Entertainments Feature C. of C. Meeting

Will Hold Dollar Day This Month On Tuesday, March 25th. Big Day Anticipated

At the weekly luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce Monday at noon, the topics for discussion were in regard to the various entertainments that are scheduled at the auditorium in this city.

The Old Fiddlers' Contest will be held at the auditorium on the night of Friday, March 21st, and three prizes will be awarded the winners: First prize, $12.50 in cash; second prize, $7.50 in cash, and third prize, $5.00 in cash. There will be no admission charge to this entertainment, and all fiddlers in the country are asked to take part in the contest, and everyone is invited to come in and enjoy the evening.

The proposition of financing the Plateau Singing Convention, which is to be held here on June 14th and 15th, was taken up, and it was decided that concessions would be sold to those desiring to sell things to eat and drink on the grounds, and to machinery companies, who would like to show their machinery on the ground, and in this way raise the money necessary to take care of the expense of entertaining this convention. The business men of Lockney and the Home Demonstration Clubs of the county will be given first chance to buy the concessions to supply the visitors with cold drinks and eatables, and then concessions that are left, if any are left, will be sold to any one who wishes to buy them. At last year's Plateau Singing Convention, held in Hereford, there were twelve thousand people present, and it is figured that a larger crowd will attend the convention in Lockney this year, and to say the least between ten and fifteen thousand people will be in attendance at the two days, convention here. Those interested will apply to Fay Guthrie, secretary, for the concessions.

There will be a political rally held at the city auditorium in Lockney on the night of Thursday, July 24th, to which all candidates for county and district offices will be invited to be present and furnish the program. Also some state candidates may be present at this affair. Each politician will be given a chance to make his own announcement and tell the people what he wants to do, just two days before the "slaughter" begins.

The regular monthly Dollar Day was discussed, and H. B. Adams, editor of the Beacon, was appointed as a committee of one to make arrangements, name the date, and get up the advertisements from the local business men offering bargains for the day. The date has been set for Tuesday, March 24th, and next week's Beacon will carry a list of the bargains offered for that day.

It was decided by the Chamber that an entertainment fund be created and set aside for the purpose of financing the various entertainments to be held at the city auditorium from time to time. Many of the entertainments carry such small expense that it was thought best to create a regular fund. At the meeting a list was made out, and every one present donated one dollar each to this fund, and the secretary was instructed to pass around a subscription among the business men and ask that those who were not present donate one dollar each toward this fund.

The mayor, W. R. Childers, presented the proposition of raising the Nightwatchman T. B. Hill's salary to $125 per month, and having Mr. Hill use a punch clock for this city, in order to help get the key rate on insurance cut down to 40c on the hundred dollar valuation. A committee was appointed to assist the city in getting a subscription subscribed to cover the salary of the nightwatchman.

J. W. Howard of the Starkey community was in Lockney Monday visiting his brother, Homer Howard, and while here placed his announcement in the Beacon for the office of County Judge of Floyd County.

Mr. Howard has had considerable experience in county affairs in Floyd County, having served four years as commissioner from his precinct, and two years as judge of this county. Mr. Howard states that he is in favor of giving the people of all parts of the county a fair deal in the affairs of the county government, and if he is elected he will endeavor to serve the county in an impartial manner.

V. L. Webster returned Saturday from El Paso, Texas, where he has been for some time in the Beaumont hospital. His health is much improved.

TAFT FINALLY PASSES: NATION BEGINS MOURNING

Only Man to Be Both President and Chief Justice Fought Certain Death For Weeks; To Be Buried In Arlington

Washington, March 8.—William Howard Taft, 72, former president and former chief justice, died at his home here late this afternoon.

He passed peacefully from life, unconscious, after weeks of illness. A stroke from hardening of the arteries preceded death by a half hour. By his own request, he will rest in Arlington cemetery, the citadel of the nation's heroic dead.

President Hoover was foremost among the many who went sorrowfully tonight to the residence on Wyoming Avenue where the only man in history to hold America's two highest offices slept in death. The president announced a thirty-day period of official mourning.

At the point of death for many days, suffering hopelessly from a combination of ailments, Mr. Taft surprised physicians by the vitality of his last hours. But at 4:45 this afternoon a sudden stroke, while he was alone, except for his nurse, heralded the end.

Fifteen minutes later Dr. H. G. Fuller reached the bedside, but turned away with a shake of the head. Mrs. Taft, summoned from another room, took up her station near at hand for the last vigil. At 5:15 o'clock death snuffed out at last the flickering flame.

The only daughter, Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, was away for a short automobile ride when death occurred. The two sons, Hobert and Charles, both of Cincinnati, had left Washington after spending several days at their father's bedside.

The official bulletin issued by Mr. Taft's chief physician said: "The former chief justice died at 5:15 p. m. A sudden change in his condition occurred at 4:45 p. m. from which he failed to rally."

Hoovers Make Call
Immediately the news was telephoned to the White House. President Hoover tendered to Mrs. Taft the entire facilities of the executive mansion.

The president and Mrs. Hoover, like the many others who called at the Wyoming Avenue home, remained but a few minutes talking with the little group within. Almost at the moment the White House limousine drew up before the house, Chief Justice Hughes arrived from the opposite direction. Members of the cabinet, diplomats, and Mr. Taft's associates on the supreme bench were among the many who followed.

But one who had called there many times during the long illness was absent tonight. Associate Justice Sanford, until today apparently in perfect health, eight years Taft's junior, had suddenly preceded his former chief in death. And by another strange turn of fate both Taft and Sanford passed on when another member of the court, Oliver Wendell Holmes, was observing his eighty-ninth birthday.

