GERMAN MOBS WREAK REVENGE ON JEWS

PARIS SLAYING OF DIPLOMAT INCITES NAZIS

Shops, Synagogues Are Wrecked; 21 Suicides Are Reported

(Associated Press)

Angry demonstrations took revenge on Jews in Germany today for the slaying of a German diplomat in Paris by a young Polish Jew.

Crowds in Berlin charged a police guard, plundered and shattered Jewish shops. Seven of Berlin's 20 synagogues were set on fire, and others were burned or wrecked in Munich, Dresden, Vienna, Cologne and Hamburg.

All of Vienna's 21 synagogues were damaged or destroyed, and Vienna Jews said that 22 of their number had committed suicide in the face of Nazi fury.

German Propaganda Minister Goebbels issued a brief appeal to the populace to desist from its demonstrations. He said the indignation over the death of the diplomat, Von Rath, was "justifiable and understandable."

Meanwhile the Italian cabinet approved the sweeping decrees against the Jews.

WHO WON IT? Post-War Treaties Crumble As Dictators Build Empires

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Twenty years ago tomorrow the world "celebrated" the end of a war that cost at least seven and one-half million lives and close to two hundred billion dollars.

For what?

Events during the double decade of post-war years cast a deep shadow of doubt over the idea that the war was a triumph for democracy. Certainly no absolute ruler ever imposed a more undemocratic peace on vanquished peoples. And out of the war settlements have sprung the ideas of such dictators as Mussolini and Hitler.

Moreover, historians seem heading toward the conclusion that the chain of post-war treaties may yet prove to be the prize mistakes of civilized society. They have bred the seeds of more wars, or threats of war, such as the Czechoslovak scare of September.

The most important peace document was the treaty of Versailles. Before and for a while after that dictated peace was signed, the war looked like a victory for the Allies and their democratic form of government. But today you can choose your side in the debate, "Who won the war?" and likely be no more than half right.

Here is a quick outline of the penalties imposed on the defeated nations, and what has happened to those penalties in 20 swift years:

After War:

Germany lost Alsace - Lorraine, the Polish corridor, the ports of Memel and Danzig, and smaller strips of territory. Other pre-war holdings, such as the Saar coal basin, were withheld, with provisions for plebiscites. Allied nations took over Germany's far flung colonies in Africa, Shanghai and Pacific islands.

Austria was cut from Hungary and her borders redrawn; she was forbidden to become a link in the German empire again.

The Austro-Hungarian empire was torn up to create Czechoslovakia and to swell the size of the other war-born state, Yugoslavia, and of Rumania. These three states, supposed to help form an iron ring around Germany, were known as "the Little Entente."

Chunks of Russia and Germany were sliced away to create Poland—another buffer against Germany.

Turkey lost her Near East empire, which became several states under mandates of France, Britain, and Greece.

Territorial

And Now:

Alsace - Lorraine and the Polish corridor are the only penalties Germany is willing to consider permanent. The Saar voted to return to Germany in 1935. Nazis dominate Danzig; German power is felt in Memel. Germany has just announced her intention of winning back her million and a quarter square miles of colonial empire.

Hitler swept aside treaty restrictions and marched into Vienna this year, proclaiming Austria as a part of Germany.

As the result of diplomatic maneuvers that led almost to war, Germany this year took over the richest sections of Czechoslovakia, and Hungary has just taken a big slice. The Little Entente was smashed. France lost prestige and power, and German dominance of central Europe seems assured.

Poland is a strong nation, but not a German buffer. Hitler got her friendship for a 10-year guarantee not to grab land.

Turkey has won back Smyrna and European territory from Greece. Jewish - Arab trouble disturbs British in Palestine mandate.

Military

Germany and some of her allies were disarmed by the Versailles treaty at the demand of the French. A large strip of the Rhineland was demilitarized. Germany's army was limited to a "police force" of 100,000 men. Her navy and air force were wrecked.

Financial

The Allies, determined to make Germany bear part of their war costs, billed Germany in 1920 for 34 billion dollars.

Less than 10 years later, the Allies say five billions.

But that's not the whole picture of the world war. Two important victors in the World War believed the treaty of Versailles cheated them of their share of the fruits of victory and therefore have caused almost as much furor as Hitler himself.

Italy knocked off Ethiopia without so much as a by-your-leave, and joined up with Germany in the Rome-Berlin axis. That just about ended the League of Nations as a commanding voice in world affairs. In 1931, Japan swept all treaties aside, and began the conquest of China that is now well nigh complete. Like Rome, she has joined up with a former foe, Germany, in an anti-communist pact.

