Commission Orders Shut-Downs To Be Continued

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

Editor Smith, sore at the situation for having attempted to purge him from the states senate for exercising duty as a senator, will substitute a bill for the which he declares has provisions. Smith, by the way, having piloted the 1938 through the senate while at the time asserting its inability—a peculiar loyalty conviction, I must say, the senator, with whose independence and his with reference to the attack "purge" I am in hearty agreement, comes forward with a proposal that will simply trade the thing for another. Ad information is to the effect that he will propose a system of banks for cotton farmers to the Federal Reserve system.

measure, like the other relief proposals of an addition of bright young men, would merely attempt to deal with the results of trouble. If our present banks cannot finance agriculture and industry in the name of common sense government banks be set to successfully do so.

measure of the senator, in my way of thinking thus illustrates his inability to cope with the problems now presenting themselves another exemplification of the fallacious belief that government can do what the economy of the country do. It is another instance of government deserting the duty of governing for the benefit of managing. It is a matter of knowledge that government proceeds from the people and is determined by and supported by the activities of the people. Government is like the football game, a system of rules which insure that sides have equal opportunities to score and that fair play is as an insurance that the officials who enforce the rules play the game for the boys, sometimes the case, we have a situation analogous to that taking place in America at this time.

Editor Smith, for all his blarney sense of senatorial inviolability and his revolt against "man" roles, is still guilty of trying a policy of government that ought by this time to have been clearly recognized as futile and foolish.

trouble with this country is nothing more nor less than inactivity. With every new "experiment" having failed, effort to restore prosperity with the wind and the budget unbalanced than ever, is only one thing sure—the government is spending vast sums of relief money in a variety of forms—including money to cotton growers who are losing their once profitable market overseas. Government jobs are about the only thing which a person can be sure of for more than a day and even these are not so.

Rowboat Docks Queen Mary

Warping 83,000 tons of ocean liner like the Queen Mary safely into dock without the aid of a dozen tugboats was an unheard-of stunt—until the Mary's skipper did it. Commodore Robert B. Irving brought the big ship to harbor stripped of tugs due to a tugmen's strike. So holding in his hand a medal of St. Christopher, patron of travelers, and aided by a tiny rowboat and calm water, he just "docked her like a ferryboat." In the photo above, the men in the rowboat at left are picking up the mooring lines. With these fast to the dock, Commodore Irving berthed the ship in the usual 34 minutes.

ALLOWABLE OF NOVEMBER IS TO BE RAISED

Order Calls for Shut-Downs to Continue Through November

AUSTIN, Oct. 25 (AP)—The railroad commission today ordered Saturday and Sunday shut-downs of oil fields continued through November. Basic allowable for November was set at 1,279,653 barrels, about 4,000 higher daily than for October. Closings on Sundays had been in effect since January and those on Saturday for several months, but recently agitation for their lifting had been growing. Chairman Ernest Thompson asked the refineries to reduce runs to still to 15 per cent.

West Ward PTA In Successful Drive

Beginning the week's drive great progress has been reported by the west ward P-T. A. in collecting articles for their annual "country store" to be held during their carnival October 31. The fine cooperation of the parents and merchants reported by members making the drive promises to make the event a success.

Slight Drop in Livestock Shipments

AUSTIN, Oct. 25—Total shipments of livestock from Texas to Fort Worth stockyards and interstate points during September were only slightly below those of the corresponding month last year, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research. Shipments of cattle increased, while forwardings of calves, sheep, and hogs declined in comparison with a year ago. Reports from about 1,500 Texas shipping points show total shipments of 7,678 cars, compared with 7,718 cars during September last year, a decline of less than 1 per cent. Cattle shipments, 4,328 cars, were up 8 per cent from last year; shipments of calves, 1,594 cars, declined 8 per cent; hogs shipments, 589 cars, also were down 8 per cent; and shipments of sheep, 1,067 cars, were off 13 per cent. Receipts of Texas cattle, calves and hogs at the Fort Worth market were substantially below September last year, but receipts of sheep at this market increased sharply.