SECOND NEGRESS SUICIDES TO WOUND INFLECTED
Charlie Mae Brown, negress, who was shot in the tragedy at the negro quarters east of the oil mill, Sunday, March 2nd, and who was carried to the Plainview Sanitarium was brought back to Lockney the first of the week, and died at the negro quarters Thursday afternoon, from the wound. She was carried to Floydada Friday afternoon and buried in the Potter field by the county authorities.

Henry. At Clovis Dr. Henry boarded an airplane, and made the trip to San Francisco within a few hours.

J. A. Burris Suicides at Home in Floydada

Shoots Self Through Head With 32-Caliber Pistol at Noon Monday At His Home

Jim A. Burris, age 46 years, proprietor of the Dr. Pepper Bottling Works of Floydada, ended his own life Monday, when he shot himself through the head with a 32-caliber pistol at his home in Floydada. Mr. Burris had been confined to his home for several days with a lingering illness, and had become despondent over ill health and financial affairs is the reason assigned for the tragedy.

His wife found him lying on a bed in the home, immediately after the shooting, the bullet entering his right temple, passing through his head and coming out just above the left ear. The tragedy happened at noon, but he lived until about 2 o'clock, before passing away, however, he was unconscious from the time he was shot until he died.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Julia, 17 years of age, a son, James, 9 years of age, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Burris of Lubbock, four brothers and four sisters.

Roe McCleskey, who lives neighbors to the Burris family in Floydada, was the first person to reach the scene after Mrs. Burris found her husband dying, and summoned a doctor and the county officials.

Sand Hill Home Demonstration Club

The Sand Hill Home Demonstration Club met at the lovely new home of Mrs. J. H. Holmes for an all-day meeting on March 5. Twelve members were present. The forenoon was spent in putting the club quilt into readiness for quilting. At the noon hour a bountiful dinner was served cafeteria style. Miss Strange came out and the pleasure of the hour was made more so by her presence.

Immediately after noon Miss Strange gave a very interesting demonstration on the plant of the orchard. Correct pruning of both roots and tops of trees and placing of trees in ground was appreciated. Trees will respond to the careful method of setting we are sure.

After the demonstration, club members eagerly went to work and finished the quilt we had formerly pieced and embroidered 80 names on. This quilt was exhibited at the program put on by the club members March 7 and will at a later date be given to the party with the lucky ticket. The color scheme is pink and white and very pretty.

LETTING THEM GET AWAY

Floyd county in three elections, and the county judge and Commissioners' court on more than one occasion have rejected good roads in Floyd county, and the opening of vital highways to the county, and as a consequence each day we are broaching the final action that will cause the best and most traveled roads to go through other counties, and leave Floyd county out of the main highway system of the state and nation. A meeting was held in Matador Monday of this week, the intention of which was to build a highway from Matador to a connection with Highway 53, which runs from Spur, through Crosbyton and Rails to Lubbock, and on to the Carlsbad Cavern, and thence to El Paso. Crosbyton has voted bonds to pave Highway 53 from the Dickens county line to Crosbyton; Lubbock voted bonds to pave the highway through that county, and with the building of a highway which will leave No. 70, or Lee Highway, at Matador and connect with No. 53 some where between Spur and Crosbyton, it will mean that the Lee Highway will be practically killed from Matador to Plainview, because any traveler with any brains who did especially want to come to Floyd county, would not travel over the roads across this county only when the weather was of the best, and seldom then, as traveling on a paved highway commands all travel when that travel can choose between paving and country roads.

If the commissioners' court had opened the road along the Denver railroad in Floyd county, giving us a connection with Lubbock on the south and Silverton and Quitaque on the north and northeast, a delegation from Floyd county could have attended the meeting at Matador Monday, and routed the Carlsbad Cavern route through Floydada and Lockney, over the Lee highway and Denver Highway into Lubbock, and Lubbock would have assisted us in the matter; but by refusing to open the Denver highway in this county, the Commissioners' Court of Floyd county and the people of Precinct No. 2, who voted down the precinct bond election a few months ago, have probably put a crimp in Floyd county's highway problems that will be hard to erase, if we can ever be able to gain back what we are now losing.

The establishing of main highways, both north and south of Floyd county, where the people are progressive enough to pave their highways, and the fact that Floyd county refuses to open and pave roads and highways, that are desired for state highways to make connections with main highways both north and south, and east and west, means that the county is fastly becoming a back number, and as sure as God made little apples, Floyd county is going to pay the bill in deterioration of land values, industries, loss of population, lowering of rural and independent school facilities, and in every other way conceivable.

People who are slow in taking advantage of the opportunities that are presented to them always lose out, and the people of Floyd county must take action in highway matters, and that immediately, if they expect to hold their own in the fight for development and advancement that is now evident in every live, wide-awake county on the Plains.

It is up to the people to either do something in the premises, or suffer for not doing what they should have done many months ago.

DON'T TRADE AT HOME UNLESS THE TOWN TO PROSPER

When a man trades with his home merchants, and the home merchants buy the things they can buy at home, they cause the town to prosper, and when the town prospers there is danger that other business men will see what a good town it is and will come here to do business, hence there will be more competition, and that will cause the town to expand and grow larger, property values to increase, make business men alive and have to work harder in order to keep the competition from getting more business than they do. It is not at all safe to spend your money at home for every time you spend a dollar at home you cause conditions in your town to be better, cause merchants to carry better and bigger stocks, cause laboring men to have more work to do, and in general cause the town to go forward in all lines, and if you spend your money at home you are liable to put your town on a basis where it will be just as good a marketing place as some other town where you have been leaving your dollars, and that would never do as you could not stand around knocking on the home town, and cursing its people for not being wide awake.

