CZECHS SHOCKED AT NEW SACRIFICE DEMAND

Midgets Win Over Brownwood 12 to 6

This picture, taken in the third quarter of the Cisco grammar school Midgets' 12 to 6 win over Brownwood yesterday, shows Garland Lasater taking off on one of his long runs. On this play Lasater ran to the 15 yard line from which point the Midgets scored their second touchdown. In the foreground J. M. Eudy, who teamed with Lasater to gain most of the Midgets' yardage, is shown blocking out a Brownwood player with the numeral "9" on his jersey, while just behind Eudy N. W. Coats is running through the line to block ahead of Lasater.

YANKEES GRAB SECOND GAME BY 6-3 SCORE

Lefty Gomez Winning Pitcher; Crosetti, DiMaggio Homer

The right arm of Dizzy Dean was no match for his stout heart this afternoon and the New York Yankees, held in check for seven innings, took the second game of the World's series in a belated rally featuring home runs by Crosetti and DiMaggio. Crosetti's long line drive over the left field fence, scoring Merle Hogue ahead of him, put the Yankees ahead four to three in the first half of the eighth inning. DiMaggio repeated with a homer in the first of the ninth scoring himself and Henrich to put to game on ice. The victory kept the World's series record of Lefty Gomez clean.

Dizzy, relieved in the eighth, was still a hero to the Chicago fans who cheered him lustily as he left the field after one of the most gallant stands in World's series history.

The Cubs scored their three runs in the first and third, and it was Martey, relief outfielder, whose remarkable hitting featured in all three runs. Haek scored the initial count when he beat out DiMaggio's return of Martey's long fly in the first. The Yanks took the lead in the second when Haek and Jurgas became confused over Gordon's slow roller between third and second and bumped into each other, allowing the ball to roll into left field while DiMaggio and Gehrig raced home.

On the third Martey put his cub ahead again with a smoking double to left center scoring Haek and Herman.

Play by play:
First Inning
Yankees—Crosetti hit a high fly to Reynolds in left. Rolfe out Dean to Collins on a grounder down first base line. A nice play by Dizzy. Henrich popped out to Jurgas in short center. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Cubs—Haek singled over the third baseman Rolfe's head into left field. Herman struck out swinging at a high ball and Haek beats the throw to third, sliding. Rolfe was charged with an error when he failed to catch the ball on a bad hop. Martey's long fly to center field was caught by Di-

Safety Deep in the Earth

War-time trenches used to be on fighting lines. Now, trenches are built in cities, alongside homes and schools, and churches. For war today has no mercy on non-combatants. They are taught to cower in the ground like hunted animals. And that is the bitter lesson the Czech family, pictured above, learned in Prague.

CABINET GETS COMMISSION'S LATEST TERMS

'Cruel' Say Spokesmen As Demands Surpass Expectations

PRAGUE, Oct. 6 (AP)—The government of Czechoslovakia learned today that sacrifices far surpassing its expectations were required of the dwindling of the republic in the cession of the fifth Sudetenland zone to Germany.

Word of the international commission's finding was brought to Prague by General Husarek, who conferred with the commission in Berlin.

Husarek delivered the terms of the session of the cabinet which LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP)—The house of commons today gave the Chamberlain government a vote of confidence, the vote being 366 to 144, and approved his Munich bargain for keeping Europe out of war. After the vote was announced the house adjourned until November, amid a tremendous ovation for Prime Minister Chamberlain.

Fugitives Captured After Gun Battle

Typographical Union Seated At AFL Meet

HOUSTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor's annual convention, adhering to the plea of President William Green not to throw out one of the oldest affiliates of the organization, voted unanimously today to seat the delegates of the International Typographical union.

This action served to keep the union and its 80,000 members in the federation for another six months until the union decides whether it will approve or reject the pleas of its officers to pay up the special assessments levied by the federation to combat CIO's industrial union drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lowery left yesterday for Waxahachie where he will manage the Hotel Drug store located in the Rogers hotel, which he has purchased.

Mr. Lowery was well known here, having formerly owned the Red Front Drug store.

EASTLAND, Oct. 6 — County Agent Elmo V. Cook and Wayne Thurman of Cisco left today for Dallas to prepare Eastland county's exhibit at the State Fair. The exhibit shows the importance of peanuts to the county.

Among those to have individual agricultural exhibits at the fair from the county are those including Thurman, Charles Wende and J. W. McKinney, all of Cisco.

CROWEY, La., Oct. 6 (AP)—William Steidley, aged 77, former newspaper publisher, died at his residence here today. His widow and four children, including William A. Steidley, Jr., of Orange, survive.

UGES LAW
DALLAS, Oct. 6 (AP)—C. J. Rutland of Dallas, chairman of the Texas Traffic Safety commission, yesterday urged enactment of a law with teeth in it to curb drunken driving.

HICKORY, N. C., Oct. 4 (AP)—James Goodwin and Bill Wilson, who escaped from the Lexington jail Monday with the help of the jailer's daughter, were captured here today.

Goodwin was slightly wounded when he was fired upon as he ran from a barn.

Lula Bell Kimel, aged 22, was sentenced to serve 60 days imprisonment last night after pleading guilty to the charge of aiding the men to escape.

The men were charged with murder in connection with the death of Donald Moss, who was fatally shot a few hours after Goodwin and Wilson broke jail.

High School Pep Squad Officers Are Selected

At a meeting held earlier in the week the pep squad elected the following officers: Eulala Reames, president; Catherine Mae McDanel, vice president; Ledair Nowlin, secretary-treasurer; and Dorothy Slaughter, reporter. Also a committee was appointed to draw up a constitution since it is planned to make the organization a permanent one.

Uniforms for the pep squad have been delayed because of the fact that it was necessary to send to a Chicago textile concern to obtain material to match uniforms of the band and after material had been decided upon it had to be manufactured because it was an out of stock type. They will be ready for the Brownwood game, however.

Since the first meeting, size of the pep squad has increased to approximately 50 members with more expected.

S. R. Wood Opens Grocery in Austin

Official announcement of the opening of the Wood Food Store, newest grocery store in Austin, was made Friday.

It is owned and independently operated by S. R. Wood, who formerly resided here and who was then a member of the grocery firm of Hyatt and Wood.

The new store, an ultra-modern brick structure located at 35th and Guadalupe streets, represents an investment of over $20,000 Mr. Wood said.

While in Cisco he was a director of the chamber of commerce and also a member of the Lions club.

Mother of Miss Ella Andres Dies This Morning

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Ann Andres, 70, mother of Miss Ella Andres who died at 2:30 at a local hospital this morning after a week's illness, will be held at the First Methodist church tomorrow morning at 9:30 a. m. The Rev. Joseph I. Patterson, pastor, and the Rev. J. B. Curry, presiding elder, will conduct the services. Neil Lane's Funeral home is in charge of arrangements for burial which will take place at Burnet, Texas, Friday afternoon following a second service at Burnet Methodist church. The body will be carried overland. Burial will be beside the bodies of her husband and son, both of whom died in 1915.

Pall bearers for the services here will be W. W. Eddleman, Lloyd LaRoque, F. B. Altman, W. B. Statham, O. L. Stamey and R. N. Cluck.

Mrs. Andres had made her home with her daughter since 1928. Miss Ella Andres, teacher of Spanish and English in the Cisco public school system, joined the Cisco faculty in the fall of 1927, her mother coming to be with her a year later.

Mrs. Andres was born Miss Mary Ann Jones at Zanesville, O., on May 16, 1868. She came with her parents to Texas at the age of 19 years, and at Georgetown, Texas, in October 1887, she married C. F. Andres whose death occurred at Burnet in 1915. Six weeks later her only son, Carl, died at the age of 19.

Besides her daughter she is survived by a brother, Robert Jones of Dallas, a sister-in-law, Mrs. Luda Jones and several nieces and a nephew, John Steel, of Duluth, Minn.

First Baptist Picnic Plans Are Completed

Plans are complete for the First Baptist picnic at Lake Cisco Friday evening, 6:45, when the Walker Men's Bible class will honor retiring officers of the Sunday school, according to Tom Starks, member of the entertainment committee. The menu is to consist of a weiner roast and the trimmings, it was announced. All who have ever been members of the class are invited to attend.

