The Lockney Beacon has added another fine machine to its already excellent equipment, having recently installed a 32-inch Diamond power paper cutter. Editor Smith apologizes for the apparent extravagance by saying the office had to have a new paper cutter and the best was none too good for his town and people. Few shops outside of the larger cities can boast a power cutter and the Beacon office thereby makes doubly sure its position in the "gangs" 400 circle, Southwestern Plainsman.

Bates Walker declares he and Mr. C. M. Luttrell came to Armstrong county the year Palo Duro Canyon was dug. There are many others who claim they were here and assisted in digging the Canyon. Come to think about it. The News man was living in Claude about the time the Palo Duro was dug, but was such a small boy that he did very little work in trying to make the Canyon what it now is. Claude News.

Several years ago, when the Beacon editor was travelling for the State Fire Insurance Commission, we heard this Palo Duro digging stunt pulled in a hotel at Canyon. There were several drummers in the lobby of the hotel, when a stranger from the East came in. One drummer, who was an old man, stated to the bunch of us that he had not been to Canyon since the Palo Duro Canyon was dug by the government. He went on to tell about the big undertaking in digging the Canyon and its final completion, the raid of the Red Man, etc. He then got up and went to his room. The stranger looked at us for a few minutes after he left and said, "I believe that drummer was telling a damn lie."

The Plainview Herald editorially complains of frequent work of stock grafters, and promoters of various and sundry schemes. The Herald says these grafters are working overtime in Plainview, and suggests that before people place their money in uncertain projects they consult their bankers. Further commenting on the matter the Herald says, "The prosperity of the Plainview country as compared with other sections makes it a veritable paradise for the horde of specialty salesmen and the general run of dyed-in-the-wool grafters, who are peddling wares of questionable value. Plainview seems to be the favorite stamping ground for questionable worth and some few of no worth whatever have been put before the people of this town by smooth stock salesmen who work quietly and without much publicity. The general method is the old familiar 'You have been SELECTED as one of the few in this community, etc.' One of the favorite 'prizes' now being used is to give the proposition local connection, with the understanding to the purchaser that a part of the money subscribed to stock is to be expended by the company in a Plainview branch house, filling station, etc. We do not attempt to say that every stock proposition which has been presented is not good. But we do mean to say emphatically that some of them are absolutely worthless and that the 'gravy' in the deal goes to the promoters who seldom work for less than twenty-five per cent of their gross sales of stock. It is a safe proposition to consult your banker before spending your money for these enterprises. He makes it his business to know the other fellow's business and his financial responsibility."

Farmers are facing big losses on the 1921 wheat crop. In fact, all farm products have reacted unfavorably to the general movement of a reduction in the cost of living. As usual, the reductions in the finished product are only nominal when compared with the declines in farm products. The reason for this is that agencies controlled by dealers and middlemen are in position to dictate prices on what the farmer produces. Other agencies, also outside of farmer control, are in position to say how and to what extent the farmer shall be financed. Between these two forces the farmer is apparently helpless. He may protest, but his remedy is not yet fully developed, although it is coming. —Southwestern Plainsman.

We have pondered deeply and long as to why the farmer should be called on first to take his losses, but we have given it up as a hopeless proposition. There is only one consolation in these matters, and that is, other lines and other people are now being called upon to share in the farmers' losses. The drop in farm products will of necessity pull everything else down with it. There was no way to stop the upward climb of prices, both as to farm products and other products. The people were not inclined to have it stop. Likewise when the markets broke there seems no way to stop the rapid descent. These are fixed economic laws, and in a measure they are beyond the power of man to stop or change. There is one point in connection with high and low markets that all are agreed on, and that is they should have been less extravagant and more economy practiced by the people. —After all the downward tendency of the markets and the pending business backward tendencies may prove a blessing to the American people. The American people were living fast under the system of abnormal prices. American people had to be checked in some way from the extravagant and reckless gate they were going. After all we can only take things as they are, and there is no use worrying over matters over which we have no control. Panhandle-Plains wheat farmers will come out all right. They have their maize, their hogs and poultry as a mainstay. We should thank our stars that we live in this splendid country.