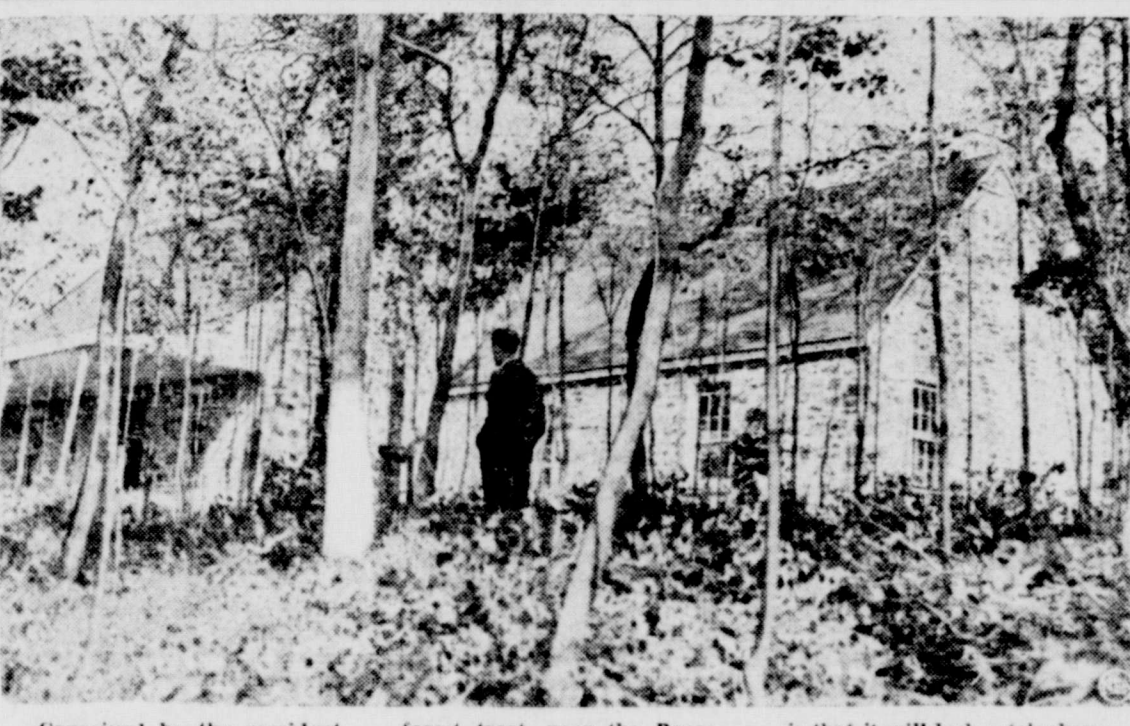

Domestic Work Is Too Lonely For Girls

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 25 (AP)—In spite of continued unemployment, there is a shortage of girls to work as domestics, and social service agencies here think they know why. They cite long hours and low wages, but especially loneliness, as the reason girls are turning to other employment. Four social service agencies have been working to provide recreation for domestics and to do what they can to regulate hours and wages.

IMPARTIAL AL

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 25 (AP)—Al Todd, catcher for the Pirates, hit his first five home runs in five different ball parks, Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, Chicago, Boston and New York, in that order. Mrs. C. L. Tune and daughter, Miss Marie, are spending a few days on the K Ranch near Santo.

F. D. R.'s 'Dream' Home Becomes Concrete Reality

Conceived by the president himself as his "dream" of a home, the handsome Dutch-style house begins to take concrete form in stone. It is being constructed on a 70-acre forest tract near the Roosevelt's Hyde Park, N. Y., house and will be known as "Dutchess Hill Cottage." Its most important convenience — from the presidential viewpoint — is that it will lack a telephone. Photo shows how far construction has already progressed on the "dream" home nestling in the woods.

Loboes Showing Improvement In Drills For Eastland Mavs

Entering their second day of practice the Loboes gave evidence they are not intending to take this game as a breather, but are going to concentrate on avenging their disappointing defeat of last year. Monday afternoon they were running through their practice session with more snap and enthusiasm than has been displayed around Chesley field in some time. The boys seemed to be executing their plays with more precision and smoothness than either before or during the Graham encounter. Some of the boys who were playing entirely foreign positions in the Graham game are becoming more accustomed to their new places. They are counted on to give better performances against the Maverick crew.

Fall Banquet Of Methodists To Be Nov. 1

Plans for the District Layman's annual Methodist fall banquet, scheduled for Tuesday night, November 1, at 7 o'clock, were rapidly being completed today under the direction of the Rev. J. B. Curry, presiding elder, at was announced today.

Leaves North Dakota By Boat for Havana

REGINA, Sask., Oct. 25 (AP)—John Canson of this city is off on a water trip that will land him at Havana. Starting at Bismarck, N. D., his course follows western waterways into the Mississippi, thence to New Orleans, then down the Gulf coast to Key West. From there, if he still thinks his collapsible boat seaworthy, he will cross the Caribbean to the Cuban capital.

Arraign 73 On Graft Charges In New Mexico

ALBUQUERQUE, Oct. 25 (AP)—A mass arraignment was held today for 73 persons charged with graft and political conspiracy through the manipulation and organization of the New Mexico WPA.

Mrs. Wiley to Appear on Radio Program

Mrs. Grace Wiley, well known reptile naturalist of Long Beach, Calif., will appear on the Hobby-Lobby radio program from New York city tomorrow, according to a card just received by Mrs. John Kleiner. Mrs. Wiley formerly lived in this section where her husband was an oil operator associated with Charles and John Kleiner. She now operates a reptile museum at Long Beach.

Supt. Removed to Home

R. N. Cluck, superintendent of Cisco public schools who underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis at Graham sanitarium last week, was removed to his home today.

CHINESE ARMY LEAVES CITY TO INVADERS

Chiang Kai-Shek Said To Have Fled City With Wife

SHANGHAI, Oct. 25 (AP)—The Japanese army and navy commanders tonight announced that their forces had entered Hankow, China's provisional capital, abandoned by its defenders. The Japanese said units of both services participated in the capture of the city, the major goal of the Japanese since Nanking fell 11 months ago. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, military-civil leader of China, was reported to have fled Hankow by plane during the night, accompanied by his American-educated wife. Withdrawal of the defenders "for strategic reasons" apparently spared Hankow of the bloodshed which marked the capture of Nanking. The Chinese retreated westward, commanders explaining this was in accordance with the decision to prolong resistance and not risk annihilation of their best units in defense of the Wuhan area.

CHINESE SET FIRE TO CITY OF HANKOW

HANKOW, Oct. 25 (AP)—Great fires were burning tonight in this former Chinese provisional capital. The fires were apparently started by retreating Chinese to hamper the Japanese advance. Thirty blue-jackets from the United States navy Yangtze patrol landed to protect American lives and interests.

