BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

O God, thou art my God; early will I seek thee, . . . My soul shall be satisfied . . . and my mouth shall praise thee with joyful lips.—Ps. LXIII, 1, 5.

Rest, weary heart!

From all thy silent griefs and secret pain, Thy profitless regrets and longings vain; Wisdom and love have ordered all the past, All shall be blessedness and light at last; Cast off the cares that have so long oppressed— Rest, sweetly rest!

"The waves," says Chrysostom, "are many, and the storm is furious; but I fear not to be drowned, for I stand upon a Rock."

What Hurts One Hurts All

It is more important how we treat them after they get here than to invite them, was the response of one Cisco business man to the statement that Cisco should concentrate on its own trade territory in its effort to expand its trade. And that is quite, quite true. In any business dissatisfaction reacts not alone upon the business directly concerned but upon the community as a whole. A customer dissatisfied in one minor thing will carry his whole patronage elsewhere thus depriving the whole business community of his trade and indirectly doubling the injury to the individual merchant.

A SOUND and general program of community business policy is essential to cope with this situation. This need is more acute in times of lag than it is in good times. Unfortunately, Cisco has so far lacked an effective medium through which such a program can be formulated. Of necessity it must come from the business men themselves. It is their problem and they themselves must solve it. They can do so only through some cooperative organization to which all their ideas may be brought and in which these may be consolidated into a common program on a common objective. Such an organization provides the advantage of a thorough self-examination and a practical analysis of community problems. It provides, also, the advantage of a common assault upon such problems. It makes possible a united front. We need that badly in Cisco today.

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, April 20—West Point graduates receive their certificates in order of class standing. The brightest gets his first; the tail-end is called the "goat" and gets all the applause. The system, a practice of years beyond counting, recently inspired Representative Terry of Arkansas to protest to the house appropriations committee that it was a "crucel and unnecessary" thing to brand a poor army officer for life as the "goat" of his class. He demanded that General Benedict, West Point commandant, look into the matter of giving out the certificates in alphabetical order, from Adams to Zagurski. General Benedict said he would. But from the ranks of those most concerned in the matter comes a counter protest suggesting that Representative Terry tend to his law-making and stop worrying about West Point.

Why, Senator!

"Now I ask you," writes Louis Dosh, a West Point senior, in a letter published in his father's newspaper at Ocala, Fla., "isn't that something to pay a man $10,444 a year (Mr. Terry's salary) to worry himself about? The letter goes on to say that General Benedict, as he promised Representative Terry, appointed a board to investigate the system of distributing certificates. The board polled the 30 lowest ranking men in my class," Dosh writes, "one of whom would inevitably be the 'goat' and have to suffer this great humiliation and excessive cheering on graduation, to find their opinions. Of the thirty two favored alphabetical graduation. One of the two was the alphabetical senior and he voted that way just to get the laugh that he knew it would provoke among his classmates. 'I think it is ridiculous that outsiders who know next to nothing about this institution should be permitted to dictate changes in our traditions. Outsiders just can't understand the position of the goat, or the goats in general. The goats are the most popular men in the class and the wooden nature of their mental faculties is one of the

WASHINGTON NEWS

FROM CONGRESSMAN
CLYDE L. GARRETT

Relief—According to President Roosevelt the billion dollars proposed in his January budget message for relief will not be enough for the 1939 fiscal year. $3,000,000,000 was requested by a committee of mayors who called on the president. Administrator Hopkins stated that only a sum large enough to provide relief from July to January will be asked.

Railroad Subsidy—Opposition to a federal subsidy to the railroads was expressed by the president recently. He states that if this type of subsidy is granted to railroads, other lines of industry would have the right to expect similar aid.

Expansion—Low cost housing is due for large expansion. Rural electrification and flood control is also expected to expand. Large orders for material, machinery, jobs and profits, prospects should result from this expansion.

New Federal Trade Census — The government will mail questionnaires in the current census of retail and wholesale trade, covering 1937 and first half of 1938, in the latter part of June, not in March as previously announced by the census bureau. The change will be made because the bureau has decided to include in 1938 the first two quarters, Jan. 1 to March 31, and April 1 to June 30, instead of only the first quarter. This census makes available to trade associations and business men in general, current statistics on trade, that may be compared with statistics for 1935 already available, to show business trends.

