NOW THAT THE ELECTION IS OVER Now that the election is over and we hope everybody is satisfied with the results, and are willing to let the majority in Lockney rule for at least the coming two years, let's get busy and begin doing something for the upbuilding of the town.

THEY FEEL GOOD ABOUT IT The effects of the good rain that fell practically all over West Texas last week is quite manifest at this time. All the people of the Plains country are feeling good over the bright prospect that is now prevalent for a good crop year.

the Panhandle-Plains country this year, which if true, means that wheat will probably sell for 75c a bushel at harvest time. Floyd county has a large wheat acreage this year and it is all in good condition and there will be lots of wheat made in this county this year regardless of future rains and conditions.

All We Know is What We Hear!

Gilbert Huls says the Plains country is far ahead of Oklahoma or Girard, Texas, and you can "lay it to" that Gilbert knows what he is talking about.

Another new building is to be started in the business district of Lockney within the next few days we are informed. This building is to be the new home of the Dyer Motor Co., Chevrolet dealers, and will be built on the lots just north of Pennington's garage. Let the good work go on.

We hear a good many people kick about the size of their gas bills nowadays, so a little advice is not out of place. If you will give a little attention to your stoves and see that they are regulated so that they burn all the gas your bill will be smaller. When a stove makes a blowing noise it is getting too much gas, keep the cut-off turned so that the stove makes no noise and you will save gas, and get just as much heat.

Lockney's houses have been numbered, but we notice that the street signs have not been placed yet. House numbers are worthless without the streets are marked. The signs are here, why not get them put in their proper places.

We hear there has been a club formed in Lockney that will be used by those who are fond of playing pool and billiards, and that they will occupy the basement of the Security State Bank. There will be twenty members, no invited guests, nor no one except members allowed to play. "Asperation" Barker reports the sale of twenty-seven Fords the past month, and yet there are people who say that Henry has not made a "Lady out of Lizzy." Barker expects to make a record in car sales this month, and if he can get sufficient cars we expect to see him accomplish this feat.

The Chamber of commerce at their Monday luncheon decided to send Fay Guthrie to school in May and give him an education. Such charitable acts shows that the members of the chamber of commerce have a heart at least. Fay will be sent to the commercial secretaries school which will be held in Dallas, where a course of instruction will be taught to secretaries from all over the state. Here's hoping he gets an education.

We have noticed Capt. Wofford setting separate and apart from all the old stand-bys lately, doing a lot of figuring, and we are wondering what he is so busy figuring about. Must be Uncle Sam has demanded a report on his income tax, and the Capt. hasn't kept books very good the past year.

The poor farmers are going to have a hellava time the next few weeks. The rain has strated the pests to work, and you may expect to find them in your field any time now Mr. Farmer. This pest comes every year when prospects are good, or pretty good, and the pests have begun to swarm now and will be hitting for the green before many days—they call those pests "Hail Insurance" agents. Watch out for them, they are coming.

W. C. Watson thinks he is a wise "guy," he has several farms in different sections of the country and he thinks he doesn't need any insurance, as the hail will not hit all the farms and the cost of insuring them all would be more money than would be lost if the hail happened to destroy one or two of the fields. Good business judgment to say the least.

"Chicken" Smith says he now has his hatchery running at full capacity, and the "old mother hen" is pouring out the little chicks regular twice a week. Smith is right on the job and is building up a good business.

Artie Baker says he expects to have the A. Baker Hotel ready to serve hash and rest the weary bones of the traveling public on or about the 15th day of this month. Heres congratulations to you "Rockefeller."

Hoover to Conserve Oil President Hoover has stated that there will be complete conservation of oil in his administration and that unless a mandatory act is passed by congress, no additional permits for oil prospecting on public lands will be issued.

bids on lands adjacent to those on which the oil has been found. This is unquestionably the greatest constructive step yet made toward solving the problem of oil waste. Responsible producers, through the American Petroleum Institute and other organizations, have been making intensive efforts to curtail over-production and effect co-operative development of pools. They have made slow progress because of uncontrolled competition.

Now, with official action, it would seem as if we were on the verge of a solution at last. Production has exceeded consumption for many years; a vast amount of surplus oil has either been placed in storage or wasted to the detriment of both the industry and the public. President Hoover's effort to correct this condition should have far-reaching benefits.

Gilbert Huls returned last week from a several week's trip to Hannah, Okla., where he has been attending to business affairs.

In 1928 the party conventions were held early in the year. The national convention was held at Houston, and the Republican convention was held at Kansas City.

