TWO SERVICE STATIONS ARE ROBBED HERE

Holdups Net Intruder About $16; Larger Sum Is Overlooked

Local officers today had thrown out a drag-net in an effort to snare a daring young bandit who this morning between 5 and 5:20 entered two Eighth street service stations and robbed the attendants at pistol point.

The bandit, alone, afoot, and armed, entered the Moad Brothers' Sinclair station, 211 West Eighth street, unobserved, and covered "Cotton" Weathers, attendant, with the command "Don't move!" He wore a black hat pulled over his forehead, his face was covered with a "dirty, red handkerchief," and he had on a "trench coat with leather buttons," Weathers said. He was of medium height.

Scratches Attendant's Face The man kept Weathers covered with a gun held in his left coat pocket with the barrel of the gun protruding through a hole in the pocket. He rushed to the cash register and finding it locked, demanded the key from Weathers. Upon Weathers' refusal to surrender the key, the bandit scratched Weathers' face with his fingers, leaving five bleeding gashes.

Failing in his attempt to obtain the key, the bandit forced Weath-

Dramatic Club Is Organized by Sunday School

The Wesley Dramatic club, sponsored by the Wesley Fellowship class of the First Methodist church, was organized during the regular Sunday morning meeting of the class. One religious play is to be presented each month by the members of the club, the first to be an Easter pageant to be given Easter Sunday at the evening hour. This play is entitled "Easter Garden" and, with other numbers by various departments of the Sunday school, should prove an interesting program.

All young business men and women, who are not members of any active church organization, are invited to join the class and to become members of the Wesley Dramatic club.

First Baptist Meet Grows in Attendance

Rev. Judson Prince today said that "the series of special services at the First Baptist church which began last Sunday, are growing in interest and attendance. A large congregation was present for the service Monday evening. Thomas Harrison, director of the music will conduct his first song service of the meeting beginning this evening at 8 o'clock.

The pastor-evangelist announced that he would discuss the following subjects the next few evenings: "I Believe, Therefore," "The Lost and Found Christ," "The Meaneat Man in Cisco," "The Fire of Sin," "The General Attonement," "The Sins of the Time," and "The Blood Attonement."

Rev. Prince concluded, "Do not fail to attend these services. Great soulful singing and gospel preaching."

As War Clouds Rained Death

As peaceful as Sunday morning in the business section is this scene taken in Barcelona during the height of the terrific bombardment by rebel air raiders. But the unscathed buildings and deserted streets lie under the shadow of the black war cloud seen rising after one of the gigantic missiles had exploded nearby.

Blum's Plan Puts Chamber in Uproar

PARIS, April 5 (AP)—Premier Blum's demand for sweeping powers to control France's economic life by decree today threw the chamber of deputies into such an uproar that its president suspended the session. Jean Montigny, independent deputy, charged that the Blum bill was designed to start a veritable social and economic revolution.

Asa Skiles is judge of the election and F. E. Shoekley is assistant judge. Clerks are O. W. Kean, J. W. Huddleston, S. L. MaHaney, Spurgeon P. Parks and C. W. Nichols.

At 2 o'clock 108 votes had been cast.

VISITS FAMILY Here today to visit his family, Dr. J. T. McKissick, will return tomorrow to Kerrville, where he is serving as pastor of the Christian church for a period of three months.

HINT EL PASO FROME MURDER PLOT LOCALE

Paper Found Near Kent Regarded As Definite Clue

EL PASO, April 5 (AP)—Sheriff Chris Fox, El Paso, hinted today that Mrs. Weston Frome and her daughter Nancy, may have been the victims of a robbery which was plotted in El Paso.

El Paso officers entered into an investigation, Fox said, since there is some feeling that certain events leading up to the deaths originated in El Paso. Fox did not elaborate.

A search for two men and two women suspects followed reports by E. M. Wells, division highway engineer at Peocs, that he had seen the Frome automobile near Balmorhea with two women in it. Later two soldiers said they saw two men in the machine.

District Attorney Roy Jackson said that a San Francisco newspaper known to have been in the luggage, had been found in the mesquite brush along Highway 80, 10 miles east of Kent, Texas, today.

He considered this the discovery of the first tangible evidence in the double slaying.

