GERMANS LEAVE GUNS AND FLEE FROM REDS

OLD-AGE ASSISTANCE IS REORGANIZED

AUSTIN, Oct. 28.—The state department of public welfare has begun operation of a reorganized plan of old age assistance as outlined in a new rule book issued by Jimmy Winters, executive director. The 63-page manual replaces the old 377 pages and makes its principal changes in the rules for judging need.

Winters explains that "the amount of a grant is determined by itemizing and totaling the cost of necessities and deducting income. The deficit determines the assistance granted."

"We have found, for instance," says Winters, "that the amount allowed for incidentals varies widely and since this is a semi-monthly item we are placing a 12 per cent limit on allowances to meet this need, so all will receive equal treatment. The incidental allowance has included such items as bus fare, small church contributions, tobacco, stamps, stationery, newspapers, etc."

"We find wide variance in the amount allowed for the purchase of glasses and teeth. Hereafter, we feel we cannot grant more than $3 for the purchase of glasses or $10 for teeth. The department has been providing money to enable aged persons to pay their share of rent and utilities when living in the home of son or daughter. While this department is prohibited by law from inquiring into the ability of a child to support, we have found that such allowances are often not used for payment of rent. In the future no money will be granted for rent unless the aged person's presence in the home actually increases the cost of rent."

Heretofore, the department did not count as a resource certain personal property, real property and insurance. The new policies exempt only a burial reserve of $500, either in cash, liquidable property or insurance. All real and personal property in addition to a homestead is now considered in determining eligibility. The law requires that actual contributions being made by relatives be taken into account and full weight will now be given to such support in determining need.

"The new rules are intended to do two things: To insure that the greatest need get the most money and that the program be administered on a uniform basis," Winters explained. He said the department "is going to more carefully examine the needs and resources of each recipient so that we can meet the basic needs of all applicants on a more uniform basis within our limits." It will take time to re-examine the rolls and everything under the revised plan.

HOME AGAIN—When Pvt. Burdette C. Briggs, Rockford, Ill., transferred from Navy to Army Air Corps, he was sent to Camp Grant, Ill., for training. Strangely, he was home again, for Camp Grant was his birthplace. When his father was foreman wrecker on buildings after World War I.

U.S. NAVY SPEARHEAD OF VICTORY

Yesterday was naval day at Cisco Lions luncheon and the program was in charge of Geo. W. Downie, head of the local military affairs committee of the club. Rev. James R. Wright was the main speaker, while Ensign J. W. Cullwell, former science teacher at Junior college and high school, and a commercial pilot instructor at the same time, was present and made a talk along the line of his duties and work.

Jack Chambliss of Lafayette, La., sang two numbers as a part of the naval program. Others present were Randall Aiken, also of Lafayette, La.; Betty Slicker of Dallas and Walter J. Leach of Los Angeles. Miss Slicker played the piano for the song service and Mr. Leach spoke briefly, saying he was glad to be back and meet his old friends. Leach refused to comment on the California weather, although it is known that the U. S. government would welcome any dependable data thereon.

The subject of Wright's talk was "Our Navy, the Spearhead of Victory." He began by speaking of the symbolism of the sailor's dress. He said the thirteen buttons on his trousers were symbolic of the original thirteen colonies; the black tie and stripe were borrowed from the British costume. The white about the neck yoke is to symbolize the death of Admiral Farragut, one of the early American heroes of the navy. Navy day was set for October 27 as the celebration of the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, who was the founder of the modern navy.

The work of the navy, Wright said, is done quietly and without the blowing of trumpets, hence few people really know of all accomplishments of that vitally important arm of the U. S. fighting force, which now covers the seven seas of the earth. The sailors who man the ships cover themselves with glory on every ocean of battle in which they fight.