Wheat, corn and cotton continue on their downward trend and heavy rains have fallen in the week following Harding's election to the presidency, effectually putting a stop to all farming operations for at least ten days as a result. Democrats and Republicans alike will live to rue the day they ever put a Republican in power. It will be either too wet or too dry the whole four years of Harding's administration. —Floydada Hesperian.

The Wilson administration came in for a large share of cursing during the past eight years, and it is a relief that the Republicans are now to step in and furnish targets for the spear of the people. Lots of people had an idea that the markets would advance after the National election, and if history had repeated itself there would have been a noticeable upward tendency. But instead of advance in farm products the bottom seemed to have fallen out directly after the announcement that Harding had been elected president. We doubt seriously whether there would have been a change in the situation in the event the Democrats had remained in power. This going to pieces of the markets and prices in general seems to have been as inevitable as the laws of nature. It just had to be. There is one funny thing about the whole business, and that is, that the laugh is on the crowd of weak-kneed Democrats that voted the Republican ticket believing the markets would advance. They are now placed in a position of parting with both their democracy and their products at exceedingly low prices.

Reports coming from Fort Worth and other Central Texas commercial centers are to the effect that conditions economically are tightening up.

There are idle men on every hand, working forces are being cut down, were thirty days ago, and a general money matters are tighter than they were demoralized condition prevails. The day of reconstruction has come to the American people. The economic pendulum has begun its backward swing, and by the first of the new year we will have the reverse of high markets, plenty and easy money, and a general stagnation all along the line. This is rather a dark painted picture, but the Beacon believes we are facing the most serious crisis in the history of this nation. We are entering a period when conservative business methods will have to be adopted. However, we believe that the American people will come through these times in the shape, and will be only another illustration of America's grit and staying qualities. Of course there will be the usual number of business failures, and the speculator will doubtless hit it hard. The man who has tried to spread his butter over a large portion of bread will doubtless be placed in a position to lose it all. There is a certain class that never profit from former experiences, or from experiences of others. In the matter of land investments back twelve or fifteen years ago men bought more land in this section than they could pay for. Adopted the policy of too liberal spreading of the butter, and as a result they lost tract after tract in not being able to take up their notes when they became due. There will doubtless be cases of this kind now, and during the next year or so. Men bought more land than they could pay for, and the period of reconstruction we are entering is liable to tighten the money markets to the extent that money cannot be raised, and therefore they will lose some of their investments. Land will not become any cheaper in this section. There may be little sold, and there may be isolated cases where men will get in a tight and will cut the price in order to turn it loose. The central thought in this comment is the man that is entrenched behind a Plains farm and has it paid for, or payments arranged where they will not cramp him, is indeed fortunate. Likewise the business man that has his affairs in hand will come out of the present financial difficulties in fine shape. Finally, the drop of prices generally is only just to the producers who were first caught beneath the avalanche of low markets. The farmer was first invited to take hold of the hot end of the poker. He took hold, and now it is but just that others should step in and help to feel the heat of the reform. In Lockney and Floydada there is no need of any one becoming panicky. There is not a business concern in the county but what's in fine shape financially, and our citizens in general are able to continue to buy their necessities and pay for them.

Speaking of the re-organization of the democratic party, Congressman Claude Kitchen, of North Carolina, who will be minority leader in the next house, says: "We cannot organize on the Bryan scheme of giving to the foreign countries the ten billions they have borrowed from us, and adding that to the tax burdens of our people. Neither can we re-organize on the Gov. Cox plan of repealing the excess profits tax and substituting for it a general sales tax to raise over a billion dollars from the people. I think it better that those so-called meetings to consider plans for reorganization now being held or to be held, should be postponed for further months. We could see by that time what the republicans are going to do with the great problems that confront them and what is to be their policy."