Kick-Off at 3:00; Loboes to Risk Perfect Record

The Loboes will complete the week's practice for their second conference game of the year, at Chesley Field against the Mineral Wells Mountaineers tomorrow at 3:00, with a light offensive drill this afternoon. The boys will run through a few plays against dummy opposition and will conclude the drill with warm-up exercises.

Stewart has recovered to some extent from his attack of the flu and Coach Petty has indicated he will probably start tomorrow, while Chesley Tipton's shoulder injury has improved to an extent that will perhaps allow him to play, although he probably will not start.

Outweighing the lads from the city around five pounds to the man, the Loboes will enter the game slightly favorites. The contest is a crucial one for both elevens and will perhaps produce the best game played here thus far this season.

Probable starting lineup for Cisco will be:

Marcell Harrison — left end
Parks Bailey — left tackle
Robert Cone — left guard
Troy Stewart — center
Rex Pollard — right guard
R. D. Donham — right tackle
Walter Preston — right end
Coy Warren — quarterback
Odell Harrison — left halfback
Ramon Reames — right halfback
Bill Latch — fullback

Son's Search For Father's Slayer Ends In Arrest

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6 (AP)—A son's unceasing search for the slayer of his father, a search he started 25 years ago as a child in what is now Czechoslovakia, resulted Tuesday in the arrest of John Hajduk in Milford, Conn., on a murder charge.

On March 13, 1913, Michael Tkach was killed, stabbed in the back, in a street brawl in suburban McKeesport. A coroner's jury recommended that Hajduk be held for court, but he disappeared.

The slain man's son was living in Austria-Hungary with his mother. For years the boy saved money until he had enough to pay passage to America and avenge his father's death.

That was the story which District Attorney Andrew T. Park said George Tkach of New York wrote him three weeks ago. The letter led to a grand jury indictment of Hajduk.

In his letter to Park, the son said the man he sought was living in Milford, Judge Ralph H. Smith issued a bench warrant last week for Hajduk's arrest and Sgt. George S. O'Hara found Hajduk Tuesday in Milford.

'B' Team to Clash With Graham Today

The Cisco high school "B" team will clash with the Graham "B" team this afternoon at 4:00 in their second game of the season. Their first game was with Olden, in which they were overpowered 27-6 by a more experienced eleven.

The Graham contingent is reputed to have a strong "B" team and the local eleven will enter the game underdogs. The team has been practicing hard lately, however, and is expected to put up a good fight.

Sister of Mrs. Sauls Dies Today in Denton

If you want to see football undifferentiated with anything that taints of committee room jealousies or eligibility disgustments, football in the simple pure, watch the next game between the grammar school Midgets and some of the several opponents which they will play this fall. No picture of school life was more interesting or refreshing than that yesterday when the Midgets met a team of their own caliber from Brownwood and gave the customers a real treat. The two clubs, evenly matched, battled through four quarters that saw the Midgets gain the upper hand with two quick touchdowns in the third quarter and the Brownwood club score one in the fourth on a sparkling pass interception return, and come very near scoring another to tie the count.

It was a clean fair game, in an atmosphere reminiscent of those days when the sport was played in the free and easy camaraderie of the campus, for students only. Practically every kid in grammar school was there. Nobody was mad at Brownwood and the players of both teams went about the business of the game earnestly and well, in the manner of house brothers divided into teams for an afternoon of sport.

The big brothers of the Midgets, yielding the gridiron to the baby teams, concentrated on offensive strategy for Friday's battle with the Mineral Wells Mountaineers in the west end zone, paying hardly any attention to the struggle. Had they watched it, they would have seen some future stars of the Cisco varsity in the making. Lasater and Eudy were particularly promising as ball carriers, each of them reeling off long gains.

But it was not the game, but the part which the entire grammar school played in the afternoon program yesterday that is important. The entire student body was there, pep squad and all, watching the game, playing among themselves and generally enjoying a community outing of a sort that means health and proper mental attitude. The advantage of living at this country possesses over the crowded centers of other areas is well exemplified in such a scene. Only a few steps from home is the

SERIAL STORY MURDER TO MUSIC

BY NARD JONES

CAST OF CHARACTERS
MYRNA DOMBEY—heroine.
Wife of the sensational swing band leader.

ROBERT TAIT—hero. Newspaper photographer—detective.

ANNE LESTER—Myrna's closest friend.

DANNIE FEELEY—officer assigned to investigate Ludden Dombey's murder.

Yesterday, Police tell Tait to bring in Myrna. He wonders where she is and he realizes, too, that somehow he is going to be in this affair to the end.

CHAPTER IV

The taxi veered to the curb in front of the Claremont Apartments, and Bob Tait's foot was on the running board even before it stopped. Hurriedly he paid the driver and waved him on. A quick glance told him that there was no police car parked nearby. He hoped that Officer Dunphy hadn't come in a taxi and betrayed his easy nature by rushing things.

In the entrance way of the Claremont he almost collided with a woman on her way out. She was a striking honey-colored blond, almost too fragile and beautiful to be real. For a scant second her eyes met Tait's, then turned away. She hurried on and down the street, leaving a wake of not too faint perfume. Tait grinned to himself and let out an involuntary whistle.

At another time he might have speculated a little about that beautiful blond—but not now. He scanned the mail-box board, found a neatly lettered card with the names: Myrna Rogers—Anne Lester. Their apartment was on the third floor, and in his haste Tait scorned the automatic lift. The stairs he took three and four at a time.

He listened a moment at the door before he pressed the bell. To his intense relief there was no sound of Mike Dunphy's indignant, blustering voice. But when Anne Lester opened the door her distracted eyes told him that trouble was brewing.

"Myrna's not here," she said. "What shall we do?" Tait stopped inside the room and closed the door. "No note—nothing?"

The girl shook her head. "I don't believe she came here at all from the Pacific-Plaza."

"This is bad," Tait told her. "Dunphy, from police headquarters, is one his way here now. It's going to look bad when he finds she isn't to be had." He held Anne's gaze. "Are you sure you don't know where she might be?"

Ann shook her head. "I've been trying to think—ever since I got here. The—only possibility that came to me is—that what happened at the Golden Bowl made her lose her head."

For a moment Tait did not answer. He tried to fathom beyond Anne Lester's seemingly frank glance. "Listen," he burst out. "do you have any reason to believe that Myrna killed Dombey tonight? There must be—!" He stopped, shrugged his shoulders. "It wouldn't do any good to ask you that. Even if you thought she were guilty, you'd lie for her."

Anne Lester's answer came swiftly. "You're right. I would. I'd go further than that for Myrna. But she didn't do it. She was in love with him. Couldn't you tell that when you walked up to that table tonight?"

"I'm afraid I had something else on my mind. You see, I'd just lost a job and was trying to figure a way to get it back. That's what I should be doing now. I wish I knew by I'm not."

Anne clutched his arm. "Please help us. I—I'm afraid. I knew something was going to happen tonight. I kept feeling it. And I know this is going to mean trouble for Myrna. We've got to find her. We've—!" She caught her breath, looked up at Tait with a sudden new fright. "They might be after her now! If they wanted to kill Lud Dombey, why wouldn't they want to kill his wife, too?"

Tait tried to make his laugh sound easy. "Simply because she hasn't been his wife long enough to be mixed up in whatever it was that brought Lud Dombey to his last tune tonight. But we've got to find her, that's certain." He opened the door into the hall. "And we've got to get out of here. Grab your hat."

"Why?"
"It'll be better to be scarce than to try to explain to Mike Dunphy why she isn't here. And he wouldn't quite be able to figure out what I'm doing up here, either. Is there a back way out of this place?"

Anne nodded. She had wrapped worn as maid of honor. On her ulster around the dress she'd head was smart brown felt. Her silver slippers and the gown dropping beneath the sport coat were an incongruity, but she gave no thought to that now. "We can get out this way," she told Tait, hurrying down the hall.

It was not a moment too soon. Somewhere below their boomed Mike Dunphy's bellowing query. "Where would be the apartment belongin' to Miss Myrna Rogers?" Tait could not hold back a smile. It was like Mike to disturb the landlady and assert his authority rather than quietly examine the names on the lobby board. But right now Tait was glad for Officer Dunphy's idiosyncrasies.