Naval warfare really dates from the year 480 B. C., when the Persians turned back the Persian hordes of Asia, who were invading Europe with their powerful navy, consisting of three tiered galleys, powered by oars. Later the Romans employed galleys with five tiers of oars. Sails came in the sixteenth century, while steamships were a later American invention, with the Monitor of the Civil War as the beginning of the modern armored ship of today.

It was the navy of Admiral Nelson that gave England her ascendancy in Europe and it was America's victories in the war of 1812 that gave her the naval supremacy of the world. The speaker then gave some data on the armament and speed of the big battleships that traverse the oceans today.

DONOHOE OF USS FISKE VISITS HOME

L. J. Donohoe of the USS Fiske arrived in Cisco yesterday for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Donohoe and his many Cisco friends. Donohoe is 18 years of age and is one of the very large number of native-born Ciscoans now serving Uncle Sam. He graduated from Cisco high school in 1942 and entered the service January 26 of this year.

McCANLIES OF CISCO MARINE CARTOONIST

CAMP PENDLETON, Ocean-side, Calif., Oct. 28.—Taking his place alongside other war-time cartoon characters, "Private Mac," creation of Phil D. McCannies of Cisco, Texas, recently made his debut in the "Muster," regimental weekly paper of the 23rd Marines. "Private Mac" as portrayed by McCannies is a silent, wistful little guy, continually befuddled by the complications of life in the Marine corps. His zany predicaments and sly observations make him a constant delight to McCannies' buddies.

Before joining the Marine corps, McCannies studied art with the federal correspondence school and did some free lance art work for advertisers in and around Cisco. His ambition is to become a professional cartoonist. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess P. McCannies of 608 W. Third street, Cisco, Texas.

FEW ENGLISH WOULD KILL ALL GERMANS

LONDON, Oct. 28.—A poll taken by Prof. A. M. Low, British scientist and inventor, has disclosed that few Britons would agree to the extermination of all the German people despite the passions engendered by war.

Through the Daily Chronicle, Low asked readers: "If a new weapon were invented which could kill every man, woman and child in Germany tomorrow by pressing a button in this country, would you press the button?"

The "no's" won by a good margin, maintaining there was a strong element of good in Germany.

But among those who replied "yes" was Harry Seccombe of Manchester, who wrote: "Where is that button? I'd push it." A military policeman on the German-Belgium border who was captured when the Germans invaded the Low Countries, Seccombe said: "After escaping, I listened to the Nazi's songs of hate, to their song about invading England and saw the evil glow come into their faces. If that landing had materialized, I wonder whether there would still be as many soft-hearted sentimentalists to say the Germans are not all bad."

FOOTBALL RALLY.

Cisco pep leaders announce a rally at high school building Thursday at 7 p. m., to make medicine for the Brownwood game, which is to be played at Brownwood Friday night. The rally will be held in the auditorium and, regardless of the weather, those who attend may be comfortable.

ALLIES MOVE FORWARD IN ITALY DRIVE

ALGIERS, Oct. 28.—Americans of the Fifth Army and the British on their right drove sharp wedges into the swaying German defenses up to four miles which overran eight towns in front of the new Nazi battle line.

Despite stiffening German resistance which slowed down the general movement against the Mondragone-Vasto line, the U. S. troops sliced forward a mile east of the main road to Rome and captured Riardo, while in the Apennine and Adriatic sectors the Eighth Army drove toward the key junction of Isernia at the center and forced further crossings of the Trigno river.

Allied progress was described officially as "satisfactory," but spokesmen warned that with the Germans digging in on the "Little Rommel" line, the fighting from now on could be expected to be increasingly bitter.

Riardo, in front of the Mount Massico sector of the line, was captured by American troops who beat down stiff German opposition aimed at fending off the approach to their vital positions.

GENERAL COAL STRIKE LOOMS AS PROBABLE

Likelihood of another general coal strike increased today as continued lack of mine wage agreement prompted ever-spreading walkouts in many of the nation's coal fields.

