Junior College Is Better For First Years of Training

By W. H. LaROQUE,
Cisco Jr. College Science Teacher.

The time approaches for preparations for school, and especially for college, where son or daughter is to continue the educational training necessary in these times of survival of the fittest for a successful and happier life.

The big question with many is "where shall we go?" The various advantages have been weighed and discussed but, with some, there are so many things to consider that it has perhaps been hard to make the decision.

One thing that makes it difficult is that high schools are turning out graduates at a very tender and immature age. Mothers do not think it wise to send their children away from home until a more or less stable character has been fixed within the child's mind. There are too many pitfalls and too many chances for the young girl or boy to establish the wrong kind of ideals and companions. Mothers fear would keep their children under the parental roof at least another year or two.

Now that is one of the many strong reasons why Cisco Junior College should receive patronage from those in this immediate area. Good roads and bus service make it practical for students in surrounding towns and country places to attend college and yet be at home each night for at least two more years.

And the thing that makes this so attractive is that none of the time is lost at this college. Every credit made at Cisco Junior College is recognized by any university to which your child might want to go for a special or finishing course. Cisco Junior College is fully accredited.

Courses offered are wide in scope, allowing much latitude for shaping the foundation for the special studies that may be contemplated for the last two years leading to a degree.

Cisco College is amply equipped with laboratory for sciences offered, and an ever-growing library offers wide supplementary reading material for lesson assignments.

The business department is equipped for fully developed courses in secretarial and business administration.

A corps of teachers equipped by years of successful experience, and with scholarly attainments, far beyond what is required to teach these particular subjects, are ready to give personal instruction to students who may need special aid to fit into the college program.

These teachers have the opportunity to know, personally, each student and to anticipate the requirements for each personality. By lectures and lesson talks, right philosophies of living and endeavor are daily drilled into the minds of these students of tender age and unsettled interpretations of what is worthwhile in life.

Classes are large enough to create rivalry and interest, yet not too large to allow for the personal touch.

The saving in money when the child is retained at a home school is no mean item.

Aside from material advantage, there is a patriotic element in sponsoring and building a college near one's home or community. You are building an institution of learning that will be here for coming posterity—for the brothers and sisters, sons and daughters of the succeeding generation. One is aiding mankind and adding to the wealth of the community when one patronizes and keeps alive something that will increase in usefulness as time goes on.

Ciscoans and citizens of adjacent towns and communities will do well to consider the advantages of Cisco Junior College for the first two years of college training.

PENNEY ADDS FIXTURES OF LATEST STYLE

J. C. Penney Store—in Cisco since September, 1924—has just completed a remodeling job and the installation of new, modern fixtures which permit customers to inspect everything in the establishment.

In other words, there is now no merchandise behind counters, which means shoppers have easy and complete access to all articles on sale.

Austin Flint, local manager for the past two years, says his patrons are unanimous and outspoken in commendation of the service innovation. Mr. Flint also commented on the steady increase of business by the Cisco Penney Store, for which he and the organization are very grateful.

Twelve people are regularly employed here by Penney.

FIRE LOSS $2,000.

The 7-room house of Mrs. L. D. Preston, 700 west Fourth street, which carried late Tuesday afternoon, with about $300 on the lot was wiped out except the garage and that was damaged. Mrs. Preston, widow of the late Tony Preston, was visiting a neighbor when the fire broke out. Actual loss sustained by Mrs. Preston is placed at $2,000, though most of the destroyed property could not be replaced at this time at any price.

FEPC AND GOVERNOR.

AUSTIN, Aug. 17.—W. Don Ellinger of Dallas regional director for the so-called Fair Employment Practice Committee, will come here Monday for a conference with Governor Stevenson. Ellinger succeeds Leonard Brin, who resigned some weeks ago during a controversy over FEPC activities, particularly Brin's effort to forbid The Dallas News from advertising a Negro pressroom vertising. At that time, Stevenson asked Brin what were FEPC's objectives in Texas and whether it advocates violation of any state segregation laws.

THEY GET OUT AND WALK—When landing barges came to sudden halt yards from Tinian Beach Marines waded rest of way in, holding rifles aloft. Versatile amphibious tractors in assault came ashore and crossed island. Occupation was completed in nine days. (U. S. Marine Corps Photo.)

O'DANIEL ON THE AIR MONDAY EVENING

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 17.—Senator W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas has accepted an invitation to speak over a group of southern radio stations Monday night, August 21, at 8:30 o'clock, EST.