"Get your thinking cap on," Tait told Anne when they had gained the street. "I'm going to rent a car—taxi drivers can talk in court, and we might find later on that we'd rather not have this little jaunt on record." He took Anne by the arm, hurried her along. "I know a car rental place a few blocks from here. And while we're walking try to figure out where we might have a look for Myrna."

Anne stopped momentarily, made a quick, excited gesture. "It's just a chance."
"What's just a chance?"
"The cottage. Or the shack—as Myrna called it. Her father left it to her. It's the only thing he did leave, because he was a happy-go-lucky sort—but Myrna loves the place, and was always trying to save enough to have it fixed up."

"Where is it?"
"Out near Belleville, in the country. It's at least a three-hour drive."
"But what makes you think she'd go there?"
"She and I spent a week-end there one summer. I remember now that she said that if she ever got into trouble—lost her job, or anything like that—she'd go out there and think it over. She was half-joking, of course."

Tait quickened his pace. "It's a good hunch, just the same. Remarks like that come back to a person when they're in a jam. We'll go there. But isn't there some spot in town she might hit? Another friend—or a cocktail bar?"

"I don't think Myrna would take her troubles to anyone but me," Anne said staunchly. "And she never went to cocktail bars alone. I don't think she'd do it now."
"Okay. Then we'll try the place in the country. At least the drive will do us good."

In a few moments they were wheeling along in a rented coupe, bound toward Belleville. The traffic was light at that hour, and Tait's headlights pierced quickly through the city. He and Anne were silent until they were on the north highway. Then Tait reached into his pocket and brought out Myrna's handbag.

"Ever see that before?"
"Of course. It's Myrna's. She had it tonight."
Tait nodded. "There was a gun in it, too. Did you know that?"

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Domination and power are with Him, He, sovereign peace in His high places.—Job xxxv, 2.

Are we sinners of wood for the life-wood, say? Do we furnish the means one should learn day?

The true picture of peace is simply the restoration of true relations, so that each soul of us should give its full due to, and get its full due from, the world around it, and its own self, and the soul of God, its Father.

The Tragedy May Not Have Been in Vain

THE resignation of President Benes of Czechoslovakia was not unexpected. It was the next and logical step in the dismemberment of the little republic whose independence has been sacrificed to the peace of Europe. Hitler's dislike for the man whose patriotism and leadership of the Czech people was one of the solid obstacles in his path to German hegemony in middle Europe was well known. Consequently as triumphant Hitler would demand his removal, a Benes, who felt himself betrayed, naturally could not continue the policies he had advocated in the face of such a hopeless future and a clear demonstration of the intent of allies once pledged to Czech integrity. He would feel compelled to resign, to surrender leadership of a lost cause to another.

It is a rather touching drama that is being enacted in middle Europe. But without tragedy there could be no drama, and life is itself drama. The tragedy begins far back. It was aggravated at Versailles, when the victorious Allies gave dictatorship its raison d'être and undid all that the war might have done for the idealism of Wilson with a savage demand for an unreasonable punishment. They thought that 75,000,000 German people might be kept in perpetual economic slavery as a punishment for what their foolish leaders did, is medieval in its idea. The course of international thinking on the European subject has been wrong in a large measure. It has been one of dominance, suppression and even extermination instead of cooperation. If the new trend of diplomacy undertaken there establishes European relationships nearer a reasonable and sensible base, the tragedy of Czechoslovakia will not have been enacted in vain.

The Memory of War Gives the World Peace

WHAT was it, in the long run, that prevented Europe's leaders from opening the sluice-gates of slaughter and turning millions of the brightest and best of its youth into dead men? Was it Chamberlain's dramatic play for time, which gave reason a chance to exert itself? Was it the extraordinary patience and restraint of the Czechs? Was it the dawning realization of Hitler that a long world war on the scale of 1918 would drag him down in general ruin? Was it President Roosevelt's calm appeal?

All of these things were factors, of course. But the biggest factor was a great groundswell of murmuring from the people of all the world that they did not want and would not have war.

Let no man suppose that because there were no street-corner meetings in Germany and Italy, peace sentiment had no effect in those countries.

Hitler knows, and Mussolini knows, that after the first flush of excitement for a war came the casualty lists. And after the first 50,000 come the second 50,000, the stream of telegrams telling families that Eric or Antonio isn't coming home any more.

Mussolini knows that there was far less enthusiasm for the casualty lists from Ethiopia and Spain than there was for the embarkations. Hitler may remember, himself.

Britain has a large and vocal pacifist sentiment. Britain will fight, but only for a situation that unquestionably and directly threatens Britain.

France can scarcely afford any more lavish gestures than a determination to fight under similar conditions.

THE crisis passes, the world draws a deep breath. The question of whether strict justice has been done to Czechoslovakia merges into the question of how strict justice was done when her border lines were drawn in 1918.

The Spanish war, it is rumored, may be liquidated soon. They are tired of the killing there, and there is a rumor that in Japan they are tired too, tired of that endless stream of little black laquer boxes that pours in from China with the ashes of Japan's best youth.

How much of the world's "woe" today is due to the fact that between 1914 and 1918 we killed off eight and a half millions of the best, strongest, most talented of the world's young men?

As the World war was largely fought in vain, so this crisis, only less terrible than war itself, will have been in vain if the people of the world do not insist more and more strongly: "This is not good enough! We insist on leadership in the world that is wise enough, and strong enough, and sane enough to see that this does not happen again!"

OTHER OPINIONS

No Cotton Picking, Thanks

SAID Gov. Marland of Oklahoma to the national conference of governors held in his state:

"In this state we need thousands of men to pick cotton, but we can't get them because they have WPA jobs. Why should we keep them doing useless jobs that could be done next winter? Why can't WPA put the men in the fields and let the planters reimburse WPA?"

Well, why? Picking cotton is hard work for poor pay, but when a farmer gets $40 or less for a bale of cotton he can't afford to pay high wages for picking. The reason WPA workers generally give for refusing to take temporary private employment is that they are afraid they can't get back on the WPA rolls. Doubtless in some cases that is a reason, but in others it is pretty obviously an excuse.

When a WPA worker leans on a shovel his pay goes on, but it stops when he is sitting on a cotton sack. Cotton pickers are paid by the amount they pick.

Gov. Townsend of Indiana suggested that the WPA should guarantee that men quitting the WPA for temporary jobs wouldn't lose their places on the rolls. It's a sensible suggestion, but Harry Hopkins probably wouldn't like it. He looks upon WPA as labor's defense against exploitation.

We can't make much progress toward solving the unemployment problem, however, when the government is competing with private employers for labor as it is in Oklahoma. Unless we can correct that situation, we'll have to accept WPA as a permanent institution. An America which goes on providing artificial employment for several millions of its citizens at bare subsistence wages—and that's all WPA work provides—is an America on the downgrade.—Galveston News.

The Seventh International Management Congress has just met at Washington, which seems a little like carrying coals to Newcastle.

Riddle: What's the difference between the Wilkes-Barre (Pa.) cafes and the others? The former have banned swing; the latter have swing bands.

What enthusiasts did at a recent canine fashion show in New York sounds like Gertrude Stein: spurred the dog on to put the dog on.

The crisis on the continent has forced numerous lecturers to cancel projected tours in this country, so, you see, there's some good in everything.

The menu was a baked apple into whose core pork sausage was stuffed . . . It made a splendid dish and would be fine for school children as a lunch item . . . But we would suggest pouring a little brown sugar syrup or a tiny bit of molasses into the cored apple and perhaps winding the sausage around the apple in a compact form . . . then wrap the meat and fruit with a piecrust cover so as to exclude the air . . . then place in dish and bake in oven slowly the required time . . . this will retain the flavor and keep the meat soft and tender . . . The idea came from the item wherein a woman won the prize from a "biggest liar club" . . . Her story was that they grafted pig tails onto apple trees and the apples grew already stuffed with sausage . . .

Mrs. Laura Bell Succumbs After Brief Illness

After a brief illness Mrs. Laura Jane Bell died Tuesday morning at her home in the Sabanno community, at the age of 81 years and nearly three months. She was born in east Texas August 11, 1857.

The body was buried in the Sabanno cemetery, following funeral services at the Sabanno Baptist church today.

