WILD-EYED LABOR HEADS GET SOLAR PLEXUS

LEWELLYN MCCREA AT REST IN OAKWOOD

All that was mortal of little Lewellyn McCrea, age 7, was laid to rest in Oakwood cemetery yesterday afternoon, following a funeral service at 6:30 o'clock that was beautiful with floral tributes, words of comfort by Dr. Gary L. Smith, prayer by Rev. L. W. Seymour, and songs by the Presbyterian choir that the child had attended when he attended Sunday school and church.

Part of the tribute to the character of the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Yancey McCrea, as given by the speaker as he read the words of praise spoken by a former teacher, and as he had attention to the perfect attention given him by the Sunday school of the First Presbyterian church, which he had attended for two consecutive years, which was attached to his funeral services. Further tribute was given by the large group of children who followed the funeral procession to the grave where the body was left alone for a few minutes before final consignment to the earth.

Presenting the funeral at the church were the following: Mrs. Geo. Anderson, Abilene; Mrs. W. B. Brown, Abilene; Mrs. Hooper Shelton, Abilene; Mrs. Jimmy Harkness, Eastland; Mr. and Mrs. George Epton, Morenci, Ariz.; Mrs. L. H. McCrea, Cisco; Mrs. C. L. L. H. McCrea, Cisco; Mrs. Clyde Bailey, Fort Worth; J. P. Stubblefield, Fort Worth; Mrs. Robt. Stephens, Rock Star; and Mrs. Homer DeWitt, and daughter, Margaret, and Mrs. J. C. Dyer, Dallas; Mrs. Fred Cook, Putnam; Mrs. Joe Wilbanks and daughter, Mrs. M. Moran.

LIVE STOCK PRICES WERE GOOD FRIDAY

The extra quality of cattle at the Cisco Livestock Exchange auction Friday afternoon was emphasized in the prices paid by buyers. Some calves brought $3.50 per cwt. and prices were satisfactory to all sellers.

Total sales were about $5,600.

Sales—C. A. Waters, 20 cattle; Joe Coats, 22 cattle; Alford Agnew, 12 cattle; Homer Pruett, 10 cattle; L. Morris, hog; Fred W. Warren, 3 cattle; Geo. Harrison, 10 cattle; 8 hogs; C. J. Elliott, 2 hogs; Wayne Lerner, 3 cattle; Van Tiekner, 3 cattle; A. C. Morris, 2 cattle; Walter Ziehr, 2 cattle; Joe Seburn, 10 sheep; Ben Waters, 2 steers; C. L. Lauderdale, 3 cattle; Paul Booth, hog; W. E. Kirkin, 2 hogs; 9 sheep.

Buyers—Wayne Lerner, 7 cattle; 9 sheep; Geo. Harrison, 5 cattle; 2 hogs; Joe Coats, 6 cattle; Fred W. Warren, 10 cattle; 8 hogs; G. K. Bagley, 2 cattle; G. P. Mitchell, 4 cattle.

B. H. Yeager, 25 cattle; Wash Woods, 10 cattle; W. E. Kirkin, 2 hogs; J. B. Downton, 4 cattle; R. B. Taylor, 3 cattle; Joe Seburn, 10 sheep; Norman Zahn, 5 cattle; W. M. Kinnie, 3 hogs; heifer; Grover Morris, 2 cattle; Billy Bunker, 2 cattle; A. C. Peck, 2 cattle; Row Parson, 2 cattle; F. S. Scott, 2 cattle.

PISGAH CEMETERY.
July 5 has been set as date for cleaning the Pisgah cemetery grounds. Everybody interested is invited to come and bring lunch and work tools, says J. M. Dillon, chairman.

SERIOUS HEAD INJURY

J. E. Lindsey, an ex-soldier and a transient, who gives the name of Mrs. Bob Gray of Abilene as his daughter, is in the hospital at Cisco as a result of a severe head injury, which he sustained when he was returning to Cisco. He is reported to be in a serious condition.

He was found last night at Lake Cisco on the shore of the water. Lindsey was taken to the hospital by Rev. Robert Dennis and Mrs. Naughton. Lindsey is reported to be in a serious condition. The extent of his injuries had not been ascertained. He was reported at the hospital. He talked constantly but only said that he was in a serious condition.

TEXANS STOOD TOGETHER IN KILLING VETO

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Both senators from Texas and every member of the house delegation from Texas united to vote against the anti-strike bill over his career in the passage of the Connally-Smith anti-strike bill over his veto two hours after the veto message had reached the senate.

The speed with which senate and house acted on the veto message is impressive and clearly indicated the determination among members to do away with the administration policy of cocking labor.

When the veto message came read in the senate, Senator Tom Connally of Texas, author of the original senate bill to authorize the operation of an industrial plant, mine or other facility in which production of war materials was delayed or threatened with delay as a result of strike or other labor disturbance, rose and declared with considerable feeling:

"I am sorely disappointed. The senate is sorely disappointed. The house is sorely disappointed. Ninety per cent of the people of the United States are sorely disappointed. Every soldier, sailor and Marine in the uniform of this nation—on land, on sea and in the air—is sorely disappointed."

