the actual number.

Bexar county's estimated poll taxes this year were $8,722 as compared with $2,000 two years ago; Dallas county's were $6,707 and $2,364; Harris $3,368 and $3,566; and Tarrant's $4,712 and $7,117.

Other large counties were estimated as follows: Cameron, 10,124 and 10,937; El Paso, 12,462 and 15,290; Galveston, 13,712 and 15,225; Grayson, 12,563 and 13,918; Gregg, 12,229 and 12,530; Hidalgo, 11,938 and 12,423; Jefferson, 23,854 and 29,258; McLennan, 14,804 and 16,990; Nueces, 14,495 and 15,496; Smith, 11,031 and 11,411; Travis, 21,047 and 29,079; and Wichita, 10,931 and 14,159.

Active Wells and Locations

Total Nine

Eastland county oil activity was at a several-month high this week as active wells and announced locations mounted to a total of nine.

The area about eight miles northwest of Cisco was without exciting new developments as Lone Star Gas company commenced operations on bottom hole wiper on its No. 1 Van Farmer, showing as the fourth producer for the Ellenger pool.

Operators had plugged back two feet from total depth of 5,966 feet. Prior to recent acidizing with 5,000 gallons from top of the Ellenger line at 3,972 feet a good showing of up to 2,000 feet in the hole—was registered. The No. 1 Van Farmer is in section 47, SPR survey, about 3,000 feet north and slightly west of the Hickok Producing and Development company's pool opener on another Van Farmer lease.

The territory immediately near Carbon gained its second operation when Doob's Oil company of Dallas announced location for a 3,500-foot wildcat on the W. J. Greer and others' land two and a half miles south of the city. With spudding slated April 1 or sooner, the test will be 300 feet from the west and 330 feet from the east line and 315 feet southeast from a well drilled by Reeves et al.

New Brown Location

One new location for Brown county was registered in George Christie No. 4 Kilgore Brothers, Hugh McClure survey, 15 miles southwest of Rising Star, 750 feet from the west line of the lease and 570 feet from the north line of the lease and 300 feet from No. 3 Kilgore Brothers. Drilling to 1,350 feet is planned.

Two completions, both dusters, also were marked up for Brown county. E. M. Curry plugged his No. 1 J. T. Arledge, N. B. Mitchell survey, at total depth of 1,412 feet after having a slight show of oil in a sand, 1,314-25 feet. The other duster was W. W. Linniger No. 1 W. P. Taylor, three and a half miles northeast of the discovery.

In is 527 feet from the south line and 960 feet from the west line northwest quarter of section 40, block 2, ETRR survey. Drilling to a deep depth with a combination rotary and cable outfit is planned.

Six miles southeast of Rising Star, Eastland county, but in Comanche county, it was announced McCarter and Anderson No. 1 J. M. Smith estate, block 3, Lampasas county school land survey was spudded in toward a goal of 3,000 feet. Location is three miles southeast of a 4,000,000-cubic foot gasser completed several years ago.

Also in the Ellenger area northwest of Cisco, Hickok Producing and Development company was reported drilling at 300 feet on its No. 1 Grover S. Cleveland (D) section 47, SPR survey, one-half mile northeast of the discovery.

Lone Star Gas company No. 2 Van Farmer, 1,321-foot north offset to the discovery well, section 47, SPR survey, was drilling in a 10-inch hole at 2,100 feet.

Carbon Test

One-half mile south of Carbon, T. W. Johnson No. 1 Mary L. Jackson, section 34, block 2, H&TC survey, was shutdown at 600 feet

Near Desdemona, but in Comanche county, Gallatin-Lawson et al No. 1 Mrs. Bobbie I. Terry, N. H. Kuykendall survey, was drilling ahead at 4,350 feet in Ellenger lime topped at 3,404.

Two miles north of Caddo, Stephens county, L. C. Little and George Fagg No. 1 R. M. Rogers, section 28, block 5, T&P survey, which recently registered approximately three million cubic feet of gas at 100 feet in lime to total depth of 4,055 feet, was drilling at 4,256 feet.

After acidizing with 4,000 gallons, W. J. Dobbs No. 1 V. B. Hodges, section 11, block 2, H&TC survey, Comanche county, was understood to have had slight increase of oil from 25 barrels daily registered previously from a sand from 2,537 feet to 2,710 feet. Cash was set at 2,525 feet. Considerable water was reported.

Sipe Springs Test

J. D. Beckelman of Fort Worth was making preparations to drill No. 1 Herman Zellers, D&DA survey, one mile north from Sipe Springs, Comanche county, to 1,900 feet. Location was 750 feet from the west and south lines.

A completion for Coleman county was shown by Anzio Oil corporation on its No. 12 M. T. Overall estate, section 9, GH&H survey, which registered 1,200,000 cubic feet of gas through two-inch tubing from a sand 2,274-34 feet.

Pressure was 230 pounds. No. 12 Overall was recently deepened from 2,160 feet.