Social Security — What Is It? Stripped down to bare terms, what does this "social security" mean? Just that every man and woman shall have a chance to stand on his own feet. The social security act and other social legislation help to give the American worker something solid to stand on—a firm footing on which to fight for a living. Life being what it is, we shall never have too much security. Sickness and accident spare none. Wives lose their husbands, and children their parents, whatever their economic status. Even the well-to-do may find their livelihood wiped out by chances beyond their control. And in the end the lot of the fortunate who live is old age; but this again brings bitter hazards of decreasing power and independence. In spite of all our knowledge and science, there is no absolute security—for the big man or the little man, for the rich or the poor. These hazards must not be allowed to take their utmost toll of the defenses. In our high-powered, mass-industry world, the only agency big enough to act for all the people is the government. This is the what and why of social security legislation. The things that go to make up this legislation include a wholesome childhood, adequate education, a job at a health-and-decency wage, proper housing, and some sort of insurance against the inevitable "rainy days."

Cotton Loans—Under a program of federal accommodation proposed by the commodity credit corporation, loans are available to cotton producers on their 1937-38 crops. Loans may be applied for through local banks or other lending agencies, directly from the Commodity Credit Corporation at Washington or its field agencies or at any local agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. July 1, is the deadline for such loans for the 1937-38 crop, and applications must be in to allow granting of the loan before that time. Attached to each note given by producers, to obtain the loan, must be a certificate from a field board of examiners of the department of agriculture as to the class of cotton, certificate from warehouseman, and certificate from secretary or treasurer of the agricultural conservation association for the county in which the cotton was produced. The loan shall be at a rate of nine cents a pound on middling cotton of staple length of 3/8 of an inch or better, and the rates move downward on lower grade cotton.

Home Building—Now is the time to build homes, for construction costs are rising and may reach high levels by 1939. Moreover, savings and loan associations should be liberal in financing small compact dwellings, even in suburbs.

Like to Spend Money Their Own Way

DUBUQUE, Ia., April 20 (AP)—The WPA has discovered one reason needy families try to keep off relief is that they resent being told how they can spend money. This is one of the things the WPA learned in a "morale study" of 433 "average American" families in Dubuque, selected as a "typical medium-sized industrial city." Here are some other things the survey revealed:
1—Less than one-half of the unemployed were on relief at any given time.
2—Families usually staved off asking for aid until the last possible moment.
3—Once they got relief a few families regarded it as an "inherent right" but the majority were glad to regain their independence from it.

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

If one enjoys nature one short stroll nowadays will give him enough, not to satisfy but to serve if he does not have time to stroll all day. One still, dewy morning here in the middle of April I caught a little of the sunshine, its warmth tempering the cool northerly breeze, its light orange-ing out the contrasts of green against the dull background of winter grays or breaking into colors over the dripping grass. The mocking bird's incessant song, a cardinal's loud whistle from some elevated perch, and a dove putting in its plaintive note now and then; a wren broke in with his loud notes, and a downy woodpecker called as he pecked away for his breakfast. By the lake, red-winged blackbirds gurgled their "congrates;" the sandpiper flew across with a few sharp "peet-weets;" while the surface was parted into a number of v-shaped wave-formations by the breasts of a few ducks that pulled out from shore as I approached. Nest building is not under much way yet; perhaps the late capers of April weather have delayed constructive impulses. But the songs that fill that air, and the apparent joy that birds are finding in one another's company predict a full season of homebuilding among the birds before long. A wren, and his mate, have been at work in a roll of screen wire hanging on the back porch; another laid eight pretty eggs in a No. 2 can of grain hung in the henhouse; a titmouse is carrying material into the hollow iron post at the corner of the garden; a pair of doves seemed to be inspecting a site in a frost-bitten mosquito in the backyard; but mostly the spring plans for summer families are yet in the minds of the birds—and their hearts.

The sequoia trees of California are thought to be the oldest living things. Some are estimated at 4,000 years old.