"Sections of this bill to which the president has voiced objection are only incidental. Under our constitution the president has the right to veto a bill passed by congress, but under the same constitution congress has the right to pass a bill over his veto."

This is the most serious break Connally has had with the administration, although he has not supported many of the new deal policies.

When Connally's name was called and he gave forth a lusty "aye," applause from the gallery caused the vice-president to rap for order. Both Senator Connally and Senator W. Lee O'Daniel were recorded as voting "aye."

ATTEMPT THAT FAILED—Here is one of the rafts that Nazis, in desperate attempt to escape from Tunis, made of telephone poles, inner tubes, water drums and whatnot. But Yank Tommy guns put rafts out of business and they littered the beach.

D. H. WHITTEN HURT WHILE ROPING PONY

D. H. Whitten, of Groves' ranch north of Lako Cisco, was painfully injured Saturday morning while roping a pony, the horse he was riding being thrown backward on him and causing internal bruises and injuries.

He was brought into Cisco by V. V. McMurray and carried to the offices of Drs. Clark & Ball. He was taken later to Graham Sanitarium where he was x-rayed, but no broken bones were discovered.

Dr. D. Ball, who made the examination at the hospital, said the patient was being detained for further observation.

FLEWELLEN TO BE ASSISTANT ATTY. GENERAL

L. H. Flewellen of Ranger, Eastland county legislative representative, has accepted a position as assistant state attorney general under Atty. Gen. Gerald Mann, and will move to Austin immediately. However, he announces that he will retain his legal residence in Ranger.

This is Mr. Flewellen's first term as representative of the 106th district and it is the general opinion that he has made a very satisfactory official. He made no statement as to his future legislative plans.

FARM LOAN BODIES TO BE MERGED

Claude Strickland, secretary-treasurer of the Eastland-Stephens County National Farm Loan association, announces that his office will be moved from Eastland to Breckenridge. Strickland's future connection with the office has not yet been determined, he stated.

The four land bank associations of Eastland, Shackelford, Stephens and a portion of Throckmorton counties will be merged with the office in Breckenridge.

FUNERAL MONDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. H. J. Willis, 75, of 403 Eighth street, Cisco, who died at the county hospital at Ranger Friday morning, will be held at Thomas funeral chapel Monday at 2 p. m. Rev. Cooper Waters, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which Mrs. Willis was a member, will be in charge. Burial in Oakwood cemetery.

MY TURN, BUDDIE—Better not tease Butch, English bull mascot for B Battery at Camp Callan, Cal. Already he's eager for his turn from his own personal messkit, held by his master, Sergt. Andy Yuhas. Both are in training.

UNION LAWN CONGRESS IS SERVICES IN AWAKE; AMERICA PLEASED

Ministers and laymen representing various churches of Cisco will meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon at First Methodist church to make plans for union lawn services for the Sunday nights of the summer.

Three churches of the city have cooperated in such a summer program for the last several years, meeting on the lawn of the Methodist church, the pastors of the sponsoring churches taking turns in preaching.

It is contemplated that the schedule for this summer will begin next Sunday night. The meeting this afternoon will designate the necessary committees and agree upon the details of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McAfee and sons, Carlton and Frank, Ft. Worth, are weekending in Cisco, the big lake city.

HOUR OF GREAT DECISIONS

WASHINGTON, June 26.—For once Washington and London agree with Berlin when it says "The hour of great decisions is at hand." Germany must decide whether to launch an offensive in Russia, Japan must decide whether to attack in Siberia; Italy must decide whether to fight or cave in. As for us, our decisions largely have to do with timing, depending on what we can lure the other side into doing or leaving undone. Watch the Balkans. The calendar, geography, history, hints here and there, all indicate action there.

Word here is that Berlin and Tokyo are busy buck-passing. Hitler has told Tojo that his Pacific war is a flop if he doesn't attack Vladivostok—and soon. Tojo, it is said, snapped back that the Nazis are sunk if they can't lick the Russians in Europe. Each hesitates to take the initiative. And for the first time, Nazis are beginning to act like they believe they can win the war by going on the defensive, stalling for time, waiting for the United States to break up because of internal chaos. Their reasons: Strikes, race riots, name calling, food shortages and grumbling over them, bureaucratic bungling, deep-seated difference on economic questions. It looks from where they sit like approaching collapse.

You can get odds at the capitol that the president's proposal to draft strikes will never get through either house or senate military affairs committees. If he asks legislation raising the draft age limit from 18 to 21, House will call an imposing list of military and naval officers for their views; anticipate they will oppose their commander in chief. One angle to be thoroughly explored: Strikers drafted into the army would be eligible for hospitalization, disability compensation, pensions, and any further bonuses.

Look for Chester Davis to resign as war food administrator unless the legislative shapes up fast to give him power he wants over food prices. He's put it on the line with Roosevelt and Roosevelt has said no. Davis' plan (for higher farm, food prices) would mean end of centralized control over cost-of-living prices, end of hold-the-line order against inflation.

It's the plan the big four farm organizations favor. Meanwhile OPA's his back with charges of its own; says food is spoiling today because WFA made no plans to get it distributed or to get surplus to canners. Note: One reason for the farm organizations' drive to kill the OPA is fear that it will go through with paper plans to regulate distribution of food to an extent never tried in this country.