Meanwhile, officials of 15 non-operating railroad unions prepared to poll their 1,100,000 members on possible strike action. A second emergency board was scheduled to open hearings on the case today.

The mine strike situation—aggravated by the War Labor Board's rejection of the Illinois wage agreement—deteriorated steadily in seven states. In Alabama, where the walkout was in its 16th day, a minor back-to-work movement lost its momentum abruptly. More than 20,000 strikers remained out of the mines this morning, halting fuel production for Alabama's steel mills.

SLAUGHTER TO HEAD COMMUNITY CHEST

Directors of Cisco Community Chest met at the chamber of commerce to elect officers and to make first plans for the annual campaign for funds, H. S. Drumwright presiding.

Reports of the treasurer, A. E. McNeely, indicated that all claims on the chest this year, soon to close, would be adequately met if all unpaid pledges are taken care of promptly by those who subscribed to the chest last fall.

J. W. Slaughter was elected as chairman to succeed Mr. Drumwright, who was in turn elected vice chairman. McNeely was re-elected treasurer and Mrs. R. B. Carswell was elected secretary.

Tentative plans were made for the campaign for funds to be made the last of November or first of December, the new chairman to call a meeting in the near future to name committees and to fix a definite date.

Indications are that the total to be asked this year will be slightly less than last year, though final figures have not yet been determined. Agencies participating in the Community Chest this year will be the City Welfare association, Boy Scout Council, Service Men's club and the High School Bible course.

WILD DISORDER ON 90-MILE FRONT AS COSSACK ARMORED UNITS CROSS NOGAISK STEPPES

MOSCOW, Oct. 28.—Battered German forces broke and fled in wild disorder along a 90-mile front today as powerful Cossack armored units stormed across the Nogaisk steppes in a two-pronged drive to seal off the Crimea and complete the encirclement of the Dnieper bulge.

The decisive Russian breakthrough along the whole front, from the southeast corner of the Dnieper River bend to the Sea of Azov, heightened the threat of annihilation, hanging over upwards of 1,000,000 Axis troops in the Southern Ukraine and the Crimea.

A 60-mile Russian sweep to the Perekop Isthmus would cut off all land escape for the German Crimean garrison and a thrust across the lower reaches of the Dnieper for a junction with the Soviet column now battling in the streets of Krivoi Rog, would trap the remnants of perhaps 500,000 Germans in the Dnieper bulge.

Red Air Force bombers, fighters and assault planes roared out ahead of the Soviet vanguard and ripped the fleeing enemy columns on the Nogaisk steppes with bombs and bullets, killing hundreds of troops and wrecking transports. Twenty-eight German planes which sought to interfere were shot down.

In their haste to escape, the Germans abandoned artillery, trench mortars, ammunition and other war material along the highways. Twenty tanks, 137 guns and 12 six-barreled trench mortars, were captured in one sector.

Soviet raiding parties cut in behind the enemy's rear guards and rounded up hundreds of prisoners.

Gen. Fedor I. Tolbukhin's forces, in their initial breakthrough yesterday, swept 18 1-2 miles across the steppes, overran more than 90 towns and villages, and cut three main roads. Some 3000 Germans were killed and 28 tanks and 90 guns destroyed.

The Soviets captured Timoshevka, 26 miles northwest of Melitopol, and only 40 miles southeast of Nikopol, vital manganese center in the Dnieper bend already threatened at Krivoi Rog.

Russian forces that have thrust half way across the Dnieper bulge from Kremenchug on the north shore of the river, occupied several additional hamlets and punched their way deeper into Krivoi Rog, big mineral center, from three sides.

The Germans counter-attacked with massed tanks and infantry in a frantic effort to save that northern prop of the escape gap for their forces withdrawing from the east and northeast, but everywhere were thrown back with heavy losses.