Easter Cruise

By MARION WHITE

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOYCE MILLER, heroine; she took an Easter Cruise.
DICK HAMILTON, hero; he bumped into the heroine.
ISABEL PORTER, traveler; she sought a mate.

Yesterday, Dick and Isabel came aboard and Isabel announced their engagement! Joyce is stunned!

CHAPTER XIII

NEITHER the Porters nor Dick were at the doctor's table for dinner that evening. Mrs. Porter had speedily arranged a very special dinner in one of the ship's private dining rooms. If there were any doubt about the engagement, if there were any dull apprehension in her mind that its consummation in a Havana cafe might not be adequately formal, she was promptly correcting the situation. Joyce could imagine the thrill of triumph which would glorify the occasion.

She steered herself to be exceptionally gay. She talked on, frivolously and lightly, about the price of perfumes in the Arcade, about the young man who had been ice-skating in Central Park only yesterday, about the flavor of the soup and the fragrance of the coffee. If anybody thought she cared about their engagement—well!

They talked at length of Haiti, and Joyce expressed her eagerness to visit this island so weirdly presented through the pages of mystery books and movie thrillers. "Tell you what," Dr. Gray suggested as they ordered dessert. "I'll have the steward serve our coffee down in my cabin, and I'll ask the chief officer to join us. He can tell you some hair-raising stories."

So the three of them left the dining room together, and a few minutes later Mr. Jones, the chief officer, joined them in the doctor's cabin.

Mr. Jones told them many tall, tremendous stories of voodoo worship and magic, all of which he attested to be actual, personal experiences, and none of which his listeners believed. They were amused tales, nevertheless, and Joyce enjoyed every breathless moment of suspense, for the chief officer was a natural story teller.

She was having a leisurely breakfast hours later when she heard the first voices of the mystic isle, outside her port-hole. She knelt upon the bed and looked out. There, beneath her very window, a dozen black boys were diving through their fragile crafts for coins thrown from the decks above. She watched them intently, marveling as their swift young bodies shot through the water after the illusive coins.

There was a knock on her door, and she turned to see Mr. Gregory on the threshold.

"I have a disappointment for you," he announced in gloomy reply to her greeting.

"What is it?"

"Dr. Gray cannot go ashore with us. He has an emergency operation; one of the crew has come down with appendicitis."

Joyce's face fell.

"However, if you would care to come ashore with me," he went on, "the doctor has given me an outline of what to do and where to go."

"I'd be delighted," she said, forcing a smile. She wouldn't be delighted at all; Mr. Gregory was a dull companion. However, there would be no pleasure in going off herself, a lone sheep, without purpose or direction.

THEY went ashore in the first small launch. Just beyond the wharf, a veritable army of chauffeurs offered their name of the chauffeur whom the doctor had recommended; instantly seven eager natives responded.

"What will we do?" he wondered, looking at the seven black faces.

She laughed. "It must be a name like John Smith," she said. "Easily duplicated."

Eventually they chose the driver who offered the most comfortable car, and they set off, not alone with him, but with two other darkies crowded into the front seat; one, it was explained vaguely, to be their guide, the second an extra interpreter.

Whenever they went, the natives stopped in their tasks to wave a friendly welcome. They were lovable people, Joyce thought, despite their poverty. And once more she thought of the emperor who had dreamed of endowing them with a mighty tradition. Perhaps he had failed, but he had left them something else. He had bequeathed to them the dignity of independence; today they walked along the streets with their heads high, despite the tatters of their hand-down clothing. And such clothing as it was! A tall, elderly darkey strode along proud in the glory of a full dress jacket, its black tails hanging down over blue cotton work trousers. His feet were bare, but on his head he wore a high silk hat, the top of which had long since been battered through. The women strove for only one detail of elegance—variety of color. And they wore jewelry extravagantly; beads and bracelets of native seeds, dyed every color spectrum.

In the central square of the city they left the car for a few minutes to look about the government buildings; to view at close the various monuments of heroes of the republic. The figures told their story, statically, looking up at the masonry, seeking to roll back the fleeting instant, and again tumultuous undercurrent long-ago struggle for freedom surged in one's blood.