FIRST METHODIST SPECIAL SERMONS

Rev. Fred Hamner, superintendent of the San Angelo district of the Methodist church, will preach a week's series of special sermons at Cisco's First Methodist church beginning next Sunday, says the pastor, Rev. Leslie Seymour.

The general theme of the sermons will be "The Church." Last summer a similar series was given here by Dr. James Carlyon of Southern Methodist University, the theme for his sermons being, "The Bible." These services will be held each evening on the lawn of the church.

LIKE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS AND U. S. MARINES, JOHN L. LEWISITES MUST TOE THE LINE

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Effectiveness of the anti-strike weapon which congress forged yesterday, "the objections of the president to the contrary notwithstanding," will be tested immediately.

That will come through the new law's effect on the coal mine strikes still persisting despite the new armistice reached between John L. Lewis and the government. The effect may be shown Monday. If the "wildcats" end Monday, the smashing majorities in senate and house that overrode Mr. Roosevelt's veto will chalk up a victory.

The punitive sections of the law can be invoked against local leaders of the mine strikes, even though national and district leaders of the United Mine Workers apparently are in the clear. This job is up to Attorney General Francis Biddle, head of the Department of Justice.

Presidents and other leaders of local mine worker unions, if caught encouraging or directing a strike in the government-controlled mines, may be fined up to $5000, or imprisoned up to a year or both. The same penalties could be applied to national or district leaders found to be involved.

There will be many repercussions from the epoch-marking congressional proceedings which within less than three hours of receipt of the president's veto message turned out one of the most momentous reverses that any chief executive has received in wartime.

This law is the first anti-union enactment in the ten years of the Roosevelt administrations, and probably the most sweeping legislation of that character in American history. It represents the greatest legislative blow ever suffered by organized labor—The American Federation of Labor, the CIO, the Railway Brotherhoods, as well as the United Mine Workers—which rose to unprecedented power under Mr. Roosevelt, and most of which announced that all supporters of this legislation would be regarded as "enemies of labor" and dealt with accordingly.

But new forces are making themselves felt in the halls of congress. They were indicated by Representative Andrew J. May (Democrat, Kentucky), chairman of the house military affairs committee, who jubilantly declared:

"We have sent a gratifying message to the good citizens on our home front, and benediction to our boys on the battlefields!"

Applause swept both senate and house, and the galleries too, when the votes were announced to show that more than two-thirds in each body did not agree with the President's objections. For the first time during this war years were heard in the house against the commander-in-chief. They came from the Republican side, and constituted a raspberry for Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion that the selective service law be amended so that strikers may be inducted into the armed forces. That proposal has turned out to be the most unpopular ever made by Mr. Roosevelt, and interviewed soldiers declare it is an insult to their uniform.

One of the results is that the coal mines cannot be held in government custody more than 60 days after normal production is resumed. That means that the latest Lewis "truce" to Oct. 31 is legislatively abrogated.

Another important effect is that Mr. Lewis cannot now proceed effectively with his campaign to smash the National War Labor Board, as he did its predecessor, the National Defense Mediation Board. NWLB is now a statutory agency, backed by the supreme power of the National Congress, responsible to the people.

No man can smash it, nor could even the president abolish it. The board now has power to compel obedience from those who have defied it—including not only the head of the United Mine Workers but Sewell Avery, president of Montgomery Ward & Co. and chairman of the board of the U. S. Gypsum Co. Its authority now is embedded in law, not in the less secure foundation of a presidential executive order.

Another result is encouragement for a movement under way in congress for adoption of a joint resolution requesting that the president see to it that Mr. Lewis be required to obey the recent directive of the War Labor Board that he sign a new contract with the coal operators on terms specified by the board.

SUBSIDIES BLOCKED

WASHINGTON, June 26.—In a defeat of administration forces, the senate voted 39 to 37 Saturday to prohibit the payment of government subsidies to roll back retail food prices.

DRAFT DODGERS

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The FBI announced Saturday that 739 draft dodgers were arrested in a nationwide roundup Friday. This brings the number of arrests of selective service slackers since the war broke out to 4,371.

REDS ON TOP

MOSCOW, June 26.—Red army troops smashed the strongest German attempt in recent weeks to force the northern Donets and hurried back enemy forces in bitter local fighting northwest of Moscow, the Soviet high command announced today.

SENSIBLE.

The Detroit Free Press has decided that it will have no more "off the record" news coming in. Its managing editor, Douglas D. Martin, got tired of having people tell its reporters tales which couldn't be used. So he put out a notice to his staff which reads as follows:

"Reporters and editors of the Free Press are instructed to accept no off-the-record information in the future. When interviews take this slant, make it a point to state the position of the paper. If it is not acceptable, then walk out. You will save time and your freedom of action."

"The off-the-record dodge has been abused to the point where an enterprising newspaper cannot submit to further strangling of news stories. Such information only ties your hands and your typewriter. It is no good to you, to the Free Press or the readers."

"Go out and get the news yourself. Print it and you have something. Let's stop being a gang of gossip and be newspapermen."