A 330-foot test, also in Coleman county, is due under plans announced by E. E. Thate of Cross Plains who plans to drill No. 1 A Reeves and Alice Reeves, John C. Goodrich survey No. 245, abstract No. 27, 15 miles south from Coleman, 150 feet from the west line, 330 feet from the east line and 315 feet southeast from a well drilled by Reeves et al.

Goodnight and Henderson filed application with the railroad commission to drill No. 1 W. E. Gray, sections 169-170, M. Scott and P. Hope survey, six miles southwest of Burkett, Coleman county, to 400 feet.

New Brown Location

One new location for Brown county was registered in George Christie No. 4 Kilgore Brothers, Hugh McClure survey, 15 miles southwest of Rising Star, 750 feet from the west line of the lease and 570 feet from the north line of the lease and 300 feet from No. 3 Kilgore Brothers. Drilling to 1,350 feet is planned.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

If ye keep my commandments ye shall abide in my love. These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full.—John xv. 10, 11.

Lift up all it yields of joy or woe,
And hope and fear,
Is just our chance of the prize of learning love—

He Wanted to Be Good

THE queer moral distortion of the criminal mind was revealed in the sordid deathhouse scene at Arkansas state prison Friday morning when Lester Brockelhurst paid the supreme penalty for a hitch-hiking slaying.

"I DID not merit the electric chair," the doomed youth told audience which saw the state of Arkansas exact the supreme penalty for the wanton slaying of one of its citizens. Even his own admission that he had killed three men in the course of his wanderings with a girl companion did not convince him of the enormity of his crime. He found justification for pardon in his own sense of an intimate urge to be good, that part of his perverted nature which impelled him to the weakness of his character could not prevail against the demands of a vicious appetite. Brockelhurst evidently intended for his statement to be a warning to prospective criminals. But he was incapable of that grandiloquent gesture. He was too concerned with his own hell, too concerned to excuse his crimes to his own comfort and the conviction of society, on the sole basis that he wanted to be good.

CLARENCE DARROW, noted criminal lawyer now gone to his reward, would have been keenly interested in Brockelhurst's deathhouse address. Darrow, who did not believe in the death penalty because he believed that crime was inspired by poverty, would have disconcerted his own thesis under the twisted, hopeless reasonings of the ill-fated youth. There is much good earth of righteousness in what Darrow held. Unfortunately, modern society is not ready, either in institution or principle, to accept that creed.

WHAT we can see in reading the pitiful statement is not so much the tragedy of Brockelhurst's position, but the tragedy of his inability to contend with the forces that led him to destruction. It is hard to resist contempt for one, who knowing his crimes, would blame them upon a woman. But one who committed the deeds of which he was accused and then desperately seeks some fragment of remorseful virtue in admitting himself under an influence which he could not resist, is not entitled to contempt so much as to pity.

AND when it is known that similar influences affect millions of other youth, that deathhouse address becomes a much more serious matter than bitter remorse and childish justification of a criminal life.

Something More Sinister

IT does not take much imaginative reasoning to detect something a great deal more sinister than the Polish-Lithuanian long-time quarrel behind the current Baltic crisis. The expanding power of the German union and the undisguised ambitions of Hitler demand a more serious view of the situation. The reported agreement between Poland and Germany is quite in line with the probabilities of the next German thrust, while the bold seizure of Austria by the Nazis entirely rules out of consideration any possibility that Hitler has any scruples respecting the means by which the revivified German state achieves its acknowledged ambitions.

IT IS NOT reasonable to believe that Poland would have invited war with Lithuania without Hitler's consent. Der Fueherer's guarantee of protection for Lithuania most certainly should have persuaded the Poles to another course. But the condition of the German map in the Baltic area and the fact that part of the territory now belonging to Lithuania was once a part of the German empire leads to the conclusion that the Nazi program for a greater Reich offers basis for the practical conclusion that Poland and Hitler have reached an agreement of some character which will both consolidate the German territories in that area and satisfy Polish ambitions with respect to its own boundaries. The Polish corridor cuts to the sea between Prussia and East Prussia, thus dividing Nazi territory while Memel, a Lithuanian port, formerly belonged to Germany. In this state of affairs Hitler well might use Poland as a sort of cat's paw to pull a coveted chestnut out of the international fire.

It's too bad that nazism, with its banners, pep-meetings, parades and rowdyism, wasn't built around football instead of Hitler.

It's hard to tell whether that big naval program is armament or poker.

reserve officer, and many others, usually about 85 a year.

The Army War college is strictly a gentleman's school. The officers come to Washington from their families; their pay goes right on; extensive recreational facilities are provided. In spite of the deadly serious nature of their study, life for them is not so tough. But the military looks upon the business with a serious eye. Here is what U. S. soldier No. 1, Gen. John J. Pershing, says of the training:

"Without the least disparagement of the services of the great body of scientific, professional and business men who hold responsible positions during that (World war) emergency, it is only justice to say that, in all essential respects, the directive genius, almost without exception, was the educated soldier."

Police Rush Aid Discovers Colleague

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 19 (UPI)—A store keeper telephoned the police a few evenings ago and said:

"Come quick. A tough-looking man just got out of a car and is standing in front of our place. We're afraid he is going to hold us up."