AS they walked back to the hotel, Joyce's little thoughtfulness was startled out of her dreams by the pitter-patter bare feet behind her. A little came up, holding out something in her hand and expensively in unintelligible exclamations, taking the offer of my dear, Mercé, I mean, she corrected in French.

The child's eyes were wide saucers as they stared in tured admiration at the bracelet in gold lacquer, with ear bangles hanging from her to her it might have been Koh-i-noor.

"I'd never have missed Joyce said, grateful for the honesty. Then, impulsively held it out. "Would you like it?" she asked with a smile.

She asked if the girl drew her arm. Joyce took her thin arm, the bracelet around it twice snapped the link. "Pour tout expliqué in her textbook!"

The child's mouth opened smile that lighted her entire face. She stared, unbelievably the golden links of beauty her wrist. Then, impatiently bent and kissed Joyce's cheek. "Merci, mam'selle!" she said. "Merci, merci!"

"You're foolish!" Mr. G admonished. "She'll lose it!" Joyce shook her head. "I don't understand the female Mr. Gregory. Why, when her age, I'd have given my arm for a bangle bracelet!"

Later that afternoon, Mr. Gory was to remember the dent. Very much later, when shadows of darkness were in the mystic island and drums were beginning to ring their tom-tom through the miles out of Port-au-Prince heard the last whistle of the Empress, Mr. Gregory was member the importance of a bangle bracelet.

Much less formidable than usual, and certainly with a less beligerent tilt to his jaw, Benito Mussolini is pictured above in one of his rare photos in civilian clothes. The Italian dictator nearly always wears uniforms, and never permits photographs except from an angle of which he approves. The above picture was taken at Gaidonia, model city near Rome.

Potassium has long been known to be used by the body in division of cells—which means growth. It has been known to be specially active in embryonic, that is rapidly growing tissue. But the discovery that the different kinds of potassium vary in disease is a new scientific and medical fact.

Police Announcer Receives Fan Mail

BUTTE, Mont., April 20 (AP)—When the police department set up its radio, the last thing the chief thought about was fan mail. But soon after Deek Se: J. George Needy began announcing the mail began to grow in volume, most of it marked for the "voice of KBPD," the police call letters.

Rising Star FFA Has Dad, Son Banquet

RISING STAR, April 20 (Sp)—Thirty boys and their dads were in attendance at the annual Father and Son banquet of the local chapter, Future Farmers of America, held in the basement of the Methodist church. The boys also had as their guests a number of local business men who were initiated as honorary members of the chapter as a part of the program.

Principal speakers of the evening were W. H. Heizer, head of the federal conservation project at Dublin, Garland Eubank, of the Stephenville Production Credit association and Otis Lerner, field man for a large dairy products concern. The program was arranged by C. L. Wilson, teacher of vocational agriculture in Rising Star high school.

The Rising Star school, putting in vocational agriculture in 1928, was one of the first schools in West Texas to take advantage of the program which has become to be one of the most important departments in the school. Judging teams are entered in all important district and state events and the local department has a number of prizes won by the boys.

They Call It Peace

From our own library of aimless knowledge: Forty three state primaries are scheduled for this spring and summer. A marble monument at the head of Pennsylvania avenue erected "in memory of the officers, seamen and marines of the United States navy who fell in defense of the union and liberty of their country 1861-65" is called the "peace monument." We don't know why Mrs. Roosevelt dashes about Washington driving her own car and the Secret Service, whose duty it is to protect the president and his family, has about given up trying to follow her. It is a mile and a half from the White House to the capitol. It is ever so much farther from the capitol to the White House.

"Bumble-bee" Plane Buzzes Into Aviation Limelight

Habitués of Floyd Bennett airport in New York rubbed their eyes the other day when this airplane without a tail appeared over the airport in its first test in the metropolitan area. Developed by James B. Taylor, Jr., who is shown in the photo examining one of the two fins which act as air brakes, the plane is of the pusher type, has a 95 h. p. engine and a propeller in the rear, and is capable of approximately 120 miles an hour top-speed. Washington officials are keenly interested in the bumble-bee-shaped craft, both for military reasons and because it may prove to be relatively cheap to build.