Mrs. Bell was one of the last two original settlers in this section of the state, the other surviving pioneer being Jesse Hart, one of the Hart brothers who were among the first to establish cattle ranches in west Texas. The old Hart ranch is now owned by Ed Hayden, himself an early settler. Mr. Hart is still alive at his home in Baird, though about a month ago he was a patient in a Baird hospital.

A native Texan, having been born in east Texas, Mrs. Bell has been a pioneer practically all of her life, as east Texas was a frontier when she was born. Having married early, she moved to west Texas then on the edge of civilization, when Indians and manner of wild game roamed this section. Previously while visiting at her home she told a Press representative of many of the happenings and incidents of her early life in Callahan and Eastland counties, of the hardships the people endured in establishing homes in the then wilderness, as well as some of the pleasures they enjoyed. She said she had seen many Indians soon after her coming, and knew one woman who had been scalped by the redskins, and who lived several years after this harrowing experience.

Her husband, Berry Darwin Bell, better known then as "Doc" Bell, died 12 years ago in a Cisco hospital.

Their first home was at Belle Plain, and among others who came to this section soon after their arrival were John and James Heysler, and the Tanner family. "John Heysler married 'Sis Tanner,'" she said, who still survives, and is the mother of Virgil Heysler, of Cisco. Fred Heysler, who lives with his mother on the Heysler ranch, and Shields Heysler, of Wichita Falls.

The family later moved to a farm home on Battle Creek, near the Heysler ranch, then to the Bell horse ranch, now owned by Judge D. K. Scott, east of Sabanno, then to the home in the Sabanno community where she resided until her death today.

Eight silver dollars were used as part of the payment of a $14 fine. However, one silver dollar was left.

Oldest of the silver coins was dated in 1879.

Heil the Conquering Hero Hitler

Climaxing a bloodless conquest of Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland with a triumphal entry into Ezer, Adolf Hitler is shown in the above radio-

photo standing in his open car to receive the adulation of massed thousands who gave him a hero's reception during his drive through the newly-Nazified territory. This picture was flown to London and radioed to New York.

Pullets' Glasses Stop Fowl Deeds

Now that the 100 pullets in the poultry yard of the Essex County Penitentiary at North Caldwell, N. Y., are looking at the world through rose-colored glasses, as pictured above, Warden Hanna reports they have stopped murdering their prize white leghorns. Any slight peck that drew blood inspired the pullets to leap on the bleeding leghorn and kill it. With the glasses, the murderous pullets cannot distinguish red.

Eastland County Fair Concluded Saturday Night

Another county fair, the 12th held, and dairy show, closed Saturday night with officials stating that the event would be known as one of the most successful ever conducted.

Exhibits in all departments, with few exceptions, represented practically the best ever shown. Fruits were not in display as prominently as usual because of the freeze early in the year.

Especially better than past exhibits, both in quality and number, was the dairy show. It was the best ever held, officials declared. Saturday night was Ranger night at the fair. For several years it has been customary for Ranger to have a special day designated for it.

One of the most interesting of the Saturday features was a parade Saturday morning. The Eastland high school band led the parade. Attracting considerable attention was the Eastland Pioneer Women's club participation. The women rode in old fashioned wagons and wore styles of many years ago. Several men and women in costume rode horses. Many automobile dealers were in the parade and drove the new models, in sharp contrast to the pioneer section.

Four-H club boys and others paraded their prize cattle.

County Agent Elmo V. Cook and Co-Chairman John W. McKinney, Cisen, and Mrs. D. J. Jobe, Gorman, released names of those placing in the community agriculture booths contest: Shady Grove, 901 of a possible 1000, first place; Scranton, 736, second place; Rising Star, 727, third place; Dan Horn, 689, fourth place; Flatwood, 685 fifth place; Morton Valley, 632, sixth place; New Hope, 609, seventh place; and Romney, 524, eighth place.

Peanut Growers Ass'n Will Have Nine Warehouses

EASTLAND, Oct. 6 — The Southwestern Peanut Growers' association expects to open storage warehouses at nine Texas points by Oct. 10, according to W. B. Starr, Dan Horn, association manager.

Starr will retire soon as manager, and Dick Weskes, Alameda, will succeed him. Headquarters of the association, which covers the Texas-Oklahoma territory, is at Eastland.

Starr explained that the association is a co-operative, working as a division of the AAA, buying and storing the surplus peanut crop to stabilize the market.

Whereas the present market price is 83 cents a bushel for No. 1 peanuts and 80 cents for No. 2 grade, the association, as soon as it obtains warehouse facilities, will pay 94.5 cents for No. 1 grade and 88.5 cents for No. 2, Starr said.

"The crop already is about 50 per cent harvested," Starr said. "I'd advise those farmers who have already threshed to hold their peanuts off the market until Oct. 10."

Starr said the Texas-Oklahoma peanut crop last year, about average, was 55,000 tons, and that the forecast for this year's crop is 80,000 tons.

The association, Starr explained, uses RFC funds and operates through the community credit division of the AAA. There are no crop reduction restrictions, but association members are charged a fee of 7 1/2 cents per acre.

Warehouses will be located at Tolar, Comanche, May, Rising Star, Ranney, Gorman, Abilene and Fort Worth.

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

I was raking up a litter of mesquite bark the other day to burn with some other trash. It was a basketful of such nice dry material that I wished I could use it for kitchen use in getting a meal, almost as quick as gas for such a purpose. I always enjoyed building fires. Not putting in a piece of paper, then some light kindling, then heavier stuff, and finally the wood or coal then touching a match to the whole pile; that may be building a nice pile of fuel, but it isn't building a fire. I like to take a piece of paper and light it on the grate; then quickly lay on some shavings or fine dry sticks; then some heavier sticks as the flame creeps up; and finally the wood or coal that begins at once to burn and heat things up. How much more one appreciates a fire of that kind of a frosty morning; the effort of building it and the anticipation of warmth helps to set the blood a-tinging. One is in a mood and state of need to value the warmth when it once begins to give out from the stove. But to get up and with one turn and one stroke have a gas flame shooting out the rays of heat in a jiffy, and then by turning round a time or two have yourself fairly comfortable, how does one have get up an appreciation of fire? Not that I am taking out my gas system returning to a wood stove has to live up to date in a I would enjoy really a fire about once every co-

SERIAL STORY MURDER TO MUSIC

BY NARD JONES

CAST OF CHARACTERS
MYRNA DOMBEY—heroine. Wife of the sensational swing band leader.
ROBERT TAIT—hero. Newspaper photographer—detective.
ANNE LESTER—Myrna's closest friend.
DANNIE FEELY—officer assigned to investigate Ludden Dombey's murder.

Yesterday, Police tell Tait to bring in Myrna. He wonders where she is and he realizes, too, that somehow he is going to be in this affair to the end.

CHAPTER IV

The taxi veered to the curb in front of the Claremont Apartments, and Bob Tait's foot was on the running board even before it stopped. Hurriedly he paid the driver and waved him on. A quick glance told him that there was no police car parked nearby. He hoped that Officer Dunphy hadn't come in a taxi and betrayed his easy nature by rushing things.

In the entrance way of the Claremont he almost collided with a woman on her way out. She was a striking honey-colored blond, almost too fragile and beautiful to be real. For a scant second her eyes met Tait's, then turned away. She hurried on and down the street, leaving a wake of not too faint perfume. Tait grinned to himself and let out an involuntary whistle.

At another time he might have speculated a little about that beautiful blond—but not now. He scanned the mail-box board, found a neatly lettered card with the names: Myrna Rogers—Anne Lester. Their apartment was on the third floor, and in his haste, Tait scorned the automatic lift. The stairs he took three and four at a time.

He listened a moment at the door before he pressed the bell. To his intense relief there was no sound of Mike Dunphy's indignant, blustering voice. But when Anne Lester opened the door her distracted eyes told him that trouble was brewing.

"Myrna's not here," she said. "What shall we do?"

Tait stopped inside the room and closed the door. "No note—nothing?"

The girl shook her head. "I don't believe she came here at all from the Pacific Plaza."

"This is bad," Tait told her. "Dunphy, from police headquarters, is one way here now. It's going to look bad when he finds she isn't to be had." He held Anne's gaze. "Are you sure you don't know where she might be?"

Ann shook her head. "I've been trying to think—ever since I got here. The—the only possibility that came to me is—that what happened at the Golden Bowl made her lose her head."