Plan Now Your WINTER COMFORT

Lone Star Gas Service costs so little. But this is no reason why in these wartime days some thought shouldn't be given to its wise use. By planning ahead there are many little things you can do to eliminate waste and thereby get full benefit from the economy of whole house heating. The eight suggestions below are insignificant in themselves, but all together they add up to quite a saving over a period of months. But more important they mean the wise use of a fuel which is so important to Southwestern war industries.

HOW TO USE GAS WISELY FOR HOUSE HEATING

1. Avoid overheating. Keep the house temperature around 72 degrees.
2. Keep all heating equipment in good operating condition; keep it clean and free from all dust particles.
3. Flame on radiant-type room heaters should not be allowed to lick out top of radiators.
4. If you have a gas heater in your fireplace, seal the flue to the extent that the room heat will not go up the chimney, yet leave sufficient space for venting heater.
5. See that windows and doors lock tightly; if possible they should be weather-stripped.
6. Where unvented equipment is used, a small opening at the top of the window is recommended to help reduce "wall sweating." Window openings should be no wider than necessary for an ample flow of fresh air, otherwise they become heat wasters.
7. At night when windows are open in bedrooms, shut off rest of house to prevent temperatures from dropping so low that more fuel will be needed to build up warmth during the morning hours.
8. When properly used, insulation can reduce consumption of heating gas 20 to 25 per cent in one-story houses and 15 to 20 per cent in two-story houses of standard type construction. Insulation materials are plentiful.

Gas Floor Furnaces are available for you who can qualify under WPB ruling. Gas room heaters are rationed by OPA. Let us help you in making out necessary application forms.

Likelihood of another general coal strike increased today as continued lack of mine wage agreement prompted ever-spreading walkouts in many of the nation's coal fields.

Meanwhile, officials of 15 non-operating railroad unions prepared to poll their 1,100,000 members on possible strike action. A second emergency board was scheduled to open hearings on the case today.

The mine strike situation—aggravated by the War Labor Board's rejection of the Illinois wage agreement—deteriorated steadily in seven states. In Alabama, where the walkout was in its 16th day, a minor back-to-work movement lost its momentum abruptly. More than 20,000 strikers remained out of the mines this morning, halting fuel production for Alabama's steel mills.

SLAUGHTER TO HEAD COMMUNITY CHEST

Directors of Cisco Community Chest met at the chamber of commerce to elect officers and to make first plans for the annual campaign for funds, H. S. Drumwright presiding.

Reports of the treasurer, A. E. McNeely, indicated that all claims on the chest this year, soon to close, would be adequately met if all unpaid pledges are taken care of promptly by those who subscribed to the chest last fall.

J. W. Slaughter was elected as chairman to succeed Mr. Drumwright, who was in turn elected vice chairman. McNeely was re-elected treasurer and Mrs. R. B. Carswell was elected secretary.

Tentative plans were made for the campaign for funds to be made the last of November or first of December, the new chairman to call a meeting in the near future to name committees and to fix a definite date.

Indications are that the total to be asked this year will be slightly less than last year, though final figures have not yet been determined. Agencies participating in the Community Chest this year will be the City Welfare association, Boy Scout Council, Service Men's club and the High School Bible course.

WILD DISORDER ON 90-MILE FRONT AS COSSACK ARMORED UNITS CROSS NOGAISK STEPPES

MOSCOW, Oct. 28.—Battered German forces broke and fled in wild disorder along a 90-mile front today as powerful Cossack armored units stormed across the Nogaisk steppes in a two-pronged drive to seal off the Crimea and complete the encirclement of the Dnieper bulge.

The decisive Russian break-through along the whole front, from the southeast corner of the Dnieper River bend to the Sea of Azov, heightened the threat of annihilation, hanging over upwards of 1,000,000 Axis troops in the Southern Ukraine and the Crimea.