Cook Mourns Passing Of Hasher Slang

LEWISTON, Idaho, April 20 (AP)—George Lee, cook, regrets the serving of food has become such a dignified job that that picturesque slang of the "hasher" is no more. Among the gems that Lee remembers from earlier days are these orders:

Two in the water — two boiled eggs; clean out the icebox—hash; three dogs on a load of hay—three winners and sauerkraut; pamok—black coffee.

Also, School boy switch—toast-ed jelly and peanut butter sandwich; Slap her twice and send her out—blood-rare steak; and, Man wants to take a chance—beef stew.

Profits Boom on Eight-of-Acre Plot

BATON ROUGE, La., April 20 (AP)—A return of $137 from an eighth of an acre, making the soil yield at the rate of more than $1,000 an acre, sounds more like some kind of mining operation than farming.

L. E. Barton, East Baton Rouge parish, did it with tomatoes. He picked one of the hottest months of the year, planted a heat-resistant variety, fertilized well, irrigated his row, sprayed to keep down insect pests, reaped a bumper harvest and sold it at a fancy price.

Hunter Again Tosses Hat Into Governor Ring

WICHITA FALLS, April 20 (AP)—Hurling a word of defiance to the state political machine and a pledge to fight for the "plain people," Tom Hunter, Wichita Falls oil man and three times candidate for governor, flung his hat in the governor's race again here Tuesday.

The formal announcement came after a tour over parts of the state in which Hunter had contacted friends and political observers and found voters sympathetic towards his candidacy.

His full statement follows: "In 1934 and 1936 those who believed as I have found the state machine holding a solid line. We pushed it back just as far in the 1936 primary as we did in the first of 1934. We got just as many votes, and each time, though, we were crippled in the scrimmage and couldn't carry through with the ball. In 1934 the money wagon ran over us when we couldn't buy stamps, yet convinced the many that we were millionaires. In 1936 we were forced down by the united front of the state machine, the centennial aid and an unfortunate political trade.

The machine is widely split this year. The ball can now be carried through the line. The people can score. The horses of the old money wagon are collared in the opposite direction. It may hold the tonnage, but it can't show the mileage. Two self-crowned princes have refused to permit the committee of the bosses to name their order of ascension. In their flight for the "bone" each has even said to the other: You show my reflection and I will portray yours. We know each other: We've played on the same team and have had the same rule book, we've skipped the same rope.

"And they have: they have been in such unison that they could pass the rope on to the other without missing a hop. The same fellows financed and brought about the election of both. The election of either would be a victory to the same crowd. The people can cross the wire now because these fellows hold opposite ends of that rope and this hop will trip them both.

"My fight for the plain people was not begun lightly. It was sincere. It is true that they have bled my brow with their silvered lode; they have chagrined my friends by false propaganda, but they have never broken my course. The steering of this ship of state may now be manned by the plainsmen."

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED OIL

HE'S LONG JUMPS AHEAD OF MERE 'OIL CHANGERS' because

ONLY YOUR MILEAGE MERCHANT OIL-PLATES YOUR ENGINE

In this space suppose you'd mark down what you would pay some average "oil-changer" for your indispensable Springtime oil change that the oldest or newest car needs badly right now.

In this space then you would mark down just about the same!... which is all you will pay for making the whole great 1938 Springtime TRIPLE-CHANGE...

- the change to Your Mileage Merchant's station
- the change to his Conoco Germ Processed oil
- the change to an OIL-PLATED engine for you

Only the patented Germ Process creates an inlay of lubricant all over the inner engine surfaces—a PLATING of oil that holds as close as any other plating on your car.

Not a chance then, for cylinder walls and other delicate surfaces to drain dry every time you park. Hence not a chance of "dry starts," that can cause more wear than all your jaunts this Summer. And the gauge-stick tells your own eyes that OIL-PLATING is the twin of OIL-MILEAGE!