The nominees were Curtis, Robinson, Smith, and Hoover. It was a tight race, but Smith and Hoover were the men that came through to the finish.

The platform of each party is different and the same is also true of the nominees. The Republicans are for farm relief, against public sale of liquor, and they are against high tariff. The Democrats differ from the Republicans on farm relief. It is quite true that every Republican and Democrat does not think some things right that other members of their party do, and that is why so many Democrats voted a Republican ticket in the last election.

The campaign of 1928 started off rather slowly but as it began to progress, it was the most exciting campaign of its kind ever witnessed. Smith and Hoover were the noted rivals. They went over parts of the United States making their speeches and aroused much interest. Smith began making his speeches in the West and as the campaign began drawing to a close, he went eastward. His final speeches were made in Boston and New York. He visited Sedalia, Missouri, Chicago, Illinois, and St. Louis, Missouri before he returned to his home in New York. Great crowds were out to meet him at each of these cities. Hoover made his speeches in various parts of the United States and as the campaign drew to a close he went eastward. He was unfortunate in not getting to visit all the towns to speak as he had planned, but he made his final speech in New York, the home town of Smith, where he was greeted by a large crowd.

Hoover was elected president November 6. The Republicans carried a greater number of states than ever before. This year is the first year in history that Texas has gone Republican. Hoover carried Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Nebraska, Arizona, Utah, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, South Dakota, North Dakota, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New York, Massachusetts, Vermont, Florida, and Maine. The remainder of the states were carried by Smith. Hoover received a total of four-hundred-and-forty-four electoral votes and Smith received eighty-seven. Smith received a greater number of popular votes than has any other Democratic nominee. Hoover's youngest son was old enough to vote just in time to vote for his father.

The campaign of 1928 has aroused the American people to the importance of voting. The increase in registration proved that many more Americans were interested than ever before. The people seemed to realize that whether they were Democrats, Republicans, Socialists, or a member of any other political party, it was their duty to vote. In no other way can our government be a government "of the people, for the people, and by the people."

Under the administration of Hoover we may be assured of a continued emphasis on economy and efficiency. Hoover will probably oppose the government's going into business, but with equal vigor he will insist that big business shall bow to just and firm regulation in the public interest. I believe that Mr. Hoover's intimate knowledge of international affairs and his war service made him highly competent to frame and maintain a strong foreign policy, and to better all our foreign relations.

The program for national and international affairs will probably be safer in the hands of Hoover than it would have been in the hands of Smith, because Hoover's experience in the Great War and his other works show that he is better fitted for these purposes.—Beatrice Nicholus.

YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN WHO THINK CLEARLY THE GREATEST DEMAND OF AMERICAN BUSINESS

Bankers Association President Gives the Five Essentials of Sound Thinking in Business—Greater Opportunity Than Ever Before for Young People With Educational Training and Power to Analyze Problems.

By CRAIG B. HAZLEWOOD, President American Bankers Association

ONLY half a century ago Michael Pupin, a shepherd boy, guarded his flocks by night among the fields of Serbia. Thieves often lurked in the bordering cornfields awaiting an opportunity to make off with a part of the herd.

CRAIG B. HAZLEWOOD

"Why is it," Pupin asked his mother, "that we can signal this way? Why is it the sound can be heard through the ground, but not through the air? Why is it the signals can be heard in the pasture land so much better than in the plowed fields?"

The boy's mother could not answer his questions, nor could the village teacher. However, having an eager mind and great determination, the boy decided to go to America, where he might win an education and find out the answers to these and other perplexing questions.

Business Requires an Open Mind

Second, among the essentials for sound thinking I would write down an open mind. We have mentioned freeing our minds from the influence of tradition. Let us think also without prejudice of personal feelings, desires or consequence. Let us seek only the truth. Mere surface reasoning must be discarded.

The third essential to sound thinking is knowledge—a thorough, comprehensive understanding of all the factors involved in a problem. It has been said that most problems answer themselves when the facts have been gathered. A well known student and teacher of business describes the method of attacking a problem as tearing it down, reassembling the problem and drawing the conclusion.

As a fourth essential sound thinking requires the capacity to generalize. How often we have seen men sweating and confused before a mass of details which they were utterly unable to classify and crystallize.

Fifth among the essentials of sound thinking is the power to apply. A few individuals have minds that travel at random or in circles. Some have minds that even refuse to budge. But there are still others who naturally or through training have minds that can be directed straight through to the practical application of their thoughts.