Complete Plans For PTA Carnival To Be Saturday

Plans for the grammar school P-T. A. carnival to begin Saturday were rapidly being completed today. The schedule, as worked out thus far, includes three featured events, the first beginning at 8:30 in the morning and the last at 7:45 p. m. The carnival is scheduled to begin at 8:30 Saturday morning with a "baked sale" at the Norvell and Miller grocery store to be followed by the second feature—the sale of coffee, doughnuts, candy, and chili buns at 11:30 in the building adjoining the Dean Drug store. Final feature of the carnival will be a program to begin at 7:45 in the city hall consisting of two one-act plays and several musical numbers. The first one-act play — to be given by the faculty—is entitled "Hangin' Out the Wash," of negro type, while the second, to be given by the high seventh grade, goes under the title "In the Doctor's Office."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The God of peace. . . . As the heaven is high above the earth, so great is His mercy toward them that fear Him. He knoweth our frame; He remembereth that we are dust.—Heb. xii, 20; Ps. civ, 14.

Keep thy conscience sensitive.
No inward token miss;
And go where grace enters thee:
Perfection lies in this.

Be docile to thy inner Guide,
Love Him as He loves thee;
Time and obedience are enough,
And thou a saint shalt be.

—FABER

Don't let yourself suffer in sorrow, like one without hope, but ever learn the ever widening field of duties that is opening out.—Jesuit.

Here Is an Opportunity for Straight Thinking

THE world is governed more and more by emotion, and less and less by thought. That is the greatest danger of our day.

If any sanity and decency is to be kept in the world, people must think more. That means all people, not just the leaders.

That is harder than just to shout "Ho-ho!" or "Boo!" But it must be done.

LET'S take a laboratory example, the latest Lindbergh affair. Chances are that one either considers Lindbergh a nasty fascist spy who intrigued against the Soviet Union, or a wise observer who served peace and the world by telling the truth about the Russian air force, in quarters where knowledge was badly needed.

Yet how far is one justified in drawing either conclusion? Let's re-survey the facts, and see whether opinion is conditioned by feeling toward Russia, the Soviets, Hitler, Chamberlain, or by known facts.

Lindbergh went to Russia. He was entertained by Russian airmen with the usual courtesies, and shown as much of Russian air strength as the Russians cared to show.

He returned to England. Several magazines there printed a rumor that Lindbergh had made certain comments uncomplimentary to the Russian air force at a social event and to persons of influence in the British government.

His Russian host-aviators immediately came out with a violent statement condemning Lindbergh as a paid liar and a fascist spy. The world promptly took sides. Lindbergh himself remained silent.

BEYOND the published rumor, how much actual proof has been shown that Lindbergh said the things attributed to him? Very little. The central fact of the whole affair remains unverified.

Assuming, however, that Lindbergh said the things attributed to him, were they true? Obviously the effectiveness of any air force before actual test in war is a matter of opinion. It is not a matter on which to use terms like "liar." There can be no proof.

Now the third accusation: that Lindbergh was a paid spy for fascism, and made such a report on Russian aviation purely to influence Britain against opposing Hitler. That is a nasty accusation. It ought not to have been made without the strongest evidence. But is there any evidence? None at all. It is a plausible-sounding hypothesis, but of proof there is not an iota.

THREE belief-hurdles have been quickly leaped by many people in this affair. They concluded: 1. Lindbergh said or did not say what he was reported to have said. 2. It was or was not true. 3. It was or was not said with the worst kind of ulterior motive. Yet all three conclusions rest on assumptions not proved.

All these things were reported in some detail by the newspapers, and properly so, because they were news. But if ever there was a case for suspended judgment on the part of the reader, this is it. The whole thing is a question of fact, and the fact is by no means established.

This is the kind of testing and searching which Americans must apply to all news, especially foreign news, these days if we are to choose a course that is wise and just, and not merely be blown on winds of passion and demagoguery.

History and Stupidity Repeat Together

WHOM the gods would destroy, according to the old saying, they first make mad; and the madness which descended on Kaiser Wilhelm's Germany during the World War days seems to be playing a return engagement with the Germany of Adolf Hitler.

The Kaiser's Germany had everything to gain by remaining on friendly terms with the United States. The job wasn't easy; the agents of the allies were flooding the United States with their propaganda, there was a strong sentimental leaning toward England and France anyway, and things like the invasion of Belgium and the torpedoing of the Lusitania had made an extremely bad impression.

BUT the job might have been done, just the same, if it had been handled right. With fathomless stupidity, the kaiser's henchmen proceeded to handle it wrong in every particular.

They sent spies across the country, concocted clumsy plots to sabotage American industrial production, did the whole business so ineptly that men like Von Papen and Boy-Ed were presently revealed before the whole country for what they were; and in the course of time so much American ill-will was aroused and so many Americans learned to look at Germany as an enemy that President Wilson had little trouble getting a declaration of war.

More than 20 years have passed since then. Having lost the World War because it permitted its own stupidity to turn the United States into an enemy, the German government might have been expected to learn. But the same sorry story is being repeated—as witness the spy trial in New York.

Once more German spies are operating in the United States. As of old, their capacity for making blunders seems to exceed their capacity for helping the fatherland; and as a result the beans have been thoroughly spilled and the whole mess is out in the open.

AND how dumb it all is!

After the war there was a great change of sentiment in the United States. People began to realize that the peace treaty was unjust, that the war itself had not been all Germany's fault and that most of the wartime judgments were hasty and ill-considered. A real feeling of sympathy for Germany arose.

Even the excesses of the Hitler government didn't entirely destroy this sympathy. However much Americans may have disapproved of the ways of a dictatorship, they at least realized that the kind of government Germany chose to have was Germany's own business. Distrusting Nazism profoundly, they felt that they needn't worry so long as it stayed in Europe.