That's the general picture. Any wonder people aren't so sure who won the war as they were 20 years ago?

CISCO STORES TO BE CLOSED ON ARMISTICE

Football Game at Ranger Is Main Event of Holiday

Cisco business for the most part will take holiday tomorrow, observing the 20th anniversary of the armistice which ended the World war in a manner customary.

Chief event of general interest to Ciscoans will be the annual Armistice day battle between the Cisco Lobo football team and the football team of Ranger high school. The game will be played at Ranger beginning at 2 o'clock. The Lobos, undefeated and tied only by the Graham high school eleven, will be seeking a victory to prepare the way for a game with the Breckenridge Buckaroos which will probably determine the championship of the eastern sector of the Oil Belt district.

The post office here will be closed for the day, only box mail being distributed and dispatches made. There will be no rural or city delivery and no window service.

The Lobo band will have its share of activity, going first to Eastland where it will take part in an Armistice day celebration sponsored by the Eastland American Legion. The members will be guests of Eastland at noon.

From Eastland the band will go to Ranger for the Ranger-Cisco ball game.

Although Ranger has been defeated and has no chance to win the eastern division title, such interest centers on the prospect of a Bulldog victory over the Lobos, longtime bitter rivals, that one of the biggest crowds of the season is expected to witness the clash. Coaches Petty and Garrett have their squad in good shape for the game. It will be practically at full strength for the first time in several weeks. Similarly, the Ranger team is in good condition.

Cisco Ex-Service Men to Join in Eastland Service

Armistice Theme for Grammar P.-T. A. Program

The Armistice day theme was employed in the program for the Cisco grammar school Parent-Teacher association meeting at the school Wednesday afternoon at 3:30. With exception of an address on "The American School" by Supt. R. N. Cluck, the program was presented by students, as follows:

1. A medley of World war songs by the grammar school chorus club;
2. Armistice Day Prayer, by Billie Jean Cleere;
3. Reading, "In Flanders Field," by Patty Jean Boyd. The reading was illustrated with chalk drawings by Virgil McCorkle.

At the business session $35 was appropriated for the purchase of books for the school library. Rooms taught by Mrs. Bruce Campbell and Miss Lela Latched tied for the attendance prize of $1.

It was voted to dedicate the next meeting of the association to the fathers and to hold it at night in order that the men could attend.

Founder of Modern Turkey Dies After Long Illness

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 10 (AP)—President Kamal Ataturk, founder of modern Turkey, died today at the age of 58, following a long illness. Death had been expected for twenty-four hours after his relapse. He suffered from a liver complaint, and was previously thought to be dying October 17.

Abdul Halik Renda, president of the national assembly, automatically assumed the presidency pending the election of Ataturk's successor.

Ataturk, once known as Mustafa Kemal, was elected the first president of Turkey in 1923.

Cisco Post Backs Garrett in Fight

The Cisco post of the American Legion announced today that it will cooperate with Congressman Clyde Garrett in his effort to continue the operation of the Texas State Employment service. The following telegram was sent A. J. Altmeyer, chairman of the Social Security board, Washington, D. C., by Commander Langston:

"We vigorously oppose the proposed reduction in funds for operation of Texas State Employment service. Its function as veteran placement bureau in state for veterans has been of inestimable value. Its work as an employment service should be continued in full force in all sections now served."

It was pointed out that continuance of this office is of importance not only to the veterans but to all who are entitled to social security, and the Cisco post of the American Legion was one of the first to join Congressman Garrett in his fight.

Local Legion to Have Charge of Memorial

Members of the American Legion post of Cisco will celebrate Armistice day in Eastland tomorrow, it was announced today. All ex-service men were asked to meet at the city hall in Eastland and take part in the parade which will start promptly at 10:30 a. m. The Cisco and Eastland school bands will furnish the music. The ex-service men, the firing squad, buglers and color bearers, etc., will march to the square where a

Pep Rally Will Spur Grid Spirit for Game Friday

The Cisco Lobos were a sober group of youngsters today in the midst of a student body alive with a degree of "pep" not reached in several years.

A rousing pep rally was held at the high school chapel this morning with students and faculty members taking part. The team, realizing the importance of its game with Ranger tomorrow on the district standing and certain of the supreme effort that Ranger will make to defeat them, took the enthusiasm of the other students soberly.