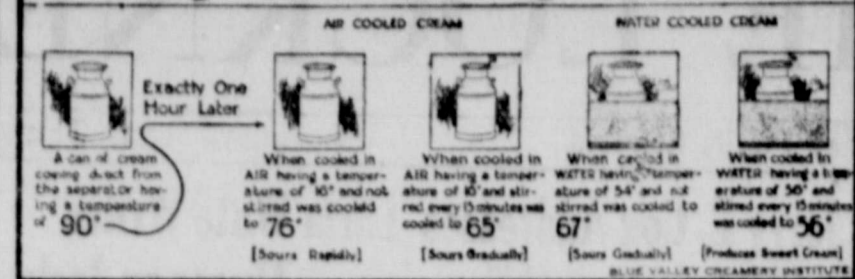

It is possible, I believe, for young people to train themselves to an inquisitive attitude, an open mind and the ability to classify and interpret material step by step from the beginning of a problem to its final solution and application.

SCHOOL SAVINGS BANKING MOVEMENT REACHES IMPRESSIVE PROPORTIONS

Almost 14,000 of America's schools now have school savings banking plans in operation, and about four million pupils are learning systematic savings through this type of thrift.

The reports gathered by the association also show that there are 35 cities in the United States in which a full 100 per cent of the grammar school enrollment is participating in school savings banking.

GOOD CARE WILL KEEP CREAM SWEET

Cooling Qualities of Water Many Times Faster Than Air.

An abundance of cold water is one of the dairy farmer's most valuable possessions, declares the Blue Valley Creamery Institute.

While the temperature of air in late fall and winter is generally much lower than that of well or spring water, cold air does not cool cream quickly enough to prevent rapid bacterial development, the cause of souring.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS:

The Modern Girl Prefers Any Career to a Humdrum Marriage Where Husband Has All the Advantages But There Is No Menace to the Home While She Can Still Fall In Love

A questionnaire has recently been submitted to college and university girls in an effort to find out their purpose and ambition in life. Out of 1,700 replies that were received only seven girls said they wanted to be homemakers. All of the others aspired to enter the professions and to become actresses, moving-picture queens, lawyers, doctors, artists, writers, or business women.

homes of their own, but the majority of these preferred to have them without the entangling alliances of matrimony or the nuisance of having a husband around the house.

At first blush the returns from this questionnaire may seem discouraging as to the outlook for the future of the race and the home, and it might appear that soon we shall have to rely for our population upon synthetic babies and be reduced to eating in cafeterias. Those who are pessimistic about the modern girl anyway might well view with alarm what looks like a wholesale stampede of highly educated young women away from their sacred sphere and their repudiation of wifehood and motherhood, which is the ancient and honorable calling of their sex.

But let us calm ourselves. There is no real cause for panic. These schoolgirls who are going to devote their lives to art or uplifting the world or what not instead of cooking breakfasts and walking squalling babies with the colic have failed to take into account the most potent force in the world, and that is Mother Nature, who will presently come along and knock all of their pretty little plans into so many cocked hats.

It is all very well for Alicia, with her high brow, to sit in her college dormitory and dream of being a Portia who will argue great cases before the Supreme Court and for her to shudder as she thinks of being one of the wives who live in 2-by-4 flats and who have to budget the market money and think twice before they go to the movies. It is all very well for Matilda to decide that she will become a successful business woman with her own tea or specialty shop or a high-priced buyer who goes to Paris twice a year instead of being merely one of the wives who wear hand-me-downs and have to wheedle every cent they get out of a husband.

It is all very well for Jane, who is an individualist and who has scrapped all of her life with her mother over what she shall wear and where she shall go and what time she shall get back, to make up her mind firmly that as soon as she gets on her feet she will have her own little apartment with her own latchkey and that she will never be fool enough to put herself in a position where any man can boss her.

Alicia and Matilda and Jane and Mary and Susan and Sally are perfectly sincere when they say that they are going to espouse careers instead of men and that they are going to keep themselves free to live their own lives and that they don't see much cakes and ale in matrimony for women any way you look at it.

Then, just about the time Alicia and Matilda and Jane and Susan and Sally get started and in a way to realize their ambitions along come Tom and Dick and Harry and they forget all about their plans and aspirations. A bungalow with open plumbing and stationary washtubs, with perambulator in the front hall and a man coming home to dinner, suddenly looks better to them than anything else on earth and become the object of their supreme desire.