The luggage from the abandoned Frome car has never been found. Sheriff Albert Anderson of Van Horn today had more than half a hundred men scouring the sandy

Route of Proposed Highway To Cross Plains

Cutting through rich farming territory which has no hard-surfaced road, to form a link in a proposed new South-west route to Sonora and Del Rio on the Mexican border, the suggested Cisco-Cross Plains highway is shown above by a broken double line. Route of the Abilene to Cross Plains highway is marked by a single heavy broken line. State highway department engineers are represented as looking with such favor on the proposed Cisco - Cross Plains road that they will recommend its designation as a state highway and its early construction. Scranton, Dan Horn, Nimrod, and a populous farming area would be served by the road, while a more direct route from Coleman and Cross Plains to Fort Worth and other north central and north Texas centers would be realized.

City Federation Organizes Clean-up Campaign Forces

The City Federation of Women's clubs today had completed its organization for waging the annual Cisco Spring clean-up campaign, in cooperation with the statewide movement initiated by the state department of health and the state fire insurance commission.

A proclamation by Mayor J. T. Berry last week formally recognized Cisco's participation in the state movement, and an appeal from the local health office and the fire marshal bolstered with official insistence upon a clean community, the drive which is now being conducted under club auspices. Attention of the women will be directed primarily to alleys and vacant lots. Many business properties, owned out of town, will get attention. The city sanitary department is offering its facilities in hauling off accumulated rubbish and residents as they clean their premises were requested to pile trash and other refuse in places convenient to the trucks which will be started Wednesday morning. In connection with the clean-up drive, the women's clubs are urging that property owners repair and paint property which has depreciated, pointing out the timeliness as well as the utility of this renovation. Mr. Wagley and Mrs. Rinehart sustained bruises and cuts. Passersby picked up the injured and carried them to the hospital. Driving Guests Home Mr. and Mrs. Rinehart were driving Mr. and Mrs. Wagley to their home at Moran after a visit with the Rineharts at their Laguna hotel apartment. Mr. Rinehart, Mr. Wagley and F. L. Hawk, of Iowa, whose large sedan the two couples occupied, were associated in oil development and were preparing to drill a well on the 80-acre Ramsey lease about eight miles north of Putnam. Mr. and Mrs. Rinehart, after taking their guests home, intended to drive by the lease to check up on three wells which are pumping there.

Mr. Rinehart, came here from Fort Worth several years ago and since then was active in oil operations north of Putnam, in the Moran territory and near Albany. He and Mrs. Rinehart, the former Miss Catherine Johnson of Mammoth Springs, Arkansas, whom he married two years ago, have no children.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Rejoice inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's suffering, that when His glory shall be revealed ye may be glad with exceeding joy.—I Pet. iv. 13.

Never sit me down and say
We walk the wilderness today,
The promised land tomorrow.
Build up heroic lives, and all
Be like a sheathen sabre,
Ready to flash out at God's call,
O chivalry of labor!
Triumph and toil and time and age,
Joy suns the cloud of sorrow;
And 'tis the martyrdom today
Brings victory tomorrow.

A Challenge and A Lesson

THE gruesome murders of two California tourist women on a lonely stretch of deep southwest Texas highway presents a definite challenge to the crime detection agencies of the state and a startling warning to women who travel alone. As Col. H. H. Carmichael, director of the Texas Department of Safety said, "We've got to solve it." There is no alternative, for this thing is that which will continue to be a black mark against the state until it is solved. Fortunately, in its well organized and efficient centralized state police force and crime detection laboratories, the state is better able now to cope with such crimes, for this thing is far beyond the abilities and the resources of the old system of local police. It is something which calls for central direction and the perfect collaboration of agencies over a wide front. The very thing which made it possible for two women to set off on a long trip from California in their confidence of a safe and successful trip, makes difficult the apprehension of the fiends who tortured and murdered them so ruthlessly. Given three days in which to make their getaway, it was possible for them to be many, many miles away from the scene of their crime, leaving only the barest of clues. Such a state of affairs calls not only for widespread and well integrated organization but for the utmost in professional skill and training to ferret out the facts on the basis of the meagre clues that were left.

WHILE the police system of the state is occupied with the hunt for the dastardly criminals who did this thing, motorists and particularly women motorists, may well look to the horrible lesson it teaches. Crime and degeneracy still haunt the open road, just as in the days of the stage coach. The utmost precaution is essential in traveling, particularly at night and on lonely stretches of highway, and even then mechanical defects, a tire blowout or other mishap which forces a stop may be an invitation to lurking scoundrels.

WE are confident that the Texas police forces, with the cooperation of the police of other states and federal agencies of crime detection, will solve this crime. But it is foolish to invite similar crimes by neglecting the realities of this.