For the president of other high officials, in war time, to give items of background to news men which cannot be printed at the moment, but which will fill out the story when it is released, is legitimate use of the method. For every Tom, Dick and Harry to tie the hands of reporters is abuse.

After all, the proper function of a newspaper is not to keep secrets or print stories without factual backing. Its function is to print the news for its readers to read. So give us the facts, Dear Reader, and let us set them forth in due and proper order."

FUEL OIL.

John Dean, director of the OPA fuel rationing division, says there will be a more dependable supply of oil for easterners the coming winter. There will not necessarily be more than there was last winter, but it will be under better control and more uniformly supplied. "Oil will be delivered in sufficient quantities to cities and dealers to match the ration coupons issued by OPA. The coupon won't be a rationing device this year. Dealers will have the oil in stock."

As for special cases or emergencies, it is promised that supplemental provision of oil will be available for consumers who can convince their own rationing board that they need it. Owners of private dwellings, it is said, will not be compelled to convert their plants to a different kind of heating. This will reassure many users who have been willing to convert but foresaw great difficulty in doing so. Another reassuring thing is that simpler rationing forms have been provided for consumers.

Thus little by little the red tape that marks these war lines seems to get unrolled.

MILERS.

The arrival in this country of Gundaar Haegg, the Swedish champion miler, coincides with the death at 84 of W. G. George, the English runner. George's record of 4:12 3-4 for the mile, made in 1886, stood for 29 years. Haegg has now brought it down to 4:4 3-5.

Will it ever get to four minutes flat? Haegg doubts it, but George always thought it possible. He himself could have done it, in his opinion, with the advantage of modern training methods and tracks.

Advance in children's nutrition probably has also something to do with it, and if continued after the war, should improve the physique of future athletes. So many track and field records have been broken after the uttermost limit was thought to have been reached, that it would be rash to accept that limit now.

STATESMEN.

Putting together the pieces after a crash is not easy. France has been finding this out since her downfall in 1940. With the Vichy government of Laval and Petain utterly discredited, the problem has been to find a suitable man or group to take over.

At least once before the French went through this experience. After the capture and abdication of the Emperor Napoleon III in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870, a temporary government had to be organized. Fortunately there was then available a venerable statesman from the past to whom they could turn.

Adolphe Thiers, historian and statesman, had a political career going back 40 years. Not involved in political squabbles, yet with rich political experience, he was the very man to tide the country over until a more lasting government could be organized. He did just that. The 70 years of life of the Third Republic were due to his wisdom in difficult times.

Unfortunately France has no Thiers today. Most of her pre-war politicians were small men in whom no French patriot could feel confidence now. The one possible exception, the reforming Leon Blum, whose enemies proved to be friends of Hitler, is a German captive.

It is fair to remember, in this connection, how many men of an age and power to assume present leadership were slain in the previous World War. That is why the French must now get their statesmen from the ranks of escaped generals. Undoubtedly the French spirit, now breaking through enforced darkness, will develop them.

SALT WATER.

Out sailing in the ocean and feel thirsty? You have forgotten to bring drinking water, but that needn't matter. Just dip a bucket in the sea and drink to your heart's content.

That is the prospect now made possible by a new device accepted by the navy. Invented at the naval medical institute at Bethesda, Md., the process consists of applying the contents of a small package of chemicals. With this one touch fresh water can be made from sea water. The chemicals serve to remove the common salt and magnesium chloride which make sea water unfit to drink.

With submarines and torpedoes making the seas unsafe a lot of people will sleep better knowing that this new process is available to them.

PRAYER.

The poem by Dr. Merrick F. McCarty of the University of Cincinnati, has been contributed to Bundles for Boston by the author.

Now I lay me down to sleep— I pray the Lord my soul to keep; If this night's sleep should end in rest That is forever, keep me blest With Thy mercy, May I be Child of Thy Kingdom, safe and free.

If I should wake within the night To see the sky all red with light And hear the roof-tops of the town With our own walls come crashing down— Though there be death within the sky, May I not fear, O Lord to die!

If I should die before I wake I pray the Lord my soul to take; But should I live the long night through When I arise my work to do, May I with courage seek to do, Not safe, O Lord, not safe, but free.

OTHER EDITORS.

Food Czar Needed. Dallas News: There is potential first magnitude political controversy in the House bill which would set up a food czar. There is nothing new, of course, in the setting up of another czar. We have had a long succession of them. But there is something radically new in the way of setting up. Hitherto, the czars for war production, price control, economic stabilization, et cetera, have been created under the President's wartime powers. As a consequence, they have just as much power as the President wants them to have, which is not much when some skillful political maneuvering is needed. Witness the dilemma of the War Labor Board during the last two months.

The new czar of food production would be set up and given specific powers by statute and not by presidential order. The President would be given the authority to appoint and replace the czar, but there is not much replacing of officialdom in the President's method. He simply shifts the authority to other hands, leaving the appointee with the title and the salary. Mr. Roosevelt opposes the House Bill because he does not want to appoint anyone to a position with as much statutory authority as is provided in this instance.

