BILL TO INCREASE DEBT LIMIT TO 125 BILLIONS IS REPORTED FAVORABLY BY HOUSE GROUP

WASHINGTON, March 6. — The house ways and means committee by a unanimous vote today reported favorably a bill to raise from $65,000,000,000 to $125,000,000,000 the statutory national debt limit.

The committee acted a few minutes after secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., urged immediate raising of the debt limit to facilitate financing of war efforts.

Morgenthau said the debt is only $1,400,000,000 below the present limit, and added that he did not expect the existing limit would be sufficient to cover bond issues which will be required in April.

OUR TESTING TIME.

It is time, for every American able to read and think, to realize the immense power of the forces of evil in the world today and the slight margin by which we shall escape destruction — if we escape.

This is the greatest crisis of our whole national history. It is the testing time of this new world and of the free and liberal Old World civilizations with which we are connected.

The big question right now is whether we're intelligent enough to understand what is really going on in the world, and bold and competent enough to do what has to be done while there is time to do it.

THREE DUTIES

It is well for all of us, through-out this emergency, to keep steadily in mind the "three high purposes" recently announced by the President.

First, "We shall not stop work for a single day. If any dispute arises, we shall keep on working while it is solved by mediation, conciliation or arbitration—until the war is won."

Second, "We shall not demand special gains or special privileges for any one group or occupation. We shall give up our conveniences and modify the routine of our lives if our country asks us to do so. We will do it cheerfully, remembering that the common enemy seeks to destroy every home and every freedom in every part of our land."

It might be a good thing to have these principles on the office or living-room wall, in large, clear letters, to look at every day. Taken seriously, they are far-reaching and high-powered. They rule out strikes, lock-outs, idleness, laziness, indifference, selfishness. They are practical rules of patriotism and loyalty, better than mere sentimental emotionalism.

LOST ESTATE

Everybody's heard of lots sold by the wily salesman which later turned out to be under water at high tide or out in a rocky or swampy wilderness completely inaccessible by car, horse, boat, canoe or two feet. Usually the buyer finds out the sad truth only too soon. It remained for Col. W. Stacey Phillips of Salisbury, Md., to buy a plot of tax-delinquent county land at public auction and then to spend six years hunting for the land in vain.

The county officials finally refunded his $49.90 and are now looking for the land themselves. It's easy enough to see that some clerical mix-up resulted in an impossible description in this case. Many people are buying land nowadays as a hedge against inflation. It's well for the prospective buyer to look and have at least one good look at his land before it's too late.

Oh, yes, the war impact on our American standard of living will be terrible if we were cut down to half of what we've been used to, we'd only be three or four times as well off as our foreign friends.

College fraternities grow less important as college boys join the League of Free Men to preserve freedom.

We now seem to be passing through what might be called the cathartic period of radio news broadcasting.

There's a John Paul Jones in our navy again, and you can trust him not to give up the ship.

We're all knitting: women knit socks and sweaters and men knit their brows.

SIXTH OF MARCH.

This was the day the Alamo's brave sons Bartered their lives in their last gallant stand. Before they paused, still clubbing empty guns. To stride unconquered to the Unknown Land. No other day in all recorded time. Was ever hallowed with braver blood than theirs. Few days can boast a memory so sublime. It needs not history's homage nor our tears.

Born in the shadow of the flag of death. Christened with blood as bold as any on earth. Swathed in a cannon's hot and smoky breath. This was a day of destiny, from birth. Not death nor fire nor victory's drumming beat. Can dim these hours of triumph in defeat.

RISING STAR

A. G. Dean, 90, for more than 50 years engaged in school work in Texas and Oklahoma, passed away shortly after the noon hour Tuesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. F. Robertson, this city after having been in ill health for some time. The body was taken to the old family home at Byars, Okla., Tuesday night where funeral services were held Thursday and interment made. Funeral services were conducted by Dr. C. Q. Smith, president of the University of Oklahoma City, former presiding elder of the Cisco district of the Methodist church, and also former vice-president of Southern Methodist university.

He is survived by his widow, who is employed as a principal in the Lawton, Okla., school system, and the following sons and daughters; Mrs. J. F. Robertson, of this city; A. A. and R. L. Dean and Mrs. S. C. Newbern, Byars, Okla.; Ben Dean, of Shawnee and K. G. Dean, of Chandler, Texas. "Prof." Dean, as he was known to many Texas people, was one of the early day East Texas teachers, where he spent many years in school work before going to Oklahoma several years ago continuing his work until he was obliged to retire on account of advancing age. While teaching in Van Zandt county many years ago he built and presided over the people of his community what at that time was the largest school in the county, naming it the Lexie Academy in honor of his baby daughter, now Mrs. Lexie Dean Robertson, former poet laureate of Texas. He was also active in the formation of the first city government in Grand Saline and was a member of the city council for a number of years. He also served as county treasurer for some years before moving to Denton for school advantages for his children. Since retiring he had spent a great deal of his time with Mr. and Mrs. Robertson here and had made a wide circle of friends who will regret to learn of his passing. He was a devout member of the Methodist church and was a regular attendant at the local church as long as his health would permit. In addition to his class room duties he found time to write several text books which were published and used in many schools.