Why, any little, runty, freckled-faced, carrot-haired man can make a girl change her mind about the desirability of marriage, and substitute himself for her ambitions. We see it done every day. Look at the women who spend years of hard study and thousands of dollars fitting themselves to follow some career and then scrap the careers at the invitation of some man to come into the kitchen. A girl may never have cared for cooking, but the cook stoves becomes her weakness when it is cooking the food for her man and kiddies.

So nobody need lose any sleep over worrying because a lot of school girls have announced their intention to turn their backs upon matrimony and homemaking. They will fall in love and get married and have babies just as their mothers and their grandmothers did before them, and the only difference will be that they will be a little more efficient as wives and mothers and housekeepers because they will be better educated, more progressive and open-minded and will bring more businesslike technique to their job.

The thing that I find disquieting in the replies to this questionnaire is that marriage has been made so unattractive that few girls in their sober senses want to let themselves in for a lifetime of it. Out of the 1,700 girls who were asked what they intended to do only seven were optimistic enough to think that they might get good husbands and be happy though married.

The balance did not see anything alluring in the facts of their mothers and their sisters and their aunts. They saw wifehood as a life sentence to hard labor, with no pay envelope on Saturday night and with no thanks or appreciation, and it seemed to them that standing behind a counter or pounding a typewriter was the softer snap of the two.

They saw their fathers glum and grouchy around the house, knocking everything their mothers did and it seemed to them that the only way to keep a man polite and courteous and agreeable was not to be married to him. They saw sweethearts flattering, attentive, generous, anxious to give girls a good time, and husbands whose wives had to pry every nickel out of them with a jimmy, who never took their wives to any place of amusement or paid them a compliment, and it seemed to them that marriage was no gain to a girl, but a total loss.

Of course, in olden times women had to marry because a husband was their only meal ticket and their only rain check into a social life, but now every intelligent, able-bodied young woman can make her own living and go where she pleases. So from being a necessity a husband has merely become a luxury. A girl can either marry or leave it alone, as she pleases.

So if this questionnaire teaches anything, it teaches that if we want the girls of the future to regard marriage as the greatest of all professions we will have to make it more attractive to them.—DOROTHY DIX.

An Electrical Age

The people of the United States use as much electricity as all the rest of the world combined. We have almost five times the generating capacity of any other nation.

The amazing part of our electrical development is that it has been mainly accomplished in less than a generation. Since 1912 the population of the country has increased but 25 per cent; yet generation of electricity has increased 615 per cent, the number of people living in electrically wired homes 470 per cent, and the number of customers receiving service 510 per cent.

In other words, electrical consumption has increased 20 times faster than the population. In the past seven years electricity has been extended for the first time to 9,000,000 new homes, the increase averaging well over a million homes yearly.

The result of this unprecedented development is seen in more efficient industry and in more comfortable homes with their labor saving devices. In 25 years electrification of urban America has been made almost complete.

Now the greatest remaining field is rural electrification. As swiftly as is possible the advantages of electricity that are enjoyed by city dwellers are being brought to the farms and the smallest villages. What has been accomplished for industry and the city home is being accomplished for agriculture and the farm home.

Something to Think About

"We begin this year of enlightenment with more laws to prevent crime than ever before in history, and more people breaking them," said Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing penitentiary in a recent address before the New York Welfare Council. "Such a condition should make all right-minded people pause and think."

"There are now in prisons throughout the United States approximately 125,000 men, equal to the number of men in our country's standing army. More than 15,000,000 have been arrested and more than 5,000,000 have served jail terms. Crime is, therefore, quite general, but its solution is hampered by an antiquated system. Society brings only a small number of violators before the courts and but a small percentage, the 'small fry,' are convicted, and it must be borne in mind that certainty and celerity of arrest and punishment are, outside of prevention, the most effective deterrents.

The remedy lies not in hysteria or an occasionally aroused popular resentment, which at best is only temporary, but in clear-headed public opinion based on intelligent and sound reasoning, which will do much toward minimizing crime. We can wipe out much loss and achieve splendid results through organized co-operation."

What Mr. Lawes says is substantiated by almost every criminologist and authority on crime. We do not need more laws but fewer laws, quicker and surer punishment for the transgressor, sound social education and less sentiment and more scientific understanding of the problem. Only by means can society emerge victorious from the interminable battle with the criminal.