This evening at 6:30 a city-wide rally will be held in front of the city hall. The Lobo band, without uniforms, will assemble at the high school and march to the scene of the rally at 8:15.

Rotarians Recall Armistice Events

Recollections of Armistice day, 1918, when the World war ended, occupied the interest of the Cisco Rotary club today noon. Each of the members and three visitors present recalled where he was and what he did on the day that the news of the war's end was received.

Visitors were Jim Horton of Eastland and E. S. Cummings and C. R. Pennington of Abilene.

play on northern teams with the white boys, which would not be good for the south. The western squad has two members, one of whom made headlines that beat the state. One of us asked Jim how he had any white hair in his veins.

Jim said, "but I don't have any yellow." He says he had never seen a negro who played college football and was not in all American men. A hero in Iowa, young returned to Fort Worth to give public notice until he had his Harlem home and local celebration took place.

Although our Jim Crow laws in the south and separate colored children in the schools, some of the closest companions of southern boyhood were between white boy and colored boy and some of the most affectionate family life relationships have grown between mammy and white people between master and servant.

I hope that the Cisco Lobo this year is one of the groups of boys who have won the Lobo colors, a hard handicap to fight. We've come up winners. It's a thrill to see them come to the field to start a game. I'm mighty proud of them.

SERIAL STORY LOVERS AWEIGH

BY BETTY WALLACE
COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JUDY ALCOTT—admiral's daughter. She faced a choice between two navy suitors.
DWIGHT CAMPBELL—ambitious lieutenant. He faced a choice between his wife and duty.
JACK HANLEY—flying sailor. He faced a test of a patient love.
MARVEL HASTINGS—navy wife. She faced the test of being a good sailor.

Yesterday: Judy tells Diane of her troubles, reflects that she would have had a house and a baby, too, had not Word Fenning been killed in action.

CHAPTER IV

Saturday morning Judy Alcott awoke with a heavy sense of something unpleasant impending. And then she remembered. Today was the day she was going with Dwight to meet his fiancée.

She dressed carefully, in her best silk sport dress. It was trim, smart, and had been reduced at a wank Los Angeles shop. She smiled grimly. Diane was always the one who sang, "Sail, Navy, down the field—sail under way."

Marvel Hastings wouldn't be wearing anything marked down.

Dwight came for her at a quarter of ten. He was radiant, and his gladness was an added affront. But she tried hard to act glad, too. Only, sitting beside him on the way to Lindbergh Field, she couldn't help remembering their dates, the way they had kissed. She had no business to feel this way about a man who was going to marry somebody else. But she kept right on feeling that way.

Lindbergh Field, one of the largest in the country, had once been an experimental navy field, she remembered. She looked at the administration buildings, at the wide expanse of landing area, and at the three huge airliners lined up behind the wire fence.

Diane was always saying she wished Bill had a nice, safe transport job. But it wasn't really safe, either, Judy knew. A man in pilot's grey came out of one of the ships. Judy wondered if his wife, too, worried when he was away. Diane made light of it, but Judy knew how the dark night hours tormented her when the fleet was away at sea.

With Dwight, an engineering officer on a battleship, Marvel would never have to worry. Judy noted herself for the way her eyes clung to him. She didn't want to see his lean, graceful height, she didn't want to see the way his eyes were alight with happiness. If that smile were for her—but it wasn't. "Steady, Judy," she said to herself.

At ten thirty the great silver ship came out of the sky and circled for a landing. They watched it, powerful, swift, beautiful beyond description. And then it was taxiing to the apron, and almost as soon as the propellers stopped whirling, the cabin door was flung open and on the steps the porter had rolled up, a girl was standing.

She would be the first one out, Judy thought.

She had red hair, this vision in the cabin door. A trim tailored suit, a magnificent silver fox, and a little hat of engaging, knowing linen luggage so everything would be light.

"It must have been what you put into the bags," Judy said.

"Goodness, just nothing! There are some trunks coming by express."

Judy thought of her one evening gown, which she wore over and over. Marvel probably had ten.

"I've decided I want to stay at a hotel until—until—" Marvel said, when they were in the car. They were squeezed very tightly. Dwight under the wheel and Marvel next to him, and Judy jammed against the door handle.

And then Dwight was bringing Marvel toward her. His hand was under her elbow. He was acting as though she were spun glass, and precious beyond price.

"Darling, this is Judy Alcott. You know I wrote you about her. Her father's Admiral Alcott. Judy, this is Marvel." He added in a burst of happiness, "I hope you two are going to like each other. I know you will!"