So change to Your Mileage Merchant. Continental Oil Company

There's no danger of Boil-overs or Food boiling dry when you have a 1938 Gas Range

FOR BETTER COOKING IN CLEANER, COOLER KITCHEN

Outstanding among its many improvements are the simmer burners on 1938 gas range. They eliminate boil-overs, food boiling dry and excessive moisture in kitchen.

With their automatically controlled boiling heat a continuous gentle boiling action is maintained—thus boil-overs are eliminated because violent boiling action is done away with.

A gentle boiling action does not rapidly evaporate liquids. With this method over an hour is required to boil away one cup of water—thus, danger of foods boiling dry is eliminated. And cooking with little water in covered pans preserves vitamin and mineral content of food—keeps kitchen cooler because little vapor rises from range.

See these improved burners and other features of 1938 gas range. There's nothing like one for easier, better cooking.

What Helps Business Helps You!

Only with improved gas simmer burner do you get a controlled boiling heat at "click" of valve. It eliminates pot watching and makes possible the greater conveniences and economies of semi-waterless cooking. It saves gas and time.

Nominations for WTCC Beauty Queen Increase

WICHITA WALLS, April 20 (Sp.)—Beauty nominations for the title, Miss West Texas, today rocketed the total above the score mark, as plans went forward for the opening of the twentieth annual West Texas chamber of commerce convention, here in Wichita Falls, next Sunday.

The community beauty queens will be presented at an Oil Festival revue on Monday night, at an entertainment co-featuring an All College revue. Registered convention delegates will ballot for the queen after that presentation.

Next Tuesday night, Her Majesty, Queen of All West Texas, will be crowned, with United States Senator Tom Connally of Texas, and Walter D. Cline, Wichita Falls, master of ceremonies for the festival-revue, presiding at the coronation.

Miss Inez Mayo, Denton, elected at the Brownwood convention in 1937, will reign over the 1938 sessions. Miss Elizabeth Huff will be "Miss Wichita Falls" and official WTCC hostess to visiting queens. Featured Speaker

Senator Connally will be the featured convention speaker at the Wednesday general assembly of the convention, and Mayor Florentino H. LaGuardia of New York City, will address the Tuesday afternoon general assembly.

Setting for the convention's nightly pageants will be an outdoor garden scene. Miss Juanita Kinsey, director of speech arts at Hardin Junior college, in Wichita Falls, is chairman of the program pageantry.

Already booked for entertainment numbers at the All College revue, are more than a dozen Texas college and university groups.

The stage bands of Abilene Christian college, and the North Texas State college, Denton, will present hand specialties.

McMurry college, in Abilene, will present its widely traveled choral group, the McMurry Chanters, and the Texas State College for Woman, Denton, a one-act musical comedy, "Love on Ice."

Weatherford Junior college's tumbling team will perform, and there will be an athletic revue skit by West Texas State college, Canyon.

Texas Christian university, Fort Worth, will present a TCU stunt, and Hardin-Simmons university, Abilene, its men's quartet, and Gean Estes, whistling-accordionist. Novelties

Claims Epochal Find in Medicine

After four and a half years of experimentation, Dr. Alma J. Neill, above, head of the department of physiology at the University of Oklahoma, believes she has discovered the cause of the epidemic of sleeping sickness which caused 60 deaths in St. Louis in 1933. Dr. Neill announced she had found the encephalitis virus in corn grown in the St. Louis area at the time of the epidemic. Extracts from the abnormal corn, she said, caused sleeping sickness when injected into animals.

cities are Big Spring, with its Westerners Trio; Elbert, with its Golden Melody Girls; Vernon, with its Five-in-One-Group, and Coleman, with a tap dance duet.

Hardin Junior college, Wichita Falls, has novelty numbers in store, too. These varied groups will be presented Monday or Tuesday.

Rising Star Girl ACC Honor Student

Evonne Westerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. W. Westerman, of Rising Star is among the honor students for the mid-term grades of the second semester at Abilene Christian college, according to announcements made by Mrs. Clara Bishop, college registrar.

Lists were posted in Hardin Memorial building on the ACC campus this week, naming 300 students who made grades of above 90 per cent in one or more subjects during the past nine weeks period. Of this group there were 120 students who were listed with "A's" in five subjects and there were 20 who made the honor roll in four subjects.