THE ARRIVAL OF SPRING

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

The belief that pan-beating will bring down a swarm of bees is very old, but modern authorities give it no credence. Aristotle mentions it in his writings, and the poet Virgil states it as a fact in the Fourth Georgic. The custom is practiced widely throughout the world today.

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

It looked like a bit of Texas had migrated northward but wished it hadn't. Two mockingbirds sat in a row of osage orange hedge alongside the roadside. But they did not look as pleasant as they might have on a midwinter day in the South. And this was the first day of April in Kansas. They appeared to be put out about something, as if they cared little what any other birds said or sang. When we might look for such a wonderful imitator and impersonator to be ridiculing or complaining a dozen or more of his feathery fellows by taking up snatches of their songs, these birds sat and scolded or flew disdainfully to a little further limb.

These birds from the Southland had been fooled, too badly to be funny. Warm days through March had sent the wheat up in a luxuriant growth and hastened the buds into blossoms. The birds may have tried to keep up with nature. But in the wake of a springing storm came a spread of winter air from the belated snows of the high northwest. And a clouded sky kept the sun from getting at his work of warming it up. The temperature of that first day of April hung too near the freezing level all day to be comfortable. And, worse!—at dark the blanket that had kept the sun's rays out rolled away and let the earth rays get away. By morning all nature had been subjected to a rather rough refrigeration. The contemplation and anticipation of such a plight was enough to ruffle the feathers and the tempers and the voices of these usually rather rollicking songsters.

Eastland School Board to Organize

EASTLAND, April 5 (Sp.)—Organization of the Eastland school board to which K. B. Tanner, E. H. Jones and Frank T. Crowell were re-elected Saturday in an election marked by unusual interest will be at 8 o'clock Wednesday night following canvassing of the votes and declaration of the result. The meeting will be in the Exchange building. A total of 508 votes were cast in the election. Other members of the board are W. K. Hyer, Milburn McCarty, Grady Pipkin and J. Frank Sparks. Terms of the trustees are for three years. Other business at the meeting will probably include election of a president, a secretary and treasurer, and assessor-collector for the school district. Tanner is present chairman of the board. campaign this week at Altanta, in east Texas. The lieutenant governor couldn't do much about the unicameral legislature, since it would require a vote by the people on a constitutional amendment to try it in Texas.

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Probably it was inevitable that the 1939 New York world's fair and Grover Whalen should become involved in international affairs. Now that they have, Mr. Whalen, whose efforts in other fields have been almost Napoleonic, is trying to wash his hands of that aspect of fair promotion and allow Secretary Hull to bear the brunt. Mr. Whalen came to Washington to show President Roosevelt some of the plans for spending the $3,000,000 contributed by the federal government to make a tourists' delight of Flushing meadows, where the fair is to be. The plans are handsome no end, and so is Mr. Whalen. After he emerged from the President's office he stopped in the general White House reception room to show the plans to reporters and to explain some of the business about the fair. It was at that point that we discovered Mr. Whalen's interest in international affairs. The nazi Anschluss was kept a long distance from American shores for the most part, but it reverberated in Flushing meadows. When Hitler Anschlussed Austria, he liquidated one of Mr. Whalen's most interesting customers. Prior to the Anschluss, Mr. Whalen had promised from 64 nations to prepare exhibits for the fair, Austria, one of the 64, had about it some of the perfume of the Balkans and the Orient and might have been expected to contribute an exotic note the like of which can now come from Germany, even when the Anschluss is included. For all practical purposes Mr. Whalen has written Austria off his list although officially he won't take such a telling step as that until Secretary Hull has sanctioned the Anschluss, which he has not yet, not fully. But that is not all. There is the Spanish affair. Mr. Whalen barely had outlined his fair program than General Franco, head of the Insurgents, put in a bid for space. We didn't learn whether Mr. Whalen invited General Franco to participate. Mr. Whalen was in unfamiliar surroundings in Washington and among unfamiliar questioners and chose to discuss the safer subjects of dioramas and park entrances. We did learn that he is withholding acceptance of the Franco exhibit. To accept might imply

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

AUSTIN, April 5.—With Karl Crowley of Washington, solicitor of the postoffice department, definitely entered as a candidate for governor, and Bill McCraw and Ernest Thompson at work on platforms which they expect to make within 10 days, the week-end saw the governor's race in Texas pretty well shaped up. Only the action of Jim Ferguson planned to take remained a doubtful factor.