A 60-mile Russian sweep to the Perekop Isthmus would cut off all land escape for the German Crimean garrison and a thrust across the lower reaches of the Dnieper for a junction with the Soviet column now battling in the streets of Kriwoi Rog, would trap the remnants of perhaps 500,000 Germans in the Dnieper bulge.

Red Air Force bombers, fighters and assault planes roared out ahead of the Soviet vanguard and ripped the fleeing enemy columns on the Nogaisk steppes with bombs and bullets, killing hundreds of troops and wrecking transports. Twenty-eight German planes which sought to interfere were shot down.

In their haste to escape, the Germans abandoned artillery, trench mortars, ammunition and other war material along the highways. Twenty tanks, 137 guns and 12 six-barreled trench mortars, were captured in one sector.

Soviet raiding parties cut in behind the enemy's rear guards and rounded up hundreds of prisoners.

Gen. Fedor I. Tolbukhin's forces, in their initial breakthrough yesterday, swept 18 1-2 miles across the steppes, overran more than 90 towns and villages, and cut three main roads. Some 3000 Germans were killed and 28 tanks and 90 guns destroyed.

The Soviets captured Timoshevka, 26 miles northwest of Melitopol, and only 40 miles southeast of Nikopol, vital manganese center in the Dnieper bend already threatened at Kriwoi Rog.

Russian forces that have thrust half way across the Dnieper bulge from Kremenchug on the north shore of the river, occupied several additional hamlets and punched their way deeper into Kriwoi Rog, big mineral center, from three sides.

The Germans counter-attacked with massed tanks and infantry in a frantic effort to save that northern prop of the escape gap for their forces withdrawing from the east and northeast, but everywhere were thrown back with heavy losses.

MORE JEFFERS --- FEWER PROFESSORS.

One of the most outstanding feats in war production was done by William M. Jeffers, former rubber director, in building up facilities to supply this nation with synthetic rubber. In about a year, he had the program completed and the rubber rolling out. He then resigned and went back to his job of railroading.

Shortly after he resigned, it was suggested that he had better return and see that tires were made out of the new rubber supplies available, as tire companies claimed they were short-handed. In reply, Mr. Jeffers said he finished the job he was chosen to do—get rubber; that the shortage of manpower in the tire industry is not nearly as serious as on American railroads. He said that in his letter of resignation to the president, he told him there was a shortage of tire fabric for which the War Production Board was responsible, and that the question of manpower shortage had been repeatedly called to the attention of the War Manpower Commission. He said that Colonel Dewey and others who worked with him on the rubber program, understand it thoroughly and that if Dewey will demand the ultimate in support of the rubber program from the rubber companies, the War Production Board, and from the War Manpower Commission, the rubber program will come through. "There are practical men in the OPA who, if given the opportunity to head up the rubber problem within the OPA, will do a job."

The Jeffers philosophy of getting production, which he did with rubber, one of our most scarce articles, is what this nation needs more than policies and theories which promote shortages. Bounteous supplies, reasonable profit, and such regulation as is needed to prevent profiteering, is the real American way of doing business.

We need more Jeffers and fewer professors.

PANICKY?

What is the matter with our so-called business and political leaders who chant: "Capitalism has no more chance," or, "Private enterprise has no more chance after the war," or we will have a totalitarian government? Do they really believe what they say? If so, they better not advertise their panic.

We are fighting a war to preserve freedom. We wouldn't be liking the Axis if we would surrender the right to say and do what we please, and raise our families as we please, because someone promised to fill our stomachs.

GENEROSITY.

The Nazis have offered the Dodecanese Islands in the Eastern Mediterranean to Turkey if she will enter the war on their side.

Now, the Dodecanese Islands don't belong to Germany. They belong to her former ally, Italy, or more properly to Greece, from whom Italy seized them 30 years ago. By no reckoning are they Germany's to dispose of. But that is the way the Nazis operate.

PHILOSOPHIC.