But Marvel's slit green eyes were resting on Judy appraisingly, and Judy was suddenly glad she'd worn the "silk" dress and her new shoes. Marvel took in the smoothly brushed, blond hair, the hollow shaped face, the blue eyes with their staining fringe of lashes.

"Oh, Dwight, I didn't know she was blond or I'd never have trusted you," she laughed.

Dwight laughed, too. Judy could only smile.

"They were so silly about baggage!" Marvel said, as Dwight went into the building to get her things. "They charged me for overweight and I got the newest

"If you only knew some Navy people, you could be visiting them for the few days—" Dwight ventured.

"Few days?" Marvel laughed. "I've got so much to do! Clothes and all. And won't there be parties for the bride? And there are some people I'm asking to the wedding in Los Angeles, and I promised I'd stay a week before I get married."

Dwight looked somewhat dashed. Judy tried not to be glad. What difference did it make—right away, or in a few weeks—he was hers, and not Judy's.

She said to Marvel, before Dwight dropped her at the house, "You must meet my mother and Dad, Miss Hastings. And all the Navy family, too. Do come tonight. I'll ask a few people."

"Yes," said Dwight eagerly. "I want you to meet everybody, honey. You know, we'll be living among them, and there's nothing like getting off on the right foot."

Judy felt again that unwilling dislike for Dwight's calculating strategy.

"But don't you want me all to yourself tonight?" pouted Marvel.

"You know I do! But honey, I want everybody to see you. You'll bowl 'em over."

Marvel would be at the Coronado. The most exclusive—and expensive—hotel in town. It was a good place for Dwight's girl, Judy thought. All the highest ranking naval officials stayed there, and Navy parties frequently were held in its huge Gold Room.

She explained to her mother, who went to the phone and asked Mrs. Lane, Mrs. Rowland and Mrs. Dunn at once. Judy herself telephoned Jack Hanley and two young lieutenants who worked in her father's office. She called Diane, but Diane said regretfully, "Sorry! Bill's off on duty. I can't make it."

A few minutes later the phone pealed. It was Mrs. Lane. "The ship's going out, some sudden orders. Nobody will be able to come, Mrs. Alcott."

"This is Judy," said Judy. "I'll tell mother. We didn't know."

She had a vision of Dwight being ordered to sea while Marvel waited for him to call for her at the Coronado.

Sure enough, he called a few minutes later. "I guess you've heard. I've got to go. Listen, Judy, Marvel doesn't understand. She thinks I can give an excuse and not go. Will you please go down to the hotel for me and explain to her? I only talked to her a few minutes. We're shoving off."

Judy's insides felt cold. She didn't want to explain to Dwight's future wife that the Navy came first, that he simply had to obey the call of duty. Any girl in her senses would understand that without any explanations! She remembered the other girl's cool self-confidence, her look of accustomed arrogance.

Dwight was begging her desperately. "Please, Judy, I hated to hang up on her, but I just knew if I asked you, you'd rush over and explain to her."

"All right," said Judy. And to herself she said, "You fool!" (To Be Continued)

Ask Doctor About This Ideal Way TO LOSE FAT
READ EVERY WORD!

Make up your mind now that you'll lose some of that ugly fat and really enjoy life.

No one can blame you if you don't want to take harmful drugs, go on starvation diets and do backbreaking exercises. No sane woman would! And for sensible women like yourself who really want to reduce yet don't expect miracles overnight—who are willing to faithfully follow a most simple, inexpensive and pleasant 28 day plan (women considerably overweight naturally require longer periods), we suggest this easy plan.

First of all go light on fatty foods and sweets. Eat plentifully of lean meats, fresh fruits and vegetables. And for proper functioning be sure to take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in hot water every morning. And let's get this straight right now about Kruschen.

It is not harmful. It is NOT just one salt as some people may ignorantly believe. Look on the box! You'll see it is a blend of active mineral salts, when dissolved in water is similar to the famous medicinal waters of European spas where wealthy fat people have gone for years.

A jar of Kruschen costs but a few cents and makes 5 gallons of marvelous mineral health water. Get a jar RIGHT AWAY! At druggists everywhere.

Nearest rage! Light, supple, it stretches, then fits in "form-fitting" curves...so smart right now! Just three of our newest in BLACK!

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Hold thy peace at the presence of the Lord God; for the day of the Lord is at hand.—Zeph. 1:7.