The Ferguson enthusiasts insistently circulated reports here that Mrs. Ferguson will enter the race, and will make her announcement "in a few days," but this is the same story they have been telling in Austin hotel lobbies for weeks. Some newspaper speculation that "Farmer Jim" might support Crowley was heavily discounted here, because Crowley's announcement, if it reflects what he believes in, is diametrically opposed to most of the things that Ferguson stands for. Of late years, Ferguson has advocated the sales tax, almost to the exclusion of every other issue. There was nothing in Crowley's announcement to indicate he embraces the Fergusonian school of political thought. As a lone wolf, the experts here do not concede Crowley a place as a leading candidate, unless he turns out to be a super-campaigner. His slashing attacks upon utilities and natural resource developers are not calculated to enlist the interest which contribute most liberally, as a rule, to campaign funds, and even the candidate himself did not appear to be very hopeful of his success. His talk of $2,000,000 campaign funds for Thompson and McCraw drew a laugh, and McCraw, talking off the record, remarked: "If he'll show me where there is a $2,000,000 campaign fund, I'll give him half of it, and get out of the race." McCraw Off to Florida

The attorney general was scheduled to leave the state for several weeks about April 11, to appear in a hearing on the Green estate tax case at Miami, Fla. He was planning to announce his platform before he leaves, and resume active campaigning soon after his return. Thompson, preparing also to announce a platform, was busy making arrangements for the opening of his campaign at Waco, April 12, where supporters from many central Texas counties will gather to hear him fire his opening gun. Crowley has returned to Washington, to wind up his affairs and resign from his federal job, since federal regulations require such action when employees enter an elective political race. Phares Is Ousted

Capt. L. G. Phares, organizer and chief of the state highway patrol, fell victim to the political storm which has broken about his head several times in recent years this week, and was removed from the highway patrol job by the Public Safety commission. He will be assigned some inferior post in the department, members of the commission said. Capt. Homer Garrison, who has been Phares' aide, was named to succeed him. The commission reported he was removed for "incompatibility and a lack of cooperation with other units of the department." The action is an aftermath of the bitter political rivalry that has existed between the highway patrol and the rangers, ever since they were combined under one directing head. Phares was named first director of the department of public safety, but only after a bitter fight made by rangers and their friends, and he finally succumbed to this pressure and resigned after a short service, returning to the highway patrol job. Phares, ill at his home, has asked the commission for a full explanation of his removal. Col. House Passes one of its most influential figures, following his death in New York. Col. House, a mysterious figure who disliked publicity, was the "maker" of three Texas governors, and rose to be the closest friend and advisor of Woodrow Wilson, in whose cabinet he placed three distinguished Texans. President and Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, and many high ranking foreign officials, sent floral offerings for the final rites of the soft-spoken Texan who wielded a powerful influence in natural and international affairs after graduating from his political apprenticeship in Texas. LOVE LAUGHS THE DOCTOR

George Thorvald faintly embarrassed this is too much fun for a while; heart to let you know. You aren't know."

"You've known it all asked between."

"I do, indeed," Constance told him. "The rest of my public seemed to think I was doing a grand good job."

"Well," George Thorvald told her. "It was your sense of humor that wrecked you. You saw that Camilla Wynne is really—well, just funny—and the harder she tries, the funnier she gets. And having a sense of humor, you couldn't make her just as funny as she really is. . . . If you want to know, finding out how funny Camilla is was the best thing that ever happened to me. . . . Do her for me again now, that's a good girl, and make her funnier than you ever did before. Make her as funny as hell. I need a good laugh."

So Constance did Camilla Wynne as she had seen her in some of her most heart-breaking—and funniest—roles, while George Thorvald cackled with weak mirth. Then Dr. Rogers came quietly into the room.

"Dr. Rogers," she said suddenly. "I'm not really needed here any longer. I think I ought to go."

All the nonsense is burned out of me. . . . But I sort of like your brand of insanity. You're going to be around here for a while, aren't you?"

"Not much longer, I imagine. You certainly don't need me, any longer; and I was brought here to—"

"Sure—to stand in for Camilla Wynne. . . . Do you want to know why you couldn't make it stick—after my head stopped feeling like a cheese?"

"I do, indeed," Constance told him. "The rest of my public seemed to think I was doing a grand good job."