Child Health on Care Children

April 20 (Sp)—The health of the child depends largely on heredity and care of its environment. Dr. Geo. W. Cox, Chief of the Division of Maternal and Child Health, has particularly studied the means of bringing children to adulthood stronger, more balanced, and more capable of enjoying an abundant life.

"The health, growth, and development of the child depend upon heredity and environment.

"Heredity determines certain characteristics, such as the color of the eyes and hair. Heredity is also a factor in the size of the child. Short, stocky parents should not worry because their child is not so tall as one whose parents are tall and slender. Heredity plays a role in many other ways.

"Environment begins to influence the baby long before he is born. In order to provide the best possible environment before birth, it is necessary to protect the mother's health, to be sure that she has proper food, exercise, and rest, and that she is under the supervision of a physician who will early recognize any abnormalities and take the necessary steps to correct them. The physician will then know in advance whether any difficulties may be expected when the baby is born and will be prepared to meet them. If these precautions are taken the baby should start out in life with a well-developed body and without injuries from a difficult birth.

"The 'good environment' after birth includes the general surroundings, fresh air, warmth, sunshine, quiet, freedom from crowding, and cleanliness. These are all important but a good environment also includes proper food, provision for the formation of good habits in eating, sleeping, and eliminating, as well as protection against certain diseases, sleeping correction of physical defects, training, and education. It is only when we keep all those factors of environment at the best possible level that we are doing all that can be done to promote the health of the child."

Brown County Well Is Completed

ABILENE, April 20. (Sp)—Completion of the Ledger Oil & Gas company No. 3 Gaines, in the Byrds Store area of Brown county, was reported Tuesday to the Abilene district office of the railroad commission.

The well, treated with 4,000 gallons of acid in Ranger lime from 2,390 to 2,418 feet, total depth, pumped 25 barrels of oil in 24 hours. It is located 1,000 feet from the west and 2,680 feet from the north lines of the Gaines survey.

F. S. Preston, head of the Ledger company, and Jack London, both of Brownwood were here yesterday. They reported two other wells in the same area near completion.

Wilder No. 1 Cox, about half a mile west of the No. 3 Gaines, had taken 28 feet of the Ranger lime showing saturation from 2,428 feet, and is scheduled to treat with four or five thousand gallons of acid Wednesday.

Casing had been cemented on the Emmett Whitesides No. 1 Gilliam, about a mile west of the No. 3 Gaines, after taping the same pay at 2,400 feet.

London said the Byrds Store area apparently was indicative of a large structure, three or four miles wide to four or five miles long. Nine wells have been completed in the Ranger lime to date.

Long for Style

Long-sleeved dinner dresses are important in Paris right now. And this flattering one, in heavy white crepe with stripes of white crystal beaded beads, has a tulle bodice. It's shown with a matching Mandarin coat, the successful wrap of the coming season. Paton did the ensemble.

EXPECTED THURSDAY

Mr. and Mrs. H. Brandon of Bay City are expected to arrive Thursday for a visit with friends. The Brandens formerly lived here.

Look in the Classified First.

Mrs. Chumney Presides at WMS Meeting

Mrs. T. H. Chumney presided when the First Baptist W.M.S. had its regular missionary meeting at the church Tuesday afternoon. The topic of the program, directed by Mrs. Lee Elkins, was "Africa." Those appearing on the program were Mmes. Ira Robinson, W. M. Arlington, Van Gardenhire, C. C. Rosemond, M. F. Underwood and D. C. Harper. The main point brought out in all the discussions was in keeping with the golden jubilee. As a special feature of the program, the colored quartet, accompanied by the teacher, Lawrence Grimes, sang several negro spirituals. Mrs. J. R. Burnett led the devotional and Mrs. O. L. Mason led in prayer. During the business meeting, Mrs. Underwood, educational chairman, appointed a committee to plan for the senior banquet that is given each spring for the graduating class of the high school. Mrs. Burnett dismissed the meeting with a prayer. Refreshments were served to about 30 members.