A squad car dashed to the store and found the "tough looking man" was Butler "Spike" Porter, police mechanic, on an errand.

Lieut. Luis F. Candelaria, of the Argentine naval air service, in 1918 made the first airplane crossing of the Andes.

TWO COUNTRIES

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

Materialists give the body first, in fact only, place in our existence. All of us would allow it an important part in individual welfare. The instrument of the mind, the dwelling place of self, "this tabernacle" that is a temporary abode, the "temple of the Holy Spirit," the body itself is made subject to salvation. The rearing of Samson was a matter of prayer by his parents who were instructed in matters of even eating and drinking. Discrimination as to what we take into the body and moderation in what we take is always important. What is usually termed "temperance" then is one of the lessons that has to be taught to every generation, lest they learn it through bitter and costly experience with an aftermath of broken health.

Law is essential to control conditions that affect health, such as drinks, garbage, drainage, drugs, diseases, and the like. But are they only a help to save effective means. It is evident that the most I can do to promote temperance among others is through teaching that gives them ideals and motives and methods for reaching toward their ideals. It is just as evident that the most I can do multiply the number of temperance practitioners is to willingly and energetically adopt temperance habits myself and to spread the temperance to others. By denying myself drinks and drugs that are harmful, Yesterday: At work again, Constance home the first night, expecting that letter from Derek.

CHAPTER IX

BUT there was no letter from Derek—only a forgotten bill from her dentist. When Constance realized that, she sat down on the outer step of the stairway—limp with disappointment.

In a moment, however, she was able to tell herself that she was unreasonable. Of course no letter could have come from California yet—even by swiftest airmail.

The Thorvald ranch was probably miles from the postoffice. . . . It was doubtful if Derek had her letter yet, although she had written it the day he left and sent it by air with a special delivery stamp.

Perhaps even at this moment Derek, too, had turned away from an empty mail box—bust and angry. She knew how tragically incredulous Derek could be when time and events did not keep pace with his own desires.

She wrote another long letter to him that night. It was a little difficult to frame the paragraphs without telling him more than she wanted him to know. . . . She did, at length, tell him about Bartlett's—making high comedy of her experiences of the afternoon before—making it all sound like that left Constance sometimes amused—sometimes a little frightened.

THERE was no letter from Derek the second day, nor the third.

On the fourth, Constance played a game with herself. To keep from hoping too painfully on the way home, she counted all the cars that passed on her side of the bus, betting with herself that there would be 5000. But she soon lost count. . . . And this time the letter was there.

"My darling," Derek wrote, "you can't imagine what a picturesquely lovely place this is—with an old-world atmosphere of legend which I cannot put into words."

"The ranch house, itself—El Rancho del Oro—is set in a vast open valley, with mountains just close enough to break the flatness and make a majestic blue and violet back-drop, without crowding in upon you."

"The house was originally built,

I am told, by a Spanish grande,

Don Felipe Sedillo, but has been added to extensively. The older part of the house has walls two feet thick. It is U-shaped, and its inner walls are constructed about a flowering patio with a pool and fountain, in the Mexican style. The fourth side of the patio is bounded by a high wall with a wrought-iron entrance gate beyond which you see masses of fruit blooms against the blue of the mountains.

"My studio, with a bedroom and bath adjoining, is on one of the outer wings to get the best light for the inner rooms about me. patio are very shadowy.

"The spaciousness and shadow of the old house will be very agreeable in the near future. In already it is very warm here. The patio is a mass of flowers and shrubs, and some of the trees are climbing roses about the main galleries are in bloom. Such variety and magnificence of color. If you were only here with me it would be perfect."

CONSTANCE read that last sentence pained.

"I have taken time," Derek went on, "to look about a little for a small house for us. But except for the shacks of the Mexican laborers, which would be impossible, there are no small houses on the ranch. When you come we shall have to live in the nearest town, which would be rather inconvenient for us—here at the Thorvalds' As soon as I can, of course, I am going to try to pave the way for that."

Rather inconvenient, Constance thought to herself a little plaintively. Pave the way—

There was more. . . . The Thorvald family consisted, besides Ernest Thorvald and his daughter, of a son, a year or so younger than his sister. "A good deal of a spoiled brat," Derek wrote. "Hildegarde is the Baron's companion and confidant, but George, I gather, is the apple of his eye. I shall be glad," Derek finished, "when I can actually get down to work. For that will mean that I can be with you much sooner in case there should be any slip-up about your following me here."

That last sentence gave Constance a bad night. So bad that she dreaded the next day at Bartlett's. However, the Museum would have been infinitely worse, with its barrage of pitying eyes and carefully phrased inquiries about Derek. Anne Cable, thank heaven! had gone out of town. And at Bartlett's every one was too much concerned with his own plans and ambitions to have any interest in her—or so she thought.

by limiting myself in what is harmless, and by using foods and drinks that are helpful I give my body the best chance of enjoying good health. The same may be said of all other practices that have to do with bodily functions and appetites. We may sometimes find the battle as strenuous as Paul did when he buffeted his body to keep it under, but the victory over self is worth the fight.