The average man, business men included, have a belief that they can get better goods cheaper in some other town than they can at home. They will spend a dollar's worth of gasoline to go away from home to buy some article of cheaper quality for a few cents less than they can get a better article, and they are right in doing this, as they are helping to tear down their own home, and then they can tell the truth when they stand around and curse conditions and the men who are trying to build up the community when they say things are not as good as they could be in the town.

It is better to trade away from home every time you can for it helps make the merchants in the town where you trade build up his business, and as he is worth so much to you and your community you are due him much consideration, and should carry your money to him every time you get a chance, instead of spending it with the little measley merchants of your home town, who are trying to make you rich by building up your surrounding, making your home more valuable, helping to give you the best market you will allow them to give you, helping to place in your way jobs where you can make a better living, etc. You are not due them any consideration, and why should you give them any consideration; they spend a great deal of their money foolishly, by helping to build up such things as school systems and churches, paying preachers and school teachers is a poor business and donating to this and that cause to help some kind of a home institution or some one that is in need; has had his home destroyed by fire, has been sick, or something of the kind, is merely throwing money away, and only fools do such things. No it is far better to take all the money you can to some other town, or spent it with some chain store that will send it back to Wall Street to help build New York, or send it to some mail order house that would not give you a penny toward any public enterprise, as that is not good business ethics, for in doing so you will help cheapen the town, the farms about the town, the homes of the laborer and clerks in town, and that is what you want to do to help your friends and neighbors and show your brotherly love.

When you send out of town for something your brother merchant or your fellow townsman has to sell you are helping to take the advantages away from your own door, and that is the thing that should be done, as you don't want to see the neighbor or friend prosper, for is he prospered it might be that he would live better than you do, and that would ruffle your feeling up a bit.

Your town depends upon the money that is spent in it by the people who live in town, the people who live adjacent to the town, and the merchants who comprise the business men of the town, and every time you spend a dollar out of town for something you can get in town you just hurt the town that much, and the more you spend the worse you hurt the people whom you call neighbors and friends that live around you.

It is not an uncommon sight to see merchants, clerks, bankers, laborers, farmers, and all other kinds of people that live in and around Lockney, get in their cars, go to Floydada, Plainview, Lubbock, Amarillo, and other places to buy the things that they could easily get at home, most times just as cheap and just as good; neither is it uncommon to see men receive from the postoffice or express office orders from mail order houses of things that they can get at home just as cheap and generally a better quality than what they have ordered. Did you know that more than one hundred mail sacks full of catalogues from mail order houses have been distributed in Lockney and on the rural routes out of Lockney in the last sixty days. Did you know there is a reason why the mail order houses have spent from seven to nine cents per catalog to mail these to the people of this section, and spent several hundred dollars for printing these catalogues—the reason is, they are getting big returns from them from Lockney and the Lockney country. Did you know that the chain stores and independent stores of surrounding towns spent thousands of dollars per year for circulars and other advertising that is distributed in Lockney and on the routes out of Lockney—and the reason is they are getting returns on their money. Did you know that the reason why Lockney is no bigger, nor no better town than it is was due to the fact that Lockney men and women spent their money in other towns or sent it away to mail order houses. Well, if you don't know it, you ought to be bored for the simples. You are causing your town and your community to have hard times, and no one is to blame but the man or woman who is going away from home to trade.

Also while we are giving you some plain talk along this line, we also want to take a whack at "Miss Somebody Come" who thinks that she cannot get anything fit to wear in Lockney, and has to go to a larger city in order to get her clothing. We know that you have not the large variety of goods to select from in Lockney; but why haven't you a good stock to select from? It is because you have failed and refused to buy goods at home so long that the merchants cannot afford to keep them in stock for you. Let your merchant at home know that you will buy at home and he can get what you want, and he will get what you want. The men and women of every town that are too good to trade at home do the town more damage than any other class of people in the town, and they are usually the kind that have the most money to spend for living expenses and wearing apparel.

The merchant should set the example on trading at home, by buying everything he can at home, and printing is included in this bill of fair to Mr. Merchant. Then he should see that those under his employe trade at home—every employe should be faithful to the hand that is feeding him, by buying at home he is helping build his home and his own job, if he or she is not faithful in such things, he or she is unfit to be an employe and should be moved out to make place for some one that is faithful. The employe owes it to his or her "boss" to help him make good, their job depends upon his being able to meet his obligations and keep going forward.

At one time Lockney was the largest town in this section of the Plains country, and she would have still been the largest town in this section if the people had been 100% loyal to their town, spent their money at home and proved by such that they had the best town in the country—but they did not, they spent their money more freely in other towns than they did at home, therefore the other towns soon surpassed Lockney in size, and all that has kept Lockney from reaching the graveyard is the fact that it is located in the very best farming section of this part of the Plains, and you can not cheat it out of the land, can not move the land away, nor cannot keep the land from winning favor with people who come to this section hunting homes. The people of the town and country are the worst enemies that we have—they don't stop to think what they are doing when they trade away from home, in most cases, but they should be awoken to the fact that every time they spend a dollar away from home they are cutting off their own nose to spite their face. Right about and begin trading at home, boys and girls.

Newspaper Advertising

At a recent advertising convention it was emphasized that newspaper advertising is by far the most valuable of all methods. It was shown that newspaper advertising is capable of better service, both to distributor and consumer, since it bears a message from the merchant to the buyer and in turn gives the customer the information desired. An advertising expert said, "We know from experience with the public that women want to read advertising before going out to make a purchase. They want to know where to look for things on sale. They use newspaper advertising as a help in shopping."