Congress ought to go ahead and set up new authority. If those who are supposed to know are really informed, we have seen only the beginning of a critical food situation in this country. Yet we go on talking about helping to unify the world by contributing enormously to its food demands for several years after the war. President Roosevelt and his whole school of economy are accustomed to thinking of the food problem in terms of lowered production—the economy of scarcity. Recently they have tried to reverse their thinking, but they had already made the great mistake of holding to the old idea so long that this year's crop plans for greater food production had been wrecked. A new authority, headed by a man like Chester Davis and given statutory backing to pursue an independent course, could be effective in greatly strengthening the food program of the country next year.

CISCO GAS CORPORATION. "This is my Coal — I'll Dig or I Won't Dig — Just as I like" The man who acts on the above assumption, has forgotten that his right to do anything—the right to work for himself — the right to liberty of action in any manner — comes from the consent of those governed — a result of cooperation in building a free government that protects its citizens in liberties that are allowed just so long as they do not abridge or deny to others the same privileges they are demanding for themselves. Strikers who are delaying production on the home front are canceling their rights to the liberties for which millions of soldiers are risking their lives, and leaving their business activities at home, and they are meriting as their just due, the sneer of the masses who call them traitors to their country and to the cause of liberty everywhere. Men and women of America who are cooperating in deed and in money to the fullest extent, have little patience with those who would block their government's war program in order to win for themselves a few more cents per day added to their salaries.

GORMLEY-SHERMAN WEDDING SATURDAY.

Miss Norma Gormley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Gormley, St. Rose, Tex., was married Saturday morning in the parlors of the First Baptist church. Rev. Cooper Waters officiated in the double ring ceremony before an impressive altar decorated with ferns and flanked by baskets of pink and white gladioli. Little Anna Lake Waters, ring bearer, entered with her father, Rev. Cooper Waters. Violin and piano music was furnished by Mrs. Ben Krauskopf and Mrs. Roy Campbell, who played a pre-nuptial duet "Promises, Promises" and "Because" as the couple entered. They played Leporello's bridal march during the wedding. Sweet Mystery of Life was played softly with change to Mendelssohn's wedding march at the close of the ceremony. The bride, couple was unattended.

The bride wore a two-piece waltz crepe tulle gown with matching hat and veil and corsage of white carnations. Her accessories were also white. For "Something Old and Borrowed" she carried a basket containing the tokens of matrimony. Mrs. Leon McPherson. A reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Cole after the wedding, with Mrs. Leon McPherson as co-hostess. Punch was served from a table laid with handmade lace over pink, centered by three-tiered wedding cake. The first piece was cut by the bride and groom, after which the hostess served the guests.

Mrs. Sherman wore a traveling suit of soldier blue alpaca, trimmed with pink with white accessories. Out-of-town guests were the groom's mother, Mrs. Belle Sherman and two daughters, in Roscoe.

After a short wedding trip, Corral and Mrs. Sherman will make their home in Gainesville.

Miscellaneous Shower. Thursday evening Mrs. C. P. Cole gave a miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Gormley that was the outstanding social event of the week. The Cole home at 709 W. Thirteenth street was agog with decorations of cut flowers. Mrs. Cole welcomed the guests and presented them to those in the receiving line - Mrs. W. J. Gormley, Miss Gormley, the bride-elect and Mrs. Cooper Waters. Miss Freda Grist was in charge of the bride's book. Following registration, guests were directed to the dining room for refreshments.

The table, covered with hand-made lace cloth, held as a centerpiece a pretty arrangement of white carnations, bridal wreath, white iris and fern, flanked by tall pink caplets in crystal holders. Mrs. Myrtle Anderson and Mrs. Vida Stephens ladled punch from crystal bowls. Mrs. Leon McPherson and Mrs. M. F. Underwood were assisted by girls of the house party in passing refreshment plates of open-face sandwiches and cookies. Girls assisting were Misses Dorothy Jean Anderson, Sylvia Hazel, Ruby Kent, Freda Grist, Dorothy Nell Pugh, Dorothy Isenhower, Jamie Jean Hensley, Jeffie Jean Robertson, Bonnie Jean Wilson, Maeta Brecheen, Billie Jean Hall, Georgiana Westfall and two out-of-town friends, Misses Peggy Kilecrave and Topsy Robertson of Nocona, Tex. All wore formal evening gowns. Mrs. Roy Campbell and Mrs. Ben Krauskopf played soft piano and violin numbers as guests were received and served.

The group was directed to the back lawn, brilliantly lighted for the occasion, for the program of the evening which was as follows: Two clever readings by Mary Philpott, "Who Will Rule," a playlet written by Mrs. J. R. Burnett, depicting the bride and groom, was enacted by Mrs. W. D. Brecheen (groom) and Mrs. H. B. Hensley (bride); the story of "Petunia," (colored bride to be) was then told by Mrs. C. P. Cole; Mrs. W. D. Brecheen entered carrying a large tray which she said held a "turkey" dinner, and which she hurriedly presented to the honoree. On removing the tray cloth it was found the tray contained dinner for a turkey, which was very amusing. A group of girls carrying a large array of gifts came in at this juncture and presented them to Miss Gormley. The gifts were opened and inspected, after which they were placed on a shelf which had been built for the purpose.