But here we have nazism in our own front yard; nazi agents promoting subversive movements on our own soil, tampering with our military forces and acting with all the left-handed finesse of 1916. Could anything be better calculated to destroy that post-war American sympathy or to persuade Americans that Hitler's Germany is once more a potential enemy?

The monumental stupidity which did Germany so much damage in 1916 seems to have taken hold once again.

A military expert declares a recently-introduced type of gas mask is practically worthless. What you might call wearing a peril.

A young couple who had sailed the oceans together in a sailboat were divorced the other day. The story in a nutshell: From mess-mates to mis-mates.

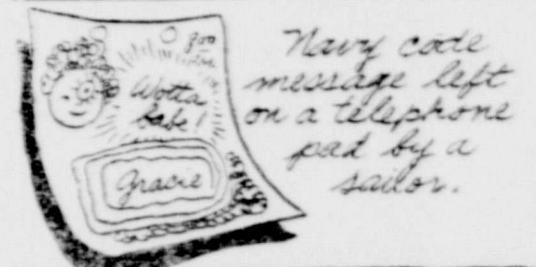

Shoes made out of frogskin have appeared in Louisiana. When they're new, instead of squeaking they croak.

How Italy Annexed Fiume in 1919

TWENTY years ago today Fiume, an important Adriatic port was the burning question of Europe, threatening to cause further war between Yugoslavia and Italy. It flared as an issue for five years, and at last became Italian soil, but only after a dramatic march of "annexation" such as parallels present affairs in the old world.

The first Italian claim to Fiume was made in 1918, and a year later Italy officially pressed it on the ground of "self-determination," such as Hitler used in the Austrian and Czechoslovakian crises. Italy asserted Italians were in the majority over the Slavs in the suburbs of Szak, Marchion, Croat troops and Italian family occupied the area, pending the settlement of the claims by the peace commission.

But Italy ultimately obtained Fiume largely because Gabriele D'Annunzio, dashing Italian poet and adventurer, boldly marched into the little port with a body of men on Sept. 12, 1919, and set up a government. D'Annunzio drew up a constitution for his miniature state and obtained the company of it not the immediate "official" approval of Italy.

This came though naturally after Mussolini marched into Rome in 1922. On Jan. 27, 1923, Mussolini signed with the Yugoslavs a final settlement awarding Fiume to Italy and Portofranco and the "delta" to Yugoslavia. A 1926 stamp of Fiume, on which D'Annunzio appears as shown at the left.

Chemists Find $1,500 In Precious Stones

BONOLELE, T. H., Oct. 25 (AP)—Amateur prospectors are hurrying to the rugged Waianae mountains near here to search for semi-precious stones, following discoveries there by two chemists. These chemists—Alexander Cornelison and Howard Cooper—picked up yellow topaz, red jasper, blood-stones, olivines and opals which have been valued at $1,500.

The chemists made their finds while searching for bauxite, a mineral used in clarifying sugar syrup.

WHAT IT MEANS—

New U. S. Armaments

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—The central but unspoken theme of all the important talk in high places through the Americas today is nothing more nor less than a streamlined Monroe doctrine.

That means a Monroe doctrine operated by and for the doctrine—a western hemisphere set apart with a "No Trespassing" sign tacked on all shores jointly by the United States, the Latin American nations, and Canada.

Such a 1938 model of the Monroe doctrine is a far cry from the popular idea so long held in Latin America that Uncle Sam is a big bully of a fellow, a self-appointed policeman who goes around clubbing little nations.

Beginning with the post-war Coolidge term, such tactics became a thing of the past. Hoover followed the promising Coolidge pattern, and Roosevelt has carried it a step further with his "good neighbor" policy.

Meanwhile Latin America's language and cultural ties with Europe continued to dominate cultural life of the Latin American nations. German and Italian political ideas particularly wielded important influence.

But all along, there has been a growing tendency to regard the United States in a more friendly light. Brazil, especially, has gone out of the way to align her foreign policy with America's.

Experts say that disappointing trade arrangements with Germany and distrust of the European political balances have been mounting in South America, and that citizens of those countries are growing more and more Democratic in their political ideas.

The experts feel that the deciding factor in America's favor did not develop until the peace of Munich was signed. It then became obvious that European nations had merely provided a broader to give themselves time to complete their fabulous armaments programs.

If ever a small nation needed a powerful friend, it needs one now. And in the United States, as the experts here see it, Latin American nations have one friend with no design on their territory.

It was natural, therefore, that President Roosevelt's recent talk of revising our defense plans should be interpreted to mean that we were planning a navy and army capable of defending the whole western hemisphere.

That would, in their view, also explain his reassurance to Canada that the United States would not stand idly by if she were attacked.

May Modernize Monroe

In the offing is an opportunity to express a 1938 model Monroe doctrine, say the experts. That is the Pan-American conference on December 3. Before the delegates will be important evidence of principles.

Here is part of it:

1. The United States and other nations of the hemisphere are exchanging educators and students in a scheme to increase the cultural ties between nations of different language and background.

2. United States radio chains are now broadcasting special programs for South America.

3. The United States is conducting negotiations with Mexico in the important oil dispute without intemperate ultimatums or force, despite the great sums of money and property involved. To many Latin Americans, that's proof of our sincerity, the experts agree.

4. Of the $6,700,000,000 invested abroad by citizens of the United States, some $5,500,000,000—or three-fourths—is being risked in Canada, Newfoundland and the Latin nations below the Rio Grande.