For a moment Tait did not answer. He tried to fathom beyond Anne Lester's seemingly frank glance. "Listen," he burst out, "do you have any reason to be-

Anne Lester's answer came swiftly. "You're right. I would. I'd go further than that for Myrna. But she didn't do it. She was in love with him. Couldn't you tell that when you walked up to that table tonight?"

"I'm afraid I had something else on my mind. You see, I'd just lost a job and was trying to figure a way to get it back. That's what I should be doing now. I wish I knew by I'm not."

Anne clutched his arm. "Please help us, I—I'm afraid. I knew something was going to happen tonight. I kept feeling it. And I know this is going to mean trouble for Myrna. We've got to find her. We've—" She caught her breath, looked up at Tait with a sudden new fright. "They might be after her now! If they wanted to kill Lud Dombey, why wouldn't they want to kill his wife, too?"

Tait tried to make his laugh sound easy. "Simply because she hasn't been his wife long enough to be mixed up in whatever it was that brought Lud Dombey to his last tune tonight. But we've got to find her, that's certain." He opened the door into the hall. "And we've got to get out of here. Grab your hat."

"Why?"
"It'll be better to be scarce than to try to explain to Mike Dunphy why she isn't here. And he wouldn't quite be able to figure out what I'm doing up here, either. Is there a back way out of this place?"

Anne nodded. She had wrapped worn as maid of honor. On her head was a smart brown felt. Her silver slippers and the gown were dropping beneath the spot coat were an incongruity, but she gave no thought to that now. "We can get out this way," she told Tait, hurrying down the hall.

It was not a moment too soon. Somewhere below them boomed Mike Dunphy's bellowing query. "Where would be the apartment belong to Miss Myrna Rogers?" Tait could not hold back a smile. It was like Mike to disturb the landlady and assert his authority rather than quietly examine the names on the lobby board. But right now Tait was glad for Officer Dunphy's idiosyncrasies.

"Get your thinking cap on," Tait told Anne when they had gained the street. "I'm going to rent a car—taxi drivers can talk in court, and we might find later on that we'd rather not have this little jaunt on record." He took Anne by the arm, hurried her along. "I knew a car rental place a few blocks from here. And while we're walking, try to figure out where we might have a look for Myrna."

Anne stopped momentarily, made a quick, excited gesture. "It's just a chance."
"What's just a chance?"
"The cottage. Or the shack—as Myrna called it. Her father left it to her. It's the only thing he

"Where is it?"
"Out near Belleville, in the country. It's at least a three-hour drive."

"But what makes you think she'd go there?"
"She and I spent a week-end there one summer. I remember now that she said that if she ever got into trouble—lost her job, or anything like that—she'd go out there and think it over. She was half-joking, of course."

Tait quickened his pace. "It's a good hunch, just the same. Remarks like that come back to a person when they're in a jam. We'll go there. But isn't there some spot in town she might hit? Another friend—or a cocktail bar?"

"I don't think Myrna would take her troubles to anyone but me," Anne said staunchly. "And she never went to cocktail bars alone. I don't think she'd do it now."

"Okay. Then we'll try the place in the country. At least the drive will do us good."

In a few moments they were wheeling along in a rented coupe, bound toward Belleville. The traffic was light at that hour, and Tait's headlights pierced quickly through the city. He and Anne were silent until they were on the north highway. Then Tait reached into his pocket and brought out Myrna's handbag.

"Ever see that before?"
"Of course. It's Myrna's. She had it tonight."

Gunfire Scares One Cat, Other Unfazed

HONOLULU, T. H., Oct. 6 (AP)—To test the effect of heavy firing on observers, two cats were placed just under the muzzles of the army's giant 16-inch guns at Fort Weaver. Then the guns were fired. After the shots, one cat was still sitting there calmly. The other had fled to the top of a nearby tree.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Demotion and power are with Him, He, in peace in His own place.—Job xxv. 2.

Are we spinners of wool for the life-world, say?
Do we furnish the merces one thread each day?

The true picture of peace is simply the restoration of true relations, so that each soul of us should give its full due to, and so get its full due from, the souls around it, and its own self, and the soul of God, its Father.

The Tragedy May Not Have Been in Vain

THE resignation of President Benes of Czechoslovakia was not unexpected. It was the next and logical step in the dismemberment of the little republic whose independence has been sacrificed to the peace of Europe. Hitler's dislike for the man whose patriotism and leadership of the Czech people was one of the solid obstacles in his path to German hegemony in middle Europe was well known. Consequently as triumphant Hitler would demand his removal. A Benes, who felt himself betrayed, naturally could not continue the policies he had advocated in the face of such a hopeless future and a clear demonstration of the intent of allies once pledged to Czech integrity. He would feel compelled to resign, to surrender leadership of a lost cause to another.

It is a rather touching drama that is being acted in middle Europe. But without tragedy there could be no drama, and life is itself drama. The tragedy begins far back.
It was aggravated at Versailles, when the victorious Allies gave dictatorship its raison d'être and anid all that the war might have done for the idealism of Wilson with a savage demand for an unreasonable punishment.
They thought that 75,000,000 German people might be kept in perpetual economic slavery as a punishment for what their foolish leaders did, is medieval in its idea. The course of international thinking on the European subject has been wrong in a large measure. It has been one of dominance, suppression and even extermination instead of cooperation.
If the new trend of diplomacy undertaken there establishes European relationships nearer a reasonable and sensible base, the tragedy of Czechoslovakia will not have been acted in vain.

The Memory of War Gives the World Pause

WHAT was it, in the long run, that prevented Europe's leaders from opening the sluice-gates of slaughter and turning millions of the brightest and best of its youth into dead men?
Was it Chamberlain's dramatic play for time, which gave reason a chance to exert itself? Was it the extraordinary patience and restraint of the Czechs? Was it the dawning realization of Hitler that a long world war on the scale of 1918 would drag him down in general ruin? Was it President Roosevelt's calm appeal?
All of these things were factors, of course.
But the biggest factor was a great groundswell of murmuring from the people of all the world that they did not want and would not have war.

LET no man suppose that because there were no street-corner meetings in Germany and Italy, peace sentiment had no effect in those countries.
Hitler knows, and Mussolini knows, that after the first flush of excitement for a war come the casualty lists. And after the first 30,000 come the second 50,000, the stream of telegrams telling families that Eric or Antonio isn't coming home any more.

Mussolini knows that there was far less enthusiasm for the casualty lists from Ethiopia and Spain than there was for the embarkations. Hitler may remember, himself.
Britain has a large and vocal pacifist sentiment. Britain will fight, but only for a situation that unquestionably and directly threatens Britain.
France can scarcely afford any more lavish gestures than a determination to fight under similar conditions.

THE crisis passes, the world draws a deep breath. The question of whether strict justice has been done to Czechoslovakia merges into the question of how strict justice was done when her border lines were drawn in 1918.

The Spanish war, it is rumored, may be liquidated soon. They are tired of the killing there, and there is a rumor that in Japan they are tired too, tired of that endless stream of little black laquer boxes that pours in from China with the ashes of Japan's best youth.

How much of the world's woe today is due to the fact that between 1914 and 1918 we killed off eight and a half millions of the best, strongest, most talented of the world's young men?

As the World war was largely fought in vain, so this crisis, only less terrible than war itself, will have been in vain if the people of the world do not insist more and more strongly: "This is not good enough! We insist on leadership in the world that is wise enough, and strong enough, and sane enough to see that this does not happen again!"

OTHER OPINIONS

No Cotton Picking, Thanks

SAID Gov. Marland of Oklahoma to the national conference of governors held in his state:

"In this state we need thousands of men to pick cotton, but we can't get them because they have WPA jobs. Why should we keep them doing useless jobs that could be done next winter? Why can't WPA put the men in the fields and let the planters reimburse WPA?"

Well, why? Picking cotton is hard work for poor pay, but when a farmer gets $40 or less for a bale of cotton he can't afford to pay high wages for picking. The reason WPA workers generally give for refusing to take temporary private employment is that they are afraid they can't get back on the WPA rolls. Doubtless in some cases that is a reason, but in others it is pretty obviously an excuse.

When a WPA worker leans on a shovel his pay goes on, but it stops when he is sitting on a cotton sack. Cotton pickers are paid by the amount they pick.
Gov. Townsend of Indiana suggested that the WPA should guarantee that men quitting the WPA for temporary jobs wouldn't lose their places on the rolls. It's a sensible suggestion, but Harry Hopkins probably wouldn't like it. He looks upon WPA as labor's defense against exploitation.