Major George W. Littlefield, of Austin, pioneer banker, cattleman, ex-confederate veteran, and a friend to the Texas University, died at his home one day last week. Mr. Littlefield was a very wealthy man, and had made a number of liberal contributions and gifts to the University of Texas.

Reports from all sections of the Panhandle indicate that an era of civic expansion is at hand. Amarillo, the metropolis of the Panhandle, being the larger of the cities of this area, takes the lead by constructing a brand new round-house for the Rock Island lines. In view of the fact that natural gas is available in an unlimited quantity, factory men are looking toward the establishment of factories of many different kinds. Among that number is the Advance-Kumley interests which, if the site deal is closed up this week, will mean the establishment of a hundred thousand dollar tractor factory right in the heart of the wheat belt. Brick and tile factories also have the matter under favorable consideration. Since the city has settled the fuel problem, the water question looms up in dead earnest. A plan is now on foot whereby Palo Duro canyon may be dammed at a level 140 feet higher than the city. If this project is put through, as it undoubtedly will, judging from the parties boosting it, the water problem will be forever solved and that of the best quality. (Clarendon News.)

The Beacon is pleased to note the rapid advancement of Amarillo, and the great and wonderful future before that city. Amarillo is destined to become the greatest city of commercial importance in the Southwest. It is geographically located to make a city as large as Dallas. The last obstacle in Amarillo's way to advance to commercial importance was overcome when it discovered and brought in natural gas. As an asset this gas proposition is worth more to Amarillo than the discovery of oil would have been. (Discussing Amarillo's future from the vantage point of being situated to serve a larger section of country than Dallas, the Beacon sees in this fact a bright future for this splendid metropolis of the Panhandle-Plains country. Amarillo is the gate-way to the South Plains section. It is logically the wholesale center of this vast section. It is likewise situated to serve the North Plains, the Denver section, Southern New Mexico and a large part of Oklahoma. Taking all these things into consideration, why should not Amarillo make a city of 100,000 inhabitants, and one of the first cities in commercial importance in Texas? One pleasing feature in reference to Amarillo's future greatness is the fact that it has the friendship of the entire section above named. There is no town jealousy to speak of. It is logically accepted that Amarillo is and should be the commercial center of this vast section. Amarillo has no competitors from a wholesale commercial viewpoint. Amarillo's future is linked with the future of every town in the Panhandle-Plains country. Amarillo's development means the development of every town in the territory above mentioned. Let Amarillo grow and expand until Dallas will look like a blind-switch on some main line railroad.

The prediction now is that there will be more cotton plowed under next spring than there will be raised next year. Whether this is a wise course the Beacon does not undertake to say, but we draw from these facts that Floyd county and the Panhandle-Plains country is proper a wheat, maize, hog, poultry, creamery section, and that cotton is destined to cut very little figure in our future agricultural resources and development. Especially is this the case with the Plains country. The wealth of this section lies in raising wheat, maize, hogs, poultry and dairying. The wheat interest has been extensively and successfully developed, but the other important items are just in their infancy. The possibility for hog raising and poultry raising in this section is unlimited. Dairying could be made very profitable if the people would adopt it as one of their money crops. The poultry industry, while a source of much of our wealth, could be developed to a far greater extent than it now is, and be made one of the main supports financially of this section. This section is fortunately situated inasmuch as we can diversify with a number of important crops, whereas a great portion of Texas and the Southwest is limited to one or two crops. The Beacon believes we are entering the reconstruction period proper, and that some stringent times are before the people of the United States. Following the going to pieces of farm products markets everywhere else are dropping with it, and like the pendulum of a clock, the extreme of low prices and scarcity of money will swing to the extreme of high prices and easy money. These facts are mentioned to bring out the suggestion that the Plains country is in a fortunate position to come out from under the pending economic wreck in fine shape. The people of this section can make their living at home nearer than any other section of Texas, and at the same time we can raise commodities that will find a more ready sale than that of cotton. The man who is entrenched behind a good farm in the Plains country during these distressing times is indeed fortunate.