Those present were Mrs. James Haynie, Mrs. W. R. Huestis, Mrs. W. C. Clements, Mrs. A. C. Poe, Mrs. Vida Stephens, W. D. Hazel, Miss Willie Frank Walker, Mrs. Willie Bogon Danne, Mrs. H. M. Bassett, Mrs. E. L. Pugh, Misses Marilyn Shertzer, Jane Gilman, Mrs. Clara Robertson, Miss Frances Caldwell, Misses Mayme and Letitia Estes, Mrs. E. J. Poe, Mrs. G. Pollard, Mrs. Bernice Hays, W. T. Irwin, Mrs. J. C. Irwin, Mrs. S. B. Parks, Mrs. John Poem, Mrs. E. L. Hazelwood, Mrs. J. V. Hooper, Mrs. W. H. Hall, Mrs. Roy Hatten and the following hostesses: Mrs. C. P. Cole, Mrs. J. R. Barnett, Mrs. D. D. Leake, Mrs. M. F. Underwood, Mrs. Leon McPherson, Mrs. Wm. Isenhower, Mrs. Barton Philpott, Mrs. Mack Stephens, Mrs. Algie Skiles, Mrs. Coeher Waters, Mrs. W. V. Gardinire, Mrs. W. D. Hazel, Mrs. W. Frank Walker and Mrs. W. D. Brecheen.

Those sending gifts who could not be present were Mrs. Tom L. Cravens and Mrs. Valin R. Woodward, Arlington, Tex. and Mrs. J. M. Gormley, Abilene; Mrs. W. J. Parsons, Mrs. Fred Grist, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. J. J. Tableman, Mrs. Berta Carmichael, Mrs. S. E. Hittson, Mrs. B. Tillery, Mrs. Bob Gilman, Mrs. A. C. Green, Mrs. L. A. MRS. C. E. TURKNETT WAS CLUB HOSTESS.

Mrs. C. E. Turknett was hostess to the N&T club Thursday afternoon in her home on C Avenue. Mrs. Thomas Lee President at the business period in the absence of Mrs. Charles Clark, president. Following the business session a "hostess gift" was presented to Mrs. Turknett.

The afternoon was spent in sewing for the Red Cross. Refreshments of fruit jello salad and cake were passed to Mrs. R. D. Jones, Mrs. A. E. McNeely, Mrs. A. L. Clark, Mrs. Thomas Lee and the hostess Mrs. Turknett.

MISS RAINBOLT WAS COMPLEMENTED.

Miss Joyce Rainbolt of the WAACS was honored at a dinner given Wednesday evening by the women's society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church in the church dining room. Miss Rainbolt is spending her furlough with her mother, Mrs. Edith Rainbolt. Miss Rainbolt was presented ed a service diary by the society.

The meal was served buffet style from the dining table which was covered with white linen cloth. A blue bowl filled with red roses made a lovely centerpiece, suggesting a patriotic theme. Mrs. Joe Wilson gave the invocation. Mrs. John Shertzer, society president, was master of ceremonies. Following the meal, Miss Rainbolt gave a description of WAAC daily routine, which was much enjoyed.

Those present were Miss Joyce Rainbolt, Mrs. Edith Rainbolt, Mrs. John Shertzer, Mrs. Leslie W. Seymour, Mrs. Joe Wilson, Mrs. B. E. Morehart, Mrs. Smith Huestis, Miss Dorothy and Jane Huestis, Mrs. Ted Bacon, Misses Billy Beth Bacon, Mrs. A. R. Westfall, Mrs. W. Z. Latch, Miss Lela Latch, Mrs. J. D. Eddleman, Mrs. C. A. Shockey, Mrs. C. E. Hickman, Mrs. J. J. Porter, Mrs. Charles Flaherty and daughter, Mary Jean.

Headed For Your Sugar Bowl

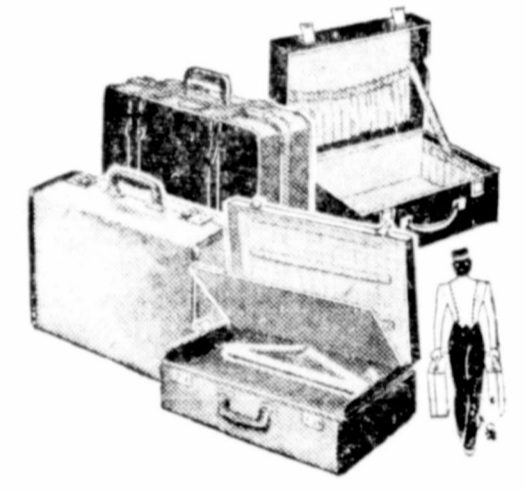

REACHING early toward the seedbeds when their fields are sown, these people realize that the sugar beet plant is a most profitable in crop those which are having a significant influence on our national supplies of sugar.

The seed of the sugar beet is a ball, or cluster, containing a number of seed germs. When the seed is planted, each of these germs sends up a sprout, with the result shown in the left half of the picture. To permit the proper development of the beets, it is necessary to thin well, so that only one seedling remains. This is an arduous task, requiring hard labor.