MOODY GIVES REASONS FOR BOLTER VETO
Executive Claims Law Would Prolong Bitterness, If Passed

Austin, April 2.—Holding if it became a law "it would prolong the bitterness" aroused by the split in the party during the last presidential campaign, and "continue to widen the breach," Governor Moody late today vetoed the anti-bolting bill. It was written by Senator A. J. Wirtz of Seguin and passed both houses after a bitter fight. It would have empowered the state Democratic executive committee to bar as voters and candidates in future primaries those who left the party to vote for President Herbert Hoover last November. The governor turned in 17 vetoed bills and three he had approved this afternoon, after having filed 25 measures this morning, included two appropriation bills which had been partly blue-penciled. "It may as well be discussed from its effect upon the Democratic party and there by its effect upon the state at large, in view of the fact that the Democratic party has been, is now, and I hope in the interest of the general welfare, will continue to be predominant political party of this state," the governor said, in giving his reasons for vetoing the Wirtz bill. would Split Democrats

"I have nothing to say about parties controlling their own destinies as voluntary organizations. Under ordinary circumstances a bill of this kind would excite little interest and it would have my approval. However, the bill comes at this time as one of the indirect results of the devious which occurred in the Democratic party in the campaign preceding the recent general election. It appears evident to me that if the bill becomes a law it will prolong the bitterness which that campaign aroused and will continue to widen the breach in the Democratic party. I am of the opinion that the welfare of the state are to be advanced by promoting harmony among those who views are in accord with the principles of the Democratic party." Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas and other leaders in the campaign by bolters in Texas last fall, who called upon Democrats to vote for the Republican nominee—claiming that to favor Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York would be to encourage opponents of prohibition, threatened to organize an independent movement to defeat the "Tammanyites" as they called sponsors of the Wirtz bill if it was permitted to become a law. No Action on Sunday Movies The governor did not take action on the measure legalizing Sunday moving picture shows, the bill proposing to establish a court of civil appeals at Greenville, and about 25 others, which he will have until tomorrow midnight to file. Among the bills vetoed were: Creating criminal district court for Nueces, Kleberg, and Kennedy counties; making it a felony for sheriff, constable, or other officers to demand, receive or collect whole or any part of fine before information is filed; increasing salaries of employees in bureau of labor statistics; appropriating $28,911.47 for the general revenue fund to meet expenses of the board of managers of the Texas state railway; three bills referring to jury wheels for certain counties; excepting Matagorda county from provisions of laws regulating inspection of hides and animals; authorizing J. W. Howard and wife of Houston county to sue the state highway department; referring to wild fur-bearing animals; changing names of certain eleemosynary institutions; prohibiting insurance companies doing any kind of insurance business in states from making any distinction or discrimination and giving permission to H. L. McKee to construct and maintain a toll bridge across Lake Sabine. The governor eliminated about $66,000 from the $633,938 emergency appropriation of the penitentiary system and more than $23,000 from the general departmental emergency measure. Ten thousand dollars from the departmental bill was an item for the bureau of vital statistics in the department of health. In most other instances salaries of extra stenographers and employees were disallowed. Junior College Bill Is Law The governor permitted the bill creating junior colleges in independent school districts with $155,000,000 taxable values to become law without his signature. Among other measures filed without his approval were: Allowing guardians to invest funds of their wards not needed for educational purposes in securities of the United States; and creating an advisory judicial council to investigate and make recommendations for the civil judicial system. Among the other bills of general nature signed were: The oil and gas conservation measure increasing powers of the railroad commission to prevent waste. Fixing responsibility for leasing public lands on the land commissioner and two members of the university board of regents. Establishing experiment station at Abilene. Changing the South Texas State Teachers College at Kingsville to the Texas College of Arts and Industries and enlarging its scope. Remitting eight-ninths of the ad valorem taxes at Port Arthur to build a seawall.

Sugar Farmers Need Tariff
More than 100,000 farmers are tilling 800,000 acres of ground devoted to sugar beets in this country, according to Stephen H. Love, President of the American Beet Sugar Association. To enable this growing industry to prosper with resulting benefit to thousands of farmers and wage workers, the present slight tariff on Cuban sugar must be increased. If the tariff should be abolished, as suggested by the Cuban government, sugar prices in this country would be controlled by a foreign government and our home industry destroyed.

Ready for Your Harvest—
The Grain-Saving Combine That's Easier to Operate

Are you ready to harvest cheaply, swiftly and easily? We have a John Deere Combine ready to handle your harvest in just that way—cheaply, swiftly and easily. The John Deere is built to give you the real satisfaction you expect from a combine. It has features that make it easier to operate and assure maximum saving of grain. Be sure to see these features in

John Deere Combine

Visit our store the next time you're in town. We want you to see the John Deere and learn about its many advantages.