Ford cars are now used for most every purpose. A Nebraska farmer comes forward with a new use, that of killing rats. He backs the car close up to the holes, takes off the muffler, attaches a piece of hose to the exhaust pipe, and smokes them out. (Plainview News.)

This Ford rat-killing business is a new one on us. It is said the Ford can do most anything, and that it can now stink a rat out of his hole will be readily believed. It is not so much the work of the Ford as it is the grade of gas we now get. No doubt any class of automobile would kill rats if they could be given a whiff from their exhaust pipes. It is said that the smell of the burned gasoline now being used is a cross between a poliovirus and bisulphide of carbon.

The Jews are now going to Palestine by the many thousands from all parts of the world. Every ship bound that way is said to be crowded with them. Palestine is to be an independent country, ruled by, of and for Jews. (Plainview News.)

For two thousand years the Jews have been sojourners in all lands and have lived under all conditions, still they have maintained their nationality distinct. There is no other nation of people that can lay claim to such a strict line of descent. The Jews have suffered as no other nation has suffered. They have been persecuted wherever they have gone, yet they have gone right along and achieved a great success individually. Civilized people everywhere will rejoice that the Jews are to be restored to their nationality, and given a nation of their own.

The Texas Baptists in annual session at El Paso last week decided to combine Baylor Medical College and the Dallas Sanitarium and build in that city the greatest medical school in the South. The Baptists of Texas are doing really great things. They have among the finest denominational schools of any religious sect, and the plans announced for their medical college will give them additional credit for doing big things.

Judge A. S. Kennerly reported on the Houston Sanitarium. When the convention took over the sanitarium there were many debts against it, and but little assets, yet the affairs of the sanitarium are in good shape. A feature of the sanitarium, he said, is that the charity and pay patients are in the same wards, treated alike and that the nurses do not know the paid patients from the charity patients.

No denominational lines are drawn. Last year there were 800 Baptist patients, 2,238 patients of other denominations and 1,164 patients of no denomination affiliation.

MESDAMES BROYLES AND McCOLLUM ENTERTAIN

Last Friday Mesdames, Ira Broyles and O. R. McCollum were hostess to the married people of Lockney, when a most delightful evening was spent. Forty-two was the game, and the usual good playing and interesting contesting featured the evening's entertainment.

The home of Mrs. Broyles was beautifully and tastefully decorated in red, white and blue. The entertainment was originally planned for Thursday night, and the occasion was a celebration of Armistic Day. Some special music was rendered by Mrs. Alex Newman, both instrumental and vocal. Mrs. Newman is quite talented in music, and always delights her many friends with her selections.

The Broyles-McCollum reception marked the opening of the social activities in Lockney, which will be followed during the winter months with frequent gatherings of this kind. All present on this occasion were highly entertained, and were unanimous in their praise of the delightful manner in which Mesdames, Broyles and McCollum entertained their guests, vowing them charming hostess.

At the conclusion of the contest delicious refreshments were served, consisting of meat sandwiches, olives, fruit salad and coffee, angel cake and ice cream in red, white and blue.

Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames, McAdams, Roy Griffith, Jake Norris, C. R. Hieber, Dodson, R. M. Broyles, A. R. Meriwether, T. B. Hill, Norris, Woodburn, Stewart, A. B. Brown, Alex Newman, Ben Rigdon, Norton Baker, Walt Griffith, Jarnegan, Miller; Messrs. Joe McCollum and John Broyles and Mesdames, Mary Lane and Olive Fry.

Messrs. Ben F. Smith, Estes Woodburn and A. R. Meriwether spent Tuesday afternoon and evening in Plainview taking the Knight Templar work. Others attending as members from Lockney were Frank Dodson, Marion Day, John Broyles, Rayburn Thompson and C. F. Ramsey, Sr.

WANT GRAIN GRADES ON WHEAT MODIFIED

Many grain dealers of Northwest Texas met recently with federal agents in Amarillo for the purpose of, if possible, securing a ruling defining the exact grade of wheat with weevils in it, making it an exact grade instead of "sample grade," as at present buyers at the ports are taking advantage of the local grain dealers when weevils are found, docking the shipment beyond all reason. Several Plains dealers, since the price has gone down, have lost thousands of dollars by the arbitrary acts of the port buyers.