The invitation was extended by Fred Rucker of Birmingham on behalf of the newly-formed American Democratic Party of Alabama. The senator will speak from the Thomas Jefferson Hotel in Birmingham and the meeting will be attended by the Jeffersonian Democrats who were instrumental in forming the new Democratic party.

The subject of the Texan's speech will be "Shall Jeffersonian Democrats Trade Their Birthright for a Mess of Communistic Potage?"

CANTEEN MEETING.

At 8 o'clock tonight at the Teen-age Canteen the Canteen student council and the Rotary-Lions Canteen committee will hold a special meeting for the transaction of important business. Austin Flint urges that all members of these committees be on hand promptly.

DR. BARNES SPEAKER AT ROTARY TODAY

Dr. C. M. Barnes, veterinarian, who recently located in Cisco with an ambition to establish a hospital for animal diagnosis, treatment and surgery, spoke at Rotary luncheon today on his profession. He was introduced by Rotarian Cooper Waters, program chairman. J. E. Hays reported on attendance, which showed the local club had slipped somewhat from its usual high standing in the district, owing to the fact that some members had been absent recently with no opportunity of making up their attendance.

The speaker opened his discussion with a few humorous remarks about his size and apparent youth, saying he was often addressed as "sonny" and asked if his father was in.

The profession of veterinarian was first founded by Louis XV of France, but met with little approval. Later it was developed to a high level by the Germans, who have been recognized in recent years as authority on lower animal science. At first only horses were treated, but gradually cows, sheep, goats, then dogs and now poultry has been added.

It requires at least four years to complete the veterinary course now, but some spend six years in their preparation for this work, the speaker said. A. & M. college is a noted school for the south.

The course of study consists in the study of anatomy, functions of the parts, digestion, diagnosis, remedy, hospitalization and surgery. Experimentation with poisons, vaccines and serums in the laboratories follow. Milk and meat hygiene are important adjuncts to the course.

The outlet for graduates was an interesting part of the talk by Dr. Barnes. He said one was not confined to the practice of his knowledge among animals of the town or country. There are many other vocations that absorb his knowledge. Some of these mentioned were: Bureau of Animal Industry with the state and nation, meat inspection in city or state, state health department, livestock sanitation department, U. S. army food inspection, technical advisors in research and feed inspectors for proper balance in human and animal food. This veterinary course is necessary for all of the above activities, Barnes said.

CHRISTIANS TO PICNIC FRIDAY NIGHT AT LAKE

Members of the Sunday school and church of First Christian church are to enjoy their annual picnic Friday evening at Lake Cisco.

Lemonade and water melons are to be furnished, but those attending are asked to bring well-filled baskets of food.

Those who have no transportation are asked to meet at the church a little before 7 o'clock, and those who have room for one or more in their car are to drive by the church on their way to the lake to pick up those wishing to ride with them.

A good time is in store for all who attend, and all members are urged to be on hand, says J. R. Wright, the pastor.

DEATH OF GUINN FAMBRO.

Guinn Fambro, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Fambro, died Tuesday at the family home at Necessity, Stephens county. The funeral was held at the Necessity church Wednesday, with burial in the cemetery there. The boy had been an invalid since four years of age. Ciscoans attending the last rites were his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Walker, Miss Esther Walker and Bobby Walker.

CITY OF PARIS NOW IN SIGHT AND WILL BE IN ALLIED GRASP WITHIN THE NEXT FEW DAYS

AEF HEADQUARTERS, Aug. 17.—United States patrols approached Paris today in the spearheads of smashing U. S. 3rd Army gains topping four key cities in an arc only 40 to 65 miles from the Nazi-ridden French capital.

Advance units of redoubtable General Patton's lightning armored columns were less than 40 miles from Paris, and perhaps much closer.

Front dispatches said Patton was meeting only negligible resistance.

Sparring 60 to 80 miles eastward from Le Mans, his 3rd Army avalanche captured Dreux, cathedral-spired Chartres, Chateaudun and Orleans.

Dreux is 40 miles due west of Paris and only 35 miles from the capital's suburb of Versailles. Chartres is 20 miles south of Dreux. Orleans is 65 miles below the capital.

One column speared forward across the Eure River, presumably near Dreux where it curves two miles east of that road center, and then pounded on toward Paris.