"Well," George Thorvald told her. "It was your sense of humor that wrecked you. You saw that Camilla Wynne is really—well, just funny—and the harder she tries, the funnier she gets. And having a sense of humor, you couldn't make her just as funny as she really is. . . . If you want to know, finding out how funny Camilla is was the best thing that ever happened to me. . . . Do her for me again now, that's a good girl, and make her funnier than you ever did before. Make her as funny as hell. I need a good laugh."

So Constance did Camilla Wynne as she had seen her in some of her most heart-breaking—and funniest—roles, while George Thorvald cackled with weak mirth. Then Dr. Rogers came quietly into the room.

"Dr. Rogers," she said suddenly. "I'm not really needed here any longer. I think I ought to go."

He was leaning over busy with the fastenings of his bag, and he did not look up or speak at once. Then he echoed "Go?" vaguely, as if the words did not mean anything to him. "Why—if staying is—inconvenient for you, I suppose we ought not to ask you to stay any longer. . . . But Mr. and Miss Thorvald are your hosts, not I."

It was not going at all as Constance had planned it. There were a number of things she had been planning to say to him—if she ever had an opportunity, and if he would only say the obvious things that would give her the proper cue. . . . But he did not say any of them. He only muttered something about being in a hurry, picked up his bag, and went on with a brief nod.

Constance noticed, however, that he had time to stop in the sala where Hildegard sat at the piano; and that it was five minutes before he came out, laughing and looking years younger, as he so often did after a few minutes spent in Hildegard's serene unhurried presence.

After that evening Mark Rogers came to the house less and less; and when he did come he never made any occasion to speak to Constance alone.

She said to Hilda one day, tentatively, "Does Dr. Rogers ever take time to live—to have any real life of his own—like other people, I mean?"

Hilda laughed quietly as if at some secret thought; and said, "I should say that Mark is one of the most intensely alive people I know. Of course, since you've been here, he's been rushing around picking up the pieces that flew while he was away—you know—people who got sick but who wouldn't call a doctor till he got back. . . . And you have to know Mark pretty well, anyhow, to understand him. He's—well, he's absurdly shy about things that mean a lot to him."

He did turn up about lunch time the day Constance had be-

Drumming Up Enthusiasm for Invaders

With the populace of every Austrian community where German soldiers appeared under strict orders to display enthusiasm for everything represented by the swastika, invading Reich forces were greeted all along their line of march by such scenes as that above. Here, in a town near Linz, crowds of Austrians, including many women and young girls, suddenly and mysteriously equipped with swastika flags, added their cheers to the crash of martial music from armed and helmeted military bands.

stallation," a Ford engineer said. "Each of the four 600-foot grinding or polishing lines is in exact conformity with the curvature of the earth over its entire length."

Constant close checks show that although millions of square feet of glass have been ground and polished by the massive machines, they remain as precisely level as the day they were installed.

This remarkable stability and an equally remarkable freedom from vibration were obtained by sinking great caissons down 109 feet to bedrock, attaching steel slabs to the tops of the caissons, and then building a platform of steel and concrete to support the grinding and polishing lines.

gion to wonder whether she was to see him again before she left.

He accepted Hilda Thorvald's invitation to eat with them with a matter-of-fact, "Fine! I've got my slats fairly well cleaned up today for the first time. I may not have to run out in the middle of the soup."

As Hildegard, Constance Derek, and Mark Rogers lingered over their dessert — Ernest Thorvald was off on one of his day-long tours of inspection about the ranch — Hilda said, "Since you seem to be living a life of pampered luxury today, Mark, why not stick around and get acquainted with your mother for a change? She telephoned that she was coming out this afternoon. Vincento's gone to town; he's bringing her back."

"Well, well"—he smiled with the special smile he seemed to keep for Hilda — "so Mother's caught up with me at last! I've hardly seen her since she got back from the east last night. I don't dare. I knew she'd be bursting with news she just had to get off her chest—and you know there's no stopping Mother if you once let her buttonhole you."

Constance thought enviously. Why can't he treat me that way? Instead of aging as if I were something that had lit on his nose, and might bite him at any minute.

They had hardly got up from the table and gone out into the patio when the car drove up outside, and Mrs. Rogers sailed in upon them, plump and beaming—and voluble as ever.

"My dear Hildegard," she began, "how terrible about George! I came the first minute—!" Then she saw Constance, and her jaw dropped. "Why," she cried, "this can't be—but it is, isn't it—My dear Miss—only I suppose it's Mrs. Manthon now, of course, isn't it? . . . So the girls at Bartlett's were right! And you two are really married after your interrupted honeymoon?"