Messrs. J. E. Wallace, R. C. Ayers, A. G. Cox, A. G. Hinn and J. B. Hollans of this city attended the meeting.—Plainview News.

BRUNSWICK

Make This Comparison Before You Buy Your Phonograph.

DON'T BUY a phonograph, any more than an automobile, without a demonstration. Name isn't all nowadays, as it used to be, when phonographs were a novelty.

Music lovers know real way to test—and that is by tone. The ear picks out superiority quickly. Naturalness is easily appreciated.

We encourage comparisons. We invite you to hear the Brunswick, then to hear others. We leave final judgement to you. And we rarely lose a sale, when a comparison is made.

This accounts for the great popularity of The Brunswick here and the nation over. It goes into the homes of the most critical because of its overwhelming merit.

It has numerous features unobtainable elsewhere. Such as The Ultrona, the all-record reproducer. And The Brunswick Tone Amplifier, built entirely of wood, so as to end metallic sounds forever.

These machines will be sold on the installment plan. Terms to suit your convenience.

PURSING FRIENDS STOP A DOUBLE MATCH

Plainview, Nov. 8.—Two weddings took place Saturday when Miss Lena Donohoo and Fred J. Hurlbut, of Plainview, were married at Tulla, and Miss Marie Hughes and M. E. Moses, of Floydada, were married a few moments later at Canyon. A double wedding was originally planned, but mischief bent friends so closely pursued the two cars, which carried the contracting parties, that Mr. and Mrs. Moses did not stop at Tulla as had been planned. Mr. and Mrs. Hurlbut went through their ceremony at Tulla and barely escaped capture at that place. The newly weds met at Canyon and continued to Amarillo, where they were overtaken. Signs on their cars and persons bore evidence of this fact.

Mrs. Hurlbut is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Donohoo, and comes from one of the prominent pioneer Plainview families. Mrs. Moses is from a well known Floydada family.

Both Mr. Hurlbut and Mr. Moses are well known young business men of their respective towns. And, furthermore both will be noVICES at Khiva's second ceremonial at Amarillo November 24. Mr. Hurlbut is a ring candidate and believes that his marriage will clinch the ring for him.

LAMB ELECTION CONTEST DIED IN APPELLATE COURT

Reports from Lamb county on the general election indicate that R. C. Hopping received fifty-four more votes for the office of County Judge than H. G. Walker. Attorneys who were handling Mr. Walker's contest of the primary state that this will probably be the end of the contest.

Walker contested the primary election, and, according to the local attorneys representing him, illegal votes were proven up. When the matter of opening the ballot to find for whom the illegal votes had been cast came up an injunction was asked for and granted by Judge R. C. Joiner. The Court of Civil Appeals dissolved the injunction, but a mandate could not issue in time to allow filing motion for rehearing before election day. The citizens of the county cast their votes for both parties in the general election with the result of fifty-four majority for Hopping.—Plainview Herald.

BODY OF HASKELL P. M. FOUND IN WELL

DUCK RAISING ON INCREASE

Long Island, N. Y., Contains Large Number of Commercial Farms—There Are Three Classes.