Newspaper Ideals

Every newspaper publisher wants his newspaper to be the best. The difficulty is in the difference of opinion as to what constitutes the best newspaper. An editor asked his readers how he could make his paper ideal, with this result:

"Cut out the crimes, the murders, the sensational divorce case reports," said the nice people.

"Cut out the accidents, the railway and steamship disasters," said the people who "couldn't bear" to read such things.

"Cut out the politics," said the old-fashioned woman. "I don't understand it and haven't time for it."

"Cut out the so-called funny pictures," said the careful mother. "Such pictures aren't funny, and they're bad, very bad, for children."

"Cut out ponderous editorials," snapped the man who merely scans the headlines. "Nobody reads 'em nowadays."

"Cut out the woman's page," said the female with the strong mind. "It's mushy, trashy, trivial; an insult to our sex." "Cut out sports and theaters," said the intellectual. "Both are bad influences, and both have received altogether too much notice." "Cut out—," began another and still another, but the publisher beat them to it. "Stop, all of you," he cried. "On second thought, I have decided to cut out myself. It is no use us trying to publish the ideal paper until I come across the ideal reader." Without readers no newspaper can live, and until humanity has come to live an ideal life there will be no ideal newspaper; for nobody would read one spoke only of virtue and never of evil; Newspapers are published to print the news; the nature of the news is what people make it.

$450,000,000 COLLECTED IN GASOLINE TAXATION

Ten years ago Oregon started off with gasoline taxation at the rate of one cent a gallon. Today every state and the District of Columbia levy such a tax, with thirty states collecting four cents a gallon or more. Revenue from this kind of taxation reached $100,000,000 in 1925 and in 1929 is estimated at $450,000,000.

Beautiful Eyes Must Be "Made"; They Are Not Gifts.

A FRENCH cosmetician once told me, "If American women only knew more about eye make-up, they'd be twice as lovely as they are now." When I lived in Paris I often noticed how much attention all French women give their eyes. Even the little shop girls make their eyes appear large and luminous, not by any secret methods, but by judiciously applying a wee bit of shadowing and eyebrow pencil.

Probably many of you have avoided heavy mascara, because it usually looks so artificial. There are, however, many other eye preparations made now for use at home. You won't need an expert to help you apply them—only a good mirror and a steady hand. These simple beauty aids are a boon to those with rather pale eyes, or with lashes and brows that don't give the necessary contrast to the rest of the face.

Before using eye make-up, always be sure to brush all powder from your brows and lashes. But of course you'd do that anyway, even if you didn't touch up your eyes at all.

At night one may use quite a bit of make-up on the eyes. Bright electric lights make the eyes look pale, unless they are deeply shadowed by lashes. To darken and beautify your lashes for evening use a make-up that won't bead or get sticky even if you dance in a warm room. It's easy to apply: Simply rub a cake of eye make-up with a small, damp brush. Then close your eyes, one at a time, and run the brush lightly over your lashes, being careful not to get any of the cosmetic on your face.

During the day an eyebrow pencil lightly drawn just at the line of the lashes, both upper and lower, should be sufficient to make your lashes seem darker and longer—but the line oughtn't to be a noticeable one. Blend it with your little finger tip.

To darken your brows, use either an eyebrow pencil or the eye lash make-up. First, being very careful not to darken your skin, brush the eyebrow pencil or eyebrow brush very lightly the wrong way of your eyebrows—that is, inward toward your nose. Then brush your eyebrows smoothly the right way of the hairs, with a downward curve at the outer ends of the brows.

Chevrolet announces

SERVICE POLICY

The Chevrolet Motor Company and its dealers are pleased to announce a new service policy—one of the most liberal ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

Put into force as a written agreement given to the purchaser by the Chevrolet dealer when the car is delivered—it offers the following provisions:

- 1 Every Chevrolet owner receives his car from the dealer in perfect condition—thoroughly lubricated, properly adjusted, and ready to operate efficiently from the first mile of ownership.
- 2 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of usage.
- 3 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every 1000 miles thereafter, so long as the car is in operation.
- 4 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective in workmanship or material, within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty. This includes both parts and labor.
- 5 Provision number 4 will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States. As a result, the Chevrolet owner may travel to any part of the country, with assurance that the guarantee on materials and workmanship will remain in force.

This new policy constitutes proof of Chevrolet's high quality—for such liberal provisions could only be made in connection with a car built of fine materials to exacting standards of workmanship.

Back of this policy, and assuring its successful operation, is one of the most complete and efficient service organizations in the world.

There are more than 10,000 Authorized Chevrolet Dealer Service Stations in the United States alone. Each employs skilled mechanics thoroughly trained at Chevrolet Service Schools. Each has specially designed tools and machinery developed exclusively for Chevrolet service work. And each has on hand, at all times, an adequate stock of genuine Chevrolet replacement parts.

Chevrolet's flat-rate charges, including both parts and labor, are the lowest in the industry on many service operations!

In considering the purchase of a low-priced automobile, think what this service means—in terms of lasting satisfaction, as well as in increased economy.

THINK OF YOUR AUTOMOBILE IN TERMS OF TOMORROW

Ultimate cost is as important as first cost in the purchase of an automobile

WHEN you purchase an automobile you are making an investment of a considerable amount of money. It is essential, therefore, that you give careful thought to the best selection and know what you are getting for your automobile dollars.

The first cost is important because it may mean an immediate, satisfactory saving. Of equal importance is the ultimate cost after thousands of miles of service. This ultimate cost is the true measure of automobile value.