Huge Ford Machines Curved to Earth

DEARBORN, Mich., April 5—Prodigious machines as long as two city blocks, yet constructed to conform precisely to the curvature in the earth's surface in their 600-foot length, grinding and polishing the plates of glass used in making Ford and Lincoln safety glass.

Ford engineers computed the earth's curvature each way from the center of the 600-foot bed of each of the machines at 1-40th of an inch, a calculation in which they even allowed for the effect of light refraction on their readings.

This precision was painstakingly built into the machine to insure the utmost possible uniformity in the thickness of the glass.

THE Gas REFRIGERATOR (OR KEROSENE)

Still Going Strong . . . Not 1c More to Operate Now Than When New . . . Still Silent . . . Because IT HAS NO MOVING PARTS In the Freezing System . . .

"We have been the satisfied owners of a Servel Electrolux refrigerator for over ten years. This remarkable refrigerator, after almost eleven years of daily use, is still just as economical, silent, and trouble-free as when it was first installed in our home.

"A representative of the local Electrolux dealer called on us recently in an attempt to interest us in trading for a late model, but we declined for the reason that our old Electrolux is still giving us such excellent and economical service that we would have nothing to gain by giving it up.

"We have lived in Abilene for fifty-five years, and I often think how wonderful it would have been could we have had the protection and convenience of a Servel Electrolux for all those years. And judging from the condition of our present refrigerator, I sincerely believe that could we have purchased one at that early date it would still be in operation today."

Death Flag for Traffic Campaign

DENVER, April 5—A flag of death is being fitted for Denver's police building flag pole.

Black and a white cross in the center, it will fly on days when one or more persons are killed in traffic accidents.

On days when no deaths occur in the city, as the result of car accidents, a white flag will be flown.

It is Judge Philip Gilliam's idea. He believes the flags will remind drivers of the dangers of traffic.

California ranks first, Indiana second, in the amount of tomatoes grown for packing.

Things Are Not What They Seem

Man or woman, what do you think? Well, officials of a St. Louis hotel thought so too, and that's how Ann Brock fooled them for seven long years. Masquerading as a man—and she does it well, don't you think?—she worked as a bus boy until police just happened to learn her identity during a routine questioning session. Her job gone, 27-year-old Ann planned to return to the Missouri farm where she was raised.

It's a New Type of Strong Man That America Faces in Mexico

Will Strong Man Cardenas of Mexico be strong enough to buck the international situation created by the expropriation of the Mexican oil industry? Here's an article that helps you judge for yourself, by telling just what sort of a person the strong man is.

By J. P. McKNIGHT MEXICO CITY, April 5 (AP)—Political know-it-alls wagged heads when Lazaro Cardenas became Mexico's president December 1, 1934.

"He won't last three months," some predicted. "He will be just another tool for Calles," said others.

They were wrong. It took the quiet-spoken veteran of revolution, youngest of all Mexico's constitutional presidents, just three weeks to demonstrate that he was running things.

Puts Revolution to Work Three years more and he really had put the Mexican revolution to work and seen far-reaching social experiments under way.

Now, with the fourth year well started, he has run headlong into foreign interests by nationalizing the Mexican oil industry.

A dark, heavy-set powerful man with crisp black hair and close-cropped black moustache, vigorous and full of life at 42, the soldierly executive, who has Indian as well as Spanish blood in his veins, contrasts with the traditional Mexican politician.

Tactful, he speaks in a monotone, uses few oratorical tricks. In personal habit he is almost Spartan. He seldom drinks, never smokes. Impatient of pomp, he has abolished formal dress for official occasions. He likes the rude life of the country and feels at home among the villagers.

Flees With Prisoner At 11, Cardenas quit the tiny school in his own village of Jiquilpan, Michoacan, to work in the tax collector's office and help support his widowed mother and six brothers and sisters. Later he worked in a print shop and served as a town jailer.

One night he and his single prisoner slipped away and became soldiers of the revolution against Huerta.

At 19 he was a captain of cavalry, rising steadily then to the top rank of division general. He got his military experience in the field. Four times he was near death. Then came political experience, as governor of Michoacan, secretary of interior, president of the National Revolutionary party and secretary of war. That was the post he left to run for president, as protege of Calles. Later, Calles criticized him for a "radical marathon." For his pains, Calles was exiled.