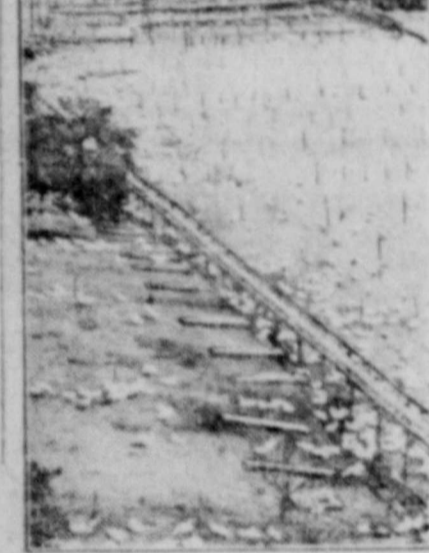

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

According to the census of 1910 there were 2,906,525 ducks in the United States, valued at $1,567,164, showing a decrease in number of nearly 50 per cent as compared with 1900. It should be stated, however, that the animal census of 1900 was taken June 1, and that of 1910 April 15, which fact would considerably reduce the above percentage, although only fowls three months old or over were reported on only 7.5 per cent of the farms in the country and are most numerous in the following states, arranged according to their production: Iowa, Illinois, New York, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Tennessee, Indiana, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Ohio, the number ranging from about 225,000 head in Iowa to 106,000 in Ohio. New York is the only one of these states which shows an increase in the number of ducks, while all the others show a marked decrease. Long Island, N. Y., contains a number of large commercial duck farms which apparently are quite successful. It would appear, therefore, that commercial duck farms are increasing somewhat, while the production of ducks on general farms as a side issue is decreasing, especially in the middle West.

There are 11 standard breeds of ducks which have been admitted to the American standard of perfection. These may be divided into three classes: (1) the meat class, including the Pekin, Aylesbury, Muscovy, Rouen, Cayuga, Buff, and Swedish; (2) the egg class, which includes the Indian Runner; and (3) the ornamental class, composed of the Call, the Crested White, and the Black East India. The common or so-called "pudle" duck is kept on many farms in middle West and South and is generally of small size, a poor layer, and an undesirable type of water duck. Excepting the Muscovy, all of our economic breeds of ducks are said to have originated from the Mallard, or common wild duck.

China has also great iron mines. The copper mines of Szechwan and Yunnan are very rich and may make China the greatest copper-producing nation in the world. She is now producing a large amount of antimony. There are possibilities of gold and silver in North China and in the mountains of eastern Tibet.

When the Siberian peasant speaks of "capitalism," he is thinking of something entirely different from what the American associates with the word. There is hardly any capital in Siberia; that is, money invested in public utilities, factories, systems of distribution or machinery. Siberian capital consists of a wilderness of rich plains, and the landowner is the "capitalist." Therefore to destroy capitalism the bolsheviks have only to take the land. Having gone so far, they know how to proceed, for land is indestructible and its working is simple. But what happens when the property involved is a factory? The answer is non-production, for a factory is a human institution and its working is not simple. Unlike land, a factory, to be successful, calls for organization and cash.—Frederick F. Moore, in Leslie's.

The common or so-called "pudle" duck is kept on many farms in middle West and South and is generally of small size, a poor layer, and an undesirable type of water duck. Excepting the Muscovy, all of our economic breeds of ducks are said to have originated from the Mallard, or common wild duck.

GOOD POULTRY HINTS

- Keep the nests clean; provide one nest for every four hens.
- Gather the eggs twice daily.
- Keep the eggs in a cool, dry room or cellar.
- Market the eggs at least twice a week.
- Purchase well-matched pullets rather than hens.

CHANGE IN BREED OF FOWLS

Breeder Ought to Remember That New Variety May Have to Be Fed in Different Way.

If a breeder who has always kept one kind of hens suddenly changes to another breed, he ought to remember that the new variety may have to be fed and cared for in quite a different way. That will call for study as to the best kinds of food, best methods of housing and many other things.

DRY MASH HANDY FOR FOWLS

Mixture of Wheat, Bran, Cornmeal and Meat Scrap Should Be Available at All Times.

A dry mash composed of 100 pounds wheat middlings, 100 pounds wheat bran, 100 pounds corn meal, 50 pounds of meat scrap, mixed and fed in hepers, should be where the fowls will have access to it all times. All the skim milk should be given that they will clean up in connection with this

DEADLY FOE OF SUBMARINE

Indicator Net Responsible for the Destruction of Many of Huns' Murderous U-Boats.

One of the many inventions used in the war against submarines was of a grimly humorous nature. This was the indicator net.