He is thy Lord, Oh, I am glad of this. So glad that Thou art Master, Sovereign King! So glad because it is such rest to know That Thou hast ordered and appointed all, And wilt yet order and appoint my lot; For though so much I cannot understand, And would not choose, as hee been, and yet may be, Thou choosest, and Thou rulest, Thou, my Lord, And this is grace, such grace!

Remember, there is always morning somewhere in the world.

We Are Still Democratic

The reassuring fact about Tuesday's election results is the demonstration that this country still has balance. The chief fault of the New Deal has been the overwhelming majority it enjoyed. Lack of effective opposition made it too theoretical, too overbearing, too irresponsible in the sense that it did not realize its responsibility to the minorities, to method as well as objective. It should be pointed out that the real reason for organized government is the protection of the rights of minorities, and the real test of the goodness of a government is how well minorities fare under its administration. Majorities can take care of themselves. The rule of the mob proves that.

ANY cause or organization which exists without opposition, or with ineffective opposition, is dangerous. It develops irrationality. It is just as impossible to take human nature out of the White House and the halls of congress as it is impossible to take it out of the school room and the business office. Conflict, for some strange reason, is essential to rectitude.

THE NEW DEAL has suffered loss of most of that which was finest in its program simply because it did not have effective opposition. The loss has been due to method. It is easy to recognize this fact by comparing its programs at the beginning of the administration with subsequent programs. The trend is unmistakable. The reason for the trend is also unmistakable. It was altogether too easy to put forward a program, too easy to switch from one thing to another. The quarterback had such slight opposition that it was not necessary for anybody else to run with the ball, hence not necessary for his team to learn any signals in advance.

WE believe that the last election has changed that to the great good of the administration, the democratic party and the New Deal. With working majorities retained in both houses of congress the administration is in a position to go forward constructively now, to cease experimenting and to seek the consolidation of the advances already made—in short to achieve its prime objectives. The public, and particularly business, which simply all of us, can predict the future with more certainty, invest with more confidence and prosecute whatever jobs are ours without the constant dread of what is to come next. No one man, no one party has any monopoly on good government. The republican party, as the chief minority party, can contribute something of value to our national recovery.

BUT, as we said above, the real significance of Tuesday's results is the demonstration that the American people are still capable of making a choice. We are still democratic.

The pathetic condition of Germany's military system now becomes apparent. They are down to their last red-haired spy.

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

Fireworks enter into the celebration of Armistice day, and one may hope with the idea that they are better expended upon peaceful celebration of the end of a war than upon the execution of another dreadful war. Colorful parades of doughboys and ex-soldiers may help remind us that these boys are here with home folk now and not far away on a terrible fighting front. Athletic contests and other amusements may help to lighten our minds of the serious affairs that often burden them. But all of these and other superficial activities together can hardly convey all of the meaning that Armistice day ought to have for us and for the world. One little practice that started with the first Armistice and continued for a few years was the call to a moment or two of silent prayer at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month, that significant moment when the world breathed its sigh of relief in 1918.

The condition of affairs in Europe and elsewhere and affecting the mood of the world today is partly a result of abnormal ambitions that are ready to sacrifice personal aggrandisement. It is partly a general feeling after some state of justice and advancement that the world does not have now. But we cannot get away from the fact that it has grown partly out of other superficial activities together can hardly convey all of the reprise and getting back to its own. Unless Armistice day is made to include a sentiment of goodwill to every race and nation and to put among its observances some definite way of spreading these better ideas of everywhere in the world, and including among its exercises a prayer for peaceful settlements instead of war, we may be repeating all too soon the terrible series of events that led to the establishment of the present Armistice celebration.

Miss Miller Local Homecoming Ch'm'n

FORT WORTH, Nov. 10—Miss Kathryn Miller of Cisco has been named a local chairman for the annual Homecoming of Texas Christian university Friday and Saturday, Nov. 11 and 12.

Class and group reunions, a general luncheon Saturday noon for all exes, the T. C. U. Texas football game that afternoon, and a dance at the Casino, Lake Worth, are the high points of the program announced by Howard Carroll, general homecoming chairman.

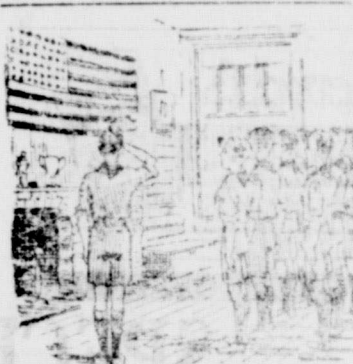

"Indications are that we will have the greatest crowd in the history of T. C. U. football homecomings," reports Roy G. Tomlinson of Fort Worth, state president of the Alumni and Ex-Students' association.