Cardenas' program, in its essence, is to help Mexico's 15,000,000 Indians and mestizos (half-breeds), the forgotten men of the country, by "revolutionary" action. His predecessors had such programs too, largely on paper. 35,000,000 Acres

Since Cardenas came to power, he has taken over big estates, divided them up and distributed to communal farm groups 35,000,000 acres of land. He has built more than 5,000 schools. He has laid railroads and highways across jungles and mountains. He has given hundreds of villages and towns water and sanitation.

His term does not end until 1940 but he has hurried to get everything done he can, despite the cost. He does not want to leave too much to a successor. There's a constitutional provision against his succeeding himself, although "strong men" sometimes are urged to disregard it. Even before Cardenas took over the oil industry, some who approved his general objectives were asking, "Isn't he going too fast?" Huge government expenditures in financing the business of giving the land back to the finances. They tures too for itions of machi material and get money, M from 700 to 900 ary, to the dis Stats business. Look in the C bringing the state from 12th place to second. The $19,255,000 in cash income from such crops put the state in fourth place nationally in that table, and was a large gain from the $14,700,000 valuation in 1936.

California, which has been the leading state in both acreage and income for many years, was far out in front in value, with $92,735,000. Florida and New York were second and third, with valuations of $26,745,000 and $25,180,000, respectively.

Other southern states, making vigorous efforts to "balance agriculture and industry" as well as to balance the different factors within agriculture and lessen their dependence upon cotton, have greatly increased their commercial vegetable acreage, too. The report cites a study by Gustave Burmeister, department of agriculture economist, showing that Louisiana's acreage last year was five times as great as in 1919; Alabama and Mississippi four times, and Georgia and Florida tripled their truck crop acreage in that period.

Spinach was Texas' principal truck crop in acreage last year, its 50,000 acres representing about two-thirds of the total in the nation, though marketing faults make the income to "winter garden" farmers uncertain. Acreages devoted to other leading truck crops were: tomatoes 46,000, watermelons 46,000, cabbage 36,000, onions 21,200, Irish potatoes 13,000, carrots 7,800, snap beans 7,300, green peas 6,000, cantaloupes 5,200, beets 4,800, strawberries 2,150, green peppers 1,600, egg plant 500, and cauliflower 150.

Texas' progress in crop diversification is noted also in its substantial production of corn, wheat, oats, grain sorghums, grapefruit, peaches, pecans, peanuts and other staple and fruit crops not listed in truck lists. Increasingly better balance in agricultural pursuits will help to round out farm incomes and stabilize purchasing power, the council's report noted, improving the state's rating as an active consumer market and therefore as a magnet for new commercial and industrial enterprises.

Improved roads, making possible rapid transportation by trucks, and improved facilities for handling perishable food products during the winter and early spring have been important factors in the growing commercialization of Texas vegetable crops, the report said. That there is room for continued expansion was shown, however, by the fact that one-third of all the vegetables unloaded in Dallas alone last year came from California, and that was four times the amount received in this city from Texas shippers.

Mr. Shaw Proposes Toast to Mr. Shaw

LONDON, April 5 (AP)—George Bernard Shaw was up to his old tricks the other day.

The toastmaster at a studio luncheon to celebrate the start of production on Shaw's "Pygmalion" called on the white-bearded Irishman for a speech.

Shaw rose and solemnly announced: "I only get up because of one very important omission. I ask you to drink to the health of Bernard Shaw."

"Ladies and gentlemen . . ." the 81-year-old vegetarian raised his glass of barley water, "Bernard Shaw!"

The other guests tittered, sipped at their wine.

BIG CROP LOSS
LOS ANGELES, April 5 (AP)—Losses to agriculture in Los Angeles county from the rains and floods in early March are estimated at $691,000 by Harold J. Ryan, county agricultural commissioner. Citrus groves and vineyards were hardest hit.

RFC Loan Bill Is Approved by House Monday

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—The Roosevelt administration virtually received a "blank check" enabling it to lend $1,500,000 to combat the new depression when the house passed Monday, 339 to 6, a bill increasing the loan powers of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The bill did not go to the White House immediately, because the senate had yet to act on a house amendment, but it was considered certain it would be soon.

Although it grants wide powers to the RFC to help business, the administration has not announced a specific program to apply the powers. A committee of officials headed by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau has been working on a lending program.

One major section of the bill permits the RFC to make long-term loans to business. The agency is now restricted to loans maturing in 1945. The long term credits may be of a character that banks won't touch. In the words of Jesse H. Jones, the government "can afford to take a chance that banks cannot."