Patton had thrown an arc nearly 100 miles long on Paris from the west and south. Dreux, Chateaudun and Orleans, a city of 73,000 on the Loire, all fell Wednesday. Front dispatches did not make it clear immediately when Chartres, 38 miles from Versailles, was engulfed.

Dreux and Chartres, a French department capital of 25,000 population, form the western gateway to Paris.

Patton's steel fingers formed a double threat—to take Paris and perhaps also to snare between the Seine and the Channel the German 7th Army pulling out of the disastrous Falaise pocket.

Falaise fell today to Canadian forces, and the Normandy pocket fast was disappearing with its neck narrowed to seven miles.

The Germans were retreating into the area below the Seine, which curves from Paris to the Channel.

It was Patton's army which turned north from Le Mans and brought up the southern wing of the Falaise pincers.

Now he could again send his columns beating northward from Dreux, possible forming a trap on the Seine. Seine river bridges have been wrecked by Allied bombs. And five spans on the Risle river west of the Seine were struck overnight. The Nazis would have the greatest difficulty pulling their armor and heavy equipment across the river over temporary bridges which likely would be easy marks for the vast Allied bomber fleets.

MOSCOW.—Russian armored forces narrowed the German wedge in their lines in the eastern suburbs of Warsaw today as the greatest tank battle of the Soviet summer offensive continued its third straight day.

Red Army counter-attacks on the German flanks were revealed to have cut the German salient to a narrow spearhead reaching into Ossow, 6½ miles east northeast of Praga, Warsaw's easternmost borough. The Russians acknowledged the loss of Ossow.

SS Panzer Grenadier units still were streaming across the Vistula from the center of Warsaw in a desperate effort to hold and widen the Ossow wedge, but the army organ Red Star reported the situation was "fully under control."

ROME.—Allied troops have punched out a solid front 50 miles broad and about 30 miles deep along the coast of southern France, Maj. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's 7th Army headquarters says.

On the west the invasion forces drove within 10 miles of the fortified naval base of Toulon. On the east they have penetrated Cannes. The invaders, spearheaded by three veteran American divisions and supported by heavily armored French forces, have seized approximately 500 square miles.

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt returned to the White House today after a five-week, 15,000-mile trip to Pacific war areas, more firmly determined than ever before that Japan and Germany must not be allowed to quit the war until the Allies have completely occupied their homelands.

After a trip that took him into 21 states, Hawaii—where he conferred with U. S. Pacific commanders—and the Aleutian Islands, the president came home with an admittedly new outlook on the war effort in the Pacific and grimmer, blunter than ever in his attitude toward "unconditional surrender" by the Axis.

SOVEREIGNTY.

For a man to have absolute sovereignty it would be necessary for him to live on a desert isle and never see another human being. For a nation to have absolute sovereignty it would be necessary to live in a world where there were no other nations. The mere existence of other people or groups of people limits the absolute quality of sovereignty for man or nation.

A man may own his home and the lot on which it stands. He can forbid any neighbor to step on his ground. But he cannot prevent the odor of his neighbor's cooking cabbage from ascending into the common air both breathe.

If everybody has sovereignty there is no sovereignty—there is only anarchy—lack of any government at all, chaos and trouble for everybody. When individuals wish to live in an orderly and peaceful community, they delegate some of their sovereignty as individuals to a group which will represent them. They do not lose it, but merge their powers with those of others for the sake of orderly government under law.

When nations wish to live together in peace, they delegate some of their separate powers to a group, just as our states have delegated theirs to the nation. The United States would not be "losing sovereignty" by joining with other nations in a group which would preserve an orderly world. It would merely delegate some of its power to the group for the sake of order under law.

Kipling had a word for Canada's relationship to the British Commonwealth of Nations: "Daughter am I in my mother's house, but mistress in my own." She makes her own decisions in her own house, but defers—not to one sister, but to a group of which she is one—in larger decisions affecting the commonwealth.

TIRE SHORTAGE.

The worst shortage in the country is in truck tires. The big, fat fellows are wearing out very fast, and the army is taking most of those made, so civilian trucks are having a hard time. The army is releasing men over 30 with tire experience to help out the production.

