Everyone is urged to attend the musical program and help support the foreign exchange student for next year.

Piano Teachers' National Guild Plans Auditions

Piano playing Tournaments set up like musical "track meets" by Irl Allison in Texas 34 years ago are now held all over the United States. Hawaii has over 500 entrants.

The Auditions in this center will be held at South Elementary School in Dimmitt from April 29 to May 2. There will be 74 students from Dimmitt participating in this Tournament. Approximately 70,000 young people in the United States participate in these "musical meets."

Elementary and professional pupils are sent in by their teachers who are members of the National Guild of Piano Teachers (non-profit organization). Certificates, diplomas, awards and scholarships are available. Each pupil competes with a standard, not with any other student.

The judges are sent from a distant locality and give both a rating and an opinion. Famous names of the piano world are members. Ethelyn L. Stinson of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania will be judge for the auditions. She is presently music director of Philadelphia State Hospital, Philadelphia. She has been directing the musical therapy program there since 1950.

Miss Stinson has composed teaching pieces for the piano. The Theodore Presser Co. of Philadelphia, Pa published her music book "Climbing the Jungle Gym." She is the author of "How To Teach Children Music" which was published by Harper Brothers, New York, N.Y.

Miss Stinson is a faculty member of the American College of Musicians and the National Guild of Piano Teachers. She has judged (Continued on page 5) for the new county hospital bid by Hill-Burton. Thursday according to Bill Moran, chairman of the hospital board. Nine bids were submitted for approval.

According to the plans, the hospital is designed for a maximum of 35 beds. In emergency, the hospital can handle approximately 50 beds.

Hill-Burton sent a man to determine the needs of the County Hospital. He recommended a 28 bed hospital according to Judge Wilson's Hill-Burton trust fund was loaned for the immediate need of the county and not for future needs. When operating normally the hospital will have 28 beds available. There are nine patient rooms which will contain two beds and 10 patients rooms with one bed.

"We will have something everyone will be proud of," comments Judge Wilson. He continued, "With the bid so low, we were able to get first class and accept the 11 alternates which include a $5,000 Sun room, T.V. Antenna cable to each room, telephones in each room, piped-in oxygen and suction system."

Other hospital facilities include X-Ray, lab, formula room, pharmacy, central sterilizing room, business office, nurses station, storage rooms, kitchen, nursery emergency operating room, operating room and delivery room.

Some materials to be used in the hospital are marble, terrazzo, ceramic tile, oak and vinyl. Architects and engineers are Haynes and Kirby of Lubbock.

Mr. R. B. Johnston, retired Amarillo history teacher, spoke on the history of the Panhandle and the canyon from the days of the dinosaurs to the present day. He stressed the importance of being able to adapt to one's environment and times. He said that the dinosaurs which could not adapt died out, and that we should use our knowledge of the past as a lesson to guide us in the present and the future.

He gave a chronological outline of the Panhandle from prehistoric days, through Coronado's reputed refuge in the canyon, the life of the Indians on the plains, and the coming of the white man and his success in harnessing nature to his needs. Some of all this, Mr. Johnston continued, will be incorporated in the script of the historic dramatic musical play which will be presented in the canyon in 1964 and for which the amphitheater was built by the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation.

The A capella Choir West Texas State College, under the direction of Dr. Houston Bricht, presented four numbers which, like the Air Force Band, sounded clear and fresh despite the high wind. (Continued on Page Eight)

Dr. Harrison spoke to the group on "Our American Heritage". He named seven key aspects of American heritage.

The history professor pointed out the concept of equality as a major part of American heritage. He said, "A person has equality before the law and also equality of opportunity." Dr. Harrison believes the American system is the closest civilization to have achieved equality of individual.

Dr. Harrison emphasized justice as another key to American heritage. He quoted the 5th, 6th and 14th amendments to the constitution.