THE first cost of the new Ford is unusually low not only because of economies in manufacturing, but because the same principles that inspire these savings are extended to every other step that means greater service to the public. It is easy to see that economies in production would be of little value if they were sacrificed later through high charges for distribution, selling, financing and accessories.

The Ford dealer, therefore, does business on the same low-profit margin as the Ford Motor Company. His discount or commission is twenty-five to fifty per cent lower than that of any other automobile dealer. You gain because he makes a small profit on many sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales.

The difference in selling cost, combined with the low charges for financing and accessories, amounts to at least $50 to $75 on each car. This is as important as economies in production in keeping down the price you pay for the new Ford.

THE low ultimate cost of the new Ford is the result of sound design, quality of material and unusual care in manufacturing. Friction and wear are reduced by the accuracy with which each part is made and assembled.

These factors combine to decrease the cost of operation and add months and years to the useful life of the car. The good performance and low yearly depreciation of the new Ford are indicative of the enduring quality built into it at the factory.

SERVICE charges are on the same fair, economical basis as the making and selling of the car and replacement parts are always available at low prices through all Ford dealers. In two, three or five years, depending on how much you drive, the saving in operating and maintaining a new Ford will amount to even more than the saving on the first cost.

Think in terms of tomorrow, therefore, when you purchase an automobile. For tomorrow will reveal its true worth.

Do you know that the movie is one of the most powerful of modern educational agencies. For each three pupils in the public schools, there are two in the movies, and for every hour spent in church more than three are spent in the movies. Do you know that in nearly every film classed as "leaders" there are all kinds of evil suggestions and scenes revealing things which children should not see nor know? Scenes that are so exciting as to produce crying and shrieking are harmful to nerves and to moral character? Do you know that the average feature picture story enacted on the screen in Texas portrays activity of adult life too mature for children under sixteen years of age, and gives them knowledge of sex relationship and other things that lower the morals and modesty of young people? Do you know that the crime suggesting motion picture is the greatest school of crime in America? Do you know that court records almost without number trace the crime of young people under 24 directly to the motion picture? Do you know that through the commercial movie there is a definite plot against the Eighteenth Amendment and to make the boys and girls whiskeyites, wine-bibbers and cigaret smokers? Do you know that the commercial movie makes constantly an attack on Evangelical religion and shows up the Protestant Ministers and Church services with the evident idea of caricature, ridicule, scorn, and laughter? Do you know that the movies are flouting our Sunday and Prohibition laws and thereby promoting the spirit of lawlessness? Do you know that the powerful movie corporations are forestalling legislation which would control them, and lobbying wherever necessary to set aside laws which affect their exhibiting? Do you know that the veto of a Christian governor is the only thing that kept the Sunday closing law for the movies on the statute books of Texas? While the public is asleep the movie organization is scheming to put rye on them Sunday exhibiting contrary to the ideals and convictions of our Christian civilization. Do you know that it is against the law to sell or buy groceries and dry goods on Sunday? The reason merchants give for keeping open on Sunday is that the people come in and want to buy. It is an injustice to the merchant to have to stay in his place of business and work when he wants to go to church and rest. If the people were thoughtful enough to provide their meats and foods on Saturday, and the majority do, there would be no occasion for the grocer to go to his store on Sunday. We could buy our gas on Saturday and allow the filling station operator to have his Sunday for rest. The American public is gradually encroaching on the Sabbath and bringing about conditions that will hurt and destroy us. Why not start a movement among the people to allow the business men to have his Sunday off from his work. E. D. MORGAN J. E. STEPHENS.

Konjola Wins Triumph Every Day Everywhere New and Different Medicine Welcomes Any Test—Results Are What Count

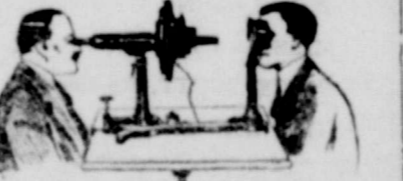

MR. RAYMOND SCHMIDT

Results are what count; mere words and promises mean nothing. Konjola has won fame and friends just by making good, and that is the medicine sufferers want and should have. Imagine the joy of Mr. Raymond Schmidt, R. F. D. No. 1, Sedalia, Mo., when he was able to say:

"Though I know it to be true I find it hard to believe Konjola in just three months, ended my sufferings of nine years duration. For that long I suffered from indigestion, constipation, kidney trouble and catarrh. No food agreed with me; every night I had to get up numerous times, and the catarrh certainly added to my misery. In those nine years I tried no end of medicine and treatments, and every one was a miserable failure. But how different with Konjola! Week by week I grew better, and in three months I was my old self again. To me Konjola is the most wonderful medicine in the world, and I recommend it with all my heart."

Konjola is sold in Lockney at the Stewart Drug Co., and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout the entire section.

A NATION'S BATTLE FOR FREEDOM ON $38.30

Precocious Infant Texas Declared War and Then Found It Was Broke

The entire affair was as romantic a gesture as can be found anywhere in history. Twenty thousand people, most of them separated by many miles of wilderness rose in rebellion against a nation of 8,000,000 or 10,000,000. Five months after hostilities began, the invading enemy had been completely driven out of the country.

First Loan from New Orleans

The life of the provisional Government ended when the affairs of State passed into the hands of a convention on March 1, 1836, in the little town of Washington, on the Brazos. The Declaration of Independence, the slaughter at the Alamo, and the glorious victory of San Jacinto, came soon after. A constitution was planned by the members of the convention, but it necessarily required some time to put it into execution. A Government ad interim took the place of the provisional Government until the details of the new system could be worked out.

It was during the period of this temporary Government that news came of a loan which had been made to the Republic by a New Orleans firm. Misunderstanding arose, however, and only $20,000 was realized where $100,000 had been promised.