Easy to Operate

The main controls are grouped on the operator's platform. The motor, main drive clutch, platform and reel elevation, re-cleaning sieve and the wind on the lower shoe are all controlled from the operator's platform. One may have complete and instant control of his machine within easy reach.

Substantially Built

The John Deere Combine is typically of all John Deere products—built with a wide safety-margin of strength. The main frame is of steel angles rigidly trussed. Every point subject to unusual strain is built extra strong. Only the best materials are embodied in the John Deere.

Anti-Friction Bearings

The John Deere is carried on four sturdy wheels, each of which is equipped high-grade tapered roller bearings. The main wheels and grain wheels are high and wide; the front wheel is wide and sturdily built.

Roller and ball bearings at all important points of friction reduce to a minimum the power required to drive the machine and leave most of the power of the motor available for doing the work of cutting, threshing and separating the grain.

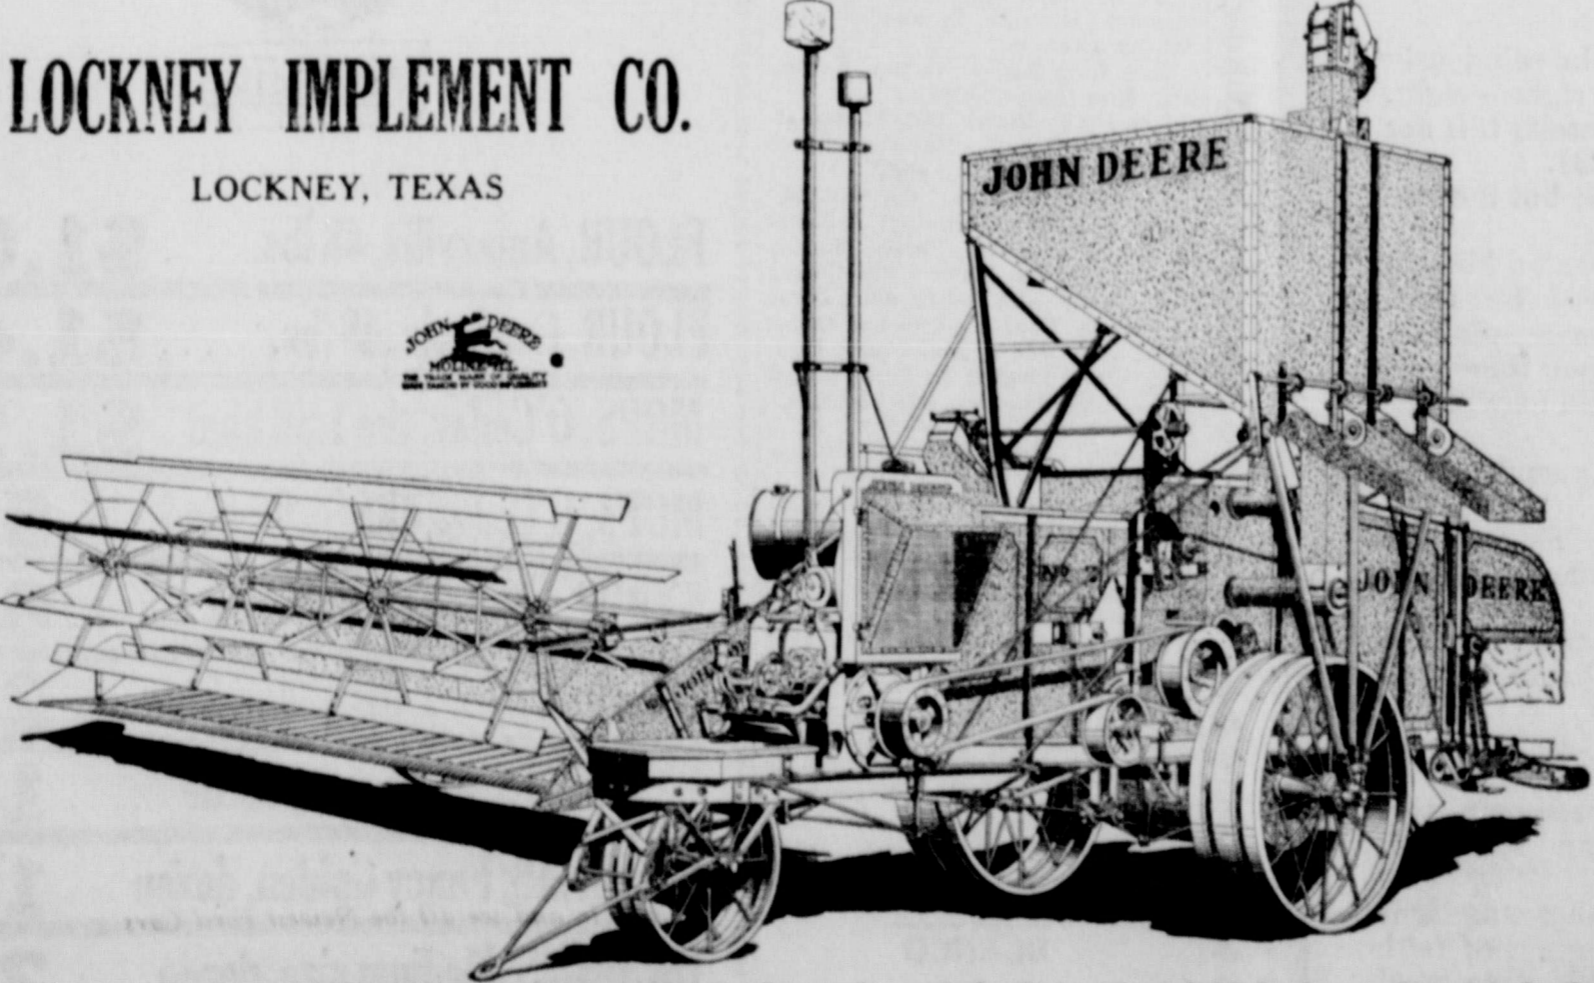

Better Separation

The John Deere is built with a great margin of safety for doing good work under varying conditions. Many combine operators are not threshermen. The John Deere is so built that the best work can be done with minimum adjustment of those parts that must be so carefully set in some combines in order to reduce waste and deliver clean, grain to the grain tank.

Come in and see the John Deere Combine. We know you'll like its better features.

LOCKNEY IMPLEMENT CO.

CLED E. WALLACE

OF TEMPLE, TEXAS, TO BEGIN

SUNDAY, APRIL 14

SONG SERVICE DIRECTED BY BRO. R. M. MORGAN
WE BELIEVE:

- Men should not only be religious, but should be religiously right. We do not believe whatever a man thinks is right is right. "O Lord I know that the way of man is not in himself; it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps."—(Jer 10:23). "There is a way which seemeth right unto a man; but the end thereof are the ways of death."—(Prov. 14:12).