5. Intra-American trade is on the upgrade, and Europe's trade with the Latin American nations is going down steadily. Canada and the United States sell each other well over $300,000,000 worth of goods each year. We are shipping close to $600,000,000 worth of our products to Central and South America each year and the countries to the south are sending us nearly $700,000,000 worth of theirs.

To strengthen those elements of friendship, the United States is offering new fast passenger and cargo service to South America, and runs a complete air service around South America.

To safeguard those elements, there is the United States navy. That's why South American nations don't seem to mind when the President of the United States talks armaments. That's why they too are talking armaments.

It's one way of taking out insurance.

Softball Becoming More Like Baseball

DETROIT, Oct. 25 (AP)—Softball, the game that has grown to be the pastime of thousands, continues to alter its rules to make them more like the code of its big brother—baseball.

Clarence E. Brewer of Detroit, chairman of the joint rules committee of the Amateur Softball Association, has announced that the only major change for 1939 will permit the scoring of runs on a wild pitch, passed ball or throwback from the catcher to the pitcher. In the past runners have been forced to stay on third base on wild pitches, passed balls or throwbacks, although they could go from first to second or from second to third when these plays developed.

Brewer says the latest move to make softball's rules similar to those of baseball was needed to help the offense.

In 1937 the sacrifice was voted into the softball rules.

Cardinal at Eucharistic Congress

With majestic rites in the ancient Cathedral of St. Louis, New Orleans, George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago was invested as Papal Legate at the Eighth National Eucharistic Congress of the Catholic Church. Messages stressing racial and religious tolerance were conveyed from the Pope and President Roosevelt. The cardinal is pictured above, enthroned and surrounded by his entourage in the ornate suite, presiding at the Congress' opening session.

Golden Bowl in the Pacific-Plaza Hotel. The early crowd of swing fans was just drifting in. Tait had no need to refer to the crumpled photo in his pocket. His mind's eye, through long practice, was his camera's eye. In the photograph, that wisp of smoke had been just in front of a palm which flanked the band's platform. Unerringly Tait found the spot, and found, too, the position from which the picture had been taken. He saw that the smoke had been at a point not more than two tables away from the one at which he had sat with Myrna and Anne and Harris Rogers. But his memory did not tell him the appearance of the occupants of that neighboring table.

He signaled to one of the Golden Bowl's head waiters and the man hurried forward smiling. "Good evening, Mr. Tait. You're early." "Yes, I'll sit right here if it's not reserved, Fred." "There is no reservation until 9 o'clock, Mr. Tait." "Do you suppose, Fred, you could find out who occupied that table over there on the night Lud Dombey was killed?" The waiter looked disturbed. Tait could see that there had been instructions from the management that the murder of Dombey was not to be discussed, and Tait's question had come as a sort of shock. "Table 24? Perhaps I can, Mr. Tait. Of course, sometimes there are no reservations. The tables are simply occupied early and the party stays through until we close. Then often the table will be reserved under one name for a number of people. Occasionally," Fred smiled diplomatically, "occasionally the name will be a fictitious one."

"I understand." Tait waited, listening idly to The Swingsters. There was no question about it, the band was as good as always. "Torchy" Stephens was all right. Perhaps he did not have quite the glamor of Lud Dombey—but that would come later, after "Torchy" was surer of himself. At any rate, the jitterbugs who were here tonight seemed to be enjoying themselves quite as much as though Lud Dombey were up there waving the katon or piping into his clarinet. Tait turned from the band and saw Fred weaving his way toward him. "I'll have to disappoint you, Mr. Tait. There was no reservation on that night for Table 24."

Winter Cover Saves Soil, Says County Agent

Protecting our sandy land against blowing and washing in the winter and spring by the use of a cover crop is one of the greatest forward steps our Eastland county farmers can take in soil saving, is the belief of County Agent Cook who is pointing out several individuals in the county who have either been using this practice for years or who plan to start it now. Some are planning to protect the land and at the same time add badly needed humus to the soil by growing grasses such as Italian rye grass and Abruzzi rye and turning them under in the spring in time to prepare the land for planting.

Others are planning to go still farther in soil building by planting legumes such as hairy vetch, southern giant bur clover, and Austrian winter peas which when turned under not only add humus to the soil but also enrich the nitrogen content of the soil by sustaining on their roots bacteria which take nitrogen from the air and add it to the soil.

Can Be Broadcast

Regardless of whether grasses or legumes are planted it is necessary to have a fairly firm, well prepared seed bed ready to plant just as soon as it rains, is the advice of Cook. Italian rye grass can be broadcast on land where peanuts have been harvested without any further preparation and a light harrowing used to cover the seed shallow. Abruzzi rye can be drilled or the same method used as for the Italian rye. Twenty to 30 pounds of either seed per acre is sufficient. A small acreage of the grasses should be harvested when the seed mature for a seed supply for another year. The remainder should be turned under green to improve the land.