We can't make much progress toward solving the unemployment problem, however, when the government is competing with private employers for labor as it is in Oklahoma. Unless we can correct that situation, we'll have to accept WPA as a permanent institution. An America which goes on providing artificial employment for several millions of its citizens at bare subsistence wages —and that's all WPA work provides—is an America on the downgrade. — Galveston

About Our Friends

By STELLA LONG

Snatched an idea of a menu out of the front page news the other day... it was really good... but we believe we can tell you how to improve on it... The menu was a baked apple into whose core pork sausage was stuffed... It made a splendid dish and would be fine for school children as a lunch item... But we would suggest pouring a little brown sugar syrup or a tiny bit of molasses into the cored apple and perhaps winding the sausage around the apple in a compact form... then wrap the meat and fruit with a piecrust cover so as to exclude the air... then place in dish and bake in oven slowly the required time... This will retain the flavor and keep the meat soft and tender... Try it and report, then we will name it.

The idea came from the item wherein a woman won the prize from a "biggest liar club"...
Her story was that they grafted pig tails onto apple trees and the apples grew already stuffed with sausage.

This column is written mostly to please and entertain readers...
Now and then we throw in a little philosophy of life gleaned by experience, observation, reading or hearsay... Often it is used to tell news events... We try to balance the matter contained, by variety... Jokes we have heard or read... or jokes on our friends, told us by other friends...
We try to make variety so that it will please all... Some times we like to put serious

A Statement of Public Policy by The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company

The Honorable Wright Patman, representative in Congress of the first district of Texas, has announced that he will introduce in the next Congress a punitive and discriminatory tax bill frankly designed to put chain stores out of business. In the past, Mr. Patman has been very successful in securing enactment of legislation which he has sponsored. He has demonstrated that he is a very able lobbyist and propagandist for his own bills. The management of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company is therefore faced with the necessity of deciding upon a course of action in relation to this proposed legislation—whether to do nothing and risk the possibility of the passage of the bill and the resulting forced dissolution of this business, or to engage in an active campaign in opposition to the bill.

In arriving at a decision, the interests of several groups of people deserve consideration—the management, the 85,600 employees of the company, the consuming public, the millions of farmers producing the country's food, and labor.

4. The Interests of the Farmer

Eight million farm families are engaged in producing the food consumed by the American people. All of the farm homes in America, therefore, comprising one-fourth of all of the population of the United States, have a direct interest in the methods of distribution by which the products of their labor and of the soil are marketed.

Approximately 30% of their production is marketed through the chain food stores; about 70% through individual grocers. Their fruits, vegetables and other foodstuffs are sold through the chain stores at prices averaging 8% to 10% cheaper than the prices at which they are sold by many grocers. If the farmer sells a given product to both at the same price, the individual grocer must charge the public more to take care of his higher costs. Thus 30% of the farmer's products reach the public at low prices and 70% of his products reach the public at higher prices.

If the public cannot consume a given crop of apples, potatoes, berries or any other product, at the prices at which they are offered, these goods do not move from the grocer's shelves; a surplus accumulates and the farmer finds that he either cannot sell the balance of his crop or must sell it at a substantial loss. Only too often a situation arises when it is literally cheaper for the farmer to let his apples or his peaches rot on the ground than to expend the labor costs necessary to pack and ship them. Every farm economist knows that a 10% surplus does not mean 10% less return to the farmer but often more than 20% less return.

In other words, the farmer's problem is to sell his products at the cost of production plus a fair profit and to get them to the public with as few intermediate costs and profits as possible. It is therefore obviously unfair to the farmer to propose legislation which would, at a single blow, wipe out 30% of his distributing machinery—and that 30% the part which maintains the price to the farmer yet reaches the public at low cost because of economical distribution. It would be just as unfair to the farmer to propose putting out of business all of the individual grocers of the country who distribute 70% of his produce. Both chain food stores and individual grocers perform a distributive function vital to the interests of the farmer. If either failed to function the farmer would be faced with tremendous surpluses and heartbreaking losses.

For years the A & P has dealt with the farmers both as producers and consumers. We feel that we have a definite obligation and duty to oppose any legislative attack upon their best interests.

1. The Interests of the Management

The interests of the management can be dismissed as of very little importance.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company is managed by George L. Hartford and John A. Hartford under an arrangement made by their father, George Huntington Hartford, the founder of the business. George L. Hartford has been actively engaged in the grocery business for 58 years, working generally six days a week, 52 weeks a year during that entire period. John A. Hartford has been actively engaged in the grocery business for 50 years, working generally six days a week, 52 weeks a year during that period. Both of these men could, of course, retire without personal or financial inconvenience and live very comfortably if chain stores were put out of business. The record of the last calendar year shows that out of any money earned annually from the business, in the case of George L. Hartford, 82 percent is paid to government in taxes; in the case of John A. Hartford, 83 percent is paid to government in taxes. As neither of the brothers has any children, any monies left out of their earnings would accrue to their estates, and in the event of their death, inheritance taxes would probably amount to two-thirds of such accrued earnings, leaving approximately 6 cents on the dollar as a motive for continued personal service.

It is therefore apparent that the interests of management need hardly be taken into consideration in arriving at a decision.

2. The Interests of the Employees

The interests of the employees of the company are, however, a matter of very grave concern.

It is simply a statement of fact to say that the employees of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company generally throughout the United States receive the highest wages and have the shortest working hours of any workers in the grocery business, whether chain store or individual grocer. Many of them have devoted all of their working lives to the interests of the company.

The management, therefore, has a definite obligation and duty to defend the interests of these 85,600 employees against legislation intended to throw all of them out of work.

3. The Interests of the Consumer

Since this business has been built by the voluntary patronage of millions of American families, we believe that we must give consideration to their interests in this matter. Millions of women know how acute is the present problem of providing food, clothing and shelter for themselves, their husbands and their children out of their present income. When food prices go up it is not a question of paying more for the same food. They do not have the additional money with which to pay. Therefore, they must buy less and eat less. A & P Food Stores last year distributed at retail $881,700,000 worth of food at a net profit of 1%.

This food was sold to the public at prices averaging from eight to ten percent lower than the prices of the average individual grocer. Literally, millions of sales were made at prices twenty-five percent lower than those of the average individual grocer. This saving of eight to twenty-five cents on each dollar is of vital importance to these millions of families. If they were denied the opportunity to buy at these lower prices it would mean that in millions of homes they would have to leave meat off the table another day a week, eat less fresh fruits and vegetables, give the growing child one bottle of milk less every week or stint on butter, cheese, poultry, eggs and many other of the most nourishing foods.

In the last 10 years during the greatest period of chain store growth, the number of individual dealers has increased rather than decreased. We maintain that there is nothing wrong when these dealers charge more than we charge. They must charge these prices in order to make a fair profit. The average grocer will, upon request, deliver the groceries to the customer's door and in many cases extends credit to some of his customers. Delivery service costs money. The grocer must put this added cost in the prices to his customers. In the same way the extension of credit involves the expense of bookkeeping, the tying up of capital, and credit losses. There is nothing wrong in the higher mark up of the individual grocer, because he is rendering a service that justifies his prices.

If some customers can afford and voluntarily elect to pay a higher price for groceries and meats because they want credit or because they want delivery to their homes it is quite proper that they should pay an additional price for such service. However, the millions of families in this country whose income is limited and who can have more and better food because they are willing to pay cash and carry home their own purchases, should not be denied this opportunity. Millions of families of limited incomes can only enjoy their present standard of living through these economies and savings. These millions of American families have helped us build a great business because they believe we have rendered them a great service. The company, therefore, has an obligation and a duty to protect the interests of these customers.

5. The Interests of Labor

Every business in this country has a vital interest in the purchasing power of labor. When labor has high wages and great purchasing power, everyone is prosperous. When labor's purchasing power is curtailed, all business suffers and the American standard of living is impaired. For many years it has been the wise policy of the national government to protect real wages and the purchasing power of the worker's dollar. Combinations or agreements to raise prices, thus reducing real wages, have been declared illegal.