Rising Star continues to maintain a splendid fire record. This is revealed in a recent report by Marvin Hall, State Fire Insurance Commissioner, in which he gives the fire record credit for 24 Texas towns. A saving on fire insurance during the 12 months beginning March 1, will approximate $185,000 in 56 towns listed and in which Rising Star is included. Rising Star has a 25 per cent credit and the estimated saving to property owners because of this credit is $1,907. Twenty-five per cent credit is the maximum that any town can have. Rising Star has maintained this credit for the past two years.—Rising Star Record.

Good Neighbor Policy Affects Styles

American Designers See Increasing Pan-American Fashion Solidarity

Leading American designers are today stressing, again and again, the important part Pan-American fashions will be playing on our side of the hemisphere this season. With the inspiration of Europe and the Far East cut off for an indefinite period, with the friendship between the two American continents ever increasing, and with the current craving of America for bright, spirit-lifting colors—this influx of Good Neighbor styles is very logical.

One top-flight dress designer, Nelly Don, was so impressed with this source of inspiration that she is using it lavishly in her new spring line—had her designing head tour South America searching for original and unique interpretations. The result was a whole collection of South of the Border inspired dresses and playsuits—festive, romantic styles that have a definite place in our color-conscious play world.

Nelly Don borrowed legions of their gay, unrestrained colors—brilliant, unbridled shades all new to the North American public. She reproduced their exotic accessories—jewelry, belts, scarfs—discovered new approaches to skirts, sleeves, waistlines.

In her new collection dirds are running riot—are younger, fuller, richer looking than their Northern sisters. Border trims, copied from the costumery of the Brazilian peasantry, are evidenced in several styles.

Rich, eye-stopping, primitive colors are rampant in every single outfit. Wooden necklaces and gaucho belts with hammered silver-like ornaments are trim accents. Apron effects descend from the mountains of Peru.

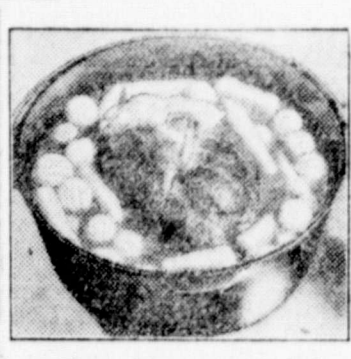

Braised Beef Heart with vegetables is both nutritious and budget-kind says Dorothy Greig

BEF heart is one part of borsite that packs an almost extravagant share of Vitamin B. Cooked, it's tender, too... of a smooth texture that welcomes the slicing knife. And there's waste to beef heart. It's solid meat.

Served with rich brown gravy and vegetables, beef heart is a meal to make for contentment. This is the way we cook it:

Braised Beef Heart with Vegetables 1 beef heart (approximately 4-4 1/2 pounds) 16-20 young carrots, 2-4 inches long 1 pound small white onions 1 1/2 quarts potatoes, cubed or potato balls 2 cans condensed mock turtle soup 1 can water 2 teaspoons salt 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Remove arteries and veins from beef heart, wash well and allow to stand in cold water for at least 1 hour. Then drain. Melt the butter or shortening in a heavy pot or Dutch oven and brown the heart well in the melted fat. Then add 2 cups of boiling water and cook very slowly covered for 2 1/2 hours. Add the small whole carrots and onions and continue cooking for 1/2 hour, then add potatoes (cubed or cut into potato balls with French cutter), condensed mock turtle soup, which has been heated with one can of water (using soup can for measure), salt and pepper. Cover and continue cooking until vegetables and meat are tender, approximately 30-40 minutes. If gravy is not thick enough add 2 tablespoons flour mixed with 1/2 cup of cold water and cook until thickened. Makes 8-10 servings.

Note—Allow 1/2 pound of heart for each serving.

One Way to Save

FOR health and economy, always cook a vegetable in a utensil with close fitting lid using as little water as possible. When steaming begins, lower gas flame in order to boil vegetable gently until it becomes just "tender-crisp." It then retains the maximum of its food values. Besides, about half the gas is needed to cook a vegetable this way than in the deep-water open pan method so frequently used.