Recently, however, it has been found possible through the use of a relatively simple machine, to crack the seed balls into individual

LLEWELLYN MCCREA AT REST IN OAKWOOD

All that was mortal of little Llewellyn McCrea, age 7, was laid to rest in Oakwood cemetery yesterday afternoon, following a funeral service at 6:30 o'clock that was beautiful with floral tributes, and comfort by Dr. Gary L. Smith, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and songs by the Presbyterian choir that the child had attended Sunday school at that church. Further tribute to the character and disposition of the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Yancey McCrea, was given by the speaker as he read the words of praise spoken by a former teacher, and as he alluded to the perfect attendance record given him by the Sunday school of the First Presbyterian church, which he had attended for two consecutive years, and which was attached to his final rites. Further tribute was accorded by the large group that attended the funeral services at the church and that followed the procession to the grave where the body was left alone for a short time at the floral-banked grave before final consignment to the earth to mother earth. Following the funeral at the church a short service was held at the home for the immediate family of which both of the above mentioned ministers spoke words of consolation. Among relatives and friends who attended were the following: Rev. and Mrs. Geo. Anderson, Abilene; Mrs. W. B. Perry and Mrs. Hooper Shelton, Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Harkness, Ardmore; Mr. and Mrs. George Tipton, Morenci, Ariz.; Mr. and Mrs. L. H. McCrea, Cisco and Nashville, Tenn. Friends—Mrs. Clyde Bailey, Fort Worth; J. P. Stubblesfield, Pecos; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Stephenson, Big Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Homer McMillan and daughter, Margaret Ann; and Mrs. J. C. Dyer, Pecos; Mrs. Fred Cook, Putnam; Mr. Roy Wilbanks and daughter Betty Mae, Moran.

TEXANS STOOD TOGETHER IN KILLING VETO

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Both senators from Texas and every member of the house delegation from Texas united in a vote to help Congress give President Roosevelt the widest defeat of his career in the passage of the Connally-Smith anti-strike bill, over his veto two hours after the veto message had reached the senate.

SERIOUS HEAD INJURY

J. E. Lindley, an ex-soldier and a transient, who gives the name of Mrs. Bob Gray of Azusa as his daughter, is in Graham sanitarium as a result of some kind of accident, in which he had a rather serious head injury, from which he has only partially regained consciousness. He was found just north of Lake Cisco on the Moran highway Saturday morning about 1 o'clock, by Rev. Russell Dennis and Rev. Nugent Bassett, as they were returning to the police and Thomas ambulance took him to the hospital. The real extent of his injuries had not been ascertained, it was reported at the hospital. He talked constantly, but only once and then was his conversation rational. Efforts were being made to get in touch with Mrs. Gray, the daughter. The doctor seemed like it might have been caused by a hit and run driver, police say.

HOUR OF GREAT DECISIONS

WASHINGTON, June 26.—For once Washington and London agree with Berlin when it says "The hour of great decisions is at hand." Germany must decide whether to launch an offensive in Russia; Japan must decide whether to attack in Siberia; Italy must decide whether to fight or cave in. As for us, our decisions largely have to do with timing, depending on what we can lure the other side into doing or leaving undone. Watch the Balkans. The calendar, geography, history, hints here and there, all indicate action there.

Word here is that Berlin and Tokyo are busy buck-passing. Hitler has told Tojo that his Pacific war is a flop if he doesn't attack Vladivostok—and soon. Tojo, it is said, snapped back that the Nazis are sunk if they can't lick the Russians in Europe. Each hesitates to take the initiative. And for the first time, Nazis are beginning to act like they believe they can win the war by going on the defensive, stalling for time, waiting for the United States to break up because of internal chaos. Their reasons: Strikes, race riots, name calling, food shortages and grumbling over them, bureaucratic bungling, deep-seated difference on economic questions. It looks from where they sit like approaching collapse.

You can get odds at the capitol that the president's proposal to draft strikes will never get through either house or senate military affairs committees. If he asks legislation raising the draft age limit from 45 to 65, House will call an imposing list of military and naval officers for their views; anticipates they will oppose their commander in chief. One angle to be thoroughly explored: Strikers drafted into the army would be eligible for hospitalization, disability compensation, pensions, and any further bonuses.

Look for Chester Davis to resign as war food administrator unless the legislative shapes up fast to give him power he wants over food prices. He's put it on the line with Roosevelt and Roosevelt has said no. Davis' plan (for higher farm, food prices), would mean end of centralized control over cost-of-living prices, end of hold-the-line order against inflation. It's the plan the big four farm organizations favor. Meanwhile OPA hits back with charges of its own; says food is spoiling today because WFA made no plans to get it distributed or to get surplus to canners. Note: One reason for the farm organizations' drive to kill the OPA is fear that it will go through with paper plans to regulate distribution of food to an extent never tried in this country.

FIRST METHODIST SPECIAL SERMONS

Rev. Fred Hamner, superintendent of the San Angelo district of the Methodist church, will preach a week's series of special sermons at Cisco's First Methodist church beginning next Sunday, says the pastor, Rev. Leslie Seymour. The general theme of the sermons will be "The Church." Last summer a similar series was given here by Dr. James Carlyon of Southern Methodist University, the theme for his sermons being "The Bible." These services will be held each evening on the lawn of the church.