Freedom of thought was also considered a key. This freedom includes the press and the right to say what one thinks. Dr. Harrison pointed out that Thomas Jefferson, a great forefather emphasized matters of the mind.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT is Harold Hadley (center) played by Philip Brockman. Miss Prunella Thorne (Edna Rae Hoelting) holds the gray wig in great surprise as she discovers the woman Dean Socrates Boynton (left) has been asking to marry him is really one of her college students, Harold was masquerading as Andrews' mother-in-law in an effort to help his friend. See story.

Nazareth Seniors Attract Large Crowd For Play

A large crowd turned out to see the Nazareth senior play, "The Antics of Andrews," Friday and Sunday evenings.

The 11-member cast under the direction of Jack Aldridge did a fine job in portraying the results of a lie.

The three act farce written by Jay Tobias takes place in a ritzy apartment near Cameron College. How Andrew Browne, excellently played by Rogers Schilling, was able to afford an expensive suite quickly cleared up as a letter arrived from his rich uncle, Isaac Zimmerman played by Richard Schacher.

Andrew's rich uncle is paying $150 a week to the senior college student who has told him that he must support a wife and mother-in-law. With the arrival of the letter which announces the fact Zimmerman plans to visit Andrews, the student begins his scheme. Two college friends, Harold played by Philip Brockman and Willie played by Francis Backus are begged into masquerading as Andrews' wife and mother-in-law.

Brockman and Backus did a great job in keeping the audience laughing as they paraded across the stage in women's rutilous high heels. They even tried a little opera.

These two modern young nieces of Dean Socrates Boynton played by Nelita Venhaus and Betty Boynton were anguished by the sudden disappearance of their boyfriends. So they posed another problem to Andrews. His friends would not allow Andrew to tell his girl, Althea played by Judy Schulte about the masquerade. Just another problem added to Andrews' shoulders.

Edna Rae Hoelting did a good job of being an old maiden lady in love with Dean Socrates Boynton played by Gary Gerber.

Mary Lou Hoelting using a Deep South accent did a tremendous job as Petunia, Andrews' darkey cook. The French valet played by Ralph Schulte was also excellent.

"Looking Through The Knot Hole"

Friday, I was looking at the new houses in the Southwest part of town, when the red antique brick on the corner at 701 Maple took my eye, so I stopped to check. The outside trim is in a soft creamy yellow, with cedar shingles on the roof. The nice lot is 100 x 130 with side walks. The ground is graded and ready for your favorite grass and flowers. You enter by a front porch on the north, wide enough to sit on a summer day sipping lemonade and waving to your friends as they drive by. The entrance floor is of quarry tile and leads into a long hall connecting all of the house, keeping the traffic out of the living room, which is carpeted in grey nylon, as is all of the living room, which is carpeted in painted white, cut with green, picture window on the north makes for a light and cheerful place to entertain your friends. The wall space is excellent for an interesting furniture arrangement, a door leads into the 7 foot den and kitchen combination. The floor of both units are covered with tracene vinyl, a tile tye linoleum in shades of ivory, an ample closet for card tables and other things that must be kept. There is a small bar attached to the center cabinet for informal snacks or coffee. This room would be very comfortable and pretty furnished in Early American as the walls are paneled in parana wood with white upper walls. Two glass sliding doors give light and also open into the patio and yard to the south, a fine yard for the children. To flower garden, or a roomy play yard for the children. To quote, "How can you know a good kitchen?" Well, of course you need appliances, storage, counters, light, ventilation and stoves. The arrangement should have 5 basic centers: cooking, mixing, refrigeration, serving and cleanup. Well this kitchen has all of the necessary items. Beautiful Provincial Birch Cabinets in Maple finish. The counters are covered with white tones of Formica. They are on three walls. There is a dish washer, "O Jay", a disposal, a Tapan built in stove also in the copper tones, a cabinet on the side for storage, a telephone and menu planning and to help the Lady of the House, a utility room to the west of the kitchen is wired and plumbed for washer, dryer. There is room for a deep freeze, or a couch to rest on. I am thinking about a table and sink for arranging flowers, a closer or pantry is another nice feature of this room, which opens from the double garage which allows room for more storage. I was impressed by the floor which slopes slightly so that rain water will drain into the street if and when there is rain water. The four bedrooms are easily reached through the central hall which has several storage closets. The master bedroom on the north east has its own private bath, two closets for "his and hers" clothes. A bath room at the end of the hall is easily reached from the other bedrooms. The fourth bedroom could be used very nicely as a study for the "Master" or the children, it could be a sewing room or hobby, many uses. I liked the folding doors on all of the clothes closets, making the space visible with out that Fibber McGee clutter. This house is located in a good neighborhood, near the schools and a few blocks from the eleven churches that Dimmitt has. John Nichols and his boys from the Wilson and Nichols Lumber Yard built this attractive house. It was planned for a family but will make a nice home for the married children and grandchildren to come home too. See John for the reasonable terms and I will be happy to show you this house.