SCARBOROUGH RECEIVES A FINE TRIBUTE

BELTON, March 6.—A reception and dinner honoring Dr. Lee R. Scarborough, for twenty-five years president of southwestern Theological Seminary, was given at Mary Hardin-Baylor College Thursday night, with about 100 admirers of the educator attending.

Dr. Gordon G. Singleton, president of Mary Hardin-Baylor, presided. Some of the greetings were: "I consider Dr. Scarborough the Douglas MacArthur of the Baptist world," L. N. McCrary, mayor of Fort Worth; "there is no man in the world whom I believe in so thoroughly; he is a genuine man, a most prodigious toiler and a great friend," Dr. George W. Truett, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Dallas, who also brought greetings from the board of trustees of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary; "Dr. Scarborough has fixed the hearts and brains of a generation of young preachers," Dr. W. W. Melton, executive secretary of the Baptist General Convention of Texas; "let me pay tribute to Lee the leader, the evangelist, the educator and the man," Dr. Harold L. Fickett, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Galveston.

The executive board of the Cisco Welfare association will meet Tuesday morning, March 10, at 9:30 o'clock at the chamber of commerce. All members are urged to be present, stated Mrs. B. S. Huey today.

GOOD IDEA, IF WE COULD GET BUSY AT IT

HAMILTON, N. Y., March 6.—A university professor has an original scheme for ending the war with Japan—start Nippon's volcanoes erupting. Dr. Harold O. Whitnall, professor of geology at Colgate University, asserts that aerial bombs could burst the plugs in the "throats" of volcanoes. The pent-up pressure of gases in the bowels of the volcano, he says, would send lava tumbling down on Japanese cities and might produce earthquakes and tidal waves.

CATTLE MARKET

The Fort Worth market on all classes of steers and yearlings was steady to weak Friday, with other cattle mostly unchanged. Calves were scarce and steady.

For the week: Steers and yearlings steady to 25c lower, spots 50c to $1 off; beef cows mostly steady; canners 25c to 50c lower; calves and bulls about steady.

On Friday's market hogs sold steady to 15c below Thursday's average at a top of $13.25.

In the sheep yards, shorn lambs were steady and other killing classes scarce.

Good fed steers and yearlings ranged from $10.25 to $11.50, with sales including a package of steer yearlings at $11.50, a package of steer yearlings at $11.25 and a package of weighty fed steers at $11. Medium grade and short fed steers and yearlings ranged from $8.50 to $9.75 with common butcher yearlings at $8 down.

Maybe shortages will be a blessing. It was hard living that made our enemies tough.

CONVICTS WORK TO WIN PAROLE IN ARMY, NAVY

COLUMBUS, O., March 6.—When the patriotic "kites" started piling upon Warden Frank D. Henderson's desk in Ohio Penitentiary, he determined to swing to the nation's war effort.

A "kite," in prison lingo, is a letter from a prisoner to the warden that usually contains a suggestion for "improving" the administration.

"This guard is a heel," one will say, or, "The feed here is worse than it is at Sing Sing." The "kites" are read and filed away with the writer's dossier.

These "patriotic kites" were different. Convicts were volunteering to "ride torpedoes" and serve in "suicide squadrons" in the Pacific.

What interested the warden were the serious offers made by prisoners who had made good records.

Expert Dental Care

He discussed his plan with the governor and the state welfare director and then made his announcement.

Prisoners who wish to join the army will be given military training behind the walls and paroled to army officials if they successfully complete the course." No firearms, the warden explained, would be used for drilling purposes.

Paroling convicts to the armed forces is the latest step in Henderson's program to make the penitentiary more than just a prison.

He took over the administration after a tragic fire in 1930 in which more than 300 inmates lost their lives. Since then Henderson has cracked the whip for modern penitentiary methods on many occasions.

Prisoners no longer wear uniforms until they are filthy or worn out. A dry-cleaning plant has been installed.

The old prison slogan, "make 'em afraid to come back," is now forgotten by a guard force of high school and college graduates. Six full-time dentists are employed instead of the one who used to come in once a month.

False Teeth $3.00

Good teeth are an important part of the warden's rehabilitation program. He says a set of false teeth is sometimes all that's necessary to make a man regain his self-respect and become a decent citizen when he is released.

"You wouldn't think we could supply many sets of false teeth with the $6,000 a year we get in the prisoner's aid fund. Well, our dentists have no suburban homes to keep up—so we don't have to charge $75 a set. We find that a set can be manufactured here in the prison, with the best of materials, for $3.

So-called genius comes in bunches because the success of one prompts acquaintances to say: "If that poor wart can do it, so can I."