Miss Miller is one of 75 local chairmen appointed by President Tomlinson, to serve at various points throughout Texas in urging the T. C. U. exes to return to the campus for Homecoming.

Keeping Up With The Boy Scouts

Scouts of Breckenridge who will appear at a court of honor, Monday, Nov. 14th, came up to review the board of review last Monday, Nov. 7th. The scouts and scouters of Breckenridge are planning to make this the best court of honor of the year. Sea Scouts of Breckenridge presented a Navy day program at the Lions club meeting last Friday. An information booth on board ship at the Stephens County Products show was another recent project of these Sea Scouts. Plans are being completed by the Sea Scouts and ship officials to attend a bridge of honor, Nov. 12 in Fort Worth at which the new ship's sweetheart, Miss Tommylin Mutespaugh, will be honored.

Brownwood "Brownwood will have a general hospital. Physicians will be among members of the Brownwood Boy Scouts. Patients will be taken to the hospital by ambulance. Operating instruments will be loaned and saws. Operating tables will be work benches. Final repairs to Christmas morn will be little children. Yes, if you haven't already guessed it, members of all troops in Brownwood have taken over the work of repairing toys. Orville Bradley, Scoutmaster of Troop No. 2, is in charge of the undertaking, having the assistance of the other scoutmasters of the city. Members and officials of Troop No. 16, Brownwood, went on an overnight hike Friday evening. The Scouts of Troop No. 2 were afforded a good time Friday evening, when all members were sent on a scavenger hunt. A prize was awarded the Scout who was most successful in the hunt.

Boy Scouts of Ranger were successful in their work of operating "City Affairs" for one day recently. The boys were glad of the opportunity to have this experience, which will be very beneficial to them.

Members of Troop No. 34 with Scoutmaster C. L. Burns, are planning to go to Camp Lady Gibbons in the near future to help in cleaning up the campsite. Rubbish and debris of all kinds, carried there by flood waters this summer must be removed.

Scouts and friends of Scouting BOOST Boy's Life Week, Dec. 9-16. This is a magazine for all boys published by Boy Scouts of America. This is better reading for boys and an ideal Christmas gift. Stephenville The Stephenville Troop, scoutmastered by H. V. Collins, re-registered for the coming year recently. Since that time we have received several registrations for new Scouts, from Mr. Collins, which is a good sign of progress. Zephyr Officers of Troop No. 28, Zephyr, are working diligently to have a 400 per cent subscription list from their Troop for Boy's Life magazine.

Street Decoration Plans Under Way

The chamber of commerce board of directors meeting Tuesday night in a regular session delayed from a week ago, took up a number of business matters, among them the decoration of Cisco business streets for the holiday season. This matter was turned over to the retail trade committee, headed by Nick Miller, with authority to spend what funds are necessary to secure the decorations. Most of the equipment needed for the lights is on hand. Decorations are expected to be in place by the first of December.

About Our Friends

By STEP A. LONG

Grandpa Skipper Thomas came into the drug store this morning with K. H. Pittard where Rev. Judson Prince and his board of deacons, Jewel Poe, Floyd Shepard, Frank Walker and church were having our morning confab over a cup of coffee. Skipper tells the Baptist minister that we have no cause to blame him, since he warned the Baptist against Pittard. Said Pittard's church had gone rather cold on him for non-payment of dues and that he had noticed Pittard beginning to visit the Baptist church rather frequently. . . . and so he told the officials to be sure and collect dues in advance if we ever expected to get them from Pittard at all. . . . so now Grandpa says if the Baptists lose on K. H., they have no one to blame but themselves since he had given fair warning.

Bennie predicts the Lobos should by all odds lose the game against Ranger tomorrow. He talks so convincingly about it that we have gotten weak ourselves. . . . Ordinarily we are strong on what the Lobos can do if they try, but since reading the musings of Specs yesterday, it seems almost hopeless. Haven't seen Rames this week to give him our instructions as to how to kick, and neither have we encountered Warren, the Harrison, nor Tipton. . . . If we fail to contact them and so instruct them as to how to win the game, Bennie may be right about it.