- That God has spoken. Heb. 1:1. He has revealed his will to men. We believe that we must do His will in order to be saved. Matt. 7:21. His word is to be our guide, not human opinions. "Trust in Jehovah with all thy heart, and lean not upon thine own understanding; in all thy ways acknowledge him, and he will direct thy paths." (Prov. 3:5, 6)
- That the revelation of God's will is finished, complete and perfect. Jno. 16:12, 15; 2 Pet. 1:3; Jas. 1:25.
 - All scripture is given by inspiration of God. This at once puts the Bible in a class by itself infinitely exalted above all other books.
 - The Scriptures are able to make a man wise unto salvation. He needs no other wisdom religiously. The Bible should be studied that one may know the will of God. 2 Tim. 2:15.
 - The Scriptures are profitable for doctrine (teaching), reproof, correction, instruction in righteousness.
 - That the man of God may be perfect, "furnished completely unto every good work." (2 Tim. 3:15-17). Read and study this great passage.
 - These things being true, it follows that all other standards should be set aside. All human creeds and confessions of faith should be, in loyalty to the word of God, discarded. One great cause of division would thus be removed.

Tulia will represent Swisher county at the Second Annual Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show at Plainview April 2 to 5 with three hundred citizens headed by the Tulia High School band of thirty-two pieces. Eighty-six head of dairy cattle are being fitted for the show.

More than 50 car loads of maize, kaffir, and other sorghums grains have been shipped from Tahoka this season. A car load of heads consists of about 20 tons, and bring about $17.00 per ton.

Ten percent of the farmers in Dickens county took advantage of the poultry and dairy short course conducted by E. N. Hoimgreen and E. R. Eudaly at Spur, and are putting into practice the knowledge gained. Many farmers have taken up the idea of diversification in farming around Spur.

The outlook for dairying in Haskell county is better now than ever before due to the various organizations in several towns boosting the establishment of a creamery. Farmers in this section realize that the cow is hard to replace on the farm when it comes to an income the year around.