Walter Rogers' WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

THE THRESHER TRAGEDY
The loss of the 129 men of the submarine Thresher has saddened all America. It is a tragedy that reminds us again of freedom—cost of maintenance cost freedom—cost that dollars alone can't meet. As President Kennedy said, "These brave men have joined their comrades, 1,500 of whom were lost in submarines in the fight for freedom in World War II. The future of our country will always be there when there are men such as these to give their lives in preserving it."

Now we must do our best to determine why the Thresher disaster occurred. Twenty-two more submarines of the Thresher type are scheduled for construction. More brave Americans are being assigned to man them. It is a responsibility of the government to see to it that they have the best technically-perfect safety devices available. It is our duty to see to it that they have the best materials and workmanship available of the highest quality.

It is expected to be some time—before we know the exact cause of the Thresher tragedy. The submarine and its crew are in a grave 8,400 feet deep about 220 miles east of Cape Cod. The Thresher lies too deep to be salvaged. The determination of the cause of the disaster can be achieved only by photographing the wreckage from the Navy's deep-diving bathyscaphe Trieste, to be brought from the West Coast to the scene. Meanwhile, a number of theories are being advanced about possible causes for the submarine's plunge into water so deep that intense pressure would collapse its hull like an eggshell, dooming it to a sudden death. A Naval Court of Inquiry has been convened at Portsmouth, N.H., the home port of the Thresher, to hear evidence accumulated so far. Part of the nature of work done on the Thresher during a recent overhaul in the Portsmouth Naval Yard which cuts a yard wide were made in her hull so as to install new equipment. The cut-out sections were placed in place and the weld then examined by X-ray for flaws. "To the best of our knowledge and belief there were no defects in the weld," said Admiral George W. Anderson, Chief of Naval Operations. "Whether or not there were defects remains to be seen."

Was this work defective? Did some other vital piece of equipment give away? How can a similar accident be prevented in the future? Let us all hope that the answer can be found. Vice Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, the caustically outspoken Naval officer who, more than any other single American, is responsible for our great strides in nuclear-powered sea-faring, made a clean-powered speech last fall that received little notice at the time. The Admiral laid it on the line for the National Metal Congress, meeting in New York. The troubles of the Navy in the construction of nuclear-powered submarines, he said, can be laid to two main causes: (1) Poor workmanship and poor quality control, and (2) Incomplete understanding of basic manufacturing inspection processes.

Admiral Rickover was careful in the way of his criticisms, not to relate any of his criticisms to the Thresher. "It would be improper for me to make any comment on that speech at this time," he said after the Thresher was lost. However, some of the points he stressed last fall should be studied carefully by all Americans who have a part in our nation's production program—not only in the manufacture of nuclear submarines but in making aircraft and missiles and the countless other items in which our servicemen must put their trust as they man the lines against our Cold War opponents. These contractors participating in our Defense program and the men and women who work for them must be certain that their own efforts are worthy of the men who will utilize the equipment.