Five months after the battle of San Jacinto, the auditor reported to the First Congress of the Republic, which assembled at Columbia on Oct. 3, 1836, that the public debt was then $267,534.

The problems facing the First Congress were no different from those which confronted the temporary governments. The small loan from New Orleans was exhausted in a very short while and the Government was no better off than before.

Congress Spent a Million More

The first Congress immediately set about contracting more debts. In order to preserve the dignity of the State, it was necessary that the salary of the President be at least equal to that of the President of the United States. The expenditures of the First Congress totaled an even $1,000,000.

The President, who was Gen. Sam Houston, was authorized to contract a loan from abroad to the amount of $5,000,000 and to appoint commissioners for carrying out the negotiations. He was further empowered to borrow $20,000 at any rate of interest possible—twenty or even thirty.

At the second session of the First Congress it was announced that the outstanding claims on the Treasury had mounted to $603,416. It was this figure which spurred the congress on to greater efforts to raise some money. The result was two conflicting bills, both of which were passed.

Matters Grew Worse and Worse

One of the bills allowed for the funding of the public debt, the issuance of stock certificates in place of the other claims which were outstanding, these certificates being redeemable at the end of five or ten years with 10 per cent interest every year. The second bill instructed the Secretary of the Treasury to issue $500,000 the first time since the beginning of the Treasury notes like those which had been issued before.

When the Second Congress met in its called session Sept. 25, 1837, it called the Treasurer to account for not carrying out either of the two bills passed. The Secretary of the Treasury explained that the two bills were incompatible in his estimation. He did not tell the real truth; there was not enough money in the Treasury to cover the printing either of the stock or of the Treasury notes.

The Second Congress demanded that the Secretary of the Treasury issue $650,000 in Treasury notes instead of the original $500,000. It was now two years since the close of the war, and there was no money in the Treasury that there ever was.

Texas Dollars Worth Only 15c

Already the government had recognized debts to the amount of $1,090,984. If things were serious to begin with, they were a million times as serious now. The audited drafts on the Treasury were being exchanged at the rate of 15c on the dollar. The only demand for them at all was to pay government dues, and that demand was very small.

It was this reduction of value which prompted the first step of the government toward repudiating its debts. An act was passed on Dec. 14, 1857, refusing to accept anything but gold and silver as import duty. It was entitled: "An Act to Sustain the Currency of the Country."

The adjourned session of the same Congress, which was held in the following April, attempted to pass a measure for a new issue of the Treasury notes, but President Houston refused to sign the bill.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Smith reported to the Third Congress that the total of the audited claims against the government was then $2,361,614. President Houston signed his last important bill when he placed his signature upon the document which called for a new issue of Treasury notes to the amount of $100,000.

During the interval between the Third and Fourth Congress there came news through the Houston Morning Star that a $500,000 loan had been obtained in the United States and that the money was on its way to Houston. What rejoicing there was. For the Republic, the government was to have some real money in her Treasury. But the money never came to Houston. It was deposited in a bank in New Orleans to the credit of the Republic. Even at that, the Republic had managed for a second loan.

Work of the Fourth Congress

The Fourth Congress met in the isolated town of Austin under the presidency of the Mirabeau Lamar. After being told that the public debt was well over $3,000,000, the body provided for the funding of all outstanding liabilities with stock which was to bear a 10 per cent rate of interest, payable semiannually. Not content with this, however, it further ordered another batch of Treasury notes.

By this time, the young government had tried every conceivable device for obtaining money; the only one that had proven anywhere near successful was borrowing. Two loans, one of $20,000 and one for $500,000 had been made.

Of the various kinds of securities which had been resorted to, none of them were of any value. The audited drafts were receivable only for land dues, but they could be exchanged for treasury notes which were receivable for all public dues except import duties. Treasury bonds had been issued to fund some of the debt, and they bore an 8 per cent interest. Government stock, with an interest of 10 per cent, was available if one cared to accept it in place of the other forms of paper.

By the time that the Fifth Congress met on Nov. 2, 1840, the public debt had climbed far above $5,000,000. The gloom which overhung the Republic was deeper than ever. If that was possible, no news had come from the commissioners whom President Houston had dispatched to Europe several years before to investigate the possibility of a $5,000,000 loan. The Congress adjourned without doing anything of importance. Plainly, the Texan patriots were losing heart.

Then came the glorious news from France. The loan for $5,000,000 seemed highly probable. The Austin City Gazette, on April 21, 1841, carried this encouraging information. The bank of Messrs. Lafitte & Co. in Paris was planning to make the loan to the Republic. Already the books of the bank had been opened for subscriptions to the loan. The only thing in the way was the approval of the French Minister of Finance. It seemed very likely that the French Government would not interfere.

Oink! Oink! And All Was Off

France had already recognized the independence of the Republic, and she was maintaining an embassy in Austin. Her Ambassador was M. De Saligny, a brother-in-law of the French Minister of Finance.

Then a drove of pigs owned by a Mr. Bullock in Austin, upset the whole affair of the loan. The plans fell through, and for a time, war between the Republic of Texas and France seemed to be the inevitable outcome.

It all came about in this fashion, M. De Saligny, the French Ambassador, had some horses which he kept in his stable, and he fed them corn. Mr. Bullock, who lived next to the embassy, had a drove of pigs that learned of this fact. The pigs became accustomed to wandering about the stable of the Frenchman at about the time the horses were fed. Occasionally some corn dropped from the troughs. One of the servants in charge of the stable resented this action of the pigs so much that he killed several of them by throwing stones at them.