It certainly seems strange that it should now be proposed to destroy a group of businesses for the frankly admitted reason that they furnish the necessities of life to the wage earner and his family at low prices. There are approximately 900,000 workers directly employed in the chain store industry. What course is open to us but to oppose the action of a man who, at a time when more than 11,000,000 wage earners are already out of work and 3,000,000 families on relief, proposes a bill that would add almost another million to the roll of unemployed, wipe out 30% of the distributing machinery of all of the farmers of the United States, and raise the cost of living of the wage earners of the United States.

We believe that our organization has rendered a great service to the American people and that it is as a result of that service that we have prospered. If we consulted our own interest it would be very easy to stop and enjoy whatever leisure we have earned. No one is dependent upon us except our fellow workers. However, after the fullest consideration of all interests, we have arrived at the decision that we would be doing less than our full duty if we failed to oppose, by every fair means, legislation proposed by the Honorable Wright Patman.

As we have said, Mr. Patman is an able politician, an able lobbyist and an able propagandist. In that field he is an expert. We are experts only in the grocery business. We believe the chain stores have a right to present their case to the American people. We will not go into politics, nor will we establish a lobby in Washington for the purpose of attempting to influence the vote of any member of the Congress. We expect only a full and fair opportunity to present the case for the chain stores as a great service organization for the American people.

Since the task we have set before us is one involving the widest dissemination of complete information to all of the American people, and since this is a profession in which we are not expert, we have engaged Carl Byoir & Associates, public relations counsel, to do this work. We realize that our views are seldom news. We know, therefore, that we must be prepared to spend a substantial sum of money in telling our story to all of the American people. We declare now that this money will be spent in the dissemination of information through paid advertising and every medium available to us, and in cooperating in the work or formation of study groups among consumers, farmers and workers, which provide open forums for a discussion of all measures affecting the cost of living.

We believe that when the American people have all of the facts they will make their decision known to their representatives in Congress. As Americans we will be content with that decision.

Mrs. Laura Bell Succumbs After Brief Illness

After a brief illness Mrs. Laura Jane Bell died Tuesday morning at her home in the Sabanna community, at the age of 81 years and nearly three months. She was born in east Texas August 11, 1857.

The body was buried in the Sabanna cemetery, following funeral services at the Sabanna Baptist church today.

Mrs. Bell was one of the last two original settlers in this section of the state, the other surviving pioneer being Jesse Hart, one of the Hart brothers who were among the first to establish cattle ranches in west Texas. The old Hart ranch is now owned by Ed Hayden, himself an early settler. Mr. Hart is still alive at his home in Baird, though about a month ago he was a patient in a Baird hospital.

A native Texan, having been born in east Texas, Mrs. Bell has been a pioneer practically all of her life, as east Texas was a frontier when she was born. Having married early, she moved to west Texas then on the edge of civilization, when Indians and manner of wild game roamed this section.

Previously while visiting at her home she told a Press representative of many of the happenings and incidents of her early life in Callahan and Eastland counties, of the hardships the people endured in establishing homes in the then wilderness, as well as some of the pleasures they enjoyed. She said she had seen many Indians soon after her coming, and knew one woman who had been scalped by the redskins, and who lived several years after this harrowing experience.

Her husband, Berry Darwin Bell, better known then as "Doc" Bell, died 12 years ago in a Cisco hospital. Their first home was at Belle Plain, and among others who came to this section soon after their arrival, were John and James Heysler, and the Tanner family. "John Heysler married 'Sis' Tanner," she said, who still survives, and is the mother of Virgil Heysler, of Cisco; Fred Heysler, who lives with his mother on the Heysler ranch; and Shields Heysler, of Wichita Falls.

The family later moved to a farm home on Battle Creek, near the Heysler ranch, then to the Bell horse ranch now owned by Judge D. K. Scott, east of Sabanna, then to the home in the Sabanna community where she resided until her death today.

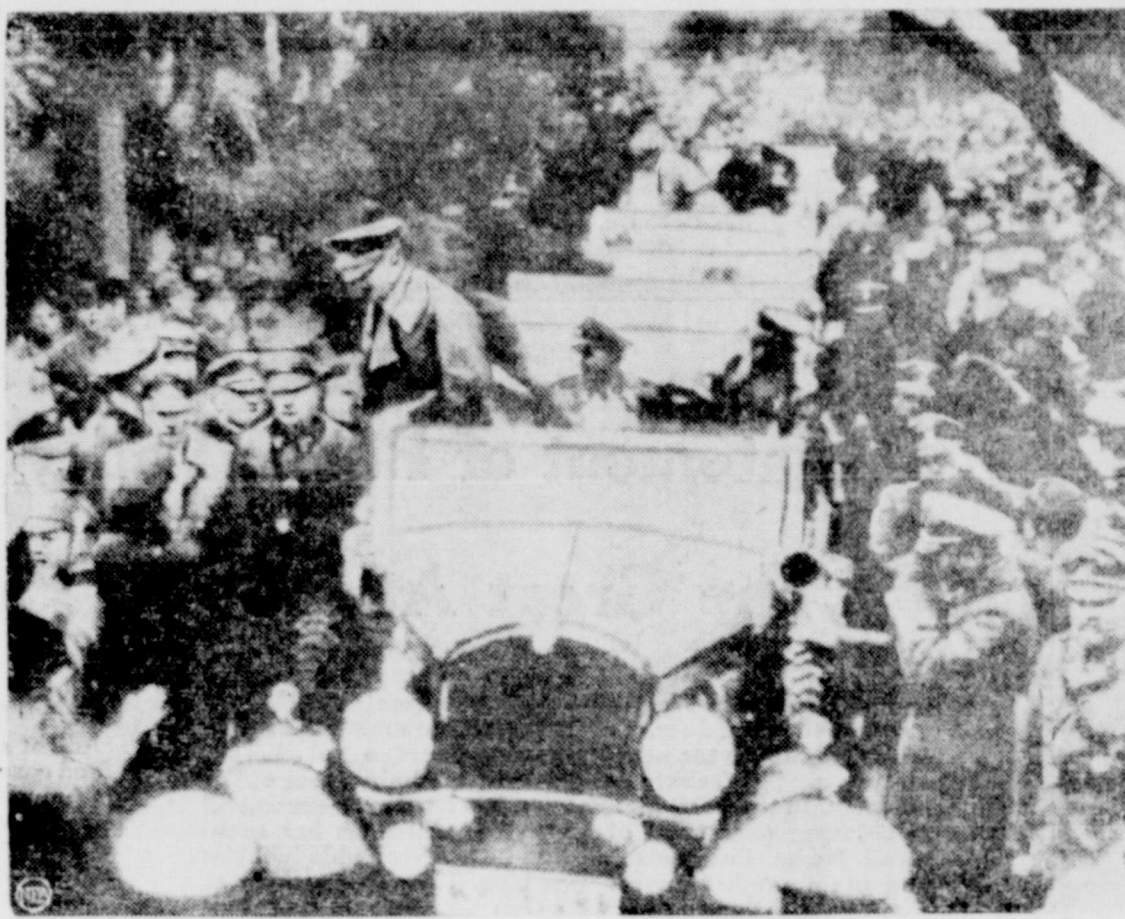

Fine Costs Ciscoan Dollar Collection

EASTLAND, Oct. 6 (Sp.)—A Cisco man who was fined for drunkenness by Justice of Peace E. E. Wood Wednesday morning will have to start all over again with his silver dollar collection.

Eight silver dollars were used as part of the payment of a $14 fine. However, one silver dollar was left.

Oldest of the silver coins was coined in 1879.

Heil the Conquering Hero Hitler

Climaxing a bloodless conquest of Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland with a triumphal entry into Eger, Adolf Hitler is shown in the above radio-

his drive through the newly-Nazified territory. This picture was flown to London and radioed to New York.

Pullets' Glasses Stop Fowl Deeds

Now that the 100 pullets in the poultry yard of the Essex County Penitentiary at North Caldwell, N. Y., are looking at the world through rose-colored glasses, as pictured above, Warden Hanna reports they have stopped murdering their prize white leghorns. Any slight peck that drew blood inspired the pullets to leap on the bleeding leghorn and kill it. With the glasses, the murderous pullets cannot distinguish red

Eastland County Fair Concluded Saturday Night

Another county fair, the 12th held, and dairy show, closed Saturday night with officials stating that the event would be known as one of the most successful ever conducted.