Unfortunately, high standards have not always been met. Among several examples cited by Admiral Rickover are the following: "Some of the items were not checked with faulty encouplers have to do with faulty welding, faulty radiography and defective castings. That is, with deficiencies in basic conventional processes of present-day technology. The press frequently reports on the manufacture of advanced computer systems caused by failure of a weld, improper use of a rotating process, or use of defective materials. Industry apparently considers such failures to be inevitable, since not enough is being done to correct the abuse."

All of us pay some part in the nation's defense. Let us be faithful to the sacrifice of the men of the Thresher by doing our best to meet our own responsibilities as Americans.

Breast of Chicken in spicy APPLE-CELERY SAUCE

Serve these chicken breasts very hot, fresh from the oven, straight from the casserole. That way you enjoy their tender moistness at its best... and also the full zest of the sauce in which they're baked.

The sauce starts with tangy canned apple sauce. To this is added a big spoonful of tomato paste, dried onion and a half cup of chunky crisp chopped celery. The chicken breasts are baked in the sauce. In the baking, the tart and the tangy blend, and the sauce emerges richly brown, with a sort of sweet pungency of flavor, and thickly crunchy with celery and onion. The chicken breasts absorb some of all this sauce for the serving. Make it one or two pieces of breast per person with plenty of the sauce spooned over.

4 medium-sized chicken breasts, split in half
1 cup evaporated milk
1 cup fine cheese cracker crumbs
1 cup tomato paste
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon salt

1 cup apple sauce with allspice, 1 teaspoon salt, four and one-half cups celery and onion. Pour mixture in lightly oiled baking dish, 13 1/2 x 9 1/2 x 2 1/4. Bake chicken, if desired, in evaporated milk and roll in crumbs seasoned with paprika and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Arrange on top of apple sauce in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for about 45 minutes. Chicken is tender. Makes 4-6 servings.

High time for Congress to take even drastic action to protect the integrity of the law-making branch of government.

The highly publicized abuses of the Congress have become a national disgrace. And whenever public confidence is shaken in the fundamental integrity of those who are the product of our great elective system, then the public cannot long keep confidence in the system itself.

THIS WEEK, I introduced a bill designed to impose both specific prohibitions and binding requirements of public disclosure upon

TEXAS COTTON GROWERS REPORT:

Entire Season Control of Thrips, Aphids and Mites...

Di-Syston Treated Plants Are Stronger, Straighter... Produce More Squares Earlier

West Texas and New Mexico cotton growers now have a new way to control thrip damage and early-season stunting... with Di-Syston granular insecticide. Di-Syston is placed in the soil with the seed and dressed after planting. The chemical is then absorbed by the growing roots and carried to all parts of the plant through the sap stream—as soon as the plant emerges. No part of the plant is unprotected—even tender new growth as it is formed.

every Member of the Congress. For 90 per cent of the Members, such restrictions are unnecessary. For the good of the Nation, they need to be enforced upon the other 10 per cent.

Fundamentally, my bill would institute the following reforms:

It would (1) tighten up on official travel, (2) impose restrictions upon employees of the Congress, (3) require public disclosure of any private financial transactions by Members of Congress, (4) restrict Members and employees from conducting any private business relationships with the Government itself, and (5) provide penalties up to $10,000 for violations.

Official travel would be permitted only upon a resolution officially adopted by a regular committee of Congress, and only actual transportation expenses and standard per diem expenses for basic necessities during such trips would be allowed for payment by the Government. It would be required that all Government monies expended either directly or indirectly on any such necessary committee trips would be itemized and published in the Congressional Record within 45 days of the occurrence.

Because of a few abuses of the public payroll by a distinct minority of the membership, it would be absolutely required that no employee of the House or Senate may be engaged or paid except when performing specific Congressional services in the office of a Congressman in Washington or in his home office in the District he represents.

Moreover, each congressman and Senator would be required to file annually a full sworn financial statement containing the amount and source of each item of his income during the previous year, any valuable gift from any source other than immediate members of his own family, an account of any stocks and bonds or other business interests or real property owned by the Member, as well as a specific accounting of any fees or honorariums he may have received during the year.