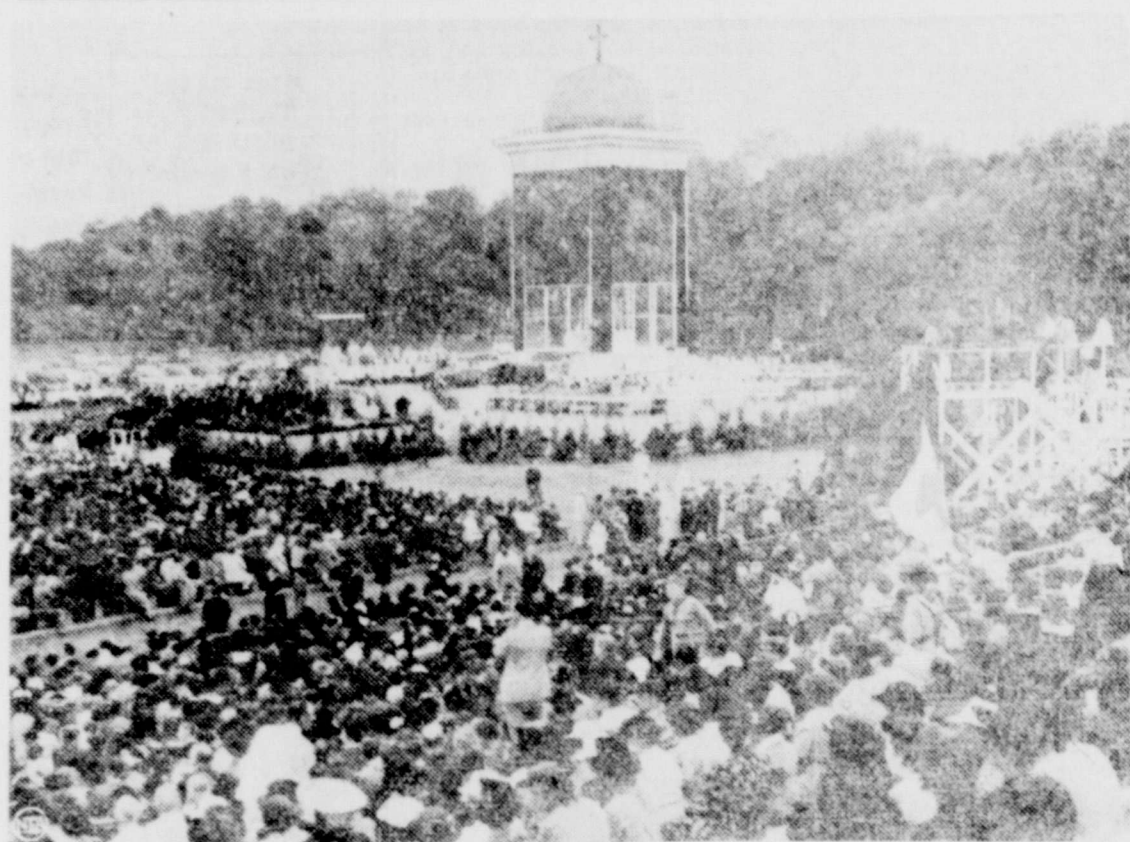

Winter legumes such as hairy winter vetch, southern giant bur clover, and Austrian winter peas should be fertilized with superphosphates fertilizer, at least 100 pounds per acre as they will not make satisfactory growth otherwise on sandy soil that has been cropped very long. When they are turned under in the spring the phosphoric acid as well as the nitrogen are returned to the soil and there is no fertilizer lost. This system just amounts to adding five phosphorus several months ahead of the cash crop (usually peanuts) and getting back both phosphorus and nitrogen plant food.

Pass to Inoculate

Unless seeds are to be saved, plant about 20 pounds of vetch seed per acre mixed with rye or other small grain. It pays to inoculate the seed at planting time. The cost of the inoculant is about 25 cents per bushel of seed.

Southern giant bur clover is recommended for Eastland county because the seed cost is less than other legumes per acre seeded, the seed can be saved and at the same time the plant growth can be turned under, and it will reward itself if given a reasonable opportunity. The seed, in the bur, should be mixed with as much well rotted barnyard manure as is available and scattered by hand in the shallow furrow left where peanuts are plowed up. If the middles are furrowed just before the seed matures the ripe burs will roll into the furrow where they can be swept into piles and saved. There will even then be enough seed left to reseed the land. Southern giant

Pope Pius broadcast a blessing in Latin to the worshippers, who stood with bowed heads in a steady rain.

U. S. Building Greatest Navy to Keep Right Behind the British

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

AP Features Service Writer WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Navy day will find Uncle Sam welding new links into the nation's "first line of defense"—on the sea, under it and in the air.

Speeding expansion of the navy to keep pace with that of Great Britain—long the No. 1 sea force—the government is building:

Six new super-dreadnaughts mightier than any battleships that have ever put out to sea.

Two large airplane carriers and an undisclosed number of the biggest bombing planes ever built.

Thirty-seven destroyers, 16 submarines and seven cruisers of the most modern type.

Besides these 68 warships, congress has authorized but not yet provided funds for three additional battleships, 55 destroyers, 18 submarines and eight cruisers.

The 133 new ships, combined with 349 already in service, would bring the total to 502—a new high in United States naval strength. A navy air force of 1,800 planes, already rated the world's finest, is to be increased to 3,000 planes.

Each of the nine new battleships will be armed with nine 16-inch guns, which can hurl tremendously destructive shells 20 miles, as well as smaller guns and anti-aircraft artillery. These "bulldozers" of the fleet will cost about $70,000,000 apiece.

Our main naval objective is to keep the battle fleets a close second in size to those of Great Britain, which must protect far flung lines of empire communication. Japan does not now exchange naval statistics but she is rated a strong third in sea power.

The battleship lineup of the three powers is: Britain, 15; United States, 15 and Japan 10. The British are building 7 compared with 6 building here and three others approved. The Japanese are believed to be constructing a few battleships.

The British top the list in under-age cruisers with 40 to our 30 and Japan's 26. In modern destroyers, the count is 91 for Japan; 89 for Britain and 50 for the United States. The Japanese lead in under-age submarines with 41 to 40 for Britain and 28 for this country.

Under naval treaty limitations, a ship which is over-age is theoretically obsolete. It may, however, be quite serviceable.