Union restrictions hold men down to producing a certain quota per day, and that does not help get tires through the neck of the bottle. L. S. Buckmaster, vice president of the rubber workers' international, says his union does not contend that labor has done a 100 per cent job in all factories. It's a good job, he says, but not perfect. He added that while manpower is one factor, and the quota system is another, a third must be reckoned with—the failure of the government to anticipate needs far enough in advance. Still a fourth is the shift from natural rubber to synthetic—the latter being harder to handle.

The army and navy try to anticipate needs as far as possible. But these needs change with the shifting circumstances of the war. Our rapid movement, while shortening the war in the long run, makes demands for more of some materials in a certain time than could have been foreseen.

It's a difficult situation, and army, navy, government and labor are all trying to find the best and earliest possible solution. Meantime, civilian trucks which carry the great fighting loads are suffering.

OPEN FORUM

Calling a Halt.
68,000,000 life insurance policy holders should know that the house of representatives, by vote of 283 to 54, has abrogated the decision of the supreme court to take the regulation of insurance from the states and turn it over to the bureau of Insurers in Washington.

As Congressman Jennings of Tennessee said: "It is the assets in the hands of these solvent insurance companies toward which the federal bureaucrats are reaching with itching palms." These assets total over $10,000,000,000, more than the debt at World War I.

By a 4 to 3 vote, a minority of the supreme court reversed the decision of a century. Now the house of representatives has, in effect, reversed the court. The bills now before the senate. You should write your senators to pass it, over a veto if necessary.

In his brief, Attorney General Biddle said the "suit would have been futile until there was reason to believe that the court no longer would adhere to the view that insurance is not commerce."

Significant words: Mr. Biddle proceeded to bring insurance under federal power although 36 states opposed his suit and despite the fact that the New Deal party only as recently as 1940 had said, "We favor strict supervision of all forms of the insurance business by the several states." Another company to charge enough so it can (and will) pay your widow when you die? In the long depression the aggregate loss to life insurance policy holders, under state control and private stewardship, was six-tenths of one per cent, or $8 to $1,000! Millions of policy holders lost not one cent!

If the New Deal, in violation of its platform promise of 1940, is determined to nationalize insurance, the vote you cast for congressman and senator next November may be one of the most important in your lifetime. Another congress might undo what this congress has begun.

The passage of this bill, however, is not the main issue. That is whether 68,000,000 life insurance policy holders are going to permit colossal post-war deficit spending to be piled on top of a war debt of $300 billions — $10,000 per family — until inflation destroys their insurance. For, as Mr. Roosevelt once said when the debt was one-tenth what it is now, "Upon the financial stability of the United States government depends the stability . . . of the banking, savings, and insurance systems of the nation."

A New Invasion Of Europe

The new invasion reminds us that though the time until peace may be shortened, yet there is still more fighting --- much fierce fighting --- to be done.

More fighting means, unhappily, more bloodshed and more sacrificing of lives. It means more backing up the war effort on the homefront. It means more of the hundreds of things that we, in Cisco and in other small towns of the United States of America, must keep plugging away at our jobs, whatever they are, until the final peace has been signed and sealed.

There will probably be more invasions before the end --- Greece and that sector of Europe must be released from the iron hand of the despoilers. It is too much to hope that Hitler and his criminal aides will give up without a deathly struggle that will claim thousands more lives of both Germans and Allies as well.

Don't quit until the peace is signed.

Let's Be Cool

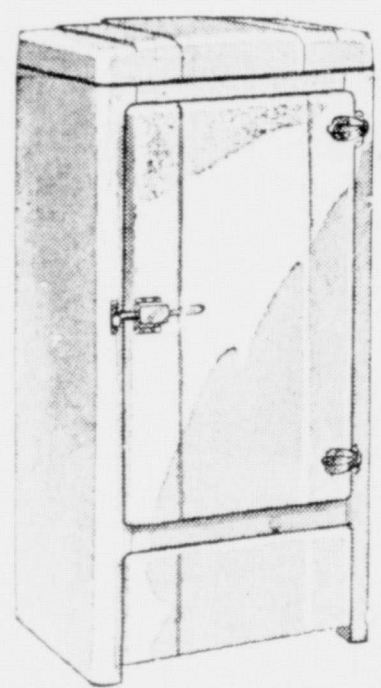

Let's don't get excited about food for next year, even though the publicity does tell us that sugar and other commodities may be more scarce next year than they were this past year. Remember, we have always had plenty of food despite the great ship loads that were sunk while in transit to feed soldiers and civilians of the war fronts.

Buy what you need and grow what you can. There will be enough for all.