Conflicts of interest would be defined and prohibited, and each Member would be required to stipulate precisely any business relationship in which he would own an interest which had furnished for profit any goods or services of any type for the Federal Government.

For a vast majority of the Members of both the House and Senate, these requirements would impose no hardship whatever and require absolutely no change in their method of operation and conduct. For the few who have in some way abused the public trust, they would require definite alterations.

TEXANS in particular can understand the problem of a very few highly-publicized irregularities casting an unwarranted shadow of suspicion and mistrust on an entire class of people. At this very moment, Texas interests are suffering nationally because of the fact that Texas business in general is dishonest. Every Texan of course, knows this to be untrue.

Yet because of the flamboyantly over-publicized scandals involving slanted oil wells, non-existent fertilizer tanks, insurance rackets, etc. there is a tendency on the part of others to think that these few instances are representative of the total Texas commercial climate and are common practices in our state.

To ask whether Texans are inherently crooked or whether Congressmen defraud the public is like asking whether doctors and lawyers deceive and overcharge their clients, whether car dealers misrepresent their products, whether butchers defraud housewives, or housewives cheat on their husbands. The answer, obviously, is that some do. Most, however, do not.

FOR THE Congress, however, the problem of an accurate public image is even more important than for any other group. If the government itself should not command respect, then what mortal institution would be left in which Americans would be unwilling to conduct themselves, both publicly and privately, in such a way as to reflect credit rather than disgrace upon this Government and the people whom they represent, then they ought to get out.

The very great majority of Congressmen are honorable men. This goes for the Congressional employees as well. Most of them would never think of misusing a penny of public money. Most of them regularly work from 12 to 14 hours a day, much harder than they ever have or ever would in their private professions. Most Congressmen more money before they came to Congress and have witnessed a steady decline in financial net worth since being here. Yet they did not come here to get rich in the first place. And they definitely do not think of their job as a "sacrifice" but rather as the most exalted opportunity on earth for serving their country.

For the sake of the Republic, we simply cannot permit a little handful of irresponsible miscreants to tarnish the good name and reputation of this government and this nation.

Lillie Named Manager By Holly Sugar
Colorado Springs, Colo.—Appointment of D. W. Lillie to the position of Manager, Hereford District, Holly Sugar Corporation, with headquarters at Hereford, was announced here today by Holly President Dennis O'Rourke.

O'Rourke said that the Holly agriculturist will be in charge of development of large-scale commercial sugar beet production in the West Texas-Eastern New Mexico area to be served by Holly at its Hereford plant, which is now under construction and scheduled for operation in 1964.

"Mr. Lillie will be in charge, locally, of all agricultural activities, including contracting with growers for the annual beet crop, harvesting programs, direction of the agricultural field staff, all community and public relations in the area, sales of beet pulp and molasses and similar activities," O'Rourke announced.

Lillie has established a temporary office in the Jim Hill Hotel building, where he and a limited Holly staff will headquarter until the Company's new office building at the plant site is completed. Construction now is started on the office and several other structures which will be part of the big factory complex.

"As they are needed, additional key Holly personnel will be assigned to the Hereford area," Lillie stated. He and Gene Parsley, representative of the Holly accounting department, are the first company people on the scene. Construction is under the direction of the H.K. Ferguson Company, retained by Holly as general contractor for the big, new processing facility. A number of Ferguson people are on the site now.

Lillie said, and the construction crew on the job will be expanding soon.

The newly appointed District Manager has been with Holly since 1942. He began his career as an Agricultural Fieldman in Colorado and Wyoming; was promoted to the post of Chief Agriculturist at one of Holly's Montana plants; and four years ago became Northern District Agricultural Manager for the Company at Sidney, Montana, in which position he supervised agricultural activities at Holly's plants at Sidney and Hardin, Montana, and Worland, Wyoming.

Lillie is a native of northwestern Kansas. In 1939 he graduated from Colorado State University at Fort Collins, Colorado, with a degree of bachelor of science in animal husbandry and agronomy. During his college career Lillie was a varsity football player, and he still continues his interest in sports and athletics.