Another important feature of the bill is that it revives the power of the RFC to make loans to states and municipalities which demonstrate ability to pay for work-giving projects.

The house bill omitted a senate clause which reiterated a section of the existing law requiring interstate commerce commission approval before the RFC could lend to railroads.

The plight of business was considered today by the senate unemployment committee, which heard Senator Maloney (D-Conn) appeal for a resumption of government spending to avert "a very bad situation."

majority and the fact eight of those who voted for support were cabinet members showed that Blum faced serious difficulty in getting even the chamber's approval. Senators predicted the cabinet would fall if the premier insisted upon bringing his program to a vote in the upper house.

Many deputies and senators said the government's program was "simply a copy of the economy practiced in Italy and Germany." Blum in reply told the chamber finance committee the nation's finances were in such a state and the costs of rearmament so heavy the nation must be disciplined to accept drastic measures.

COLD CASH

TULSA, Okla., April 5 (AP)—Police listed it as a "cold cash" robbery. Burglars took $300 hidden in the refrigerator at the store of T. T. Carey.

Go-to-Church Program Boosts Attendance

The Daily Press today contacted several ministers of the city, in regard to the "go to church" campaign which the ministerial association of Cisco is sponsoring for the month of April. Each of the ministers reported that the increase in attendance on the first Sunday of the campaign was satisfactory. They said they were expecting additional increases in attendance and interest in the weeks to come. The members of the association were highly pleased with the increase in attendance of the young people.

They further requested every citizen of Cisco to cooperate in the movement, and to help make each succeeding Sunday throughout the month of April a more complete success.

Revised Tax Bill Sent to Senate by Committee

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—The finance committee sent the senate today the revised five billion dollar tax revision bill along with the statement that the measure would clear the way for business improvement.

Numerous changes had been made in the measure by the senate committee, one of which included the elimination of the administration-sponsored undistributed profits tax.

reaches of Culberson county for clues. R. H. Colvin of the department of justice at El Paso, said all the bureau's men had "been pulled off the case."

"We entered the case originally when it appeared a possible case of kidnaping," Colvin said. "Now that events have proven it a case of murder, we are retiring because it is outside our jurisdiction."

The federal agent, however, indicated the willingness of his department to cooperate with state and county officers in solving the case. He said the department's scientific laboratories and all its facilities would be made available if wanted, although the department's men were taken out of the case.

"We'll still do anything we can to help run down these slayers," Colvin said.

Piecing together bits of evidence and reports from witnesses along the Pecos-Dallas highway, Sheriff Sanderson asserted his belief two men and two women had parts in the slayings, and asserted that robbery was the motive.

REWARD FUND GIFTS ARE INVITED

AUSTIN, April 5 (AP)—General contributions to the reward fund to stimulate the search for slayers of Mrs. Weston Frome and her daughter were invited by Governor Allred today. The governor acted upon the suggestion of Tom Patten, Dallas, who contributed $500.

ers into a tool case, in the back equipment room, and barred the door with a screw driver. He then hurried to the register and forced it open.

Having emptied the drawer of $8.36, he made his way to Harvey Thurman's Gulf station, 201 West Eighth street, and ordered Pryor, night shift man, to "Get 'em up!"

Reaching the cash register, the thief rang up "Gas—$10.00," and raked out about $7.00, leaving the pennies. After forcing Pryor into the storeroom, he shut the door and fled.

Barely Escapes

Weathers, having crashed the top of the case, notified the police immediately, and then rushed down to the Gulf station. The bandit must have barely escaped as Pryor was just then entering the front room of the station. He had not been locked in the storeroom.

In the Sinclair station, while locking Weathers in the tool case, the thief unknowingly touched a box which contained more cash than his two raids netted. The box contained about $30 dollars which Charlie Moad had hidden earlier in the evening.

M. H. French this morning was carefully lifting all available fingerprints. Several suspects are at the present being held in the city hall for questioning in connection with the robbery. Cisco officers said that the robberies were conducted in an amateurish fashion. The two holdups netted the bandit about $16.

Love Bug Got Him—and How

Pinky Tomlin, crooner and composer, once wrote a song-hit about the "Love Bug" getting you if you don't watch out, and now he has disregarded all his sage advice and has succumbed to the wiles of that potent insect. But no one can blame him much after looking at lovely Joanne Alcorn, 21-year-old daughter of an Oklahoma oil man, whom he is about to kiss after they filed intention to wed in Los Angeles.