In its early form it was a fabric of fine wire, which, when run into by a submarine traveling below the surface, was dragged from its moorings and remained attached to the enemy, accompanying him wherever he went, not impeding his progress, and possibly unnoticed by him, but dooming him to destruction. For attached to this net by a long line was a buoy containing a torch which was ignited automatically when the strain of the tow came on the buoy. So the unconscious enemy traveled on underneath announcing his presence by the flaming torch which accompanied him overhead.

In practice the operation was by no means always so simple or so successful. But that early type of indicator net was superseded by a much more deadly invention.

CHINA HAS VAST RESOURCES

Coal, Iron and Copper in Abundance, and Agricultural Possibilities Are Enormous.

China's position as one of the "sick nations of the earth" does not seem so hopeless if one considers what her natural resources are.

"No man," says the World Outlook, "has computed them. There is enough coal in the one province of Shansi to last the entire world for some hundreds of years."

"China has also great iron mines. The copper mines of Szechwan and Yunnan are very rich and may make China the greatest copper-producing nation in the world. She is now producing a large amount of antimony. There are possibilities of gold and silver in North China and in the mountains of eastern Tibet.

There are even unheard-of possibilities in Chinese agriculture. Their land is constantly enriched and irrigated, and after 5,000 years the Chinese farms still average from two to four crops a year."

SIMPLE SIBERIAN PEASANT.

When the Siberian peasant speaks of "capitalism," he is thinking of something entirely different from what the American associates with the word. There is hardly any capital in Siberia; that is, money invested in public utilities, factories, systems of distribution or machinery. Siberian capital consists of a wilderness of rich plains, and the landowner is the "capitalist." Therefore to destroy capitalism the bolsheviks have only to take the land. Having gone so far, they know how to proceed, for land is indestructible and its working is simple. But what happens when the property involved is a factory? The answer is non-production, for a factory is a human institution and its working is not simple. Unlike land, a factory, to be successful, calls for organization and cash.—Frederick F. Moore, in Leslie's.

A SLIGHT AMENDMENT.

"The weather man's prediction of 'fair and warmer' means better weather," observed the chap who always had a mouthful of trite sayings.

"Yes," responded the untired business man, "but with a little rearrangement it could also apply to business. For instance, 'Fair prices come from warmer competition.'"

GONE HENCE.

"I heard you mention the River Styx just now."

"Well?"

"Was that one of the rivers crossed by the Germans in the late war?"

"It was, sir. By nearly 1,000,000 of 'em."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

EXPLOSIVE COMBINATION.

"I wouldn't let the young officer yonder get too near those pretty girls."

"Why not?"

"It isn't safe for a spark to be near so much powder."

STILL GOOD.

"They used to tell young men to go West and grow up with the country."

"The advice is still good. A lot of room is left by the men who get rich and came back East."

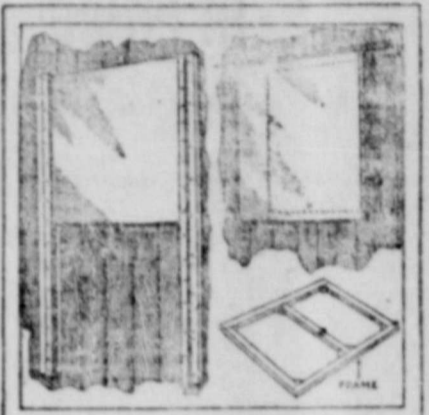

FARM POULTRY

VENTILATION OF HEN HOUSE

For Success With Poultry There Must Be an Abundance of Fresh Air Without Drafts.

Poultry raisers have come to realize that the ventilation of the poultry house is a very important matter. There must be an abundance of fresh air without extreme heat or cold, and without dampness and draft. Proper conditions cannot be had with the makeshift, wrongly used ventilators frequently employed.