Wendell L. Wilkie, always somewhat of a philosopher, says

STAGE - GOIN' MAMA — Jacqueline Louis has famed dad in world heavyweight boxing champ, Joe Louis. Soon she may have famed mother, for Mrs. Marva Trotter Louis of New York announces she's going on stage soon. She says Louis family needs cash.

he doesn't expect the "politicians" to be very enthusiastic about his candidacy next year, and that he doesn't care much anyway. "It's in the bag," he says, but he seems to have adopted the attitude that it isn't really a matter of life or death. He can take it or leave it. His sincerity can presumably be accepted at face value. Campaigning day after day and year after year must be rather wearing at times. And Mr. Wilkie, more than most politicians, seems to have considerable resources, both material and immaterial. His active mind and varied interests make him a more interesting and human character than William Jennings Bryan, who pursued the presidency so long and fiercely. At the same time, Mr. Wilkie may have read this wise saying, of ancient origin: "The dead bear with them, in their clutched fingers, only those things which they have given away."

OTHER EDITORS

Stevenson's Choice.
Dallas News: When Attorney General Mann announced recently that he would probably run for governor of Texas next year on the new deal ticket, some of his friends were asked why he did so after Lyndon Johnson and James V. Allred failed to make the senatorial grade on a similar platform. They reply: "But next year is presidential election year; that will make a big difference." From some political angles they were correct. Possibly they, and Mr. Mann, too, had overlooked an offsetting complication in the fact that, by old Democratic tradition, the governor heads the state's delegation to the national Democratic convention. But it did not take the politically-wise president very long to figure it out.

So Governor Stevenson is invited to Washington to visit the president. The invitation is said to have come from Democratic party leaders but, since they would not have issued the invitation without consulting the president, it is substantially an invitation from the president. Since the president is inviting the governor, or at least is willing to receive him on the invitation of other party leaders, it is logical to assume that the president has something important to say.

A conciliatory conference might bolster old friendships that have sagged a little since the Texas governor made sharp remarks about the administration of gasoline and other rationing in Texas and the president visited the state without so much as a howdy-do to his chief executive. This would work out very well for everyone except Mr. Mann who would be just one more victim of the terrible tendency of politics to backfire. Or the president might offer the governor an ambassadorship, or a high federal executive position, thereby derring him out of what threatens to become a troublesome political situation next year—that is, provided Governor Stevenson accepted. That would smooth the way for Mr. Mann. It might also help Vice President Wallace who, while cordaily received in Texas the other day, did not exactly get inspiration for any veni vidi vici message to his chief.

A few days ago Col. Myron G. Blalock, our national committeeman from Texas, proclaimed in right stentorian tones that us Democrats should put aside politics until next year. "Oh, yeah," sez us Democrats.

HOW MANY BOYS FROM CISCO WON'T COME BACK?

NOBODY knows the exact number. Nobody. But --- The number who do come back --- on their own two feet instead of in a flag-draped box --- will be in exact proportion to the job we do here at home.

For every minute that we can help shorten the war will mean more lives saved. (213 Americans were killed in the final day of the last war, and 1,114 were wounded before the 11:00 o'clock Armistice took effect.)

Now one way all of us can help shorten the war is to tighten our belts and buy more War Bonds. Yes, still more. And ...

If you think you're buying all the War Bonds you are able to, imagine — for a minute — that it's after the war ... you're standing at the station ... a bunch of hometown boys, still in uniform, climb off the train ... one of them kisses his wife and grabs his kid in his arms ... and then he turns to a young woman beside them, a girl who looks like his wife's sister, and you overhear him say ...

"Catherine, I don't know how to tell you how sorry I am ... it's such a shame about Joe ... it makes me sick all over when I think how he'd be here today if the war had only ended a week sooner."

Think it over. Can't you buy a few more War Bonds to help end the war that week or month sooner? Sure, it may mean giving up something, but what's that compared to what they're giving up? And remember, always—The money you "can't spare" may spare a soldier's life!