This year congress appropriated $600,000,000 for naval construction, and it is now expected the annual naval budget may run around three-quarters of a billion dollars for some years to come.

Virginia Youth Is 'Star Farmer'

With the title goes a $500 prize and designation as a peer of the 171,000 Future Farmers of America.

Orders Arrests in WPA 'Graft'

Arrest of 13 persons, many prominent in New Mexico politics and government, was ordered by U. S. Circuit Judge Clegg Newell, above, of Santa Fe following grand jury indictments on charges of diversion of WPA funds and labor, and conspiracy to violate the WPA appropriations code. Judge Newell's comment: "It was common knowledge that graft had been going on for some time."

People Are Warned Of Fire By Airplane

SANTEE Calif., Oct. 25 (AP)—While G. W. Wills slept, a rubbish fire spread to the turkey brooder of his ranch and threatened other property.

Naval aviators sighted it, and dived low with motors roaring. Neighbors rushed out to see the air show also sighted the fire, and rushed to put it out.

What Am I Offered? Goin', Goin', Dog Gone

Six hundred dogs met their day at the annual revival of the historic Dog Mart in Fredericksburg, Va.—only a spectator was the Great Dane, Eric von Ludenboff, shown left with Shirley Anne Clark at Fredericksburg. Eric was brought from Washington by owner George A. Coulton to watch the sale of lesser breeds. The collie pup at right brought $10 through efforts of Auctioneer Horton Mason (in silk topper) and auction chairman C. M. Cowan. The Mart was started in 1708 as a means of extracting gold and other valuables from Indians in exchange for furs. It was revived in 1927.

Good growths of hairy vetch were reported last year by Edgar C. Ward, Ranger, George Bennett, Gorman, Cecil Shultz, Rising Star, and J. D. Inabnet, Pioneer. Inabnet's only complaint was that range hogs ate his vetch as fast as it grew.

bur clover matures early enough to be turned under before spring planting time.

Austrian winter peas have not proved as successful in Eastland county as was expected probably because the land was not fertilized and the seed were not always inoculated. They should be planted in much the same manner as summer cowpeas except at least twice as many pounds per acre should be planted.

W. B. Starr of Dan Hora community has been protecting sandy land subject to blowing for several years by planting rye just after harvesting peanuts.

Dallas Jobe of Gorman protected about 40 acres of orchard last year by planting a mixture of vetch and small grain. He harvested sufficient seed from the mixture to sow most of the 100 acres he plans to protect this winter and next spring.

Some of those in Eastland county who will plant winter cover crops this year, using vetch, Italian rye, Abruzzi rye, southern giant bur clover, or a mixture of these are Starr, Jobe, Ward, Shultz, Inabnet, and A. A. Hyatt, Gorman; J. B. Eberhart, Rising Star; L. L. Whitfield, Gorman; J. B. Elder, Cisco; E. N. Strickland, Cisco, and J. O. Jackson, Gorman.

Baby Trout Are To Take Parachute Jump

BILLINGS, Mont., Oct. 25 (AP)—As an experiment a few baby trout soon are to take a parachute ride from an airplane into a lake to determine whether they can survive.

If successful, the parachute jumps will become a routine method of getting the small fish from hatcheries into lakes that are difficult to reach by horse trail.

The small fish will be dropped in parchment vessels that will hold water.

When the vessels strike the water they are expected to capsize and the fish will be liberated in the lake.

Calls Off 'Wake': Friends Are Dead

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Oct. 25 (AP)—George Wright, 70-year-old bachelor attorney, has called off plans he made for his wake because he is still very much alive and the friends he invited ten years ago are either dead or living in other parts of the country.

Wright took out "wake" insurance maturing Oct. 31, 1923. J. C. Hansen, the trustee, died recently. "Instead of my old friends making merry at my wake," said Wright, "I have attended the funerals of all but a few of them."

Urged Fight

Oct. 25.—Organized home state of right Patman, has other state federations oppose the Patman bill and all forms of taxation which turn the taxing power of the state into a weapon for the destruction of worthy enterprises for the benefit of business rivals, to the detriment of wage earners and consumers." It then called on other state federations to oppose the measure proposed in congress by the Texarkanan.

Earlier the Texas Allied Printing Trades council resolved opposition to the Patman tax proposal. Members asserted in their resolution that "they believed that any form of legislation that seeks to put out of existence or hamper the chain store system of distribution in Texas and the United States is harmful to the best interests of the great mass of working men and Thus did Louisville's Chief Joseph Stuart, seated among a battery of bell boxes, answer incoming bookies' calls when he raised and stopped operations at the Cumberland News Service, which supplied information for 609 Louisville makers. Acting in a reform drive, Stuart forced officials of the service to turn over the keys to their office and then made arrangements with the telephone company to curtail phone service.

There is a bit of sentiment attached to the living room of Paul Wakefield's picturesque Old World cottage on a hill above the Colorado at Austin. (As these lines are written, by the way, Major Wakefield is recovering in a Fort Worth hospital after undergoing an operation for appendicitis.)

Wakefield— noted newspaperman and publicist—had been under fire for two weeks during the World war and when he and his men were relieved and given a respite in the peaceful surroundings of a French village, quarters were assigned him in one of the larger cottages. After days and nights of mud, dugouts, barbed-wire and shell-life, Wakefield entered the living room. High above him were rafters; big, comfortable chairs were about; a table was covered with immaculate linen and with beautiful chinaware and gleaming silver; and, in the big, old-fashioned fireplace, a fire was blazing.