LIKE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS AND U. S. MARINES, JOHN L. LEWISITES MUST TOE THE LINE

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Effectiveness of the anti-strike weapon which congress forged yesterday, "the objections of the president to the contrary notwithstanding," will be tested immediately.

That will come through the new law's effect on the coal mine strikes still persisting despite the new armistice reached between John L. Lewis and the government. The effect may be shown Monday. If the "wildcats" end Monday, the smashing majorities in senate and house that overrode Mr. Roosevelt's veto will chalk up a victory.

The punitive sections of the law can be invoked against local leaders of the mine strikes, even though national and district leaders of the United Mine Workers apparently are in the clear. This job is up to Attorney General Francis Biddle, head of the Department of Justice.

Presidents and other leaders of local mine worker unions, if caught encouraging or directing a strike in the government-controlled mines, may be fined up to $5000, or imprisoned up to a year or both. The same penalties could be applied to national or district leaders found to be involved.

There will be many repercussions from the epoch-marking congressional proceedings which within less than three hours of receipt of the president's veto message turned out one of the most momentous reverses that any chief executive has received in wartime.

This law is the first anti-union enactment in the ten years of the Roosevelt administrations, and probably the most sweeping legislation of that character in American history. It represents the greatest legislative blow ever suffered by organized labor—the American Federation of Labor, the CIO, the Railway Brotherhoods, as well as the United Mine Workers—which rose to unprecedented power under Mr. Roosevelt, and most of which announced that all supporters of this legislation would be regarded as "enemies of labor" and dealt with accordingly.

But new forces are making themselves felt in the halls of congress. They were indicated by Representative Andrew J. May (Democrat, Kentucky), chairman of the house military affairs committee, who jubilantly declared:

"We have sent a gratifying message to the good citizens on our home front, and benediction to our boys on the battlefields!"

Applause swept both senate and house, and the galleries too, when the votes were announced to show that more than two-thirds in each body did not agree with the President's objections. For the first time during this war jeers were heard in the house against the commander-in-chief. They came from the Republican side, and constituted a raspberry for Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion that the selective service law be amended so that strikers may be inducted into the armed forces. That proposal has turned out to be the most unpopular ever made by Mr. Roosevelt, and interviewed soldiers declare it is an insult to their uniform.

One of the results is that the coal mines cannot be held in government custody more than 60 days after normal production is resumed. That means that the latest Lewis "truce" to Oct. 31 is legislatively abrogated.

Another important effect is that Mr. Lewis cannot now proceed effectively with his campaign to smash the National War Labor Board, as he did its predecessor, the National Defense Mediation Board. NWLB is now a statutory agency, backed by the supreme power of the National Congress, responsible to the people.

No man can smash it, nor could even the president abolish it. The board now has power to compel obedience from those who have defied it—including not only the head of the United Mine Workers but Sewell Avery, president of Montgomery Ward & Co. and chairman of the board of the U. S. Gypsum Co. Its authority now is embedded in law, not in the less secure foundation of a presidential executive order.

Another result is encouragement for a movement under way in congress for adoption of a joint resolution requesting that the president see to it that Mr. Lewis be required to obey the recent directive of the War Labor Board that he sign a new contract with the coal operators on terms specified by the board.

SUBSIDIES BLOCKED.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—In a defeat of administration forces, the senate voted 39 to 37 Saturday to prohibit the payment of government subsidies to roll back retail food prices.

DRAFT DODGERS.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The FBI announced Saturday that 779 draft dodgers were arrested in a nationwide roundup Friday. This brings the number of arrests of selective service slackers since the war broke out to 4,371.

REDS ON TOP.

MOSCOW, June 26.—Red army troops smashed the strongest German attempt in recent weeks to force the northern Donets and hurled back enemy forces in bitter local fighting northwest of Moscow, the Soviet high command announced today.

Headed For Your Sugar Bowl

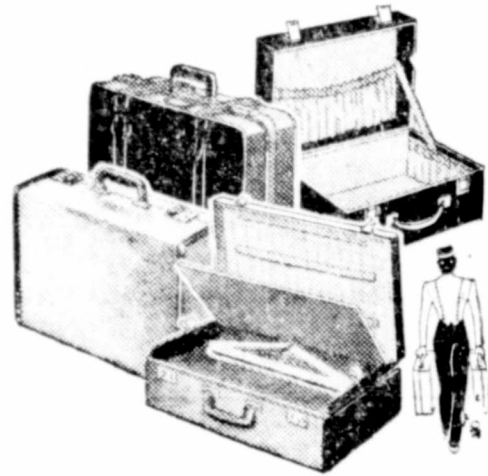

REACHING slowly toward the sun, these tender seedlings of the sugar beet are a minor revolution in agriculture which is having a significant influence on our national supply of sugar.

The seed of the sugar beet is a ball of starch containing a number of seed germs. When the seed is planted in a field, these seed germs send up a shoot, with the result shown in the right half of the picture. To permit the proper development of the roots, it is necessary to thin each plant so that only one seed is left in the soil.

When these young segmented roots are planted in the soil, they grow up as shown at the left. With a series of single seedlings, the best sugar can be produced. The best sugar can be produced when the roots are cut into small pieces and dried. These small pieces are then ground into a fine powder and pressed into sugar cubes.