Mr. Bullock, upon learning of the slaughter, assaulted the servant. For this action, Mr. De Saligny brought charges against Mr. Bullock. Inasmuch as the District Court was not in session, the defendant was released on bond supplied by the Secretary of the Treasury of the Republic. This involved an official of the Government directly in the quarrel.

War Narrowly Averted

On a subsequent occasion, the Ambassador brought charges against his neighbor for being ordered out of the hotel which Mr. Bullock owned. Mr. Bullock was released a second time on bond. Nothing was done in reference to the charge immediately, and the Ambassador became very indignant. Some correspondence took place between him and his brother-in-law, the Minister of Finance of France. As a result, the French Government decided to postpone the proposed loan of the Parisian banking firm.

There was the greatest indignation both in Texas and in France over the incident of the pigs. Feeling for a time ran high, and a war was averted only through diplomacy. Fancy the Republic threatening war without a cent in her treasury.

All of the joy which was aroused by prospects of the loan faded quickly. The country was in exactly the same position as before. The term of Lamar as President ended without his accomplishing more than his predecessors. The public debt had advanced during his administration from a little over $3,500,000 to more than $7,500,000.

New Security Soon Was Worthless

When Gen. Sam Houston returned to Austin for a second term, the loan which had been obtained from the bank in Philadelphia was already gone. The first step of the new Congress was to pass an act on Jan. 19, 1842, providing that after Feb. 1 it would be illegal to receive anything but gold, silver and "exchequer notes" in payment of public dues.

These "exchequer notes" were nothing more than Treasury notes like those outstanding. A new name was simply given to the old form, and an issue of $200,000 was made. Treasury notes were made receivable only for arrears in taxes. All current taxes had to be paid in either gold, or silver, or "exchequer notes."

The idea of this new security was to replace the old forms which had sunk in value until they were of little or no use. These new Treasury notes immediately began to sink when they were placed in circulation. Merchants refused to accept them, and their exchange value became about 30c on the dollar. Congress ordered the collectors of public dues to recognize the market value of these "exchequer notes," and this amounted to an open admission that the bills were no good.

Mere Scraps of Paper

Texas had broken her pledge. She refused longer to recognize the currency she had issued in payment of her legally contracted debts. The creditors of the Republic found that their claims against the Government were now only scraps of paper. Texas admitted that she did not intend to pay them.

Then Dr. Anson Jones became President, and he was determined to revise the monetary system and to remedy all the blunders that had been during the last eight years. The date of his inauguration was Dec. 9, 1844.

Paper Money Declared Void

There was only one way for him to carry out his avowed purpose and to correct the blunders of the past. That was to declare void all outstanding paper money and to issue no more. The morality of it was not important.

Gold and silver were alone made receivable for public dues. The Treasury notes, the "exchequer notes," the Treasury bonds and the Government stock were all called in to be destroyed.

The next event of importance in the history of the Republic was its death. The United States made an offer of annexation to Texas and it was accepted without much controversy. In the Constitution of the United States, which Texas accepted as a member of the Union, it was made explicitly illegal for the Legislature to issue money of any description. Thus it was that annexation put an end to the financial worries of the State.

The problem that remained, however, was how Texas was to get around paying the debts which she had already contracted and recognized. It was this issue which prompted Governor Bell to advance a unique theory of government before the Legislature in 1851. He said:

"Inasmuch as the State was forced to enter into engagements in a very dark and gloomy period of history, the Government is under no obligation, either in justice or in morality, to redeem them by paying the amount expressed on their face."

In other words, the argument was that Texas had the right to repudiate as much of her public debt as she saw fit. And that is exactly what the State Legislature voted to do on March 20, 1848. The auditor and Comptroller were required to reduce the claims presented to the Government for liquidation to the actual par value which was received by the Republic at the time of their issuance.

Carrying out this idea further, the Legislature decided to distinguish between the original holders who presented them for liquidation. This was justified by the argument that the persons holding them at the time had paid only a small part of their par value in order to obtain them. Therefore, there was no reason why these holders should be paid the par value of the securities.

A scaling system was adopted whereby this distinction was carried out. The value of every claim presented was scaled according to the number of times it had changed hands and the rate of exchange. Naturally, there was no enthusiastic response on the part of the holders. Few of them cared to have their securities scaled down to a fraction of their face value.

Make Nice Heirlooms, Anyway

Finally, a deadline was set for the presentation of these claims. None would be recognized after a certain date. Many claims were not presented at all, and this brought up the question of whether the United States was responsible for the debts of the Commonwealth which she had annexed. As it all turned out, a great part of the public debt was never paid, and today many families have among their heirlooms Treasury notes and audited drafts on the Treasury of the Republic of Texas.

Those days of financial distress are gone. There is now a revenue system that actually yields revenue. And the Legislature in Austin distributes $50,000,000 and more over a period of two years.

Entitled to Wings

The editor who can please everyone is not suited for this earth, but is entitled to wings. Human nature is so constituted that some of our readers would like to have us feed them on scandal; some would like to have us tell the unvarnished truth about them, while others would kill us if we did. It is a comforting thought to the editor to know that the Lord Himself did not please everyone while on earth. We labor hard to entertain and please our subscribers, but that we should occasionally fail is to be expected; but you will always find us ready to be forgiven.

WHAT BECOMES OF THE GRADUATES?

Wise people are learning that it pays to patronize a good reputable business college, just as it pays to go to a good doctor, or a good dentist, or a good lawyer.

Modern methods and equipment, trained instructors and the "know how" get results, and it's only results that count. The cost of your training actually comes back to you in salary, better opportunities, and a better position.

Scores and scores of prominent business executives attribute most of their success to the training received at Plainview Business College. Employers realize that their employees are better qualified if they are trained at P. B. C.