One method, which has proved successful is to use the straw air strainer. A second ceiling is built about six inches below the regular ceiling, in the form of a latticed framework. A trapdoor in the center of this makes it possible to change the straw which is packed between the lattice and the original ceiling. Vents, or wide, low openings, must be cut in the side of the house as close under the eaves as possible. The air, entering at these vents, filters through the straw, and thus into the poultry house. No drafts are possible, and the temperature is kept very nearly constant. The straw also absorbs a great deal of moisture.

Another method, in rather wide use, is to cover an ordinary window frame with muslin, instead of using glass. An improvement on this type of ventilator is shown at the right of the drawing. A light wooden frame covered with muslin is hung from a wire, which serves as a track. The frame can thus be moved sideways over or away from the window opening. Screw eyes on the frame allow it to slide easily over the wire. The wire itself may be fastened either to screw eyes or over blocks at either end. To the left is shown a similar frame, moving up and down. In this case it will be necessary to arrange some means of holding the frame at the height desired. Either the pegs that fit into holes in the wall, or a hook fitting into screw eyes, placed at various heights in the wall, may be used for this purpose.

The advantage of the air strainers over muslin-covered frames is that the latter have to be adjusted accurately to the weather, while the air strainer requires no attention whatever.—J. T. Bartlett, Fort Collins, Colo., in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

COVER WINDOW WITH BURLAP

Most Excellent Plan to Keep Out Wind at Night While Fowls Are Roosting.

If the poultry house is narrow so that the wind blows in through the open windows on the fowls on the roost, put a piece of burlap over the open space at night, but do not close the windows until the weather gets cold.

FATTEN FOWLS FOR MARKET

Poultry Will Sell for Higher Price per Pound Because of Increase in Weight.

If any stock is to be sent to market be sure that it is fattened well before it is shipped. It will pay to do this because the poultry will sell for a higher price per pound and it will weigh more.

POULTRY NOTES

Call out weak or slow growing chicks.

A larger flock of hens could be kept on many farms at a profit.

Water fowls do not receive the consideration they deserve on many farms.

Leghorns produce eggs more cheaply than hens of the general purpose breeds.

Don't forget to give the fowls a little salt, in some form every day. They like their food seasoned as well as we do. Pepper as well as salt.

Boarders in the shape of lice and mites on fowls are unnecessary. The energy absorbed by these parasites will never go into eggs and meat.

BIG PROFITS IN ONIONS

S. J. King of near Muleshoe was here Saturday with another wagon load of onions.

Mr. King is perhaps the champion onion raiser on the Plains. He has one-fourth of an acre planted in onions and has sold nearly 6,000 pounds of onions from the small acreage. He hauls the onions to Plainview, where he sells them by the wagon load. They average one and a half pounds each and some weigh as much as three pounds.

Mr. King stated that the one-fourth acre will yield him a clear profit of $600. He recently moved to Lamb county from Oklahoma, and previous to this year had never grown an onion. They are of the Deula variety and were grown from the seed on the farm of Mr. King. Plainview News.

WILL HOLD TEXAS CATTLE OFF MARKET

Fort Worth, Nov. 6.—The bulk of Texas cattle will be held off the market this winter, according to the trend of the weekly reports from range inspectors received at the Cattle Raisers Association. Shipments for the week ending Thursday, continued lighter than the previous week and indications do not point to an increase in receipts.

Rain has fallen most everywhere in the stock country with a consequent improvement of pastures and with the promise of a good winter range.

GETTIN'!

When you go to buy a shirt,
For ten bucks or one dollar,
Buck up the clerk and say,
"You gotta throw in a collar."

If gettin' were a sin, today
Saul wouldn't know his land,
So while the gettin' is the sway,
I say get all you can.

Even when you're out to church,
Suppose you're gettin' power;
Why not get enough for life,
Instead of just one hour?

If gettin' were a sin, today
Saul wouldn't know his land,
So while the gettin' is the sway,
I say get all you can.

When sweetie says, "one kiss; no more"

Don't feel down-hearted, sad,
For if you take two, three, or four,
She won't be VERY mad.

If gettin' were a sin, today
Saul wouldn't know his land,
So while the gettin' is the sway,
I say get all you can.