Exhibits in all departments, with few exceptions, represented practically the best ever shown. Fruits were not in display as prominently as usual because of the freeze early in the year.

Especially better than past exhibits, both in quality and number, was the dairy show. It was the best ever held, officials declared. Saturday night was Ranger night at the fair. For several years it has been customary for Ranger to have a special day designated for it.

One of the most interesting of the Saturday features was a parade Saturday morning. The Eastland high school band led the parade. Attracting considerable attention was the Eastland Pioneer Women's club participation. The women rode in old fashioned wagons and wore styles of many years ago. Several men and women in costume rode horses. Many automobile dealers were in the parade and drove the new models, in sharp contrast to the pioneer section.

Parade club boys and others paraded their prize cattle. County Agent Elmo V. Cook and Co-Chairman John W. McKinney, Cisco, and Mrs. D. J. Jobe, Gorman, released names of those placing in the community agriculture booths contest: Shady Grove, 901 of a possible 1000, first place; Seranton, 735, second place; Rising Star, 727, third place; Flatwood, 685 fifth place; Morton Valley, 632, sixth place; New Hope, 609, seventh place; and Romney, 524, eighth place.

Peanut Growers Ass'n Will Have Nine Warehouses

EASTLAND, Oct. 6 — The Southwestern Peanut Growers association expects to open storage warehouses at nine Texas points by Oct. 10, according to W. B. Starr, Dan Horn, association manager.

Starr will retire soon as manager, and Dick Weskes, Alameda, will succeed him. Headquarters of the association, which covers the Texas-Oklahoma territory, is at Eastland.

Starr explained that the association is a co-operative, working as a division of the AAA, buying and storing the surplus peanut crop to stabilize the market.

Whereas the present market price is 83 cents a bushel for No. 2 peanuts and 80 cents for No. 2 grade, the association, as soon as it obtains warehouse facilities, will pay 84.5 cents for No. 1 grade and 83.5 cents for No. 2, Starr said.

"The crop already is about 50 per cent harvested," Starr said. "I'd advise those farmers who have already threshed to hold their peanuts off the market until Oct. 10."

Starr said the Texas-Oklahoma peanut crop last year, about average, was 55,000 tons, and that the forecast for this year's crop is 80,000 tons.

The association, Starr explained, uses RFC funds and operates through the community credit division of the AAA. There are no crop reduction restrictions, but association members are charged a fee of 7 1/2 cents per acre.

Warehouses will be located at Tolar, Comanche, May, Rising Star, Banner, Gorman, Malone and Fort Worth.

CONGRESSMAN DIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP)—Congressman John J. Boylan, 68, of New York died early Wednesday in the French hospital after a protracted illness.

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

I was raking up a litter of mesquite bark the other day to burn with some other trash. It was a basketful of such nice dry material that I wished I could use it for kitchen use in getting a meal, almost as quick as gas for such a purpose. I always enjoyed building fires. Not putting in a piece of paper, then some light kindling, then heavier stuff, and finally the wood or coal then touching a match to the whole pile; that may be building a nice pile of fuel, but it isn't building a fire. I like to take a piece of paper and light it on the grate; then quickly lay on some shavings or fine dry sticks; then some heavier sticks as the flame creeps up; and finally the wood or coal that begins at once to burn and heat things up. How much more one appreciates a fire of that kind of a frosty morning; the effort of building it and the anticipation of warmth helps to set the blood a-tinkling. One is in a mood and state of mind to value the warmth when it once begins to give out from the stove. But to get up and with one turn and one stroke have a gas flame shooting out the rays of heat in a jiffy, and then by turning round a time or two have yourself fairly comfortable, how does one have to get up an appreciation of "fire"? Not that I am thinking taking out my gas system, returning to a wood stove, has to live up to date in a way I would enjoy really building fire about once every month.

N. Y. Tests Prove Women Can Lose FAT

Ask Your Doctor If It Isn't Good Way. Read EVERY word

NEW YORK, N. Y. A test conducted by a prominent N. Y. physician and a nationally known newspaper woman proved there is a harmless, effective, fresh fruit and green vegetable STICK TO IT and give it a fair trial.

In 40 days 25 women lost a total of 250 lbs. EVERY woman lost fat—the average loss per woman being 11 lbs. The woman first of all ate sensibly. And for proper functioning they took a little daily dose of Kruschen. Says: "If you have the slightest doubt about this Plan just ask your own doctor about its safety and merit."

And this is important to know: Kruschen is not just one salt as some people may ignorantly believe. Rather, it's a blend of 6 active mineral salts (see on box) which, when dissolved in water, make a healthful mineral drink similar to the waters of famous European spas where wealthy fat women have gone for years.

Here's the Kruschen Plan. Just take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in hot water every morning for better functioning. Go light on fatty foods and sweets—eat plentifully of lean meats, fresh fruits and green vegetables. Plan to do this faithfully for 28 days and see if you don't lose fat and feel healthier and younger. A jar costs but a few cents and makes 5 gallons of a most highly efficient mineral health water. At drugists everywhere.

PLEASE DON'T say anything too bad about it because we wouldn't want to be embarrassed. . . . Frankly, we are rather embarrassed by the silliness of some of our fun, when we reread it ourselves. . . . But then most fun is silly in the light of a serious turn of mind. . . . That is the reason it is fun. . . . It is ridiculous. . . . And fun is just seeing the ridiculous side of life.

Still others say they enjoy our comments on world events and our analysis of what that news means to us and to others. . . . Its probable influence on our economic condition and of the future. . . . and many have remarked that they enjoy most our talks on things educational and our musings about character building in boys and girls. . . . about school problems, and they are kind enough to say they appreciate our modern views about the present generation. . . . and we need. . . . what do you say?

Bears Tackle Porkers In Conference Opener

WACO, Oct. 6 — The Baylor Bears, fresh from two easy victories in warm up games, turned their attention to their opening conference game with Arkansas in Fayetteville Saturday.

Although the Bears have failed to encounter any trouble in the two opening tilts, they are expecting a tough tussle with the Porkers who will be dedicating the new Arkansas stadium at the same time.

Expecting a flood of Razorback passes Saturday, Head Coach Morley Jennings is giving his charges special work on pass defense and has had the freshmen gridders running Arkansas plays all week.

Passes are also expected to be the chief offensive weapon of the Bears, with Bullet Bill Patterson and James Witt on the throwing end and Sam Boyd, Sherman Barnes and W. J. Wimpee in at ends. Patterson completed ten out of thirteen thrown last week end against the Oklahoma A. & M. Aggies.

The Bear forward wall continued to be the bright spot in the Bruin's play and the Bear mentor is hoping that the back defense comes through against the aerial tactics of the Razorbacks.

The Bears will be in top physical shape for the first time this year as Odell Griffin, leading sophomore guard candidate who was out with a bruised knee, is ready for service.

The team—31 strong—will leave Thursday night for Fayetteville and will take a light workout in the new stadium Friday.

playground, whereas in those congested centers where miles of solid concrete and the canyon walls of tall skyscrapers separate the boy or girl from nature, it is necessary to go long distances at infrequent intervals for most of them to enjoy a few minutes of such recreation. Enlarging Greatest Port of Continental Europe

DIMINUTIVE Belgium, with a frontier of only 831 miles, has a seaboard of 62, and the government is making the most of it.

Below Antwerp, the Scheldt river flows to the North Sea through the Netherlands. Today Belgium is spending 350,000,000 francs dredging the channel as far as Flushing and improving the port of Antwerp, now greatest port of continental Europe. More than 20,000,000 tons of shipping clear Antwerp's docks and quays every year.

City of 424,000, including suburbs, Antwerp lies on the right bank of the Scheldt, is the capital of the province of the same name and chief commercial center of the country. Its great docks are maintained at a constant depth of 29 feet, cover a dock water area of approximately 1334 acres with a quayside length of 28 miles. The necessary railway extensions bring the total port railway system to a length in excess of 500 miles.

But commerce is not all that is modern. Antwerp. The city is famous for its broad streets and fine houses and its many memorials to its great grandeur. Chief of these is its early cathedral, begun in the 14th century and not finished until 1518. Here are also myriad old masters in several collections.

The city is heavily fortified. The harbor is shown here on a 1929 Belgium stamp.