The following are typical of the positions in which graduates are placed upon completion of their courses:

Clinton H. Pickett was placed with Waples-Platter Grocery Co., Lubbock; Nell Bolin accepts position with District Attorney, Plainview; Walter B. Harmel accepts position with G. M. A. C., Amarillo; May Patton accepts position with Valley Motor Co., Muleshoe; Lester E. Lankford accepts position with large Steamship Company, Galveston.

On Choosing One's Career

There is something almost pathetic in the wistfulness and the demanding eagerness with which young people challenge their elders to give a word of council, a word of advice, which shall solve the problem of their career.

A Tip to Students

Soon another school year will have passed, and a large number of our students of all classes, more especially the Seniors, will not enter school again.

F. F. T. Meeting

The Future Farmer's Club met at the high school building Tuesday evening for a business meeting. This organization is to work with the H. H. M. Club of the Home Economics department in putting on a negro minstrel.

High School P. T. A. Improving Campus

At the meeting of the High School P. T. A. March 6, the improvement of the campus of the high school was one subject for discussion. Plans for the purchase of trees to be used by the F. F. T. boys in their landscaping project were completed.

The Gifts

Only a few moments elapsed before Harry returned accompanied by a doctor and a lawyer. After the necessary preparations were made, Betty, Harry, and the two men climbed into a car and started with the corpse to bury it in a large cemetery known as "Graves of the Poor."

A ROUND PEG IN A SQUARE HOLE

Very few, if any, high school students have definitely decided on a career. Most of us will graduate, and take the best job we can get.

It is often, and truthfully, said that we can not make a success with out being vitally interested in our work. We can see those who are not interested in their work every day, men and women who have fallen into a rut, and seemingly have little ambition to get out.

In May, around sixty seniors will graduate from high school to take up the task of making a living. Very few of them will be unlucky enough to have some one to provide for them.

Scandal!

Get away, David. Get away. Boogan has been acting rather strange lately, too.

June has not been bothered by "slugs" for some time now.

Say why do all these Floydada boys hang around Lockney on Sunday afternoons? We wonder.

Wayne Coleman was once a high rating officer in the United States army. His title was General Nuisance.

Who knows why a battleship and a glass egg are alike? Hint: See Miss Boedecker.

It seems that Duane and Carl Mann had some little domestic trouble last week. Maybe we could help them out a little. Well, I'd sure like to.

A Chrysler 52 took some of our students to church Sunday night west of town!

10:30...and the Boy from the Drug Store hadn't Arrived

Four people were in the living room playing bridge.

When 10:30 came and the boy from the drug store hadn't arrived with the ice cream, Mrs. Barnard began to get nervous.

The Randalls, recent neighbors, both murmured something polite about "having to go."

"Don't rush off, please," said Mrs. Barnard. "I'll call and see what's the matter."

So she called Mr. Carter, the druggist, and the boy came over right away.

It was embarrassing though, to have to go into details from the telephone in the hall, when they could overhear every word she said.

Telephones around the house where you need them do help.

Had there been an "extension" in the back hall, say, Mrs. Barnard could have conversed in comparative privacy.

Few know that the extra cost of one or two "extensions" is somewhat less than that of the single telephone they now have.

By a wisely-placed "extension" or two, and perhaps a rearrangement of the equipment you already have, an expert telephone man can often double the convenience of the telephones in your home.

It was embarrassing, though...

Will to move and power of motion
 Depend on nerves as well as motion.
 And these actions call into play
 Thousands of nerves in many a way.
 When with sickness one must contend
 Adjust the spine from which nerves extend.

JOHN DEERE
 No. 5

(Built in 10- and 12-Foot Sizes)

A New John Deere Combine with Wide Tread—Balanced Draft—Light Weight—Hinged Platform—Three Wheels in Line

Be sure to see the new John Deere No. 5 Combine. It has these features that mean money to you:

- 1. DEPENDABILITY—The John Deere No. 5 will give you that same dependable, low-cost service for which other John Deere machines have become famous. It will stay on the job when time means money and do good work for years.
- 2. BALANCED DRAFT—Combine hitches directly behind tractor—wide tread main wheels straddle the tractor's wheel tracks. High, wide wheels provide more wheel area than any other combine of its type. These features, along with light weight, mean LIGHTER DRAFT.
- 3. THREE WHEELS IN LINE—This construction insures flexibility for good work on uneven ground. Platform is hinged to the combine frame.
- 4. EASY TO OPERATE—From the convenient operator's platform one man has instant and practically complete control of his machine. Simplicity of design makes it easy for most anyone to do good work with a John Deere.

- 5. SAVES, CLEANS THE GRAIN—Cutting, elevating, threshing, separating and cleaning units do good work in varying conditions. In every part, the John Deere is designed to save the grain and deliver it clean to the grain tank. The easily controlled header and reel, the roomy feeder house, the clean-threshing cylinder and concaves, the efficient separating devices, the extra-long separating shoe and the sieve in the tailings elevator all contribute to its exceptionally good work. Plenty of capacity in all units to handle heavy crops.
- 6. HIGH-GRADE BEARING EQUIPMENT—Anti-friction roller and ball bearings, Durex oil-retaining bearings, high grade bronze and oil-soaked maple bearings used at all main friction points, according to requirements, reduce draft and lengthen life.
- 7. GREASE GUN OILING—Every bearing equipped for thorough, quick-oiling from outside machine with grease guns.
- 8. POWERFUL MOTOR—Plenty of reserve power to maintain correct operating speed in heavy grain. Clutch, throttle levers and a handy switch for instant stopping are located on the operator's platform.