Now we did so want to win this game. . . . Had our eyes set on Breckenridge and the district championship. . . . But that is the trouble, according to Bennie. He says we are overlooking Ranger, and the Bulldogs are likely to get a grip on the seat of the Lobos' pants. . . . figuratively speaking. . . . and throw us for a big loss. . . . Do hope you are wrong, Bennie. . . . but you have almost convinced us that our medicine is not strong enough. . . . If our Lobos can only get the spirit we know they can do it. . . . But that is the trouble, we are told. . . . We are unlikely to get the proper spirit. . . . But let's hope the Lobos will score in the first few minutes of play. . . . if they do, we are sure of victory. . . . but if we let the Bulldogs get the first blood, it may be too bad. . . . So Lobos, what are you

The Methodist Missions society met Monday afternoon at the church for the fourth session in the 6000s, "The American City and its Church." The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Charles Lee. Seven members responded to roll call by repeating a verse from the 10th Chapter of First Corinthians, the chapter on "Unity." The opening song was "I Need Thee Every Hour," followed by prayer by Mrs. O. D. McDonald. The scripture lesson was the 48th Psalm, read by Mrs. G. S. Bruce. The topic of the lesson chapter was "What the Churches do to the Churches." There was a general discussion of problems of city churches confronted with changing surroundings and changing people. Among the features of welfare work in which city churches engage, the day nurseries were mentioned and some of the members described the regular routine of such institutions. The work of the council of churches was discussed, and several nearby towns that have such organizations were mentioned and their plans of work were outlined. "Angelic Dictator," a playlet showing the difference between organizations doing worthwhile things and useless things, was sketched by the leader. Those present were Miss Mollie O'Rear, Mmes. G. S. Remember, Lobos, thousands of fans are going to be in the grand stand yelling themselves hoarse for victory. Hundreds of merchants will have closed their stores and shops to go down there and see you do your stuff. Clerks have taken off for the day. It is your day. You are the center of attraction for that period from 2 p. m. until the close of the game. You are the heroes or the disappointment. And keep this in mind. If you lose those worshippers of yours won't think you just couldn't do it. They will be saying "If they had done this or that or if they had just shown a little more pep at the beginning of the game. . . or if they had not quit in the middle of the game or the last quarter. . . Cong. Garrett III, Trip Is Cancelled

EASTLAND, Nov. 10 (Sp.) — Congressman Clyde L. Garrett of Eastland was in a Dallas hotel Tuesday under the care of a physician because of a neck infection which Saturday evening caused his removal from a train there while en route to Washington on business and cancellation of the trip.

Mrs. Garrett, who had just returned from her husband's bedside, said the official would be under the care of the physician possibly for several days and then would return to Eastland.

She was summoned to Dallas Sunday and returned Monday night.

Mrs. Garrett stated the infection was lanced by the doctor.

Previously, she reported, blood poisoning had seemed imminent. . . Congressman Garrett, said his wife, did not feel well when leaving Eastland Saturday for the capitol. He had planned the trip to the capitol to protest a quarterly budget cut of the Texas State Employment Service by the Social Security board at Washington and to confer with officials on the Brazos River Reclamation project.

The Story of OD and AD

and the TOMATOES

OD and AD owned neighboring farms. Both decided to grow tomatoes. But when their tomatoes were ripe, OD and AD had different ideas as to how they would sell them. This is the story of what happened.

How OD and AD Sold Their Tomatoes

OD filled baskets with his tomatoes and put them in a wagon and drove to town. He went up and down the streets looking for people who wanted to buy tomatoes. Some days he sold all. Some days he sold only a few. When the season was over, he found he had made just enough to live on.

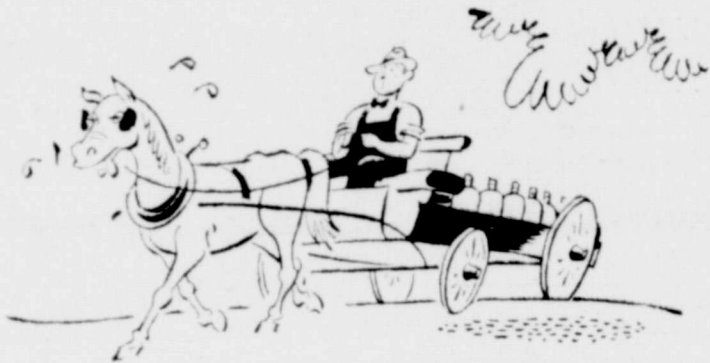

AD thought there must be a better way to sell his tomatoes. He knew he must tell people about them, but he decided he could never sell very many tomatoes if he talked to people one at a time. So he used one of the simplest forms of ADVERTISING. He built a stand by the side of the road where many people passed. He put up a sign that said: "AD's big, red, ripe, juicy tomatoes." Because so many people saw the sign, enough people stopped to buy so that he sold all his ripe tomatoes every day. Many who bought, remembering his name on the sign, came back again and again. When the season was over, he had money in the bank.