And so, when he was planning his own cottage in Austin, Wakefield reproduced—as nearly as memory would permit—the house

How to Ease CHEST COLD MISERY

FIRST—massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. This relieves the distress.

THEN—to make its long-continued action last even longer, spread a thick layer of VapoRub on the chest and cover with a warm cloth.

LONG AFTER sleep comes, VapoRub keeps working—loosens phlegm—eases muscular soreness or tightness—clears air-passages—eases coughing—relieves local congestion.

Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

50 'Best Citizens' To Be Under No Rules

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Oct. 25 (AP)—The Florida State College for Women is picking out its 50 "best citizens" in the senior class and giving the girls complete personal freedom—there will be no campus rules for them.

A committee of students and faculty is making the selections with scholastic rating, health and campus record as guides. The consent of a girl's parents or guardian is to be obtained before she is awarded the privilege.

Dean Olivia Dorman, originator of the plan, says its purpose is to "give these students an opportunity to prove themselves capable of accepting the responsibilities which accompany increased freedom."

J. D. Hediek, long in the service of the state at Austin, has many picturesque expressions. He described a skinny fellow: "His Adam's apple has an eight-inch plunge."

In Eastland a lone placard from last summer's campaign is still on an electric light pole which was used by a mob 10 years ago in lynching the Santa Claus bank bandit.

One of my favorite stories (and it happens to be true):

In early days in the Mansker Lake community, near Hogtown, in Eastland county, an old justice of the peace tried a man for carrying a pistol and sentenced him to three years in the state penitentiary. The constable set out in a buggy with his prisoner. As they were eating lunch in Stephenville, a lawyer asked the officer: "What are you taking him to Huntsville for?"

"Three years." "I mean for what offense?" the lawyer persisted. "For carrying a pistol." "Good heavens!" the attorney exclaimed. "That's only a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine and, at most, a jail sentence. If he was accused of something that would subject him to prison, he would have to be tried before a district judge in Eastland; your justice of the peace doesn't have jurisdiction in a felony."

So the constable returned to Mansker Lake, released the man, and reported to the old squire: "That lawyer said you didn't have jurisdiction."

"Jurisdiction, h—! It happened right here in my precinct, didn't it?" the old justice snorted. "I'm going to resign."

And there is no telling what sort of a relief or recovery scheme will be adopted next. Who cares to risk investments, to buy homes or any other property in such a state of doubt and uncertainty?

There is plenty of money in this country to finance cotton growers—if there is sound economic reason for growing cotton. If there isn't such a sound reason, no amount of government financing is going to help the situation. Senator Smith might give some thought to the reasons for the cotton depression and attempt to devise means of removing the cause, rather than, as it appears, hastening more growers into bankruptcy and sending millions of good money after bad with any "shot in the arm" program.

Traffic Death Toll Up to 126 In September

AUSTIN, Oct. 25.—With the September traffic death toll up to 126, state patrol statisticians pointed to several causes of most of the traffic tragedies.

Of the 1,173 collisions reported last month, 148 occurred because drivers did not observe right-of-way regulations which permits vehicles approaching intersections from the right to pass first, provided intersections are not locally controlled.

The drinking driver was held responsible for 129 accidents while 122 others were caused by vehicles traveling too close to centers of highways and streets. Seventy-seven were brought about by fast driving and 50 because of improper passing of other vehicles.

Police found, they said, a partial answer to solving the terrific carnage problem on Texas highways by a strict enforcement against violations that are responsible for most crashes. Results of the enforcement program were favorable as there has been an 18 per cent reduction in Texas traffic deaths this year as compared with 1937. The September death list contained 63 less names than the previous September. Six of the 126 dead had been injured in August smash-ups, reports revealed.

While traffic officers campaigned against excess speeds through the year there were 12 deaths last month attributed to vehicles speeding out of control and into

If You're Called To A Funeral Don't Refuse

By JOAN DURHAM

AP Feature Service Writer
Funerals are occasions for which you should not refuse your services if they are requested. Those are times when the people involved stand in greater need of the help of friends.

Sending flowers, of course, is the most usual method of expressing sympathy.

Sending Flowers

Ordinarily the envelope that accompanies the flowers is marked: "For the family of (name of the deceased)." The card inside is inscribed "With deepest sympathy" and signed by the sender—if his or her own engraved card is not used.

If the deceased had no close relatives the envelope may be inscribed: "For the funeral of (name of the deceased)." The same sympathy card may be enclosed.

Usually, flowers are delivered by the florist to the home of the bereaved family a day ahead of the funeral. Most Protestant churches allow floral offerings to be taken to the church, but Catholic and Jewish services are ordinarily devoid of offerings sent by friends. Consequently, if you're in doubt, ask your florist to get in touch with the family or those in charge of the funeral to find out where and when the flowers should be sent.

Men friends of the deceased may be asked to serve as pallbearers.

Pallbearer's Dress
Where the funeral is elaborate, the proper apparel for a pallbearer is the cutaway coat and striped trousers. The usual costume is a conservative, dark suit.

The bearer should be at the place where the services are to be held at least half an hour ahead of time. His duties may be merely honorary—in which case he accompanies the coffin to and from the hearse while undertakers' assistants carry it. He may, however, help carry the coffin.

He should be as helpful as possible in every way. If he owns an automobile, for instance, he may offer its use for the funeral procession. He also may do small errands for members of the family.

Women friends of the deceased may take over preparation and serving of meals during the period of bereavement, help in assembling wardrobes for the funeral, and help list and arrange the flowers and write thank-you notes for them.

Lightweight picture hats for women and conventional styles for men are made from the net-like fibre found at the base of South Florida coconut trees.