Forty head of dairy cattle will be taken from Lockney and Floyd county to the Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show. A Floyd county delegation, composed of farmers and business men of the county, are planning to attend the show in unison on Wednesday, April 2nd. The delegation will be led by the Floydada band.

The South Plains District Convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to be held in Tahoka, April 24th will sponsor a "My Home Town" oratorical contest, at which all high school children under 21 years of age will be eligible. Secretary C. C. Williams of the chamber of commerce has mailed out rules and regulations.

Two well known West Texas women will be on the program of the Oil Belt District convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce which will be held on April 18. They are Lexie Dean Robertson, poetess of Rising Star, and Christine Carter, vocalist of Breckenridge.

Some of the recent charities of the Moran Delphian Club have been the buying of a memorial window in the new Methodist church for $75.00. The club started the piano fund for the high school with a contribution of $60.00. A window in the new Christian church was also purchased.

Singing at Sterley Each first and third Sundays there will be singing at Sterley. Everyone invited. This is strictly a community affair, and for everybody. And remember we need lots of singers.—Joe Reeves, Leader. Plans underway for establishment of $60.00. A window in the new airport in Georgetown.

WATCH THAT POULTRY

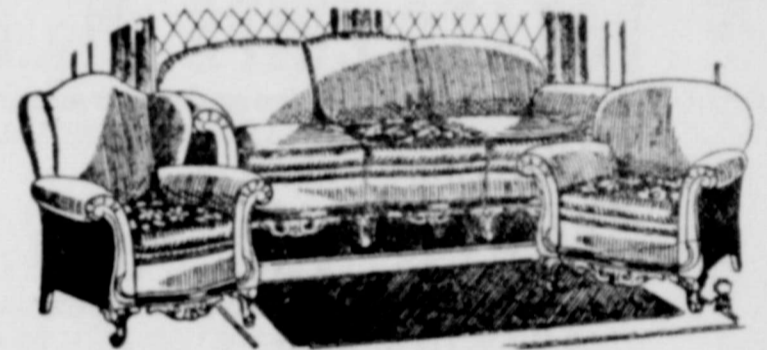

If you are in the farming or gardening or poultry business—watch that poultry.

In other words, if you are not in poultry raising, it would very likely be profitable for you to do so.

If you ARE in the poultry line, watch it. The signs are right. Poultry checks come in handy.

Sir Wm. McErwin M. He discovered a clear thick alkaline fluid poured from it into the colon. This secretion when added to the pancreatic juice dissolves the white of an egg in three to ten minutes. The pancreatic fluid alone took six hours. Its removal should never be attempted unless all other means fail. Above is a quotation from a book by Dr. Alfred Walton, M. D. and Surgeon.

TIMBERS FROM WHITE HOUSE AT LUBBOCK TECH

Lubbock, Texas, April 3.—A rectangular block of pine wood which was taken from timbers in the roof of the White House while the structure was being remodeled in 1927 has just been received by Professor E. A. Studhalter of Texas Technological College. For 112 years these longleaf pine beams held the roof of one wing of the executive mansion safely over the heads of twenty-six presidents of the United States.

The wood was originally built into the mansion during the administration of President James Madison in 1815. Year before last when the supporting timbers of the roof were taken down the wood was found to be in perfect state of preservation, although no treatment had been given to lengthen the life of the wood.

In 1814, after the Battle of Bladenburg, the British soldiers with their flaming torches, came thronging up Pennsylvania Avenue and burned the White House, the fire destroying the interior and seriously damaging some of the masonry. President Madison and his famous wife, Dolly, made a dramatic departure from the executive mansion, fleeing up Pennsylvania Avenue just ahead of the British.

Reconstruction was begun shortly after the fire, the new roof being held in place by sturdy wooden trusses. And these are the same trusses which were taken out in 1927 and found to be in an almost perfect state of preservation, and are an interesting example of early workmanship. The timbers, all hand sawn, are held together not only by hand mortising but with dowels and heavy wrought iron straps pounded out by hand.

Incidentally it is of interest that President Ulysses S. Grant, who occupied the White House in 1873, and to whom the condition of the roof was first reported, was the grandfather of Lt. Col. U. S. Grant, III, under whose direction, as Chief of the Office of Public Buildings and Parks in Washington, the recent remodeling and renovation has been carried out. Mr. Studhalter is very proud of this relic and will see that it gets a prominent place in the proposed museum for Texas Technological College.