One day AD heard that tomato juice was healthful and good to drink. He thought it would also be convenient to handle, to sell, and to serve in the home. He told OD about it. The next year both decided to make and sell tomato juice.

How OD and AD Sold Their Tomato Juice

OD's wife squeezed tomatoes all day and put the juice in bottles. OD took it to town and went from door to door, looking for people who wanted to buy tomato juice. In a whole day he could call at only about 50 homes. As most people had never heard of tomato juice and did not know how good it was, he sold only a few bottles each day.

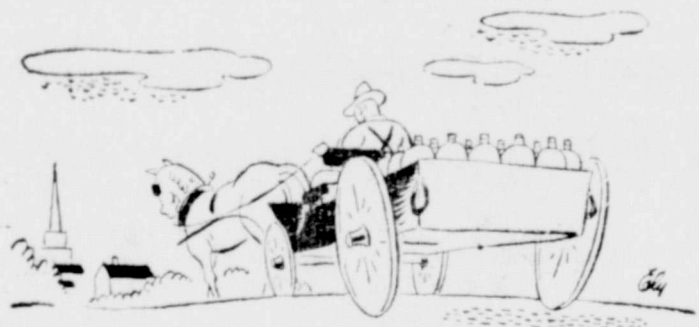

AD felt sure there was a better way to make and sell his tomato juice. He took some money from the bank and bought a shiny new press that squeezed out juice easily and quickly. He put the juice in bottles that could be tightly sealed. He had labels printed for the bottles, reading: AD'S PURE TOMATO JUICE.

He went to the grocery stores in town, where many people came every day, and asked the grocers to put a few of his bottles on their counters. Then he put an advertisement in newspapers read by thousands of people. The advertisement said:

"Enjoy the refreshing taste of AD'S PURE TOMATO JUICE, pressed from big, red, vine-ripened Tomatoes. Good to drink and good for you. At your favorite grocery store."

Because so many people read about it, enough people asked for it to exhaust the supply quickly. And remembering AD's name on the label they came back and asked for it again. So AD bought tomatoes from his neighbors and made more tomato juice to supply the demand.

What OD and AD Did The Next Year

OD and his wife decided that if they were going to make any money, they would have to work harder. So she got up earlier in the morning and picked tomatoes and squeezed and bottled juice all day. OD spent a longer day in town trying to see more people in order to sell more bottles. But, even though OD and his wife worked long and hard, they could not make any money.

AD now saw how true it was that the more people he told about his tomato juice, the more he sold. So he advertised in other cities, telling women how good tomato juice was for their families to drink. He also sent salesmen to call on grocers. He got so many orders that he arranged to buy tomatoes from hundreds of other farmers, built a bigger building, bought more equipment, more bottles and labels, and employed more people. AD knew that, because his name was on every bottle, he must always maintain the high quality of his product. And, because he did this, women soon insisted on AD'S PURE TOMATO JUICE.

AD already had found that the more he advertised and the more bottles he sold, the less it cost him to put up each bottle. Therefore, as his advertising was extended all over the country and his sales increased, he reduced the price. Thus more and more people could afford to enjoy tomato juice, and, although his profit per bottle was now very small indeed, he sold so many bottles that he had a very fine business. So both AD and his customers were benefited.

AD tells OD how an Idea Became an Industry - through ADVERTISING

ONE DAY, years later, OD called on his old neighbor AD. He said "It's remarkable how your business has grown since you got that idea about selling tomato juice."

"Yes," said AD, "but even more important have been the benefits to other people. We are now only one out of many producers of tomato juice. Yet we take all the tomatoes grown by more than a thousand farmers who have here an assured market for their crops. We give steady employment the year round to several hundred people and employ hundreds more on part-time. We pay more than half a million dollars a year to manufacturers of cans, bottles, labels, supplies, and equipment.

"The entire industry now sells more than twenty million dollars worth of tomato juice a year and the public enjoys its healthful benefits—at the lowest price at which it ever has been sold. Yes, tomato juice was a great idea, but that idea would have benefited very few—without ADVERTISING to tell the story."
